The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, JANUARY 3, 1896. NUMBER 19

J. L. HARR,

RE DRUGS AND MEDICINES.

...des And Wall Paper. Paints and Oils.

...ll Be Sold Cheap For Cash.

RED

REDUCED PRICES!

On Fur Coats, Fur Robes, Horse Blankets.

GREAT REDUCTION!

On Gent's and Ladies' Underwear, Hats, Caps, Overshoes, Felt Boots, Clothing and Overcoats. Large stock, bound to suit the person and his purse.

U CAN'T MISS IT!

To Examine Our Stock. 5 Per Cent Discount for Cash.

...OS., Klemme, Ia.

...ER CENT ...COUNT!

We will give 10 per cent ...count for CASH until ...n. 1, 1896 from our already low prices on the following Goods:

...irts, — — — — Mittens,
...— — — — Caps,
— — — Overalls,
...Shirts, — Underwear,
And all Woolen Goods.

Bargains are at SHAFER & DOW'S.

EO KLUCKHOHN, The Restaurant Man!

...es the Public with

A Square Meal, Fine Bread Buns, Oysters, Cigars, Tobaccos, etc.

...TOWN CALL AND SEE HIM.

...IOWA.

Eagle Grove

MA...BLE AND ...NITE WORKS

...AL THE BEST AND WORKMANSHIP SECOND TO NONE.

GEO. W. ...

...ndence Solicited.

GEO. W. SHAFFER, AGENT,

Correspondence Solicited.

MESERVEY, — — — — — — — — IOWA.

Local Mention.

Locals on both pages.

Fur Coats very cheap at Lau Bros.

Miss Lizzie Grandfield was at Garner Saturday.

Chris Lau transacted business at Meservey Monday.

Joe Fell of Garner was in town on business Tuesday.

Dr. Fotheringham of Garner was in the city Friday.

Noah Shaw and Lo Wanamaker were visiting at Garner Sunday.

Bed Blankets all the way from 95c to $4.00 per pair at Lau Bros.

Ed Lunn, of Hayfield, was in town Tuesday shaking hands with his old friends.

Some old people have an idea they are occupying space which younger ones want.

Geo. Eli will soon begin the erection of a new house in the north part of town.

Mrs. F. Peitzke has been very sick for the past week but is now able to be around.

Luther Merrick, after spending Christmas with home folks, returned to Belmond Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Merril, of near Garner, were the guests of Nissens Saturday and Sunday

Geo. S. Gates will be absent from the city for the next two weeks, visiting and transacting business in Minn.

Fred Arnold returned Monday from Clayton county where he had been during the holidays visiting relatives.

Mittens, Gloves, etc., are sold cheaper than any other place in town at Lau Bros'

Miss Emma Lange, of Garner, spent Thursday and Friday of last week in town, the guest of Miss Martha Haefner.

Chas. Gruetzmacher returned Thursday from Wisconsin where he had been having a good time during holidays.

Don't go and pay 25 cents for a pt. of Oysters when you can buy just as big, fat, juicy ones for 20 cents at the Meat Market.

Rube Allyn, the New York City humorist, Thursday evening Jan. 9th under the auspices of the Band. Admission 25 cents, children 10 cents.

Well, we couldant all get brick houses for Christmas gifts; some of us had to content ourselves with little things like diamond rings and gold watches.

The Second Quarterly Meeting of the German M. E. church was held in German township New Year's. Quite a number of the people from town attended.

The new German M. E. parsonage was dedicated on last Tuesday evening. The services were held at the church and was attended by a large audience.

Pres. Cleveland has decided to issue more bonds. The Morgan syndicate will float the securities. The president has little faith in the Republican plan of mending the financial situation.

A young man in Kossuth county endeavored to get the county clerk to give him back the $1.50 which he paid for a marriage license, for which he had no use because his girl had gone back on him.

A mind reader in an eastern town had just demonstrated his ability to read a newspaper through two thicknesses of horse blanket, when a young lady started to leave the room remarking to her friend that she wasn't going to stay there with only a calico dress on.

For a pain in the chest a piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of the pain, and another on the back between the shoulders, will afford prompt relief. This is especially valuable in cases where the pain is caused by a cold and there is a tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by J. L. HARR.

Rube Allyn, the humorist whose drollery has caused so many sides to shake with laughter, has been secured by the Klemme Band to give his entertainment here on Thursday evening, Jan. 9th. Wherever he has appeared he has been credited with giving the best entertainment in his line. He represents all kinds of rediculous characters, such as a bashful youngster trying to get acquainted, a toothless old man, an old maid doing up her hair, an Irishman shaving himself with a dull razor, Norwegian stories, German dialect stories, Jew stories and Irash stories. Being the first entertainment the new band have had, they are determined it shall be the best ever given here. It will be given in the School House, Thursday evening, Jan. 9th. The Admission is 25 cents. Children 10 cents.

Report of the Klemme Schools for 1st month, ending Dec. 20, 1895.

ROOM 1.

No. days taught.....19.
No. enrolled.....28.
No. cases of tardiness.....29.
Average daily attendance..23.
Names of pupils neither absent nor tardy for the month: Elmer Dow, Blanche Pietzke, Willie Kirkwood, Tillie Krouse.

MATTIE HUBBARD, Teacher.

ROOM II.

No. days taught.....19.
No. enrolled.....15.
No. cases of tardiness.....21.
Average daily attendance..12.
Names of pupils neither absent nor tardy for the month: Floy Schafer, Ralph Gauley, Harvey Gauley, Willie Nissen.

J. J. SUCKOW, JR. Teacher.

The new M. E. church at Goodell was dedicated last Sunday, Dec. 29th. Rev. J. W. Southwell of Eagle Grove preached morning and evening and raised what money was necessary together with some uncollected supscription to pay all indeptedness except the loan from the Church Extention Society. Rev. J. H. Kabrick of Clear Lake preached in the afternoon and will assist the pastor in special meetings. On account of the unfavorable weather during the day the attendance at the morning and afternoon services was not large but in the evening the house was filled. The evening service was apparently enjoyed by all and seemed prophetic of a good series of meetings. The service Monday evening was reasonably well attended and interesting. Rev. Southwell pronounces it the best church for the money that he has ever dedicated. With three good churches Goodell compares favorably with any of the surrounding towns.

The following good one shows how desirable it is at times to have one's idenity thoroughly established: Some time ago an amorous young man sent a letter to a German lady, and this postscript was added: "That my darling make no mistake, remember that I will wear a light pair of trousers and a dark cutaway coat. In my right hand I will carry a small cane and in my left a cigar. Yours ever, Adolph." The father replied courteously stating that his daughter had given him authority to represent her at the appointed place at the time agreed on. His postscript was as fol lows: "Dot my son mistake, I vill vear in mine right hand a club, and my left vill vear a six-shooter. You vill recognize me by de vay I beats you on de head a goople of times twice mit de club. Vait for me at de corner, as I have someding importnt to inform you mit. Your frent, Henrich Muller."

The Only Requisite.

What is known in the United States and in England as "evening dress" for men plays quite a different part on the European continent, where the "swallowtail" coat and white cravat are regarded as requisites for "full dress" on any ceremonious occasion, whether during the day or in the evening.

When the celebrated pianist, Hans von Bulow, went to England for the first time on a concert tour, he was much surprised to find that the custom of the country made his dress suit inappropriate at afternoon concerts, where he was expected to appear in a frock coat with light trousers.

Soon after his return from his tour a young pianist called on him to get his advice and opinion in regard to a comprehensive pianoforte method which he had just published under the title of "L'Indispensable du Pianiste."

"Ah, my dear young friend," cried the great musician with a whimsical smile, "you are far behind the times. You ought to travel and enlarge your mind. Then you will find out that the pianist's only 'indispensable' is a pair of light trousers."—Youth's Companion.

How many people remark: "Oh how much more I prefer the beautiful summer to the bleak winter!" In the sweltering days of July the same people wish it were about the middle of Jan.

We certainly wish our friends, patrons and enemies, if we have any, a happy and prosperous New Year. May the New Year be to you a ladder, and may each round on the ladder be a step toward happiness and success, and when the year has wound to a close may you stand on the topmost round!

Christmas has gone and the new year has come. We hope the readers of this paper may live to enjoy many more happy holidays, and may also the little children who hang up their stockings, the poor as well as the rich, and their hearts rejoice over good old Santa's visit. What curiosity there is as the well filled stockings are taken down in the morining; what flashing eyes and palpitating hearts; what a nervous and delightful excitement there has been all night, waiting for the early morn!

This week the TIMES passes the quarter mile post of the first year of its existance. And as we do this, we begin the duties of a New Year, 1896. It seems a long time to look ahead and beyond to the ups and downs which will inevitably overtake us during the New Year, and "we know not to-day what to-morrow will bring forth."

"Another year! Another year
Has borne its records to the [skies.
Another year! Another year,
Untried, unproved, before us [lies."

But why should we pause to consider the marred and blurred pages of the old year, or the pure, fresh ones of the new. The wise man's life is as a line with a purpose in it, directed by what lies behind and aiming well at something ahead.

The time for settling up the year's account and closing the book of 1895 is at hand. We linger over its pages, noting the many blessings showered upon us from a merciful father; a liberal sprinkling of sorrows and mistakes, many, perhaps all, readily traceable to ignorant or wilful sins, for neither of which we can offer the slightest excuse; and the golden opportunities unheeded, of aiding our fellow creatures by look, word, deed or example.

After duly considering the old year let us turn to the new, this volume of three hundred and sixty-five pages, every one of which we shall fill with some sort of a record. As we wish it to be a satisfactory one, let us aim to make the very most of life; remembering that we are created in the image of God and that, through his promised strength, we are able to do all things well that may be given to us to do. In order to attain such success, however, we must keep, each day, the resolutions made at the dawn of the year, and make the best possible record on that day, thus opening the way for an improvement on the morrow, and so on.

Having formulated and crystalized our New Year's resolutions, let us ever be mindful that as Johnson says: "Hell is paved with good resolutions," and, unless we have resolution enough in our character—good solid resolution, compounded of will and wisdom, and the mixture thoroughly permeated with the grace of God—to live them, they will only go to improve that pavement which is already kept in good repair.

We must not antisipate failure, but advance in the assurance that on New Year's day of 1897 we shall be able to review with gratification the individual and collective strides made during 1896.

NOWHERE

A hurried glance at the above letters and one cannot tell which of two words is indicated.

There is no such uncertainty in a hurried glance or careful examination of our Quadruple Silverware which we guarantee to last ten years.

And you will find that

NO WHERE

Can such an assortment of Shelf and Heavy Hardware, Groceries, Paints, Oils, Lime, Stucco, Brick, Pumps, Wagons, Buggies, Etc., be found as are

NOW HERE.

WE ALSO SELL THE PORTABLE CORN CRIB WHICH HOLDS 400 BU., IS 8 FT. HIGH AND 12 FT. IN DIAMETER.

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mouldings.

And everything used to build with.

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in the week.

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'GR.,

KLEMME, IOWA.

J. H. QUEAL & CO.,

Always Lead

In The Best Of Grades At The Lowest Prices

ON

LUMBER, LATH, Posts, Sash, DOORS

SHINGLES ETC.

Call and see us for anything in our line and be convinced of the above facts.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.

WATCH THIS SPACE

FOR NOTICE NEXT WEEK OF SPECIAL SALE.

E. P. Schaefer.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, . . . IOWA

IOWA NEWS IN BRIEF

L. R. DAWSON, murderer of Walter Scott at Des Moines, was brought into court to answer to the charge of murder. Dawson declared he remembered nothing of the shooting and the preliminary examination was set for January 4.

SEVERAL families in Davenport, Rock Island and Moline have been poisoned by ptomaines in brick cheese. Ptomaines are caused by allowing brick cheese or sausage to become mouldy. The cases mentioned are serious, but not necessarily fatal.

JUDGE MCCOY has declined the position on the railroad commission, to which he was appointed by Governor Jackson. He says as the constitution expressly prohibits the promotion of a judge to any other office except that of judge of the supreme court, he cannot accept.

AT Webster City a few days ago Samuel Wade was bitten by a vicious hog and blood poisoning will probably cost him his life. He had occasion to enter the pen where the animal was confined, and before he could escape the hog made a rush for him, sinking its teeth in the calf of his leg, making a wound four inches long and three inches deep. The leg rapidly commenced to swell and physicians say recovery is doubtful.

TWO Oskaloosa men have set an example that would bear following. Ed Rodgers and J. W. Spencer had a misunderstanding, which resulted in Rodgers being arrested charged with slander and abuse. The matter came up for hearing in Justice Weaver's court, where Rodgers pleaded his own case and made a satisfactory explanation. The two belligerents thereupon shook hands and went out together and smoked away their ill feeling in two cigars purchased by Spencer.

HENRY MCGRAW, an Adams county farmer, who was sued by Mrs. Anna Wilson for $500 for the support of a child which Mrs. Wilson alleges McGraw was the father of, has settled the difficulties which have surrounded him by marrying the widow. Mrs. Wilson's attorney's had attached McGraw's corn crop to secure payment of the claim. McGraw attempted to sell his corn and was arrested. Here the case rested until McGraw married Mrs. Wilson and he can now sell his corn and buy rattle boxes for the boy.

AT its widest point the territory in dispute between the states of Iowa and Missouri is but 107 feet wide, and it is but four miles long. It has been decided in the supreme court of the United States to accept the Henderson and Miners lines of 1850. Peter A. Dey, for Iowa, and General Harding, for Missouri, have been appointed to bring this line to light again, instructions having been given to report by February 1. The original field notes are in the United States clerk's office, where they may be easily referred to.

A FEW days ago Ronald Leyes, an old citizen of West Point, died suddenly with very peculiar surroundings. He was assisting the sexton of the Catholic cemetery dig a grave. The sexton was called away for some reason for a few minutes and when he returned found Mr. Leyes sitting in one corner of the grave dead, with his shovel in his hand. The authorities were notified, but no inquest was held, as it was the general opinion he died a natural death. Mr. Leyes was past 60 years of age. He was born in Alsace-Loraine, Germany.

ELEVEN hundred copies of the new code remain undistributed. They lie in the supply department at the state house. Nine hundred have been distributed. They were sent to the members of the executive council, state officers, judges of supreme and district courts, clerks of district courts, members of the legislature, free city libraries, town mayors and city attorneys. Of the 1,100 undistributed, 500 are to be held for the use of the legislature. This leaves 600 to be sent out. They are being held until the code commissioners' report comes from the state binder. There are 5,000 copies of these. The intention is to distribute no more codes until the reports can be sent with them.

JOHN WINNEGAR, an insane laborer of Ottumwa, fatally shot his wife and committed suicide. Neighbors of the people notified the police that Winneger had killed his wife and was holding the excited crowd at bay with a revolver. Officers were hurried to the scene but before they arrived Winneger stepped into the kitchen and took his own life. The woman will probably die. Four children are made orphans by the deed, two girls and two boys, the oldest being 18 and the youngest 11 years of age. The cause of the terrible deed can be attributed to nothing but insane jealousy. The murderer was was sent to the insane asylum two years ago, and remained there until he escaped and returned to Ottumwa last spring, and for some unknown reason was permitted to remain.

ANDREW KOBI, a prominent farmer of Polk county, residing one mile east of Ankeny was killed by a horse, which kicked him. The skull was fractured. Mr. Kobi was 62 years old, and leaves nine children.

AT Burlington last week J "Tramp" Irwin, the celebrated wing shot of Peoria, Ill., was beaten by John Avery, a country boy, in a live pigeon match. Score: Avery 24, and Irwin 19, out of 25. Fred Gilbert, of Spirit Lake, champion wing shot of the world, defeated all comers in two matches, making clear scores.

A dispatch from Mt. Ayr says: Rev. J. H. Tedford, of this city, Colonel Hepburn's most valiant supporter in the county, has received notice of his appointment to the clerkship of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, of which Congressman Hepburn is chairman.

A 9-YEAR-OLD son of City Marshal Smith, of DeWitt, while playing around on the roof of the old court house, fell forty feet to the ground below. He was terribly mangled and died a short time afterwards.

A WEBSTER CITY dispatch says: Every prisoner in the county jail was gone when Sheriff Corbin went to serve their breakfast. The doors were all securely locked. It is thought that a friend of Harry Wright's, the hotel crook, secured duplicate keys to the doors of the jail, and while the sheriff, who is a sound sleeper, was asleep he liberated his friends. No clew has been found to the escaped jail birds.

A DES MOINES dispatch says: The Lewis Investment company, one of the oldest financial concerns in the city and always regarded as strong, recently assigned, naming Nelson Royal as assignee. The company has $100,000 capital. The failure was directly caused by refusal of local banks to further carry the company's accommodation paper. The concern had extensive investments in real estate mortgages in this city, Omaha and Sioux City, and in the last two years has been compelled to take much unproductive property. It had also sold mortgages to the amount of about $3,000,000 in the east and in Europe, but the officers say these were not gurranteed by the company. The schedules of assets and liabilities were not filed, but President George Lewis says the assets are about $125,000 nominally, and liabilities $100,000. It is understood that the assetts will shrink in liquidation to about 40 cents on the dollar.

A CEDAR RAPIDS dispatch says: The full confession of Wesley G. Cummings of Vinton in regard to the robbery of the grave of Mrs. John Hannah in that city in the spring of 1871, has just been made public. He says that on the night after the burial Andrew Bergen, George W. Black, A. L. Hopewood, Charles Ball, C. C. Griffith and himself went to the graveyard as per agreement; that all took turns at the digging, only the head of the grave being opened; that when the box was reached the cover was pulled off, the lid removed, and C. C. Griffiths pulled the corpse from the coffin, after which he broke the body at the thighs and set it in the buggy. The remains were then taken to town and concealed under some boxes in the cellar of Dr. Carpenter's drug store. A suit for $50,000 damages has been brought by relatives against the persons named in the confession. Rickel, Crockett & Cristie and Preston, Wheeler & Moffit of Cedar Rapids are attorneys for the plaintiff. It is understood that a general denial will be the defense.

WALTER SCOTT, a young business man of Des Moines, eloped with Miss Clara Dawson, for whose hand he had been a suitor for two years. One hour after he went to the house of the girl's parents to get her possessions and was shot dead by her father. After helping the girl out of an insane asylum, a convent and a school that was little better than a prison, Scott had her brought home and she refused to marry him. That was two weeks ago. But they met frequently and on the day of the tragedy were to be married. The girl left her home, saying she was going down town to do some shopping. She went at once and met Scott and they were married. After the marriage Scott took his wife to a hotel and went to her home to get some of her belongings. He went first to the police station and asked that an officer be sent with him. Officer Duval was detailed. They went at once to the flat occupied by the Dawsons and were admitted. After refusing to give the son-in-law his daughter's clothing, Dawson drew a revolver and fired three times at Scott, who dropped fatally wounded and soon died. Dawson is in jail.

A SIOUX CITY dispatch says: The commissioners of a number of the counties in northern and northwestern Iowa have been seriously alarmed within the past few days by the announcement that many of the holders of land granted the Sioux City & St. Paul road by congress years ago and recently held by the supreme court to have been forfeited by the non-compliance of the road with the terms of the grant will bring action to recover from the counties all taxes levied on the property during the years of their occupancy. In its decision against the road, in which the supreme court decided that the land had reverted to the government, it was also held that these settlers are entitled to recover all taxes so paid. The supervisors of O'Brien county alone have computed that they may be called on under this decision to refund taxes to the amount of $53,161, and have sent a petition to congress asking for legislation to protect them. Many other counties are similarly situated and may be called on to refund a total of several hundred thousand dollars unless some protection such as that asked by O'Brien county is granted them.

Two boys while hunting found the body of an infant under a bridge on the public highway just northeast of the city limits of Marshalltown. The foetus, for such it evidently is, was wrapped in a copy of the Times-Republican of October 31 of the year 1895 and inclosed in a long cigar box. It is a male child and apparently about six months old. Officers were notified, and the body was brought to one of the undertaking rooms and prepared for burial. A quiet investigation is being made with a view to clearing up the crime, which it was without doubt.

JUDGE HUSTED has appointed Frank Bell receiver of the Smedley Manufacturing Company, which recently failed at Dubuque. His bonds were fixed at $60,000. Attachment creditors filed suit praying that individual members be made parties to the suit.

STATE AUDITOR MCCARTHY says the fraternal insurance societies are sending in for blanks in which to make out reports. He says he thinks from the stand they are now taking that there will be no difficulty about inducing all of them to comply with the new provision.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS

MAHER and Fitzsimmons are to meet at El Paso, Mexico, on the 14th of February.

THE Canadian government will establish a school of military instruction at Montreal.

A CALIFORNIA judge holds that Chinese cannot be naturalized in the United States.

ACCORDING to a New York dispatch, James J. Corbett, the pugilist, is a physical wreck, a condition resulting from excesses.

ADVICES from London indicate that England, Holland, Spain and France may form an alliance to protect their interests in America from the United States.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says that the charter of the Nicaragua Canal Co. may be annulled, as the Nicaragua government is becoming provoked at the delay.

LORD DUNRAVEN has arrived in New York to make good his allegations of fraud in the Valkyrie-Defender races of last September. He declined to be interviewed.

THE British steamer Bellerphon collided with and sank the French steamer Emile Selsize and thirty passengers of the latter, including twenty-five natives, were drowned.

IT is said President Cleveland has asked Edward L. Phelps and Robert T. Lincoln, both ex-ministers to England, to accept places on the Venezuelan investigating commission.

REPRESENTATIVE business men of Boston have decided to take immediate steps toward raising half a million dollars in New England to aid the National Red Cross Society in its Armenian relief work. A committee headed by Gen. C. A. Taylor will issue the appeal.

ACCORDING to a Paris dispatch, an Austrian named Dr. Marmoreck, after four years' study at the Pasteur Institute, claims to have discovered a serum cure for erysipelas, puerperal fever and all diseases due to the streptococcus microbe, and which is also efficacious as an aid to Dr. Roux's treatment for diphtheria.

IN a panic in the old Front Street theatre at Baltimore twenty-three persons were killed, two fatally injured and a large number seriously injured. A sudden flaring up of a gas jet, which was minus a tip, caused some one to cry "Fire!" and the crowd at once grew frantic.

THE Huns and negroes employed at the Morell coke works at Dunbar, Penn., had a battle with Winchesters in which several hundred shots were fired, and when the ammunition was exhausted, continued hand to hand. One Hun was fatally wounded, eight seriously and six badly.

FOUR tons of giant powder in a magazine near Romeo, Ill., on the drainage canal near Chicago, exploded. The detonation was heard at a great distance and the shock was felt within a radius of fifty miles. Nearly everybody within a radius of twenty-five miles was awakened by the trembling, and the general impression in 1,000,000 minds was that it was an earthquake. Nobody was killed or injured.

THE Kansas City Times prints an interview with Governor Morrill, of Kansas, in which the governor announces his conclusion that the prohibition law of Kansas is a failure. The governor states further that he does not advocate the open saloon as it existed before prohibition was tried, but that now he is a convert to the plan of state regulation of the liquor traffic, on the general lines of the Tillman dispensary law now in force in South Carolina.

A DISPATCH from Constantinople says: It is officially announced that most obstinate fighting preceded the capture of Zeitoun by the Turks. Semi-official advices say the Armenians lost 2,500 killed; Turks, 250. Narros pass, between the hills leading from Zeitoun, is crowded by Armenian women, men and children. It is feared all will be massacred. Ambassadors of the powers sent messengers to the palace to make representations with a view to preventing massacres. There is little hope, however, that it will avail anything. The general belief is that the survivors have already been killed.

DISPATCHES from Beyrout say that there was a serious battle between Turkish troops and the Druses near Shedich on December 21. The official account is that the Druses lost 12,200 killed. On the Turkish side, according to the official report, only seventy were killed and fifty wounded. Disorders are reported at Tarus. The disturbance was quelled by the officials. No details have been received, but it is believed that the trouble now reported explains the arrival at Marsina of Rev. Dr. Christie, a missionary, and his family, as well as many others who undoubtedly went there to seek protection.

The winter of 1402-3 was so severe that the Baltic sea was frozen from shore to shore, something that has not occurred since.

There are at present projects for the construction by private companies of over 2,000 miles of new railway under consideration by the Japanese authorities.

The river Platte during the summer is dry along the greater portion of its course. The water runs underground, only an occassional pool appearing on the surface. By digging almost anywhere in its course a supply of fresh cool water may be obtained.

True Enough.

"You used to think a great deal of the summer girl; what do you think of her now?"

"She is out of sight."

Wilhelmina, the young queen of Holland, wears bloomers when cycling.

The genius, wit and spirit of a nation are discovered in its proverbs.

The name of Connecticut is derived from the Caniba Indian word "kunatcguk," meaning "long river."

In the new home of the new duchess of Marlborough there are said to be twenty staircases leading from the first floor to the second.

TO SELL BONDS.

WASHINGTON, December 30.—When the vote was taken on the bond bill in the house forty-seven republicans refused to act with the majority of their party. The populists and democrats, with the exception of Mr. Hutchinson, of Texas, who voted for the bill, presented an unbroken front against the bill. The bill, as passed, amends the resumption act so as to permit the issue of 3 per cent coin bonds redeemable after five years at the pleasure of the government and and payable in fifteen years, with the specific proviso that nothing in the bill shall be construed to repeal the act of 1878 for the re-issue of the greenbacks, and that the bonds shall first be offered for subscription at the sub-treasuries and depositories of the United States. The second section of the bill provides for the issue of three-year 3 per cent debt certificates of denominations of $20 and mutiples thereof in amount not exceeding $50,000,000 to meet temporary deficiencies.

A SHELL EXPLODES.

RICHMOND, Va., December 30.—A Michigan farmer, named Lawrence, who recently bought the noted old colonial estate known as "The Main" farm, near Williamsburg, will probably lose a grown son by a peculiar accident. This morning the young man was preparing to kill hogs, and, seeking for something on which to rest a large iron boiler, found an old 100-pound shell that had lain about the yard for many years and rolled it in the fire. He was cautioned by a colored boy, who, when the young man persisted in putting it into the fire, pulled it out with a rake. He shoved it back and the boy took to his heels. In a few minutes a tremendous explosion occurred, and young Lawrence was frightfully mutilated. His arms have been amputated and there is a chance of his recovery. The shell was one of the enormous projectiles fired from the Federal gunboats in James river in 1865.

BRITISH ARE WAKING UP.

LONDON, December 30.—The Venezuelan question, chiefly from its financial and commercial standpoints, is still uppermost in the public mind. It takes some time to convince the aver-Britisher of anything, and there has been no exception in the case of impressing those in authority here that the United States is thoroughly convinced of the justness of the Monroe doctrine as a whole, although there may be differences of opinion as to its applicability to the boundary dispute between Venezuela and Great Britain. Although the attitude of people in authority here is peaceful, the possibilities which the future may bring forth are not by any means overlooked. A sign of the interest taken here at present in America's military matters is found in the fact that the Army and Navy Gazette published short biographical sketches of all the American generals.

PULLMAN AIDING THE CUBANS.

LEXINGTON, Ky., December 28.—George Scrugham, an electrical engineer who has been in New Orleans constructing an electric street railroad, has just arrived from that city, and in an interview said: "I became acquainted with the Cuban who is at the head of the movement in New Orleans for sending recruits, arms and ammunition to the insurgents. He has the disbursing of an enormous fund, which has been raised in the United States, its largest contributors being George Gould and George M. Pullman, both of whom, it is said, have been promised large concessions in Cuba by the leaders of the rebellion.

PROHIBITION IN KANSAS.

KANSAS CITY, December 28.—The Times prints an interview with Governor Morrill, of Kansas, in which the governor announces his conclusion that the prohibition law of Kansas is a failure. The governor states further that he does not advocate the open saloon, as it existed before prohibition was tried, but that now he is a convert to the plan of state regulation of the liquor traffic, on the general lines of the Tillman dispensary law now in force in South Carolina.

A MURDER CONFESSED.

TACOMA, Wash., December 30.—It has been proved, through a confession made to a Catholic priest, that Miroco Moreci murdered Conchilli Salvador three years ago, and that Salvador Pecani, who was several times sentenced to death and finally escaped execution through a mere technicality, was not the murderer. Salvador's brains were dashed out with a hatchet, and he was stabbed thirty-seven times.

Result of a Kentucky Feud.

LONDON, Ky., December 28.—Reports of a bloody duel on Raccoon creek, this county, eight miles northwest of London, between Mat and William Dezarn and Luther Davidson are received. Mat Dezarn was shot through the bowels and killed, and Davidson received a slight wound on the arm. The killing occurred at Al Davidson's, Luther Davidson's father. The participants were cousins, and the difficulty grew out of a family feud. Davidson and his father are under arrest.

Russian Black Sea Squadron.

CONSTANTINOPLE, December 30.—The departure of the Russian Black Sea squadron from Sebastopol for an unknown destination has caused lively speculation.

Very Dear.

Mrs. Spendall—Just look at this lovely bonnet, John, that I bought to-day.

Mr. Spendall (resignedly)—Well, how much?

"Only eighteen dollars, and it is such a beauty. Don't you think it is, dear?"

"Yes; very dear."

Easy Enough.

George (nervously)—I'd like the best in the world, Kitty, to marry you, but I don't know how to propose.

Kitty (promptly and practically)—"That's all right, George. You've finished with me; now go to papa.

Remedied.

A friend of Bishop Wilmer, of Alabama, lost a dearly loved wife, and in his sorrow caused these words to be inscribed on her tombstone: "The light of mine eyes has gone out!" The bereaved married within a year. Shortly afterward the bishop was walking through the graveyard with another gentleman. When they arrived at the tomb the latter asked the bishop what he would say to the present state of affairs, in view of the words on the tombstone. "I think," said the bishop, "the words 'But I nave struck another match,' should be added."

CONGRESSIONAL.

WASHINTON, December 23.—HOUSE—The house was in session but half an hour when adjournment was taken until to-morrow.

WASHINGTON, December 24.—SENATE—Hill's bill to repeal the statute which forbids the employment in the army or navy of the United States of any person who, having had a commission therein, afterwards served in the confederate army, passed. Adjourned until Friday.

HOUSE—Just before the house adjourned until Thursday the speaker had read a telegram from President Silva, of the Brazilian house of representatives, congratulating the house upon President Cleveland's message supporting the Monroe doctrine. It was received with applause.

WASHINGTON, December 26.—HOUSE.—Dingley, from the committee on ways and means, reported a revenue bill repealing the present tariff law until August 1, 1898. It restores 60 per cent of the McKinley rates on wool and woolens, lumber and carpets, and makes a horizontal increase of the present rate in all other schedules, except sugar, of 15 per cent. Henderson, for the committee on rules, reported a rule for a vote on the bill at 5 p. m., which was adopted, 213 to 89, a strict party vote. Dingley, Dalzell, Hopkins, Grosvenor and Dolliver advocated the passage of the bill, while Crisp and Turner opposed it. The bill then passed, 205 to 81. Adjourned. The proposed bill is designed to raise $40,000,000 for the relief of the treasury.

WASHINGTON, December 27.—SENATE.—A resolution by Hill that bonds issued here after be made payable in gold or silver at option of holders of bonds, such bonds not to draw more than 3 per cent, was debated, but it was laid over. Adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE—The house adopted the rule brought in by the committee for the consideration of the bond bill, 195 to 101. Several republicans voted against it. Mr. Dingley expained the bill, saying that as a plain business proposition, the secretary should have the power to float 3 per cent bonds. The bill also provided that these bonds should first be offered to the people of the United States, and Mr. Dingley expressed no doubt that the people from the Atlantic to the Pacific would respond and over-subscribe any issue advertised for. The entire day was spent in debate of the bill.

WASHINGTON, December 28.—HOUSE—The day was spent in discussing the bond bill. At 3 p. m. a vote was taken by yeas and nays upon the passage of the first section, authorizing the sale of 3 per cent coin bonds. The vote on the passage of the first section of the bill authorizing the issue of bonds was: Yeas, 169; Nays 136. The second section was agreed to without division and the bill declared to be passed.

A PHYSICAL WRECK.

Retirement From the Ring Came None Too Soon for Corbett.

NEW YORK, December 28.—Among sporting men here the report is current that James J. Corbett, the erstwhile champion pugilist, has good reason for quitting the prize ring. It is said that he is physically unable to stand a severe course of training and that should he re-enter the ring he would be a "mark" for any class heavyweight. According to a friend of Corbett, the big fellow is going the same road traveled by poor Jack Dempsey. The first to recognize the trouble is said to have been "Billy" Brady, who is now on his way to Australia. Brady, it is said, knew that Corbett's method of life was the cause of his trouble, and at least a year ago warned him that a physical as well as a mental collapse would be inevitable if he did not face squarely about. Letters in which Corbett acknowledged his mistakes are said to be in existence. In them he promised to reform, but if the reports of his present condition are true he certainly has failed to make good his promise.

PULLMAN AIDING THE CUBANS.

George Gould Also Said to be looking Out For Concessions.

LEXINGTON, Ky., December 28.—George Scrugham, an electrical engineer who has been in New Orleans constructing an electric street railroad, has just arrived from that city, and in an interview said: "I became acquainted with the Cuban who is at the head of the movement in New Orleans for sending recruits, arms and ammunition to the insurgents. He has the disbursing of an enormous fund, which has been raised in the United States, its largest contributors being George Gould and George M. Pullman, both of whom, it is said, have been promised large concessions in Cuba by the leaders of the rebellion.

Result of a Kentucky Feud.

LONDON, Ky., December 28.—Reports of a bloody duel on Raccoon creek, this county, eight miles northwest of London, between Mat and William Dezarn and Luther Davidson are received. Mat Dezarn was shot through the bowels and killed, and Davidson received a slight wound on the arm. The killing occurred at Al Davidson's, Luther Davidson's father. The participants were cousins, and the difficulty grew out of a family feud. Davidson and his father are under arrest.

Russian Black Sea Squadron.

CONSTANTINOPLE, December 30.—The departure of the Russian Black Sea squadron from Sebastopol for an unknown destination has caused lively speculation.

Very Dear.

Mrs. Spendall—Just look at this lovely bonnet, John, that I bought to-day.

Mr. Spendall (resignedly)—Well, how much?

"Only eighteen dollars, and it is such a beauty. Don't you think it is, dear?"

"Yes; very dear."

Easy Enough.

George (nervously)—I'd like the best in the world, Kitty, to marry you, but I don't know how to propose.

Kitty (promptly and practically)—"That's all right, George. You've finished with me; now go to papa.

Remedied.

A friend of Bishop Wilmer, of Alabama, lost a dearly loved wife, and in his sorrow caused these words to be inscribed on her tombstone: "The light of mine eyes has gone out!" The bereaved married within a year. Shortly afterward the bishop was walking through the graveyard with another gentleman. When they arrived at the tomb the latter asked the bishop what he would say to the present state of affairs, in view of the words on the tombstone. "I think," said the bishop, "the words 'But I nave struck another match,' should be added."

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists; 75c.

Hall's Family Pills, 25c.

Stealing an Emperor's Gift.

An audacious form of peculation was brought to light in Germany the other day by the mild complaint of a railroad official who had been promised a handsome watch as a recognition of services rendered the emperor and was put off with a trumpery pin. The affair was brought to the notice of the emperor, who found that the substitution had been made by an official who pocketed the watch himself. A similar mode of thieving practiced in Russia sent an official of high rank and family to Siberia.

"The Melancholy Days Have Come

The saddest of the year," not when autumn has arrived, as poet Bryant intimates, but when a fellow gets bilious. The "sere and yellow leaf" is in his complexion if not in the foliage at that inauspicious time. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will soon discipline his rebellious liver, and regulate his bowels, besides toning his stomach and healthfully stimulating his kidneys. Malaria, rheumatism and nervousness are also relieved by the Bitters.

Christianizing India.

It is said that a Sunday school procession numbering over 30,000 children, all either of Hindoo or Moslem parents, recently marched in Lucknow, the scene of the awful Sepoy massacre in 1857. India has eight Christian colleges, and 26,000 schools and 3,000,000 pupils.

Farming by Irrigation.

The Grand Valley is rightly termed a New California set in the midst of the Rocky Mountains. Like most new things, it is an improvement upon the old. Cyclones and blizzards are unknown to this section. The thermometer rarely goes below zero. Peaches, pears, prunes, plums, apricots, nectarines, apples, grapes and all kinds of small fruits grow to perfection. Also grain, hay and all kinds of vegetables equal to any. The climate is free from dampness and malaria and almost a sure cure for those in the first stages of consumption. Good society, splendid schools and churches. A place for an ideal home. —Zeph. Chas. Felt, 207 Boston Building. Denver, Colo.

Pretty Centerpiece for a Table.

A pretty and nunsual centerpiece for a table is made as follows: Place in a bowl hollowed in a square of ice enough loosely piled cracked ice to fill the space. In the interstices between the lumps of ice fasten pieces of smilax which will trail out and cover the square block. The effect of the glittering ice and the delicate green tracery is charming.

Map of the United States.

The wall map issued by the Burlington Route is three feet wide by four feet long; is printed in seven colors; is mounted on rollers; shows every state, county, important town and railroad in the Union and forms a very desirable and useful adjunct to any household or business establishment. Purchased in large quantities, the maps cost the Burlington Route more than fifteen cents each, but on receipt of that amount in stamps the undersigned will be pleased to send you one.

Write immediately, as the supply is limited.

J. FRANCIS,
G. P. & T. A. Burlington Route,
Omaha, Neb.

Comfort to California.

Yes and economy, too, if you patronize the Burlington Route's Personally Conducted once-a-week excursions which leave Omaha every Thursday morning.

Through tourist sleepers Omaha to San Francisco and Los Angeles. Second-class tickets accepted.

See the local agent and arrange about tickets and berths. Or, write to

J. FRANCIS,
G. P. & T. A., Omaha, Neb.

Religion and Medicine.

French fishermen on the Newfoundland banks are to be provided with medical and spiritual comfort. Next spring a vessel will leave St. Malo with a doctor and a priest on board to cruise among the fleet and give assistance where it is needed.

"5 DROPS" WINS.

Every Test Case
Decided In Its Favor.

GREATEST HOUSEHOLD REMEDY.

For preventing disease and curing the afflicted no remedy known to man approaches "5 DROPS." It wins thousands of new testimonials every week. Just think of receiving 75 to 100 letters in one mail praising this greatest household remedy. Has won every test case and done far more than its owners claimed for it. Sold only by agents said no other way. If there is no agent in your town always write direct at once. No home should be without it.

$1.00 a Bottle (300 Doses), or 6 Bottles for $5.00.

If "5 Drops" is the name and dose. 5 drops only once a day. Satisfaction guaranteed every time. AGENTS fully protected. 25c sample FREE for 10 days. (Send 10c in stamps to pay postage and packing.) Valuable pamphlet FREE. Cures paralysis. Prevents fevers. Greatest disinfectant of the human system. Saves doctors' bills.

5 DROPS Trade Mark.

Absolutely cures Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Backache, Asthma, Catarrh, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Nervous and Neuralgic Headaches, Heart Weakness, Toothache, Earache, Croup, Swelling, La Grippe, Malaria, Creeping Numbness, Bronchitis, Paralysis and Prevents Fevers.

HELP FOR ALL.

ST. JAMES CHURCH, WEST DULUTH, Minn.

"This time a year ago I was obliged to use crutches, but now, thank God, and you, and the regular and constant use of '5 DROPS', I am active and able to attend to all the duties of my sacred calling. Had my trouble not been chronic before I began to use your wonderful remedy I feel perfectly satisfied that I should have been more than convalescent. Later on I shall again let you know how I am doing."
Nov. 18, 1895. REV. T. J. MACKEY.

"I have used enough of your '5 DROPS' to satisfy me that it is all that you claim for it. Enclosed find money order for which send me two dozen bottles, with circulars, etc. I would like the agency for the whole of San Bernardino Co. Am well known here, having been a practising physician for many years. There are many here who need such relief as I am sure your '5 DROPS' will give them."
Dec. 2, 1895. C. K. MATTESON,
San Bernardino, Calif.

"My three children were sick with typhoid fever. One of them had been sick five days. I gave him some of your '5 DROPS' and now he is up and all right. The other two have been sick eight weeks. I believe it is the greatest remedy in the world and I want to be your agent at once."
Nov. 27, 1895. C. A. SWANSON,
Lake Wilson, Minn.

"The sample bottle of '5 DROPS' which you sent me has helped me so much that I am now able to go to work every day. I am able to sleep all night and my asthma is almost cured."
Oct. 21, 1895. FERDINAND MEHLS,
Suspension Bridge, New York.

Mrs. Louise Franzen, of 1827 90th Place, Chicago, Ill., was paralyzed in her whole arm and hand for over two years as a result of severe neuralgic pains. Every known remedy was tried without success. One bottle of '5 DROPS' nearly cured her. She is now recommending it to all her friends and continuing to improve as she uses the remedy.

Write To-Day for Agents' Terms.

SWANSON RHEUMATIC CURE CO.,
167 Dearborn St., • CHICAGO, ILL.

Veils and Bonnets.

There is room for an instructive treatise upon a subject entitled "Why Women's Bonnets Don't Look Well." So many foolish virgins and matrons ruin otherwise charming toilets by the way they put on their hats, which are often equally charming in themselves. A bonnet put on too far back or dancing over the eyebrows with a smooth space where the hair is brushed up or down showing beneath the bonnet and the coiffure is always ugly and quite destroye the style of the bonnet. Then a veil worn with a bonnet for which no veil is intended, and which trimming with inartistic fol like swaddling clothes, is mistake. If a veil is worn bonnet at all, it should be gle width and put on with so that the flowers or other are only softened and not co

Saves a Fortune

Monterey, Tenn., (Speci our prominent citizens here E. Jones, secretary and tr Cumberland Mountain the high road to make his attributes the fact to h from the tobacco habit inveterate user of toba years, consuming so mu serious inroads on both his health. One box of N pletely cured him, and h pounds in less than two three days after start Bac the desire for toba gone. Col. Jones says to al users that No-To-Bac will do a mended and is worth by far m its weight in gold.

How Copper Is Secured.

In the Calumet and Hecla copper mine are over seventy miles of drifts in which one can walk for days without visiting all of the many places underground. There is a vein wh has been worked for two miles on trend, and at some of the shafts fifty-fifth level has been reached, levels being generally ten feet a or "thick," as generally described.

The John A. Salzer Seed Co., o Crosse, Wis., have recently purch the complete catalogue trade o Northrup, Braslan, Goodwin C Minneapolis and Chicago. Thi the Salzer Seed Co. the largest logue mail trade in the world an are in splendid shape to take c same, as they have recently comple a large addition to their mamm houses. The 1896 catalogue is and the largest ever issued. any address for 5 cents to cov

There are more than in Paris devoted to fen sided over by a fencin or less famous.

Red

Is the foundatio have Rich, Red,

Sars

Hood's

It's yo that yo can't say trashy bi few cents and ge which last as Look for "S label and take n If your dealer will w

Send for samples, showin rials, to the S. H. & M. Co. York City.

QUINN'S OINTMENT REMOVES

Quinn's Ointme

Never fails to cure Corbs, Spli puffs, Bunches and all sorenes $1.50. Smaller size 50c. At dru W. B. EDDY & CO., Wh will effectually remove by blackheads and pimples fr and leave the skin soft and hea a liquid and sent through specially prepared mai address, on receipt C. M. LAWRENC Gardiner, Maine.

Senora Soto's Mexican

THE cratic ne days a week this rate lea CHRONICL

WE

frisian, co your dealer Crosby Fris

WHY PRODUCER informati eeds in the tion and book & CO., 321 LaSalle

PATENTS, TRADE MARKS

Examination and Advice as to Patentability of Invention. Send for "Inventors' Guide, or How to Get a Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Washington, D. C.

$5 Hand Bone, Shell, and Corn Mills for Poultrymen, Dairy Bone Cutter, Power Mills. Circular and testimonials Free. WILSON BROS., Easton, Pa.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. DR. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

Business Chance—A Good Income
We pay you to sell fruit trees. STARK NURSERIES, Louisiana, Mo.; Rockport, Ill.

A sugar cured "ham"—poor actor made well by homeopathic pills.

It is so easy to remove Corns with Hindercorns that we wonder so many will endure them. Get Hindercorns and see how nicely it takes them off.

Actors, draughtsmen, dentists and mustard plasters ought to draw well.

There is pleasure and profit and no small satisfaction in abating troublesome and painful ills by using Parker's Ginger Tonic.

The man who takes God for his guide will always travel in the right path.

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

sad sight in this world is an old hen g to plume herself to look chic.

eman's Camphor Ice with Glycerine. riginal and only genuine. Cures Chapped Hands ce, Cold Sores, &c. C. G. Clark Co., N. Haven, Ct.

e street acidents of London amount rt 3,500 a year—nearly ten a day.

f the Baby is Cutting Teeth, d use that old and well-tried remedy. MRS. 's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.

n Arab fails to make a raise e else, he can "strike" his tent.

ecommend Piso's Cure for Con- to sufferers from Asthma.—E. D. , Fort Howard, Wis., May 4, 1894.

or emeralds in combination an now be worn for mourning

BRONCHIAL TROCHES" are a le and convenient remedy for Bron- l Affections and Coughs. Carry them your pocket.

One of the shrewdest real estate speculators in Chicago is Lewis Bates, a colored man. He is worth $300,000.

"A Cup of Parks' Tea at night moves the bowels in the morning."

Ammoniated tincture of quinine, according to Nature, is a more effectual antidote to bee stings than ammonia alone.

"Hanson's Magic Corn Salve."
Warranted to cure or money refunded. Ask your druggist for it. Price 15 cents.

Died While Getting a Shine.
Frederick Thompson, aged 75, sat in a bootblack's chair in a San Francisco street and was having his boots blacked, when a fatal attack of heart disease closed his career. The man had been dead three minutes before the bootblack was aware of the tragedy.

SYRUP of FIGS

NJOYS
d and results when aken; it is pleasant e taste, and acts on the Kidneys, anses the system is colds, headand cures habitual rup of Figs is the nd ever pro- taste and ac- ch, prompt in its neficial in its from the most substances, its ties commend it ade it the most wn.
for sale in 50 l leading drugghirtable druggist who n hand will pro- for any one who Bargain Do not accept any

FIG SYRUP CO.
ANCISCO, CAL.
NEW YORK, N.Y.

OUR DEALER FOR
W. DOUGLAS
SHOE BEST IN THE WORLD.
to $6 for shoes, ex- Douglas Shoe, and d shoe you can buy for $3.
STYLES AND WIDTHS, CONGRESS, BUTTON, and LACE, made in all kinds of the best selected leather by skilled workmen. We make and sell more $3 Shoes than any other er in the world. ne unless name and ped on the bottom.

dealer for our $5, $2.50, $2.25 Shoes; and $1.75 for boys.
SUBSTITUTE. If your dealer pply you, send to fac- osing price and 36 cents carriage. State kind, style or plain), size and stom Dept. will fill d for new Illus- Box R.
Brockton, Mass.

does half the world's uced the cost of many branch rks and repairs does furnish a ss money than es Pumping and l, Galvanized steel Windmills, Tilting rs, Steel Buzz Saw utters and Feed n it will name one will furnish until . It also makes end for catalogue. ore Streets, Chicago.

MA ERY
WELL RAULIC etc. and
Kansas City, Mo.
WINNING THE BEST AND
GEO. W. OATS
Indence Solicit
"White Oats" most productive in the world. Weigh 40 pounds per bushel. Yield over 80 bushels per acre. We forfeit $1,000 if these oats fail to fill above specifications. Best bank references in our Circulars. Send 10 cents to cover for sample package of oats, descriptive circulars, price list, terms to agents etc., to W. H. GILMORE, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION
25 CTS

A NOVEMBER EVENING.

The autumn night is dark and cold;
The wind blows loud; the year grows old;
The dead leaves whirl and rustle chill;
The cricket's chirp is long and shrill;
The skies that were so soft and warm
Mutter and lode of gathering storm.
And now, within the homes of men
The sacred hearth-fires gleam again,
And joy and cheer and friendship sweet
Within the charmed circle meet.

The children watch with new delight
The first fire, dancing redly bright,
That drives away the dark and cold;
And Grace's slender fingers hold
A braided fan from Mexico,
To make the broad flames flare and glow.

Alert, alive, they leap and run
Like fierce bright streamers of the sun;
They shine on Robert's placid face,
And tint the pensive cheek of Grace,
And chase away the doubtful gloom
From every corner of the room.

O pleasant thought!—that far and near
Are gathering 'round each hearthstone dear
Bright faces, happy smiles, and eyes
Sweet with the summer's memories!
O holy altar fires of home!
Tho' far and wide the children roam,
Your charm for them shall still endure
With love so strong and peace so sure.

—Celia Thaxter, in St. Nicholas.

MY FAITH.

We were standing on the piazza together, Alice Grayle and I, and I was saying pretty nothings to her, to pass away the time, when I chanced to look down the long avenue of elms, and saw a graceful figure, clad in sober gray, standing where an opening in the trees let the sunshine through. The light fell upon the woman's hair, and made it shine like gold. Her face, as she lifted it toward the sunshine, was fair as the face of any child, pure, sweet, and with that innocent look in it which we always associate with children upon whose lives the world has not yet left its mark.

"Who is it?" I asked, breaking off rather abruptly from my pretty speech making.

"Faith Farley," answered Miss Grayle, with a flush of annoyance; "a friend of my father's died, and left this girl to his care. He gave her a home and sent her to school. She came back to us yesterday, a 'finished young lady,' I suppose."

Miss Grayle laughed, but there was nothing pleasant in the sound of her merriment. It was like a discord. I felt sure that she did not like the girl with the sweet, Madonna face. I wondered at it, for I could not understand how any one could help liking her. Such a face would win its way to most hearts at once. It had to mine.

"I should be pleased to form her acquaintance," I said; "I like the looks of her."

"You have got into such a habit of making flattering speeches to us women that you can not rid yourself of it when speaking of them," she said, pulling the roses I had given her apart and scattering their pink leaves over the veranda floor, in a vexed way. It was plain to see that she had no love for the girl down the path.

"I was in earnest when I said that I liked the looks of her," I answered. "I am always attracted by a pretty face. It affects me like pleasant music."

"Very poetical," she said, with a curl of the lip. "I never heard anyone say before that they though Faith Farley pretty. She always makes me think of a Quaker, with her gray gown and sly ways.

"I have always admired neat, demure little Quaker women," I answered. "I think you mistake quietness for slyness, you certainly do if by slyness you mean artfulness. I'll wager a good deal that the girl yonder is as artless as a child. She could not be otherwise with such a face."

"You seem to have been captivated by Miss Farley's charms," said Miss Grayle, and her voice had a sound of irritation in it.

"I admire her," I answered, "but I could hardly fall captive to her until I knew her. Don't you think she would look well in a picture? If her eyes are as pretty as her face and hair, I should like to paint her, if I were an artist. She is so far away that I can not see them well, but I venture the guess that they are blue one moment and gray the next, like a spring, in sunshine and shadow. Am I not right, Miss Grayle?"

"Faith, come here," called Miss Grayle. I looked at her, wondering what she intended to do. Miss Farley came up the avenue and stopped at the end of the path.

"Turn your face to the light," said Miss Grayle. "Mr. Ascott wants to see your eyes."

The sweet, grave face was turned to me questioningly for a moment, and I saw that her eyes were blue.

Miss Grayle laughed. A quick scarlet flush stained the girl's face, as she understood that the other had been making sport of her, and she turned away with a little haughty lift of the head that pleased me, for it told me that she resented Miss Grayle's unlady-like act.

"You ought not to have said that," I said to Miss Grayle. "It puts me in a false position, and it offended her."

"What right has she to be offended?" said Miss Grayle, with a scornful curl of her lip. "What would become of her if my father did not take pity on her?"

That was no reason, I thought, why the girl should be treated as if she had no feelings Miss Grayle was bound to respect. She might be poor, and dependent on the bounty of others, but that did not prevent her from being very much like other women who are more happily circumstanced. Perhaps Miss Grayle thought poor people could not, or ought not to, afford the luxury of a sensitive nature.

Later in the day I met Miss Farley walking in the grounds back of the house. She would have avoided me, but I prevented her from doing so.

"Miss Farley," I said putting out my hand to stop her, "I want to tell you that I am sorry for what Miss Grayle said this morning. I assure you that I was not at all to blame in the matter, though you may think so from what she said. I saw you, and liked your face, and said something about liking to paint it, if I were an artist, and I asked if your eyes were not blue. You are not offended at that, are you?" I asked, holding out my hand.

"No," she said, after looking at me for a moment, with frank, clear eyes, as if to make sure of my sincerity. "I am not offended at that, but I was offended at what Miss Grayle said, and the way she said it. However, that need not hinder our being friends, if you wish it," she added, and put her hand in mine, with all the confidence of a child.

"I do wish it," I answered.

I had a good opportunity to study her face that afternoon, as we walked and talked together. It was not a face that many would call beautiful, and yet it was a lovely one. The cheeks had, now and then, a wild-rose color in them, and the pretty lips had a charming way of curving over the white teeth behind them, half hiding, half disclosing them. Her pale brown hair was as changeful in color as her eyes, bright gold in sunshine, and full of bronze tints in the shade. A rarer, fresher, sweeter face, I had not seen for many a day. More beautiful women I might have seen, I thought, as I walked back to the house, but none more charming.

After that I saw a great deal of Faith Farley. I learned something of her past life from her own lips, but that little I learned without her being aware of the fact. She evidently meant to let no hint fall about the life she was living, but now and then a stray word would find utterance, that gave me some insight into it. I found out that she was not happy. Mr. Grayle was her friend. She loved and trusted him. But there was no friendship between her and Miss Grayle.

"I would like to teach," she said. "But Mr. Grayle will not listen to me when I talk of it. I would like to go away from this place. I am in the way—an intruder." Then she remembered, I suppose, that I was almost a stranger, and she said no more about her plans or wishes.

It was not long before I learned to love Faith Farley.

Alice Grayle saw the truth before I did. I knew that I had offended her in some way, because she was distant, and cold, and made little taunting speeches, for which I cared nothing. One morning some of the visitors sat on the veranda, and the conversation ran on, for a time, about some marvelous faith cure that had been reported in the newspapers. All at once Miss Grayle turned to me and asked me, with a smile that seemed to have an angry flame behind, as the cloud which is ominous of storm gives a lurid look to the sky at sunset, what I had to say about faith. I knew then, all in a moment, by her look and tone, that she was angry with me, on Faith's account. She was jealous of the girl's influence. And I knew, too, all in a moment, that the interest I felt in Faith Farley was because I loved her.

That afternoon I was summoned to the city. I was gone a week. On my return I was told that Faith Farley had gone away. They did not know where. She had said that she could not tell them where she was going, because she did not know what she was going to do, and till she found out what to do she could not tell where she would stop.

"She had some queer notions of independence in her head," Miss Grayle said. "We could not find out much about her plans. Probably she hadn't any. She will doubtless be glad to come back before long."

Miss Grayle tried her blandishments on me in vain, and finally gave up in disgust. I had no love to give her or any other woman. I had given it all to Faith.

I believed that she had driven Faith away. But she was careful to let no hint fall that would convict her of so cowardly an act. But I could see that she was glad to know that I felt her loss more than I ever confessed to her or anyone else. She considered it a proper punishment for me, for caring more for the poor girl than I did for the proud heiress.

At first, I was sure that I should soon find some trace of Faith. She had gone to the city. That was all I knew about her flight into the world. Beyond this I was in entire ignorance of her movements. Inquiry and search revealed nothing. She seemed, all at once, to have disappeared utterly from our knowledge. By and by I began to get discouraged. After a year had gone by, and not a word of tidings had come from her, I felt that she must be dead. My heart made a grave for its sweet, perished hope, and set up a white stone there, and on it was the one word "Faith."

Then the war broke out, I enlisted, I was in many battles, and escaped without a wound until it came to the long siege before Petersburg. There I was struck by a ball, and carried off the field with many others, to suffer for days and days from want of care more than from the wound. Then a fever set in, and between the wound, the lack of care and the fever, which was a direct result of them, I was brought down to the gates of death. There I lingered, loth to enter.

For many days life was an utter blank to me. But one morning a dim ray of consciousness crept in across my brain, and I opened my eyes and looked feebly about me.

I was in a hospital. I could see the long wards, with the little white beds ranged in rows down them, pale faces lying on many pillows, and nurses coming and going, here and there. Looking down the aisle to the door, I saw a woman clad in a soft gray dress come in. A sudden thrill went tingling through my veins. It was wonderfully like Faith's figure. The hair that slipped from beneath the nurse's cap she wore was brown like Faith's, as she stood in the shadowy doorway, and it turned to gold when a ray of sunlight fell upon it through the open window, just as Faith's hair had a trick of doing. Suddenly she turned toward me. Then I rose up, with a sudden strength born of a great joy, and cried out: "Faith! My Faith!"

For it was her face that I saw. It had changed since I had seen it last. It had grown womanly and thoughtful and stronger; but it was the same sweet, tender face I had loved so well, for all that.

She heard me, and came toward my bed. My sudden strength gave way, and a kind of half unconsciousness came over me. But through it all I knew enough of what was going on about me to know that Faith came to me, and bent over me, weeping and calling my name, and that she kissed me.

Then I felt a warm thrill of life steal back into my veins, and I opened my eyes and spoke her name faintly. But she heard it, and bent down to me, crying out:

"Oh, he knows me! He knows me! I am so glad of that!"

"Don't be frightened if I did faint," I said. "I'm not going to die, now that I've found you. I couldn't."

"Don't let him talk much," the old doctor said. Keep him as quiet as possible, and there's some hope for him."

I clung to her hand and would not let her go for fear I might lose her again. She sat down by my bed and took my hand in hers, and smiled upon me in a way that was very pleasant to a man who had seen but few women's faces for a long time. And the pleasantest part of it was it was my lost Faith's face that smiled upon me, the face of a woman I had given up as dead. There was something so restful in it that I felt a sweet, deep sleep stealing over me presently. I slept and dreamed of her. When I awoke she was sitting by my bedside still.

"Where have you been all the long time since I lost you?" I asked her, by and by.

"Earning my bread and trying to forget you," she answered. "You see,"—in answer to my look of inquiry—"they made me believe you were amusing yourself with me, and Miss Grayle was very angry with me, and I would not stay. I know now that they deceived me. Let us forget it all, since it's over. Shall we?"

"Yes, all but that I loved you," I answered. "All but that I loved you then and love you now, and must have you for my own for all time to come. I may have you, Faith? You will let me keep you henceforth in my life as I have kept your memory in my heart through the years since you were lost to me?"

"If you want me take me," she said, softly, and I drew her sweet face down to me and kissed her to seal the compact that our hearts made then and there—the compact that we have kept faithfully ever since, and will, please God, until the end.—Eben E. Rexford.

Gastronomic Gossip.

Butter to be kept for some time of course should have salt added to it, but for every-day use it is much better without salt; the delicate flavor of butter is ruined the moment salt is added to it, and it is a fortunate batch of butter that does not take from the salt a rank, fishy, or other foreign flavor the moment they are blended together.

Various recipes for cooking sweet potatoes are given, but only an old soldier who climbed the mountains of Tennessee, and marched through Georgia, knows what this vegetable is when properly prepared; i. e., baked slowly in the ashes of wood (fence rail) fire, and served hot, with expedition sauce.

"Schrod," said Gen. Benjamin F. Butler to a representative of the Cook, "is a dish known well in Boston. You will find it on the bills of fare of good Boston hotels. Take a small codfish, not too thick, clean it thoroughly, open and draw it, split, and lay it with the back down; pour salt and water—a prepared brine—over it, and let it lie over night. In the morning drain him and broil him, first face down and then with the back down, in a plenty of good butter. It isn't fresh cod and it isn't salt cod. It's schrod."

The topic of hoe-cakes and corn-dodgers is thus settled by a Southern writer: 'When the old negro cook makes a dodger she mixes some water with corn meal in the bread tray and works it up into a stiff dough, takes a handful and pats it into an oblong ball between both hands, and drops it into the pot that is boiling the bacon and greens, and as the pot boils the white ball of dough dodges up and down. Hence its name, dodger. The hoe-cake of to-day is corn-meal dough baked on a griddle, first one side and then on the other. But in old colonial times the negroes made griddles of old cast-away weeding hoes, and baked their corn-bread on them. Hence the hoe-cake."

At a dinner party in France, not long ago, dessert was brought in in a novel form. A tray which appeared to be filled with hard-broiled eggs was placed before the hostess, who gave each guest a couple, and poured over them a sort of syrup or dressing. In a strange country the tourist is always on the lookout for odd things, but this seemed to cap the climax—hard-boiled eggs at a swell dinner party for dessert. But it soon was discovered that the white of this bogus egg was blanc mange, and yolk was made of quince jelly, egg shells being used for molds.—Hotel Mail.

DOMESTIC HINTS.

CHEESE CAKES.

Line tartlet pans with puff paste; let the edges have three thicknesses of paste. Fill them with the following mixture: To a pound of loaf sugar add the juice of three lemons, two tablespoonfuls of brandy and a quarter of a pound of perfectly fresh butter. Grate the rind of a lemon over it as small as possible. Beat six eggs and add them to it. Stir over a fire till it begins to thicken like honey; then let it partly cool. Fill the pastry pans and bake in a moderate oven.

POMONELLA PUDDING.

Into a two-quart pail put one quart of apples pared and sliced, over which put half a cup of sugar, a pinch of salt and two ounces of butter. Make batter of two cups of flour, one spoonful of butter (or clear beef dripping), a little salt and two teaspoons of baking powder. Wet up with milk and roll out, size to cover the apples in the pail. Cover the pail and set in a kettle half full of boiling water. Cover the kettle and keep it boiling briskly for two hours. Turn out upside down to serve.

SALAD DRESSING.

An excellent salad dressing, which, if kept cool, will keep for a long time, is made of the yolks of two eggs beaten well with two-thirds of a goblet of best salad oil (or butter) adding not more than a teaspoonful of oil at a time, and beating it well. One teaspoonful of mustard, a large pinch of salt, a tiny bit of cayenne pepper, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, two of vinegar, the juice of one lemon and lastly the whites of two eggs well beaten. Beat the mixture for several minutes, and then thin with vinegar to suit the taste; put into a glass can and keep cool and dark.

GRAHAM GEMS.

One and one-half pints of graham meal, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one tablespoonful of butter, one egg, one-half cup of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt. Stir together with sweet milk or milk and water, or use water alone, to a batter not much stiffer than pancake batter. Bake in a hot oven. Have your gem pans well greased.

SPONGE CAKE.

Eight eggs, eight ounces of flour, twelve ounces of white sugar, or two coffee cupfuls of each. First stir eggs and sugar together until very white, then add the whites beaten to a froth. Stir in the flour last, just before putting in the oven. Flavor with lemon.

BAKED MACARONI.

Break half a pound of macaroni into inch lengths, and cook twenty minutes in salted water. Drain, cover the bottom of a small baking dish with it, strew with grated cheese and butter bits, season lightly with pepper and salt, and cover with another layer of macaroni. Fill the dish in this way, strew butter and cheese over the top, pour over a small cup of milk, cover and bake half an hour, uncover and brown.

APPLE JELLY.

Cut the apples in small pieces without paring, and stew till soft, using more water than for apple sauce. Strain through a hair seive, then through a jelly bag twice. To a pint of juice put three-fourths of a pound of sugar—a pound to a pint makes it too sweet—and boil until the right thickness is obtained. The addition of lemons makes it much nicer.

CRAB SANDWICH.

Put half a pound of boiled crab meat into a stone morter and pound into a smooth paste with the juice of half a lemon. Season with pepper, salt, a little grated nutmeg and a pinch of curry-powder. Mix this paste well with six ounces best butter. Cut thin slices of bread, trim off the crust, and trim the slices with the crab-paste.

NUT CANDY.

An excellent rule for making nut candy is to take two pints of maple sugar, half a pint of water, or enough to dissolve the sugar and no more. Let this boil until it becomes brittle, when a little is "tried" in cold water. Butter some plates or tins, cover with kernels and pour the candy over them. Hickory nuts or butternuts are nicer with this than almonds or peanuts.

A Crushed Scientist.

"You might as well own up that you stole this woman's things. The silver spoons and the jewelry were found in your pocket," said Judge Duffy, of New York, to a noted sneak thief.

"I know they were, but I was not trying to steal them, Your Honor."

"What were you doing with the jewelry and other articles found in your pocket?"

"You see, Judge, she is a clairvoyant. I have always had my doubts about those kind of people. I don't believe in spiritualism and all that sort of thing, but still I was willing to give the matter a test, so I just took those things when she wasn't looking, just to see if she could tell by the mystic art where to look for them. I was working in the interests of science, Your Honor."

"For six months you will work in the interests of Justice."—Texas Siftings.

An Awful Predicament.

A well-dressed young lady was walking along the south side of King street on Saturday afternoon, near Leader lane, when she stepped into a grating with several broken bars. One of her legs was held fast above the knee in the hole for some time. A crowd of several hundred people gathered around her and many offers of help were indignantly refused by the young lady. Finally a gentleman procured a crowbar and by breaking some of the bars released the imprisoned limb.—Toronto Globe.

The state of California is spending $40,000 for a traveler's inn in the Yosemite.

A NOVEL TRAVELING EXHIBIT.

The John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., always on the alert for something good, have struck a novel idea to introduce, exhibit and advertise their famous northern grown seeds. This is done by means of an advertising car, an illustration thereof appears herewith. This car is in charge of three experts who are thoroughly familiar and versed with seed growing. The car inside and out is a marvel of beauty and elegance and is fit out regardless of cost and is being run and exhibited in Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, and other states. Upon entering it, one is transported at once into a very fairyland where flowers and vines and forage and fruits and vegetables luxuriate and abound in great abundance. Of course the great specialties which have made the John A. Salzer Seed Co. leaders among seedmen, such as fine vegetables and vegetable seeds, are exhibited to perfection, and then there is an endless array of farm seeds, corns, wheats, oats, rye, barley, and vetch, lupine, lathyrus, sacaline, amber cane, kaffir corn, Jerusalem corn and hundreds of other varieties of seeds and crops on exhibition. Particular notice is due to their marvelous collection of heavy cropping potatoes, their $1,000 oat, just imported from Russia, and Silver King barley, cropping in 500 different places in America in 1895, over 100 bushels per acre.

THE SALZER SEED EXHIBIT CAR.

The car is visited daily by hundreds, yea we may say thousands of people, and nothing so catches the eye and rivets the attention of the farmer than the great beds of different varieties of grasses, clovers and fodder plants that are exhibited in one end of the car, or as one great dairyman of Elgin, Ill., said upon seeing this magnificent display of grasses, "I have seen the World's Fair and Barnum's Circus, but this exhibit beats them all!"

It is only possible in a newspaper article to give but a faint idea of the beauty and attractiveness of this car. It must be seen to be appreciated but it only strengthens the idea amongst farmers and others that a firm that can exhibit such excellent products, grown from their own seeds, on their own farms, is the firm to tie to when you want choice northern grown seeds. Seeds that never disappoint! They issue a large catalogue of farm and vegetable seeds which is mailed to any address upon receipt of 5 cents, for postage. W. N.

The Christian Way.

Prince Khilkor, a rich Russian nobleman, has, it is stated, divided his immense state among his tenants, giving each a little farm. He reserved a little farm for himself, and this he cultivates with his own hands. All his leisure time he spends in teaching the peasants.

A woman weighing 589 pounds died at New Middleton, Ind., recently. She was said to be the largest woman in the state.

An Unusual Ground.

An unusual ground for divorce is announced by a wife in San Jose, Cal. She says that her husband was so mean, and heartless, and exasperating, that, instead of eating her pies, he threw them out of the window.

The yeast cake and the negroes' favorite weapon are both raisers.

W. N. U.—D. M.—1225 No
When answering advertisements kindly mention this paper.

It matters little of how long standing the pain has been; chronic cases yield readily to
ST. JACOBS OIL
and RHEUMATISM of many years' standing has been cured by it.

Great Prize Contest.

1st Prize, KNABE PIANO, style "P"	$800
2d Prize, Cash,	100
3d Prize, Cash,	50
10 Cash Prizes, each $20,	200
15 Cash Prizes, each $10,	150
28 Prizes,	$1300

The first prize will be given to the person who constructs the shortest sentence, in English, containing all the letters in the alphabet. The other prizes will go in regular order to those competitors whose sentences stand next in point of brevity.

CONDITIONS.

The length of a sentence is to be measured by the number of letters it contains, and each contestant must indicate by figures at the close of his sentence just how long it is. The sentence must have some meaning. Geographical names and names of persons cannot be used. The contest closes February 15th, 1896, and the results will be published one week later. In case two or more prize-winning sentences are equally short the one first received will be given preference. Every competitor whose sentence is less than 116 letters in length will receive Wilkie Collins' works in paper cover, including twelve complete novels, whether he wins a prize or not. No contestant can enter more than one sentence nor combine with other competitors. Residents of Omaha are not permitted to take any part, directly or indirectly, in this contest.

This remarkably liberal offer is made by the WEEKLY WORLD-HERALD, of which the distinguished ex-congressman,

WILLIAM J. BRYAN, is Editor,

and it is required that each competing sentence be enclosed with one dollar for a year's subscription. The WEEKLY WORLD-HERALD is issued in semi-weekly sections, and hence is nearly as good as a daily. It is the western champion of free silver coinage and the leading family newspaper of Nebraska. Address,

Weekly World-Herald, Omaha, Neb.

MARION A. FELL, NOTARY PUBLIC. M. R. CHAMBERS, ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans at 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farmers' Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on us, we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co,

Garner, Iowa.

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME, Belmond, Iowa.

ALEX. KIRKWOOD,

....PROPRIETOR OF....

KIRKWOOD :-: HOUSE,

FIRST CLASS ACCOMMADATION. – RATES $1.00 per Day.

Livery and Feed Stable in Connection

Rigs Furnished on Short Notice.

KLEMME, -:- -:- -:- IOWA.

IOWA - FARMS.

COME TO THE LAND OF THE GOLDEN EAR.

Partial List of Improved and Unimproved Lands in Iowa.

No. 1. A good Elevator for sale, 10,000 bu capacity with office, scales, coal sheds, corn cribs, horses and tools. Everything in good running condition. Located on the Iowa Central R. R., in Butler County, Iowa.

No. 2. A small fruit farm of 8 acres one mile north of Dows. House, stable, granary, good well of water. Price $800. You don't have to be a millionaire to buy this farm and own an Iowa home.

No. 3 680 acres of improved lands in Hancock County, Iowa. Price $30 per acre. This farm is a No. 1 stock farm, has a fine grove, also a fine flowing well. It is hard to estimate the value of such a well on a large stock farm like No. 3 of this list has.

No. 4. Good farm house, barn, all fenced, 200 apple trees, small fruits of all kinds, 12 acres of land. Located in the village of Amsterdam, Hancock County, Iowa. Price $1,300. This farm will sell because it is down to the right price.

No. 5. Will sell house, barn, 5 lots, just across R. C. R. & N. R. R. track opposite depot Goodell, Ia. Price $2,200.

No. 6. 45 acres of timber lands 1½ miles southeast of Goodell, Iowa. Price $30 per acre. Here is a chance for you, the timber properly worked up into posts for fencing and wood for house use will pay for the land which can be own in grasses and make an excelent pasture for stock, and you have the Iowa river for water.

No. 7. 200 acres of No. 1 farming land 3½ miles from R. R. town. 160 in good state of cultivation. Write for price and terms.

No. 8. 840 acres of land. Must be sold. 3 sets of good improvements. Price $25,986.00. Will sell seperate pieces, dividing into 280, 240, 320 acre tracts.

No. 9. 82 acres 4 miles from Clear Lake. Good Improvements. Price $35. per acre. ¼ cash, balance on time.

No. 10. 160 acres 5½ miles west of Goodell, Iowa, ¼ mile to school. New house just built, cost $1,850. This is a fine home for you, fair barns, good well and wind pump, a beautiful grove and orchard, the land is No. 1 and will sell cheap. Price $35 per acre, $3,000 cash, balance 5 yrs time at 7 per ct.

No. 11. 480 acres seven miles from R. R. town. 400 acres in cultivation, good improvements, a fine spring for stock on the southwest corner, a fine flowing well in middle of northwest quarter, a never failing well on northeast quarter, water pumped by wind mill. This farm can be purchased for the sum of $17,600.

No. 12. House, lot and Drug store, located in a live town of 400 inhabitants. The only drug store in town. Will sell for cash or trade for 160 acres of Iowa land. Has a good paying trade.

Notice to Customers.

The above list of property is for sale; title perfect; don't want your money for nothing; will only ask you to come and see for yourself. I have the best farms on my list in Hancock county for sale. For further particulars, write me at

J. R. CLINE,

GOODELL, IOWA.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, Jan. 3, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum In Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1895.

JOHN R. CLINE, - - - PROPRIETOR.
GEORGE D. HALL, - - - - EDITOR.

Additional Locals.

Write it 1896.

How many new leaves shall we turn over and spoil?

No woman can do as much as she says.

Matrimony is pie to some and "pizen" to others.

"Amen" is the only honest word in some men's prayers.

John Baumgartner was at Garner Sunday and Monday.

Go to Gruetzmacher Bros., to buy your Bobs and Cutters.

R. M. Cameron, of Belmond, was doing business in town Friday.

T. H. Wesenberg went to Popejoy Tuesday, returning Wednesday.

Wm. Terhufen and wife of Meservey are visiting in the city this week.

Lou Bros., have a nice line of Horse Blankets and Robes. Call and see them.

Oliver McGee, of Green shipped three cars of cattle from here Wednesday.

L. C. Bastian returned Saturday from Mason City where he had spent Christmas.

Dave Pierce and Victor Barry of Belmond was in town Sunday on their way to Garner.

Lew Lewis and family were visiting in the country New Year's at the home of Will Fuller.

Will Peitzke is hauling his corn to his brother Herman's and cribbing it for a higher price.

A woman with a broken heart receives forty times as much sympathy as a man does in the same fix.

Miss Cora Merrick returned Monday from Everly, Ia., where she had spent Christmas with relatives.

Wm. Dixon went to Armstrong Tuesday to spend New Year's with his danghter, Mrs. Stockwell.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

It is perfectly safe for the most cowardly man to offer the government his services in case of a war with England.

An Oyster supper was given New Year's evening at Will Fuller's. The proceeds went toward paying Rev. Anderson's salary.

Frank Oelkers and wife, of Clayton county, who have been visiting with the Lau Bros.. during holidays, returned home Monday.

The only really "quiet" marriage is that of two deaf mutes, but that will not prevent "quiet" being used to describe other marriages.

A California man comes to the front with a family bicycle for nine. Oh! If the poor country editor only afforded one—a bicycle we mean.

A judge of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia has decided that children are chattels and may be willed away from their mother by their father.

An Illinois farmer has been making syrup from corn cobs. The next thing we know some enterprising citizen will be making illuminating gas out of post holes.

Hans Nissen and the Misses Stella and Ida Day, Bash Nissen and Miss Grace Ouelker, Ed Dow and wife and A. H. Wesenberg and wife, attended the dedication of the new M. E. church at Goodell Sunday.

Don't buy those little, cheap bulk Oysters sold at other places, when you can get the nice, large, fat, select ones, just fresh at Kluckhohn's Restaurant for the same money you have to pay for the little Jim Crow ones.

An Iowa man, who married a widow, has invented a device to cure her of eternally praising her former husband. Whenever she begins to tell of his noble qualities, No 2 merely says "Poor dead man. How I wish he hadn't died," and the lady immediately thinks of something else to talk about.

A man named Simmons is said to have declined to become the private secretary of a man named Green for a peculiar reason. The salary was tempting and the work would have been light and agreeable, but then, as he said, he couldnlt bear the thought of signing letters: "Green, per Simmons."

Not a few who read what Mr. Robert Rowls, of Hollands, Va., has to say below, will remember their own experience under like circumstances: "Last winter I had la grippe which left me in a low state of health. I tried numerous remedies, none of which did me any good, until I was induced to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The first bottle of it so far relieved me that I was enabled to attend to my work, and the second bottle effected a cure." For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by J. L. HARR.

17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade. 17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

CORN WANTED

AT

WESENBERG BROS'

17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade. 17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

FRANK GRUETZMACHER

DEALER IN

HARNESS, SADDLES, COLLARS, LEATHER, STRAPWORK, BLANKETS, ROBES, WHIPS, BOOTS, SHOES, GLOVES, MITTENS, REPAIRS, ETC.

Special Bargains In Blankets And Robes.

The way to save money is to buy only what you need and then buy the best and as cheap as you can get it. I am Headquarters for all kinds of BOOTS and SHOES, every pair warranted. Call and see for yourself that I can fit you and save you money. My goods are just us I recommend them.

YOURS RESPECTFULLY.
FRANK GRUETZMACHER.

BELL, BELL, BELL.

The above means THE BELL CLOTHING HOUSE at

GARNER, IOWA.

——We have a new and complete stock of——

Clothing and Gents' Furnishings.

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Bicycles and Sporting Goods.

It will pay the people of Klemme and vicinity to call.

Yours for business,

F. B. CASSILL & CO

Subscribe for the KLEMME TIMES.

$1 per. Year

Only Four Days to California.

In response to popular demand, the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad enters upon its 16th year of Philips Personally Conducted Excursions to California. Elegant upholsterad Tourist Cars run through to all California points without charge, leaving St. Paul at 7 p. m., Minneaoplis 7:35 p. m. Oct. 3rd and every Thursday thereafter, and reaching California in less than four days. In this age time is an important factor in the selection of a route. The Albert Lea Route is the quickest and most popular. The price of double sleeping car berths is only $6.00 through. A gentlemanly conductor accompanies the car, and a colored porter accompanying the car performs the usual duties Passengers may take meals in dining cars, or prepare them on cooking ranges provided for the purpose. Secure reservations early, addressing A. B. CUTTS, G. T. & P. A., M. & St. L. Ry., Minneapolis, Minn.

THE

Minneapolis & St Louis R. R. Co

A NEW TRAIN TO OMAHA AND DES MOIOES

It is a HUMMER! Look out For IT!

THROUGH CARS.
PULLMANS
& COACHES
GREAT!

It will run through on time, reaching Des. Moines, Omaha, Denver, California and all points in the West. The previous complete service will not be disturbed by the addition of this train. Ask your nearest M. & St. L. R. R. ticket agent for rates and particulars. A. B. CUTTS, Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agt.

Improved farms in Fayette County, Tennessee. Houses, barns, good wells Peach, Apple, Pear and Apricot orchards. All kinds of grain grown on this land. Plenty of fuel cheap. No waste lands, price $10 to $20, from 1 to 7 miles form R. R. towns. J. R. CLINE.

MANY JEKYLLS AND HYDES.

Strange Double Lives Led by Well Known People.

There are numbers of people who lead double lives. While in some cases the motives which influence such persons are pretty evident in many others one seeks a reason in vain.

A lady well known in fashionable society, particularly in select ballroom circles, and whose wealth and personal attractions are matter of common comment, is in the habit of donning the role of a ballet dancer at a celebrated west end theater, where, under an assumed name, she finds ready employment. Her dual life is carefully kept a secret save from one or two of her most intimate friends, and neither her aristocratic connections on the one hand nor her associates on the stage on the other have any conception that Lady A— of polite society and Cissy M— of the —— theater are one and the same person. What the lady's motives can be for indulging in this dual existence it is not easy to see, but it is a fact that any scheme for the social improvement of theatrical employees finds in her a ready and munificent patron.

Another lady, also well known in society, leads a curious double life. During the London season she occupies a legitimate place at the head of numerous social functions, but directly the curtain is drawn over the high class carnival she shuts her big house in Mayfair and retires to the country, where, under another name, she superintends and carries on a prosperous business in the cheese farming line. When the season begins again, the management of the concern is placed in competent hands and the lady resumes her station in society. Money making is evidently not the influencing motive for this twofold existence, for the lady's private wealth is large, and the profits of the concern mentioned are said to be greatly discounted in acts of charity.

A dual life seems to possess great attractions for people in high stations. A certain peer, bearer of a name that has in its day done doughty service in political life, spends half his time in his wonted sphere as a member of the aristocracy and the other moiety he whiles away by donning the blouse of a mechanic in an engineering workshop.

In similar manner another member of the hereditary house is in the habit of often dropping his identity as one of the "upper ten" and seeks and finds employment as engine driver on one of our prominent lines of railways. Yet another live lord is credited with leading the dual existence of a peer of the realm and driver of a hansom cab.

The motives that influence such cases as these are different from the reasons actuating a London clergyman whose income from clerical duty is so small that he finds it necessary to conceal his identity during four days of the week in order that he may supplement his scanty stipend by doing the work of a wine merchant's clerk.

By far the larger proportion of dual lives are adopted for nefarious purposes. Charles Peace, the notorious burglar and murderer of Mr. Dyson, is an example of a criminal who for a long time successfully adopted a double role in life. At Lambeth, Greenwich and Peckham, where he successively resided in first class style, Peace led the life of a gentleman of independent means, enjoying the respect of his neighbors, none of whom had the remotest idea of associating him with the daring burglaries perpetrated in their midst during his residence among them, and of which he was in reality the author. It was the intimacy which his assumed position gained for him in getting admittance to the houses of the gentry around that enabled him to commit some of his most notorious robberies.—London Tit-Bits.

Pencil Boxes.

The pencil boxes now so commonly carried by school children are made in about 125 different styles. They retail at from 5 to 25 cents each. Formerly all the pencil boxes sold in this country were imported from Germany, but for the last few years we have been making pencil boxes in America. About one third of the boxes sold here are of home manufacture and of superior quality. The production is steadily increasing. All the locks used are imported from Germany. There is a box made here with a catch instead of a lock, an American idea, which is made here entire. The cheaper German boxes are made by hand at the homes of the makers. The better ones are made in factories by machinery. All the American boxes are made by machinery in factories located in lumber growing regions in proximity to the wood supplies. —New York Sun.

Met the Enemy and Won.

"That new trunk of yours came through all right. It must be very strong."

"Yes. The baggage man is wearing his arm in a sling."—Detroit Free Press.

Many merchants are well aware that their customers are their best friends and take pleasure in supplying them with the best goods obtainable. As an instance we mention Perry & Cameron, prominent druggists of Flushing Michigan. They say: "We have no hesitation in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to our customers, as it is the best cough medicine we have ever sold, and always gives satisfaction." For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by J. L. HARR.

FARMS FOR RENT! FARMS FOR SALE!

Three Fine Farms For Rent, Five Chice Improved Farms For Sale.

TERMS ARE REASONA

M. S. Gilma

KLEMME, - - - -

H. E. PEITZ

IS THE

BLACKSM

THAT

Will do your work w

He also does wood wor

HIS

Prices are right,

AND

Experience great.

KLEMME, IOWA.

B. C. R. & N. TIME TABLE.

GOING SOUTH.

No. 84, Stock - - 6.00 a.
No. 80, Way freight - 1.30 p.
No. 82, Pass. - - 2.28

GOING NORTH.

No. 83, Way freight - 10.60
No. 85, Freight - 3.58
No. 81, Pass. - - 5.

F. B. S

JOHN BAUMGA

PROPRIETO

CITY BARB

AN EASY SH

A SAT

SHOP IN KIRKWO

KLEMM

H. & S

Drayin

done o

G

STATE

KLFM

Does a regu

ness. Deals i

Foreign

EXCH

Loans money o

time. Attends and pays interest

posits

C. W. KN

GEO. S. G

STONE AND BR

Plastering a Sp

Do all kinds of w

my line. I

Specia

Cist

Klem

PA

Caveats, Trade Marks, Copyrights, etc. obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES. OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE THE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can obtain patents in less time than those remote from Washington. Send model, drawing or photo., with descriptions. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured. A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.

OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, JANUARY 10, 1896. NUMBER 20

J. L. HARR.

DRUGS AND MEDICINES.

And Wall Paper. Paints and Oils.

Will Be Sold Cheap For Cash.

REDUCED PRICES!

On Fur Coats, Fur Robes, Horse Blankets.

GREAT REDUCTION!

On Gent's and Ladies' Underwear, Hats, Caps, Overshoes, Felt Boots, Clothing and Overcoats. Large stock, bound to suit the person and his purse.

YOU CAN'T MISS IT!

To Examine Our Stock. 5 Per Cent Discount for Cash.

...S., Klemme, Ia.

...ER CENT ...OUNT!

... will give 10 per cent ...unt for CASH until ..., 1896 from our al... low prices on the ...wing Goods:

... — — — — Mittens,
... — — — — Caps,
... — — — Overalls,
...hirts, — Underwear,
And all Wollen Goods.

...argains are at SHAFER & DOW'S.

...EO KLUCKHOHN, The Restaurant Man!

Public with A Square Meal, Fine Bread Buns, Oysters, Cigars, Tobaccos, etc.

CALL AND SEE HIM.

... — — — — — — — — — — Iowa.

...le Grove ...LE AND MA... ...ITE WORKS

...RIAL THE BEST AND WORKMANSHIP SECOND TO NONE.

GEO. W. SHAFFER, AGENT,

Correspondence Solicited.

MESERVEY, — — — — — — — — — — IOWA.

Local Mention.

Fur Coats very cheap at Lau Bros.

Noah Shaw loaded five cars of oats Tuesday.

Try some cord wood—J. H. Queal Lumber Co.

Notice E. P. Schaefer's Special Sale ad in this issue.

R. W. Schug was doing business at Garner Tuesday.

Mrs. Geo. Kluckhohn was sick the first of the week.

W. F. Wesenberg went to Belmond Tuesday on business.

John Schuler of Garner was a Klemme visitor Monday.

Jack Zeihlie and wife of Goodell were in town Monday.

Go to Gruetzmacher Bros., to buy your Bobs and Cutters.

Mart Lau was numbered with the sick fore part of the week.

Miss Emma Lange, of Garner, was a visitor in town Saturday.

Judge Smith now has charge of W. R. Bloom's hog department.

Of the 356 members of the present congress, 233 are lawyers.

E. C. Waller & A. Sorenson of Clear Lake are here buying stock.

Rev. Haefner is now at home in the new German M. E. Parsonage.

Bed Blankets all the way from 95c to $4.00 per pair at Lau Bros.

L. G. Lindon, of Clear Lake, shipped nine cars of sheep Tuesday.

Chris Lau moved this week into the house vacated by Rev. Haefner.

Have you kept the good resolutions you made at the first of the year?

Lou Bros., have a nice line of Horse Blankets and Robes. Call and see them.

Hans Nissen and Miss Stella Day attended meeting at Garner Monday evening.

All Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots and Shoes at Bottom Prices at SHAFER & DOW'S.

Mittens, Gloves, etc., are sold cheaper than any other place in town at Lou Bros'

Gust Hein raffled off his watch Tuesday, Geo. Dickinson holding the lucky number.

There are over 600 churches in Chicago, but there are 7 saloons for every church.

Jake Coffman raffled off his wheel Saturday. M. L. Weichselbaum held the lucky number.

Wm. Wesenberg, of Goodell, was in the city Tuesday, calling on his uncle and cousins.

Why sleep cold of a night when you can buy a good Bed Blanket for 75 cts at SHAFER & DOW'S.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

Miss Lizzie Renziehausen closed her Millinery shop Monday and went to Britt for a two weeks' visit.

Geo. Dickinson was working in the Meat Market Tuesday while Henry Schrader was in the country.

If you love your enemies and do good to them that despitefully use you, you are on the right track.

Nels Palmer, Dan Webner and Lew Sampson took the contract to fill the ice house at the Creamery for $60.

Mrs. O. S. Dow and two children of Garner were here the latter part of last week wisiting with her son Ed.

Miss Ella Arnold returned Wednesday from Giard, Clayton Co., where she has been visiting past few weeks.

W. R. Bloom bought 84 hogs of August Lau on Monday and Tuesday that averaged 400 pounds. Price paid $3.25.

There are 1191 religious papers published in the United States. Almost 180 of these belong to the M. E. church.

Don't go and pay 25 cents for a pt. of Oysters when you can buy just as big, fat, juicy ones for 20 cents at the Meat Market.

A Cincinnati policeman who kissed a woman against her will has been ordered to pay her $10 a month for ten months. If he is fined on the installment plan he certainly is entitled to his fun in the same way, one-tenth of a kiss a month.

Not a few who read what Mr. Robert Rowls, of Hollands Va., has to say below, will remember their own experience under like circumstances: "Last winter I had la grippe which left me in a low state of health. I tried numerous remedies, none of which did me any good, until I was induced to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The first bottle of it so far relieved me that I was enabled to attend to my work, and the second bottle effected a cure." For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by J. L. Harr.

C. Schaefer while in town Monday lost his watch—finder will please leave at this office or E. P. Schaefer's store and receive reward.

Just received a short time ago at Frank Gruetzmacher's—the best Ladies' Shoes for the money ($2.50) ever brought to the town.

Mrs. Redke, who has been visiting with her father, Mr. Fred Gerwein for the past few weeks, returned to her home in Tennessee Monday.

Robert Tytus' father-in-law, who has been visiting him during holidays, returned to his home at Muscatine, the latter part of last week.

Will Ford has not been clerking at the Hotel De Kirkwood this week, but instead, has been building another large corn crib for W. R. Bloom.

John Baumgartner was hunting again Tuesday. He didn't see any owls to slip up on, but he scared a jack rabbit so bad it is supposed to be running yet.

The estate left by Jay Gould has been finally appraised at $75,915,423.08 During his life Jay Gould was usually reputed to be worth in excess of $200,000,000. This shows how great fortunes are exagerated.

Chicago is but a careless jade. Out of 10,967.151 "nixies" of letters imperfectly addressed, which were deposited in the delivery boxes of this country during the past year, 2,250,510 were reported from Chicago.

Don't buy those little, cheap bulk Oysters sold at other places, when you can get the nice, large, fat, select ones, just fresh at Kluckhohn's Restaurant for the same money you have to pay for the little Jim Crow ones.

The machine for milking cows is coming into general use. The milking is worked by suction and a hand pump is all the power necessary to work it on a small number of cows. 24 cows can be milked in fifteen min.

For a pain in the chest a piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of the pain, and another on the back between the shoulders, will afford prompt relief. This is especially valuable in cases where the pain is caused by a cold and there is a tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by J. L. Harr.

Many merchants are well aware that their customers are their best friends and take pleasure in supplying them with the best goods obtainable. As an instance we mention Perry & Cameron, prominent druggists of Flushing Michigan. They say: "We have no hesitation in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to our customers, as it is the best cough medicine we have ever sold, and always gives satisfaction." For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by J. L. Harr.

An editor out west, having been asked if he had ever seen a bald headed woman, replied: "No, we never did. Nor did we ever see a woman waltzing around town in her shirt sleeves with a cigar between her teeth and going into every saloon she saw. We have never seen a woman go fishing with a bottle in her pocket, sit on the damp ground all day and go home drunk at night. Nor have we seen a woman yank off her coat and swear she could lick any man in town. God bless her, she ain't built that way.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR.
[Dissolved Flowers of Sulphur.]

Natures greatest germicide, its action being rapid and effective. A few drops, or at most a few ounces, will permanently cure the most stubborn cases of Blood and Skin disorder. Cures Diphtheria in a few hours; Canker Sore Mouth in ten minutes; Catarrh, short course of treatment; Granulated Eyelids, four to six days; Sore Throat, one gargling; Rheumatism, short course of treatment; Erysipelas, two or three applications, and so on through the long list of Blood and Skin diseases—Eczema, Acne, Itch, Ringworm, Pimples, Salt Rheum, Herpes, Hives, Tetter, Dandruff, Falling Hair, and all scalp diseases, Open Sores, Tumors, Ulcerated Conditions, Piles and Itching Piles. This is not a "cure-all" but a Guaranteed remedy for above diseases, which are caused by Parasite and impure condition of the blood. Full directions with each bottle.

Dr. H. F. Thompson, of Goodell, Iowa, says: "I applied Compound Liquid Sulphur in several cases of Diphtheria which were becoming formidable. One application entirely removed the membrane, and my patients were discharged on the following day. I consider Compound Liquid Sulphur superior to any other remedy for the successful treatment of diphtheria."

Mrs. S. G. Bunce, Belmond, Iowa, says: "I had suffered with Rheumatism in my right arm for three years and during that time tried almost every known remedy, but got no relief. Three applications of Compound Liquid Sulphur has entirely cured me.

Compound Liquid Sulphur is for sale by J. L. Harr.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market; costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. Harr. Read our free booklet on Microbic Diseases.

According to the best records January and February of 1816 were warm and spring-like. March was cold and stormy. Vegetation had gotten well along in April when real winter set in. Sleet and snow fell on seventeen different days in May. In June there was either frost or snow every night but three. The snow was 5 inches deep for in succession in the interior of New York and from 10 inches to 3 feet in Vermont and Maine July was cold and frosty, ice formed as thick as window panes in every one of the New England states. August was still worse; ice formed nearly an inch in thickness and killed nearly every living thing in the United States and Europe. In the spring of 1817 corn that had been kept over from the crop of 1815 sold for from $5 to $10 a bushel, to buyers purchasing for seed. On May 10, 1835, snow fell to the depth of a foot in Jamestown, Va., and was piled up in huge drifts in most of the Northern states. There was snow in many parts of Iowa and Illinois on May 11, 1878, and again as late as May 23, 1882.

The Caledonia (N. Y.) Advertiser tells a true story of two farmers in that town. They are plowing in adjoining fields, and both come up to the division line at the same time and rested their teams. One was a fine span of horses, sleek and in good condition, and not in special need of rest. The other team was miserably poor, and its owner avowed that he could not do half a day's work with it. He offered $50 in money to the farmer with the good team to exchange. To his surprise the offer was accepted. A year later the farmer who secured the good team had used it so that it was not fit to work. The other farmer by good feeding had brought the poor team into fine condition. Another exchange was made, and the farmer with the poorest team again paid $50 to his neighbor in the trade. This story is vouched for. It clearly shows that some men are wholly unfit to own a horse. But a team capable of doing a full day's work is any time worth more than $50 more than one which is not. The poorer farmer undoubtedly secured the better bargain, but was unable to make the most of it.

Ready for Admittance.

Oklahoma, which was but a name until the "boomers" rushed across the Kansas line on that memorable day in April, 1889, and which was not formally organized as a territory until May, 1890, is now all ready to knock at the door of Congress for admission as a state. The governor asserts that the present population is fully two hundred and seventy-five thousand. The quality of the population—an important consideration—is excellent.

It is suggested with much force that when the new state is admitted it should include, territorially, the whole of the old Indian Territory. That which is left of the Indian Territory is hardly large enough to make a state by itself.

NOWHERE

NO WHERE

A hurried glance at the above letters and one cannot tell which of two words is indicated.

There is no such uncertainty in a hurried glance or careful examination of our Quadruple Silverware which we guarantee to last ten years.

And you will find that

Can such an assortment of Shelf and Heavy Hardware, Groceries, Paints, Oils, Lime, Stucco, Brick, Pumps, Wagons, Buggies, Etc., be found as are

NOW HERE.

WE ALSO SELL THE PORTABLE CORN CRIB WHICH HOLDS 400 BU., IS 8 FT. HIGH AND 12 FT. IN DIAMETER.

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mouldings.

And everything used to build with.

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in the week.

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'GR

KLEMME, IOWA.

J. H. QUEAL & CO.

Always Lead In The Best Of Grades At The Lowest Prices ON

LUMBER, LATH, Posts, Sash, DOORS SHINGLES ETC.

Call and see us for anything in our line and be convinced of the above facts.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.

SALE

A solid week of SPECIAL CLEARING SALES, Beginning

MONDAY, JANUARY 13.

245 Garments of Children's Underwear at 25 per cent discount.

A large assortment of Men's, Boys' and Children's caps at 25 per cent discount.

95 Garments of Ladies' Underwear.
75 Garments of Men's Underwear.
18 doz. of Wool Hosiery.
One lot of Men's flannel and Jersey over shirts
One lot of Ladies' double beaver shawls.
One lot of Ladies' wool shirts.
One lot Mittens and Gloves.
One lot wool blankets. On all the above 20 per cent discount.

Dress Goods

LININGS GIVEN FREE wtth each dress-pattern bought during the week of sale. At ane above 45c per yard.

After this week we will continue to sell goods at our regular prices which are

NOT AT COST NOR LESS THAN COST But just as CLOSE TO COST as is possible for any reliable house to sell.

E. P. Schaefer.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, • • • IOWA

IOWA NEWS IN BRIEF

GEORGE HERBER, of Amana, suicided with a razor in a hotel at Williamsburg. The cause is not known.

C. H. WALLER, dealer in general merchandise at Maxwell, assigned. The liabilities are $4,500.

M. C. EVANS, a dealer in confectionery at Maxwell, made an assignment for the benefit of creditors. His liabilities are small, aggregating $1,500.

FORSYTHE & Co., dealers in general merchandise at Lynnville, went to the wall, giving a chattel mortgage for $2,000. Their liabilities will aggregate $9,000.

GEORGE MILNE, a laborer, was run over by the cars in the Burlington yards at Creston and instantly killed. He leaves a large family in destitute circumstances.

WHILE on his way to take the train for Des Moines, Prof. W. M. Brooks, president of the Tabor college, was thrown from a carriage and seriously but not fatally injured.

AN Ottumwa man named Weir took twenty-five grains of morphine and still lives. It was believed that he had tried to commit suicide, but he claims he thought it was a seidlitz powder.

THE flouring mill at Moulton owned by Payne & Martin was badly damaged by fire. The damage is estimated at $2,000. The building and machinery were insured; no insurance on stock.

THE old state battle flags have been repaired and the work of replacing them in the glass cases has begun. They are being put up in order, and when arranged and sealed up will form one of the greatest attractions about the state house. They are in such condition now that they will not have to be disturbed for many years.

The farm house of Geo. Barton, living north of Iowa City, burned, together with the contents and $500 Barton had received at Hampton to pay farm rent. The origin of the fire is unknown. The house of John Holbrook, another farmer in that vicinity, was entered during the absence of the family and $160 stolen. There are some suspicions that Barton's house was robbed and set on fire to cover the theft.

THE well known firm of the Lathrop-Rhoads Company, of Des Moines, made an assignment last week in favor of the Polk County Savings and the Des Moines National banks, the mortgages that were given being held by Mr. Wellslager in trust for them. Judge Stevenson appointed R. T. Wellslager receiver and he immediately took possession. The store of the big concern is open, as usual, and will continue to do business as before.

THE land office officials at Des Moines have received notice that the department has made arrangements so that persons holding railroad title claims on property in the forfeited Sioux City & St. Paul grant may enter their lands without coming to Des Moines. It is understood the saving to the settlers on this account will approximate $14,000. Just what the land is will not be known until the official instructions are received from Washington.

THE preliminary hearing of the Sizamore boys at Onawa was held last week. The two brothers, Russell and George, and J. W. Corwick were held to the grand jury for assault and robbery of Goss Goodman on the night of December 18, 1895. The state presented a good chain of circumstantial evidence, and the feeling is that they will be convicted at the January term of court. Their bond was fixed at $1,000 each, which they were unable to give.

GOVERNOR JACKSON has appointed Hon. Ed. Dawson, of Waverly, as railroad commisioner to take the place of Hon. John W. Luke, deceased. Mr. Dawson has been prominent in local politics. For several years he was chairman of the republican county central committee and proved himself a good organizer and hard worker. In 1888 he was a delegate from the Third congressional district to the national convention which nominated Benjamin Harrison for president.

WILLIE, the 9-year-old son of George Schindhelm, died at Maquoketa after lying in a comatose condition for about thirty-six hours. The evening previous the boy retired feeling as well as common, but as he did not get up to breakfast in the morning, the family called and later tried to arouse him, but without avail, and he died shortly after midnight. The supposition is that the boy accidentally swallowed some pills which were left in a dish in the cupboard and which contained morphine or strychnine.

At Rathburn toughs entered a justice court and released a prisoner on trial for drunkenness.

AT Dubuque recently Judge Shiras sentenced Frank McGivern, convicted of abstracting a registered letter from the Dubuque postoffice, to two years at Anamosa. Sentence was suspended on good behavior.

MRS. SCHLEY, who lives near Solon, was badly burned in her efforts to rescue her 13-year-old daughter from being burned to death. The girl's clothing had caught fire from the stove. The mother and daughter will recover.

H. F. M. RADDEN, of Arcadia, has failed. He dealt in general merchandise. He gave real estate and chattel mortgages aggregating $1,000 and several small attachments were filed.

THREE passenger conductors and one freight conductor have just been discharged from the service of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company for alleged "knocking down" of cash fares. All of the men have been in the employ of the company for years and two of them are pretty well fixed financially. More heads are expected to come off soon.

SENATOR-ELECT LOTHROP, of Woodbury county, is preparing a bill to provide for the rearrangement of the present judicial districts and also to provide for an appellate court.

L. M. BERG, an Illinois Central brakeman, fell between cars of his train when near Carbon and was instantly killed. His home was at Waterloo, where he leaves a wife and four children.

PETER HOFFMAN, a farmer, returning to his home in Brush Creek, near Dubuque, was struck by a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul train while crossing the track. He was fatally hurt and his team was killed.

AN unknown man supposed to be from Iowa, was put off a train near Disco, Ill., a few nights ago. Later his body was found near LaHarpe with a bullet through his brain and a revolver in his right hand. There is no clue to his identity.

WHILE playing near a cave on the bank of the Floyd river, a short distance from Sioux City, Fred Whitten, aged 13, was shot dead by Harry Bloomington, a lad of 17. Although no one was near enough to overhear the controversy which led up to the tragedy, it is said that Whitten's refusal to furnish his companion with a chew of tobacco provoked the latter so much that he raised a shotgun which he carried and shot the younger lad through the heart. Bloomington then crossed the river to Nebraska and had traveled several miles before he was captured. He professes to have fired the gun by accident, after having snapped it twice without an explosion.

EVERY reader of this paper, who is a western farmer, living on his own farm, and who is not a subscriber to the IOWA HOMESTEAD, can have a few sample copies of that practical farm journal sent to his address on trial, free, by simply sending on a postal card his name and postoffice address to the IOWA HOMESTEAD, Des Moines, Iowa. The HOMESTEAD is a practical farm journal. Its editorial contributors live and work on their own farms. They write of the work done on their farms with their own hands. They have years of experience, and are therefore able to advise and suggest from the standpoint of practical personal knowledge of matters pertaining to western agriculture rather than from the standpoint of the sidewalk farmer and ward politician. Send your name and postoffice address to the HOMESTEAD, Des Moines, Iowa, and receive a number of free sample copies.

THE timely changing of the wind saved the Creston business district from destruction on the morning of the 3d. About 9 o'clock fire started in Horton, Daniels & Co.'s furniture store by the explosion of a lamp, and in less than an hour the Summit house, a three-story brick, situated near, was enveloped in flames. The fire spread rapidly on either side, and an entire block of business buildings are now in ruins. The extreme estimate of loss is $150,000, and there is less than $50,000 insurance. C. A. Allen, proprietor of the Summit house, is the heaviest losser, he having only $6,000 insurance, and losing $20,000 worth of furniture and fixtures. The fire spread so rapidly hardly anything was saved. The hotel employes escaped with what clothes they had on their backs. In all, thirteen business firms were burned out, and the Summit block, the largest in the city, a brick adjoining, and three frames. The postoffice was situated in the Summit block, and all the mail was lost. About $500 worth of postal cards and stamped envelopes were consumed. It looked for a time as if the entire city was doomed, and aid was asked and received from Red Oak, Villisca and Corning.

THE mysterious cattle disease that has made its appearance in Hardin county for the first time this fall and winter continues its ravages and but few farmers have wholly escaped its effects on their herds. All attempts to analyze the disease or prescribe a remedy for it have proven unavailing as have all attempts to determine the cause of the disease. The claims of some that it was caused by smut found on corn stalks, and others that it was too much corn found by the cattle when turned into the corn stalks have been proven without foundation. The assertion that it was caused by a small red spot found on the corn is not credited, while the claim that it is the saltpeter in the stocks seems to be the most reasonable. It is said that heavily manured ground produces a large amount of saltpeter and that the salt lodges in the stalk of corn and when eaten by the cattle produces the same effect that an overdose of the salt itself would. However, no satisfactory results have been derived from attempts to ascertain the cause of the disease which seems to continue unabated. It is not regarded as contagious and so many are paying stricter attention to the amount of corn and stalks allowed their cattle, hoping in this way to avert serious results.

STANLEY W. FISKE, with several aliases, and who is charged with being an expert forger, was turned over by the sheriff of Des Moines county a few days ago to the officers from West Superior, Wis. He is also wanted on the same charge at Duluth and Racine, Wis., and Waseca, Minn. He was arrested at Burlington while drunk, and letters from his wife, warning him that the officers were on his trail, were found in his pocket when he was searched at the police station, and he was held in consequence until the Wisconsin officers arrived.

Goes the Other Way.

"Begin at the bottom and work up, my boy," said the old gentleman. "That's the way to succeed in life."

"Yes," replied the young man, thoughtfully, "but it doesn't work in the immediate instance."

"Why not?"

"I'm inventing a new style of toboggan."

Always Ready.

He—When you are asked to sing and don't wish to, you always have such a convenient cold. Where do you get them?

She—Oh, they're kept "on draught" all over town.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS

THE legislatures of New York, Massachusetts and Maryland met last week.

IN a fire in the residence of John Hibbard at Columbus, O., six persons were cremated.

AT last reports the Cuban army surrounded Havana and a decisive battle was expected soon.

MGR. SATOLLI was elevated to the cardinalate with imposing ceremonies at Baltimore last Sunday.

IT is said that a man living in La Crosse, Wis., is built wrong side to, his heart being on the right side.

UTAH is now a state, President Cleveland having signed the proclamation to that effect last Saturday.

IT is said President Cleveland and Banker Morgan have fallen out and the president is now talking of a popular loan.

JUDGE MORROW decided in the United States district court at San Francisco that every Chinese born in the United States is a citizen thereof.

GOV. LEVI P. MORTON, of New York, has been formally brought out as a candidate for the presidential nomination before the St. Louis convention.

THE trouble in the dominion cabinet reached a climax on the 4th, when Premier Bowell received a letter signed by six ministers, tendering their resignations.

THE members of the Venezuelan commission, with the exception of Mr. White, met in the office of the secretary of state, received their commissions and elected Justice Brewer president.

A CAVE-IN occurred in the Anna Lee mine at Victor, Col., belonging to the Great Portland company. The latest reports place the number of men who are buried under thousands of tons of rock at ten.

IT is announced that United States Minister Terrell, at Constantinople, has informed the porte that indemnity must be paid for the losses sustained by missionaries and others in the recent massacres.

TWENTY immense locomotives, equipped for burning petroleum, have recently been shipped from the Baldwin locomotive works in Philapelphia to the Rusaian government. More will follow in January.

IN an explosion of fire damp in a colliery at Woldenburg, Prussian Silesia, fifty miners are known to have been killed or injured. Seventeen are missing and twenty-one bodies have already been recovered. Twelve injured have been brought to the surface.

THE New York World in an editorial offers to take $1,000,000 worth of bonds on a 3-per cent basis if President Cleveland refuses the syndicate contract with Morgan & Co. The editorial is addressed directly to the president, and says the people will respond quickly if he shows confidence in them.

LATE advices from the Transvaal state that in the battle before Johannesburg eighty English soldiers were killed, 200 wounded and 500 captured. Jameson and his officers are in jail at Pretoria. England is indignant at the action of Emperor William in congratulating President Krueger, but Germany unanimously endorsed his action.

THE Canadian parliament assembled at Ottawa last week and after hearing the address from the throne adjourned to the 7th. The parliament has been called for the purpose of passing remedial legislation in aid of Catholic parochial schools, Premier Greenway, of Manitoba, having positively declined to accept the demands of the Dominion government.

A TERRIBLE massacre took place at Biridjik, near Aintab, in Asia Minor, on the 3d. The official report of the occurrence states that 900 persons were killed. It is believed at Constantinople that the massacre was committed by the Kurds of the Hamadieh cavalry. The recent massacre at Orfah was a terrible affair. The porte admits that 900 persons were killed there, but other accounts say that 2,000 were slaughtered.

ADVICES from Cape Colony bring news of a failure made by Dr. Jameson, the administrator of the British South Africa company, to subject the Transvaal republic. With a band of soldiers he entered the Transvaal, cutting the wires behind him in order that orders might not overtake him to return. Messengers caught him, however, and gave him messages commanding him to return. He refused and marched on Sohannesburg. Here he was met by the troops of the republic, who repulsed his forces. It is said the British were badly defeated and surrendered. A dispatch which has not yet been verified says that Jameson was tried by drumhead court martial and beheaded. The British government has repudiated his course and Emperor William telegraphed President Krueger, of the republic, congratulating him upon his success in repelling the invaders.

THE New York World says: Mrs. Alva S. Vanderbilt has announced to her friends that she is engaged to be Oliver Belmont. Mrs. Vanderbilt is the divorced wife of William K. Vanderbilt and is the mother of the Duchess of Marlborough (Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt), whose marriage last autumn was the crown and most precious jewel in her mother's social career. Oliver Belmont is the son of the late August Belmont. He is himself a divorced man, his first wife having married again. It is quite certain that the wedding will take place soon.

Growing.

"Her beauty," observed the silk worm, "grows on me."

"Ah, yes," rejoined the ostrich. "I have noticed the same thing."

The reader will doubtless shrewdly guess that they were speaking of one with whom clothes made the woman.

It Keeps the Mother Busy.

Small Boy—I don't wonder that women's heads so often ache.

Little Girl—Why?

Small Boy—Every time they see any of their children they've got to think up some reason for not letting them do what they want to.

COAST DEFENSES.

WASHINGTON, January 5.—The secretary of war has sent to the house the fifth annual report of the board of ordnance and fortifications for the year ending October 31, 1895. The estimate of funds required for the ensuing fiscal year is placed at $245,000. This is to be expended for experiments and expenses of the board. The work of providing a proper armament for our harbors, says the report, is progressing steadily and on a sound basis, but so slowly that at the rate appropriations have been made during the past ten years it would take at least fifty years to place our sea coast in proper condition of defense. It is of national importance and an imperative necessity that the work of fortification should be pressed with vigor. The plans for guns, carriages and emplacements are perfected, and a liberal and constant annual appropriation should be paid until our ports are properly protected. Such an expenditure, says the report, will be a wise insurance against the sacrifice of many of our most important cities, which would reasonably occur in ten days' time of actual war in our present condition. In closing, the board earnestly recommends that $2,000,000 be appropriated for engineer work in the construction of necessary works; also that $2,000,000 be appropriated for mortars, gun carriages, sea coast armament and ammunition.

WOMAN SUFFRAGISTS.

WASHINGTON, January 5.—Elaborate preparations are being made by the women of Washington for the reception and entertainment of the delegates to the annual convention of the National Woman Suffrage association, which will open here on the 23d, and continue for one week. From the applications received for accommodations it is safe to predict that the convention will be one of the largest as well as the most representative gatherings of political equality advocates ever held in the country. Large delegations are expected from thirty-five state. Among those present will be all the leading woman suffragists of the country, including an admirable array of speakers. The venerable Susan B. Anthony will preside, and among other women of national prominence who have signified their intention of attending are Rachel Foster, Lillie Devereaux, Carrie Chapman Catt, Rev. Dr. Anna Shaw, Miss Hay, of Indiana, Mrs. Devoe, of Illinois, and Mrs. Clopter, of Alabama.

FIRE, RUIN AND DEATH.

ST. LOUIS, January 4.—With a detonation that was heard across the river the fireworks stock of Detwiler & Street, a Greenfield, N. J., firm, stored in the rear of 309 North Second street, exploded. Four persons are dead, six missing, two fatally injured and thirty-two seriously hurt. Adjoining buildings were crushed like paper boxes, and in their fall carried scores of inmates down with the ruins. Windows were broken for blocks around, and the air was filled with powder smoke, sparks and flying debris. Two other explosions followed the first in rapid succession, completing the work of death and destruction. In addition a property loss of $100,000 was entailed by fire.

IMMENSE NUGGET FOUND.

RICHMOND, Va., January 4.—Not a little excitement has been aroused in Salisbury, N. C., by the announcement of the finding at El Dorado, Montgomery county, of a large gold nugget weighing thirty-one pounds and seven ounces avoirdupois and worth $9,000 or $10,000. A similar excitement was created last summer, when a number of large nuggets were unearthed, two at Crawford, Stanley county, being ten and a half and eight and a half pounds respectively. This last find is one of the largest known, and will put hundreds to work looking for the pockets and placers that exist in this section, covering an area of several counties.

CLAIMS $200,000 FROM SPAIN.

PONTIAC, Mich., January 4.—Simon Ensign, of this city, who was confined in Moro Castle, at Havana, Cuba, for twenty years, has filed at Washington a claim for $200,000 against the Spanish government. Ensign was an American citizen suspected of sympathy with the rebels, but, guiltless of any crime, he was thrown into prison and kept there twenty years without trial. His two companions died in prison, and it was only by accident that he escaped. He fled from a Spanish man-of-war, to which he was transferred while it was anchored at New Orleans. Ensign is 72 years of age.

TRAIN WRECKERS SENTENCED.

LINCOLN, Neb., January 5.—Judge Holmes sentenced George W. Davis to the penitentiary for life. Davis was convicted recently of wrecking a Rock Island passenger train, near Lincoln, whereby eleven lives were lost. His attorneys made a hard fight for a new trial, alleging irregularities in the trial, among which were unsustained charges of jury bribing. Judge Holmes overruled all their motions, and passed sentence. Davis protests his innocence, and the case may go to the supreme court on appeal.

Ward Pleads Not Guilty.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 6.—A. K. Ward, who stands indicted for forgery of paper aggregating nearly $200,000, pleaded not guilty in the criminal court Friday. Ward was remanded back to jail to await trial, the date of which has not yet been fixed.

Insurance Question Reopened.

London, Jan. 6.—A dispatch to the Standard from Berlin says that Poultney Bigelow has secured a promise from the German government that the whole insurance question will be reopened and impartially considered.

Facing the Worst.

Merchant (on discovering a man in his cellar)—Who are you?

Stranger—The gas man. I have come to see by your meter how much gas you have used during the last month.

Merchant—Good gracious! I was hoping you were only a burglar!

Joke On Wheels.

"Your bicycle is very heavy, Allen."

"Yes; my employer is a very heavy man."

"I don't see what that has to do with its weight."

"He has a lien upon it."

DR. JAMESON IS DEAD

BRITISH LEADER SHOT BY ANGRY BOERS.

Alarming Rumors in Circulation in London—Emperor William Congratulates President Kruger on His Victory—Uprising Predicted in Johannesburg.

London, Jan. 4.—The Evening Standard says it is rumored that Dr. Jameson was shot yesterday after a drumhead court-martial.

All kinds of rumors were current in the streets about the stock exchange, one being to the effect that Dr. Jameson had been tried by court-martial and shot. But as the government is in control of the telegraph wires very little news is obtainable. Several firms like the Rothschilds have advices from their correspondents in South Africa, but they refuse to publish them.

The latest story circulated was that the second body of men belonging to the British Chartered company, numbering about 400, which, it was said, had started out to re-enforce Dr. Jameson's troopers, had been cut to pieces by the Boers. This is the force which is supposed to have been advancing from Buluwayo.

It was also rumored on the stock exchange and seemingly confirmed by a dispatch here that there has been an uprising in Johannesburg. It was added that many persons were killed during the disturbance.

Sir Ellis Ashmead-Bartlett is quoted as saying that he has heard that German sailors have been landed at Delagoa bay.

The Globe this evening says it is believed that Dr. Jameson's officers included Capt. Charles Bohn Coventry, second son of the Earl of Coventry, whose eldest son, Viscount Deerhurst, married Miss Virginia Bonynge of New York, and his two brothers, Henry T. Coventry and Reginald W. Coventry. Capt. Coventry is an officer of the Bechuanaland police. Dr. Jameson's other officers are said to include Lord Annaly, a captain in the Scots guards, and Lieut. Douglas Henry Marsham, a son of the Earl of Romney, who has been serving with the Bechuanaland police.

BRITISH PRESS OPINION.

German Emperor's Dispatch to President Kruger Is Condemned.

London, Jan. 4.—The colonial office remained open until 2:30 o'clock this morning. Many officials were there, but no further news from Transvaal was received.

Emperor William's dispatch to President Kruger is denounced with the utmost severity in the editorials in English newspapers. The Times says: "It is grave and distinctly unfriendly, and being compiled after conference with Chancellor von Hohenlohe and the foreign naval secretaries imparts to it the importance of a state act."

The article proceeds to argue that Germany has no ground to contend that any doubt exists as to England's right of suzerainty over the Transvaal, and says: "Is our Berlin correspondent indeed right when he confesses that he is driven to the conclusion that Germany has gladly seized this opportunity to humiliate England?"

The Post says: "It is evident that the Emperor considers war with England something to be prepared for. We cannot hide from ourselves that England stands alone. The proper reply to the Emperor's telegram is the recall of the Mediterranean squadron to join the channel squadron."

The Standard similarly gives Germany to understand that England will brook no interference between herself and the Transvaal.

The Daily News, the Liberal organ, on the contrary, says: "There is nothing hostile in the Emperor's words. They are a warning which is sorely needed in some quarters that the encouragement of filibusters is playing with edged tools. England has no right to interfere with the internal affairs of Transvaal."

William Congratulates Kruger.

Berlin, Jan. 4.—Emperor William has telegraphed to President Kruger as follows: "I express my sincere congratulations that, with your own people and without appealing to the help of the friendly powers, you have succeeded by your own energetic action against the armed bands which invaded your country as disturbers of the peace, and have thus been enabled to rest in peace and safeguard the independence of your country against attacks from outside. WILLIAM."

Big Claim Filed Against Spain.

Pontiac, Mich., Jan. 4.—Simon Ensign of this city, who was confined in the Moro Castle, at Havana, Cuba, for twenty years, has filed at Washington a claim for $200,000 damages against the Spanish government. Ensign was an American citizen, employed at railroading. Suspected of sympathy with the rebels, and guiltless of crime, he was thrown into prison and kept there twenty years without trial. His two companions died in prison, and it was only by accident that he escaped. Ensign is 72 years of age.

Bolln's Shortage Growing.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 4.—Expert accountants who, under the direction of the finance committee of the city council, have been making for months a thorough examination of the books of ex-City Treasurer Bolln, recently discovered what appeared to be a startling shortage in the bond sale account. The report of the experts is now in the hands of the committee, but has not been transmitted to the council. It discloses an apparent shortage, not heretofore reported, amounting to $77,000.

Yacht Reported Lost.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 4.—There is a rumor here that the yacht Talisman, having on board a party of wealthy gentlemen from New York, has been wrecked off Cape Hatteras, and the entire party drowned. The wires are down between here and Hatteras, and the rumor cannot be verified. The yacht was chartered by Mr. K. Herbert Ballantine for a three months' cruise in West Indian waters, and sailed from New York Dec. 19, for Baltimore, where the party boarded her.

CONGRESSIONAL.

WASHINGTON, December 28.—HOUSE—The day was spent in discussing the bond bill. At 3 p. m. a vote was taken by yeas and nays upon the passage of the first section, authorizing the sale of 3 per cent coin bonds. The vote on the passage of the first section of the bill authorizing the issue of bonds was: Yeas, 169; Nays 136. The second section was agreed to without division and the bill declared to be passed.

WASHINGTON, December 31.—SENATE—A resolution providing for the reorganization of the senate on the lines arranged by the republican steering committee, which would place the republicans in control. After two hours debate the resolution was adopted. Adjourned.

WASHINGTON, December 31.—SENATE—Several resolutions were introduced and debated and referred to committees, after which the senate adjourned until Friday next.

HOUSE—After the reading of the journal the house adjourned until Friday next.

WASHINGTON, January 3.—SENATE.—Elkins sought to secure an immediate vote on his resolution directing that all bonds issued be advertised and the bonds offered to the public. Hill opposed it. Sherman made a vigorous address favoring it and upon a vote only Chilton, Caffery, Hill, Mitchell, of Wisconsin, Murphy and Brice voted against it. George introduced and asked unanimous consent for the present consideration of a bill to repeal the law which requires proof of the loyalty during the war of the rebellion as a pre-requisite in any application for bounty land warrants to soldiers in the Mexican war. The bill was passed. Adjourned till Tuesday.

JAMESON ACTS ALONE.

The British and Cape Colony Officials Repudiate His Course.

LONDON, January 3.—Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, has issued an official statement that he is now in communication with President Kruger, of the South African republic, in an endeavor to avert serious consequences of the unauthorized and altogether unjustifiable act of Dr. Jameson, the administrator of the British South Africa company, in leading a force of from 500 to 700 men into the Transvaal to assist the Uitlanders in their contention against the South African republic. Governor Robinson of the Cape Colony has issued a proclamation publicly repudiating the act of Dr. Jameson and has caused to be published in the newspapers of Pretoria and Johannesburg an injunction in the name of the queen to all her majesty's subjects in the Transvaal not to give aid to Dr. Jameson, but to obey the law and observe order. Messengers have been sent to overtake Jameson, conveying orders to him and every officer accompanying him that they shall retire from the Transvaal territory immediately. The situation is very much aggravated by the fact that Dr. Jameson cut the wires behind him, rendering telegraphic communication with him impossible. Mr. Chamberlain sent a dispatch to the British South Africa company asking them to repudiate Jameson and his acts. To this dispatch the company replied that they were entirely ignorant of Jameson's acts or promises. Mr. Cecil Rhodes, prime minister of the Cape Colony, in connection with this reply, stated that Jameson had acted without authority. He (Rhodes) had tried to stop him when he learned that he had gone into the Transvaal, but found that the wires had been cut, and that consequently he could not communicate with him.

LONDON, January 3.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company says Dr. Jameson has been severely defeated by the Boers before Johannesberg. It says this news has been confirmed. A later cablegram from Governor Robinson forwards a dispatch from the British agent at Pretoria stating that Dr. Jameson's force has surrendered. Colonial Secretary Chamberlain has cabled to Governor Robinson his regret that Dr. Jameson's disobedience has led to such loss of life.

BERLIN, January 4.—Emperor William has telegraphed President Krueger, of the Transvaal republic, congratulating him upon his success in repelling the invaders.

LONDON, January 4.—It is rumored that Dr. Jameson has been tried by drumhead court martial and shot.

LONDON, January 6.—Advices from the Transvaal say that the British casualties are severe, those of the burghers slight. The number of Jameson's force killed is estimated at seventy and the wounded at thirty. The latter are all at Kruegersdorp, attended by doctors. Bodies are still being picked up on the battle field and buried. The Cape Town papers say that Dr. Jameson, Sir Charles Willoughby and Captain White are in the Pretoria jail. Capt. Charles J. Coventry a brother of the Earl of Coventry, is among the wounded. The Boers captured 500 prisoners.

LONDON, January 6.—The German press and people endorse the action of Emperor William in congratulating President Krueger, and take the stand that the Transvaal must not be disturbed. England is indignant at the emperor's action, which is taken as an insult to the British government.

Supreme Test.

Elder Berry—What is your idea of faith?

Joblots—Putting a nickel on the plate and expecting a crown of pure gold.

A Medical Reason.

First Doctor—And although you failed to cure him you raised your bill?

Second Doctor—Yes; my failure made me feel cheap, you know.

Straight Goods.

Mr. Crimsonbeak—Here, waiter! I found some feathers in this frankfurter!

Waiter—Yes, sir; I guess it was made out of a bird dog, sir.

Facing the Worst.

Merchant (on discovering a man in his cellar)—Who are you?

Stranger—The gas man. I have come to see by your meter how much gas you have used during the last month.

Merchant—Good gracious! I was hoping you were only a burglar!

Joke On Wheels.

"Your bicycle is very heavy, Allen."

"Yes; my employer is a very heavy man."

"I don't see what that has to do with its weight."

"He has a lien upon it."

ATCHISON GLOBULES.

No man is better than his opportunities.

A good dog is worth more than you can get for it.

There is a "story" on every man that ever lived.

We should like to see the man who can stand up against his kin.

When a man has prosperity, how the people like to see him lose it!

Men, as a rule, do not like to lie, but their wives ask too many questions.

When a man talks too much, it may be safe that he has a runaway tongue.

The man who looks at a clock minutes, to see what time it

You bet if a young husband kiss his wife when he co girls notice it.

We have often wond Salvation army does n a woman who can sing.

If we kept a hotel, w a piano for the parlo who cannot play, tries

When a man is not s in bed, but still too s able, Americans call

Women like to because they may b them some time, and

WHERE DID YOU GE

Had the Ladies' Church out for tea; all pronounced the Co equal to Rio. Sa you all about vegetable seeds $1

If you will cut this with 15c. stamps to Jo Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis. free a package of above seed and our 148-page Catalogue alone 5c.

She Nearly Fainted.

A lady teacher in one of schools, in trying to explain the the word "slowly," illustrated it across the floor. When she aske to tell how she walked she near when a boy at the foot of the class "Bow-legged, ma'am."

His Reason.

Tim—Why do you say that you like your bicycle?

Brink—I have to give her a about once a week or she's no go

State of Ohio, City of Tole County—ss.

Frank J. Cheney mak is the senior partner o J. Cheney & Co., doing bu City of Toledo, County and said, and that said firm sum of One Hundred Dolla and every case of Catarrh t be cured by the use of Hall Cure. FRANK J. C

Sworn to before me and s my presence this 6th day A. D. 1886. A. W. (Seal.)

Hall's Catarrh Cu ly and acts dire mucous surfaces for testimonials, F. J. CHENEY Sold by druggist Hall's Family

Revenue of in Tennesse near a churc was one of Mme. Sa $7,500. It turquoises were re

"De n said Un gin'rally fact'ry.

Sarsap prove cal sci when reco med intri

Sa

The On

Hood's

World's

IM GR

Is Pure an and can b the weak A safe, FOOD fo

Sold by DRUGG John Carle &

THE AERMOT windmill business, b wind power to 1 6 wha houses, a at you and Fi Frames, Grinder of these January 1st at 1/3 Tanks and Pumps of Factory: 12th, Rockwell

BE

"Whit

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. DR. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

TIOMANE.

BY JACQUES VINCENT.

COPYRIGAT 1892 BY RAND McNALLY CO.

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER I.

IOMANE?"

"Oh! There she is!'

"Hallo! Tiomane!"

"Tiomane?"

"Tiomane?"

"Tiomane?"

And the shouts redoubled, filling the whole beach with one name—Tiomane!

Little boys and little girls began running about on the sandy shore, others descending hastily the steps of the pretty cottages, others calling from the terraces—such a crowd! such confusion!—and all at the appearance of a jaunting car of rough, unpolished wood, drawn by a gray donkey and driven by a young peasant girl.

It was at Berck, on Sunday, a beautiful Sunday in September, and the air was filled with the golden sunshine of early autumn. Everything sparkled in its light—the sandy shore, the blue sea, the bluer sky, the tiled roofs, bathed in a glory of golden light.

The car had stopped at the head of the broad street which joins Berck-ville to Berck place, near a large and elegant cottage. A troop of laughing children having reached the rustic equipage, the clamorous shouts were renewed.

Standing in her cart, in her hand a branch of a hazel tree covered with its nuts, which served to drive away the flies, the little donkey driver smiled [illegible] on all these noisy, eager [illegible]copie, and said, in a sweet, but [illegible]ce:

"[illegible]y no, it is impossible! I can not [illegible]you—not one of you—not one."

"Tio[illegible]ane!"

"[illegible]ngaged for the whole [illegible]t there are plenty of [illegible]t can hire," she added, [illegible]mber of cars similar to [illegible]re at a short distance, [illegible]re making the most [illegible]he gay crowd on the [illegible]as 12 years old, tall [illegible]her face, although [illegible]re to the sun and [illegible] of a child. With [illegible]p confining her [illegible]ss of coarse [illegible] feet, certainly [illegible] misses of her [illegible]nding the sum- [illegible]never have dis- [illegible]n her. Neverthe- [illegible] insignificant or [illegible]blue eyes—peri- [illegible]loving, and intel- [illegible]noble soul. The [illegible]yed two rows of [illegible] charming, and, [illegible]nified pose of the [illegible] showed a native [illegible]KS were [illegible] indeed among little

[illegible]y we sel[illegible] very decided refusal, [illegible]t find it easy to get rid [illegible]d buy[illegible]s and girls who wished [illegible]. In all situations and [illegible]es of life we find submis- [illegible]nd rebels. So it was in this [illegible]d of Berck. The former [illegible] and began to examine the [illegible]; the rebels, on the contrary [illegible]e girls made up that camp— [illegible] more determined before the

[illegible]assault! let us take posses- [illegible]was heard suddenly in the [illegible]es of a little blonde of ten [illegible]e assault!" repeated the mer- [illegible], and the attack began.

[illegible]ell, boys and girls jumped in- [illegible]car, hung on the wheels, on [illegible], on the reins. The tumult [illegible]eribable. Somewhat as- [illegible] this unexpected onslaught, [illegible]ing her coolness and pres- [illegible]nd for a moment, the little [illegible]river defended her property [illegible] Installed in her usual place, [illegible]ed the besiegers vigorously, [illegible]r feet, her hands, and the [illegible]ranch, which lost all its leaves [illegible]which she dealt right and [illegible]blic[illegible]t shade hats of the [illegible] a young, strong, [illegible] voice was heard [illegible]e [illegible]tage:

[illegible]y driver, [illegible].

TOWN C[illegible]d the cot- [illegible]out her own [illegible]h delight. [illegible] rebels be-

[illegible] The tone [illegible]ct. "Yes, [illegible]hired it." [illegible]usly. The [illegible] ladies and [illegible] while ad- [illegible]smoothing [illegible]scard a con- [illegible]s, "impru- [illegible]e reply, in [illegible]: [illegible]hey can go [illegible]y please at [illegible]slightest impro- [illegible]a, you are quite [illegible]errupted the tall boy, and he rushed down the steps, followed by a charming little girl—a white cloud, a rustling of ribbons and lace, and a beautiful face framed in a capote of white surah, tied under her chin like a grandmother. The golden brown curls, which escaped from their confinement, were the only bits of color in all this dazzling whiteness. Behind her, Kifos, a tall lackey, with well waxed mustache, a jaunty cap, a short, white plaited skirt, and vest braided with silver, advanced with great dignity, his arms full of soft wraps. Having reached the bottom of the flight of steps, the tall boy took possession, rather unceremoniously, of the little moving mass of silk and lace.

"Come, hop in, Duchess," he said, putting her in the car.

After one moment of dazed wonder at this miracle of beauty and elegance, Tiomane somewhat timidly, as if afraid to sully all this splendor by contact with her coarse garments, adjusted the seat.

"Here! this is for her," said the boy, throwing in a cushion and a shawl which he took from Kifos, the Greek servant.

With one bound he seated himself beside his sister, who, comfortably installed on her embroidered cushion, clung to the edge of the car, with one delicate little hand, incased in a white silk glove.

The party on the balcony were watching them.

"Guillaume, do not stay late."

"No, mamma, we shall be home for dinner. Now, little donkey driver, let us start."

Tiomane gathered up the reins, but the tall boy said imperiously:

"No! no! give them to me." A sharp lash fell on the back of poor Grise, and she started off on a gallop.

CHAPTER II.

THEY FOLLOWED the turnpike to the village. The donkey trotted vigorously, urged on as she was by repeated blows from the boy, who stood up, in his almost childish eagerness.

"Decidedly, your donkey can trot," he said, addressing Tiomane.

"Yes," she answered timidly; "but you strike my poor Grise very hard, monsieur."

"Ah, Guillaume," said a sweet little voice from the white capote.

"Keep quiet, Duchess, you do not know anything about donkeys," replied the excited boy, shaking the reins violently, to increase still more the speed of the poor animal.

Everything can be exhausted, even the patience of a donkey and the eagerness of a spoiled boy.

Five minutes afterward, Guillaume seated himself, and the reins rested on the back of tired Grise, who had resumed her ordinary very sober gait.

Tiomane breathed freely once more.

Seated on the bottom of the car, her hands crossed on her knees, the young peasant girl looked shyly at the enormous white capote and saw the end of a delicate little nose, with nostrils like a pink sea shell, and a small, very small mouth, with lips like rose leaves.

"What is your name, little donkey driver?" said the small mouth.

"Tiomane."

"That is not a name," cried Guillaume.

"No, it is not a name," echoed the roseleaf mouth.

With great prolixity and many childish gestures, Tiomane explained that her name was Armande. In the Picard patois, tiote means little. The villagers had called her at first tiote Armande; then came the abbreviations tiote Mande, tiote Mane; and the visitors at the beach joined the two words and called her Tiomane.

"How old are you, Tiomane?" asked the duchess.

"I am 12."

"What! only one year older than you, Maritza," cried the boy. "Do you know you will have a great deal to do to catch up to her?"

"Oh! is the young lady 11 years old?" exclaimed the tall, strong peasant girl, looking with surprise, not unmingled with pity, at this wonderful animated doll, that she could easily have carried in her arms.

"FOLLOWED BY A CHARMING GIRL."

"Yes, certainly, I am 11 years old," said the wonderful doll sharply, drawing herself up with a very well developed feeling of pride, as if she had a full consciousness of her own supreme importance and loveliness.

"Come, little duchess," said Guillaume, seizing her by the neck to kiss her again and again, "that does not prevent your being the beauty of beauties, as every one says."

The sailor hat brushed against the pretty capote, and it fell back, revealing Maritza's lovely head.

Tiomane was speechless with admiration, although, child as she was, she was quite incapable of appreciating the radiant beauty of the little girl. Nothing could exceed the purity, the exquisite delicacy, of this young face. Golden brown curls clustered around a brow which might have served as a model for a sculptor, blue eyes with long lashes, a complexion which could be compared to nothing but a cream white rose, a delicate Grecian nose, a laughing rose leaf mouth.

The tall brother replaced the silk capote, not however without inveighing—quite in man fashion—against the gew-gaws of girls, and the three children laughed more merrily than ever.

The little donkey driver, taking courage, said to the tall boy, "And how old are you, Monsieur Guillaume?"

"I am 15," he answered, in a tone of superiority.

Guillaume de Sorgues was a perfect contrast to his charming little sister. Well and firmly built, very dark, with brown eyes, a Roman nose, a wide mouth, a square chin, indicating great firmness—the ensemble was that of a handsome, chivalrous boy of gray disposition, brooking no restraint, good-hearted, frank, generous and courageous.

Accustomed as he was to give impression to every thought, and not thinking of the absurdity of talking of his private affairs to the little donkey driver, he told her, in detail, how he and his sister had happened to come to Berck, the day before, concluding by saying: "Our family physician ordered the duchess here for sea bathing, and besides we have a great many friends staying in the neighborhood." He also told the little peasant girl that he intended to be a soldier. He adored epaulets. He was now enjoying his school vacation. His father was consul general at Smyrna.

"At Smyrna?" echoed Tiomane, opening her great blue eyes to their fullest extent.

"Yes, at Smyrna. Do not trouble yourself about the name. You can not possibly know where it is. It is very far from here, very far indeed."

The little sister added that it was seven days by sea from Marseilles. And then both the children spoke enthusiastically of the beautiful land of their birth—the orange laden trees, the grapes as large as figs, the lemon trees, the golden sunsets.

"And you, Tiomane, tell us something about yourselves," said the little girl. "What do your parents do?"

"I have no parents. I am a child from the foundling asylum."

"From the foundling asylum!" repeated the brother and sister in concert, a vague vision of something very dreadful rising before their childish imagination.

In her turn, quite unconscious of the misery of her situation in the eyes of the young visitors, Tiomane told the short story of her life. She had been brought up in the foundling asylum at Boulogne, but for the last two years had been a servant in the employment of Mere Jean—Mere Jean Bousvuier, at Berck-ville.

"Poor little thing!" murmured Guillaume.

"Nonsense!" said Tiomane bravely; "in the summer I am a donkey driver, and I like my business. I love my employers, I love my Grise, I love the people who come to the beach, and they love me—I wish you could see how they love me," she added, with no little pride in her tone.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

MORE GOLD THAN EVER.

An Increase in Production in Almost Every Gold Region.

The world's gold product for the last year will surpass any year in its history. The production of last year exceeded that of all previous years, and was reported by the mint bureau at $155,522,000. The production for 1895 seems likely not to be less than $175,000,000, or a gain of nearly $20,000,000 over the figures of 1893. The principal gains have been in the United States, the Witwatersrandt region of South Africa, in Australia and Russia. It was evident last summer that mining activity in Colorado and other western states would carry the product of this country for the year from $35,955,000 in 1893 to $42,000,000. It now looks as though the total would reach $45,000,000. Director Preston has checked and pruned the estimates from the great mining states, but even with large reductions they indicate an increase of $4,750,000 in Colorado, $2,000,000 in California, $1,000,000 in Montana, and $800,000 in Idaho. Large gains are also reported in Oregon and Washington, for which figures have not been obtained. The increase in the production of the Witwatersrandt region has been steadily maintained for five years. The production of 1890 was 494,859 ounces, at about $17.50 an ounce; the production of 1891 was 739,238 ounces; of 1892, 1,210,868 ounces; of 1893, 1,478,475 ounces, and the estimated production for 1894 2,200,000 ounces. The complete figures have been received up to the close of November, and every month shows an enormous increase over the corresponding month of 1893, with an advance during the present year from 149,214 ounces in January to 175,309 ounces in November. The value of this product was about $26,000,000 in 1893, and will be about $38,000,000 in 1894. Other portions of America are expected to show gains, but they produced in the aggregate only about $3,000,000 worth. Australia, which shows a production 1893 of $35,686,600, is credited with an increase of $3,000,000 in 1894. The Russian empire was credited in the last mint report with the same production in 1893 as in 1892, which was $24,806,200. Official figures since received show an increase in 1893 of about $4,500,000, and it is thought that will rise to $2,000,000 for the present year. These gains alone will swell the world's production by $26,000,000, and would make an aggregate of more than $181,000,000, if no losses were indicated in other countries. It is expected that such a loss may occur in China, where the product in 1893 was $8,426,000, on account of the war with Japan. Even a large loss there would leave the world's production above $175,000,000, and would exceed the most sanguine estimates made by Director Preston in his last report on the production of the precious metals. Mr. Preston is endeavoring to keep his estimates within conservative bonds, for he does not wish to make a larger claim than the facts will finally warrant; but it would seem that his estimate of a few this year of $170,000,000 was certain to be largely exceeded.

Diary of a Queen.

The diary kept in 1810 by the beautiful Queen Louisa of Prussia has come into temporary possession of Poultney Bigelow, who is to make use of it in his work on the "German War of Liberation."

Everyone will hope that the diary itself may be allowed to see the light. Everyone would enjoy reading the writings of the woman whom Napoleon affronted.

ARNOLD'S COUNTRY PLACE.

Where the Traitor Once Entertained Ham and Eggs Are Now Sold.

If you wander far enough through the broad drives and cross the ample fields of Fairmount park, Philadelphia, you will presently encounter a commodious stone building, surmounting a wooded knoll, set down between two subsidiary ones of the same material, into and out of which a small crowd of people, mainly women and children, are constantly passing, says the New York Press. It is now known vaguely and generally as the "Dairy" and is a pleasant enough little place for ice-cream, tea and other light refreshments, pleasantly dispensed by a neat maiden, in the employ of the lessees of the house. But probably not one in 1,000 of the persons who so indulge themselves is aware of the fact that this quiet little refectory, with its trim gravel walk in front and its grassy banks in the rear, sloping gently down to the Schuylkill, was once the country seat of Benedict Arnold.

It was conveyed to him in 1776 by John McPherson, a Philadelphia merchant, for 16,240 pounds, subject to a mortgage of 1,760 pounds and a lease to Don Juan Mirailles, the Spanish minister. In this sumptuous mansion, with its high ceilings, decorated walls, massive mantelpieces and deeply carved oaken doors and windows, Arnold lived and entertained for more than three years. The north room on the first floor, where the visitor now sips his tea and leisurely munches his sweet cakes, was probably, from its appearance, the morning-room of Arnold and the gay party he constantly gathered about him. In the fine wide hall, where the guests were wont to be received with stately courtesy, is now a row of small tables on one side and a confectionary counter on the other. The portion in front, to which queued gallants and powdered dames were wont to retreat in the cool of the evening, is now covered with small signs, calling attention to the ham sandwiches, ham and eggs and other delicacies that may be procured by the hungry.

When Arnold was attainted of treason in 1780 this property was confiscated by the government and was subsequently owned, among others, by the Hon. Edward Shippen, chief justice of Pennsylvania; Gen. Jonathan Williams and Baron von Steuben, inspector-general of the army under Gen. Washington. It was acquired by the city of Philadelphia in 1868.

Where She Got It.

"I tell you I need nothing," she said, conclusively, preparing to shut the door.

"But," pleaded the peddler, despairingly, "surely I can sell you some little thing or other—hairpins?"

But the woman laughingly shook her short, curly locks, showing that she had no use for such articles.

"Some new ribbons," urged the man. "A dainty powder-puff; a button hook?"

"I tell you, nothing," she repeated, becoming angry.

"Ha!" exclaimed the peddler, suddenly catching sight of her bloomers. "The very thing. Let me sell you a pair of suspenders."

"Don't need them," was the reply.

"Don't need them?" echoed the vender. "How do you keep your blomoers up without suspenders? By will power, I suppose," he added, sneeringly.

"Sort of," she asserted, tersely. "Call it hypnotism."

"Hypnotism, eh?" said the man, packing up his wares. "Keep your bloomers up with hypnotism! Where do you get it?"

"I get it——"

Here the woman glanced complacently over the bewitching bulginess of her curvilinear figure.

"——from the hip!"

And the door banged slammily.—New York World.

One Better.

"When I was in India," said the man who had traveled, "the native thieves stole the sheets from under me while I slept and I never knew it."

"Yes, and when I was in the northwest during the boom," said the man who will never admit that America can be outdone, "I had to sleep in a room where there were four real estate agents and one of them stole a porous plaster from my back without awakening me."—Indianapolis Journal.

MORE OR LESS HUMOROUS.

The latest Boston bicycle has codfish ball bearings.—Minneapolis Journal.

"Boy, are there any fish in this pond?" "I don't know, sir." "Why are you fishing in it, then?" "To find out, sir."—New York Herald.

Elderly Gentleman—"I want a novel suitable for a young lady's reading." Clerk—"Er—daughter, or friend?"—Indianapolis Journal.

The lady—Is this novel a fit one for my daughter to read? Salesman—I don't know. I'm not acquainted with your daughter.

The parson—I want to sell my horse. He's sound as a dollar, gentle as a lamb and a good goer. "How old is he?" "Oh, about the usual age of horses."—La Crosse Chronicle.

Blobbs—How does Wigwag's wife keep him so under control? Slobbs—By threatening to publish the poems he wrote her before they were married.—Philadelphia Record.

See the young woman. Is the young woman being suddenly and unexpectedly kissed? Ah, yes. And does the young woman raise a hue and cry? The young woman raises a slight hue, but no cry.—Detroit Journal.

Auctioneer (pot-boiling sale)—Going! Going! Gone! Here, sir, it's yours. Great bargain, sir. The frame alone is worth the price. Connoisseur (ripping out the picture)—The frame was what I wanted.—New York Weekly.

Clothier—Were you pleased with the overcoat which I sold you? Customer—Oh, yes; all my boys have worn it. Clothier—Well, think of that! Customer—Every time after a rain the next smaller one had to take it.—Fliegende Blaetter.

Gozzins—How many voices are there in that choir at your church? Bazley—About seven. Gozzins—Why, I had an impression that it had forty or fifty members. Bazley—So it has, but you asked me how many voices.—Roxbury Gazette.

Bronze buttons are used on nasturtium velvet bodices.

What He Wanted to Know

"Father," said the little boy, looking up from his picture book, "if I ask you a question will you answer it?"

"Certainly," was the affable reply.

"And not get angry?"

"Of course."

"Nor say it is time I was in bed?"

"I won't do any of those things."

"Well, what I want to know is, where does a snake begin when it wags its tail?"

Couldn't Exchange Them, Either.

"Do you know that Snigley is the father of twins?"

"Yes, I heard it last night at the club. Did you hear what he said about it?"

"No. What?"

"He said that they were the first duplicate wedding presents that Mrs. Snigley and he had received."

Very Rich Indeed.

In the elements that supply the human system with bone, muscle and brain substance is a circulation fertilized with the supreme tonic, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which begets thorough assimilation and digestion and gives a healthful impulse to every function of the body. Dyspeptic and weakly persons give strong testimony in its behalf. So do those troubled with biliousness, malaria, rheumatism, constipation and inactivity of the kidneys.

Sincerity Itself.

Ada—How can you be so insincere? You said you were sorry you were out when he called.

Ida—No; I said I was sorry he called when I was out.

Ada—Well?

Ida—He is likely to call some time when I am in.

Not Money Alone.

Alfonso—You never hear of women cashiers running off with their employer's money.

Henri—No, not often; but when it does happen they take the employer, too.

Business Chance—A Good Income.

We pay you to sell fruit trees. STARK NURSERIES, Louisiana, Mo.; Rockport, Ill.

Max Nordau began to write when 12 years old and was earning money writing when 14.

"Hanson's Magic Corn Salve."

Warranted to cure or money refunded. Ask your druggist for it. Price 15 cents.

The police board of Jersey City is retiring patrolmen because they are getting "too fat."

"A Cup of Parks' Tea at night moves the bowels in the morning."

Congressman William A. Smith, of Michigan, began his career as a newsboy and street popcorn seller.

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

A football kicked in front of 12-year-old Florence L'Hommedieu's bicycle in Brooklyn threw her off and killed her.

Coe's Cough Balsam

Is the oldest and best. It will break up a Cold quicker than anything else. It is always reliable. Try it.

Mrs. Ernest Leverson, who writes so amusingly in Punch, is a very pretty woman, quite young, and always beautifully dressed.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth,

Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy. MRS WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.

One of those fellows who are always getting up statistics says if $2,000,000 women should clasp hands they could reach around the globe.

FOR IRRITATION OF THE THROAT caused by Cold or use of the voice, "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are exceedingly beneficial.

Horses sold at auction in Chillicothe, Mo., a few days ago at $3 apiece.

We have not been without Piso's Cure for consumption for 20 years.—LIZZIE FERREL, Camp St., Harrisburg, Pa., May 4, '94.

The wife of President Cleveland has a most mellifluous voice, and an admirer says: "Her speech is a continual song without words."

In Olden Times

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

Secretary Olney has now attained the distinction of being the best dressed man in the cabinet.

Map of the United States.

The wall map issued by the Burlington Route is three feet wide by four feet long; is printed in seven colors; is mounted on rollers; shows every state, county, important town and railroad in the Union and forms a very desirable and useful adjunct to any household or business establishment.

Purchased in large quantities, the maps cost the Burlington Route more than fifteen cents each, but on receipt of that amount in stamps the undersigned will be pleased to send you one.

Write immediately, as the supply is limited.

J. FRANCIS,
G. P. & T. A. Burlington Route,
Omaha, Neb.

The Vanderbilts probably pay $1,000 a month to their florists, even during the "dull season."

Comfort to California.

Yes and economy, too, if you patronize the Burlington Route's Personally Conducted once-a-week excursions which leave Omaha every Thursday morning.

Through tourist sleepers Omaha to San Francisco and Los Angeles. Second-class tickets accepted.

See the local agent and arrange about tickets and berths. Or, write to

J. FRANCIS,
G. P. & T. A., Omaha, Neb.

No man likes to take medicine unless there is some woman around to see him make a face.

Cheap Rates to Atlanta and Return.

On Dec. 21st, the Monon Route will sell tickets to Atlanta at the exceedingly low rate of $15.15 for the round trip, tickets good ten days.

For full information call on or address Sidney B. Jones, City Passenger Agent, 232 Clark St., Chicago, or L. E. Sessions, Traveling Passenger Agent, Minneapolis, Minn.

Surely, if all the world was made for man, then man was made for more than the world.

Good reasons why you should use Hindercorns. It takes out the corns, and then you have peace and comfort, surely a good exchange. 15c, at druggists.

There are braying men in the world as well as braying asses; for what is loud and senseless talking and swearing any other than braying?—L'Estrange.

Every dollar spent in Parker's Ginger Tonic is well invested. It subdues pain, and brings better digestion, better strength and better health.

The queen of Roumania fairly revels in literature.

Nothing so suddenly and completely disables the muscles as

LUMBAGO, LAME BACK, OR STIFF NECK,

and nothing so promptly and surely cures them as ST. JACOBS OIL.

HIGH PRICE FOR POTATOES.

The John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., pay high prices for new things. They recently paid $300 for a yellow rind watermelon, $1,000 for 30 bu. new oats, $300 for 100 lbs. of potatoes, etc., etc.! Well, prices for potatoes will be high next fall. Plant a plenty, Mr. Wideawake! You'll make money. Salzer's Earliest are fit to eat in 28 days after planting. His Champion of the World is the greatest yielder on earth and we challenge you to produce its equal.

If you will send 14 cents in stamps to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will get, free, ten packages grains and grasses, including Teosinte, Spurry, Giant Incarnate Clover, etc., and our mammoth catalogue. Catalogue 5c. for mailing. w.n.

A Novel Idea.

The Omaha Weekly World-Herald has struck another novel idea for increasing its circulation by offering large prizes to those new subscribers who construct the shortest sentence containing all the letters of the alphabet.

This is sort of reverse of last year's prize contest, when the object was to construct the largest number of words out of certain letters.

It will be interesting to note how short a sentence can be made and still contain all the twenty-six letters in the alphabet. The trouble, of course, will be to get in such letters as x, y, z and q.

Ex-Congressman Bryan, who edits the paper and preaches free silver coinage, must have a good inventive genius to devise these novel schemes.

What the Merchant Did.

Romantic Miss—Have there not been moments in your experience when life seemed full of unsatisfied wants?

Mr. Hardhead—Y-e-s, that's so!

Romantic Miss—At such times I always fly to music for relief. What do you do, Mr. Hardhead?

Mr. Hardhead—I advertise.

The Doctor's Sponge.

Attendant—Heavens, doctor! There's a sponge missing. I think you have sewed it up in the patient.

Surgeon (a few minutes later)—Thanks for calling my attention to the matter. That sponge cost $2.

The greatest medicine is a true friend.—Sir William Temple.

Wishes are wings to lift us or weights to retard. A wish may be our blessing or our doom.—Shakespeare.

Comes to stay

There is more than one food which will cause the body to increase in weight. A free supply of sugar will do this; so will the starchy foods; cream, and some other fats. But to become fleshy, and yet remain in poor health, is not what you want. Cod-liver oil increases the weight because it is a fat-producing food. But it does far more than this. It alters, or changes, the processes of nutrition, restoring the normal functions of the various organs and tissues.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with hypophosphites, is pure cod-liver in a digested condition. So that, when a person gains in weight from taking Scott's Emulsion, it is because of two things: First, the oil has acted as a fat-producing food; and, second, it has restored to the body a healthy condition. Such an improvement is permanent: it comes to stay.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been endorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50-cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby.

W. N. U.—D. M.—1226. NO. 2.

Be sure to bring

BattleAx PLUG

A GREAT BIG PIECE FOR 10 CENTS

and no other; for it is the largest piece of Good tobacco ever sold for

10 CENTS

STEEL WEB PICKET FENCE. CABLED FIELD AND HOG FENCE.

Also CABLED POULTRY, GARDEN AND RABBIT FENCE.

We manufacture a complete line of Smooth Wire Fencing and guarantee every article to be as represented. If you consider quality we can save you money. Catalogue free.

De Kalb Fence Co., 121 High Street, DE KALB, ILL.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

"I firmly believe that Piso's Cure kept me from having quick Consumption."—Mrs. H. D. DARLING, Beaver Meadow, N. Y., June 18, 1895.

Cures Where All Else Fails. BEST COUGH SYRUP.

TASTES GOOD. USE IN TIME. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS. 25 CTS.

Absolutely Pure-Delicious-Nutritious

The Breakfast Cocoa

MADE BY

WALTER BAKER & CO. LIMITED

DORCHESTER, MASS.

COSTS LESS THAN ONE CENT A CUP.

NO CHEMICALS.

ALWAYS ASK YOUR GROCER FOR WALTER BAKER & CO'S. BREAKFAST COCOA MADE AT DORCHESTER, MASS. IT BEARS THEIR TRADE MARK LA BELLE CHOCOLATIERE ON EVERY CAN.

AVOID IMITATIONS.

MARION A. FELL, NOTARY PUBLIC.

M. R. CHAMBERS, ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans at 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farmers' Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on us, we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co,

Garner, Iowa.

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME, Belmond, Iowa.

ALEX. KIRKWOOD,

....PROPRIETOR OF....

KIRKWOOD :-: HOUSE,

FIRST CLASS ACCOMMADATION. - RATES $1.00 per Day.

Livery and Feed Stable in Connection

Rigs Furnished on Short Notice.

KLEMME, :-: :-: :-: IOWA.

IOWA - FARMS.

COME TO THE LAND OF THE GOLDEN EAR.

Partial List of Improved and Unimproved Lands in Iowa.

No. 1. A good Elevator for sale, 10,000 bu capacity with office, scales, coal sheds, corn cribs, horses and tools. Everything in good running condition. Located on the Iowa Central R. R., in Butler County, Iowa.

No. 2. A small fruit farm of 8 acres one mile north of Dows. House, stable, granary, good well of water. Price $800. You don't have to be a millionaire to buy this farm and own an Iowa home.

No. 3 680 acres of improved lands n Hancock County, Iowa. Price $30 per acre. This farm is a No. 1 stock farm, has a fine grove, also a fine flowing well. It is hard to estimate the value of such a well on a large stock farm like No. 3 of this list has.

No. 4. Good farm house, barn, all fenced, 200 apple trees, small fruits of all kinds, 12 acres of land. Located in the villiage of Amsterdam, Hancock County, Iowa. Price $1,300. This farm will sell because it is down to the right price.

No. 5. Will sell house, barn, 5 lots, just across B. C. R. & N. R. R. track opposite depot Goodell, Ia. Price $2,200.

No. 6. 45 acres of timber lands 1½ miles southeast of Goodell, Iowa. Price $30 per acre. Here is a chance for you, the timber properly worked up into posts for fencing and wood for house use will pay for the land which can be own in grasses and make an excelent pasture for stock, and you have the Iowa river for water.

No. 7. 200 acres of No. 1 farming land 3½ miles from R. R. town. 160 in good state of cultivation. Write for price and terms.

No. 8. 840 acres of land. Must be sold. 3 sets of good improvements. Price $25,986.00. Will sell seperate pieces, dividing into 280, 240, 320 acre tracts.

No. 9. 82 acres 4 miles from Clear Lake. Good Improvements. Price $35. per acre. ¼ cash, balance on time.

No. 10. 160 acres 5½ miles west of Goodell, Iowa, ¼ mile to school. New house just built, cost $1,850. This is a fine home for you, fair barns, good well and wind pump, a beautiful grove and orchard, the land is No. 1 and will sell cheap. Price $35 per acre, $3,000 cash, balance 5 yrs time at 7 per ct.

No. 11. 480 acres seven miles from R. R. town. 400 acres in cultivation, good improvements, a fine spring for stock on the southwest corner, a fine flowing well in middle of northwest quarter, a never failing well on northeast quarter, water pumped by wind mill. This farm can be purchased for the sum of $17,600.

No. 12. House, lot and Drug store, located in a live town of 400 inhabitants. The only drug store in town. Will sell for cash or trade for 160 acres of Iowa land. Has a good paying trade.

Notice to Customers.

The above list of property is for sale; title perfect; don't want your money for nothing; will only ask you to come and see for yourself. I have the best farms on my list in Hancock county for sale. For further particulars, write me at

J. R. CLINE,

GOODELL, IOWA.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, Jan. 10, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum in Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1895.

JOHN R. CLINE, - - - PROPRIETOR.
GEORGE J. HALL, - - - - EDITOR.

LONDON UNDERGROUND ROADS.

Disagreeable to Travel on and Pay Poor Dividends.

John Fowler, with a small syndicate as his backers, laid down 43 years ago an underground line of railway from Paddington station of the Great Western railway to a point near King's Cross of the Great Northern, thus joining those two great streams of traffic. It was not, however, until 20 years later that the real basis of the present system was laid down by the Metropolitan Railway company. This was what is now known as the "inner circle." Some time afterward the Metropolitan District Railway company was formed, and the scheme then became of a more comprehensive character. Neither of these companies has benefited its shareholders to any appreciable degree. The Metropolitan commenced paying 5 per cent dividend, but this dwindled down to 2 7-8 in 1889 and has remained about that figure since. The Metropolitan District company never paid anything but a fraction and since 1883 has paid no dividend whatever. The nominal capital of the Metropolitan is $58,425, the number of miles in work being 38. The gross receipts average $300,000,460, and the net receipts $1,964,000. The working expenses per mile amount to $1,500,000, while the revenue per mile is $91,170. As for the District company, its nominal capital is only $36,570 and its length of way 19 miles. Its gross receipts average $1,985,000 and its net receipts $1,036,000.

The discomforts and dangers of this means of locomotion can never be estimated by any one who has not made a trip on the underground. At such central stations as Gower street, where the traffic is great and the rails are laid down more than 30 feet below the earth's surface, it is impossible to breathe without ill effects. There is no adequate outlet for the volumes of sulphurous smoke which pour from the tunnels as the trains pass through, and accordingly the station is filled with noxious fumes. Even in the hottest weather it is better to keep the windows of the railway carriages closed, but when the carriage is crowded, as at certain times of the day it always is, to excess, this is obviously impossible. Leading medical experts have given it as their distinct opinion that the underground railways have been directly the cause of a large number of new diseases. Those who constantly use the "underground," for so the lines of both companies are familiarly alluded to, develop ailments of the heart or lungs, while the eyes also frequently become seriously affected. To the stranger the effect of a journey on either the Metropolitan or District railway is singularly painful. It produces headache and nausea and affects the chest and lungs in a marked degree.

To a stranger the difficulties of travel by the underground are almost insuperable. The lines are laid down in circles. Thus there are an inner, a middle and an outer circle. The inner circle embraces the city proper and runs from Aldgate round to Aldgate again. But it is on the outer circle that the uninitiated traveler is most likely to go wrong. He may be within five or ten minutes' walk of the point he desires to arrive at, and not knowing this he goes to the Metropolitan or District railway and asks if he can book for such and such a station. The clerk always replies that he can, and the unlucky wight is put on board a train which will carry him round the whole Metropolitan area and take an hour in the doing of it.—Chicago Times-Herald.

The Glass Snake Only a Brittle Lizard.

The glass snake, which is not a snake any more than it is a turtle, has a tail about two-thirds its entire length. This tail, like the tails of about all lizards in the United States that I have met with, is very delicate and easily broken off at times. When a fourth to a half, or even more, of the animal is detached and the head wriggles away, and the remainder and sometimes a larger part squirms in sight, it is an astonishing spectacle, and I am not surprised that the ignorant should clothe the creature with mysticism. But, as a matter of fact, all sensible people know that the fragments do not reunite, for it would be impossible to fit together the ruptured blood vessels and shattered nerves and restore the animal. Still this story of traditional force is believed by a host of people, along with other surprising hoop snake tales, milk snake whoppers, with quill throwing porcupine relations and a thousand and one other and lesser untruths.—American Field.

A Substitute.

"Have you 'The Manxman?'" inquired the dignified customer with the gold headed cane.

"The what?" said the new boy at the book store.

"'The Manxman.'"

"I guess you mean marksman, don't you? We've got a 'Life of Buffalo Bill' I can sell you for 10 cents. How's that?"—Chicago Tribune.

17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade. 17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

CORN WANTED

AT

WESENBERG BROS'

17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade. 17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

FRANK GRUETZMACHER

DEALER IN

HARNESS, SADDLES, COLLARS, LEATHER, STRAPWORK, BLANKETS, ROBES, WHIPS, BOOTS, SHOES, GLOVES, MITTENS, REPAIRS, ETC.

Special Bargains In Blankets And Robes.

The way to save money is to buy only what you need and then buy the best and as cheap as you can get it. I am Headquarters for all kinds of BOOTS and SHOES, every pair warranted. Call and see for yourself that I can fit you and save you money. My goods are just us I recommend them.

YOURS RESPECTFULLY,
FRANK GRUETZMACHER.

BELL, BELL, BELL.

The above means THE BELL CLOTHING HOUSE at

GARNER, IOWA.

——We have a new and complete stock of——

Clothing and Gents' Furnishings.

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Bicycles and Sporting Goods.

It will pay the people of Klemme and vicinity to call.

Yours for business,

F. B. CASSILL & CO

Subscribe for the KLEMME TIMES.

$1 per. Year

Only Four Days to California.

In response to popular demand, the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad enters upon its 16th year of Philips Personally Conducted Excursions to California. Elegant upholsterad Tourist Cars run through to all California points without charge, leaving St. Paul at 7 p. m., Minneaoplis 7:35 p. m. Oct. 3rd and every Thursday thereafter, and reaching California in less than four days. In this age time is an important factor in the selection of a route. The Albert Lea Route is the quickest and most popular. The price of double sleeping car berths is only $6.00 through. A gentlemanly conductor accompanies the car, and a colored porter accompanying the car performs the usual duties Passengers may take meals in dining cars, or prepare them on cooking ranges provided for the purpese. Secure reservations early, addressing A. B. CUTTS, G. T. & P. A., M. & St. L. Ry., Minneapolis, Minn.

THE

Minneapolis & St Louis R. R. Co

A NEW TRAIN TO OMAHA AND DES MOIOES

It is a HUMMER! Look out For IT!

THROUGH CARS.
PULLMANS
& COACHES
GREAT!

It will run through on time, reaching Des. Moines, Omaha, Denver, California and all points in the West. The previous complete service will not be disturbed by the addition of this train. Ask your nearest M. & St. L R. R. ticket agent for rates and particulars. A. B. CUTTS.
Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agt.

Improved farms in Fayette County, Tennessee. Houses, barns, good wells Peach, Apple, Pear and Apricot orchards. All kinds of grain grown on this land. Plenty of fuel cheap. No waste lands, price $10 to $20, from 1 to 7 miles form R. R. towns. J. R. CLINE.

Program of Teachers' Association to be held at Klemme, Tuesday evening Jan. 14, '96.

Song.....America.
Recitation..Miss Ada Hamilton.
Essay.....Mr. J. J. Suckow.
Select Reading, Miss Stella Day.
Song,..Mr. J. J. Suckow and the Misses Grandfield, Koerner, and Hubbard.
Recitation,.....Mr. V. Walker.
Essay,..Miss Gladys Schmalle.
Select Reading,....Miss Lizzie Martin.
Query Box.
Song, Work For The Night Is Coming.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The total enrollment has reached sixty-one.

The school is preparing for an exhibition to be given for the purpose of securing an organ and a flag.

The average daily attendance is good, but could be better.

The rhetorical exercises last Friday afternoon were appreciated very much by all in the room.

In the "word contest" Geo. Nissen carried off first honors, arranging three hundred and four words from the letters in the word Constantinople. No words were pluralized. Lillie Lau and Esther Gruetzmacher took second rank, each arranging two hundred and eighty-nine words.

A few scholars were on the sick list, viz: Floy Shafer, Gertie Lewis, Huldah Gruetzmacher. Gertie and Floy have returned to school.

Dr. E. E. Sayers, of Algona, Asssistant State Veterinary Surgeon, was in German township on Monday and examined the cattle of W. C. Smith and A. J. Schuldts. He agreed with the diagnosis of our local veterinary, Joe Fotheringham, claiming the disease is caused by eating too much of the dry corn stalks and leaves and not having sufficient water.

POWER OF SPEECH OF THE CAT.

Argument In Favor of the Theory That Felines Can Converse.

Theories of articulate language in the animal kingdom are advanced every day. Some of them are serious, like Professor Garner's notion of an intelligent and intelligible speech of apes, but the most interesting are those which treat of the matter in a half humorous way which does not tax the credulity too far. Such a one is the theory of a feline tongue, exploited by the blind author, Marvin Clark, in his little book on "Pussy and Her Language." He declares that the "smooth and liquid passages in our poets which express onomatopœia are but echoes from that most beautiful of all languages, that of the cat."

The one most like it among human tongues, he says, is the Chinese, the sounds in each being musical, mellifluous and pleasing to the senses. As in the Chinese, too, words in the cat's language have various meanings, according to the inflections of the voice. The number of words is very great, but the author has made up no complete lexicon of them as yet. The following 17, says a writer in the Buffalo Commercial, are the most important and frequent in the conversation which cats struggle to carry on with members of the household: Aelio means food; lae, milk; parriere, open; aliloo, water; bl, meat; ptlee-bl, mouse meat; bleemo-be, cooked meat; pad, foot; bo, head; pro, nail or claw; tut, limb; papoo, body; oolie, fur; mi-ouw, beware; burrieu, satisfaction or content; yiaou, extermination; mi-youw, here.

Of primitive words it is believed there are not more than 600 in the cat tongue, and many of these are obscure, for the cat relies greatly upon signs for making its meaning clear to those who have neglected a study of its articulate speech. Thus the last word in the foregoing list is used by a matronly cat in calling her family together, and she will continue to use it while caressing them.

"But the meaning of the word is never so well understood by kittens as when uttered in a sharp tone and repeated a number of times, more as an explosive than otherwise, for it is a warning of danger and a call for instant action from the mother cat, who is imperious in her demands for obedience."

Then there is the word "mi-youw," which is varied to "wow-teiouw-yow-tiow, wow-you-ts-s-syow," ending in an explosion. The author believes that the word thus uttered signifies both defiance and a curse "and comes so near to bold, bad swearing" that he refrains from giving the English for it.

There may be skeptical persons who will ridicule this theory, but we should say that it was just as reasonable as Professor Garner's, while the language of the cat sounds far more articulate and significant of design than the squeaky vocabulary which he brought home from gorilla land. One thing is certain—the means for carrying on investigation in the interesting field of feline language are available in almost every household, and to obtain the desired conversations from which a voluminous treatise upon it can be written it is not necessary to go to Africa and remain for six months shut up in a cage in the heart of the forest.

FARMS FOR RENT!
FARMS FOR SALE!

Three Fine Farms For Rent, Five Chice Improved Farms For Sale.

TERMS ARE REASONABL

M. S. Gilman,
KLEMME, - - - - - -

H. E. PEITZK
IS THE BLACKSMI
THAT
Will do your work well
He also does wood work.
DO HIS DO
Prices are right,
DO AND DO
Experience great.
KLEMME, IOWA.

B. C. R. & N. TIME TABLE.

GOING SOUTH.

No. 84.	Stock - -	6.00	a. m.
No. 89.	Way freight -	1.30	p. m.
No. 82.	Pass. - -	2.28	p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 83.	Way freight -	10.00	a. m.
No. 85.	Freight -	3.58	p. m.
No. 81.	Pass. - -	5.16	p. m.

F. B. SMITH,
Local Agt.

JOHN BAUMGA
PROPRIETOR O
CITY BARBER
AN EASY SHA
A SATIS
SHOP IN KIRKWO

KLEMME
H. & Draying a done on s
STATE
KLFMM
Does a regular ness. Deals in Foreign
EXCH
Loans money time. Attend and pays interest
posits
C. W. K

GEO. S.
STONE AND Plaste
Do a ment.

Caveats, last
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOS and we can secure patent remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C.A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, JANUARY 17, 1896. NUMBER 21

..HARR.

JGS

AND MEDICINES.

r Paper.

Paints and Oils.

Be Sold Cheap For Cash.

UCED PRICES!

On Fur Coats, Fur Robes, Horse Blankets.

AT REDUCTION!

On Gent's and Ladies' Underwear, Hats, Caps, Overshoes, Felt Boots, Clothing and Overcoats. Large stock, bound to suit the person and his purse.

AN'T MISS IT!

To Examine Our Stock. 5 Per Cent Discount for Cash.

Klemme, Ia.

Correct Time.

ime Everybody had it!

ver been easier to get WATCHES.

KS were never cheaper, never better, never pret-

y we sell better WATCHES for $7.00 than we d buy for $7.00 two years ago.

SHAFER & DOW.

GEO KLUCKHOHN,

The Restaurant Man!

blic with

A Square Meal, Fine Bread Buns, Oysters, Cigars, Tobaccos, etc.

TOWN CALL AND SEE HIM.

IOWA.

Eagle Grove

MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS

MATERIAL THE BEST AND WORKMANSHIP SECOND TO NONE.

GEO. W. SHAFFER, AGENT,

Correspondence Solicited.

MESERVEY, IOWA.

Local Mention.

Fur Coats very cheap at Lau Bros.

Try some cord wood—J. H. Queal Lumber Co.

Lo Wanamaker went to Garner Tuesday.

D. D. Harr, of Belmond was in town Saturday.

A. B. Shafer was at Clear Lake Saturday.

E. E. Smith of Goodell was in town Tuesday.

Chris Lau was doing business at Garner Monday.

Ed Dow and wife were at Garner Monday evening.

Go to Gruetzmacher Bros., to buy your Bobs and Cutters.

Notice the change in Shafer & Dow's ad in this issue.

L. G. Hess and Nels Palmer were at Garner Sunday evening.

Lawrence Larson of Mason City is visiting in town this week.

Bed Blankets all the way from 95c to $4.00 per pair at Lau Bros.

Geo. Gates returned from an extended visit in Wisconsin on Tuesday.

A. Katter and J. Preve went to Chicago with stock Tuesday morning.

There has been no school since Tuesday on account of the furnice smoking.

Hans Nissen and Miss Stella Day attended meeting at Garner Saturday evening.

John Baumgartner and Henry Schrader were at Goodell on business Monday.

Lo Wanamaker and Hans Nissen were on the sick list fore part of the week.

Lou Bros., have a nice line of Horse Blankets and Robes. Call and see them.

F. C. Paul, of Clear Lake, was the guest of Peitzke Bros., latter part of last week.

Mittens, Gloves, etc., are sold cheaper than any other place in town at Lou Bros'

H. E. Peitzke and his brother Will were at Garner on business the latter part of last week.

R. W. Schug will be absent from the city a faw days, transacting business in Minneapolis.

Call at Kluckhohn's restaurant and see the great number of Staple Groceries you can buy for $5.

Miss Jennie Elder, of Concord, visited with Mr. and Mrs. John Zook from Friday until Monday.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

Rev. Henry Schuldt, of Hayfield, and his brother Chas., of Garner, were Klemme callers Saturday.

W. R. Bloom & Noah Shaw shipped two cars of hogs Thursday of last week and one car Sunday.

Dr. Spooner has made an improvement to his residence during the past week by building an addition.

Lew Lewis, Henry Church and Nels Jacobson went to Clear Lake fishing Saturday and returned Monday.

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry can be repaired by bringing them to Shafer & Dow's. All work warrented.

Mesdames Shafer and Spooner returned Thursday from Missouri where they had been visiting for past few weeks.

Chas. Shoemaker returned Friday last from Independence where he had been visiting relatives for the past few weeks.

Don't go and pay 25 cents for a pt. of Oysters when you can buy just as big, fat, juicy ones for 20 cents at the Meat Market.

Rev. Nolte of Goodell was in town Saturday. He had brought two of his boys this far on their way to Armstrong to work.

Olive Lake, divorced wife of James J. Corbett, and Fred L. Mansury were recently married at New York. Young Mansury is worth over a million dollars.

Corn is only worth fourteen cents per bushel. At these prices a farmer gets but little returns for his hard days of toil. It is better, however, to have corn to sell for fifteen cents than to have to buy at fifty.

Many merchants are well aware that their customers are their best friends and take pleasure in supplying them with the best goods obtainable. As an instance we mention Perry & Cameron, prominent druggists of Flushing Michigan. They say: "We have no hesitation in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to our customers, as it is the best cough medicine we have ever sold, and always gives satisfaction." For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by J. L. HARR.

Just received a short time ago at Frank Gruetzmacher's—the best Ladies' Shoes for the money ($2.50) ever brought to the town.

Don't buy those little, cheap bulk Oysters sold at other places, when you can get the nice, large, fat, select ones, just fresh at Kluckhohn's Restaurant for the same money you have to pay for the little Jim Crow ones.

It is now a sure thing that Gov. Morton is in the race for the presidential nomination to be made at St. Louis, June 16, by the republicans. It is said that he will start with a solid New York. He will make his part of the campaign interesting, or rather his friends will for him.

A Missouri populist is trying to build an eternal monument for himself by trying to cross the milk weed with the strawberry, so that strawberries and cream may be raised together. The old way of raising them together—with a spoon—is too slow for him.

The entertainment given on last Thursday evening at the school house by Rube Allyn, the humorist, under the auspices of the Klemme band, was in every way a success. Our band boys rendered some very excellent music on the street in the evening, the school house was filled, and all seemed to be well pleased.

For a pain in the chest a piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of the pain, and another on the back between the shoulders, will afford prompt relief. This is especially valuable in cases where the pain is caused by a cold and there is a tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by J. L. HARR.

The reader of the local columns of a county paper no doubt smiles occasionally at the mention of some one whom he knows well, and says to himself that the paper is "pretty hard up for something to publish." Probably the following week the same individual will smile when he gets a similar notice of himself, but he is sure to think there is nothing wrong about publishing such matters, at last.

A newspaper is soon to be published away up on the edge of the Arctic Circle, in Circle City, the new mining town in Alaska. Up to the present, the people had to depend on their neighbors for the news, the nearest paper being many hundred miles away The paper is to be a weekly and the printing plant is to be shipped in shortly. The editor will take whale blubber, seal skins and walrus tusks on subscription, and of course it will stay.

Not a few who read what Mr. Robert Rowls, of Hollands, Va., has to say below, will remember their own experience under like circumstances: "Last winter I had la grippe which left me in a low state of health. I tried numerous remedies, none of which did me any good, until I was induced to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The first bottle of it so far relieved me that I was enabled to attend to my work, and the second bottle effected a cure." For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by J. L. HARR.

We have received from C. A. Snow & Co., Solicitors of United States and Foreign patents, of Washington, D. C., a pamphlet recently published and copyrighted by them, entitled:

"A summary of foreign patent laws with information and advice about foreign patents, giving the cost of same in various countries."

The pamphlet is concise, well written, and contains, in plain statement, such that will be of interest to inventors, patentees and manufacturers.

A copy will be sent free to anyone addressing C. A. Snow & Co., Patent Lawyers, Washington, D. C.

Two men who had been sitting together in the same seat near the door of a railway car became engaged in an animated controversy, and their loud voices attracted the attention of all the other passengers. Suddenly one of them rose and said: "Ladies and gentlemen, I appeal to you to decide a disputed point. My friend here insists that not more than three persons out of five believe they have souls. I take a more cheerful view of humanity than that. Will all of you who believe they have souls raise your right hand?" Every hand in the car went up. "Thank you," he said with a smile. "Keep them up just a moment. Now, will all of you who believe in a hearafter please raise your left hands also? Thank you again," he said. "Now while all of you have your hands raised," he continued, drawing a pair of revolvers and leveling them, "my friend here will go down the aisle and relieve you of whatever valuables you may happen to have. Lively now Jim.—Ex.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market; costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. HARR. Read our free booklet on Microbic Diseases.

An exchange says that the slate and pencil are going. The city schools all over the country are abandoning them at best. The gritting of the pencil on its surface is a positive wrench to the nerves of many sensitive people, and there are best of sanitary reasons for its abandonment. It fills the air with dust. It soils the hands and clothing of the pupils. It is inconvenient, cumbersome, noisy and in many ways a nusiance. It is being understood in its true character at last, and having done good service, and it is rapidly yielding up its place to the pencil and paper taplet.

"A bachelor old and cranky, was sitting in his room. His toes with the gout were aching, and his face was o'erspread with gloom. No little one's shouts to disturb him—from noise the house was free. In fact, from cellar to attic 'twas as still as still could be. No medical aid was lacking, his servants answered the ring, respectfully heard his orders and supplied him with everything. But still there was something wanting, which he could not command—the kindly words of compassion, the touch of a gentle hand. And he said as his brow grew darker and he rang for the hireling nurse, "Well marriage may be a failure, but this is a jolly sight worse."

The reason kissing is so pleasant, says an osculatory expert of scientific tendencies, is because the teeth, jaw bones and lips are full of nerves, and when the lips of persons meet an electric current is generated, and, chips in a facetious contemporary, you don't have to have a dynamo machine, nor a battery in the house, nor a call box, nor a button to touch to ring up the central office, and there is no patent on it, and the poorest person in the world can enjoy the electric current better than the millionaire, and it never gets out of order. If Edison had invented kissing it would cost $100 a year, like the telephone, and then extra kissing would be charged up extra, and if you didn't pay for it they would take out your kissaphone and disconnect you from the central office.

Goodell Items.

H. V. Reed was doing business here the early part of the week.

Mrs. Dr. Thompson had relatives from Belmond visiting her last week.

E. Mulkins has been seriously sick.

Mrs. Schell was on the sick list last week.

E. M. Fuller has commenced duties as deputy sheriff.

Mrs. J. Mulkins is on the sick list still.

F. L. Bush of Garner was in town last week.

Revival meetings are being held with success in the M. E. church.

Services were held by the Rev. Father Egan in the Catholic Church on Sunday.

G. W. Butts visited relalives at Belmond on Sunday.

A masquerade dance will take place at the Cashman Hall on Friday, 17th.

NOWHERE

A hurried glance at the above letters and one cannot tell which of two words is indicated.

There is no such uncertainty in a hurried glance or careful examination of our Quadruple Silverware which we guarantee to last ten years.

And you will find that

NO WHERE

Can such an assortment of Shelf and Heavy Hardware, Groceries, Paints, Oils, Lime, Stucco, Brick, Pumps, Wagons, Buggies, Etc., be found as are

NOW HERE.

WE ALSO SELL THE PORTABLE CORN CRIB WHICH HOLDS 400 BU., IS 8 FT. HIGH AND 12 FT. IN DIAMETER.

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mouldings.

And everything used to build with.

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in the week.

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'GR.,

KLEMME, IOWA.

J. H. QUEAL & CO.,

Always Lead

In The Best Of Grades At The Lowest Prices

ON

LUMBER, LATH, Posts, Sash, DOORS

SHINGLES ETC.

Call and see us for anything in our line and be convinced of the above facts.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.

SALE

A solid week of SPECIAL CLEARING SALES, Beginning

MONDAY, JANUARY 13.

245 Garments of Children's Underwear at 25 per cent discount.

A large assortment of Men's, Boys' and Children's caps at 25 per cent discount.

95 Garments of Ladies' Underwear.
75 Garments of Men's Underwear.
18 doz. of Wool Hosiery.
One lot of Men's flannel and Jersey over shirts.
One lot of Ladies' double beaver shawls.
One lot of Ladies' wool shirts.
One lot Mittens and Gloves.
One lot wool blankets. On all the above 20 per cent discount.

Dress Goods

LININGS GIVEN FREE with each dress-pattern bought during the week of sale. At ane above 45c per yard.

After this week we will continue to sell goods at our regular prices which are

NOT AT COST NOR LESS THAN COST But just as CLOSE TO COST as is possible for any reliable house to sell.

E. P. Schaefer.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, . . . IOWA

A Kentucky judge nearly died from hiccoughs a short time ago. Thus it is seen that even mint has its thorns.

Erastus Wiman is beginning the world again, and it is safe to say that he will not allow himself to be Dun up again.

A woman, Miss Emma Whitney of Cleveland, who was recording clerk of the Ohio Legislature last year, will likely be re-elected.

Is anything serious troubling Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany? No arrests for lese-majeste have been reported for a period of fully a week.

To the people who find themselves confused by diplomatic terms we will say that the Monroe doctrine means: "Shinny on your own side."

"Old Glory" should never be floated in front of a wrong. And when it is afloat, Americans will mass in solid columns behind when the bugle sounds.

Senator Teller may be credited with the introduction into political jargon of a phrase which will go far. But no one likes to be called a "tide-water waiter."

Mlle. Yvette Guilbert's visit can have no demoralizing effect on persons who do not understand French and carefully refrain from attending her performance.

There appears to be a disposition on the part of the czar to pat us on the back and say "Bully Boy!" from which we infer that he would like to have England's attention distracted for a few minutes.

A New York paper, referring to the recent Ahlwardt episode, says: "This egg business ought to be stopped." Well, Ahlwardt is doing his full share; he succeeded in stopping three of them the other night.

In Ypsilanti a widower married a widow and on the same day the widower's son married the widow's daughter. It is evident that they do not intend to have the third generation spoiled by a superabundance of doting grandparents.

Congressman Woodman insists upon hanging his hat and overcoat on the screen behind his seat in the house. The astute member from Chicago hasn't knocked about in that city for twenty years without finding out that he who hangs his spare garments out of his sight is apt to find them in a pawn shop.

A good citizen does not care if there is a policeman on every corner, while the thief "fears every bush an officer." The former sees the shield on his breast; the latter the club in his hand. So, to the righteous, God is a sun and a shield; to the ungodly he is "a consuming fire." The former hopes for heaven; the latter fears the bottomless pit.

Worth noting—the assertion of the English trade journals that in case of a brief war between this country and England, the only effect on the grain trade would be increased prices. Against shortness of supply England would expect to be protected by heavy shipments from Russia and India. If the war were prolonged the difficulties about supply would be greater.

Co-operative stores are making headway in France as well as in England. The value of sales of the 306 societies in France is over $15,000,000 a year, and the total number of members is about 300,000. In addition to these societies in France are the farmers' syndicates, in which about 900,000 persons are concerned. The syndicates buy fertilizers and other chemicals for vine culture, maintain laboratories for the analysis of soils, publish monthly price lists and perform other services for the general benefit.

A peculiar fact in respect to petroleum is the difference of conditions under which that oil occurs in Russia and America. In the former it is found in strata of the tertiary period, usually a formation resembling a quicksand and at depths of only a few hundred feet—in this country it occurs at great depths in the older compact sandstones and limestones of the Carboniferous, Devonian, and Silurian periods. The oil of Russia consists of a class of hydro-carbons known as napthenes, belonging to the benzine groups, while American oil is mainly composed of paraffine; it is to this difference that the great variation between the products from these oils is due, for, while American oil yields a very large proportion, say about 70 per cent., of illuminating oil exactly suited for combustion in ordinary lamps, the Russian oil produces far less of such oil and a larger proportion of high-class lubricating oil.

William Watson, Lewis Morris and Alfred Austin have all been considered by Queen Victoria as candidates for the laureateship. If she had not stopped when she fixed her choice on Austin the chances are that eventually she would have pitched upon a poet for the position.

Concerning Russia's alleged offer to furnish us with all the millions of gold we may need, it is unkind to recall the fact that a few years ago we were sending shiploads of provisions to the famine-stricken subjects of the Czar.

The Cuban insurgents are mistaken in the policy of devastating sugar plantations and destroying property by dynamite. They may make Cuba a desert, but that would not make it free, while it would be made not worth having either free or enslaved.

Italy has offered to act as umpire in the Venezuelan dispute if Great Britain will agree to arbitration. The services of Italy in procuring an agreement from Great Britain to arbitrate are more acceptable than its offer to be the arbitrator.

IOWA NEWS IN BRIEF

LINSEED CAKE (oil meal) does not only keep your stock in good order, but is a great flesh producer and is now as cheap as corn. Write Des Moines Linseed Oil Works for pamphlets and prices.

IN the federal court at Madison, Wis., Miss Lucia Griffin, of Albia, secured a verdict against the Illinois Central Railway company for $10,000 for injuries received at the depot in that city.

Two graves in the Saylorville cemetery, near Des Moines, were robbed and the bodies were found in the dissecting room of the Drake Medical College a tDes Moines. All the students have been arrested.

RECEIVER DUNLOP will pay another dividend this month to depositors of the Northwestern State bank, of Sibley. It is thought that 80 per cent in all will be realized for depositors. When the bank suspended there was due depositors $135,000.

REPRESENTATIVES of the Chicago Great Western railroad were at Manley last week and closed the deals for all the real estate between the present terminus of the road and connection with the Iowa Central. This property was right in the heart of the town. It is understood that the Great Western has leased eight miles of Iowa Central track and from this will build its own line into Mason City, its terminal point.

CRESTON had another destructive fire a few days ago. Charles L. Bullard's dry goods store, one of the largest in the city, was badly burned. The fire department responded quickly and the flames were extinguished, but not before $4,500 worth of goods had been destroyed and damaged by fire, smoke and water. Mr. Bullard is fully protected by insurance. The fire was caused by sparks falling on a handkerchief table from an electric arc light.

AT the caucuses of the republicans of the legislature at Des Moines H. W. Byers, of Shelby county, was nominated for speaker of the house; J. D. Rowen, of Des Moines, for chief clerk, and Sherman Myers, of Cass county, and Ford Howell, of Van Buren, for assistants. William Bullard, of Belmond, was nominated for secretary of the senate, and Chas. J. Talmadge, of West Union, and S. H. Sibley, of State Center, for assistants.

SUPREME COURT REPORTER I. B. SALLINGER, of Manning, met with a serious accident a few days ago. In company with a companion he was driving from Kirkman to Harlan, when the front wheels of the buggy were accidentally jerked out, letting the front end drop to the ground. Sallinger was thrown forward upon the dashboard. An examination by the physician at Harlan showed that one of his ribs was broken. He believes that he will be ready for work in a short time.

THE Des Moines Daily News has solved the problem of placing a first-class condensed daily paper within the reach of all. The regular price of the Daily News is $2 a year, but until February 29, 1896, any person can take it at $1 a year, cash in advance. Only yearly subscriptions taken at this rate. Present subscribers can extend their subscriptions one year for $1, up to February 29. Thus, for $1 you can have a daily paper during the coming legislature and throughout the presidential campaign. No such offer was ever made before. The News gives absolutely all the news of the day in condensed form. Address, The News, Des Moines, Iowa.

E. W. MCFARLAND, son of the late Judge McFarland, who was one of the pioneer judges of Iowa, was shot in Boone last week and died soon afterward. The shooting was done by Stanhope Royster, a farmer living ten or twelve miles north. Royster's daughter, Annie, a girl of 20 or 22, employed as a domestic, went to live with McFarland, who had a suite of rooms on Keeler street. Royster learned of his daughter's conduct and came to Boone. He met McFarland in a saloon on Keeler street, and shot him five times, one bullet going through McFarland's lungs and one into the abdomen. Royster is under arrest.

CHARLES LEE has recently been received at the Anamosa prison from Dubuque county under a sentence of one year for larceny. It will be remembered that several years ago two boys, Charles Lee and Barney Hansen, were sent to the penitentiary for killing a street car conductor in Dubuque. Subsequently Lee was released by the supreme court, it being proved that Lee, who was then but 11 years old, had no hand in the killing, although in Hansen's company when the deed was done. When he was set free Lee at once returned to Dubuque and was there arrested for the larceny of the revolver with which Hansen shot the street car conductor. He was convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary for one year. Barney Hansen is still in the prison for the murder, although he made his escape once, but was immediately caught and returned to the prison.

ISAAC DICKERSON is on trial at Council Bluffs on the charge of fraudulent banking in the management of the Cass County bank, which failed two years ago, and lost the depositors $40,000. Dickerson claims he had no connection with the institution.

GENERAL DRAKE has appointed General H. H. Wright, of Centerville, to be adjutant general of Iowa; Capt. W. H. Fleming, of Des Moines, is named as private secretary to the governor, and W. S. Richards and F. W. Myers are appointed clerks in the governor's office.

LUDIEG SCHMIDT, living in the south part of Fort Dodge, was up for trial in Justice Russell's court for assault and battery. The complaint was lodged by his step-daughter, Anna Ketzback, who claims he has been striving to accomplish her ruin for some time. He bought her a fine gold watch the other day, and tried by this means to have her consent to his evil designs. She, however, still refused, and he became so angered he beat her unmercifully. He was heavily fined and instructed by Justice Russell to stop persecuting the girl.

ANNA MCGRAW, a waitress at a hotel in Sioux City, is in a fair way to lose her life, or at least her eyesight, as the result of a rat bite on the eyelid. The girl was sleeping in her room at the time the injury was inflicted. She was suddenly aroused by a sharp pain over her eye, and sprang up just in time to see a large rat leap to the floor and vanish in a corner of the room. The sufferer was nearly prostrated by the shock. Inflammation has set in, and the physicians fear that blood poisoning will follow.

THE commission of the grand lodge I. O. O. F. of Iowa, selected to locate the proposed home of the order, for indigent Odd Fellows and their orphans, met in Des Moines last week. The members of the commission were E. W. Hartman, Indianola; J. S. Bellamy, Knoxville; George Whipple, Burlington; J. T. Abbott, Manchester; F. Dieckman, Clinton, and Grand Master C. W. Bowen, Centerville. The commission at a previous meeting decided to locate the home at Jefferson, but Indianola made offers for the institution that caused the commission to doubt the advisability of locating the home at Jefferson, so it was decided to leave it to the members of the grand lodge, about 110 in number, as an advisory board and ask their opinon. The grand lodge by a vote of three to one fixed on Jefferson for the location, and the commission at Des Moines by a unanimous vote decided it should go to that city.

SIOUX CITY dispatch: The era of crime in this city has become alarming and the city officials are considering what is best to do about it. The police committee of the city council held a long session with the mayor and it was decided to notify the chief of police that the tough element now in control of the city must be cleaned out. He is given two weeks in which to show what he can do, and if it is not then done he will be asked to step aside and another will be put in and the force be increased. Complaints are made daily of the frequency of crime, and business men say it is hurting the town seriously. The chief says that he cannot procure convictions in the courts and is unable to suppress the tough element until the council passes ordinances making it easier to convict. As the chief has only two months more of his term it is not expected that any stringent measures will be taken to better the town's reputation.

FIVE years ago John L. Mingus, of Muscatine, and Miss Mary Boland, of Lake township, Muscatine county, were married in Davenport. Mingus was about 18 years of age at that time. They now have a child 2 years of age. About five weeks ago, the Muscatine News-Tribune says, Mingus deserted his wife, married a Miss Mary Ohm, of Coal Valley, Rock Island county, Illinois, and came with her to Davenport to live. There he worked at a hotel for a time, and briefly for the street car company. A week ago he vanished from this wife also, telling her that he was going to St. Louis to look for work, and that he had another wife in Des Moines, from whom he had tried to secure legal separation, but from whom he had never been divorced. The first wife was but 14 years old when she married, and is now only 19, of course. She has been left in straitened circumstances. Her brother, John Boland, has been in Davenport in the effort to find Mingus, not knowing of his second bigamous marriage, and the desertion of the second wife. The whereabouts of Mingus are not known.

JUDGE GEORGE G. WRIGHT died at his home in Des Moines on the morning of the 11th. Judge Wright had been failing, it was thought, for some months, but no anxiety was felt at any time until a stroke on the afternoon of the 10th. This passed away, however, but at 3:30 the next morning he passed away with but little warning. Judge Wright was born in Bloomington, Monroe county, Indiana, March 24, 1820. His parents were of Welch extraction. He was graduated at the State University of Indiana in 1839, and read law under his brother, Joseph A. Wright, at Rockville, Ind. He was admitted to the bar in 1840. In September of that year he came to Iowa, his father locating at Keosauqua, Van Buren county, where he himself began the practice of law. After two years at Keosauqua he was elected district prosecuting attorney on the Whig ticket, and in 1848 was elected to the state senate. In 1850 he was a candidate for congress, but was defeated. When 35 years of age he was elected chief justice of the state supreme court, holding the position for fifteen years. In 1870 he was elected to the United States senate, declining a re-election. Judge Wright was president of the State Agricultural Society for five years, up to 1863. He was president of the American Bar Association during 1887 and 1888. Since 1882 he has been president of the Polk County Savings bank, and connected with several financial institutions of the city and state.

THE Iowa State Marble and Granite Association finished its second annual session at Ottumwa by selecting Des Moines as the next place for meeting, and choosing J. M. Graham, of Des Moines, president, and George H. Guber, of Muscatine, secretary and treasurer. They took action to secure legislation which would enable them to hold a lien on a monument as well as any other merchandise.

MRS. ELIZABETH A. CIVEN, wife of Chief Justice Given, of the Iowa supreme court, died at their home in Des Moines on the 10th.

WM. WARE, who took twenty-five grains of morphine a week ago at Ottumwa and recovered, died a few days ago of inflammation of liver and heart. Physicians consider it a queer case.

AS a special train of railroad officials was passing across Main street at Havelock, it struck J. C. Guttman, more familiarly known as "Dutch Chrispie," breaking both bones of his right arm just below the elbow. He had got across the track when the train struck him, and fortunately escaped with his life. The train was running at a high rate of speed.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS

SECRETARY CARLISLE recently issued a call for bids on an issue of $100,000,000 in 4 per cent bonds.

ENGLAND announces that she will gladly furnish the Venezuelan commission with all the evidence in her possession.

DISPATCHES from Washington state that in case of war several monitors now under construction could soon be put in readiness for the sea.

SENOR PALMA, the Cuban representative, called on Secretary of State Olney last week and presented a mass of documents in support of the claims of the Cuban insurgents to recognition.

IN Wise county, Virginia, William Wells and Gus Osborn fought a hand-to-hand fight with James Cox and Henry Williams over two women. Wells and Osborn were killed and Cox mortally wounded.

IT is said that Turkey owes this country $400,000 as indemnity for property destroyed by Turks and that the war ships of this country may make a demonstration at the Bosphorus if the amonut is not soon paid.

LATE reports are to the effect that the heavy Abyssinian losses in the attack upon Markale on January 8, when 10,000 natives were killed, were due to the explosion of mines laid by the Italians outside the fortifications.

The democratic joint executive caucus of the Kentucky legislature nominated Senator J. C. S. Blackburn as the candidate of that party to succeed himself in the United States senate. The deciding ballot resulted: Blackburn, 37; McCreary, 12; Brown, 6.

MRS. ALVA E. VANDERBILT, the divorced wife of W. K. Vanderbilt, was married to Oliver Hazard Perry Belmont by Mayor Strong at the bride's residence in New York City in the presence of a very few personal friends. The couple at once left for Newport.

ISAAC WILSON, democratic member of the Kentucky legislature, has died. This breaks the tie. The republicans have sixty-eight votes, democrats sixty-seven, populists two. The latter will vote with the republicans for the election of a United States senator. Congressman Godfrey Hunter of the Third district will probably be chosen.

A DISPATCH from St. Petersburg says that the crew of the first-class Russian steel cruiser Rurik, 10,923 tons, mutinied recently while that vessel was in the harbor of Algiers. The mutiny, it is added, was suppressed by the French authorities, and thirty of the leaders of the outbreak are now said to be on their way to Cronstadt, where they are to be executed.

A NEW YORK paper says: Positive announcements come from Indianapolis concerning the much talked of engagement of ex-President Harrison and Mrs. Mary Scott Dimmock, and though neither one of the contracting parties will say a word, it is nearly certain that the marriage will take place before Lent. It will be solemnized at Mrs. Dimmock's home and will probably be a very quiet affair.

THE United States district attorney has begun action at New York city against thirty-two railroads in the Joint Traffic Association, in accordance with directions from Attorney General Harmon, for conspiring to violate the interstate commerce law. At the same time he gave notice that on January 17 he would move for an injunction restraining the association from operating under its agreement.

ATTORNEY GENERAL MALONEY, of Illinois, has begun proceedings before Judge Gibbons, of the circuit court of Cook county, to annul the charter of the National Linseed Oil Company, on the ground that the corporation is a trust, in violation of the anti-trust laws of the state of Illinois. Among the corporations named as having been absorbed into and comprising the trust are eleven located in various cities in Iowa.

THE Kansas City Journal revives the recent stories of attempts being made to corner the output of western gold mines, and asserts that through business transactions of the Wells-Fargo company it has developed that agents of the Rothschilds have secured contracts with the mine owners of Cripple Creek under which most of the gold taken from the mines there during the coming year will go into the coffers of the bankers. Company officials refuse to confirm this statement, but the Journal asserts that the information leaked out through authentic sources.

Mesaba Miners May Join.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 11.—Representatives of all the companies owning Bessemer iron ore mines in the Lake Superior region are in conference here for the purpose of reaching an agreement, if possible, to limit the annual output at each mine. Last year a similar agreement was made by the companies operating all the mines, except those in the Mesaba range. The Mesaba men are at the present meeting, and the others hope to bring them into line.

Not Her Fault.

Susie—And so you are an old maid, auntie—a real old maid?

Aunt Ethel—Yes, Susie, dear—I'm a real old maid.

Susie (wishing to be nice and comforting)—Well, never mind, poor dear auntie. I am sure it isn't your fault.

Wifely Confidence.

"I feel really sorry for my husband during the holidays," remarked the very complacent woman.

"Indeed!"

"Yes. He is so correct in his habits that when New Year's comes he can't swear off."

Overheard on the Golden Stairs.

Angel—The great reformer that was in room 3,678,999,444 has paid his bill and gone.

St. Peter—Didn't he like Paradise?

Angel—No, he was terribly disappointed when he discovered there was nothing in his line here, and took the first elevator down.

At the Metropolitan Museum.

Underhill (a crusty old bachelor)—There, that's Minerva, the Goddess of Wisdom. She never got married.

Artful Widow—No; but this is King Solomon, the wisest man that ever lived. He married a thousand times.

CUBA.

NEW YORK, January 11.—A special to a local paper from Key West, Fla. gives additional details of the capture of Guamara, a city of 8,000 inhabitant and the third in importance in the province of Havana and Pinar Del Rio. Desperate fighting occurred. Much of it was hand to hand, and resulted in heavy loss on each side. While the battle was raging, Gomez, with re-inforcements, came up, and the Spanish troops took refuge in the cathedral, a great stone building, which is almost impregnable. Gomez made repeated assaults on the building, losing many men and gaining no advantage. Finally Gomez ordered fires kindled against the doors and on the roof of the cathedral unless the Spaniards immediately surrendered. Guiterrez, realizing that further resistance simply meant the cremation and slaughter of his men, agreed to surrender and marched the remnant of his troops out of the cathedral. Six hundred Spaniards were either killed or wounded. The insurgent loss was 400.

HAVANA, January 12.—It is rumored that a large relief expedition has been landed on the north coast of Pinar del Rio to aid the insurgents. The boldness of the insurgents in that region lends color to the truth of the story.

General Gomez, with a large force, is just entering the rich tobacco growing districts of Pinar del Rio, and it is believed they will be devastated.

NEW HOUSE RULE.

WASHINGTON, January 12.—The rules adopted by the house contain one important change. It is as follows: "Whenever a quorum fails to vote on any question and a quorum is not present, and objection is made for that cause, there shall be a call of the house, and the sergeant-at-arms shall forthwith proceed to bring in absent members, and the yeas and nays on the pending question shall at the same time be considered as ordered. The clerk shall call the roll, and each member as he answers to his name may vote on the pending question, and after the roll call is completed each member arrested shall be brought by the sergeant-at-arms before the house, whereupon he shall be noted as present, discharged from arrest and given an opportunity to vote, and his vote shall be recorded. If those voting on the question and those who decline to vote shall together make a majority of the house, the speaker shall declare that a quorum is constituted and the pending question shall be decided as a majority of those voting shall appear. And thereupon further proceedings under the call shall be considered as dispensed with."

HIGH TREASON.

LONDON, January 12.—New features of the trouble growing out of Dr. Jameson's raid into the Transvaal are the practical refusal of the Uitlanders to surrender their arms, and the arrest at Johannesburg of a number of members of the national reform committee on charge of high treason. Among the prisoners are several of the leading residents of Johannesburg, including Colonel Rhodes, brother of Cecil Rhodes, ex-prime minister of Cape Colony, who is said to be ill at Cape Town.

LONDON, January 12.—A dispatch to the Central News from Berlin says that unless Great Britain satisfies the demands of President Kruger, which include the abrogation of the convention of 1884, by the terms of which Great Britain exercises suzerainty over the Transvaal republic, Germany will urge Kruger to appeal to the European powers to support him in his demands.

TIED TO A TREE.

BUFFALO, January 11.—James W. MacDonald, alias Geo. Allen, who was indicted by the grand jury for complicity with Claude Strong, alias John C. Emory, in kidnapping O. O. Cottle, a prominent lawyer of this city, last June, has pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to the Elmira reformatory until discharged by law. Mr. Cottle was decoyed to a vacant house and there chained to a post in the cellar until he wrote to his family asking them to ransom him for a large sum of money. His son afterwards conferred with the abductors in Victoria, Ontario, and it is supposed that part of the money demanded was paid at the conference. But when McDonald, alias Allen, was sent here a second time to get more money from the Cottles, they informed the police and Allen was arrested.

KILLED BY HUNDREDS.

TEHERAN, Persia January 11.—Two severe earthquakes, causing the loss of 1,100 lives, have occurred in the Khalkal district. The first shock was very severe. It completely destroyed the village of Zanzabad and partly destroyed other villages. Three hundred persons perished in the several villages. The last shock destroyed the small town of Goi, and did great damage in many of the villages in the district affected. Eight hundred persons were killed in Goi alone. Large numbers of cattle and sheep were killed.

Gold Found in Indiana.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Jan. 13.—Considerable excitement has been caused at Gravely run by the discovery of an unusually rich deposit of glacial gold. Henry Morrison, while working on a dam at a terminal of an old glacier on Sugar creek, found several nuggets of pure gold, one of which weighed several ounces.

Her Love Was Cold.

"What is it, love—why are you so cold?"

"You are too business-like, Henry. Your last letter—"

"Was so impassioned that—"

"Yes, I know; but you dictated it to your type writer."

No Assistance Needed.

"Will you please help the butter?" said the new arrival to the star boarder.

"After you have been here a while longer," replied the latter, "you will become aware of the fact that the butter is strong enough to need no assistance whatever."

Genteel Employment.

Mrs. A.—Is it true that your son holds the appointment of warder in a jail?

Mrs. B.—Yes, but only criminals of good families are imprisoned there.

He Saw Double.

Radbourn—That was a funny thing about Jagleight.

Chesney—What was that?

Radbourn—He went out and got full the other day. When he got home and met his wife he thought he had committed bigamy. He hasn't touched a drop since.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, January 7.—Jones, of Arkansas, of the finance committee, reported a free silver substitute for the house bond bill and gave notice that he would call it up to-morrow. Senate resumed consideration of Sherman's resolution concerning the gold reserve, and Vest took the floor and arraigned the supreme court for its decision on the income tax law, laying the responsibility for the lack of revenue at their door. Elkins, of West Virginia, offered a resolution, and it was referred to finance committee. Hereafter, by it, any contemplated issue of United States bonds will be advertised at least twenty days and sold to the highest bidders.

HOUSE.

Allen, the new member from Utah, was admitted. Resolutions calling upon attorney-general for information concerning enforcement of the anti-trust law, and on the secretary of the treasury for statistics concerning the seal fisheries of the Behring sea, were adopted.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, January 8.—Committee on naval affairs reported favorably the bill authorizing the secretary of the navy to increase the number of enlisted men. Butler, of North Carolina, offered two amendments to house bond bill. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Spalding, of Michigan, presented a resolution that the Sandwich Islands be erected into a new state, to be called State Hawaii, with a republican form of government, to be adopted by the people in convention through deputies, with the consent of the present government and annexed to the United States.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, January 9.—A bill taking criminal cases, not capital, out of the hands of the supreme court, was referred to the judiciary committee. Baker, of Kansas, offered a resolution stating that extension of territory in America by any foreign power would be an unfriendly act. Referred to committee on foreign relations. Stuart advocated the passage of the Elkins bond resolution, and predicted the failure of the popular loan. Excutive session. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Resolution was offered by Livingston, of Georgia, requiring the president to ascertain whether Great Britain is advancing her outposts in Venezuela, and that if it be found that this has been done since December 17th that the president demand the withdrawal of said troops. Referred. General pension bill for the year was reported and notice was given that it would be called up to-morrow. Adjourned.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, January 10.—Morgan, of Alabama, introduced a resolution congratulating the republic of Transvaal for its stand for independence. Referred. Jones, of Arkansas, advocated the passage of the free coinage substitute for the house bond bill, after which the senate adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE.

After a short debate on the rules, the house adjourned.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, January 11.—House spent the day in discussing the proposed changes in the rules.

Engineer Saves His Passengers.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 13.—The Illinois Central passenger train leaving here at 8:40 yesterday morning ran into an open switch at Mud Lake, seven miles east of this city. The engine is badly damaged and the baggage car a total wreck. The injured are: Engineer Adam Shell of Clinton; head badly cut and perhaps injured internally. Fireman Alonzo McDonald of Springfield; badly bruised and scratched. Engineer Shell remained at his post and reversed the engine, and undoubtedly saved the lives of twenty passengers, as otherwise the train would have gone over an embankment into the lake.

Omaha's Ex-Treasurer Arrested.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 13.—Ex-City Treasurer Bolln was arrested last night. He was deposed several months ago, owing to rumors of shortage in his office. Recently it developed that over $100,000 of the city funds could not be accounted for. His deputy, Jerome Eugene Coulter, was arrested recently for taking $30,000 of the money, but, for some reason, Bolln escaped prosecution until last night. The arrest has been expected for some time, but as Bolln's bondsmen appeared to be satisfied, and the public prosecutor took little notice of the big shortage, it was thought the matter would go by default.

Chicago Board of Trade.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—The following table shows the range of quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade to-day:

Articles.	High.	Low.	Close.
Wh't-No. 2.			Jan. 10.	Jan. 9.
Jan. ...	$ 57⅛	$ .56¾	$ .57	$ .57⅝
Feb. ...	.57⅜	.57	.57¼	.57⅞
May ...	.59⅞	.59½	.59¾	.60⅜
July ...	.60⅜	.60	.60¼	.60¾
Corn—
Jan. ...	.26½	.26¼	.26⅜	.26¾
May ...	.29	.28¾	.28⅞	.29⅛
July ...	.29⅞	.29⅝	.29⅞	.30
Oats—
Jan. ...	.....	.....	.17½	.17½
Feb. ...	.18	.17¾	.17⅞	.18⅛
May ...	.19¾	.19½	.19¾	.19⅞
July ...	.20¼	.19⅞	.20	.20¼
Pork—
Jan. ...	.....	.....	9.50	9.62½
May ...	9.85	9.75	9.82½	9.92½
Lard—
Jan. ...	5.47½	5.45	5.47½	5.55
May ...	5.80	5.75	5.80	5.85
S. Ribs—
Jan. ...	4.60	4.57½	4.60	4.70
May ...	4.90	4.82½	4.87½	4.95

Italians Defeat Abyssinians.

Rome, Jan. 11.—News is received here that the Italians in Abyssinia have defeated Emperor Menelik's forces at Makalen, the engagement taking place on Jan. 7. The Shoans lost heavily, while the Italians had only three native troopers killed and a few wounded.

Ex-Governor of Minnesota Dead.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 11.—Ex-Governor W. R. Marshall, of Minnesota, died at 10:40 o'clock Wednesday night at Pasadena, Cal., where he went about two years ago for his health.

VENEZUELA IN PARAGRAPHS.

Eight states are in the union.

Population of Venezuela is 2,121,998.

Venezuela contains 566,000 square miles.

Fifteen per cent of the population are full-blooded Indians.

The territory in dispute is about the size of our state of Maine.

British Guiana was acquired by England through treaty in 1814.

In 1893 the amount of gold mined in Venezuela was 47,000 ounces.

Why He Forgot.

Snipleigh—I say, Poorpeigh, how is it you have not paid that bill of mine?

Poorpeigh—My dear fellow, I have been so busy on that new book of mine that I had forgotten all about it.

Snipleigh—What are you writing?

Poorleigh—A treatise on memory.

Outdone.

DeSapley—You ought to love me; just think how hard I have worked for you.

Miss Pert—If you figure it in that way I should marry the gardener.

Feed

The nerves up... be your failure. ...y will ...rannical ma... but strong... pure ...

HONABL... man, ...

the FITZK... our t... It's M... insist... having ... well ...

Look for "S. H. ..." label and take no ...

If your dealer will ... we will ...

Send for samples, ... rials, to the S. H. & M... York City.

LAST CALL

$1 LAST ... p. m.

La... This ... panied ... p. m. for one year ... tion for ... MOINES ... NEWS (by ... presented ... February ... al day.

$1 LAS...

ASK Y... NEY...

W. L. ... ...nesses ... ...ness of ... ...ambine of ... ...see me. San... ...000. It ... ...Iquoises ... ...ere req... ...De M... ...rally ... ...y ...

manufacturer in the ... None genuine ... price is stamped ... on ...

Ask your deale... $4, $3.50, $2.50, $2.50, $2 and $1.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE. If ... cannot supply you, ... tory, enclosing price ... to pay carriage. State ... of toe (cap or plain), ... width. Our Custom Dept... your order. Send for new... trated Catalogue to Box R... W. L. DOUGLAS, ...

ABSOLUTELY PURE QUINN'S OINTMENT SPEEDILY REMOVES Trade-Mark.

Quinn's Ointme...

Write for proof. Price $1.50. Sma... At all druggists, or sent by... W. B. EDDY & CO., Whit...

THE AERMOTOR CO. does a windmill business, because it has reduced wind power to 1.6 what it was. It has ... houses, and supplies its goods ... at your door. It can and does ... better article for less ... others. It makes ... Geared, Steel, ... Completion ... and Fixed Steel Towers, ... Frames, Steel ... Grinders, Engines, ... of these articles. ... January 1st at 1/3 the ... Tanks and Pumps of all ... Factory: 12th, Rockwell ...

BEST ... "White German... world. Weigh 56 pounds ... bushels per acre. We ... fill above specifications ... Circulars. Send 10... age of oats, descriptive ... agents, etc., to W. ...

A FIGHTIN... ...Presid... THE CHICAGO CHI... cratic newspaper of the ... $3. No subscription fo... this rate. Sample co... CLE, 164-166 Washing...

HA... Cleanses and ... Promotes a ... Never Fails to Restore ... Hair to its Youthful Color. ... Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. ... 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

PATENTS, TRADE MARKS

Examination and Advice as to Patentability of Invention. Send for "Inventors' Guide, or How to Get a Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Washington, D. C.

$5 Hand Bone, Shell, and Corn Mills for Poultrymen. Daisy Bone Cutter. Power Mills. Circular and testimonials Free. WILSON BROS., Easton, Pa.

10,000 MEN WANTED! To buy our Trees, Shrubs and Vines. Send list of wants or see some of our salesmen. Can give employment to Fifty Good Men. Liberal terms. Address Des Moines Nursery Co., Des Moines, Ia.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. DR. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

W. N. U. ... D. M. ... 1227. NO. ...

When answering advertisements kindly mention this paper.

The Pace That Kills.

Fast Work and Fast Eating Make Three Score Years and Ten a Ripe Old Age in These Days.

(From the Cincinnati Enquirer.)

The American people live too fast, eat too fast and drink too fast. This has brought upon many of us a train of nervous and stomach disorders that are very difficult to manage. Investigation and chemical analysis to discover such compounds as will help those suffering from such ills has resulted in the discovery of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, which has taken very high rank as a specific remedy.

H. P. Owens, a traveling man thirty years of age, who is well known in this ... and generally liked because he ... young fellow, resides ... Central Avenue, ... been a victim of ... rm of continu ... agely enough, ... same trouble. ... erits of Pink ... way, and said ...

"I can for Dr. ... they did me ... ought to know ... in stomach ... go when I ... mach, and I ... ot consult a ... ne Pink Pills I ... two or three ... stomach dis- ... regular. I ... a box of ... that time I ... roubled with ... worried, be- ... Mother was ... tion and the ... or her they did ... they, mother?" ... Owens answered: ... nd it was a great ... to take and so quick and ... its."

... ontinued: "I believe that ... are also good for nervousness. ... my stomach trouble I was also ... ous and that disappeared with ... ia. The Pink Pills were all that ... them. You can make any ... imonial you see fit."

... is has occupied several posi- ... t in this city. He was for a ... loye of the Commercial-Gazette. ... n the road in a few days for a ... business house here. Mrs. ... ite as enthusiastic as her son ... ink Pills and her host of lady ... erify her good opinion of this ... medy if they feel disposed to ... y time. Where the testimony ... and unanimous as to the ex- ... Pink Pills as the Enquirer has ... there is certainly good reason ... good things said—about ... remedy.

... k Pills for Pale People ... nts necessary to give ... to the blood and re- ... s. They may be had ... rect by mail from the ... ne Company, Schenec- ... per box, or six boxes for ...

...HOLD HINTS.

... are used for chafing ...

... l out your dinner in- ... ten days in advance. ... old the match on ... nd not to the top. ... n of your table have ... e felt or heavy can- ...

... year ... from No- ...

... tened ... king ... der ... nkled ... on the ... water ... uids or ... ased, as ... uer. All ... oft flannel ... and in a dry ... richer and a ... when it is possi- ... the meat before ...

Tobacco Trust.

... (Special)—Col. Wm. ... ral western manager ... Tobacco Co., has ... ous friends by stop- ... bacco. For years he ... y strong cigars daily, ... ntity would leave him ... ll. The habit was under- ... aith, and he tried to quit, ... t, until he took No-To- ... ical miracle that has cured ... thousands of tobacco-users. ... chhoff's craving for tobacco has ... gone, and he feels better than ... fore. He is a great No-To-Bac ... ast now. Over 300,000 bad to- ... sers have been cured by No- ... and the loss to tobacco manu- ... s is easily over $10,000,000 a ...

Another War Scare.

... ie—Foot ball ground.—Innocent ... ger—What are they waiting for, can ... ll me? It's ten minutes after the ... rtised for the start.

... Yes, I know; but there's no sur- ... bulance arrived yet. You ... n start the matter with- ... ou!

... OATS AND CORN.

... ed $200 for the ... 209 bushels Sil- ... the prize. This ... on oats, $100 on ... barley yielding ... per acre, and $100 ... Yellow Dent Corn, ... ams!

... d Sand Vetch and ... s and Giant Spur- ... ate Clover and lots ... ey'll make you rich ... nty. Catalogue tells ...

... his out and send it ... the John A. Salzer ... sse, Wis., you will get ... s and grains, including ... barley, corn and their mam- ... moth catalogue. Catalogue alone 5c. W.N.

The Pace That Kills.

Mrs. Norris—What a pace old Dr. Green drives at.

Mr. Norris—Ah, yes; "the pace that kills."

Cheap Excursions to Great Southwest.

On January 14 and 28, February 11 and March 10, 1896, the Santa Fe Route will run a series of homeseekers excursions from the east to principal points in Arkansas, Arizona, Southern Missouri, Oklahoma, Indian Territory and Texas.

Ticket rate will be about one fare for round trip with liberal limits and stop-over privileges. These Santa Fe Route excursions will enable you to take a Mid-winter trip into a new country.

By addressing G. T. Nicholson, G. P. A., Monadnock Building, Chicago, you can obtain free literature descriptive of the Great Southwest.

Don't wish you had a thousand dollars; you are making a big enough fool of yourself already on the dollar you have.

CHAPTER II.—(CONTINUED.)

"But in winter, when the gay city visitors have gone away?" questioned the warm hearted boy.

"Oh, in the winter it is a little hard, but then I sometimes go fishing with Pere Jean."

They had now reached the village. As they had been out only an hour, they had still time to prolong their drive. Tiomane proposed returning by the bay of Authie, driving on the beautiful sandy beach. The suggestion delighted the little boy and girl, and they turned to the right. After a short drive, the car and its happy occupants reached the sea.

"Let us get out and walk on the beach," exclaimed Maritza.

The tide, low just then, left a great stretch of hard, sandy shore, most inviting to pleasure loving little people.

The three children alighted. Grise appreciated these halts keenly, and Tiomane, knowing that she could trust her donkey to take care of herself, yielded to the entreaties of her little patrons, and accompanied them to the beach.

The sandy shore was very wet. It did not matter, as far as Guillaume was concerned, for he was clad in school boy's dress—thick boots included—and Tiomane, in her bare feet, ran about gaily; but the duchess, in her dainty white kid boots, hesitated. However, after a few moments she could not resist the temptation of following the example of her companions.

What a happy time children have at the seashore!

Guillaume, who was passionately fond of boating, examined with true boyish interest the boats drawn up on the beach, the sea shells, and the varieties of sea weed. Long dissertations followed each new discovery. Tiomane's good luck caused much surprise and amusement. She found a bar of rusty iron lying on the beach, and used it as a shovel to dig in the sand. There was a tripple hurrah. "Scallops! scallops!" cried Guillaume, seizing a handful of these delicate shell fish, so much prized by the visitors at Berck. Guillaume and Maritza at once wished a similar implement. Guillaume thought of a stake in one of the boats, and went in search of it. Little Maritza siezed a narrow pointed piece of board, and the three children set to work digging in the sand, with great glee. The harvest was not what they expected. They toiled in vain, there was no new windfall.

"The water is rising," cried Tiomane suddenly, in a terror stricken tone;

"HOLDING HER SLIGHT BURDEN FIRMLY."

"the water is rising, I say! we must go away at once."

But Guillaume was deaf, quite absorbed in his pleasant work, running about in every direction; and his sister, no less excited, followed him, not heeding the little donkey driver's warning voice.

"Monsieur Guillaume! Mademoiselle Maritza!" repeated poor Tiomane, "the sea is rising, the sea is rising, and it rises so quickly here!"

The sea was indeed rising very fast, leaping with gigantic bounds, like a living thing. The happy, self willed, busy children did not hear or did not heed the warning of the half distracted little donkey driver.

"Dear me!" she cried in despair. "I tell you this is a dangerous place—there are holes—do you hear, Monsieur Guillaume, we must go home at once."

She followed them, nevertheless, fully conscious of the risk she ran in doing so. She seized Maritza's arm, to draw her away, but the willful little girl slipped from her grasp. A frightful cry was heard, or rather three cries in one. Maritza had disappeared in one of the holes against which Tiomane had so vainly warned them. There was one moment of silent, breathless stupefaction. Guillaume, who did not know how to swim, was about to rush to his sister's rescue, when he felt himself restrained by a strong hand.

"Do not stir," said Tiomane; "I will go."

The imperious tone of the little peasant girl riveted him to the spot. The brave child dashed into the waves. This tragedy took place in less time than it has taken to tell it, but to Guillaume it was an age of indescribable agony.

With a heart frozen with terror he followed with straining eyes every movement of the little girl. Suddenly he sees a white form—now an angry wave covers both children—then it raises them on its crest, and they are tossed about, the elder holding her slight burden firmly in her strong arms. He hardly breathed. At last the sea, as if tired of its frolics, threw the little girls on the shore. The poor boy heaved a sigh of gratitude. Tiomane alone preserved her presence of mind.

"Quick, quick," she cried, panting and breathless, "carry your sister to that house—there."

Half distracted, but obedient, he took the rigid, pallid form in his arms and ran to the cottage, like one in a horrible dream.

CHAPTER III.

THEY soon reached the house. Tiomane opened the door, and they entered a small room with an earthen floor. A sweet faced sister of charity was seated beside a straw armchair in which an old woman, apparently suffering from paralysis, was half reclining.

At the sudden entrance of the unexpected visitors the sister sprang to her feet.

"Ah! what does this deluge mean?" she exclaimed.

"Sister Victoire!" crid Tiomane, as if there were safety in the very presence of the good sister.

The young face under the snowy cornette showed a union of prudence and energy.

With one glance she guessed all. She ran quickly to the fireplace, where there were a few smoldering embers, and threw on them some fagots which were heaped in the chimney corner. After which, taking Maritza from her brother's arms, she said: "My little boy, go as quickly as possible with Tiomane to the village—to Pauline's shop—bring me some rum—the best. Say it is for Sister Victoire."

At the end of the quarter of an hour, when Guillaume and Tiomane returned, there was a cry of surprise and joy from both, for Maritza was resuscitated and seated comfortably on Sister Victoire's lap. On seeing her brother she stretched out her arms to him, and was pressed fondly to his heart.

"Maritza! Maritza! your are living! Oh! my pretty darling, my dear little duchess."

But how ridiculously the little "duchess" was dressed. A fustian skirt, much too long, pinned up here and there, a corsage of coarse merino, and enormous slippers, in which her little feet were quite lost. Sister Victoire had borrowed the holiday dress of their hostess, and, although weeping with joy, Guillaume could not help laughing at this strange costume.

Noticing, for the first time, Tiomane's dripping dress, Sister Victoire said:

"And you, too, come from a bath?"

"Why, Sister," said Guillaume excitedly, "it was she who plunged into the sea; it was she who saved Maritza."

He too was thoroughly wet from having carried, his poor little darling. While he dried his dripping clothes at the blazing fire which the sister had kindled, and Tiomane, in the next room, was putting on some dry clothes, borrowed also from the scanty wardrobe of the paralytic, a luncheon of brown bread, and hot rum and water, quickly prepared by the good sister, completed the entire restoration of the three children. It was long past the hour fixed for their return; indeed, it was nearly night, and Guillaume, having now time to think of his mother's uneasiness, urged the necessity of starting for home at once. Tiomane went for her car, which she found with Grise, just where she had left it. Maritza was lifted to her cushion, and well muffled in the shawl—which fortunately had been left in the car—and after many loving kisses, exchanged with Sister Victoire, the party started for home, brave little Tiomane driving. The drive home, under a starless sky, on the deserted beach, bordered on one side by high dunes, which in the dim light looked like phantoms, was very melancholy. Maritza, with her pretty head resting on her brother's shoulder, slept soundly. Guillaume, absorbed in the anxiety which his mother was suffering, did not speak. As for Tiomane, while guiding her donkey over the dark road with infinite skill, she trembled at the thought of what was to come. Would she not be scolded, perhaps severely punished, for this accident, which she could not have forseen or prevented? At last they reached the flight of steps leading to the cottage. At the sound of the donkey's bells several persons rushed out to meet them.

FOUND HERSELF ON THE LAP OF A BEAUTIFUL LADY.

"It is we! it is we," cried Guillaume, in his clear, boyish voice. Tiomane, trembling from head to foot, stopped her donkey. The magnificent Kifos took Maritza in his arms, and Guillaume dragged the little donkey driver along by main force. Confused, frightened, stupefied, the little peasant girl found herself in an elegant drawing room, flooded with light, and, as a dream, she saw a beautiful lady weeping bitterly, whom Guillaume and Maritza were caressing tenderly. The ladies who had been trying to comfort the distracted mother, now pressed around the brother and sister, asking a thousand questions:

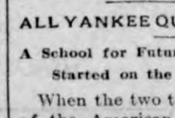
"What has happened?"

"What does Maritza's strange dress mean?"

"Where do you come from?"

For the last two hours a great number of persons had been sent to search for the lost children in every direction—on the beach, in the streets, at the houses of friends. Guillaume told the whole story. He praised Tiomane's courage and presence of mind, and the frightened, dazzled little peasant girl found herself on the lap of the beautiful lady, who kissed her again and again, while tears still coursed down her cheeks—tears of joy. Tiomane never knew how she got back to her car and her village. She remembered vaguely, as in a dream, that Guillaume had taken her by the hand and led her away, filling the other hand with gold pieces. A distinguished escort of admiring ladies and gentlemen accompanied the brave little peasant girl to her car.

CHAPTER IV.



THE NEXT DAY, as if nothing unusual had happened, Tiomane and Grise took their accustomed place on the beach. It was not on the gay, fashionable bathers at Berck alone that our little heroine made an impression. Her rude, uncultivated companions recognized her superiority, and felt its influence, but without any bitterness, any jealousy, saluting her always as she passed with frank cordiality. Never taking any part in their rude sports, she was knitting as usual that day, but not without turning her eyes often to the terrace of the cottage where her new friends lived. Suddenly she heard Guillaume's voice:

"Ah, little donkey driver, how do you do to-day?"

He ran nimbly down the steps and bounded into the car. In vain she protested. He carried her off to his mother's cottage, where a gay and distinguished company gave her a warm welcome. The first person she recognized was pretty Maritza, in one of her elegant white dresses. As on the day before, her beautiful golden hair was tied with a great bow of white satin ribbon, and fell in curls on her shoulders, and, as the day before, the little peasant girl, looking at the fairy like creature, was filled with respectful admiration.

"Come, duchess, kiss the brave girl who fished you up out of the sea," cried Guillaume.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

ALL YANKEE QUARTERMASTERS

A School for Future Steamship Captains Started on the American Liners.

When the two twin screw steamers of the American line, the Paris and the New York, became naturalized, there were only two or three American citizens with a master's certificate who were thought to be competent to command them. The American line has decided to educate ambitious young natives of nautical inclination in the art of transatlantic navigation, so that the greyhounds of the future will not lack skippers.

The line has retired all its foreign born quartermasters on the New York and put in their places native Yankees, all under 25 years of age and all desirous of becoming fourth officers. The young men are togged in jaunty suits of blue, much like that of the naval tar, and have an hereditary love of the salty air. They are well paid and treated with consideration.

The father of one of them, P. M. Dickey of Massachusetts, was a clipper captain and was lost at sea while on a voyage to India. Dickey has been following the sea almost since he knew how to walk. The father of J. T. Tanner, another quartermaster, was commander of a whaler and was also lost at sea. The father of T. P. Pratt of Maryland went down with his ship. Young Pratt has a strong liking for a sailor's life—above the forecastle. The other quartermasters of the New York are George Horton of Pennsylvania, who has had training on the schoolship Saratoga; T. F. Crockett of New York, who has served on the United States ship Dolphin, and F. T. Ellis of Maine, who comes of a family of sea rovers.

Rings Cut from Diamonds.

Everybody knows how difficult it is even for expert lapidaries to cut diamonds, not only on account of their hardness, but by reason of their structure and veins, which must be well defined before the cutter begins his work. M. Antoine, one of the best known jewelers of Antwerp, has, after many fruitless attempts and three years of arduous, patient toil, at last succeeded in cutting a whole ring out of a block of diamond. The ring is perfectly round, with a diameter of 19 millimeters (about three quarters of an inch). It was exhibited for some time in Antwerp, and was very much admired. Its value is not given, as the maker will not sell it. Outside of this ring there is but one other ring known to be cut out of one stone, and that is the beautiful sapphire ring in the Marlborough collection.

A Survivor of the Grand Army.

It is seriously stated in the Russian papers that a survivor of Napoleon's grand army which went to Russia on the disastrous campaign of 1812 has died at Saratoff, on the Volga, at the age of 126 years. The man's name was Nicholas Savin. He was captured by Cossacks during the retreat across the Beresina. It is said that he was born in Paris on the 17th of April, 1768, that his father was in the regiment called the Gardes Francaises in the reign of Louis XV., and that he was educated at the Jesuit college at Tours. He used to speak of the reign of terror and the execution of Louis XVI., which he well remembered. After his release from captivity Savin settled down in Saratoff, where he is said to have been greatly respected. In 1887 the late czar presented him with 1,000 rubles on his birthday.—London Daily News.

Ghosts Are Pale and Shadowy.

Say those who profess to have interviewed them. Whether spooks are tallow-faced or not, mortals are whose blood is thin and watery in consequence of imperfect assimilation. When invalids resort to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and use that unequalled tonic persistently, they soon "pick up" in strength, flesh and color. It should be used also to prevent malarial, rheumatic and kidney complaints, and to remedy constipation, sick headaches and nervousness.

Out of the Mouths of Babes.

Little Effie went to synagogue, and when the rabbi called next day, wishing to be sociable, she said to him: "I heard you speak your piece yesterday."

"Did you, my child?" he said half surprised, half amused. "How did you like it?"

"Oh," answered the honest child, "it made me awfully sleepy."

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury,

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure, be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by druggists; price, 75c per bottle. Hall's Family Pills, 25c.

The Course of Events.

"Some women," said Mr. Bickerton, "think that there's nothing too good for their husbands."

"Yes," was the answer in in the cold accents of satire; "and it usually lasts until their husbands get to thinking there is nothing good enough for them."

Cheap Rates to Atlanta and Return.

On Dec. 21st, the Monon Route will sell tickets to Atlanta at the exceedingly low rate of $15.15 for the round trip, tickets good ten days.

For full information call on or address Sidney B. Jones, City Passenger Agent, 232 Clark St., Chicago, or L. E. Sessions, Traveling Passenger Agent, Minneapolis, Minn.

Mrs. Orr, and inmate of the Kingston, (Ont.) House of Industry, is now 110 years old. She has just been baptised.

Map of the United States.

The wall map issued by the Burlington Route is three feet wide by four feet long; is printed in seven colors; is mounted on rollers; shows every state, county, important town and railroad in the Union and forms a very desirable and useful adjunct to any household or business establishment.

Purchased in large quantities, the maps cost the Burlington Route more than fifteen cents each, but on receipt of that amount in stamps the undersigned will be pleased to send you one.

Write immediately, as the supply is limited.

J. FRANCIS,
G. P. & T. A. Burlington Route,
Omaha, Neb.

William Burbank, an 83-year-old resident of Thompsonville, Conn., was fatally injured recently while coasting down a hill in that place.

We will forfeit $1,000 if any of our published testimonials are proven to be not genuine. THE PISO CO., Warren, Pa.

If the conceit was taken out of some people there wouldn't be enough of them left to hang clothes on.

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

The attorney general of Minnesota has decided that it is unconstitutional to begin exercises in the public schools with prayer.

Hegeman's Camphor Ice with Glycerine.
The original and only genuine. Cures Chapped Hands and Face, Cold Sores, &c. G. G. Clark Co., N. Haven, Ct.

When at a very low temperature snow will absorb moisture, and Arctic travelers make use of it for drying their clothes.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth,
Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.

In France the population averages about 187 to the square mile. In this country the average is 21 to the square mile.

"Hanson's Magic Corn Salve."
Warranted to cure or money refunded. Ask your druggist for it. Price 15 cents.

The olive harvest in Southern California began a week ago. The crop is a light one this year.

"A Cup of Parks' Tea at night moves the bowels in the morning."

It is said that when Queen Victoria and the Empress Eugenie are together, they spend all their spare time doing needle work for the poor.

Just how it does it is not the question.
It is enough to know that Hindercorns takes out the corns, and a very pleasing relief it is. 15c, at druggists.

Ancient coins, many of which antedate the Christian era, are made in large quantities in London and are sold all over the world.

"I have tried Parker's Ginger Tonic and believe in it," says a mother, and so will you say when familiar with its revitalizing properties.

"Is the man who just gave you that cigar a friend of yours?" "I don't know. Haven't tried it yet."

Rev. Dr. Stalker, of Glasgow, says that gluttony is the sin of this age.

SYRUP of FIGS

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50 cent bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

Earliest Vegetables Always Pay.

That's so, the editor hears Mr. Market Gardener say. Well why don't you have them? Simply because you don't plant Salzer's northern grown seeds. His vegetables are bred to earliness and they never disappoint you. Salzer is the largest grower of vegetables, farm seeds, grasses, clovers, potatoes, etc.

If you will cut this out and send it to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., with 10c postage, you will get sample package of Early Bird Radish (ready in 16 days) and their great catalogue. Catalogue alone 5c postage. W.N.

To exterminate red ants in a cupboard place in it an earthen dish containing a pint of tar on which two quarts of hot water has been poured.

Comfort to California.

Yes and economy, too, if you patronize the Burlington Route's Personally Conducted once-a-week excursions which leave Omaha every Thursday morning.

Through tourist sleepers Omaha to San Francisco and Los Angeles. Second-class tickets accepted.

See the local agent and arrange about tickets and berths. Or, write to

J. FRANCIS,
G. P. & T. A., Omaha, Neb.

In these times we fight for ideas, and newspapers are our fortresses.—Heine.

"BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES" are of great service in subduing Hoarseness and Coughs. Sold only in boxes. Avoid imitations.

"Now in memory let us fix
That we have entered '96.
Be thankful, too, that we're alive
And drop from date-line '95."

Loss of opportunity is Life's greatest loss. Think of suffering with

NEURALGIA

5 Years 10 Years 15 Years

when the opportunity lies in a bottle of

ST. JACOBS OIL.

IT CURES.

THE EARLIEST POTATO IN THE WORLD FOR 5 CTS.

DO YOU KNOW . . .

That the finest vegetables in the world are grown from Salzer's seeds? Why? Because they are Northern-grown, bred to earliness, and sprout quickly, grow rapidly and produce enormously!

35 Packages Earliest Vegetable Seeds, $1.

POTATOES IN 28 DAYS!

Just think of that! You can have them by planting Salzer's seed. Try it this year!

LOOK AT THESE YIELDS IN IOWA.

Silver Mine Oats,	197 bu. per acre.
Silver King Barley,	95 bu. per acre.
Prolific Spring Rye,	60 bu. per acre.
Marvel Spring Wheat,	40 bu. per acre.
Giant Spurry,	3 tons per acre.
Giant Incarnat Clover,	4 tons hay per acre.
Potatoes,	500 to 1,100 bu. per acre.

Now, above yields Iowa farmers have had. A full list of farmers from your and adjoining states, doing equally well, is published in our catalogue.

CLOVER SEED.

Enormous stocks of clover, timothy and grass seeds, grown especially for seed. Ah, it's fine! Highest quality, lowest prices!

IF YOU WILL CUT THIS OUT AND SEND IT

With 12c. in stamps, you will get our big catalogue and a sample of Pumpkin Yellow Watermelon sensation. Catalogue alone, 5c., tells how to get that potato.

JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO.,
LA CROSSE, WIS. W.N.

WELL MACHINERY

Illustrated catalogue showing WELL AUGERS, ROCK DRILLS, HYDRAULIC AND JETTING MACHINERY, etc. SENT FREE. Have been tested and all warranted.

Sioux City Engine and Iron Works, Successors to Peech Mfg. Co.
Sioux City, Iowa.
THE ROWELL & CHASE MACHINERY CO., 1414 West Eleventh Street, Kansas City, Mo.

10 CENTS

BATTLE AX PLUG

The largest piece of Good tobacco ever sold for 10 cents.

FIELD AND HOG FENCE WIRE.

26, 33, 42, 50, or 58 inches high. Quality and workmanship the best. Nothing on the market to compare with it. Write for full information,

UNION FENCE COMPANY, DE KALB, ILL.

Great Prize Contest.

1st Prize, KNABE PIANO, style "P"	$800
2d Prize, Cash,	100
3d Prize, Cash,	50
10 Cash Prizes, each $20,	200
15 Cash Prizes, each $10	150
28 Prizes,	$1300

The first prize will be given to the person who constructs the shortest sentence, in English, containing all the letters in the alphabet. The other prizes will go in regular order to those competitors whose sentences stand next in point of brevity.

CONDITIONS.

The length of a sentence is to be measured by the number of letters it contains, and each contestant must indicate by figures at the close of his sentence just how long it is. The sentence must have some meaning. Geographical names and names of persons cannot be used. The contest closes February 15th, 1896, and the results will be published one week later. In case two or more prize-winning sentences are equally short the one first received will be given preference. Every competitor whose sentence is less than 116 letters in length will receive Wilkie Collins' works in paper cover, including twelve complete novels, whether he wins a prize or not. No contestant can enter more than one sentence nor combine with other competitors. Residents of Omaha are not permitted to take any part, directly or indirectly, in this contest.

This remarkably liberal offer is made by the WEEKLY WORLD-HERALD, of which the distinguished ex-congressman,

WILLIAM J. BRYAN, is Editor,

and it is required that each competing sentence be enclosed with one dollar for a year's subscription. The WEEKLY WORLD-HERALD is issued in semi-weekly sections, and hence is nearly as good as a daily. It is the western champion of free silver coinage and the leading family newspaper of Nebraska. Address,

Weekly World-Herald, Omaha, Neb.

MARION A. FELL,
NOTARY PUBLIC.

M. R. CHAMBERS,
ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans at 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farmers' Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on us, we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Garner, Iowa.

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME, Belmond, Iowa.

ALEX. KIRKWOOD,

....PROPRIETOR OF....

KIRKWOOD :-: HOUSE,

FIRST CLASS ACCOMMADATION. — RATES $1.00 per Day.

Livery and Feed Stable in Connection

Rigs Furnished on Short Notice.

KLEMME, -:- -:- -:- IOWA.

IOWA - FARMS.

COME TO THE LAND OF THE GOLDEN EAR.

Partial List of Improved and Unimproved Lands in Iowa.

No. 1. A good Elevator for sale, 10,000 bu capacity with office, scales, coal sheds, corn cribs, horses and tools. Everything in good running condition. Located on the Iowa Central R. R., in Butler County, Iowa.

No. 2. A small fruit farm of 8 acres one mile north of Dows. House, stable, granary, good well of water. Price $800. You don't have to be a millionaire to buy this farm and own an Iowa home.

No. 3 680 acres of improved lands n Hancock County, Iowa. Price $30 per acre. This farm is a No. 1 stock farm, has a fine grove, also a fine flowing well. It is hard to estimate the value of such a well on a large stock farm like No. 3 of this list has.

No. 4. Good farm house, barn, all fenced, 200 apple trees, small fruits of all kinds, 12 acres of land. Located in the villiage of Amsterdam, Hancock County, Iowa. Price $1,300. This farm will sell because it is down to the right price.

No. 5. Will sell house, barn, 5 lots, just across B. C. R. & N. R. R. track opposite depot Goodell, Ia. Price $2,200.

No. 6. 45 acres of timber lands 1½ miles southeast of Goodell, Iowa. Price $30 per acre. Here is a chance for you, the timber properly worked up into posts for fencing and wood for house use will pay for the land which can be own in grasses and make an excelent pasture for stock, and you have the Iowa river for water.

No. 7. 200 acres of No. 1 farming land 3½ miles from R. R. town. 160 in good state of cultivation. Write for price and terms.

No. 8. 840 acres of land. Must be sold. 3 sets of good improvements. Price $25,986.00. Will sell seperate pieces, dividing into 280, 240, 320 acre tracts.

No. 9. 82 acres 4 miles from Clear Lake. Good Improvements. Price $35. per acre. ¼ cash, balance on time.

No. 10. 160 acres 5½ miles west of Goodell, Iowa, ¾ mile to school. New house just built, cost $1,850. This is a fine home for you, fair barns, good well and wind pump, a beautiful grove and orchard, the land is No. 1 and will sell cheap. Price $35 per acre, $3,000 cash, balance 5 yrs time at 7 per ct.

No. 11. 480 acres seven miles from R. R. town. 400 acres in cultivation, good improvements, a fine spring for stock on the southwest corner, a fine flowing well in middle of northwest quarter, a never failing well on northeast quarter, water pumped by wind mill. This farm can be purchased for the sum of $17,600.

No. 12. House, lot and Drug store, located in a live town of 400 inhabitants. The only drug store in town. Will sell for cash or trade for 160 acres of Iowa land. Has a good paying trade.

Notice to Customers.

The above list of property is for sale; title perfect; don't want your money for nothing; will only ask you to come and see for yourself. I have the best farms on my list in Hancock county for sale. For further particulars, write me at

J. R. CLINE,

GOODELL, IOWA.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, Jan. 17, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum in Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1895.

JOHN R. CLINE, - - - PROPRIETOR.
GEORGE J. HALL, - - - - EDITOR.

BLAIR ON VANDERBILT.

Recollections of the Oldest Living Builder of Railroads In This Country.

"How did I come to build my first railroad? Well, that's a long story," said John L. Blair, the oldest living railway builder, to a Boston Globe reporter.

"You know I got my start as a country storekeeper, and along in the twenties I had six or seven stores scattered about in New Jersey. I was selling a lot of goods and making money.

"But it cost a lot to haul goods from New York to my stores, and it was a constant study with me how to reduce the transportation expenses and shorten the time required by the methods of those days.

"My first efforts in that direction were in co-operation with Commodore Vanderbilt. He was in the boat business then, and I paid him a good many dollars for freightage.

"One year he had a strong competitor for the business in the person of Governor Ogden, and freight rates were cut away down. It was that year that I got the better of the commodore. Either he didn't know or had forgotten that I had so many stores, for he said to me at the beginning of the season that he would contract to boat all my stuff across New York bay for $10.

"Did I take him up? Well, I don't think I need answer that question. The goods were brought over all right, and I paid the $10 and no more. But Vanderbilt didn't try to back down. He made no fuss whatever, though I sold several boat loads of goods before the season was over.

"'A bargain's a bargain, John L.' said the commodore one day, 'and when I give my word I keep it, but I'd like to know when you are going to get through delivering goods to my boats.'

"That's the kind of man I always found the commodore—he was just plain Cornele to me then, though. Whenever he said he'd do a thing, he did it.

"I liked Cornelius and I liked Mrs. Vanderbilt. She was a real sensible woman and a mighty good cook. They kept a boarding house alongside their warehouse on the pier, next to Ogden's warehouse, where buyers and workmen could live while waiting for or handling goods.

"Before the steamboats were put on, the trip from New York to Elizabethport was frequently drawn out because of adverse winds, and sometimes meals had to be served on the boat. Mrs. Vanderbilt had to cook these meals herself, and I enjoyed her cooking many times.

"She cooked on the first steamboat her husband put on the route, too, for, though the trips were not then so long, a man could save time after a busy day's buying in New York to eat on the boat.

"I was on the first steamboat that ever sailed from New York across the bay and to Elizabethport, and Mrs. Vanderbilt gave us an exceedingly good meal on that occasion."

The Auburn Lock Step.

The Auburn lock step is the most suggestive of old time prison life, such as the books talk about, of any in the state, it is said. It is a little different from some of the lock steps. The men stand as snugly together as they could be packed if they were in line waiting for tickets. The man who heads the procession throws his shoulders well back, clasps his hands in front of him, and the man behind him locks into both his arms, unless it be at night or in the morning, when one arm is necessary to carry buckets, and then he locks with only one arm. They come in companies of from 40 to 60. The man who heads the procession keeps the time with his left foot, stamping a bit as he comes down the stone walk. Every other man in the line follows with the stamp. They keep absolutely perfect time, as even in their step as the best drilled company of the crack regiment in the New York national guard. Their knees bend at precisely the same instant; they are packed so closely together that this is necessary or they could not march at all. They take short steps. They turn neither to the right nor to the left. No soldier on the march or college oarsman ever kept his "eyes in the boat" with greater discipline.—New York Times.

Disinterested.

"What a splendid woman she is!"

"I am glad to think you have got such a wife."

"Such a wife! Why, man, you have no idea of her generosity. When I was poor she refused to marry me because she was afraid of being a burden upon me, but the moment I came into my fortune she consented at once. What do you think of that for kindness?"—Pick Me Up.

Three Faults.

The conversation turned upon a speaker who was not particularly gifted.

"He has only three faults," said one of the company. "First, he reads his speeches; second, he reads them badly; third, they are not worth the reading."—Geillustreerd Weekblad.

---

17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade. — 17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

CORN WANTED

AT

WESENBERG BROS'

17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade. — 17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

FRANK GRUETZMACHER

DEALER IN

HARNESS, SADDLES, COLLARS, LEATHER, STRAPWORK, BLANKETS, ROBES, WHIPS, BOOTS, SHOES, GLOVES, MITTENS, REPAIRS, ETC.

Special Bargains In Blankets And Robes.

The way to save money is to buy only what you need and then buy the best and as cheap as you can get it. I am Headquarters for all kinds of BOOTS and SHOES, every pair warranted. Call and see for yourself that I can fit you and save you money. My goods are just us I recommend them.

YOURS RESPECTFULLY,
FRANK GRUETZMACHER.

BELL, BELL, BELL.

The above means THE BELL CLOTHING HOUSE at

GARNER, IOWA.

—We have a new and complete stock of—

Clothing and Gents' Furnishings.

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Bicycles and Sporting Goods.

It will pay the people of Klemme and vicinity to call.

Yours for business,

F. B. CASSILL & CO

Subscribe for the

KLEMME TIMES.

$1 per. Year

Only Four Days to California.

In response to popular demand, the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad enters upon its 16th year of Philips Personally Conducted Excursions to California. Elegant upholsterad Tourist Cars run through to all California points without charge, leaving St. Paul at 7 p. m., Minneaoplis 7:35 p. m. Oct. 3rd and every Thursday thereafter, and reaching California in less than four days. In this age time is an important factor in the selection of a route. The Albert Lea Route is the quickest and most popular. The price of double sleeping car berths is only $6.00 through. A gentlemanly conductor accompanies the car, and a colored porter accompanying the car performs the usual duties Passengers may take meals in dining cars, or prepare them on cooking ranges provided for the purpese. Secure reservations early, addressing A. B. CUTTS, G. T. & P. A., M. & St. L. Ry., Minneapolis, Minn.

THE

Minneapolis & St Louis R. R. Co

A NEW TRAIN TO OMAHA AND DES MOIOES

It is a HUMMER! Look out For IT!

THROUGH CARS. PULLMANS & COACHES GREAT!

It will run through on time, reaching Des. Moines, Omaha, Denver, California and all points in the West. The previous complete service will not be disturbed by the addition of this train. Ask your nearest M. & St. L. R. R. ticket agent for rates and particulars. A. B. CUTTS, Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agt.

Improved farms in Fayette County, Tennessee. Houses, barns, good wells Peach, Apple, Pear and Apricot orchards. All kinds of grain grownon this land. Plenty of fuel cheap. No waste lands, price $10 to $20, from 1 to 7 miles form R. R. towns. J. R. CLINE.

WOMEN AS MUSICIANS.

They Show Refined Taste, but Lack Force and Virility.

More interesting, perhaps, than anything else in relation to feminine progress in the future is speculation regarding the effect of higher education on our artistic mind. There is no use in cheating ourselves, in refusing to own that as yet in the composition of music the feminine gender is distressingly apparent. Woman's work so far is poetical, picturesque, sometimes even dramatic. It is sweet to the ear and mellifluous to the understanding, but—here we come to the crux of the argument—is it strong, durable, systematic? In our first musicians—we are dealing purely with the fair sex—we have occasional displays of ingenuity, elaborate syncopations and possibly some suggestions of antiphonal effect, but of really artistic reservations of technical force such as displayed by the masters there are few.

In this even the very lady composers themselves will agree. Though their want of power and virility is in a measure compensated by refinement of taste, in their most ambitious efforts they suffer from lack of sustained power and from constructive weakness. They are as yet incapable of close analysis of form, the diagnosis of subtleties of "klangfarbe," or tone color, and resent the humiliating bondage and servility demanded by omnipotent science before the smiles of his consort, art, can be worn.

Musical women are, as a rule, romantic, refined, enchanting, full of "coquettish quality" of inspiration, yet powerless to develop the initial conception of the brain to a stout state of robustness, whereby it may resist the wear and tear of the very emotions which drain it.

In some cases a process of development has been forcibly attempted, but up to the present date such efforts have merely resulted in the elimination of the romantic for the furtherance of a parched erudition which ends in husk!

Now in the higher educational schemes is to be seen the key of musical progress in the feminine future. A mathematical discipline is all that is needed for the training of the musical mind to concentrate itself on the perspective of the sound landscape before attempting the luxuries of colorful and poetic detail. The higher education will assist it to create a vertebral column capable of holding the muscle and sinew of fine form which the delicate fancy of women shall decorate at will. There may be in the first days of her higher advancement a disposition toward "capelmeister musik," toward rigidity and academic scrupulosity, but from these trammels she will soon shake herself free and glow in her native poesy of thought brightly as her male rivals.

But before the full liberty comes she will also have to acquire from the mines of science the absolute confidence in self which has been the sole Ægis of such men as Wagner and Brahms. She must learn to face her critics and not, Keatslike, sink through them to her doom. Every chilly blast, every adverse word, must brace, not blight, her productivity, or progress will yet lie in the far, far ages. Sugary harmonies which now do duty for richly colored orchestration, transient and superficial effects which dazzle and die, will all be wheeled into line. The discipline of the higher brain culture will nourish the womanly output till it become a classic giant, capable of holding its own in the sphere of musical giants. We have lately had the advantage of judging and admiring the talent of the first musical women of the age and learning through them and the excellence and refinement of their work what germs and possibilities may be hoped for from them and their disciples in the near future.—Exchange.

Color Blindness.

Color blind girls are not nearly so rare, according to statistics on the subject, as color blind boys. It is also said to be very rare to find a naturally color blind person, which argues the matter to be one of early development. The natural love of finery among the small daughters of Eve and their unconscious training from childhood in matching ribbons, silks and all sorts of feminine gewgaws are given as probable reasons for their advantage over their brothers in this regard. The training at the kindergartens, where small boys and girls alike study color, is going to equalize matters in the futuro.—New York Times.

Her Point of View.

Friend—Well, Ethel, how do your like married life?

Ethel (enthusiastically)—It's simply delightful. We've been married a week and have had eight quarrels, and I got the best of it every time. —Pick Me Up.

He Had a Cinch.

"How do you publish a paper in this dead town?" asked the stranger.

"My dear friend," replied the editor, "I own the cemetery lots!"—Atlanta Constitution.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR OIL

[FOR OUR FRIEND, THE HORSE.]

Speedily cures Barb-Wire Cuts. Bruises and Lacerated surfaces, Collar and Saddle Galls, Fungus Collar Tumors, Scratches, Thrush, etc.

Geo. Alexander, Olaf, Iowa, says: "One of my horses was totally disabled by reason of barb-wire cut, muscles being lacerated and torn from knee to shoulder and bone splintered. Tried other remedies for months but without avail. The second application of Compound Liquid Sulphur Oil stopped all irritation and one bottle has nearly cured the sore." For sale by J. L. HARE.

FARMS FOR RENT! FARMS FOR SALE!

Three Fine Farms For Rent, — Five Choice Improved Farms For Sale.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.

OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO

OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, JANUARY 24, 1896. NUMBER 22

L. HARR.

PURE DRUGS AND MEDICINES.

Window Shades And Wall Paper. Paints and Oils.

Sold Cheap For Cash.

D PRICES!

On Fur Coats, Fur Robes, Horse Blankets.

REDUCTION!

On Gent's and Ladies' Underwear, Hats, Caps, Overshoes, Felt Boots, Clothing and Overcoats. Large stock, bound to suit the person and his purse.

CAN'T MISS IT!

To Examine Our Stock. 5 Per Cent Discount for Cash.

LAU BROS., Klemme, Ia.

TIME--Correct Time.

Time Everybody had it!

KS ...een easier to get WATCHES.

ay we ...never cheaper, never better, never pret- ...ould buy ...better WATCHES for $7.00 than we ... $7.00 two years ago.

...HAFFER & DOW.

KLUCKHOHN.

The Restaurant Man!

Serves the Public with

A Square Meal, Fine Bread Buns, Oysters, Cigars, Tobaccos, etc.

WHEN IN TOWN CALL AND SEE HIM.

KLEMME, - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

Eagle Grove

MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS

MATERIAL THE BEST AND WORKMANSHIP SECOND TO NONE.

GEO. W. SHAFFER, AGENT

...pondence Solicited.

...RLEY, - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

Local Mention.

The constant dropping of the rill
Will wear away the rock;
The constant placing of an ad
Will rid you of your stock.

Advertise in the TIMES.

Geo. Eil Sundayed in Belmond

Chas. Knapp was at Belmond Tuesday.

Fred Katter of Garner was in town Tuesday.

Miss Mattie Hubbard was at Garner Saturday.

Read the ads: There may be money in it for you.

Geo. Bartholomew is on the sick list this week.

The Meat Market and Creamery are putting up ice.

Wm. Dickinson returned home from Armstrong Tuesday.

Miss Katie Waltz visited at Goodell Friday and Saturday.

Wm. Christie and John Ford of Garner were in the city Monday.

Hans Nissen and Miss Stella Day attended church at Goodell Sunday.

T. H., and L. C. Wesenberg drove to Meservey Tuesday on business.

Alex Kirkwood and Chris Lau were doing business in Britt Monday.

Mrs. Grandfield of Belmond is visiting her daughter, Mrs. F. B. Smith.

The carpenters are finishing Will Stille's house in the west part of town.

August Barz, Fred Haupt and Wm. Becker shipped stock from here Tuesday.

E. P. Dow and Chas. Suckow were transacting business in Garner Tuesday.

Hogs are bringing better prices than they did a few weeks ago. Our buyers are paying $3.65.

Mrs. Henry Walruff, of near Goodell, sister of the Peitzke Bros., was visiting with them Tuesday.

Miss Lizzie Renziehausen returned Friday from Britt where she had been visiting friends for the past two weeks.

Mrs. A. B. Shaffer's nephew, Bert Hess, accompanied her home from her Missouri visit, and may make this his home.

The Teachers' Association was postponed from Jan. 14th until next Tuesday evening, Jan. 28th. The same program will be carried out and all are invited to attend.

M. L. Weichselbaum, Mgr., of the Northern Lumber Yard, is absent from the city, visiting in Minneapolis. Mr. Martin of Forest City is working in his place this week.

The teachers and scholars of our school, after almost a week's rest on account of the furnace getting out of working order, began work again Monday morning with new energy, feeling refreshed by having the vacation. Geo. S. Gates repaired the furnace, fired it up Monday morning and it worked like a charm.

John Newberger, 4 miles east of town, while at Garner one day last week, was accused of stealing a black fur coat which he was wearing, of Hans Grove, and arrested. Newberger had bought the coat at Ackley, Hardin Co., during the holidays. It appears that the coat was the same kind that Mr. Grove had lost, but he should not have got so fast and forgot to remember that there is liable to be two coats alike. Mr. Newberger is a highly respected farmer living only 4 miles from town and his honesty can be vouched for by many of the Klemme citizens. He was granted the privilege of returning home until it could be investigated.

Fur Coats very cheap at Lau Bros.

Try some cord wood—J. H. Queal Lumber Co.

Go to Gruetzmacher Bros., to buy your Bobs and Cutters.

Bed Blankets all the way from 95c to $4.00 per pair at Lau Bros.

Lou Bros., have a nice line of Horse Blankets and Robes. Call and see them.

Mittens, Gloves, etc., are sold cheaper than any other place in town at Lou Bros'

Call at Kluckhohn's restaurant and see the great number of Staple Groceries you can buy for $5.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry can be repaired by bringing them to Shafer & Dow's. All work warrented.

An exchange remarks that this is leap year, and if there is anything more the new woman wants, she can ask for it.

Don't go and pay 25 cents for a pt. of Oysters when you can buy just as big, fat, juicy ones for 20 cents at the Meat Market.

Just received a short time ago at Frank Gruetzmacher's—the best Ladies' Shoes for the money ($2.50) ever brought to the town.

Don't buy those little, cheap bulk Oysters sold at other places, when you can get the nice, large, fat, select ones, just fresh at Kluckhohn's Restaurant for the same money you have to pay for the little Jim Crow ones.

An exchange says that if the good sisters of the church would contribute the extra number of yards of cloth put into their dress sleeves to the cause of missions, the preachers would have little or no trouble in raising collections.

The German army has contracted for 100,000 pounds of dried apples. The Cedar Rapids Gazette thinks they are designed to help the appearance of the men by making them fit uniforms all of the same size. It is really cheaper than having the uniforms cut over.

The Des Moines papers are complaining that the new woman is making herself too conspicuous and important around the capitol and hotels since the legislature convened. They should remember that this is leap year, which gives her privileges she would have no right to exercise at another time.

For a pain in the chest a piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of the pain, and another on the back between the shoulders, will afford prompt relief. This is especially valuable in cases where the pain is caused by a cold and there is a tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by J. L. HARR.

Have you noticed it, that expectant hopeful look that all the tired bachelors are wearing? They have begun to hope that perhaps some "rare and radient maiden" will pity their lack of courage and do the proposing act for them. But we opine in spite of the "new woman" business that she won't do anything of the kind, being enough of the "old woman" school, not to want to lose all the sweetness of popping it herself.

Many merchants are well aware that their customers are their best friends and take pleasure in supplying them with the best goods obtainable. As an instance we mention Perry & Cameron, prominent druggists of Flushing Michigan. They say: "We have no hesitation in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to our customers, as it is the best cough medicine we have ever sold, and always gives satisfaction." For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by J. L. HARR.

FIREMEN'S BALL.

The Belmond Fire Co., will hold their Annual Ball in the Opera House, Thursday evening, Feb. 6, 1896. Music by the Myers-Davis Orchestra. Everybody invited to this the Best of the Season. Tickets $1.00.

COM.

Not a few who read what Mr. Robert Rowls, of Hollands, Va., has to say below, will remember their own experience under like circumstances: "Last winter I had la grippe which left me in a low state of health. I tried numerous remedies, none of which did me any good, until I was induced to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The first bottle of it so far relieved me that I was enabled to attend to my work, and the second bottle effected a cure." For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by J. L. HARR.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market; costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. HARR. Read our free booklet on Microbic Diseases.

STATEMENT

—OF THE CONDITION OF—

State Savings Bank of Klemme,

Organized under the laws of Iowa, located at Klemme, in the county of Hancock, at the close of business on the 8th day of Jan. A. D. 1896, made to the Auditor of State as required by law.

ASSETS.

Amount of Bills, Bonds and other evidences of debts discounted or purchased, actually owned by the Bank		$26,330.00
The condition of the foregoing is particularly described as follows: Good (carried inside)	$26,330.00
Past due (carried inside)	3,621.19
Amount of cash on hand, Gold and Silver coin	115.50
Legal tender and national bank notes and subsidary coin	1,551.44
Drafts on solvent banks on hand and cash items	359.38	2,026.32
The amount subject to be drawn at sight on deposit with solvent banks or bankers:
North Western Nat'l Bank Chicago	77.97
First National Bank Garner, Ia.	4,056.34
Merchants and Mechanics Bank Scranton, Pa.	1,000.00	5,134.31
Overdrafts
The value of real property	724.10
The value of personal property	982.25	1,706.35
Total Assets		35,196.98

LIABILITIES.

The amount of capital stock actually paid up in cash		$10,000.00
Amount sight deposits	$8,332.66
Amount time deposits	12,923.49	21,256.15
The amount of undivided profits as follows:
Surplus fund	3,000.00
Other profits on hand (after deducting taxes and expenses)	940.83	3,940.83
Total Liabilities		35,196.98
Amount of liabilities to the Bank on part of the Directors:
As borrowers	650.00
As endorsers	72.64	722.64

STATE OF IOWA, } ss
HANCOCK COUNTY. }

We, J. E. Wichman, President; C. W. Knapp, Cashier; Isaac Sweigard and J. W. Elder Directors of the Bank above named, do solemnly swear that the foregoing statement is full, true and correct, to the best of our knowledge and belief, that the assets therein set forth are bona fide the property of said Bank in its corporate capacity; and that no part of the same has been loaned or advanced to said Bank for the purpose of being exhibited as a portion of its assets.

J. E. WICHMAN, President,
C. W. KNAPP, Cashier,
ISAAC SWEIGARD, J. W. ELDER, Directors.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, by J. E. Wichman, C. W. Knapp, Isaac Sweigard and J. W. Elder this 15th day of January 1896.

[SEAL] CHAS. W. KNOOP, Notary Public.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR BATH.

A perfect Sulphur Spring in the retirement of your own home. A toilet article cherished by the ladies. Renders the skin White and Soft. An absolute disinfectant. Purifies the blood by absorbtion and removes all unhealthy secretions and odors from the body. Invaluable in Rheumatism Gout and all blood and skin disorders. Each bottle contains 16 sulphur baths. S. C. Cook, Jacksonville, Ill., says: "In our little family circle Compound Liquid Sulphur—Bath is considered a panacea for all ills and one of the greatest luxuries. For sale by J. L. HARR.

NOWHERE

A hurried glance at the above letters and one cannot tell which of two words is indicated.

There is no such uncertainty in a hurried glance or careful examination of our Quadruple Silverware which we guarantee to last ten years.

And you will find that

NO WHERE

Can such an assortment of Shelf and Heavy Hardware, Groceries, Paints, Oils, Lime, Stucco, Brick, Pumps, Wagons, Buggies, Etc., be found as are

NOW HERE.

WE ALSO SELL THE PORTABLE CORN CRIB WHICH HOLDS 1400 BU., IS 8 FT. HIGH AND 12 FT. IN DIAMETER.

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mouldings.

And everything used to build with.

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in the week.

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'GR.,
KLEMME, IOWA.

J. H. QUEAL & CO.

Always Lead In The Best Of Grades At The Lowest Prices ON

LUMBER, LATH, Posts, Sash, DOORS SHINGLES ETC.

Call and see us for anything in our line and be convinced of the above facts.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.

BARGAINS!

WE ARE STILL CLOSING OUT GOODS

TO MAKE ROOM FOR OUR SPRING STOCK

Call in and look over our BARGAIN TABLE.

E. P. Schaefer.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, - - - IOWA

IOWA NEWS IN BRIEF

THOMAS YOST, aged 55, was divorced at Burlington and thirty minutes later was married to another woman.

FORTY of the O'Brien county land contest cases have been set for hearing in Des Moines in March and forty in April.

THE funeral services of the late Geo. G. Wright, of Des Moines, were attended by the members of the legislature and prominent men from all over the state.

A GERMAN named Ericson, living ten miles north of Belmond, sold diseased hogs at Goodell. When the officers arrested him, his wife fell dead from fright, and he became a raving maniac.

REV. MR. LAZENBY, of Ottumwa, a Methodist minister nearly 80 years of ago, settled his breach of promise suit brought by Miss Phoebe Irwin by paying the plaintiff $500. She sued for $2,000.

LINSEED Cake (oil meal) does not only keep your stock in good order, but is a great flesh producer and is now as cheap as corn. Write Des Moines Linseed Oil Works for pamphlets and prices.

GEORGE TERRELL, who killed his friend, Richard Hinton, at Hedrick, on the 7th, while both were on a debauch, was found dead in a corn field a few days ago, and it is supposed he committed suicide.

JOSEPH LANG, a brakeman on the Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern, fell under the wheels of a freight train at Cedar Rapids in some manner unknown and was killed. He was horribly cut up.

ACCORDING to a dispatch from Sibley Judge Scott M. Ladd, who ten years ago at the age of thirty was elected to his present position of district judge, will be a candidate for the republican nomination for justice of the supreme court of Iowa.

DR. G. A. HINTON and Joseph Shaw, of Bacon, were recently arrested on the charge of committing a criminal operation upon Miss Anna B. Barrow. Each gave bonds in the sum of $500. Defendants are married men and well known in that vicinity.

A THRESHING boiler exploded five miles north of Waterloo. Men were shelling corn. A teacher and her scholars were out watching them work when the explosion occurred. Several were scalded, but fortunately no one was killed or thought to be dangerously injured.

A DISPATCH from Oskaloosa says: The Conklin trial is ended. After being out twenty-nine hours, the jury came in, saying they could not agree. The vote stood nine for conviction and three for acquittal. The first ballot stood eight for conviction and four for acquittal. Two or three of the old men on the jury were sick from their long confinement. The case has cost the county about $3,000 and will have to be tried over again.

D. T. STANLEY, president, and J. H. D. Stanley, cashier, of the defunct Bank of Commerce, of Des Moines, which recently assigned, have been arrested on the charge of fraudulent banking. President Stanley says the bank is not insolvent and that the doors were closed through a mistake. The assets have been placed with the German Savings Bank and Stanley says depositors will be paid at once.

MR. OLERKINGS, living in Hampton, owns several farms near by and at one about two miles north and east, which was rented, he kept some sheep. Dogs have been killing some of them lately and Olerkings put out poison to kill off the dogs. A few mornings since his new barn on the place burned with hay, grain and several head of stock. The loss will be nearly $4,000. It is supposed that some one whose dog had been poisoned did the work.

ANOTHER tragedy following in the wake of the killing of McFarland at Boone last week occurred at Omaha a few days ago. Annie Royster, daughter of the man who killed McFarland, was found dead in her room from the effects of a dose of chloroform. She had gone there a few days previous in company with another girl, saying she was looking for work. She left a note saying her father had killed her lover and she had nothing further to live for.

FRED HODGES, who abducted Lillie Ross, a Rippey school girl, aged 14, is in custody. He drove the girl to a farmer's house near Dawson, and there introduced her as his wife, and they occupied a room together that night. Later Hodges drove her to Angus, where she remained until night, when her parents went after her. She asserts that Hodges seduced her, and he denies it. She is the daughter of a reputable farmer, and a girl who has borne an excellent reputation.

QUITE a sensation has been created by the discovery that the body of a boy who died at Cedar Rapids with diphtheria has been removed from one cemetery to another, in disregard of the laws of the state, which absolutely prohibit the removal of bodies where death is caused by contagious diseases. In this case the sexton who received the body says he was shown the usual permit and supposed everything was regular. The coroner is implicated in the affair. The state board of health has been notified, and it is probable that several persons will be prosecuted.

MRS. ACY VAN SYKE, of Webster City, who has been in Chicago receiving treatment, has just returned to her home. She is cured, after being unable to walk for ten years, and she claims that prayer did it. She went to Chicago nearly two months ago, and it was the sensation of the day when word came back that she was able to walk across the room after being there only a week and receiving the prayers of her medical adviser. She will take the lecture platform, and in all probability will lecture in many of the towns adjacent to Webster City.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS

THE Cuban insurgents have burned several towns near Havana.

GENERAL ASA S. BUSHNELL became governor of Ohio on the 13th.

DR. JAMESON has been removed from the office he held in South Africa.

THE national convention of the people's party will convene in St. Louis on July 22.

RUSSIAN papers are urging Germany to curb Great Britain's aggressive policy in Africa.

IT is said England is trying to settle the Venezuelan controversy directly with that country.

PETER HOUGAARD, of Chicago, killed himself, his wife and five children by turning on the gas.

GENERAL HARRISON has authorized the statement that he will wed Mrs. Dimmick soon after Lent.

THE Iowa congressional delegation have formally avowed the candidacy of Senator Allison for the presidency.

THE democratic national committee met at New York and decided to hold the national convention at Chicago on July 7.

At San Miguel, Peru, the mayor ordered all of the bibles of the American Bible society burned in the public square.

EX-CONGRESSMAN FRANK LAWLER, who was at the time of his death a member of the Chicago city council, died on the 17th.

The syndicate organized by J. Pierpont Morgan for the purpose of taking ing the $100,000,000 issue of bonds has been dissolved.

Mrs. Martha I. Holden, well known to many newspaper readers as "Amber," died at St. Luke's hospital in Chicago of cancer.

IN the opinion of an ex-attorney general of Cape Colony, British suzerainity over the Transvaal will soon be abandoned in convention.

R. CHASEMAN, who refused to answer questions before the senate sugar investigating committee some time ago, has been found guilty of contempt.

THE Ashanti war is ended and the British have occupied Coomassie, the capital, without opposition. King Prempeh has accepted all British demands.

OF a crew of twenty-one members of an English ship whose boat was wrecked on Vancouver island, fourteen have just been rescued. The others died of cold and starvation.

STARVATION threatens some 40,000 persons at Fortune Bay, in New Foundland, owing to the failure of the frozen herring fisheries. The government will take vigorous steps to relieve the distress.

ADVICES from British Guiana indicate the likelihood of Great Britain dealing with Venezuela without any regard for the United States' desire for arbitration of the dispute. A small Venezuelan force, under the command of General McPherson is stationed on the bank of the Cuyuni river.

IT is expected that ring-leaders among the persons arrested at Johannesburg and taken to Pretoria for having taken part in the movement against the Transvaal government will be sentenced to imprisonment for a term of five years, and that the others will be condemned to pay heavy fines.

MARTIN JULIAN, manager of Bob Fitzsimmous, passed through San Antonio from New York en route to El Paso. To a reporter he said that Fitzsimmons was in the pink of condition and confident of defeating Maher. Speaking of the report that the Mexican authorities would prevent the fight, Julian said: "Dan Stuart has the matter in hand and is not telling everybody where the fight is going to take place. He will keep quiet until the day of the fight."

FIVE masked men entered the house of Joseph Day, an old farmer, near Nashville, Tenn., and demanded to know the hiding place of the treasure which he was reputed to have in the house. He refused to tell, and after numerous threats had been made he was taken out and hanged to a tree. The murderers then attempted to force Mrs. Day to tell the secret, and when she persistently refused the murderers beat her brains out with a club. They ransacked the house, but failed to find the money. There have been no arrests so far.

AN exciting shooting affray occurred at Cedar City, Mo., which resulted in the death of the leader of a gang of bandits who undertook to take possession of the town. The gang, six in number, attempted to run things, and one of them fired five shots at Charles Gilbert, a resident of Fulton, who was visiting in the village, but without striking him. Gilbert got hold of a shot gun and fired one shot, which took effect in the leader, killing him instantly. Citizens came to the aid of the officers, and all the gang save one were captured. Not a scrap of paper was found upon any of them by which they could be identified.

Iselin is Sustained.

NEW YORK, January 16.—The annual report of the regatta committee of the New York Yacht Club has just been made public. The portion that will claim the attention of the public is that relating to the international races last fall between the Defender and Valkyrie. The report goes exhaustively into all the circumstances leading up to the foul which lost Valkyrie the second race. The foul claimed on September 18 is fully described and Defender's claim and Valkyrie's defense are given in detail. Mr. Iselin, owner of Defender, is sustained.

Probably There Was.

Penelope (triumphantly)—I heard last night that Jack was head over heels in love with me.

Grace (cautiously)—You cannot believe all you hear.

Penelope—No; but I should not wonder if there was something in it.

Grace— hy, who told you?

Penelope—He did.

Naturally.

Mertie—I would never marry a man I did not love.

Maude—But suppose a real wealthy man should propose?

Mertie—I should love him, of course.

MONROE DOCTRINE.

ITS POLITICAL AND COMMERCIAL SIGNIFICANCE.

The Building of the Nicaragua Canal Will Give to Trans-Mississippi Gulf Ports the Business of Exporting the Products of the West.

Globe-Democrat, St. Louis, Mo.

The reception of the President's message demonstrated that the American people are a unit on the Monroe doctrine. Between nations no doctrine, no principle, no action can be upheld except by force. Twenty centuries of civilization have failed to establish the golden rule as the basic principle of the acts of nations. Thirty days ago English writers characterized it as the "nebulous Monroe Doctrine." To-day that principle has an entity, an individuality in the unwritten laws between governments.

A writer in the December number of the North American Review says: "We all know that the development and expansion of nationalities follow the lines of least resistence and are governed by inflexible natural laws. Equally well known are the principles which govern the redistribution of trade centers resulting from the opening up of new channnels of commerce." The same writer says when the Nicaragua Canal is opened Europe will be brought to the very doors of America.

The Monroe Doctrine assures the Nicaragua Canal. The Nicaragua Canal will build up Trans-Mississippi Gulf ports. The total value of the exports of the United States of the United States is $793,392,955. The Trans-Mississippi furnishes of that amount $448,643,727. This business will be done by Gulf ports.

Great Britain is still suffering from the deflection of commerce from the Cape Route to the Suez Canal. Commerce follows the line of least expense. These incontrovertible arguments no doubt decided the great banking house of Alexander Brown & Sons to undertake the work of developing the natural harbor of Aransas Pass, Texas. Already they have so nearly completed the work that a festival of rejoicing on the occasion of the Homeseekers' Excursion, February 11th is being prepared. The railroad fare for the round trip from any point in the west is only $2.00 more than the fare one way. A steamship ride through the harbor out into the Gulf, a Green Turtle and Canvass Back Duck Barbecue will be given to the excursionists. Everybody is invited to be present and look over the new town of Aransas Pass (whose motto is "Here Everybody Shall Make Money") and the rich and cheap lands surrounding that port.

URGENT NEED OF ACTION.

LONDON, January 17.—Mr. Wiltse, the friend of John Hays Hammond, the American mining engineer recently arrested in Johannesburg, with a number of others, upon charges of treason, who arrived here from the Transvaal a few days ago, is daily in the receipt of cablegrams from the Americans and others in Johannesburg, who were not among those arrested, urging him to use all possible influence to secure the direct action of the United States government in behalf of the arrested men, whose positions, the cablegrams say, are very serious.

PRETORIA, January 19.—It is officially stated that President Kruger made no demand on either the British government or the British South Africa company, in connection with the release of Dr. Jameson and his companions, who are now on their way to England where they will be tried.

CAMPOS LOSES HIS JOB.

WASHINGTON, January 19.—Dupuy de Lome, Spanish minister has received a cablegram from the Duke of Tetuan, minister of foreign affairs at Madrid, saying "the official news from Cuba and the state of insurrection are as satisfactory as I telegraphed you previously. Independently of the military action, the government has authorized Marshal Martinez Campos to resign his command to General Marin and return to Spain in consequence of the conduct of the political parties of Cuba contrary to the policy of the commander in chief asking a change in the system of conducting the war." General Polavieja has been appointed to the place.

MADRID, January 20.—It is announced that General Weyler will succeed Gen. Campos in Cuba.

Homestead Law Revived.

Washington, Jan. 18.—The house committee on public lands has decided to report the free home bill proposed by Chairman Lacey of Iowa, which is practically a revival of the old homestead laws. Under this bill all settlers on Indian lands that are opened to settlement may acquire title to the lands without paying for them by a residence of five years. If they desire to secure their titles before the expiration of five years they will be able to do so by paying the rates fixed by the government.

QUEEN TO SULTAN.

Victoria Has Sent the Turkish Ruler a Mysterious Letter.

CONSTANTINOPLE, January 17.—Sir Philip Currie, the British ambassador, had an audience with the sultan and presented an autograph letter from the queen. The Daily News, in an editorial, assumes that the letter which the queen has dispatched to the sultan can only be a plea for humanity, an appeal to the sultan's better nature, or a womanly and royal protest against the hideous and horrible Armenian outrages.

Out With It.

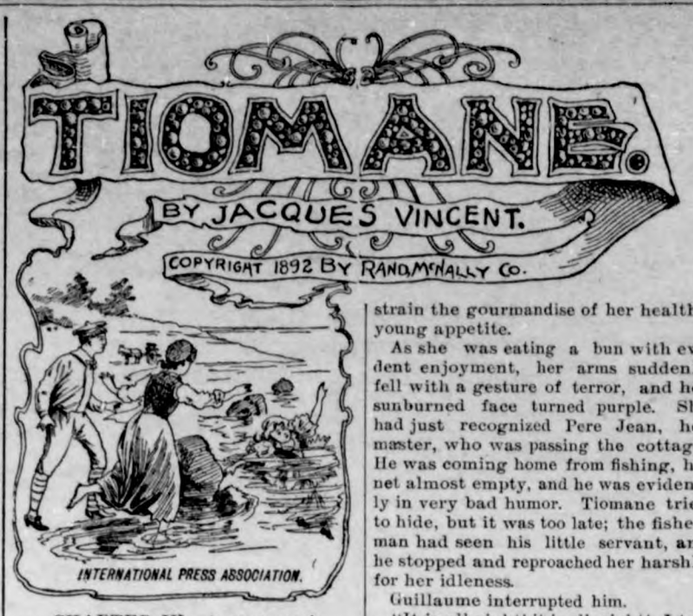
Judge—Remember that you are to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

Witness—All right, my lord. The fact is, I wanted to keep it to myself. But if I am bound to state the whole truth—then I must confess that you are the ugliest man I ever clapped eyes on in my life.

The Fervor of Love.

She—Darling, do you love me?

He (kissing her rapturously and repeatedly)—Do I? I wish you were a two-headed girl. That's all I can say.



CHAPTER IV.—(CONTINUED.)

Tiomane guessed rightly that the spoiled child hesitated at the sight of her old dress, more faded than ever from the salt water of the day before, and she understood her hesitation without, however, feeling any resentment. The humble little donkey driver found herself suddenly elevated to the rank of a heroine. The elegant ladies and gentlemen pressed around her, each saying a kind word. Madame de Sorgnes loaded her with caresses. Maritza reproduced on a miniature scale her mother's splendid beauty; the same hair, the same eyes, the same complexion, the same perfection of lines, even the same unconscious stateliness of an idol, ignorant of practical life, and fully persuaded that the world was created only to serve and adore her. Very small and very delicate, this pretty little mother had still the air and manner of a young girl; every one took her for her children's elder sister. A native of Smyrna, of Armenian descent, like all the women of the east, who marry very young, she was a wife at 16. Her character was that of the women of her race—weak, indolent, exclusively occupied with the care of adorning her beautiful person, her brain somewhat dulled by the use of Turkish cigaret, nevertheless willful, whimsical, extravagant, but susceptible on occasion of enthusiasm, of infatuation even. Certainly, brave little Tiomane never thought of receiving any reward for an act of humanity, which to her generous nature seemed very trifling. That same day about sunset—Tiomane had just put Grise in the stable—an open carriage, drawn by two splendid bays, stopped at the door of the wretched hut which our young heroine called home, and Madam de Sorgnes, followed by her two children, alighted from it. Seated near the fire, where the supper, a cabbage soup, was cooking, the mistress of the hovel, Mere Jean, was fondling her baby while two sturdy urchins of 3 and 5 years of age were playplaying in the middle of the room with some potato parings. Tiomane was lighting a smoky kerosene lamp. The great lady started on entering this wretched abode, and looked as if she were about to retreat. Tiomane, amazed at the unexpected honor, hastened to offer her a rickety chair, which the elegant visitor refused. Mere Jean, quite stupefied with surprise, did not stir. In his frank, boyish way, Guillaume broke the awkward silence, telling Tiomane that, on their return from their afternoon drive, his mother wished to come in person to pay a debt.

"IT IS ALL RIGHT."

"We owed you a visit, little donkey-driver," he said gaily, "and we bring you a souvenir. Here is a savings bank book. Sister Victoire has deposited 2,000 francs, given by her mamma, in your name to-day. So, my good little girl, when you are old enough to think of a husband, you will be considered a great match in the village; you will have a fine marriage portion."

The heart is an incomparable master of eloquence. Little Tiomane, violently agitated, took the book from the hand of the smiling boy, without understanding the value of the gift, but fully appreciating the kind intention and the delicacy of such an act. She looked at her three visitors in turn, as they stood on the threshold of the hut, seeming to unite them in one look of adoration, and burst into tears.

"Oh, madam! madam! how good you are! and how I love you!—how I love you all."

"Poor little one," murmured Madame de Sorgnes, kissing her. The great lady carried away with her a feeling of compassion, which increased still more her gratitude to the brave little girl who had risked her own life to save that of her idolized daughter. The days which followed bound Tiomane still more closely to her new friends. Every day, as soon as Guillaume caught sight of Grise, he ran to invite the little donkey driver to the cottage. Madame de Sorgnes made her talk, laughed at her strange patois, and day by day became more and more interested in this unconscious misery which the little one, courageous and devoted as she was, bore without complaint. One afternoon the three children were lunching on the terrace, while Grise, unharnessed, was strutting about in the sand, enjoying her freedom. Madame de Sorgnes, smoking cigaret after cigaret, amused herself in cramming her protege with dainties, while Tiomane, still timid, felt obliged to restrain the gourmandise of her healthy young appetite.

As she was eating a bun with evident enjoyment, her arms suddenly fell with a gesture of terror, and her sunburned face turned purple. She had just recognized Pere Jean, her master, who was passing the cottage. He was coming home from fishing, his net almost empty, and he was evidently in very bad humor. Tiomane tried to hide, but it was too late; the fisherman had seen his little servant, and he stopped and reproached her harshly for her idleness.

Guillaume interrupted him.

"It is all right! it is all right! I tell you. We pay you for the time we keep your donkey," and he flung one hundred sous at the peasant's feet. The man picked them up eagerly, apologizing for his rudeness, and went on his way. This little incident decided Tiomane's future. Madame de Sorgnes, exasperated at the peasant's harshness, applauded her son's act. With this increase of pity, an inspiration came to the great lady. Why should she not adopt this poor neglected child, who seemed so worthy of a better fate? Was not this reparation incumbent on her—a debt—a duty? And what a pleasant duty, to take the uncomplaining little victim from her tormentors. To Sister Victoire, who had become a dearly loved friend, Madame de Sorgnes unfolded her plan; she wished to make her work complete; her gratitude knew no limits. She wished to adopt Tiomane, to educate her with her own daughter, and to provide for her future. But if the consul's beautiful wife intended to take the role of a fairy godmother, she did not propose to give herself any trouble about it, but simply to raise her magic wand while peacefully smoking her cigarets, reclining on a sofa. Besides, no one was so well fitted as Sister Victoire to make all necessary arrangements. The only difficulty in carrying out this benevolent scheme was that of obtaining from the officials of the orphan asylum at Boulogne the transfer of the child, already apprenticed to Jeane Bousquier, to the care of the rich and powerfnl Madame de Sorgnes; the result of the negotiations was, however, a foregone conclusion. In a few days a touching scene took place between Tiomane and her benefactress. The latter was in possession of the written consent of the officials of the asylum, together with the most minute information with regard to her little protege, whose real name was Armande Laurin. Her father, a professor of mathematics at the Lyceum of Boulogne, had married a young girl without fortune. He had died two years after his marriage. In a few months consumption had carried off the grief stricken young mother, and the infant, without relatives, without any resource whatever, had been received into the asylum by the good Sisters of Charity. Madame de Sorgnes, taking the little orphan in her arms, invited her to come and live with her always as a sister to Guillaume and Maritza. Tiomane was speechless at the vision of such an undreamed of happiness, and it was a pleasant task for the fairy godmother to convince the poor little one that it was no dream, but a delightful reality. All the arrangements were quickly concluded. As Madame de Sorgnes was to leave Berck the next day, Sister Victoire communicated to Pere Jean the decision which would deprive him of his faithful little servant, and as he was well paid, the peasant was quite resigned to his loss. That evening Tiomane made her entrance into the new world in which she was henceforth to dwell. Sister Victoire had taken upon herself the task of purchasing the necessary outfit at one of the shops. Certainly the little donkey driver, in her elegant white muslin dress, would never have been taken for one of the young fashionables at the beach, and her brilliant protectress could not refrain from a little grimace, while a mocking laugh from a corner of the room voiced the comical impression made by Tiomane in this toilet.

"OFFERED HER ASSISTANCE."

"This is very wicked in you, Mademoiselle," cried Guillaume, in a severe tone. "It is not the cowl that makes the friar, and a silk dress that I know would not plunge into the ocean to save Maritza's life."

Tiomane looked with keen interest at the person so severely rebuked. Mademoiselle Emmeline Pascale, Maritza's governess, was about 40 years of age. Tall, thin, phenomenally ugly, her angular face was nevertheless intelligent, and not without distinction. She laughed an affected little laugh at the noble hearted boy's reprimand, and fixed on the frightened little girl the stony stare of her aggressive gray eyes. Tiomane felt her heart sink with a presentiment of sorrow, but Guillaume put an end to this painful scene by seizing her in his arms in a brotherly way, and saying in a reassuring tone, "Don't worry about it, Tiomane. Mamma will buy everything for you in Paris. Fine clothes are plenty there, and you will soon learn to wear them properly."

Dinner was announced. He drew her gently into the dining room, and placed her at his side at the table. It seemed to Tiomane that an extravagant dream had suddenly transported her to a fairy land in which she felt bewildered and lost. In the midst of numerous distinguished guests, she looked around in a sort of stupor, not daring to eat. Her keen intelligence gave her the perception, rare indeed in a child of her age, of the immense distance which separated her from this refined and brilliant society. It terrified her. However, her friend and neighbor, Guillaume, continued to show her the most thoughtful attentions. It was he who served her, for he knew that she would not dare touch the dishes presented by the white gloved butler. [illegible] there was a second altercation between the impulsive, generous [illegible] and "Mademoiselle," as [illegible] called the governess. In the conversation Mademoiselle said, "Oh, I told you it was [illegible] to let the children go [illegible] pected some misfortune.

"Ah! Mademoiselle," [illegible] plied, "no matter what [illegible] is, you are always predicting [illegible]

"Guillaume!" cried Madame Sorgnes severely. But the [illegible] was so well merited that she could not repress a slight smile, which was seen by the governess, and again [illegible] saw the look of hatred in [illegible] eyes, which seemed to impart a new disgrace to her. All the happiness of this hospitable mansion had merged to do honor to the last hours of Madame de Sorgnes' stay at Berck. As may well be imagined, the little donkey driver's wonderful good luck was the principal subject of conversation. In the chaos of these new, strange impressions, Tiomane elicited one idea, which was to be the point of departure in all her appreciations of life. The circle of children formed a mimic court around Guillaume and Maritza. Under the empressement of this little world was seen the servile admiration of children of a larger growth, and the son and daughter of the consul-general of France, surrounded by princely luxury, enjoyed an undisputed sovereignty, and had flatterers already. Elli, the wife of Kifos, a young Greek of about 20, clad, in the fashion of the women of Asia Minor, in a flowered skirt, a chemisette of silk under the short vest embroidered in silver, a red cap with a long blue tassel, under which the heavy braids of her black hair rolled, conducted Tiomane to a beautiful sleeping room and undressed her. But the little donkey driver found the proffered aid hard to accept. Like everything else, riches and luxury must have a novitiate.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

STEVENSON'S ADVENTURE.

How the Novelist Came Near Being Put Off a Train for Smoking.

During his last visit to this country Robert Louis Stevenson escaped a very unpleasant experience and never knew it, according to a story told in Harper's Weekly. A journalist, who knew Stevenson by his published portraits, entered a railway car at Long Branch, and saw the famous author seated in a corner, with a black square box on the opposite seat and a rubber tube dangling from it. The conductor knew the journalist and said to him, pointing to Mr. Stevenson:

"I'm going to put that man with the long hair off the train. He is smoking. I asked him not to, but he's been at it again while I've been out of the car."

"He is not smoking," said the journalist; "that is some device for carrying medicine, in the form of a vapor, which he inhales in his lungs. He is an invalid. That is Robert Louis Stevenson, the novelist."

The conductor seemed interested, but only for a minute. "I don't care," said he. "It doesn't matter who he is. I call it smoking, and he's been at it after I told him not to."

The journalist tried another tack. "Did you ever read 'Kidnapped?' he asked.

"Naw," said the conductor. "I don't care what he is; he has got to obey the rules."

The journalist persisted. "Did you ever read "Treasure Island?"

"Naw," said the conductor. I don't read many novels; they are all trash anyhow."

"Hold on," said the journalist, "Did you ever read 'Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde?' He wrote that also." "What?" said the conductor. "Did I read 'Jekkie 'n' Hyde?' Well, I guess I did. Couldn't sleep the night I finished. I seen it played at the theater, too. It's great, ain't it? Well, that man is a dandy, ain't he? He can can smoke—he can; 'tain't what you call smoking, is it? Sick, is he? He does look sick. I'd like to see any one object to man like that taking his medicine."

Nature Will Assert Herself.

One woman said of another recently: "She boasts that she is never idle, that every moment not spent in sleep is a busy one. When she does sit down for a short time she always has some fancy work ready and picks it up. She declares that she can rest as well if her hands are occupied as if they lie quiet in her lap. In fact, she says that she rests better for the trifling work, and I imagine that she does, but it is because she is too overwrought and too nervous to sit perfectly still. I shall be much surprised if, some day, there is not a total collapse there." If nature has, as is alleged, a long memory and never forgets an injury, it does seem probable that this woman who, like her prototype in Mother Goose, "is never quiet," will some day discover that the few moments of refreshment and rest that she would not seize, as she went on with her daily work, have been forced upon her in the accumulation of their long arrears.

Leadville's Gold Belt.

From the developments made in the Leadville gold belt in the past few weeks, the mining men of the camp feel that they have something to be thankful for. An enthusiast says: "The gold camp of the future is assured, and an adequate description of its possibilities beggars language. Leadville may justly be styled the gold Comstock of Colorado. The great lode is as yet in a very small part developed, and has an extent of at least three miles by ten." Leadville's gold production for 1894 from virtually three gold producers will be $2,000,000, and with the present outlook and new discoveries being made, it would be impossible to estimate what the camp will do next year.

A Monster M[illegible]

The biggest moose e[illegible] Aroostook region of M[illegible] best hunting ground, [illegible] cently by Col. A. A. B[illegible] R. I. A game official meas[illegible] imal, and his figures wer[illegible] dressed and including hid[illegible] sled on which it was [illegible] pounds; spread of antler[illegible] The antlers have fifteen pr[illegible] side and thirteen on the [illegible]

Sebastapol Was Not In[illegible]

For it was taken by assault, [illegible] built up, a constitution fortifi[illegible] ter's Stomach Bitters may b[illegible] the assaults of malarious dis[illegible] localities where it is most [illegible] Emigrants to the [illegible] e west should be[illegible] t with a supp[illegible] spepsia, [illegible] rgnes

Depend upo[illegible] Therefore if [illegible] improperly [illegible] results. To[illegible]

Sarsa[illegible]

The One True Blo[illegible]

Hood's Pill[illegible]

The Co[illegible]

Pa[illegible]

YOU[illegible]

A Desk Calend[illegible] convenient kind o[illegible] oranda. The Col[illegible] is brightest and [illegible] of dainty pen s[illegible] thoughts on ou[illegible] Occasionally rem[illegible] quality of Colu[illegible] your need of one. [illegible] that, of course. T[illegible] mailed for five 2-c[illegible]

Address Calen[illegible]

POPE MAN[illegible]

HA[illegible]

$1[illegible]

LAST CALL[illegible]

$1[illegible]

MOR[illegible]

If You Plant the RIGHT SEED.

My new handsomely illustrated SEED BOOK tells all about the best varieties of Onions and Everything of interest in the Seed Line; how to grow and market vegetables successfully—FREE if you write at once—to-day. P.O. Box 906

H. W. BUCKBEE,

ROCKFORD SEED FARMS,

ROCKFORD, ILL.

THE AERMOTOR CO. does half the world's windmill business, because it has reduced the cost of wind power to 1/3 what it was. It has many branch houses, and supplies its goods and repairs at your door. It can and does furnish a better article for less money than others. It makes Pumping and Geared, Steel, Galvanized-after-Completion Windmills, Tilting and Fixed Steel Towers, Steel Buzz Saw Frames, Steel Feed Cutters and Feed Grinders. On application it will name one of these articles that it will furnish until January 1st at 1/3 the usual price. It also makes Tanks and Pumps of all kinds. Send for catalogue. Factory: 12th, Rockwell and Fillmore Streets, Chicago.

$50 A WEEK AGENTS (Local or traveling, ladies or gents, selling National Patent Dish Washer, best made, simple, durable, low price, well and honestly made, washes and dries dishes in two minutes, no muss, slop, scalded fingers or broken dishes, a child can operate, every one warranted, one in a locality means a sale to all the neighbors, sells on merit, every family buys, permanent situation, write for agency. World Mfg. Co., 10 26 Columbus, Ohio.

SHIP YOUR LIVE STOCK TO THE DROVERS COMMISSION COMPANY, COMMISSION MERCHANTS, 120-122 Exchange Building, UNION STOCK YARDS, CHICAGO.

Reference, Drovers National Bank.

MARKET REPORTS FREE.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

IF YOU HAVE STOCK TO SHIP, Write us for market reports. We send [illegible] our expense. Fill orders for stock cattle [illegible] CLARK BOWLES & CO. [illegible] 189 Exchange Bld[illegible] Refer, by permission, Drovers Nat[illegible]

OPIUM Morphine [illegible] to 20 da[illegible] DR. [illegible]

Still There.

...om Hardup, who has a lot ...ud no money, but who is ...f a very old, very healthy ...ery ...dthy aunt)—Now, don't get ...couraged, Tommy; there is your Aunt Maria.

Tom Hardup—Yes, there she is. That's the trouble.

A Very Desirable Calendar.

...lendars of all kinds and sizes ... the coming year. Many are to ... for the asking—many without ...but to them as to other things ... might be applied that what ...othing is worth about what it ... The calendar we always welcome ...ist reached us. We refer to the ...published by N. W. Ayer & Son, ...spaper Advertising Agents, Philadelphia. This issue s... better than its p... ...nough for th... ...fully adapted fo... ...turally a great ...own n... ...It.

VOLU...

L. H...

PURE DRUGS

AND ME...

Window Shades And Wall Paper.

...Sold

...ound in ...elieve that ...em, or have ...arker's Gin- ...be a house- ...ceable in al- ...here is weak- ...e are forms of ...ke life a bur- ...of persistent ...tressing stom- ...They have held ...nes until ban- ...r Tonic and we ...d that has made ...ul.

...orts into the United ...than $2 for each in- ...

...ollars reward ...that cannot be ...Cure. ...O., Toledo, O. ...have known F. ...5 years, and be- ...ctly honorable in all ...actions, and financially ...ut any obligations made ...

...KINNAN & MARVIN, ...Druggists, Toledo, Ohio. ... Cure is taken internal- ...ly upon the blood and ... the system. Testi- ...Price, 75c per bottle. ...ts. ...25c.

...eight years from ...s must be redeem- ...

...ates spent $42,806

LAU BRO... ...ng Teeth, ...well-tried remedy. Mrs. ...or Children Teething.

...reat Britain, Austria- ...ain and Prussia are the ... in debt than the United ...

...s. To allay the irrita- ...s coughing, use "Brown's ..." A simple and safe ...

TIM... ...ays expenditures of the ...1895 were $356,195,298. ...Parks' Tea at night moves ...e morning."

...button the smaller the ...

...would often be a pleasure ...he corns. These pests are easily re- ...lercorns. 15c, at druggists.

...KS but mischievous young- ...s., took a neighboring ...ay we... one night recently ...and its tail blue.

...ould bu... ...'s Ginger Tonic ...vealed in dispelling ...kind of weakness.

...silver and 66 ...as coined. In ...ver and $1.17

...a in 1894 was ...on the nation's ...

...enue last year ...ties.

...ke ...ff

The general belief among doctors is that consumption itself is very rarely inherited. But the belief is becoming stronger that the tendency to consumption is very generally transmitted from parent to child. If there has been consumption in the family, each member should take special care to prepare the system against it. Live out doors; keep the body well nourished; and treat the first indication of failing health.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is a fat-producing food and nerve-tonic. Its use is followed by improved nutrition, richer blood, stronger nerves and a more healthy action of all the organs. It strengthens the power of the body to resist disease. If you have inherited a tendency to weak lungs, shake it off.

JUST AS GOOD IS NOT SCOTT'S EMULSION.

D. M. 1228. NO. 4

...ing advertise... ...kindly mention ...this pa...

IN THE LEGISLATURE

SENATE.

DES MOINES, January 13.—Lieut.-Gov. Dungan called senate to order. After prayer temporary officers were chosen and a committee on credentials was appointed. Upon receipt of its report the oath of office was administered to the new members of the senate. W. E. Bulland, secretary, was unanimously elected, as were all of the republican caucus nominees and they all took the oath. Senator Funk offered a resolution providing that a standing committee of nine members to be known as the building and loan committee be created and added to the standing committees of the senate. Carried. The committee on arrangements for Judge Wright's funeral offered a concurrent resolution recommending that the assembly adjourn until Tuesday at 10 o'clock and attend Judge Wright's funeral in a body. Committee was appointed to inform the house and the governor of the organization of the senate and adjournment was then taken.

...bleday, of Polk, called house to order ...Wilson, of Clinton, was made temporary clerk and John Morrison, of Keokuk, temporary speaker. A committee on credentials was appointed, and upon receipt of report the oath was administered to the members. H. W. Byers was elected speaker by acclamation, the democrats making no nominations. After a brief speech by the speaker the permanent officers agreed upon by the republican caucus were elected. Resolutions on the death of Judge Wright were read and adopted; also on the death of a member of the family of Representative Grote. The governor and senate were notified that the house was organized and ready to receive communications and transact business. The house then adjourned to 10 o'clock a. m. Tuesday.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, January 14.—A resolution was adopted arranging for a joint session in the house at 2 o'clock to canvass the vote for governor and lieutenant governor. The chair appointed Senators Cheshire, Mitchell, Waterman, Hurst and Ellis as members of a joint committee on arrangements for the inauguration of Governor Drake. At 10:20 the senate received the governor's message. The matter of taking up the report of the code commission caused considerable debate, but finally the matter went over until to-morrow, the resolutions relative thereto being referred to a special committee with instructions to report.

HOUSE.

Memorial resolutions to the following persons were passed: Miller, of Lee; McGonigal, of Clayton, Burnquest of Webster; and Smith of Linn. Martin, of Adair, introduced a resolution to appoint a building and loan committee. Motion by Gurley to table was carried. Notice given of move to reconsider. Private Secretary Richards delivered the governor's message. It was ordered filed and printed. House agreed to resolution to canvass the vote. Committee on inauguration and memorial was appointed.

JOINT SESSION.

In the afternoon the senate and house met in joint session to canvass the vote for governor and lieutenant governor. Lieutenant Governor Dungan presided. A committee was appointed to perform the work and when completed, the report as follows was adopted. The total number of votes cast for governor was 401,345, of which Gen Drake received 208,714, Babb, democrat, 149,428, Crane, populist, 32,428, and Bacon, prohibitionist, 11,014. For lieutenant governor there were cast 398,975, of which Matt Parrot, republican, received 211,204, Bestow, democrat, 145,789, Starrett populist, 31,760, and Atwood, prohibitionist, 10,222. Gen. Drake and Matt Parrott were declared elected and the joint convention was dissolved.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, January 15.—Prayer by Rev. J. M. Crocker, chaplain of Anamosa penitentiary. Senator Carney, of Marshall, introduced a resolution to instruct the Iowa members in congress to vote for a measure to stop the Armenian outrages. Senator Trewin introduced the report of the committee to consider a plan for handling the report of the code revision committee. It was only a partial report and provides for a senate committee of fifteen, which shall have charge of the entire report and assign the different sections of the code to the proper standing committees of the senate. It provides that this shall not be a joint committee, but suggests that joint conferences be held with a similar committee in the house. The report of the committee was adopted by acclamation and the committee continued. Communication was received from Governor Jackson announcing a vacancy in the board of trustees of the Industrial school at Mitchellville, caused by the death of Hon. Thomas Mitchell, and a vacancy in the board of trustees of the college for the blind, caused by the resignation of Thomas Bell, of Fairfield. House resolution for committee to visit state institutions was referred to a committee. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Prayer by Rev. W. A. Black, of Des Moines. Resolution for appointment of a committee of seven to devise plans for precedure in handling the code, was adopted and Weaver, Funk, Early, Cornwall, Evans, Porter and Temple were appointed. Resolution that a committee of three, two from the house and one from the senate, be appointed by speaker to visit state institutions was adopted. Adjourned until tomorrow.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

At the joint republican caucus Senator Allison was unanimously nominated for a fifth term of six years. The senator was present and made a fitting address. F. R. Conaway was nominated for state printer; Lafayette Young for binder; warden, Anamosa, P. W. Madden; Fort Madison, N. N. Jones.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS.

The democratic caucus nominated the following: United States senator, W. I. Babb; warden, Anamosa, Tom Hudson; Ft. Madison, Elmer E. Barton; state printer, S. P. Evans; state binder, A. S. Hardie, Dubuque.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, January 16.—Senator Carroll, of Davis, introduced a resolution of sympathy for the Cubans. Laid over. Senate adopted report of committee providing for a committee of three to visit each state institution. Eaton offered a resolution of sympathy with Armenia. The governor submitted a message relative to pardons. Senate went into executive session and confirmed the recent appointments made by Governor Jackson.

The senate after reassembling at 2:15 p. m. elected Senator A. B. Funk speaker pro tem for the entire session.

After the ceremonies of inauguration Lieutenant Governor Parrott was presented to the senate, and briefly addressed the body.

He then announced the standing committees of the session, as follows:

Ways and Means—Senators Funk, Perrin, Palmer, Penrose, Pusey, Riggen, Allyn, Carroll, Berry, Ericson, Hospers, Sargeant, Hipwell, Hurst, Everall.

Judiciary—Senators Ellis, Cheshire, Eaton, Carpenter, Perin, Phelps, Upton, Harriman, Blanchard, Mitchell, Ellison, Healy, Harper, Ranck, Bonson.

Appropriations—Senators Waterman, Garst, Phelps, Craig, Gorrell, Alexander, Kilburn, Harriman, Funk, Hotchkiss, Gilbertson, Druet, Everall, Downey, Hurst.

Railways—Senators Penrose, Young, Palmer, Garst, Riggen, Berry, Hobart, Phelps, Upton, Bell, Byers, Ranck, Hurst.

Cities and Towns—Senators Cheshire, Waterman, Lathrop, Pusey, Trewin, Blanchard, Alexander, Ellis, Carney, ... Hospers, Hipwell, Bonson.

Suppression of Intemperance—Senators Perrin, Riggen, Carney, Gilbertson, Palmer, Garst, Sargeant, Funk, Ellis, Waterman, Hospers, Bonson, Hipwell.

Congressional and Judicial Districts—Senators Young, Eaton, Blanchard, Upton, Hobart, Junkin, Berry, Alexander, Healy, Downey, Bonson.

Agriculture—Senators Palmer, Kilburn, Henderson, Lehfeldt, Bell, Harriman, Mitchell, Young, Hospers, Everall, Downey.

Constitutional Amendments and Suffrage—Senators Phelps, Craig, Ellison, Rowen, Hotchkiss, Eaton, Gorrell, Cheshire, Byers, Ranck, Harper.

Insurance—Senators Garst, Craig, Kilburn, Rowen, Phelps, Pusey, Young, Hotchkiss, Alexander, Harper, Everall.

Schools—Senators Trewin, Phelps, Eaton, Kilburn, Perrin, Carney, Byers, Ericson, Carroll, Everall, Ranck.

Labor—Senators Kilburn, Rowen, Byers, Druet, Healy, Hotchkiss, Carroll, Downey, Hipwell.

Mines and Mining—Senators Carroll, Riggen, Perrin, Cheshire, Druet, Healy, Blanchard, Hipwell, Downey.

Banks—Senators Hospers, Carney, Carpenter, Allyn, Alexander, Ellison, Pusey, Gilbertson, Bonsop.

Senatorial and Representative Districts—Senators Upton, Lothrop, Henderson, Ellison, Byers, Allyn, Carpenter, Hurst, Everall.

Highways—Senators Harriman, Kilburn, Palmer, Sargeant, Gorrell, Henderson, Trewin, Young, Hurst.

Public Health—Senators Gorrell, Riggen, Druet, Cheshire, Penrose, Harriman, Mitchell, Funk, Palmer, Downey, Ranck.

Educational Institutions—Senators Blanchard, Garst, Hotchkiss, Hobart, Penrose, Bell, Palmer, Ranck, Bonson.

Military—Senators Craig, Palmer, Kilburn, Henderson, Riggen, Hotchkiss, Bell, Everall, Hurst.

Pharmacy—Senators Riggen, Carney, Gorrell, Pusey, Craig, Byers, Ellison, Sargeant, Hurst.

Penitentiaries and Pardons—Senators Rowen, Junkin, Druet, Trewin, Bell, Allyn, Downey.

Printing—Senators Hotchkiss, Funk, Rowen, Carroll, Bell, Healy, Hurst.

Federal Relations—Senators Pusey, Berry, Lothrop, Waterman, Blanchard, Carpenter, Harper.

Compensation Public Officers—Senators Hobart, Ericson, Penrose, Gilbertson, Ellis, Ellison, Hipwell.

Charitable Institutions—Senators Junkin, Allyn, Gorrell, Penrose, Perrin, Lehfeldt, Hobart, Sargeant, Bonson.

Elections—Senators Carney, Upton, Eaton, Waterman, Gilbertson, Hospers, Harper.

Claims—Senators Ericson, Penrose, Hobart, Garst, Allyn, Sargeant, Everall.

Commerce—Senators Ellison, Blanchard, Hospers, Ellis, Cheshire, Lehfeldt, Harper.

Retrenchment and Reform—Senators Allyn, Perrin, Junkin, Lehfeldt, Eaton, Mitchell, Hurst.

Manufactures—Senators Druet, Ericson, Mitchell, Alexander, Hipwell.

Public Buildings—Senators Alexander, Carroll, Young, Lehfeldt, Hurst.

Rules—Senators Mitchell, Phelps, Carpenter, Berry, Ranck.

Horticulture and Forestry—Senators Bell, Harriman, Gorrell, Young, Lehfeldt.

Corporations—Senators Healy, Gilbertson, Upton, Ellis, Hipwell.

Public Lands—Senators Lothrop, Healy, Funk.

Public Libraries—Senators Berry, Mitchell, Harper.

Fish and Game—Senators Henderson Trewin, Young.

Engrossed Bills—Senators Byers Hotchkiss, Bonson.

Enrolled Bills—Senator Gilbertson Carroll, Ranck.

The additional committees ordered this session—

Revision of Code—Senators Carpenter Trewin, Pusey, Craig, Carney, Berry Lothrop, Junkin, Hobart, Funk, Gilbertson, Waterman, Rowen, Ranck Harper.

Building and Loan Associations—Senators Eaton, Lothrop, Cheshire, Ericson, Junkin, Funk, Waterman, Rowen, Ellis, Sargeant, Downey.

HOUSE.

The committee on code revision reported in substance as follows:

Resolved, that a standing committee of twenty-five be appointed by the house to be known as the code committee which shall apportion the work to the different standing committees.

Early, of Sac, filed a minority report to the report of the code committee and moved its adoption. It provided for five special committees of five members each to be designated as divisions numbered 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 and the appointment of a further committee of six whose duty would be to assign the different portions of the code to the several committees. Merrell, of Clinton, advocated adoption of the plan of 1873. Governor's pardon and commutation message was transmitted.

INAUGURAL EXERCISES.

The inaugural exercises were held in the rotunda at 2:30 p. m. After music by the Des Moines band Rev. H. O. Breeden delivered the invocation. There was music by the Drake University Glee Club and then the oath was administered by Chief Justice Rothrock. Governor Drake was then presented and delivered his address. At its conclusion Senator Allison was called for and spoke briefly, and the convention was then dissolved.

SEANTE.

DES MOINES, January 17.—Many petitions were introduced asking that age of consent be raised to 18 years. A large number of bills were introduced, among them the following: To define fraternal beneficiary societies, orders and associations and regulating the same; to prohibit the manufacture and sale of cigarettes; to allow the manufacture of intoxicating liquors; to raise the age of consent to 18 years; to require county boards of supervisors to appropriate and keep within the limits of their revenue; to regulate building and loan associations. Report of committee appointing Henry Hale, of Warren county, as postmaster was adopted. Bill providing that state surrender jurisdiction over Indians in Tama county to the United States government passed. Resolution extending sympathy to Cubans passed. It favors recognition of their rights as belligerents as soon as conditions will justify such action. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Majority and minority reports of the code plan of work committee were read and discussion proceeded to. After a lengthy discussion a motion to recommit the reports prevailed. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, January 18.—Petitions were offered for a law to regulate building and loan associations; for separation of adult and juvenile prisoners; for raising age of consent; for resubmission of prohibitory amendment and against a manufacturer's bill. Among the bills introduced were these: To amend and otherwise simplify election laws; to require every purchaser of intoxicating liquor to be used as a beverage to secure a license and providing for penalty in case of failure to do so; to establish a state board of embalming; to separate adult and juvenile prisoners. Carpenter offered a resolution that a committee of three senators and four representatives be appointed to consider a plan for celebrating the semi-centennial of the state and the erection of a memorial. Laid over. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

A report of the code committee, providing for the appointment of five special committees from each body, consisting of seven members each, and which shall be designated as special committees on revising the code, each committee representing a different division, to each of which shall be referred for consideration and recommendation the several parts of the reports of the code commission as shall be assigned to it by a special committee, was received. Merrell presented a substitute, which was tabled, and the report was adopted. Van Houten offered a resolution regarding the pooling of railroads, and containing suggestions for the railroad committee toward preventing such pooling. Referred. The speaker announced members of committees to visit state institutions, after which adjournment was taken until Monday.

GROW RICH, EVERY FARMER.

The editor thinks it to be the wish of everybody to grow rich, not for the sake of the money, but for the good that can be done with the money. Now, there are three new cereals recently created that will make money for the farmer. One is Silver King Barley, the most wonderful creation of the age, yielding 90, 100 to 116 bu. per acre in 1895, and there are thousands of farmers who believe they can grow 150 bu. per acre therefro... in 1896.

Then ...ere is Silver Mine Oats, yielding ... 1895 209 bu. per acre. Every farmer who tested it, believes 250 bu. possible.

Then there is Golden Triumph Corn, which produced over 200 bu. per acre, and 250 bu. is surely possible.

And potatoes, there is Salzer's Earliest, which was fit for table in 28 days in 1895, yielding tremendously, while the Champion of the World, tested in a thousand different places in 1895, yielded from 8 to 1,600 bu. per acre.

Now, in Salzer's new catalogue there is a wonderful arrayal of new varieties of wheat, oats, barley, rye, potatoes, grasses, clovers and forage plants, and the editor believes that it would pay ever... ...ner a thousand-fold to get this catalogue before buying seeds.

If you will cut this out and send it with 10 cents postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will receive, free, 10 grain and grass samples, including above and their mammoth catalogue. Catalogue alone, 5 cents postage. W.N.

Absolutely Necessary.

"I see it is estimated that the Kaffirs steal $1,250,000 worth of diamonds a year."

"Yes; I suppose the poor creatures have to wear something."

High, Low Jack.

Fine ice means very cold weather, then comes a high old time in skating rinks, and skating ponds, on slides and rides, and we go home tired and overheated. It's the same old story of cooling off; off with wraps and on with all sorts of aches and pains, rheumatic, neuralgic, sciatic, lumbagic, including frost-bites, backache, even toothache. They who dance must pay the piper. We cut up Jack and are brought low by our own folly. What of it, the dance will go on, all the same. It is generally known that St. Jacobs Oil will cure all such aches and pains separately or collectively, and the cry is on with the dance.

She Was Right.

"If I am killed," exclaimed the bird, tragically, "my blood will be upon your head."

But the woman laughed scornfully.

"I should say not," she rejoined.

She was willing to admit that the fowl's wings and tail feathers would be upon her head, but it was perfectly absurd to talk about blood.

Withdrawing the Charge.

Jaggs—I called him a liar, and then, seeing he had a shotgun, I turned to run.

Braggs—Why didn't you withdraw the charge?

Jaggs—Couldn't get at it. The doctor's boy withdrew most of it with a pair of tweezers for ten cents.

BETTER WALK A MILE than fail to get a 5-cent package of Cut and Slash smoking tobacco if you want to enjoy a real good smoke. Cut and Slash cheroots are as good as many 5-cent cigars, and you get Three for 5 cents. Sure to please.

A Valued Correspondent.

"You say he contributes to the magazines?" said the literary girl.

"Yes," replied his rival.

"Anything worth using?"

"Yes."

"What?"

"Postage stamps."

Colorado Gold Mines.

If you are interested in gold mining or wish to keep posted regarding the wonderful strides being made in Colorado, it will pay you to send fifty cents for a year's subscription to The Gold Miner, an illustrated monthly paper published at Denver.

Slightly Personal.

Swellington (at the soiree)—I wonder if that plain woman over there is really trying to flirt with me?

Cooler (politely)—I can easily find out, sir, by asking her; she's my wife.

The attention of all stock shippers is invited to the advertisement of the Drovers' Commission Co., of Chicago, which appears in this issue. They are especially equipped for the successful handling of your live stock, having three experienced cattle salesmen, three hog salesmen, (one each division) and one sheep salesman, with a competent force of experienced yard men to receive and care for your stock on arrival. For their financial standing they refer to the Drovers' National Bank.

A Personal Matter.

"Can yer tell me 'ow far it is to Andross 'Ill, guv'nor?"

"It's about three miles. Whom do you want to see there?"

"I want to see myself there."

The especial attention of our readers is called to the advertisement of Clark, Bowles & Co., live stock commission merchants, which appears in this issue. Correspondence and consignments are solicited, and will be promptly and advantageously handled by them. They are thoroughly reliable and invite your attention to their facilities for handling all kinds of stock.

The estate of the late Eben D. Jordan, the great Boston merchant is, estimated at $7,000,000.

In Olden Times

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

"The Principles of Dental Surgery," by Leonard Kocker, in 1826, placed dentistry on its proper footing as an independent branch of surgery.

"Hanson's Magic Corn Salve."

Warranted to cure or money refunded. Ask your druggist for it. Price 15 cents.

In 1835 the public debt of the United States was only $37,513.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is the only cough medicine used in my house.—D. C. Albright, Mifflinburg, Pa., Dec. 11, '95.

Mr. Cleveland will lack fourteen days of being 60 years old when he retires from the presidency.

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

According to Mr. Gladstone, "the six great powers, between them, spend more than £100,000,000 yearly upon what is termed their defen es.

Coe's Cough Balsam

Is the oldest and best. It will break up a Cold quicker than anything else. It is always reliable. Try it.

LAUGHING GAS.

Elder Berry—"What is your idea of faith?" Joblots—"Putting a nickle in the plate and expecting a crown of pure gold."—New York Herald.

Dilzon—"Nice umbrella, that. What did it cost you?" Dalzey—"Six dollars. What did yours cost?" Dilzon—"Oh, just a little effort."—Roxbury Gazette.

She—"Why doesn't Mr. Pompous join the church? He seems to be quite a good man." He—"I guess he feels as if the church ought to join him."—Detroit Free Press.

Customer—"A loaf of bread, please." Baker—"Five-cent loaf or ten-cent loaf?" Customer (precisely)—"I will take one of the loaves that you sell for five cents."—Somerville Journal.

Gus—"How did you happen to ask her to marry you the first time you ever met her?" Cholly—"Well,—aw—you see I had just been introduced to her, and I—ah—couldn't think of anything else to say."—Harper's Bazar.

"That was very kind of your uncle to pay your debts." "Humph, I don't think so. He might have given me the money and let me pay 'em." "What difference would that have made?" "It would have re-established my credit."—Harper's Bazar.

At a military examination—Officer: "The opponents of our military system say that standing armies are disastrous to the country. Can you name anything that is more disastrous?" Cadet—"Yes, a runaway army."—Chronik der Gegenwart.

"Bliggins is a fine fellow," remarked the promiscuous eulogizer. "I believe he would share his last dollar with a friend." "Well," replied the chronic debtor, "maybe he would. I guess I have never been so fortunate as to run across him when he was down to his last dollar."—Washington Star.

Lord Bleshugh—"Afwaid to follow the hounds? Why, I didn't think you Amerwicans were afwaid of anything!" Wool E. West—"Well, I ain't much of a horseman, and blamed if I'm going to take the chances of one of them blooded horses taking the bit and running clean off your little island with me."—Puck.

BEAT THE COMPANY.

Clever Ruse of a Philadelphia Woman to Escape the Payment of Fare.

From the Philadelphia Record: One of the street car companies in Philadelphia recently increased its fares. The move is anything but popular, and there are many attempts to beat the company. A woman with much silver in her hair and a determined expression of face boarded a Spring Garden street car at Twentieth street. The conductor came in and reached out his hand for her fare. She gave him a nickel and asked for a pass up Sixteenth street. The conductor, with a weary inflection of voice, because he had to make the demand so often before in the past two days, said, shortly: "Three cents more if you want a transfer."

"Yes, up Sixteenth street," said the old lady, nodding her head at him.

"I want 8 cents," bawled the conductor.

"Hey?" said the passenger.

"Eight cents!" yelled the poor man at the top of his voice.

"I can't understand," said the old lady; "I'm very deaf."

The conductor tried it again until he was blue in the face, but the old lady shook her head. Then he handed her nickel back, and, taking a piece of paper, wrote on it:

"Eight cents for a transfer." The old lady took the paper and squinted at it a moment.

"I can't read," she said; "I ain't got me glasses with me. Here, stop the car. I get off here."

The conductor pulled the bell, and the old lady, with her nickel in her hand, stepped off the platform. As the car started on again she yelled to the conductor: "I ain't deaf, at all. Ye didn't git me to pay ye 3 cents extry, did ye?"

How He Asked Grace.

A commercial traveler who was taking a vacation with his uncle in the country, says the Sauk Center (Minn.) Avalanche, was suddenly called upon to ask the blessing, and, not being accustomed to it, promptly tackled the difficulty in the following words: "We acknowledge the receipt of your favor of this date. Allow us to express our gratitude for this expression of good will. Trusting that our house may merit your confidence and that we may have many good orders from you this fall, we are yours truly."

A Trip to the Garden Spots of the South.

On January 28, February 11 an March 10, tickets will be sold from principal cities, towns and villages of the north, to all points on the Louisville & Nashville railroad in Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida and a portion of Kentucky, at one single fare for the round trip. Tickets will be good to return within thirty days and will allow stop-over at any points on the south bound trip. Ask your ticket agent about it, and if he can not sell you excursion tickets write to C. P. Atmore, General Passenger Agent, Louisville, Ky., or Geo. B. Horner, D. P. A., St. Louis, Mo.

The Secret of Success.

Jasper—Mr. Greatman's success is wholly due to the publication of a faked interview with him.

Jumpuppe—I suppose he gained notoriety by repudiating the interview.

Jasper—Oh, no! He went quietly to work to live up to the bright thoughts the reporter had credited him with.

Map of the United States.

The wall map issued by the Burlington Route is three feet wide by four feet long; is printed in seven colors; is mounted on rollers; shows every state, county, important town and railroad in the Union and forms a very desirable and useful adjunct to any household or business establishment. Purchased in large quantities, the maps cost the Burlington Route more than fifteen cents each, but on receipt of that amount in stamps the undersigned will be pleased to send you one.

Write immediately, as the supply is limited.

J. FRANCIS,
G. P. & T. A. Burlington Route,
Omaha, Neb.

The doctors of Topeka, Kas., say that there is a young negro in that burg who has the body and limbs covered with skin exactly like that of an alligator.

Comfort to California.

Yes and economy, too, if you patronize the Burlington Route's Personally Conducted once-a-week excursions which leave Omaha every Thursday morning.

Through tourist sleepers Omaha to San Francisco and Los Angeles. Second-class tickets accepted.

See the local agent and arrange about tickets and berths. Or, write to

J. FRANCIS,
G. P. & T. A., Omaha, Neb.

"The Master Cure." ST. JACOBS OIL ... ACHES AND PAINS.

The Personal Side Of George Washington

Not the General nor President, but the lover, the man, the husband and neighbor. Three of such articles by General A. W. Greely, the famous Arctic explorer, will shortly begin in the

LADIES' HOME JOURNAL

OVER 700,000 COPIES SOLD

Ten Cents on All News-stands. One Dollar a Year

WANTED Agents to look after renewals and new subscribers. Profitable employment offered.

The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia

COPYRIGHT, 1896, BY THE CURTIS PUBLISHING COMPANY

A GREAT BIG PIECE OF

BATTLE AX PLUG

FOR 10 CENTS

SALZER'S SEEDS

HURRAH, FARMERS! SHOUT FOR JOY!

Fine, luxuriant pastures and rich meadows, producing tremendous hay yields (4 to 6 t per acre), are now made possible on every soil, in every clime, by sowing our Extra Gras and Clover Mixtures. You won't need to wait a lifetime for a good start of grass, for we have grasses which, if sown in April, will produce a rousing crop in July. Pamphlet on Grass Culture, etc., 2 cents postage.

WE PAY $400 IN GOLD PRIZES

On Oats, Barley and Corn! The biggest yield on Silver Mine (Nameless Beauty) Oats in 1895 was 207 bushels; the next 206 per acre. You can beat that in 1896 and win $300! Our new tested Barley, Oats, Corn and Potatoes will revolutionize farming! We are the largest growers of farm seeds in the world! Our seeds produce—as the editor of the Rural New Yorker says—Salzer's Early Wisconsin Potato yielded for me 736 bushels per acre. If an early sort yields 736 bushels, what will a late do? Potatoes only $1.50 per barrel.

EARLIEST VEGETABLES IN THE WORLD.

Splendid sorts, fine yields. Onion Seed only 90c. per lb. 35 pkgs. Earliest Vegetables, $1.00, postpaid. 10 pkgs. Flower Seeds, 25c. Everything at hard times prices. Wholesale Market Gardener's List, &c. postage.

Please Cut the Following Out and Send It

With 12 cents in stamps and get our big catalogue and sample of the Pumpkin Yellow Watermelon sensation! Catalogue alone, 5c. postage. W.N.

JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO., LA CROSSE, WIS.

Be Sure

'Tis pure Cocoa, and not made by the so-called "Dutch Process."

Walter Baker & Co.'s Breakfast Cocoa is absolutely pure—no chemicals.

WALTER BAKER & CO., Ltd., Dorchester, Mass.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. 25 CTS.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

KLEMME,
MARION A. FELL, NOTARY PUBLIC.
M. R. CHAMBERS, ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

con
ild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans at per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farmers' Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on us, we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co,
Garner, Iowa.

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME, Belmond, Iowa.

ALEX. KIRKWOOD,

....PROPRIETOR OF....

KIRKWOOD :-: HOUSE,

FIRST CLASS ACCOMMODATION. - RATES $1.00 per Day.

Livery and Feed Stable in Connection

Rigs Furnished on Short Notice.

KLEMME, IOWA.

Subscribe for the KLEMME TIMES.

$1 per. Year

Only Four Days to California.

In response to popular demand, the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad enters upon its 16th year of Philips Personally Conducted Excursions to California. Elegant upholsterad Tourist Cars run through to all California points without change, leaving St. Paul at 7 p. m., Minneaoplis 7:35 p. m. Oct. 3rd and every Thursday thereafter, and reaching California in less than four days. In this age time is an important factor in the selection of a route. The Albert Lea Route is the quickest and most popular. The price of double sleeping car berths is only $6.00 through. A gentlemanly conductor accompanies the car, and a colored porter accompanying the car performs the usual duties Passengers may take meals in dining cars, or prepare them on cooking ranges provided for the purpose. Secure reservations early, addressing A. B. CUTTS, G. T. & P. A., M. & St. L. Ry., Minneapolis, Minn.

THE
Minneapolis & St Louis R. R. Co
A NEW TRAIN TO OMAHA AND
DES MOIOES
It is a HUMMER!
Look out For IT!
THROUGH CARS.
PULLMANS
& COACHES
GREAT!

It will run through on time, reaching Des Moines, Omaha, Denver, California and all points in the West. The previous complete service will not be disturbed by the addition of this train. Ask your nearest M. & St. L. R. R. ticket agent for rates and particulars. A. B. CUTTS,
Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agt.

Improved farms in Fayette County, Tennessee. Houses, barns, good wells Peach, Apple, Pear and Apricot orchards. All kinds of grain grown on this land. Plenty of fuel cheap. No waste lands, price $10 to $20, from 1 to 7 miles form R. R. towns. J. R. CLINE.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, Jan. 24, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum In Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1895.

JOHN R. CLINE, - - - PROPRIETOR.
GEORGE J. HALL, - - - - EDITOR.

A REMINISCENCE.

How Two Prisoners Used Their Brains to Save Their Heads.

The following is an incident of reconstruction days. Captain Rube Clark and his lieutenant, Reynolds, guerrillas, were cast into prison, sentenced to be shot. Clark had powerful friends, who were confident of his release, but Reynolds, from Memphis, was without hope of succor. The prison at Knoxville was a strong iron cage in a big room, whose window had no sign of a glass, and through the long winter Clark and Reynolds were confined there. For several months they suffered the agonies of the damned. At last, as the time for Reynolds' execution approached, it was noticed that he was going crazy. Clark declares to this day that Reynolds did not touch a morsel of food for three weeks. He would moan and sigh and twirl his thumbs after the manner of a crazy person, recognize no one and laugh insanely in Clark's face whenever he tried to console him. Clark was sure of his insanity. Army surgeons and local physicians passed upon the case, and Reynolds was finally discharged as a lunatic.

Clark's friends finally secured his release and hurried him out of Knoxville. Two entered a carriage with him—two of his old soldiers—and drove toward the mountains as hard as possible in the dead of night. Reaching a house in a dense forest, they stopped and asked him to follow them to a back room. The halls were darkened, and in the room there was only the light of a candle. On the bed in the corner lay a man, moaning, sighing, twirling his thumbs and giving other evidences of insanity. Clark recognized Reynolds.

"Poor, poor fellow," he said, leaning over the lieutenant to stroke his forehead. A tear came in his eye as he looked at the wreck of his faithful officer.

One of the soldiers shut the door, locked it and approached the bedside.

"It's all right, Reynolds; this is the captain," he whispered.

Reynolds tore off the blanket, sprang up with a glad cry, and threw his arms around Clark's neck.

"Great God, captain, didn't I do it well?" he said.

They made all possible haste and soon reached New Orleans, where Clark felt that Reynolds would be comparatively safe. One night as they left the opera and had reached a lamp in the street an officer touched Clark on the shoulder.

"I want you," he said. "Make no fuss about it, but come quietly."

Clark pinched Reynolds' arm and signified that he must fly. The lieutenant needed no second warning. Then Clark asked the officer what he was wanted for.

"Hanging," said the latter. "I have been on your trail for three weeks."

"But maybe you have the wrong man. My name is Reuben Clark."

The officer took from his hip pocket a photograph of Reynolds and examined it and Clark under the lamp. Instantly he saw his mistake and began to swear.

"That is a likeness of my friend who has just left us," said Clark coolly. "His name is"—

"Reynolds!" shouted the officer. I've got the wrong man!"

Well, Reynolds was never caught. He is living in Memphis today, I believe, and has grown rich. Clark is rich, too, but that long term in the iron cage affected his mind, and he is the most absentminded man in America.—New York Press.

Why the Boiler Maker Called.

"Do you know," said Mr. Gratebar, "that for a long time I couldn't imagine what brought our neighbor, Mr. Anthony Hammerby, in to see us so often. Mr. Hammerby was a retired boiler maker. He had been a journeyman boiler maker and then a boss, and having made a modest fortune he had retired to enjoy it. He lived only two or three doors from us, and he used to come in often evenings. He seemed particularly to like to hear the children play on the piano, and if they didn't play he would always ask to have them. I used to wonder at this, because I never had any idea that Mr. Hammerby was especially fond of music, and one day I asked him about it.

"'Well, you see,' said Mr. Hammerby, 'I suppose that every man has a feeling of affection for the trade or profession that he was brought up in. I know that I have that feeling for my own, and when I hear your children play duets on the piano with the hard pedal on all the time, it makes me think of the dear old boiler factory.'"—New York Sun.

A Queer Perfume.

Several substances, whose odor is to western nostrils exceedingly repugnant, are highly esteemed in the east as perfumes. In Persia and Afghanistan, asafetida is considered a delicate perfume, and many luxurious persons carry a quantity of it in their pockets or in a bag suspended from the neck.

17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade. 17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

CORN WANTED

AT

WESENBERG BROS'

17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade. 17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

FRANK GRUETZMACHER
DEALER IN
HARNESS, SADDLES, COLLARS, LEATHER, STRAPWORK, BLANKETS, ROBES, WHIPS, BOOTS, SHOES, GLOVES, MITTENS, REPAIRS, ETC.

Special Bargains In Blankets And Robes.

The way to save money is to buy only what you need and then buy the best and as cheap as you can get it. I am Headquarters for all kinds of BOOTS and SHOES, every pair warranted. Call and see for yourself that I can fit you and save you money. My goods are just as I recommend them.

YOURS RESPECTFULLY.
FRANK GRUETZMACHER.

BELL, BELL, BELL.

The above means THE BELL CLOTHING HOUSE at
GARNER, IOWA.
We have a new and complete stock of
Clothing and Gents' Furnishings.
Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Bicycles and Sporting Goods.
It will pay the people of Klemme and vicinity to call.
Yours for business,
F. B. CASSILL & CO

On the Use of Language.

Every one knows the anecdote in which the rustic thought "felicity" was something inside of a pig, meaning probably the part that furnishes lard, which is known in some rural districts as flair, in others as flick—the latter word is well known in Dorsetshire. But this story is surpassed in simplicity by the following: A woman in a village in Kent lost three children by diphtheria, and when the clergyman's wife went to condole with her she railed against the doctors, and said she couldn't think how they could go to church and say that prayer, and then go and practice on the people as they did. In answer to the question what prayer she meant, she said, "Why, they pray to be delivered from false doctoring, heresy and schism, and then they go about and do false doctoring and kill the children."—Notes and Queries.

The Ass Who Predicted.

An Ass who heard a Goose observe that the Water in the Pond was getting very Low, at once offered his Services to Predict Rain. This having been Noised about, the Hens asked for continued Dry Weather, the Foxes demanded a snowstorm, the Oxen wanted frosty mornings, and the Mule, the Wolf, the Dog and the Peacock each demanded that he be Favored with Weather made to order. As a result the Ass could Please no one, and as his Failure was charged to his Obstinacy, the Whole Crowd fell upon him and Wounded him almost to Death. He was Complaining of this to the Peasant When the latter Replied: He who seeks to Please all will end in Pleasing nobody at all.—Detroit Free Press.

Cause and Effect.

There is a good story told of a Hertfordshire farmer. He went home late one night and drank a pint of yeast in mistake for buttermilk. He rose three hours earlier next morning.—Cardiff Mail.

Called Back.

A commercial traveler for a London firm secured an order for £1,000 in the west of England, and, as it was not duly acknowledged, wrote a letter to the firm calling special attention to it and saying, "I thought you would consider such an order quite a feather in my cap."

In reply he received this note from his principal, "We have filed your order, and inclose for your cap the one feather you require."

After about a fortnight came another letter from the firm: "The people who gave you the £1,000 order have failed, and we lose the goods. We have this day sent to you a bagful of feathers for you to fly home with, as we do not want you out on the road for us any more."—Strand Magazine.

Youth is not the age of pleasure. We then expect too much, and we are, therefore, exposed to daily disappointments and mortifications. When we are a little older and have brought down our wishes to our experience, then we become calm and begin to enjoy ourselves.—Lord Liverpool.

Gold pens are now usually tipped with iridium. The bits of this metal are laid in notches at the point of the pen, then fastened on with flux, being afterward ground and polished for use.

Germany stands next to Great Britain in the number of pensioners, there being 588 soldiers of the civil war who regularly draw their pensions from the United States government.

In 1890 the United States manufactured 12 per cent more iron than did England, while in steel our manufacture exceeds hers by about 25 per cent.

The toilet requisites of the sultan, including rouge and enamel for the ladies of the harem and jewelry, cost $2,000,000 a year.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The furnace still smokes, but the smoke goes the right way.

Some of the scholars are still out of school on account of sickness.

No visitors in room 2 last week.

The A. History class will remember the "British Success."

We thank the band boys for being so careful of everything in the room when they practice.

Arthur Larson was absent the first of the week on account of sickness.

George Wesenberg was unable to attend school Monday and Tuesday account of a sore eye, caused by cident.

We hope to have less ... in the future than we have in past. Thus far our repu... inferior to those of our sis... it wa...

We are all busy prepar... go ... exhibition. ...ne.

...le," ... that ... edicting ...

SCHOOL REPORT FOR ENDING JAN. 17,

ROOM NO. I.
No. Enrolled.....
No. Cases of Tardiness.....
Average Daily Attenda...
Names of Pupils neither ab... tardy: Samie Kirkwood, Joh... sen, Mamie Kirkwood, John... berg, George Wesenberg, Willie ... Annie Thieman, Henry Thie... Charley Kluckhohn, Theodore Henschen, Sarah Thieman.

ROOM NO. II.
No. Enrolled.....22.
Average Daily Attendance.....18.
No. Cases of Tardiness.....8.
Names of Pupils neither absent nor tardy: Wm. Barz, John Stille.

Goodell Items.

Mrs. Griswold and Mrs. Mulkins were on the sick list last week.

S. Eldred returned from his Eastern trip on Saturday.

The Masked Ball was a great success and was very much enjoyed by all present.

Prof. Houghton opened a class in Short-hand Monday night.

Quite a few people around here are having lagrippe.

B. Kinney was at Belmond last week attending his Father's Funeral.

We are to have a new Millinery store in town.

A teachers' meeting will be held in the school house at Goodell on Saturday the 25th of January.

A. J. Weddle has purchased a Gasoline engine to run his machinery with

The State Savings Bank held their annual meeting Tuesday.

Marion A. Fell was in town Monday

Mrs. G. W. Robinson went to Garner on Monday.

DISAGREEABLE MAN'S WILL.

He Managed to Put a Sting Into Each One of His Bequests.

While Judge Carpenter was spending a vacation up in the country, he had occasion to look at some records, and his attention was directed to a whimsical will. He arranged for a copy of it as a literary curiosity.

"Imagine the satisfaction with which Mr. Darling proceeded to libel all his relatives and insert a sting into each bequest, well knowing that before their anger began to rise he would be where even a capias in a suit for damages could never reach him," commented the judge, as he gave it to a reporter to copy. The testamentary clauses of the documents are as follows:

"I, William Darling, in Grantness, in the township of ——, county and district of ——, western Canada, esquire, being in sound health of body, and my mind just as usual, which my friends who flatter me say is no great shakes at the best of times, do make this my last will and testament as follows, revoking, of course, all former wills:

"I leave the property of Grantness, and all other landed property I may die possessed of, to my sisters Ellen —— and Betsey Darling, the former because she is married to a minister whom (God help him) she henpecks, the latter because she is married to nobody, nor is she likely to be, for she is an old maid and not market ripe. And also I leave to them and their heirs my share of the stock and implements on the farm, provided that the inclosure around my brother's grave be reserved. And if either should die without issue then the other shall inherit the whole.

"I leave my brother Andrew my big silver box of old James, as the representative of the family. I would have left it to old James himself, but he would melt it down to make temperance medals, and that would be a sacrilege. However, I leave him my big horn snuffbox. He can only make temperance horn spoons of that.

"I leave my sister Jessie my Bible, and when she knows as much of the spirit of it as she does of the letter, she will be another guise Christian than she is.

"I leave my late brother's watch to my brother Jerry, exhorting him at the same time to give up Whiggery, radicalism and all other sins that do most easily beset him.

"I leave my brother Andrew my big silver snuffbox, as I am informed he is rather a decent Christian, with a jolly face.

"I leave ... the snuffbox I got ... militia, as a small token ... titude for the services he has done the family in taking a sister that no man of taste would have taken.

"I leave John Carson a silver teapot, to the end that he may drink tea therefrom to comfort him under the affliction of a slatternly wife.

"I give my silver cup, with a sovereign in it, to my sister Jane, because she is an old maid and pious; also my granna's snuffbox, as it looks decent to see an old woman taking snuff."—Philadelphia Press.

FARMS FOR RENT
FARMS FOR SALE!
Three Fine Farms For

D. G. ...
No. 84, Sto...
No. 89, Wa...
No. 82...
No. 83, Way Freight
No. 85, Freight
No. 81, Pass.

JOHN ...
CITY ...
ANEX...
SHOP IN KIRKWO...

KLEMME ...
H. & S. ...
Draying and ... done on short no...

STATE ...
KL...
Doc... ness.
Foreign ...
Loans ... time. ... and pays int... posits ——
C. W. KNAPP, Cashier.

GEO. S. GATES,
STONE AND BRICK MASON

Plastering a Specialty. Do all kinds of work in my line. I also make a Specialty of bricking up Cisterns and boilers. All work guaranteed and Prices accordingly.
Give me a trial,
GEO. S. GATES,
Klemme, Iowa.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW ...
OPP. U. S. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, JANUARY 31, 1896. NUMBER 23

J. L. HARR.

PURE DRUGS AND MEDICINES.

Window Shades And Wall Paper.

Paints and Oils.

Sold Cheap For Cash.

PRICES!

On Fur Coats, Fur Robes, Horse Blankets.

DUCTION!

On Gent's and Ladies' Underwear, Hats, Caps, Overshoes, Felt Boots, Clothing and Overcoats. Large stock, bound to suit the person and his purse.

CAN'T MISS IT!

To Examine Our Stock.
5 Per Cent Discount for Cash.

LAU BROS., Klemme, Ia.

TIME--Correct Time.

Time Everybody had it!

never been easier to get WATCHES.
KS were never cheaper, never better, never pret-ay we sell better WATCHES for $7.00 than we ould buy for $7.00 two years ago.

HAFER & DOW.

KLUCKHOHN,
The Restaurant
Man!

Serves the Public with

A Square Meal, Fine Bread Buns, Oysters, Cigars, Tobaccos, etc.

WHEN IN TOWN CALL AND SEE HIM.

KLEMME, - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

Eagle Grove

MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS

MATERIAL THE BEST AND WORKMANSHIP SECOND TO NONE.

GEO. W. SHAFFER, AGENT

Correspondence Solicited.

MESERVEY, - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

Local Mention.

Geo. Gates was at Garner Monday.

Fur Coats very cheap at Lau Bros.

Wm. Becker of Garner was in town Saturday.

A. B. Shafer went to Clear Lake Wednesday.

W. E. Walker of Garner was in town Saturday.

Hans Hanson of Garner was in town Monday.

Fred Katter of Garner was in town on Friday.

Gruetzmacher Bros., have built a new corn crib.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Smith were at Garner Sunday.

M. L. Weichselbaum returned from Minneapolis Friday.

H. Grosz and wife of Garner were here Wednesday.

Go to Gruetzmacher Bros., to buy your Bobs and Cutters.

Editor Griswold of Goodell was in town on business Tuesday.

Henry Teman and August Wellman went to Missouri Tuesday.

Bed Blankets all the way from 95c to $4.00 per pair at Lau Bros.

Geo. Ell has moved into his new house in the north part of town.

H. J. Klemme of Belmond was doing business in town Wednesday.

F. W. Lenz, County Recorder, was in our enterprising little city Monday.

Henry Gruetzmacher and C. W. Knapp went to Thompson Wednesday

Lou Bros., have a nice line of Horse Blankets and Robes. Call and see them.

Isaac Swelgard of Garner was doing business here Tuesday and Wednesday.

H. L. Suckow is hauling lumber to build a house on his farm 3 miles west of town.

O. Hedden and family of German township were visiting H. E. Peitzkes' Tuesday.

Mittens, Gloves, etc., are sold cheaper than any other place in town at Lou Bros'

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Bloom on the 24th of January, a girl baby.

Dr. Spooner, E. P. Dow, Hans Nissen and Wm. Lau were at Garner Tuesday.

John Baumgartner, Jake Coffman and Henry Shraeder were at Garner Wednesday.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

Call at Kluckhohn's restaurant and see the great number of Staple Groceries you can buy for $5.

Geo. Gates left Wednesday for his home on the farm where a brother and two sisters are sick.

Fred Selden and wife, of Lake View Michigan, arrived here Tuesday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Slaght.

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry can be repaired by bringing them to Shafer & Dow's. All work warrented.

E. A. Lyon, of Forest City, Secretary of the Northern Lumber Co., was doing business here Monday.

Don't go and pay 25 cents for a pt. of Oysters when you can buy just as big, fat, juicy ones for 20 cents at the Meat Market.

Just received a short time ago at Frank Gruetzmacher's—the best Ladies' Shoes for the money ($2.50) ever brought to the town.

Since the revival meetings at the Germantown Church have come to a close, the Germantown Literary Society will meet regularly every Thursday evening.

Don't buy those little, cheap bulk Oysters sold at other places, when you can get the nice, large, fat, select ones, just fresh at Kluckhohn's Restaurant for the same money you have to pay for the little Jim Crow ones.

Sheriff Dickerson was in town Monday after Wm. Dickinson who was reported to be insane. The Sheriff and Alex Kirkwood took him to Garner where he was examined by the Commissioners of Insanity and was found insane. They then took him to the asylum on Tuesday.

Not a few who read what Mr. Robert Bowls, of Hollands, Va., has to say below, will remember their own experience under like circumstances: "Last winter I had la grippe which left me in a low state of health. I tried numerous remedies, none of which did me any good, until I was induced to try a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The first bottle of it so far relieved me that I was enabled to attend to my work, and the second bottle effected a cure." For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by J. L. Harr.

Taking the whole country, suicides have increased from 2,040 in 1890 to 5,750 in 1895. Iowa furnishes an average of about one a day of this number.

The youngest man in the republican presidential race this year is McKinley; who is onls 51, and the oldest is Morton, who is 72. Allison is 66, Harris on 62, and Reed 56.

The Inter Ocean encourages the friends of Senator Allison when it says: "The state the man hails from will be a small figure in naming the candidate for president in 1896. The people want the strongest and best man.

For a pain in the chest a piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of the pain, and another on the back between the shoulders, will afford prompt relief. This is especially valuable in cases where the pain is caused by a cold and there is a tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by J. L. Harr.

FIREMEN'S BALL.

The Belmond Fire Co., will hold their Annual Ball in the Opera House, Thursday evening, Feb. 6, 1896. Music by the Myers–Davis Orchestra. Everybody invited to this the Best of the Season. Tickets $1.00.

Com.

Married—At the home of the bride's parents three and one-half miles east of Klemme, Leonard Smith and Ella Hassell. Chas. E. Anderson officiated. About seventy people witnessed the ceremony. Many nice and useful presents were left as tokens of the good wishes of the guests. The happy coliple will soon move to a farm near Forest City where they will live this year. The Times joines, with the many friends of the bride and groom, in wishing them a long and happy life.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. Harr. Read our free booklet on Microbic Diseases.

Program of Teachers' Meeting for Tuesday eve Feb 11th '96.

Song, Miss Lizzie Grandfield.
Recitation, Miss Mattie Hubbbard.
Select Reading, Miss Gladys Schmalle.
Debate—Resolved that the natural scenery of the old country is better than that of the new. Affirmative, Mr. V. Walker and Miss Stella Day. Negative, Mr. J. J. Suckow and Miss Gladys Schmalle.
Song, Miss Tillie Kverner and Miss Mattie Hubbard.
Recitation, Miss Addie Hamilton.
Essay, Miss Lizzie Martin.
Query Box.
Reading Circle Work.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR.

[Dissolved Flowers of Sulphur.]

Natures greatest germicide, its action being rapid and effective. A few drops, or at most a few ounces, will permanently cure the most stubborn cases of Blood and Skin disorder. Cures Diphtheria in a few hours; Canker Sore Mouth in ten minutes; Catarrh, short course of treatment; Granulated Eyelids, four to six days; Sore Throat, one gargling; Rheumatism, short course of treatment; Erysipelas, two or three applications, and so on through the long list of Blood and Skin diseases—Eczema, Acne, Itch, Ringworm, Pimples, Salt Rheum Herpes, Hives, Tetter, Dandruff, Falling Hair, and all scalp diseases, Open Sores, Tumors, Ulcerated Conditions, Piles and Itching Piles. This is not a "cure-all" but a Guaranteed remedy for above diseases, which are caused by Parasite and impure condition of the blood. Full directions with each bottle.

Dr. H. F. Thompson, of Goodell, Iowa, says: "I applied Compound Liquid Sulphur in several cases of Diphtheria which were becoming formidable. One application entirely removed the membrane, and my patients were discharged on the following day. I consider Compound Liquid Sulphur superior to any other remedy for the successful treatment of diphtheria."

Mrs. S. G. Bunce, Belmond, Iowa, says: "I had suffered with Rheumatism in my right arm for three years and during that time tried almost every known remedy, but got no relief. Three applications of Compound Liquid Sulphur has entirely cured me.

Compound Liquid Sulphur is for sale by J. L. Harr.

The Fountain of Life.

The early discoverers of the American continents imagined that there existed somewhere in these then fabled lands a fountain of perpetual youth, and long and ardious were the efforts made to discover it. Such efforts were as everybody knows without avail, and in time search was sorrowfully abandoned by the hopeful explorers. But it now appears that for 400 years the possibility of such a discovery lay latent in the New World, and according to recent reports it has been brought to light by America's brilliant electrician, Nicola Tesla. The fountain if not of perpetual youth at least of renewed life and health has been found to reside in the subtle fluid called electricity.

Tesla is said to have invented an apparatus which will cure almost any organic disease in one minute. The patient is seated in a chair loaded with electricity and subjected to tiny but powerful electric shocks at the rate of 100 per second, and distributed so evenly through the system they are only slightly perceptible. Ex-Mayor Abram Hewitt claims that he was cured of a troublesome liver complaint in this way at one sitting. While seated in the chair he felt a sort of creeping sensation, but rather pleasant, and when he got up he was an entirely changed man. His illness had completely vanished.

Mr. Tesla makes no claims for his treatment. He only points to the results of the experiments made and says it may prove a valuable discovery. The theory is that the electric shocks supply exercise to the system just where it is needed, and invigorate the blood and tsssues to such an extent as to enable them to throw off the disease. If this discovery comes into general use and it works as well with everybody as it did with Mr. Hewitt, the most vivid imagination would fall far short of estimating the benificent results to the human race.—Ex.

Allison's Candidacy.

The democrats of Iowa are showing commendable broadmindedness in the generous treatment they are giving to the candidacy of Senator Allison for the presidency. In so doing they show that blood is a little thicker than water and that contiguity brings confidence. If there is to be a republican president during the four years from March 1897, the democrats of Iowa prefer that it be Senator Allison. They have no stones to throw at his candidacy and in every proper way will assist in promoting it. Senator Allison is at least the peer intellectually and morally of any of the aspirants of the republican nomination, and unquestionably would endeavor to be a patriotic president. It is interesting to contrast this treatment accorded by democrats to the candidacy of Senator Allison with the sneers and belittlements showered by the Iowa republican press upon the candidacy in 1892 of Governor Boies.—Des Moines Leader.

Her Beauty Justified the Act.

A curious law case is reported from Milan. A young lady sued a young man—a perfect stranger—for having kissed her, suddenly and without warning, in the open street. When she entered the box to give evidence against him, the judge was so struck with her beauty that he instantly acquitted the accused, on the grounds "that so much loveliness and charm had doubtless proved an irresistable temptation." Perhaps the most remarkable feature of the trial was that, instead of being annoyed at losing her case, the plaintiff was delighted with the verdict, and uttered a friendly farewell to the judge as she left the court beaming with smiles, whilst the accused was heartily applauded as he retired in triumph with his friends.

NOWHERE

A hurried glance at the above letters and one cannot tell which of two words is indicated.

There is no such uncertainty in a hurried glance or careful examination of our Quadruple Silverware which we guarantee to last ten years.

And you will find that

NO WHERE

Can such an assortment of Shelf and Heavy Hardware, Groceries, Paints, Oils, Lime, Stucco, Brick, Pumps, Wagons, Buggies, Etc., be found as are

NOW HERE.

WE ALSO SELL THE PORTABLE CORN CRIB WHICH HOLDS 400 BU., IS 8 FT. HIGH AND 12 FT. IN DIAMETER.

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mouldings.

And everything used to build with.

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in the week.

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'GR.,

KLEMME, IOWA.

J. H. QUEAL & CO.

Always Lead

In The Best Of Grades At The Lowest Prices

ON

LUMBER, LATH, Posts, Sash, DOORS

SHINGLES ETC.

Call and see us for anything in our line and be convinced of the above facts.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.

BARGAINS!

WE ARE STILL

CLOSING OUT

GOODS

TO MAKE ROOM FOR OUR SPRING STOCK

Call in and look over our

BARGAIN TABLE.

E. P. Schaefer.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, • • • IOWA

Dr. Jameson evidently did not correctly diagnose the Boer's case.

When it comes to buffeting the waves of time, man would rather be a fog horn.

The flour output for 1895 was 10,581,000 barrels, the largest ever made by 800,000 barrels.

Gladstone's successor as the Grand Old Man hasn't lifted his head above the horizon yet.

England is making a tremendous naval display; and so did Spain in the day of the Armada.

Rev. Sam Jones is now preaching on "How to Get There and How to Stay There." He certainly knows.

Prof. Dyche, the distinguished naturalist, is entirely self-taught. When 13 years old he had not yet learned the alphabet.

Cuba's tobacco crop has been greatly decreased by reason of the war, but there seems to be no diminution in Havana cigars.

The consumption of milk and cream would be greatly increased if it could be delivered in a pure state to the patrons of the dairies.

England cannot very consistently compel the Turks to stop killing off the Armenians, when she is engaged in killing Boers to get their gold.

England seems to be rather pleased that the Emperor William made enough noise to drown the echo of the president's message on the Venezuelan question.

The name of the speaker of the house of representatives of Maryland is Mudd. He was among the defeated candidates for the United States senate. What's in a name, did you say?

Jim Cash-Cash, a rich and influential Umatilla Indian, of Oregon, is suing for a divorce on the ground that his wife paints her face. Every husband is watching Cash-Cash's case with remarkable interest.

There is great indignation in Oklahoma because a new judge refused nineteen out of twenty-one applications for divorce. At that rate, the Oklahomans argue, rich people of shady morals will stay in a civilized country to apply for divorce.

The Texas circular advising the planting of less cotton has to go against the high prices of the present crop, and the agriculturists are likely to be much exercised mentally before they enter fully into the spirit of this judicious communication.

A Wichita judge heard twenty-one divorce cases in four hours one day last week, and out of the batch only two divorces were granted. The Wichita papers try to account for it by remarking that the judge is a new one. Members of the divorce colony have been busy ever since packing up to go to Oklahoma, where the decrees come easier.

A press report from Washington says that Mr. Northway of Ohio has introduced in the House a bill directing the Secretary of Agriculture to establish six silk, flax and ramie experimental stations, to be located, one in the middle states, one in the northwestern states, one at Washington, one in the north Pacific coast states, one in the south gulf states and one on the Pacific coast. The bill provides that the work at the stations shall be carried on by appointees of the Secretary of Agriculture. For some time experiments in growing ramie have been going on in the public grounds of Washington, and it has been shown conclusively that ramie can be grown successfully in this latitude, three crops of excellent quality having been grown the past summer at the botanical gardens, and the product is now on exhibition in Washington.

A prominent Nebraska sheepman is quoted as recently saying: "We are feeding at Wood River about 20,000 head and at a conservative estimate 400,000 will be fed in Nebraska this year, which is up to the best year Nebraska ever had. Feed is very plentiful and cheap and feeders who were compelled to drop out last year are in it to make up for lost time. We intend to export our sheep direct this year, and have already engaged space from Baltimore to Glasgow at the rate of 1,000 head every boat, one of which will sail every ten days. I think that the restrictions recently made by the British government will make a difference of $1 per 100 to the American shipper, and the outlook does not seem very favorable for the next two or three months. I believe more sheep are on feed now than were ever on feed before in this country."

Another steamer has been chartered to carry 400 negroes from Savannah to Monrovia, Liberia. Those who will go will be presented with from ten to twenty-five acres and a town-lot. But if they don't like it they can't get back unless they can pay their fare.

No wonder you never received an answer to the letter you wrote to Georgetown, Ind. Wagon loads of undelivered papers and letters that have been lying in the office for years have just been discovered. What did you say about the fast mail?

Three young men disturbed a revival meeting at Penboro, Va., one night recently. At the close of the services, James Duty, a justice, ordered a constable to lock the church door and arrest the men. He then heard the testimony of witnesses and bound two of the prisoners over to the grand jury and sentenced the other to jail.

The first woman lawyer in New Jersey has been permitted to practice in court without taking off her hat. This is a privilege that no man lawyer has ever yet been able to obtain.

IOWA NEWS IN BRIEF

GEORGE RIX, treasurer of Hemisphere township, Clinton county, is said to be $1,500.

FIRE at Farley destroyed the opera house block, two banks, the Lomis hotel, and several smaller store buildings, causing a loss which will exceed $30,000.

A DISPATCH from Grinnell announces the perhaps fatal illness of Hon. George F. Magoun, the first president of Iowa college and for twenty years its honored head.

W. I. STUART, who was once before found guilty of setting fire to the Milwaukee and Northwestern depots at Lyons, which burned last June, has again been found guilty of the charge, the case having been retried.

THE Drake Medical College students, who were arrested at Des Moines on the charge of robbing two graves in Saylorville cemetery, were dismissed for lack of evidence. The grand jury is investigating the case.

CHARLES ALTMANSPERGER, the Minden forger, has been indicted seven times by the grand jury of Pottawattamie county. The indictments charge forgery, embezzlement, larceny and obtaining money under false pretenses.

ADVICES from Muscatine state that several parties have been indicted upon the charge of causing the dynamite outrages in that city some time ago, in which the houses of John Mahin and two other prohibitionists were wrecked.

DR. BOATMAN and Banker Gunn, on trial at Oskaloosa for causing the death of Irene Severt by abortion, are trying to make it appear that a conspiracy exists to fasten the crime on them, while in fact it was committed by other parties, whom they will attempt to disclose.

THOMAS A. HILL, aged 45, and one of the most popular engineers on the Illinois Central railroad at Cherokee, went violently insane recently, and was a few days ago taken in a special coach to the hospital for the insane at Independence. He was accompanied by a delegation of railroad men.

GEORGE HOEFELDT, a prosperous young farmer living alone north of Ida Grove, was found in his bed, unconscious. There was a large contused spot on his scalp, indicating foul play. He was supposed to have money about his house. When found he was stiff from cold and nearly dead. Slight hopes are entertained of his recovery.

THE grand jury of Dubuque county is still wrestling with the problem whether or not the mayor and city council of Dubuque are amenable to law in raising their salaries. The jury appeared before Judge Husted and asked for further instruction, which was cheerfully given by the judge, and not at all in favor of the mayor and aldermen.

E. KIRSEBOM, county treasurer of Plymouth county, disappeared on the 19th, and since that time has not been seen. An investigation of his accounts by the board of supervisors discloses the fact that he is short about $17,000. It is said he loaned amounts to friends, who failed to pay on time. His bond for $90,000 is a good one, and the county will lose nothing.

A DISPATCH from Adel says: J. E. Alpaugh was sentenced by Judge Applegate to five years in the penitentiary at hard labor for forging a note on W. S. Nash, of Perry. He was indicted by the grand jury on three counts and pleaded guilty to all of them. The other indictments were for forging a note and mortgage against De Loss Westley and a note on John J. Moore.

THE Fort Dodge Electric Light and Power Company has completed its plans for the laying of the electric street railway. Work will be commenced about April 1, or before if the weather permits. There will be about three miles of track laid this year, and this will be increased as the business of the city demands. This will give employment for a large number of men. The company has a twenty-five year franchise.

HON. EDWARD L. BURTON, ex-judge of the Second judicial district, died at Ottumwa last week. For three years he has suffered from paralysis, the past two years being confined to his room. Judge Burton was widely known throughout Iowa and his decisions while on the bench were seldom reversed by the higher courts. As a jurist he stood high among the legal fraternity and as a citizen he was universally respected.

A TELEGRAM from Colville, Wash., states that Adolph Neise and wife, formerly of Ottumwa and later of Chicago, have been convicted of murder in the second degree, the jury remaining out twenty-three hours. Neise was charged with killing his wife at Ottumwa and setting fire to the house to hide his crime. He then married his wife's sister, who was also implicated in the affair. They have just been convicted of killing Neise's son.

MRS. CELIA HARRISON, better known as "Crazy Celia," was burned to death at Clinton. She was a noted character, being a miser, and lived in absolute retirement and hoarded hard-earned wealth about her person.

AMOS STECKEL, president of the Exchange bank at Bloomfield, has written to President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle offering to furnish $100,000,000 in gold by the 15th of February if they will notify him by the 1st that in payment therefor he will receive $105,000,000 of the greenbacks now lying idle in the United States treasury.

MR. AND MRS. CHAS. BARZ, living near Eagle Grove, wrapped their 3-weeks' old baby so closely while out driving that it strangled.

THE town of Shambaugh is excited over a revival meeting now in progress and the results accomplished by Mrs. Sutliff, of Mount Pleasant, who is doing the preaching and performing feats which eclipse those of Healer Schlatter. She has restored sight to a 5-year-old boy who was blind for three years. She cured Chris Ham, who for twenty years walked with crutches. He is now able to do his work.

THE case of the state branch of the A. O. U. W. against the loyal lodge, to compel it to quit doing an insurance business under the name of A. O. U. W., has been reversed by the supreme court, which holds that the seceders have not the exclusive right to the use of the name.

ART COLE, G. Tucker and Gell Barnes were arrested at Waterloo for spearing fish through the ice, in violation of the law. This case is an uncommonly flagrant one, as the individuals arrested were not killing a mess of fish for the family table, but were making a business of it, peddling the fish through the county with a wagon. They were each fined $100 and costs.

C. S. ALTMANSPERGER, of Minden, who has been the agent of the Seibert & Weise Lumber Company, of Council Bluffs, has been arrested on the charge of forgery. It is claimed that he would sell large quantities of lumber, for which he would receive cash, but instead of turning in the cash he would forge a note upon the customer and send it to the house. When the note came due he would pay a part of it or forge another. It is said by this plan he has managed to get hold of from $15,000 to $30,000. He was treasurer of the independent school district of Minden and his accounts are said to be short about $3,000. He is in jail in default of bail.

FOR some time past the people of Grand Junction have been annoyed by petty thieves, and the loss of poultry and provisions was of frequent occurrence. It is believed that these depredations will cease, as Messrs. Smith and Stanwood now languish in the county jail, having pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing a hog from a building. When arrested, they assumed an injured air and protested their innocence, but when the officers casually remarked that the meat had been found in their home, Smith forgot himself and said: "Has it?" And seeing that the game was up, they pleaded guilty. It is believed that these men have been carrying on this business for months.

THE first move in what promises to be the most important and interesting legal contest ever had in Jackson county, was made a day or two ago when Leslie C. Watson, one of the administrators of the estate of Mott Watson, deceased, filed in the district court a petition for an order to sell the real estate. This makes George D. Niles, who claims to be the illegitimate son of the dead man, a defendant, thus compelling him to show his claims in open court. Mott Watson, whose estate is to be the subject of this litigation, was a wealthy and eccentric old bachelor, who died in Maquoketa last August at the age of 60, leaving an estate valued at fully $300,000. This estate, excepting $30,000 worth of real estate, consisted entirely of cash and mortgages. Watson had lived in that city for forty years, during which his sole occupation had been that of loaning money. When he died he had outstanding about five hundred mortgages. As he had no confidence in the stability of banks he kept whatever money he had on hand in a large safe in his office, constantly having there from $3,000 to $15,000 in cash. Strange to say, he was never robbed, although he lived in continual fear of it. Niles claims to be the illegitimate son of Watson by a servant girl who worked at a hotel where Watson boarded in 1868.

AN Anamosa dispatch says: Among the life convicts who have petitions before the legislature for pardon from the Anamosa penitentiary is John Wesley Elkins, who murdered his parents with an axe. He is one of the youngest convicts serving time perhaps in any penitentiary in the United States under life sentence. He will soon reach his 17th birthday. He came to the prison when he was 11 years old. When he came to the prison he was of feminine appearance, but he is now developing and has broad shoulders, is of a sullen disposition and never looks anybody in the face, but always keeps his eyes riveted on the ground. He will undoubtedly spend all his days in prison, unless a great change of disposition comes over him. Warden Madden has given him quite a good knowledge of reading, writing and arithmetic by having other convicts cell with him who could teach him. He has been the subject of considerable speculation and investigation by humane and other societies, but they all give him up as a bad job. He is a born murderer and is as cold blooded as he can be, and it has only been by keeping the closest watch on him by the prison officials and by the other convicts not getting his ill will that he has not killed some other prisoner. He has made several attempts. Every convict is afraid of him, and dares not incur his ill will. County Attorney Grimm, of Linn county, was in Anamosa recently with a view of taking his case, but soon became convinced that the boy was not safe to turn loose. The prison officials all realize his dangerous condition and say he is unfit for a release from prison.

A FREIGHT on the Chicago Great Western was wrecked by the breaking of a wheel flange five miles north of Waterloo. Seven cars were ditched and a bridge demolished, but no one was injured. One car was loaded with gunpowder, but no explosion occurred.

TIM CONNORS, aged about 14, of Lyons, went suddenly insane and slashed Patrick, an older brother, in horrible shape. The latter will recover. Connors' youthful associates say his insanity is the result of cigarette smoking. He will be sent to an asylum.

Senator Sherman outlines his method for settling international disputes as follows: "I am in favor of the principle of arbitration for all questions that do not involve the autonomy of either of the two countries. I hope that the two governments will agree upon such a mode of settlement for all controversies."

The queen of Portugal has just passed the examinations qualifying her for practice as a physician in the land of her adoption. It is the first instance on record of a lady of sovereign rank winning for herself by means of diligent study the diploma of doctor of medicine.

...RAL NEWS ITEMS

...ANY will soon commence a big ...se in her navy.

...RE in a theater at Ekaterinoslav, ...ussia, resulted in the death of over fifty people.

GENERAL WEYLER, the new captain-general of Cuba, is now en route to that country.

IT is said that Brazil has demanded of England that the island of Trinidad be immediately surrendered to Brazil.

THE Columbus, O., grand jury has returned indictments against three ex-members of the legislature, charging them with bribery.

A WASHINGTON dispatch announces that silver coinage will shortly be resumed and that it will continue until $18,000,000 has been coined.

THE legislature of Kentucky is still deadlocked on United States senator. The last vote stood: Hunter 66, Blackburn 57, Carlise 9, Wilson 1, Bate 1.

JIM HALL, of Australia, and Joe Choynski, of California, fought a prize fight at Maspeth, L. I., and Hall was knocked out in the thirteenth round.

THE only sugar mill known to be grinding in Cuba is located just west of Havana. It is guarded by 3,000 troops, but the insurgents threaten to burn it.

ARMENIAN advices state that eight of twelve American missions in Harpoot, Turkey, have been destroyed and that the missionaries are in many instances starving.

THE mayors of La Salle, Utica, Peru and Kangley, Ill., have been indicted, along with the saloonkeepers of these towns, for failure to keep saloons closed on Sundays.

OF a crew of twenty-one members of an English ship whose boat was wrecked on Vancouver island, fourteen have just been rescued. The others died of cold and starvation.

IT is said Brazil will demand the immediate restitution of the island of Trinidad, which was recently occupied by England for the purpose of making a landing station for a cable.

A SILVER conference was held at Washington last week. An appeal was issued to the people to sunder party ties and meet with the advocates of free coinage at St. Louis on the 22d of July.

THE Venezuela commission has invited the governments of England and Venezuela to submit to it evidence in connection with the boundary dispute and to be represented before the commission by attorneys.

THE recent debates in congress on the relations of the European powers to the Armenian outrages has caused the governments of Europe to feel that America is an important factor in the settlement of the question.

SPANISH advices announce that the duties on imports into Cuba have been increased by the cabinet, in order that funds may be raised for carrying on the war. One thousand cavalry accompanied General Weyler.

ACCORDING to the correspondent of the London Daily News, in the massacre of Marash, Turkey, in November, two head teachers in the American academy were killed, one being flayed alive and then cut to pieces.

ACCORDING to a Philadelphia dispatch General Garcia, the famous Cuban general who has been in this country for some months, sailed last week for Cuba at the head of the largest filibustering party yet started for that country. It will probably be landed somewhere on the coast of Pinar del Rio.

PRINCE HENRY of Battenberg, son-in-law of Queen Victoria, who was taken ill while accompanying the British expedition against the Ashantees, died of coast fever on his return voyage from Cape Coast Castle to Sierra Leone. He died on board the British cruiser Blonde. It had been his intention to recruit his health at Maderia.

A DISPATCH from St. Petersburg says that the czar has confirmed the budget. The navy for the next seven years is to have a total of 403,000,000 roubles, 57,500,000 roubles of which is for the current year, increasing 500,000 roubles annually. Should foreign navies grow faster, it is expected that these credits will be increased. The main object is to reply to the appearance of every new English battle ship, and especially of the cruiser type, by the production of a Russian one of equal or superior power.

As to the number of Boers who defeated Dr. Jameson, late advices show that instead of there being 1,500 to 1,800 of them, there were only 400 at the beginning of the fight. These were gradually joined by small parties until there were about 800 Boers in the immediate vicinity when the fighting stopped and the English surrendered, but many of these were unable to take part in the fighting. Actually, about 400 Boers compelled the English to lay down their arms. Only five Boers were killed, and two of them were shot accidentally by their comrades. Three Boers were wounded.

Not a Biblical Confab.

George Gray, a colored man, who attended a watch meeting at the Mount Vernon Baptist church last night, was called to order by one of the deacons, and his failure to make less noise than he had been making resulted in his arrest.

"There was a lively discussion between two of them," said one of the church members in court to-day, "and we had to have this man arrested."

"What was the discussion about?"

"A pair of dice."

"Paradise?" asked Mr. Pugh.

"Dice," explained the witness; "the things you shoot craps with."

The Science of Law-Making.

"Now, look here," said one member of the legislature to the other, "you know very well that if this bill passes in its present form it will be decided unconstitutional the first time it comes before a court."

"That's all right," was the reply. "You and I are both lawyers, are we not?"

"That's the very reason we ought to make laws which will stand."

"Not much it isn't. We might have the defense of a client, prosecuted under this law. Then see how handy it would be to plead the statute's unconstitutionality! We must give our profession a show!"

ARANSAS PASS' MOTTO

"HERE EVERYBODY SHALL MAKE MONEY."

The Great Banking House of Alexander Brown & Sons of Baltimore, Md., Is Spending Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars on the Harbor at Aransas Pass, Texas.

There is no more beautiful harbor scene in America than Aransas Pass and Corpus Christi Bay. Hundreds of visitors arrive there daily. The Green Turtle and Tarpon Fishing and the Canvas Back Duck Hunting, with the tropical climate make it the sportsman's winter paradise. Thousands of acres of rich cheap land contiguous are attracting northern agriculturalists, and the people of Aransas Pass are exuberant with a long looked for prosperity. The engineers in charge of the harbor unqualifiedly predict thirty-five feet of water, with the completion of the rapidly progressing harbor work.

On the occasion of the Home Seekers' excursion Feb. 11th, the first Green Turtle Barbecue in the history of the world will be given to the excursionists. Turtles from 400 to 600 pounds' weight are caught there. A number of valuable lots will be given to excursionists. The program includes three days of huntsmen's sports and jollification. All railroads are making a low rate to this excursion and Aransas Pass invites everybody to celebrate with her.

If you want to see the richest, cheapest, most beautiful lands, of if you wish to enjoy a few days of royal sport fishing and hunting take the excursion on 11th of February. You will see where will be built one of the great cities of America.

GOMEZ STRICKEN.

HAVANA, January 26.—Advices from trustworthy sources say General Maximo Gomez, commander-in-chief of the insurgent forces, is a very sick man, and it is stated that the doctors recently held a consultation and diagnosed his case as an advanced stage of consumption complicated with fever, and he can only live two months. The report has caused alarm among the insurgents and friends.

HAVANA, January 26.—The authorities now have to face a serious problem here. The prices of all kinds of provisions are going up rapidly every day. In spite of this, people are flocking into Havana from the country districts and other provinces, and in many cases are depending upon charity. The cost of the war has been enormous, and the drain created by provisioning the army has been very great. Consequently this extra expense which the authorities will have to meet in some manner or other is causing them a great deal of anxiety. The increase of crime in all the provinces is said to be enormous. Business is almost at a standstill, and commerce is practically a thing of the past

TURKEY OPENS THE WAY.

WASHINGTON, January 26.—Secretary Olney has received from Mr. Terrell, the United States minister at Constantinople, a cablegram saying that while the porte refuses permission to the Red Cross, or to members of the Red Cross, as such, to distribute relief in Armenia, and thereby declines to officially recognize that society, it will permit any persons whom Mr. Terrell names and approves, to distribute relief in the interior of Turkey, provided the Turkish authorities are kept informed of what they are doing. This concession of the Turkish government materially simplifies the Armenian situation with regard to the efforts of Miss Clara Barton and her assistants to furnish food and clothing to the suffering people in the perturbed districts. In the discretionary power given Minister Terrell to name persons to make the distribution, the minister will undoubtedly designate Miss Barton and the members of her party, now on their way to Southampton.

THE ERICSSON ACCEPTED.

WASHINGTON, January 24.—The secretary of the navy has decided to accept the torpedo boat Ericsson from the builders, the Iowa Iron Works, subject to dock trial to demonstrate that her engine has been put in good order since her last mishap. The department is satisfied that the boat can make at least twenty-five knots, or half a knot more than the contract calls for. The only deduction in the contract price is $16,000 on account of the delay in completion.

Three Men Killed at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 24.—The bodies of three firemen from whom life had been crushed by falling floors were yesterday taken from the ruins of the A. S. Aloe & Co. building at 415 Broadway. Three others, slightly injured, were recovered during the night. This makes a total of three killed and six injured. The disaster was due to the rottenness of the timbers which held up the floors. Coroner Waite says he will make every effort to fix the responsibility for the disaster.

Insurgent Leader Killed.

Havana, Jan. 25.—The famous insurgent leader, Carlos Castillo, according to advices received here from the Province of Santa Clara, has been killed in an engagement with the Spanish troops.

Collected His Salary.

The genial pastor of one of the suburban churches, whose salary is somewhat in arrears at present, stepped into the hardware store of one of his parishoners the other morning and asked to see some corkscrews—very large and strong ones, he explained.

"Why, Dr. ——, what in the world do you want with such an article, anyhow?" asked the dealer.

"My dear sir," said the doctor, "I want a corkscrew large enough to give me some assistance in drawing my salary."

The story reached the ears of his congregation and the indebtedness was cancelled forthwith.

Hit Him Just Right.

Husband—The small hat costs $20 and the big one only $10; why didn't you take the big one?

Wife—Yes, dear, but think what an obstruction the big one would be at the theater!

Hubby (tickled)—Gee whizz! Here, get two small ones!

A Good Mood.

Tired Husband—I've had a terrible day at the office, and I'm mad clear through.

Wife—Now would be a good time to beat those rugs.

IN THE LEGISLATURE

SENATE.

DES MOINES, January 20.—Among the bills introduced were the following: Regulating primary elections for nomination of candidates; providing for monuments to Iowa regiments at Shilo; making an appropriation for the Agricultural College of $131,000; to provide text books for pupils in public schools without charge to the same; to prevent garnishment proceedings against persons for wages where the same are exempt by the laws of the state; increasing the powers of the labor commissioner. Concurrent resolution ordering 80,000 copies of the railroad commissioners' map, passed. Perrin of Chickasaw offered a joint resolution regarding resubmission of the prohibitory amendment. Senator Carpenter, chairman of the code revision committee, reported, assigning portions of twelve titles of the new code to various committees. They were reported in the shape of bills, read twice, and referred. Lieutenant governor announced members of visiting committees and senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

Speaker announced the following committee on handling the code: Allen of Van Buren, Brighton of Jefferson, Funk of Hardin, Temple of Clarke, Early of Sac. Five additional committees to visit state institutions were announced. Resolution postponing introduction of bills until January 29 was adopted. Upon receiving unanimous consent to introduce a bill, Merrill of Clinton presented a bill looking toward an appropriation of $25,000 for the erection of monuments to the Iowa troops that took part in the battle of Lookout Mountain and other engagements about Chattanooga. It provides for the appointment of a commission whose salaries should be $5 per day. Referred to military committee. Resolution ordering 30,000 of railroad commissioners' map passed. Senate resolution in reference to Indians in Tama county was referred to committee on judiciary.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, January 21.—Among the bills introduced were these: To prevent combinations between insurance companies; to regulate trimming of hedge fences and keeping the road clear of brush and noxious weeds; to erect monuments in memory of Iowa troops at Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge, and Chattanooga. Henderson, chairman committee on fish and game, reported favorably on the bill for better protection of fish and game after amendment by striking out section 2, and the bill passed. Bill to cede land near Manchester to the United States for the purpose of a fish hatchery, was reported favorably and passed.

Senate proceeded to election of United States senator, and a vote resulted: Allison 42, Babb 6. A resolution providing for the appropriation of $10,000 for an equestrian statue for Major General F. J. Herron, of Dubuque, to be placed on the soldiers' and sailors' monument, was introduced by Bonson. Referred to the committee on military affairs.

HOUSE.

Bills to revise, codify and amend the statutes in regard to several matters were referred to proper committees. Senate bill to cede land in Delaware county to the government for a fish hatchery passed. The Tama Indian bill was also passed. Bill providing for marking of lines of battle at Shiloh was introduced. Election of United States senator was then proceeded with, resulting, Allison 72, Babb 19, Stewart 1. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, January 22.—Among the bills introduced were the following: To prevent spread of contagious diseases among swine; to make February 22 a legal holiday in Iowa; to enable mutual insurance companies to co-operate in equalizing excessive losses. Committee on federal relations reported a resolution of sympathy for the Armenians in their recent oppression. It was passed. A concurrent resolution was introduced by Carney providing for the annotation of the new code showing the decisions of the supreme court. The code revision committee is requested to formulate a plan. The resolution was passed. Adjourned till January 28.

HOUSE.

Speaker Byers announced his committees. The chairmen are as follows:

Ways and means, Funk; judiciary, Cornwall; appropriations, Wood; railroads and commerce, Lauder; insurance, Early; municipal corporations, Dowell; banks and banking, Neitert; agriculture, St. John; private corporations, Haugen; suppression of intemperance, Chapman; mines and mining, Griswold; claims, Gurley; building and loan, Martin; compensation of public officers, Merriam; telegraph, telephone and express, Potter; school and text books, Reed; roads and highways, Watters; printing, Smith; animal industry, McDonald; federal relations, Morrison, of Keokuk; domestic manufactures, Morrison of Grundy; soldiers' and orphans' home, Crow; college for the blind, Doubleday; county and township organization, Classen; penitentiaries, McAchran, public lands and buildings, Merrell; police regulations, McNulty; public health, Bowen; pardons, Whittier; fish and game, Whelan; normal schools, Ray; hospital for insane, Miller of Cherokee; woman suffrage, Williams; military, Bell; pharmacy, Davis; retrenchment and reform, Spaulding; industrial schools, Hinman; labor, Evans; elections, Johnston; constitutional amendments, Brighton; Agricultural college, Lavender; State university, Mayne; institution for deaf and dumb, Parker; institution for feeble minded, Cook; board of public charities, Bird; horticulture, Van Houten; public libraries, McArthur; enrolled bills, Hauger; engrossed bills, Grote; congressional districts, Edward; judicial districts, Bailey; senatorial districts, Klemme; representative districts, McQuinn; rules, Hendershot; revision of the code, first division, Temple; second division, Allen; third division, Finch; fourth division, Brinton; fifth division, Weaver.

A remonstrance against manufacturers' liquor bill was introduced by Bell. Martin presented a petition favorable to age of consent bill. A wrangle over janitor of toilet room resulted in appointment of Harris, of Ottumwa.

The committee clerks were sworn in and the house adjourned to Tuesday January 28.

JOINT SESSION.

The two houses were called to order by Lieutenant-Governor Parrott, the records of the vote on United States senator were read and it was then announced that William B. Allison was elected. Convention dissolved.

To Decide Chester Rowe's Case.

City of Mexico, Jan. 23.—Chester Rowe's attorney contends that the Mexican courts have no jurisdiction in his case and counsel for the prosecution assert that the Mexican courts are entirely competent to try it. The court will decide the case in a few days.

FLOTSAM AND JETSAM.

One of Maine's curios is Machias, a town of 200 inhabitants without a debt.

There are 13,000 school masters in Germany whose salaries fall below $200 per annum.

Great Britain pays the continent upwards of $70,000,000 a year for sugar and makes not an ounce.

The Paris museum contains more than 20,000 stone implements, all of which were gathered in France.

A citizen of Bridgeton, Me., who is nearly 90 years of age, was shaved for the first time one day last week.

Pure

Blood means sound health. With pure healthy blood, the stomach and other organs will be vigorous, and there will be no dyspepsia. Rheumatism and neuralgia will be unknown. Scrofula and salt rheum will disappear. Your nerves will be strong, your sleep sound, sweet and refreshing. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure blood. That is why it cures so many diseases. That is why thousands take it to cure disease, retain good health. Remember

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

Expert Opinion

The Canadian Government recently sent an appraiser to the principal bicycle factories in this country, to determine the exact value of various makes for import [illegible] exhaustive report to [illegible]

[illegible] 7½ [illegible] er t[illegible] make pay duties ingly. The [illegible] confirms the ular verdict. umbias are [illegible]

STANDARD OF [illegible] Unequalled, Un[illegible]

Beautiful Art Catalogue of [illegible] ford Bicycles is free if you call [illegible] bia agent; by mail from the [illegible] stamps.

POPE MANUFACT[illegible] Factories and General Offices, Hartford, Conn.

Branch Stores and Agencies in almost every city and town. If Columbias are not properly represented in your vicinity let us know.

Don't buy cheap, trashy bindings that are dear at any price. You pay but a trifle more for and save your time, your money and your dress.

S·H·& M· BIAS

BIAS VELVETEEN SKIRT BINDINGS

Look for "S. H. & M." on the label and take no other.

If your dealer will not [illegible] we will.

Send for samples, showing labels, to the S. H. & M. Co., P. O. Box [illegible] City.

On your [illegible] Curbs, Sp[illegible] buncher[illegible] is to be [illegible] Price $1.[illegible]

W. B. F[illegible]

THE AER[illegible] windmill built[illegible] wind power to [illegible]

[illegible] and [illegible] Fran[illegible] Grin[illegible] [illegible] January 1st at [illegible] Tanks and Pump[illegible] Factory: 12th, Ro[illegible] [illegible] reets, Chicago.

WELL MACHINERY

Illustrated catalogue showing WELL AUGERS, ROCK DRILLS, HYDRAULIC AND JETTING MACHINERY, etc. SENT FREE. Have been tested and all warranted.

Sioux City Engine and Iron Works, Successors to Pech Mfg. Co. Sioux City, Iowa.

THE ROWELL & CHASE MACHINERY CO., 1414 West Eleventh Street, Kansas City, Mo.

THE LAND OF THE

BIG RED APPLE

The Last Good Land to be had in the "Corn Belt" at Low Prices.

For INFORMATION regarding land in Barry Co., S. W. MISSOURI, write to CAPT. GEO. A. PURDY, Pierce City, Mo.; J. G. MARIOTT, Purdy, Mo.; T. S. FISHER, Cassville, Mo., or L. B. SIDWAY & CO., 802 Monadnock Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

SHIP YOUR LIVE STOCK

TO THE

DROVERS COMMISSION COMPANY,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

120-122 Exchange Building,

UNION STOCK YARDS, CHICAGO.

Reference, Drovers National Bank.

MARKET REPORTS FREE.

IF YOU HAVE STOCK TO SHIP,

Write us for market reports. We send journals at our expense. Fill orders for stock cattle and feeders.

CLARK HOWELL & CO.,

163 Exchange Bldg., Chicago.

Refer, by permission, Drovers National Bank.

PATENTS, TRADE MARKS

Examination and Advice as to Patentability of Invention. Send for "Inventors' Guide, or How to Get a Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Washington, D. C.

$5 Hand Bone, Shell, and Corn Mills for Poultrymen. Daisy Bone Cutter. Power Mills. Circular and testimonials Free. WILSON BROS., Easton, Pa.

10,000 MEN WANTED!

To buy our Trees, Shrubs and Vines. See some of our salesmen, or write us. Want fifty more salesmen. Liberal terms. Des Moines Nursery Co., Des Moines, [illegible]

KING BARLEY, 116 BU. PER ACRE.

barley wonder. Yields right on poor, good or indifferent soils 100 bus. per acre. That pays at bushel!

Salzer's mammoth catalogue is full of good things. Silver Mine Oats yielded 209 bushels in 1895. It will do better in 1896. Hurrah for Teosinte, Sand Vetch, Spurry and Giant Clover and lots of grasses and clovers they offer. 35 packages earliest vegetables $1.00.

If you will cut this out and send it with 10c. postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will get free ten grain and grass samples, including barley, etc., and their mammoth catalogue. Catalogue alone 5c. for mailing. W.N.

The Difficulty.

Yeast—Did the doctor give you an idea of what ailed you?

Crimsonbeak—Oh, yes.

"What was it?"

"Five dollars."

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Smile in public; it may cheer a heart that is in the shadow.

"Hanson's Magic Corn Salve."

Warranted to cure or money refunded. Ask your druggist for it. Price 15 cents.

Don't go into the barn to hide your laughter. It is not an offense to be cheerful.

"A Cup of Parks' Tea at night moves ... ning."

... a graven ... all such.—

...ycerine. ...ed Hands ...Haven, Ct

...nd wife ...natters ...agree.

...'s Cure ...rs. Lucy ...1895.

...ic, rests

...ular ...piess, nerv- ...reviving

...om the ...m the

...know ...ercorns remove ...15c at all druggist

...ionaries guard the ...it. ...be kinder to your son

SYRUP of FIGS

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in ... and truly beneficial in its ... pared only from the most ... agreeable substances, its ...ent qualities commend it ...have made it the most ...edy known.

...Figs is for sale in 50 ... by all leading drug- ...reliable druggist who ...it on hand will pro- ...for any one who ...Do not accept any

...RUP CO. ...YORK, N.Y.

...FOR ...CLAS ...IN THE ...WORLD. ...ex- ...and ...for $3. ...D WIDTHS, ...SS, BUTTON, ...E, made in all ...he best selected ...skilled work- ...Wo ...hd ...oro ...pes ...any ...other manufacturer in the world.

None genuine unless name and price is stamped on the bottom.

Ask your dealer for our $5, $4, $3.50, $2.50, $2.25 Shoes; $2.50, $2 and $1.75 for boys.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE. If your dealer cannot supply you, send to factory, enclosing price and 36 cents to pay carriage. State kind, style of toe (cap or plain), size and width. Our Custom Dept. will fill your order. Send for new Illustrated Catalogue to Box R.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

$1	LAST CALL	$1
LAST CALL	Last Call This coupon, accompanied by $1, is good for one year's subscription for the DES MOINES DAILY NEWS (by mail only) if presented on or before February 29, 1896.	LAST CALL
$1	LAST CALL	$1

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

PISO'S CURE FOR 25 CTS

DRUGS WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

A Victim of Rheumatism.

A PROMINENT IOWAN STICKEN.

How He Obtained Immediate and Permanent Relief—A Story For Other Sufferers.

From the State Register, Des Moines, Iowa.

What an innocent-sounding name has rheumatism, and yet how terrible a reality to the thousands who suffer with it. Rheumatism, the unsolved riddle that baffles modern medical science.

Doctors agree that rheumatism results from poison of and deposits in the blood, but as to just how they can be reached and eradicated, it would seem their knowledge fails. When people are attacked with rheumatism they go to their physician. The usual treatment is a long series of medicines which give but temporary relief, and the patient gives up, resolving to have nothing more to do with doctors. Yet, rheumatism is not a necessary evil. Because one is growing old, it is not imperative that one should accept rheumatism as a natural accessory to advancing years.

There is a remedy for rheumatism despite the general belief that it cannot be cured—a remedy that has cured thousands of the most severe cases. Mr. R. F. Kinyon, who lives in Newton, Jasper County, Iowa, is one who has been cured of rheumatism, and can speak from actual experience.

"I have been sick for a good many years with rheumatism and neuralgia, and tried a good many medicines without any lasting benefits," said Mr. Kinyon to a reporter. "About a year ago I purchased my first box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They helped me immediately, and the second box did me still more good.

"The improvement has continued ever since. I am now decidedly better and fast regaining good health, and cheerfully recommend this great medicine to those similarly affected.

"Besides curing the above stated diseases, it has much improved my general health. I formerly had what I called 'numb spells,' but since I began the use of this medicine they have entirely ceased."

To render this statement unassailable, Mr. Kinyon makes the following affidavit:

State of Iowa, Jasper County, ss.

The above statement was affirmed before me and in my presence by R. F. Kinyon, this 19th day of October, 1895.

A. K. LUFK[illegible], Notary P[illegible]lic.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

Willing to Wake Up.

"Wake up, little girl," said a Bellefield mamma to her small daughter. The latter opened her eyes slowly and then replied: "Well, I suppose I might as well. There's nothing very interesting going on in dreamland."

Local Jealousy.

Twynn—Up in Minneapolis the opponents of women's activities never quote what St. Paul said about women's subjection.

Triplett—Why not?

They don't think much of St. Paul at Minneapolis.

The Gift of a Good Stomach.

Is one of the most beneficent donations vouchsafed to us by nature. How often it is grossly abused! Whether the stomach is naturally weak or has been rendered so by imprudence in eating or drinking, Hostetters Stomach Bitters is the best agent for its restoration to vigor and activity. Both digestion and appetite are renewed by this fine tonic, which also overcomes constipation, biliousness, malarial, kidney and rheumatic ailments and nervousness.

False to His Pledge.

First Citizen—I'm agin' this candidate for the legislatur'. Don't you remember when he ran before, how he said he wouldn't wear no collar?

Second Citizen—An' did he?

First Citizen—Did he? A friend of mine saw him wearin' a collar an' a tie.

Deafness Can Not Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When the tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists; 75c.

Hall's Family Pills, 25c.

The assertion that peanuts prevent consumption reads like the scheme of a Georgia boomer.

A Pennsylvania Farmer.

M. M. Luther, East Troy, Pa., grew last season over 297 bushels Salzer's Silver Mine Oats from one measured acre. How is that for old Pennsylvania? Over 30,000 farmers are going to try and beat this in 1896 and win $200 in gold! Then think of 116 bus. barley from one acre and 1,200 big full bushels of potatoes and 230 bushels of Golden Triumph Corn!

What's teosinte, and sand vetch and spurry and fifty other rare things? Well Salzer's catalogue will tell you. Largest growers of clovers, grasses and farm seeds in America. Freights cheap.

If you will cut this out and send it with 10c postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will receive their mammoth catalogue and ten packages grains and grasses, including above oats, free. W.N.

No enemy is equal to the determination of a strong man's will.

$500.00 for $1.00.

Unadilla, N. Y., (Special)—One of our substantial men here, Fred J. Joyce, recently made a $2.50 investment, and considers the results worth $500 to him. For over fifteen years Mr. Joyce was an inveterate smoker, and the tobacco-habit gained such a hold on him that it affected his nervous system and made it impossible for him to quit. Upon realizing the loss of health and money which threatened him, he made many unsuccessful attempts to break himself of the life-sapping habit, until on a chance he took No-To-Bac, the great cure which has saved over 300,000 tobacco victims. Two boxes completely cured Mr. Joyce, and he has no desire for tobacco now whatever. When he attempts to smoke it makes him as dizzy as when he first acquired the habit. He now is in the very best physical condition, and $500 would not tempt him to use tobacco again.

The world owes more to the honest laborer than it does to the man who sits up nights to water stocks.

BETTER WALK A MILE than fail to get a 5-cent package of Cut and Slash smoking tobacco if you want to enjoy a real good smoke. Cut and Slash cheroots are as good as many 5-cent cigars, and you get Three for 5 cents. Sure to please.

CHAPTER V.

THE DEPARTURE of the family took place the next day. Madame de Sorgnes and the three children in the first carriage; Mademoiselle Pascale, Anais (Mme. de Sorgnes' maid), and the two Greek servants in the second. This was counted another insult by "Mademoiselle," who was exceedingly humiliated to find herself obliged for the first time to travel with the servants. Decidedly, the little newcomer had taken her place, and more and more, as she thought of it, this adoption appeared to her a threatening rivalry. Her uneasy, jealous nature ever delighted in scanning the future, looking only for clouds, and was always disposed to exaggerate their blackness and size.

Who knows? The intruder who made her debut in the family by an act of heroism, might she not, shrewd and intelligent as she seemed to be, might she not insinuate herself into the good graces of every member of the family, and, later on, acquire all the influence, and consequently all the advantages, which she had hoped to make her own? From that hour, little Tiomane had an enemy determined to combat and destroy her. The party had to pass through the village of Berck to reach the station of Verton. Tiomane looked at the road, the houses, the fields, which she knew so well, and, when they passed the miserable hovel where she had lived, in spite of herself her eyes filled with tears. Madame de Sorgnes treated her young protege as she would have treated a curious little animal which she had taken a fancy to tame, and on her arrival in Paris busied herself at once with the metamorphosis of her young charge. Anais, who was very expert in all matters relating to the toilet, eagerly offered her assistance, and it would not have been without benefit to the first lady-in-waiting of a queen, but Madame de Sorgnes claimed the work as all her own. She passed a very satisfactory day in the shops of the Louvre, enjoying this truly feminine labor, and displaying an almost feverish activity in her shopping. At dinner that evening, in an elegant salle a manger reserved for the family of the consul general, Tiomane made her entrance into this brilliant society as a young lady. Delicate kid boots fitted her small feet perfectly, silk stockings of the same shade as her elegant gown—peacock blue silk. Thanks to Elli's curling iron, which had been used, however, without great results, her heavy hair fell in ringlets on her brown, shapely shoulders. Really, the little donkey driver did not gain by the transformation. Nevertheless, Madame de Sorgnes pronounced her very original in her Parisian finery, with her manners necessarily those of an untutored little savage. Even the sun-burned skin and the golden freckles seemed attractions in the eyes of her benefactress. She was delighted, too, with her gaucherie and her Picard patois—everything, in short, about her new plaything charmed her. After dinner a grave question was discussed. What should Tiomane call Madame de Sorgnes? The governess, while rolling Maritza's bright ringlets about her bony fingers, suggested that "Madam" would be the only suitable appellation which the little girl could give her benefactress.

"SHE FELT HERSELF DESPISED BY THE SERVANTS."

"Oh! you always have such vinegary ideas, Mademoiselle," cried Guillaume. "Why not 'mamma,' like us, since you take her as a daughter, mamma?"

Madame de Sorgnes ended the discussion.

"You may call me aunt, Tiomane, and I will call you by your barbarous name. It suits you and it amuses me."

Tiomane retained only a very imperfect and confused remembrance of her short stay in Paris. What a din! what an agitated, varied, extraordinary life! How imposing, nay, annihilating, everything appeared! The luxury of the suite of apartments where she hardly dared walk or sit, the army of domestics which filled the hotel, the rich toilettes, the beautiful carriage in which she drove with the family, the magnificent shops, the bewildering display of rich and elegant stuffs from every quarter of the globe, the visits to the sumptuous homes of some of the members of the Greek colony in Paris, all dazzled the little donkey driver. One evening the family went to the theater, and she felt that she was transported to an enchanted realm—unlike anything she had ever imagined. However, no happiness in this world lasts long without some shadows. Tiomane continued to feel, in all her relations with "Mademoiselle," a cloud of dislike, which terrified her more and more, as the enemy was evidently a power in the family. It was she who managed the establishment, paid all the bills, and directed the servants. Her indolent mistress, delighted at being rid of these disagreeable cares, gave her the fullest confidence; Maritza, spoiled child that she was, won over by her flatteries, adored her; the servants feared and obeyed her. Guillaume alone refused to yield to this ascendancy, his noble, generous nature recoiling instinctively from her hypocritical wiles. A week passed away. One afternoon the little girls accompanied Madame de Sorgnes, who took her son back to his boarding school l'ecole Monge. The parting between the brother and sister was an agony. As for Tiomane, she felt very sad when she found herself in the carriage, where the place of her devoted friend and champion was vacant. Two days after, they left Paris for Marseilles. Tiomane, so strangely and suddenly transported from her bleak country, with its gray sea and its deserted strand, went into ecstasies at the sight of the blue Mediterranean, the magnificent roadstead, and the port—a forest of masts—one of the busiest in the world. They only crossed the famous Canebiere to go to the quay, whence they were to embark for Smyrna. The great ship, whose interior was like a palace, bewildered the little peasant girl. The weather was perfect, and consequently gaiety reigned on board—a noisy, contagious gaiety, peculiar to the natives of the east, who greatly outnumbered the other passengers. Madame de Sorgnes occupied the place of honor at table, at the captain's right hand. Always dressed like a queen she lived in an apotheosis, surrounded by homage, her dazzling little daughter sharing in her glory, while the poor little donkey driver, in spite of her Parisian finery, only served as a foil to all this splendor. Madame de Sorgnes kept her maid, Anais, with her in her cabin, while "Mademoiselle" shared the adjoining one with the two little girls. In crossing the Adriatic the sea was very rough, but Mademoiselle Pascale prudently avoided seasickness by remaining in bed, and from that moment the idea of making a servant of Tiomane came to her. "The servant of donkeys," as she was in the habit of calling her, might, she thought, be her servant. Poor Tiomane felt ill enough herself, but she found that it was necessary to conquer her feelings, and, young as she was, she learned a very important lesson—what will power can do, even in conquering sea sickness. The voyage from Marseilles to Smyrna was charming, as the vessel stopped at many of the places of interest. Children rarely have any appreciation of the beauties of nature, and what struck our young heroine most was the strangeness of these new countries, the odd costumes and the unknown language. On the eighth day, all the passengers, even indolent Madame de Sorgnes, were up at daybreak on the saloon deck. They were sailing along the shores of Asia Minor, and, as the ship sped gaily over the sunlit waves, they gazed with delight at the mountains, the groves, the cities—sung by the poets of all ages. Suddenly the horizon grew narrower, new mountains stood out against the clear blue sky—new forests—a new city. There was a sudden movement and agitation among the passengers, marked, however, by the greatest order and precision. A great number of small boats were seen putting out from the shore; they came to anchor; they had reached Smyrna.

CHAPTER VI.

TIOMANE NOW entered the fairy land of oriental life. The European luxury which had so dazzled and bewildered her was eclipsed, effaced, like a pale light by the midday sun. A boat decorated with the French tricolor, provided with rich rugs and cushions, and manned by twelve oarsmen, came along side the vessel. The captain hastened to receive a very distinguished looking gentleman. By the joy on the faces of Madame de Sorgnes and her daughter, Tiomane guessed that it was the husband and father.

The happiness of meeting seems sometimes to make up for the pain of separation. Monsieur de Sorgnes folded his wife and daughter in his arms and then turned eagerly to Guillaume, from whom he had been separated even longer than the others.

As he offered his arm to his wife to conduct her to the boat, she introduced her protegee. He pressed his lips affectionately to the brow of the little stranger, and welcomed her most kindly to his family. The little girl understood that he had been informed of her heroic act. Tiomane found herself seated in the boat between "Mademoiselle" and Maritza; Monsieur and Madame de Sorgnes were opposite, conversing in a low tone. The consul appeared many years older than his beautiful wife, although he was not more than a dozen years her senior. Forty-four years old, very gray, his face furrowed by deep wrinkles, in spite of his aristocratic appearance, extreme kindness was the prominent expression, under the cold exterior of the diplomat. The Bay of Smyrna is one of the wonders of the world. A poet has compared it to a cup of sapphire infusion, reflecting a heavenly land. It is Ionia, the birthplace of gods and goddesses; where nature attracts, charms, intoxicates; where the air is heavy with perfume—it is lovely Olympia. The consul's boat stopped at the foot of a white marble staircase, shaded with jessamine. A broad avenue led to the gardens, which were really orange groves, surrounding the mansion. It was a model of elegance and good taste, in which the Grecian and Byzantine styles of architecture were mingled; cupolas, colonnades, arabesques, balconies, carved with such exquisite delicacy that they might be called lace work in stone, and then those oriental verandas, aerial boudoirs, decorated with tapestries, faience and flowering plants. The story of the marriage of Monsieur and Madame de Sorgnes would make a charming chapter for a novel. At 28, appointed consul at Tripoli, the young diplomat was passing through Smyrna, accompanied by an Italian friend. They were walking, toward the close of a beautiful afternoon in the early spring, through the famed Street of the Roses, with its white marble sidewalks, its lovely oriental houses, hung with bright draperies, where the perfume of the roses, from which it is named, intoxicates the senses. All tourists who have had the good fortune to visit Smyrna have carried away in their memories a beautiful picture of the streets of the European quarter, and particularly of this Street of the Roses—called also the Street of the Graces, for it is inhabited almost exclusively by autochthonal families, in which the purest Greek type is preserved. After the afternoon siesta, the doors of the elegant mansions are thrown open, disclosing spacious, cool vestibules—with sparkling fountains—furnished like drawing rooms, for here a Smyrniote lady displays her most elegant furniture and bric-a-brac. Gracefully reclining on silken divans, the ladies of the house, in their most charming toilets, are occupied in rolling or in smoking cigarets.

"ROSE TO MEET HIM."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

OCCULT POWERS OF JEWELS.

Strange and Supernatural Influences Formerly Ascribed to Different Gems.

While every one admires the various jewels from an ornamental standpoint, it may not be generally known that in times past nearly all of the more important precious stones were supposed to possess occult powers over disease, and in other supernatural directions. A writer in Chamber's Journal recently compiled an article descriptive of the supposed powers thus possessed, from which we gather that the diamond, though considered to be of itself a deadly poison, had, till recently, from remote ages been credited with the power of protecting its wearer from the evil effects of other poisons—which may have been the foundation of its popularity. Pliny described it as having the power to avert insanity—and amber was credited with the same quality. The ruby was supposed to exert a healthful influence upon the liver, and to be valuable for disordered eyes; the latter quality being also ascribed to the sapphire and emerald—the emerald, when seen by a serpent, being further supposed to blind the reptile and render him harmless. The turquoise was supposed to act as a sort of health indicator, the intensity of its color being in ratio to the physical well being of its wearer. It was also reputed to be a safeguard against harm in case the wearer should fall from any height. The opal was looked upon as a thunderstone, possessing the virtues of many others in combination, but the onyx was regarded as rendering one peculiarly susceptible to annoyance from nightmares and demons, which seriously affected its popularity. The amethyst was supposed to prevent intoxication, the coral to protect against the evil eye, and the topaz to deprive boiling water of its heat.

Simplicity of Japs.

The Philadelphia Record quotes a traveler in Japan as saying that, in spite of their advance in civilization, the Japanese retain much of their primitive simplicity. They always leave their shoes at the door of a house when they enter and walk inside in their stocking feet. When the first railroad was started from Yokohama to Tokio all the Japanese gentlemen were crazy to ride. They hurried to the station, kicked off their shoes on the platform, and entered the train. When they arrived at Tokio they eagerly looked around the platform for their shoes, and great consternation prevailed when these shoes were nowhere to be found.

Was a Bank Little Rebel.

Mrs. Burton Harrison, whose books have made her famous, and whose social position is an enviable one to ambitious aspirants, was a high spirited young girl named Constance Carey when the war was raging. She was a little confederate, and to send a flag to Gen. Lee cut up her best pink silk gown and her light blue silk jacket and embroidered and sewed a confederate flag, which to-day is cherished as a very precious souvenir of feminine devotion by Col. Robert Alexander Chisholm.

Skating Corps in the Norwegian Army.

The bicycle corps is now a regular branch of army service in several countries, but Norway is probably alone in having a skating corps attached to her soldiery. They are armed with rifles and provided with skates, admirably adapted for moving rapidly over rough ice or snow. The men are trained to ascend steep mountains, and are frequently dispatched for trial tests of speed. One of their latest records is having traveled 1-3 miles in eighteen and one half hours.

Nothing Unusual.

"Whats all this talk about the United States?" said the London citizen.

"Why," was the answer, "it is alleged that this country is trying to acquire territory that it has no right to, and—

"Dear me. What an extraordinary fuss about such a very ordinary transaction."

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth,

Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.

Love never drives the husband from the home and into the gin shop.

"BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES" are unequaled for clearing the voice. Public speakers and singers the world over use them.

Prof. Dyche, the distinguished naturalist, is entirely self taught. When 13 years old he had not yet learned the alphabet.

Breeding counts more for men than gold.

PAIN often concentrates all its MISERY in Rheumatism

Use at once ST. JACOBS OIL

If you want to feel it concentrate its healing in a cure.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. DR. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

W. N. U. D. M—1229 NO. 5

You are discharged I have no use for any one that has not sense enough to chew

BattleAx A GREAT BIG PIECE FOR 10 CENTS

PLUG

The largest piece of good tobacco ever sold for 10 cents and The 5 cent piece is nearly as large as you get of other high grades for 10 cents

General Harrison ON The Presidential Office

A striking article in the February issue of

The Ladies' Home Journal

Over 700,000 Copies Sold

TEN CENTS A COPY. ONE DOLLAR A YEAR FOR SALE EVERYWHERE

Agents Wanted to look after renewals and new subscribers. Profitable employment.

The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia

—COPYRIGHT 1895 BY THE CURTIS PUBLISHING COMPANY—

SALZER'S SEEDS BRL $150

35 Packages Earliest Vegetable Seeds, postpaid, $1.00.

YOU Have often seen seed come up poor and sickly, without sufficient vitality to produce a crop,—that was an object lesson that poor seeds produce poor crops,—but when you plant Salzer's Northern-Grown Seeds for garden or farm, the scene changes as if by magic. Instead of poor yields you at once get rousing crops, crops that will gladden your heart and fill your purse, for Salzer's Seeds are full of life, full of vigor, full of producing qualities.

$400 IN GOLD PRIZES.

We pay this on Oats, Barley, and Corn. 209 bushels of Silver Mine (Nameless Beauty) Oats grown on one acre won the prize in 1895. You can beat that! It is the greatest Oat of the century. No more hard times if you sow a plenty of Salzer's Barley, Oats, Potatoes, Grass and Clovers! Have you tried Teosinte, Sacaline, Giant Spurry and Giant Quick-Growing German Clover? Catalogue tells all about these Fodder Plants.

SPLENDID VEGETABLES.

Large selections, many splendid sorts. Everything cheap. Onion Seed at 90c. per lb.; 10 pkts. Flower Seed, 25c. 1,000,000 Roses, Plants and Small Fruits, hardy as Oak. Send 4c. for Market Gardener's Wholesale List.

PLEASE CUT OUT THE FOLLOWING AND SEND IT

With 10c. in stamps to John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., and get free their great catalogue and 10 pkgs. Grasses, Oats, Barley and Grains. W N

JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO. LA CROSSE, WIS.

STEEL WEB PICKET FENCE.

CABLED FIELD AND HOG FENCE.

Also CABLED POULTRY, GARDEN AND RABBIT FENCE.

We manufacture a complete line of Smooth Wire Fencing and guarantee every article to be as represented. If you consider quality we can save you money. Catalogue free.

De Kalb Fence Co., 121 High Street, DE KALB, ILL.

MARION A. FELL, NOTARY PUBLIC. M. R. CHAMBERS, ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans at 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farmers' Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on us, we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co,
Garner, Iowa.

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME. Belmond, Iowa.

ALEX. KIRKWOOD,
....PROPRIETOR OF....
KIRKWOOD :-: HOUSE,
FIRST CLASS ACCOMMADATION. - RATES $1.00 per Day.

Livery and Feed Stable in Connection

Rigs Furnished on Short Notice.

KLEMME, - - - IOWA.

Subscribe for the

KLEMME TIMES.

$1 per. Year

Only Four Days to California.

In response to popular demand, the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad enters upon its 16th year of Philips Personally Conducted Excursions to California. Elegant upholsterad Tourist Cars run through to all California points without charge, leaving St. Paul at 7 p. m., Minneaoplis 7:35 p. m. Oct. 3rd and every Thursday thereafter, and reaching California in less than four days. In this age time is an important factor in the selection of a route. The Albert Lea Route is the quickest and most popular. The price of double sleeping car berths is only $6.00 through. A gentlemanly conductor accompanies the car, and a colored porter accompanying the car performs the usual duties Passengers may take meals in dining cars, or prepare them on cooking ranges provided for the purpose. Secure reservations early, addressing A. B. CUTTS, G. T. & P. A., M. & St. L. Ry., Minneapolis, Minn.

THE Minneapolis & St Louis R. R. Co

A NEW TRAIN TO OMAHA AND DES MOIOES

It is a HUMMER! Look out For IT!

THROUGH CARS.
PULLMANS
& COACHES
GREAT!

It will run through on time, reaching Des. Moines, Omaha, Denver, California and all points in the West. The previous complete service will not be disturbed by the addition of this train. Ask your nearest M. & St. L. R. R. ticket agent for rates and particulars. A. B. CUTTS,
Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agt.

Improved farms in Fayette County, Tennessee. Houses, barns, good wells Peach, Apple, Pear and Apricot orchards. All kinds of grain grownon this land. Plenty of fuel cheap. No waste lands, price $10 to $20, from 1 to 7 miles form R. R. towns. J. R. CLINE.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, Jan. 31, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum in Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY:

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1895.

JOHN R. CLINE, - - - PROPRIETOR.
GEORGE J. HALL, - - - - EDITOR.

ICHIBAN.

Her brown little eyes are as bright as the dew
Which decks the chrysanthemum's breast—
So bright that whenever she passes in view
I feel like a being possessed;
Especially when she goes trotting about,
With her rosy toes in and her ruddy heels out.

Her nose is the smallest I ever have seen,
Like rose leaves on gold are her cheeks,
Though pretty and playful, she's modest in mien
And only in whispers she speaks.
Yet no one is like her in all the mad rout,
With her rosy toes in and her ruddy heels out.

Her feet are quite slender and tender and thin,
And flat as her sandals of wood.
In standing and stepping she turns them both in,
As well nurtured maidenhood should.
When she sees me, she blushes, pretending to pout,
With her rosy toes in and her ruddy heels out.

Her sandals make music whenever they come,
For, besides their tattoo on the street,
They seem to beat time on my heart like a drum,
Till my spirit re-echoes her feet—
Those dear little feet which go tripping about,
With her rosy toes in and her ruddy heels out.
—Margherita Arlina Hamm.

Barred by His Nose.

Among the Massachusetts delegation in the Fifty-second congress was Representative McEttrick, an honest man, an able man, but a man with a large, bulbous, rubicund nose, a flaring, conspicuous nose, a real danger signal of a proboscis. Speaker Crisp, in making up the committees, assigned McEttrick to the committee on alcoholic liquor traffic. There was no design in it. It just happened so. It was a good place, whether a man had a red, showy nose or a pale, unostentatious one. McEttrick at the first favorable opportunity hunted up the speaker.

"Mr. Speaker," said he, "I want to request you to take me off the committee on alcoholic liquor traffic."

"Why, Mr. McEttrick?" asked the speaker, concentrating his gaze earnestly upon the nose in front of him.

"Look at my nose," said McEttrick in a burst of candor. "Just look at my nose."

"Well, I see it," said the speaker. "What's the matter with that nose?"

"What's the matter with that nose?" asked McEttrick. "What's the matter with that nose? Did you ever see a nose like it? If I served on the committee on alcoholic liquor traffic, every street arab in Boston would guy the life out of me; it would ruin me with my constituents, and the reputation of that committee wouldn't be worth 3 cents on the dollar. No, Mr. Speaker, a man with a nose like mine has no business to be sticking it into the committee on alcoholic liquor traffic."—Washington Post.

A Thrashing Schoolmaster.

One ludicrous story shows Richard Busby extending the use of the rod in a way beyond all precedent. Some of the junior boys were making a great uproar in Little Dean's yard, and Busby, after twice sending a monitor in vain, commanded the culprits to be brought before him. His envoys seized a Frenchman who was watching with amusement the games of the boys and brought him before the chief, declaring that he had caused the uproar. "Horse him!" said Busby, and he was horsed, flogged and hustled out. The man went, boiling over with rage, to a neighboring coffee house and indited a challenge, which he sent by a street porter. "Horse him!" said the doctor again when he had read the paper, and the second fared as his principal. The terrified Frenchman could only say, "C'est un diable!"—London Spectator.

A Historic Stove.

There is a stove in the Virginia state capitol at Richmond (if it has not been recently removed) which is believed to be the oldest iron stove now in existence. It was manufactured in England some time about the middle of the eighteenth century by one Buzzlao, and was imported by Lord Botetourt, then in Virginia, in 1770. It was used in the house of burgesses when Virginia's colonial capital was at Williamsburg, and is now counted among the most sacred relics of early days in America.—St. Louis Republic.

The Yankee genius has left untried few materials which might be available for the purpose of penmaking. Among the inventions patented have been pens made of hickory and other kinds of flexible wood found in our forests.

The second war with Great Britain began June 18, 1812, and ended on Feb. 17, 1815. It involved the enlistment of 471,622 volunteers and the service of 85,000 regulars, a total of 576,622.

Massachusetts, though small in size, is large in manufacture, her mill hands being numbered at 485,182 and their annual output valued at $888,160,403.

The custom of placing flags at half mast as an expression of sorrow is said to be as old as the use of the flags themselves.

There are more than 70 halls in Paris devoted to fencing, each presided over by a fencing master more or less famous.

17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade. 17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

CORN WANTED

AT

WESENBERG BROS'

17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade. 17 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

FRANK GRUETZMACHER

DEALER IN

HARNESS, SADDLES, COLLARS, LEATHER, STRAPWORK, BLANKETS, ROBES, WHIPS, BOOTS, SHOES, GLOVES, MITTENS, REPAIRS, ETC.

Special Bargains In Blankets And Robes.

The way to save money is to buy only what you need and then buy the best and as cheap as you can get it. I am Headquarters for all kinds of BOOTS and SHOES, every pair warranted. Call and see for yourself that I can fit you and save you money. My goods are just as I recommend them.

YOURS RESPECTFULLY.
FRANK GRUETZMACHER.

BELL, BELL, BELL.

The above means THE BELL CLOTHING HOUSE at

GARNER, IOWA.

——We have a new and complete stock of——

Clothing and Gents' Furnishings.

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Bicycles and Sporting Goods.

It will pay the people of Klemme and vicinity to call.

Yours for business,

F. B. CASSILL & CO

SHOES! SHOES!

We have an entire new stock of Shoes, for both

LADIES AND GENTS

Which we will sell at

WHOLESALE PRICES FOR CASH

For the next four weeks at the OLD HENCHEN STORE,

OPPOSITE POST-OFFICE MAIN ST.,

GARNER, - - IOWA.

This stock of Shoes comprises about $6000.00 worth of the latest styles and most approved makes, and each and every pair will be disposed of at

First Cost

Come early and secure your choice of this chance of a lifetime.

H I SCHNAUTZ, Manager.

WOMEN DISLIKE STINGY MEN.

Especially When the Latter Invite Them to a Restaurant.

If there is one object of dislike to a woman, it is a stingy man. Now, by this we do not mean that the fair sex are anxious for a man to spend more than he can afford, but they do feel that it is due to them when they are invited out to have the privilege of seleting what they want from a menu without being prompted by their host to select what he prefers.

The man doesn't have to say, "You must take this, or you mustn't take that." A woman is quick to recognize the saving keynote when he says: "What will you have? I think I will have a sandwich," and though she may loathe sandwiches she feels it her duty to say, "Well, then, I will have one too." Some mean men know that they can easily bulldoze a woman this way, and it would serve them just right if their guest were to say, "Well, for my part, I prefer terrapin, some fresh mushrooms, a canape Lorenzo and some Nesselrode pudding."

Oh, no, we never do say that. We are guided by the inflection in the man's voice and take whatever he wants us to, whether we like it or not. Now, we don't object one bit to a man being economical. It is a praiseworthy trait, but for goodness sake don't have him practice it when he takes a woman out to luncheon, dinner or supper. If he really can't afford anything she might ask for, he has no right to invite her. Let him do the elegant less frequently and do it right when he is about it.

The woman of the world will perhaps order a more extravagant meal than he would desire, but she won't break him if he entertains her but once in decent style, instead of three or four times in poverty stricken fashion that makes his guest want to pass her purse across the table to him to help him out of his difficulty. There is no pleasure in eating under such circumstances, and a woman would feel much more pleased with a man if no such suggestion were made and she thus escaped an exhibition of his meanness. Let it be said right here that the really poor man is not the one to get into such a predicament. He knows he can't, and he stays out of trouble by not inviting you to a swell restaurant and then looking pained if you order something beyond what he had expected. It is the man who wants to make a show of being a "thoroughbred" who too often proves conclusively by some episode of this sort that he is not.

"My boy will know how to order when he grows up," said a young mother the other day, "if I have to write out the menu for him every time he takes a young lady out. There won't be any 'what will you have' about it, but he will select a dainty little meal that will relieve her from the embarrassment of selection, but won't be made up of the cheapest things in sight, and will, therefore, give her a chance, if she does not care for his choice, to make a change in one or more dishes without feeling that she is an up to date Jack Sheppard who has lured an unhappy victim into a restaurant just to rob him."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A French Chef Wanted.

There was an interesting episode one day in a well known Washington cafe. The proprietor has a French chef in his employ, and the result is that the menu cards can be guaranteed to puzzle any American.

Two gentlemen sat at a table. One was from the west, and his French education had been neglected. The other had but recently come to Washington from Paris. After reading the menu the westerner said to the waiter: "I can't read French. Bring me a good dinner."

Meantime the Frenchman was trying to figure out the words. "Pardon, monseer," he said, "eet ees not ze Francais. Eet ees not ze Eenglish. I know not what eet ees. Zere ees ze soup. Zat ees French for ze rat. I want not ze rat soup. Eet ees horreeble."

The proprietor heard it, and upon investigation found that his guest was correct. There is a new French chef, who understands the French language.—Washington Star.

Two Men In One.

A member of the Royal Chemical society, London, has recently demonstrated to the Society For Psychical Research a proof that man possesses two distinct consciousnesses. This he explains by the fact that persons under the influence of an anæsthetic, while not apparently conscious at the time of operations, are sometimes able, after a few days, to describe the exact details of the operation, instruments used, etc., although not informed as to these before or since. What he calls the "workaday consciousness" was absent at the time, but the "subliminal consciousness" is that which was present during the operation, and which not only felt, but saw, what was going on. Hence anæsthetics would seem to postpone rather than destroy the functions of the latter kind of consciousness.

Many merchants are well aware that their customers are their best friends and take pleasure in supplying them with the best goods obtainable. As an instance we mention Perry & Cameron, prominent druggists of Flushing Michigan. They say: "We have no hesitation in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to our customers, as it is the best cough medicine we have ever sold, and always gives satisfaction." For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by J. L. HARR.

FARMS FOR RENT!
FARMS FOR SALE!

Three Fine Farms For Rent,

Five Chice Improved Farms For Sale.

TERMS ARE REASONABLE

M. S. Gilman,
KLEMME, - - - - - - - IOWA.

H. E. PEITZKE
IS THE
BLACKSMITH
Who makes the Will
He

No. 84
No. 83
No. 82.
GOI
No. 83. Way freig
No. 85. Freight
No. 81. Pass.

JOHN BAUMGART[illegible]
PROPRIETOR OF
CITY BARBER SHOP.
AN EASY SHAVE.
A SATISFIED CUSTOMER
SHOP IN KIRKWOOD HOUSE, KLEMME, IOWA.

KLEMME - DRAY - LINE.

H. & S. NISSEN,
Proprietors.
Draying and teaming of all kinds done on short notice.

GIVE US A C[illegible]

STATE - SAVING[illegible]
OF KLFMM[illegible]
Does [illegible] ness.
Foreig[illegible]
Loans [illegible] time.
and pay[illegible]
posits

GEO. S. GATES,
STONE AND BRICK MASON

Plastering a Specialty. Do all kinds of work in my line. I also make a Specialty of bricking up Cisterns and boilers. All work guaranteed and Prices accordingly.

Give me a trial,

GEO. S. GATES,
Klemme, Iowa.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES. OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, FEBRUARY 7, 1896. NUMBER 24

J. L. HARR.

PURE DRUGS AND MEDICINES.

Window Shades And Wall Paper. Paints and Oils.

All Will Be Sold Cheap For Cash.

REDUCED PRICES!

On Fur Coats, Fur Robes, Horse Blankets.

GREAT REDUCTION!

On Gent's and Ladies' Underwear, Hats, Caps, Overshoes, Felt Boots, Clothing and Overcoats. Large stock, bound to suit the person and his purse.

YOU CAN'T MISS IT!

To Examine Our Stock. 5 Per Cent Discount for Cash.

LAU BROS., Klemme, Ia.

TIME--Correct Time.

Time Everybody had it!

It has never been easier to get WATCHES.

CLOCKS were never cheaper, never better, never prettier. To-day we sell better WATCHES for $7.00 than we ourselves could buy for $7.00 two years ago.

SHAFER & DOW.

GEO KLUCKHOHN, The Restaurant Man!

Serves the Public with

A Square Meal, Fine Bread Buns, Oysters, Cigars, Tobaccos, etc.

WHEN IN TOWN CALL AND SEE HIM.

KLEMME, - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

Eagle Grove

MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS

MATERIAL THE BEST AND WORKMANSHIP SECOND TO NONE.

GEO. W. SHAFFER, AGENT

Correspondence Solicited.

MESERVEY, - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

Local Mention.

Fur Coats very cheap at Lau Bros.

Alex Kirkwood was at Garner Monday.

Wes Mertin of Garner was in town Tuesday.

Wm. Finch of Belmond was in town Monday.

Lo Wanamaker returned from Hayfield Friday.

Mrs. J. L. Harr is visiting at Belmond this week.

Jake Coffman and Henry Schraeder were at Britt Wednesday.

Nels Jacobson left Monday to make his home at Forest City.

John Baumgartner went to Garner Monday returning Tuesday.

Mrs. Grandfield, Mrs. F. B. Smith's mother, is on the sick list.

Art Gibbs attended the teachers' meeting Wednesday evening.

Bed Blankets all the way from 95c to $4.00 per pair at Lau Bros.

Almost everybody have been sick with la gripp during the past week.

Lou Bros., have a nice line of Horse Blankets and Robes. Call and see them.

A. A. Lutterman of Popejoy and T. H. Wessnberg went to Algona Wednesday.

Mittens, Gloves, etc., are sold cheaper than any other place in town at Lou Bros'

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

Call at Kluckhohn's restaurant and see the great number of Staple Groceries you can buy for $5.

Wm., and H. E. Peitzke were at Clear Lake Monday and while there Wm. bought another farm.

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry can be repaired by bringing them to Shafer & Dow's. All work warrented.

Mr. and Mrs. Bastian left Thursday morning for Stockton, Ill., where they expect to make their future home.

J. H. Queal Lumber Co., are tearing down their old sheds and will erect new ones and also build a new office.

We have been among the victims of la grippe this week which accounts for our local columns being a little shy.

The big fight between Fitzsimmons and Maher for the championship of the world will take place in Texas, Feb. 18.—Perhaps.

Hans Nissen is having a well bored on his property so Geo. Ell will not have to carry water so far. R. Steele of Garner is doing the work.

The populists will hold a national convention at St. Louis, July 22d, for the purpose of nominating candidates for president and vice president.

The 4th day of July will, in all probability, be hotter than usual. The republican convention meets just before, and the democratic on the 7th.

L. C. Buehlmeyer, Castlewood, S. D., wishes to express his thanks to the friends and relatives who so kindly visited and aided his brother in various ways during his illness at Rev. Haefner's.

Don't buy those little, cheap bulk Oysters sold at other places, when you can get the nice, large, fat, select ones, just fresh at Kluckhohn's Restaurant for the same money you have to pay for the little Jim Crow ones.

Thousands of people are looking Californiawards. They want to know where to go to raise fruit and how to travel cheaply and comfortably. For full answers to these questions address California Bureau of Information. Box, 572 Cedar Rapids, Ia.

The Marshaltown Times-Republican says that if the Iowa republicans want a delegation at St. Louis which may accomplish the most for Senator Allison they should see to it that its congressional delegation comprises eleven of the twenty-six delegates.

Our people are growing more and more in the habit of looking to J. L. Harr for the latest and best of everything in the drug line. He sells Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of bad colds, croup and whooping cough. When in need of such a medicine give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result.

In the game of life Chicago is playing all jacks. There is "Jack the Kisser," a man who extracts honey from the lips of maidens out after dark; "Jack the Kisser" a woman who performs the same service for the men; "Jack the Dogtail Cutter," a person who has amputated the caudal appendages of all the dogs in the neighborhood, with the exception of one big bloodthirsty bulldog kept chained to a post. The sex of the dog-dispoiler could not be guessed until one evening when the bulldog was found with the seat of a pair of pants in his mouth. This jack may, however, be a "new woman."

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market; costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. Harr. Read our free booklet on Microbic Diseases.

Wichita, Kansas, has a "healer" who seems to resemble the now famous Schlatter in some respects. His name is Bartholomew Corwin, aged 93 years, and has been a resident of Kansas since 1858. He is well-to-do, and lives in a fine house. His only admonition to his beneficiaries is: "See that you tell no man of the wonders that have been performed." He will not accept money far his cures.

The little daughter of Mr. Fred Webber, Holland, Mass., had a very bad cold and cough which he had not been able to cure with any thing. I gave him a 25 cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, says W. P. Holden, merchant and postmaster at West Brimfield, and the next time I saw him he said it worked like a charm This remedy is intended especially for acute throat and lung diseases such as colds, croup and whooping cough, and it is famous for its cures. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains nothing injurious. For sale by J. L. Harr.

California Tourist Car—Via B., C. R. & N Ry

Leaves each Monday on Train No. 2 and runs to San Francisco, Los Angeles and intermediate points in California. Rate only $5.50 and $6.00 per double berth. Call on B., C. R. & N. agents or address the undersigned for descriptive pamphlet containing full information.

J. Morton,
G. P. & T. A.
Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Threw Away His Canes

Mr. D. Wiley, ex-postmaster, Black Creek, N. Y., was so badly afflicted with rheumatism that he was only able to hobble around with canes, and even then it caused him great pain. After using Chamberlain's Pain Balm he was so much improved that he threw away his canes. He says this liniment did him more good than all other medicines and treatment put together. For sale at 50 cents per bottle by J. L. Harr.

Homeseekers' Excursions

via B., C. R. & N. Ry. on February 11th and March 10th 1896. Round Trip tickets will be sold at rate of ONE FARE plus $2.00 to points in the following states and territories: Alabama, Arkansas, Indian Territory, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Kentucky, Missouri, Mississippi, Texas and Tennessee. Tickets are good to return on any Tuesday or Friday within the final limit, which is 30 days from date of sale. Call on B., C. R. & N. agents for rates and further information or address

J. Morton,
G. T. & P. A.
Cedar Rapids, Ia.

For Newspapers.

Mardi Gras Rates.

For the Mardi Gras at New Orleans and Mobile all agents of the B., C. R. & N. Ry., will sell round trip tickets at greatly reduced Rates. Tickets on sale February 10th to 16th, good to return until March 14th. Double daily train service, through trains with Pullman Sleepers for St. Louis and Chicago via this line. Direct connections at the new St. Louis union depot for New Orleans and Mobile.

Call on B., C. R. & N. agents for rates and further information or address J. Morton, G. P. & T. A. Cedar Rapids, Ia.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR BATH.

A perfect Sulphur Spring in the retirement of your own home. A toilet article cherished by the ladies. Renders the skin White and Soft. An absolute disinfectant. Purifies the blood by absorbtion and removes all unhealthy secretions and odors from the body. Invaluable in Rheumatism Gout and all blood and skin disorders. Each bottle contains 16 sulphur baths

S. C Cook, Jacksonville, Ill., says: "In our little family circle Compound Liquid Sulphur—Bath is considered a panacea for all ills and one of the greatest luxuries. For sale by J. L. Harr.

FIREMEN'S BALL.

The Belmond Fire Co., will hold their Annual Ball in the Opera House, Thursday evening, Feb. 6, 1896. Music by the Myers-Davis Orchestra. Everybody invited to this the Best of the Season. Tickets $1.00.

Com.

A DOCTOR'S STORY.

Showing the Ability of a Somnambulist to Use His Eyes.

A Star writer was asking the physician a great many questions and getting answers to them, while the physician wasn't getting a cent of pay for the part he was performing.

"By the way," inquired The Star man, "do you think that a somnambulist can see?"

"Do you mean when he is awake or when he is somnambulizing, so to speak?" smiled the physician.

"While he is somnambulizing, of course. I'm not talking about blind men."

"Well, I won't answer your question directly, but I'll tell you a story which may go as an answer. About ten years ago I had a roommate, a young fellow who was a student in the medical college, and a bright young fellow he was too. He was fond of shooting, and to keep up his practice he had a fine airgun, and he converted the hall on the third floor, which we occupied, into a shooting gallery. I used to take a hand myself every time I had a chance, and sometimes for an hour at a time he would be banging away at the target he had fixed at the far end of the hall.

"One morning I came in from a patient's about 3 o'clock and found the whole upper story dark. I lit the gas in the front room, which we used as a sitting room, and was about to go out and light the gas in the hall, when the young fellow came walking in from our sleeping room, attired in his nightclothes, and with his eyes wide open. I spoke to him, thinking something was the matter with him, but he did not answer, and in a minute I saw that he was walking in his sleep.

"This was not altogether unusual with him, but I had never caught him in the act before and concluded I would watch him. He came directly across the room, going around a chair and a table that stood in his path, and opening a drawer where he kept the airgun he took it out, and then he loaded it, getting the small bullets we used out of a box on the mantelpiece. This box he stuck into what would have been his coat pocket, if he had had a coat on, but as he hadn't the box fell to the floor, which he took no note of.

"Then he went into the dark hall, carefully avoiding all furniture in his way, and going as straight to the door as if he had been awake. I followed him cautiously into the hall, and when he had reached the usual point from which we did our firing he stopped, took careful aim and fired. The slight snap and shock of the gun seemed to have quite a different effect than either my voice or the bright light in the room, for on the instant he dropped the gun, made a half step forward and fell into my arms, just about as he would have fallen out of bed if he had waked suddenly on its edge.

"He was wide awake in a minute and began laughing and asking me what had happened. I told him, and we at once lit the gas in the hall and examined the target. The target had been repainted after we had had our last practice, so that we could see plainly where his bullet had hit, and I assure you he had made almost a center shot. Now," concluded the physician, "in the lighted room he missed all the furniture in his way, and in the dark hall he had hit the target. Do you think he could see, or couldn't he?"

The answer wasn't quite satisfactory as an answer, but it made a problem to wrestle with, and the physician kindly consented to let his questioner figure it out to suit himself.—Washington Star.

Why He Ceased Whistling.

One day as Field Marshal Wrangel and the late Emperor Frederick were walking in Berlin they met an apprentice boy who was whistling a lively tune, but stopped as they came nearer and doffed his cap with a pleasant smile.

Wrangel was highly gratified with the civility of the lad, and said to the crown prince:

"There, your royal highness can see how loyal these apprentice lads are. How delighted they seem to be when they come across a member of the royal family!"

"Wrangel," said the crown prince, with a touch of merriment, "just ask the boy why he has stopped whistling."

"Here, my lad," exclaimed Wrangel. "Tell us why you ceased whistling."

"Whenever I see you," replied the boy, "I can't help laughing, and then a fellow can't whistle, you know." And, so saying, he took to his heels and promptly disappeared.—Pearson's Weekly.

Mother of Pearl.

Mother of pearl is the hard, silvery, brilliant substance which forms the internal layers of several kinds of shells. The interior of our common oyster shells is of this nature, but the mother of pearl used in the arts is much more variegated with a play of colors. The large shells of the Indian seas alone have this pearly substance of sufficient thickness to be of use.

NOWHERE

A hurried glance at the above letters and one cannot tell which of two words is indicated.

There is no such uncertainty in a hurried glance or careful examination of our Quadruple Silverware which we guarantee to last ten years.

And you will find that

NO WHERE

Can such an assortment of Shelf and Heavy Hardware, Groceries, Paints, Oils, Lime, Stucco, Brick, Pumps, Wagons, Buggies, Etc., be found as are

NOW HERE.

WE ALSO SELL THE PORTABLE CORN CRIB WHICH HOLDS 400 BU., IS 8 FT. HIGH AND 12 FT. IN DIAMETER.

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mouldings.

And everything used to build with.

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in the week.

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'GR.,

KLEMME, IOWA.

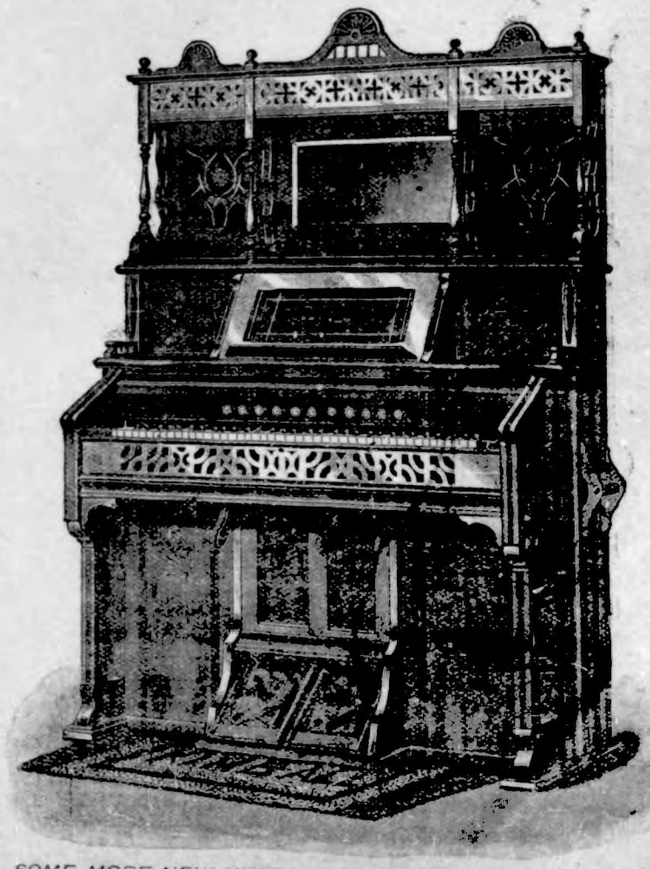
J. H. QUEAL & CO.

Always Lead In The Best Of Grades At The Lowest Prices ON

LUMBER, LATH, Posts, Sash, DOORS SHINGLES ETC.

Call and see us for anything in our line and be convinced of the above facts.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.



SOME MORE NEW KIMBALL ORGANS JUST RECEIVED AT

E. P. Schaefer's.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, . . . IOWA

IOWA NEWS IN BRIEF

CHARLES DIXON, a Marshalltown merchant, suicided by shooting himself.

GEORGE MEADE, of Anamosa, took corrosive sublimate by mistake, thinking it was quinine, and has since died.

A SWITCHMAN named Curtis Murray was killed in the Burlington yards at Pacific Junction. He fell while pulling a pin and the train passed over him.

THE wife of a farmer living near Laurens saved up her earnings in a ball of yarn and then appeared at a bank and paid off a $900 mortgage, to the surprise of her husband.

LINSEED CAKE (oil meal) does not only keep your stock in good order, but is a great flesh producer and is now as cheap as corn. Write Des Moines Linseed Oil Works for pamphlets and prices.

NELSON KNOUSE, of Creston, has brought suit against the Creston water works company and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad for $5,000 damages. He was employed by the water company to load ice; while in a car a switch engine struck it and caused large chunks of ice to fall upon him, causing injuries for which he wants damages.

BELVA A. LOCKWOOD, once presidential candidate on the woman's rights ticket, and now a practicing attorney of Washington, has been debarred from practicing as attorney or agent before the pension bureau. This action grew out of a charge made against Mrs. Lockwood by the pension department accusing her of having improperly accepted a fee of $25 on a pension claim.

J. W. TURMAN, an inventive genius of New Sharon, has just made public the fact that he has perfected a process for refining rancid butter and lard. Mr. Turman will not yet permit an inspection of the machine, but expects his patent to be granted soon. He has been granted over eighty patents during his life, both scientific and mechanical, principally mechanical. He is very enthusiastic over his process.

THE Union county grand jury brought in an indictment against Professor Harold Land, alias Summers, director of the Creston Ladies' Military band. Land was arrested for living with two young girls, Helen and Ellen Gilmore, whom he introduced as his sisters, but who were, as their mother claims, enticed from their home to St. Paul a year ago by Land. The mother got trace of them a month ago and caused Land's arrest.

THE grand jury of Dubuque has reported indictments against Mayor Olinger, of Dubuque, for taking $500 above the legal limit of $1,500, for services on the board of health. The following aldermen were indicted for voting on the matter of raising their own salaries, contrary to the law: Halpin, Cullen, Shea, Crawford, Voegler, Schulte, Kauffman and Bauer. Two aldermen, Bonson and Ryder, were not indicted.

A LOG house near Marshall, Mich., occupied by two families named Page was destroyed by fire at 2 o'clock a. m. and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Page and their two sons, one three years of age and the other 3 months old, were cremated. Harvey Page was awakened by the flames and aroused his brother Wilber and the latter's wife, who slept in another part of the house. Wilber and his wife escaped. Harvey tried to save his wife and children and perished with them.

JAMES AMES and a man named Hayden, both of Forest City, drove to the residence of Ole Nelson, who lives in a secluded timber country by Pliot Mound. On reaching Mr. Nelson's they proceeded to the house, where they met Nelson, who refused to admit Jim Ames, but invited Hayden in the house. Ames insisted on entering the house, whereupon a fight ensued between him and Hayden, resulting in gun shot wounds from which Ames cannot recover. Hayden is under bonds, and public opinion runs high against him. It is said that Hayden is a desperate man, having at one time killed a man in Minnesota.

A BURGLAR was instantly killed a few nights since at Calmar. He was in a hardware store helping himself to revolvers, knives, razors and other portable property, when a roomer over the store heard him. The young man got his gun, crept down stairs, and, locating his man, fired, killing the intruder instantly, the ball entering the back of his neck. The dead man's partner was captured outside, holding the other fellow's shoes and coat and standing guard. Access to the store was gained through a window. The men are strangers in the neighborhood and are apparently city crooks out on a foray in the country.

WILLIAM ARNOLD was killed by a falling tree near Coppack, a small town south of Washington. No one saw the accident. Some wood haulers found him under the tree dead. He was about 35 years old and married.

THE republican state central committee met at Des Moines and fixed on the 11th of March as the date for the state convention to select delegates to the St. Louis convention. The place of the convention will be Des Moines, and the temporary chairman is Congressman J. P. Dolliver, of Fort Dodge.

"GROWLER'S GULCH" has been heard from again. A party of four went to a store in Lima, a village in Fayette county, and asked for coal oil. While the proprietor went to the cellar after it, accompanied by a boy to hold the lamp, the members of the party filled a bob sled with clothing and robbed the till of $18. Upon the return of the proprietor the robbery was discovered and the sheriff was at once dispatched in pursuit of the thieves. They were overtaken near the gulch and all but one captured. The goods were still in their possession.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS

IT is said Mexican troops will prevent the Maher-Fitzsimmons fight at Jaurez.

ENGLAND is now claiming 3,000,000 acres of land opposite Prince of Wales Island, on the Pacific coast.

IT is now said Cecil Rhodes, ex-premier of Cape Colony, knew all about the proposed raid on the Transvaal.

IT is asserted at Washington that Turkey has admitted the justness of the claim of the United States for $200,000 for damage to property.

JOHN MORLEY, chief secretary for Ireland under Rosebery, says Salisbury blundered on the Monroe doctrine and that the Venezuelan question should be arbitrated.

IT is announced that Emperor William is firmly determined to carry out the project of doubling the German navy, and Bismarck endorses the plan of the emperor.

THE announcement comes from Vladivostock, Russia, that the British squadron in the Pacific is being augmented, while at the same time the Japanese fleet is being added to.

THE democratic national convention at Chicago will be held in the Coliseum and the republican convention at St. Louis will meet in the exposition hall. Each will seat 15,000 persons.

AN old map published in England in 1794 and giving the limits of British Guiana about as Venezuela claims they should be, has been found in the archives of Coro, the oldest city of Venezuela.

SALISBURY is said to have disappointed his warmest friends, especially in his exposure of the weakness of Great Britain in the east, and in his explanations of his reasons for not interfering in behalf of the Armenians.

THE Transvaal government, fearing further disturbances, has issued a warning that the government will inflict the severest penalties of the law upon those who attempt to interrupt the peaceful development of mining.

HON. THEODORE RUNYON, ambassador of the United States to Germany, died very suddenly in Berlin on the 27th. Although he had been slightly indisposed for some time past, it was not thought that his illness was at all serious.

IT is said that Acting Captain General Marin will make strenuous efforts to deal a crushing blow to the Cuban insurgents before the arrival of Gen. Weyler. He believes the Cubans are ill prepared for an encounter with the troops.

JUDGE PAYNE, of Chicago, charged that if a murderer "could reach the ears of the county commissioners," who have the appointing of the grand juries, he could escape indictment. The board challenged him to present proof and he has made explicit charges.

ADVICES from Cuba state that Gen. Marin has left Havana with 1,700 cavalry, 2,000 infantry and many batteries and hopes to succeed in meeting the insurgents under Gomez and Maceo, who are now in Pinar del Rio. A wall of Spanish troops extending across the island from Havana south is relied upon to hold them back.

A DISPATCH says an explosion occurred in a colliery at Tylorstown, Wales, by which probably fifty persons lost their lives. About fifty-five persons were in the pit when the explosion occurred, but several escaped. The remainder are believed to be dead, killed either by the force of the explosion or by fire damp.

THE steamer Hawkins, having on board a large party of men and a quantity of arms and ammunition valued at $80,000, in charge of General Garcia and en route for Cuba to render aid to the insurgents, was wrecked off the western end of Long Island. The men were rescued shortly before the ship went down. The general unseaworthiness of the Hawkins is blamed for the disaster, although there was some talk that a traitor scuttled the ship.

IN a recent letter on the Armenian question, after referring to the "murderous wickedness of the sultan, his absolute victory over the powers, and their unparalleled disgrace and defeat," Mr. Gladstone says: "I cannot wholly abandon the hope that out of this darkness light will arise, but the matter rests with the Almighty, to whom surely all should address fervent prayers in behalf of his suffering creatures."

THE American board has received a cablegram saying that the Turkish government had refused permission for Rev. H. S. Barnum, the editor of a missionary paper, to go to Erzeroum to engage in relief work among the Armenians on the ground that the missionaries are proven disturbers. The dispatch adds that Minister Terrell denounces the charges as calumny and Secretary Smith of the American board says that the charge against the missionaries of being disturbers is an insult.

They Split.

"I hear," said Slogo, "that the politicians up your way organized a regiment to go to Venezuela—"

Filway—Did! Got 700 men the first meeting.

"Organize?"

"Naw. All split up over electing officers."

"All wanted to be colonel?"

"All! Couldn't get a man to touch it—"

"Why, what do you mean?"

"A hundred and seventy-five wanted to be sutler, and 525 were devil-bent on being quartermaster. Wouldn't a man give in, so we quit."

They Are Showy.

Two women were buying a hat. Said one of them in despair: "I do wish I could get something to wear on my head that would be showy and not cost a fortune."

"Get a few gray hairs," suggested the other woman. "They are the most showy things I know of. They stand farther out and can be seen at a greater distance off than anything you can purchase by way of ornament. Just ask anybody who has a few and tries to hide them."

Laureate Austin is said to be amazed and discouraged by the unfavorable comments upon his first official poem.

OMAHA'S CORRUPTION.

OMAHA, Neb., February 2.—The matter of ex-City Treasurer Bolln's defalcation has taken a sensational turn. Bolln was re-arrested on the charge of embezzling $105,000 and simultaneously it was discovered that his bond for $300,000 as treasurer of the school board was missing. Comptroller Westberg says he has made a search of the records and files in his office, that he has been unable to find the bond or any trace of it. There is a huge mass of old papers in the office, and he is now going to institute a search among them for the missing security. Secretary Gillen recollected that he went to Comptroller Olson to get an official bond to use for his own bond, and the comptroller brought out two bonds, one of which was his successor's and the other Bolln's.

POISONER PARDONED.

PITTSBURG, February 2.—Hugh Dempsey, ex-district master workman, Knights of Labor, sentenced to the penitentiary three years ago for complicity in poisoning the non-union men at the Homestead steel works after the great strike of 1892, has been pardoned and released. The Commercial Gazette, in this connection, publishes the story that nearly fifty persons died from the effects of the alleged poisoning at Homestead. The names, dates of death and attending physicians, collected for the commonwealth and filed with the board of pardons in 1895, were used in behalf of the commonwealth in the argument against Dempsey's release. The board kept them from the public.

EXPLOSION KILLS MANY.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., February 1.—A boiler exploded in a mill of the Hollidaysburg Iron and Nail Company. Five persons were killed and twenty injured. The boiler was blown through the roof 300 feet in the air, came down like a spent rocket and crashed through the roof of another part of the works. The shock caused the earth in the vicinity to rock like an earthquake. Windows were broken a quarter of a mile away. All local physicians were called to the works as a hospital corps for the care of the wounded. Frantic women and children rushed to the scene looking for husbands and fathers. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

SOPHS EXPELLED.

OTTAWA, Kan., February 1.—Twenty-one members of the sophomore class of the Ottawa university have been expelled by the authorities for defying the faculty by giving a dinner to the female members of the class at a city restaurant after 10:30 o'clock p. m. The authorities only insisted that the feast should be given at an earlier hour. The class was brought before the president and all the students were asked to sign a statement regretting their disobedience of the order. All the young women, who were in tears, and two of the youths promptly complied, but the twenty-one remained obdurate.

NEGROES DESPERATE.

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., February 1.—Over 800 negroes met at Elkhorn and discussed the lynching of Alexander Jones. Resolutions were adopted, and a committee appointed to confer with the county officials for the purpose of prosecuting members of the mob. The negroes' meeting lasted over six hours, and had it not been for the leaders, a mob would have been organized to avenge Jones' death. If the county officials refuse to prosecute the mob, serious trouble, it is feared, cannot be averted.

Admits His Guilt.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., February 1.—George Krout, the Wells-Fargo express agent, has confessed that he stole the express package containing $35,000, for the theft of which he was arrested, but he claims that his father, who is also a prisoner had nothing to do with the robbery. The son has been taken by the detectives to Illinois, where his father lives, probably for the purpose of recovering the balance of the stolen property.

Wants No Written Engagement.

London, Feb. 1.—The Constantinople correspondent of the Times telegraphs to that paper as follows: "It is reported that the Russian dragoman who frequents the palace daily has submitted a draft of the Russo-Turkish entente. The Sultan was displeased with this, and said that between such friends as himself and the Czar written engagements were superfluous."

Will Meet March 24.

Dallas, Texas, Feb. 1.—The state republican executive committee selected Austin as the place and March 24 as the date for holding the state convention to select four delegates-at-large and alternates to the national convention at St. Louis. Not until after the St. Louis convention is held will the convention nominating a state ticket be held.

Iowa College President Ill.

Grinnell, Iowa, Jan. 28.—Ex-President George F. Magoun of the Iowa college is very ill at his home in this city and is expected to live but a short time. He was the first president of Iowa college and served for twenty years. He is a member of the American board and is well known in religious and college circles east and west.

Cause for Thanks.

The indignant father raged and stormed over the dinner table.

Little Mable cried out that she did not like the meat.

"Why, you ought to give thanks," cried the outraged pater. "When I was a boy I delighted in crusts and never used sugar."

The little one thought a moment.

"How thankful you must be that you are living with mamma and me," she lisped.

His Mother—You see, your grandpa is very sick. Say something to him.

The Son—Grandpa, would you like to have soldiers at your funeral?

Princess Helena of England (Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein) is writing a book of etiquette for women in good society.

James Whitcomb Riley, the Hoosier poet, recently visited Greenfield, Ind., his home town, and was given a rousing reception by the citizens, the city band helping to make his visit pleasant.

The Rev. Minot J. Savage has been invited to deliver the essay before the British and Foreign Association in London next June, an honor never before bestowed upon an American. He has also been elected president of the Council of the National Unitarian Conference.

IN THE LEGISLATURE

SENATE.

DES MOINES, January 28.—Numerous petitions were presented, asking that age of consent be raised; against manufacture and in favor of resubmission; for protection of fish and game; for separation of adult and juvenile prisoners, etc. Among bills introduced were these: To provide for systematic investigation by skilled veterinary practictioners of all dairy herds; creating and establishing appellate courts and defining the power and jurisdiction thereof. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

A resolution asking congress to pass bill now before it granting special pensions to soldiers who suffered in confederate prisons, passed. Numerous petitions were presented. Doubleday of Polk presented the joint resolution providing for resubmission of the prohibitory amendment. It was advanced to the second reading and referred to the committee on constitutional amendments. Resolution urging members of congress to appropriate funds for reconstruction and repair of Muscatine Island levees, was referred to committee on federal relations. Senate resolution relative to Armenia was adopted.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, January 29.—These bills, among others, were introduced: To appropriate money for site for hospital for the insane at Cherokee; to appropriate for construction of same; to promote efficiency of free public libraries; relating to peddlers' license. A resolution by the house relative to officers, sailors and marines' special pension on account of confinement in southern prisons, was read and the senate concurred. Senator Lathrop presented report of committee to visit soldiers' home. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

After presentation of petitions introduction of bills was preceded with and these among others were presented: Providing for manufacturing and regulating sale and transporation of intoxicating liquors; defining beneficiary associations; to prevent adulteration of candy; providing for removal of dam at Bonaparte; providing for regulation of primaries and punishment of fraud at elections; to establish building and loan associations and regulate same; to authorize school districts to establish industrial training departments; to make February 22 a legal holiday; to protect song and game birds; providing for erection of hospital for insane at Cherokee and providing for purchase of a site for same; an anti-cigarette bill; to suppress intemperance and lying; for punishment of persons inflicting disease upon other persons by inoculation; to authorize manufacture of liquor. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, January 30.—Among bills introduced were the following: By Byers, to reimburse John L. Brown, ex-auditor of state, for money expended by him in defending his office in 1885-1886; by Carney, appropriating money for Soldiers' Home at Marshalltown; by Ellis, to require United States flag to be erected on all public school buildings in Iowa; by Hurst, for relief of honorably discharged soldiers and sailors. Carpenter offered a joint resolution to provide for construction of a levee on the Mississippi river to improve navigation. Waterman offered a concurrent resolution prohibiting the placing of medalions or likenesses of any living or dead persons on monument. Kilburn offered a joint resolution relating to an amendment regarding suffrage. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Among bills introduced were the following: By Classen, to provide a second judge for the Seventeenth district; by Davis, to punish persons guilty of furnishing libelous matter to newspapers and periodicals; by Evans, for the creation of liens upon exempt personal property; by Griswold, to appropriate for the hospital of the insane at Independence; by Huntley, to reimburse ex-Auditor Brown; by Klemme, for the suppression of wild mustard; by Lambert, for punishment of crime on prima facie evidence; McAchran, for the protection of sheep and horse raising; by McNulty, to allow manufacture, sale and shipment of spirituous liquors; by Morrison of Keokuk, to amend code relative to printing and distributing of ballots at public expense; also to compel all railroads to carry passengers; by Tibbitts, to amend code relative to assessment of property; also the tax license by peddlers; by Wheeler, to amend code relative to redemption from sheriff's sale; by Finch, to amend code relative to extermination of Russian thistles. Adjourned.

JOINT CAUCUS.

A joint caucus of republicans was held immediately following the adjournment and February 12 agreed upon for the holding of the republican caucus to nominate trustees of the state institutions, regents of the state university, and to ratify the selections made by the district caucuses.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, January 31.—After presentation of several petitions, these bills, among others, were introduced: By Bell, to fix and regulate the liability of insurers in case of loss; by Harvey, to provide for supervision of state institutions and reports to the general assembly thereon; by Erickson, to prevent spread of disease among swine; by Penrose, to punish crime of desertion. The committee on public health reported bill to prohibit manufacture and sale of cigarettes. The bill came up and report was adopted. An amendment making minimum fine $10 passed. Ellis and Harper bitterly opposed the bill. Phelps said his bill passed last session, was ineffectual and this bill would stop the sale. Berry supported the bill, Ellison offered an amendment to make the bill applicable only to minors. The afternoon was devoted to memorials to the late Senators Baldwin of Dubuque and Rea of Grundy.

HOUSE.

An amended report of committee on rules was laid over. A resolution asking treasurer of state as to condition of state's finances was also laid over. Resolution asking attorney general for an opinion whether mortgages on Iowa land held by parties outside the state are subject to taxation, was adopted. Among bills introduced were these: By Funk, constitutional amendment relative to woman's suffrage; by Gurley, to permit bicyclists to use highways; by Hendershott, to provide for examination of all county officers; by McArthur, to legalize assessments of tax for park purposes in cities of first class; by McDowell, to prohibit telephone companies from charging extra for messages sent across county lines; by Martin, to pay claim of Scott county against state of Iowa for keeping of insane persons having no known residence; by Parker, to amend ballot law; by Spaulding, to provide cheaper and uniform school books; by Temple, to amend relative to state library and the extension of the use thereof; by Whittier, to amend relative to compensation of physicians and midwives. Senate bill to prevent fishing through ice or with more than two poles and lines, passed. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 1.—Numerous petitions were presented and the following bills were introduced: By Funk, to provide for the taxation of express companies; by Garst, to provide for primary elections and punish fraud therein; by Hipwell, for payment of claim of Scott county for care of insane having no known residence; by Hipwell, to authorize manufacture and sale of spirituous, malt and vinous liquors; by Hurst, to authorize sale of intoxicating liquors in cities and towns by vote of people; by Young, appropriating for hospital for the insane at Independence; bill for protection of fish came from house and amendment was concurred in. Several reports from visiting committees were presented. Resolution to remove medallions, etc., of living or dead soldiers from soldiers' monument was made special order for 10:30 a. m. Wednesday next. Consideration of Phelps anti-cigarette bill was then renewed and the Ellison amendment making it applicable to minors only was defeated. The bill then passed, 81 to 11. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

A resolution was offered by Hinkhouse concerning facts as to the case of Auditor Brown; laid over. Merriam's resolution regarding condition of treasury was adopted. A committee was ordered to prepare memorial to Captain Luke. Joint resolution to memorialize congress on speculation was presented by Nolan. Crow offered a joint resolution to remove "Victory" from the soldiers' monument and place there instead a soldier's figure in full uniform, in position "present arms," with musket in hand. These bills were introduced: By Allen, to strike out days of grace on negotiable paper; by Brady, to fix rate of telegraph messages; by Doubledy, to repeal an act relative to levying of taxes on public roads; by Dowell, to appropriate for Benedict home; by Hendershot, to define and regulate rates of telegraph lines in Iowa; by Lambert, to authorize and regulate sale of intoxicating liquors in towns and cities; also to authorize the manufacture, sale and transportation of spirituous malt; by Wilson, to punish for misrepresentation of circulation of newspapers and periodicals. Adjourned.

HONOR RUNYON'S MEMORY.

Funeral Service at Berlin Attended by Distinguished Men.

Berlin, Jan. 31.—Memorial services were held yesterday at St. George's Chapel in honor of Theodore Runyon, late United States ambassador. All of the 300 seats of the sacred edifice were occupied by a distinguished congregation and the imposing-looking catafalque upon which the remains rested was buried under the floral offerings from the deceased statesman's admirers, including tributes of respect from Emperor William of Germany, the empress, ex-Empress Frederick, the German foreign office, members of the diplomatic corps, American colony and German friends of Mr. Runyon. In addition, there were handsome floral tributes from the staff of the American embassy and that of the United States consulate here. Rev. Dr. Dickie made the funeral address. It was a touching tribute to the Americanism and sterling virtues of the deceased.

At his birthday reception last Monday, when Mr. Jackson represented the United States, the emperor spoke feelingly of the death of Mr. Runyon and added a few words showing his appreciation of the deceased's ability and patriotism.

The American colony held a meeting to express sympathy with Mr. Runyon's family, and passed resolutions of condolence with them and of respect for the deceased.

A. P. A. LEADERS CONFER.

Annual Session of the Order Held at Rochester, N. Y.

New York, Feb. 1.—One thousand delegates to the superior council of the American Protective Association met in annual session last Tuesday and Wednesday in Rochester. The convention represented an actual voting strength in this state of 313,000, and in the nation of about 3,500,000. The business of the convention was conducted with such secrecy that nothing of the proceedings can be learned. The supreme council of the world, which will meet either in Chicago or Washington next May, will represent 9,000,000 of men, and women's auxiliaries with a membership of about 400,000.

The most important action taken is said to have been in reference to the coming presidential nominations. A political policy was formulated by the convention, the matter of candidates was discussed, and a line of action laid down regarding the questions of party platforms and issues.

William H. English Seriously Ill.

Indianapolis, Jan. 31.—William H. English is lying dangerously ill at his rooms at the English Hotel. A week ago Mr. English had an attack of the grip, which resulted in congestion of the mucous membrane of the air passages. This had become much better, when inflammatory rheumatism set in. Mr. English's physician reports his patient's temperature very high, and these complications, considering his time of life, are sufficient to make his condition serious.

Caused by Their Own Neglect.

South Charleston, O., Jan. 31.—At the coroner's inquest on the bodies of Engineer Clark Trimble and Fireman George Walters, who were killed in the recent explosion of a locomotive engine near here on the Pennsylvania railroad, it was conclusively shown that the explosion was caused by their own neglect in letting the water in the boiler get too low.

Democratic Campaign Committee.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The Democratic members of the house held a caucus Thursday for the purpose of perfecting the organization of the congressional campaign committee. It was decided to appoint one member of the committee from each state which has a Democratic representative in the house. This committee will act with the senate committee, forming one organization, like the Democratic congressional committee of the last congress. It is predicted that Senator Faulkner of West Virginia will be elected chairman of the committee.

Palmer-Dixon Fight a Draw.

New York, Feb. 1.—The bout Thursday between George Dixon, featherweight champion of the world, and Pedlar Palmer, the English bantam champion, was declared a draw at the end of the sixth round. The majority of those present did not agree with the referee, and said that Palmer should have had the decision on points. Dixon was unable to get to the new-comer, but it is more than probable that in a fight to a finish the colored champion would win.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, January 27.—In the senate to-day the credentials of Frank J. Cannon and Arthur Brown as senators-elect from the new state of Utah were presented, read and placed on file and the new senators took and subscribed the oath of office. They make the whole number of senators now in office 89, there being still a vacancy from the state of Delaware. Joint resolution directing secretary of agriculture to carry into effect the provisions of the act relative to the distribution of seeds was discussed, but without action. Bond bill came up and Nelson of Minnesota made his first speech in the senate, opposing the silver substitute. Bacon of Georgia followed, also delivering his first speech, advocating the silver substitute. Lodge offered an amendment to the silver substitute providing for an issue of $100,000,000 3 per cent bonds for coast defense purposes. Executive session; adjourned.

HOUSE.

The house, after an interesting four-hour debate, adopted the resolution passed by the the senate last week calling on the powers signatory to the treaty of Berlin, to enforce the reforms in Turkey guaranteed to the Christian Armenians. Hepburn of Iowa wanted to go further and made a speech which elicited the applause of those favorable to stronger action.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, January 28.—Call's resolution for an investigation of the arrest of Eugene Debs came up and was discussed, but finally went over to allow Thurston to address the senate on the Monroe doctrine. He vigorously upheld a strong application of the doctrine and was at times strongly applauded for the patriotic ring of his sentiments. Turpie said the recent resolution should be followed by "shot which would crash through the sultan's seraglio." Bond bill came up and Clark of Wyoming and Vorhees of Indiana advocated the silver substitute.

HOUSE.

Diplomatic and consular appropriations bill came up and after a short debate it was passed. It appropriates about $100,000 in excess of the one for the current year. Out of respect for the memory of the late Representative Hadley the house adjourned.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, January 29.—Morgan reported the following resolution:

Resolved, by the senate, (the house of representatives concurring), That the present deplorable war in the island of Cuba has reached a magnitude that concerns all civilized nations to the extent that it should be conducted, if unhappily it is longer to continue, on those principles and laws of warfare that are acknowledged to be obligatory on civilized nations when engaged in open hostilities, including the treatment of captives who are enlisted in either army; due respect to cartels for exchange of prisoners and for other military purposes; truces and flags of truce; the provision of proper hospitals and hospital supplies and services to the sick and wounded of either army; be it further

Resolved, That this representation of the view and opinion of congress be sent to the president, and if he concurs therein that he will, in a friendly spirit, use the good offices of this government to the end that Spain shall be requested to accord the armies with which it is engaged in war the rights of belligerents as the same are recognized under the laws of nations.

Mr. Cameron (rep.) of Pennsylvania presented a minority report closing with a resolution that "the president is hereby requested to interpose his friendly offices with the Spanish government for the recognition of the independence of Cuba." The resolution was placed on the calendar. Bond bill came up and Senator Tillman of South Carolina took the floor in advocacy of the silver substitute. His speech in denunciation of the president and Secretary Carlisle is said to have been one of the most bitter ever heard in the upper house. Call also supported the substitute. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Nothing of importance was done in the house to-day.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, January 30.—Silver substitute came up, and Call, Mitchell, Perkins made addresses. The urgency deficiency bill was under consideration part of the day, but no action was taken.

HOUSE.

Little of importance was done.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, January 30.—Vilas made a strong argument against the silver bond bill. Harris asked that a vote be taken on the bill to-morrow at 2 p. m., and after a brief debate this arrangement was agreed to. Bates favored the silver substitute, as also did Pasco.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, February 1.—After sharp debate voting on amendments to bond silver substitute began. Allen's amendment forbidding bond issues was defeated. Morrill's amendment as to seignorage was defeated. A motion to table the substitute was defeated, 34 to 43. The free silver substitute was then reported from the committee of the whole to the senate and it was passed, 42 to 35. Senate went into executive session on the nomination of Col. Coppinger to be brigadier general and confirmed it.

The bill passed to-day by the senate as the substitute for the house bond bill provides that from the date of the act the mints of the United States shall be open to the coinage of silver and the dollar shall be of the present weight and fineness, and also provides for the certificates. It further provides for the coinage of the seignorage now in the treasury and authorizes immediate issue of certificates upon the same in advance of it being coined. One section of the bill brovides that no bank note of less than $10 shall hereafter be issued and those outstanding of less amount shall be taken up and cancelled as rapidly as possible. Section 4 provides that the greenbacks and treasury notes shall be redeemed in standard silver dollars or in gold coin at the option of the treasury, and the greenbacks when so redeemed shall be immediately reissued.

HOUSE.

House spent the day in committee of the whole on the District of Columbia appropriation bill.

Serious Fire at Dayton, Ohio.

Dayton, Ohio, Jan. 31.—Last night fire damaged the Troup Manufacturing, Printing and Binding plant to the extent of $20,000. Loss principally on paper stock, type ruling and printing machines and bindery.

Gen. Joseph Porter Dead.

New York, Jan. 29.—General Joseph H. Porter died at the Grand hotel at 9:30 o'clock last night. His death was due to heart failure, superinduced by wounds received during the civil war. He was 54 years old.

Mexico Bars the Prize Fights.

City of Mexico, Jan. 31.—Secretary of the Interior Gozio has wired the state government of Chihuahua that no prize fight must be allowed at Juarez. Five hundred rurales (rural troops) will be sent there to prevent the fight.

Chairman Dickie Retires.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 31.—Samuel Dickie of Albion has announced that he will refuse to serve longer than through this year's convention as chairman of the Prohibition national committee. He has been chairman for five years.

HINTS FRESH FROM PARIS.

Straps are repeated in materials of all kinds.

The bib front is exceedingly stylish; it may be expressed in silk, wool or velvet.

Moliere cravets, Robespierre jabots and any number of fancy neck trimmings are in evidence.

Shirring is greatly used, the fullness on the shoulders of waists and at the tops of sleeves being so treated.

Sleeves exhibit quite a variety of trimming. Slashes, through which appear puffs of a different color; bands studded with buttons, Vandyke points edged with lace, all are pleasing in their endless variety. Cuffs play an important role.

Very magnificent are the tight-fitting Louis coats with full fluted basques; the splendid flower damasks and jardiniere velvets show off to advantage in this style of garment, which is eminently adapted for carriage and reception wear.

The Marie Antoinette skirt is new, but it is not adapted for all figures; it is shirred or plaited on the hips and flares widely at the foot; sometimes an ungored front breadth of a different material is introduced, shaped to the figure by scanty gathers.

A Canal Choked Up

Is practically useless. The human organism is provided with a canal which sometimes becomes choked up, namely, the bowels, through which much of the effete and waste matter of the system escapes. When they are obstructed—constipated, in other words—Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will relieve them effectually, but without pain, and institute a regular habit of body. This medicine also remedies malarial, bilious, dyspeptic, rheumatic, nervous and kidney troubles and strengthens the entire system.

The Bonds and the

The syndicate will not be by not getting the bonds arrangement, so long as it

Men

Is what gives Hood's Sarsaparilla its ularity, increasing sales and wonde The combination, proportion preparing Hood's Sarsaparilla to other medicines, and make it itself. It acts directly and positiv blood, and as the blood reaches and corner of the human system nerves, muscles, bones and tissues der the beneficent influence of

Hood's Sarsaparilla

The One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

SEE THAT GERM --LIVE-- SEEDS FROM GROWER TO PLANTER

New and Wonderful Varieties sold at lowest growing prices. I give you middleman's profit and Seeds that Grow. Novelty Presents free with orders. My New Seed and Plant Book FREE. Write now before they are gone.

H. W. BUCKBEE,
Rockford Seed Farms,
P. O. Box 606. ROCKFORD, ILLS.

THE AERMOTOR CO. does half the world's windmill business, because it has reduced the cost of wind power to 1/3 what it was. It has many branch houses, and supplies its goods and repairs at your door. It can and does furnish a better article for less money than others. It makes Pumping and Geared, Steel, Galvanized after-Completion Windmills, Tilting and Fixed Steel Towers, Steel Buzz Saw Frames, Steel Feed Cutters and Feed Grinders. On application it will name one of these articles that it will furnish until January 1st at 1/3 the usual price. It also makes Tanks and Pumps of all kinds. Send for catalogue. Factory: 12th, Rockwell and Fillmore Streets, Chicago.

SMOKE YOUR MEAT WITH KRAUSERS LIQUID EXTRACT OF SMOKE. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. E. KRAUSER & BRO. MILTON, PA.

IF YOU HAVE STOCK TO SHIP,

Write us for market reports. We send journals at our expense. Fill orders for stock cattle and feeders.
CLARK BOWLES & CO.,
163 Exchange Bldg., Chicago.
Refer, by permission, Drovers National Bank.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS Washington, D. C.
Successfully Prosecutes Claims.
Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau.
3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

HOW to become Law ful Physician; scourse by mail. Write Ill. Health University, Chicago.

DO YOU KNOW . . .
That the finest vegetables in the world are grown from Salzer's seeds? Why? Because they are Northern-grown, bred to earliness, and sprout quickly, grow rapidly and produce enormously!
35 Packages Earliest Vegetable Seeds, $1.

POTATOES IN 28 DAYS!
Just think of that! You can have them by planting Salzer's seed. Try it this year!

LOOK AT THESE YIELDS IN IOWA.

Silver Mine Oats,	197 bu. per acre.
Silver King Barley,	95 bu. per acre.
Prolific Spring Rye,	60 bu. per acre.
Marvel Spring Wheat,	40 bu. per acre.
Giant Spurry,	8 tons per acre.
Giant Incarnat Clover,	4 tons hay per acre.
Potatoes,	500 to 1,100 bu. per acre.

Now, above yields Iowa farmers have had. A full list of farmers from your and adjoining states, doing equally well, is published in our catalogue.

CLOVER SEED.
Enormous stocks of clover, timothy and grass seeds, grown especially for seed. Ah, it's fine! Highest quality, lowest prices!

IF YOU WILL CUT THIS OUT AND SEND IT
With 12c. in stamps, you will get our big catalogue and a sample of Pumpkin Yellow Watermelon sensation. Catalogue alone, 5c., tells how to get that potato.

JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO.,
LA CROSSE, WIS. W N

HIGH PRICE FOR POTATOES.

The John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., pay high prices for new things. They recently paid $300 for a yellow rind watermelon, $1,000 for 30 bu. new oats, $300 for 100 lbs. of potatoes, etc., etc.! Well, prices for potatoes will be high next fall. Plant a plenty, Mr. Wideawake! You'll make money. Salzer's Earliest are fit to eat in 28 days after planting. His Champion of the World is the greatest yielder on earth and we challenge you to produce its equal.

If you will send 14 cents in stamps to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will get, free, ten packages grains and grasses, including Teosinte, Spurry, Giant Incarnate Clover, etc., and our mammoth catalogue. Catalogue 5c. for mailing. w.n.

"Half the ills the flesh is heir to,
Wouldn't really be so bad
If we didn't always thereto
Add the ills it never had."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally, in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists; 75c.

Family Pills, 25c.

...mileage of electric roads in ...does not exceed forty.

...oracasters.

...e are so influenced by the ...rents of the atmosphere ...n foretell the coming of a ...m with perfect accuracy, ... there are with nerves so ...t they are sure of having ...om a low and fretful state ...rvous system. Now, why can't ...r be warned in time and know ... ounce of prevention is worth a ...f cure? To use St. Jacob's Oil ...y will ward off an attack, or if ... will promptly cure. Such ... can do for themselves what ...lo from weather prophecies, ...le signals and save the wreck ...isaster.

...ailway laborers in Holland average from 30 cents to 70 cents a day.

The D. V. Sholes Investment & Mining Co., of Cripple Creek, Col., can furnish you strictly reliable information concerning mining properties in the Cripple Creek district. We always have options on some choice properties that are bargains and handle no others. Local and eastern bank references given on application. Correspondence solicited.

Every president, it is said, with the single exception of William H. Harrison, has had blue eyes.

Comfort to California.

Yes and economy, too, if you patronize the Burlington Route's Personally Conducted once-a-week excursions which leave Omaha every Thursday morning.

Through tourist sleepers Omaha to San Francisco and Los Angeles. Second-class tickets accepted.

See the local agent and arrange about tickets and berths. Or, write to

J. FRANCIS,
G. P. & T. A., Omaha, Neb.

A woman of Bowling Green, Ky., with a family of twenty-one children, is suing her husband for a divorce.

"HISTORY OF CRIPPLE CREEK."

We have just issued in book form the only authentic and reliable history of Cripple Creek gold camp, the marvel of the mining world. The book contains numerous full-page illustrations of gold mines true to life. With the sole object of introducing our big 8 page 56 column illustrated weekly paper (established 1890) we will send a copy of the above interesting book free to all who send us 25c. (stamps or silver) for a 3 months (13 weeks) trial subscription to our big weekly, which contains the latest mining news and illustrations of Rocky mountain scenery. Club of 5 and 5 books $1. Mention our paper and address, Illustrated Weekly, Denver, Col.

Not in His Time.

"Doctor, I work like an ox, eat like a bear and am tired as a dog."

"Consult a veterinary surgeon."

Eyes that are far apart are said by physiognomists to indicate great intelligence and tenacious memory.

One million two hundred and eighty-six thousand eight hundred and sixty-three persons visited the Atlanta Exposition.

do you eat iron

Some persons are always taking iron. If weak and easily exhausted; pale and without appetite; if the nervous system is weak, and sleep difficult, what do you take? Iron? But iron cannot supply food to the tissues; nor does it have any power to change the activity of unhealthy organs and bring them back to health. Cod-liver oil is what you need. The oil feeds the poorly-nourished tissues, and makes rich blood. Iodine, bromine, and other ingredients, which form part of the oil, have special power to alter unhealthy action.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is the most palatable way to take cod-liver oil. The hypophosphites supply healthy nerve action, which controls all the processes of life.

50c. and $1.00 at all druggists.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

CHAPTER VI.—(CONTINUED.)

The ladies of Smyrna smoke in a bewitching way all their own, at the same time nibbling comfitures and chattering, like a whole nestful of Bengalis, in the melodious Ionian tongue. Custom permits any passer-by to enter these inviting interiors. Everybody in Smyrna knows everybody, at least by sight. Strangers must, of course, be introduced by a friend of the family, but the presentations are most informal, and all who come are made welcome. One of the young ladies (and these families are usually blessed with many Graces) offers a cigarette to the visitor. He seats himself beside her. They smoke, they chat, and get very well acquainted in a few minutes.

How many unknown strangers have passed thus! We must add, how many have returned!

Our young diplomat was one of the latter. Although already familiar with the hospitable ways of these Grecian beauties, he had promised himself that day that he would satisfy his curiosity thoroughly; that he would visit the whole attractive quarter, and feast his eyes on this galaxy of beauty and grace, acknowledged to be the most fascinating women in the world. Man proposes . . . He had been engaged but a short time in his charming studies, when he stopped suddenly, as if nailed to the ground, fascinated by a bewitching pair of soft dark eyes, with a golden light in them, such as he had never seen before. With the coquetry of a Smyrniote, the owner of the lovely eyes rose to meet him, and with a gesture of exquisite grace motioned him to a seat beside her. Then she rolled a cigarette and offered it to him. The conquest was complete. Four weeks from this meeting the young consul led Miss Annig Mouradian to the altar. The bride was only sixteen, a Roman Catholic, penniless, but acknowledged to be the most beautiful girl in this country, where the names of Aphrodite, Erycine, Astarte, Cypris, do not make one smile, they are so appropriate.

Much appreciated at the Department of foreign affairs, Monsieur de Sorgnes easily obtained a leave of absence and took his young bride to Paris, where she was at once pronounced a goddess of beauty and grace. Let no one imagine that the role of husband of a goddess—above all, of an Ionian goddess—is an easy one. The consul was soon convinced that his lovely companion was not at all disposed to bend her mind to the dry and perplexing rules of arithmetic. The beautiful Annig thought only of gratifying her fancies, and they were many and very costly. It is true, she continued to roll cigarettes for her husband and his friends, but she never condescended to vex her brain with the thousand-and-one details which go to make up a well-ordered home. At Smyrna, before her marriage, she rose at a late hour, made an elaborate toilet, ate candy, took her siesta, made or received visits, and went to mass on Sunday. What else made up her life? She sometimes displayed her elegant toilets at the Jardin —the Champs-Elysees of Symrna.

Monsieur de Sorgnes knew the Orient and oriental women too well to undertake any useless struggle with his indolent young wife. He was of the number of those noble souls who accept, courageously, the consequences of their own acts. Possessing a small fortune, which he had inherited from his father, he taxed all his financial ability to invest it so that it might give the largest returns. Rash and venturesome as he was in his speculations, like all who are in haste to grow rich, fortune had, so far, favored him, and at the time of his marriage the consulate at Tripoli was maintained on a grand scale. An accomplished diplomatist, his talents were appreciated by the home government, and five years after his marriage he was appointed Consul-general of France at Smyrna.

Years rolled away without any apparent change in the brilliant life of the beautiful Annig. Time had respected this masterpiece of creation, and, in her role of goddess, she might well have believed in some privilege of immutability, if she had not seen her two children growing up beside her, and her handsome young husband being gradually transformed into a care-worn old man. She remained the petted idol of her family, and of the brilliant society in which she reigned—a queen. From the day of her arrival in what seemed, to her, fairly-land, Tiomane had, like every one else, come under the fascination of her beautiful protectress. By an exception to the ordinary rule the young girls were permitted to dine with the family, in the grand banquet hall, on the first evening after their arrival.

Annig, delighted to find herself again in her own country, was attired in the graceful national costume, now unfortunately abandoned. A skirt of soft white silk, embroidered in gold; a vest of pale blue velvet, with gold passementerie; a corsage of white silk, with flowing sleeves, disclosing the exquisitely rounded arms; a little cap of red velvet, covered with gold and pearls, with the gold tassel falling on the ivory shoulder. In this rich dress she appeared like a princess of "The Thousand-and-One Nights," in the immense hall whose walls were almost covered with rare faience from Damascus, whose magnificent doors had been carried off from a mosque of Libanus, with its great bay windows filled with camelias and other rare plants, among which, inclosed in cages of glass so thin as to be invisible, birds of exquiste plumage, from China and Japan, flew about, apparently at liberty.

The love of M. de Sorgnes for his radiant young wife was that of a father for a spoiled child. His attentions were given and received as a matter of course. The one had assumed all the cares and responsibilities of their life, the other thought it quite natural that she should have only the roses, not one of the thorns.

Maritza, following the example of her petted mamma, had copied her supreme indolence with a certain grace. Standing behind her chair at table, Elli anticipated her slightest wish, for oriental women rarely give themselves the pleasure of formulating a wish. The little girls were also allowed to come this once into the drawing-room after dinner. The consul received almost every evening, the lovely Annig confining her duties as hostess to breathing the incense which was burned at her dainty feet by her many adorers.

CHAPTER VII.

IN THE EARLY days of her brilliant life in Smyrna, Tiomane could not but notice a growing coldness on the part of her benefactress. Her good little heart, so warmly attached to this radiant being, to whom she owed so much, felt a real grief at the change, for the poor little one did not know to what to attribute it. The reason was very simple—the plaything, having lost its novelty, had lost its charm.

Fortunately for Tiomane, M. de Sorgnes was not so fickle as his self-indulgent young wife, and, as he directed his diplomatic and financial affairs, his home, his wife's pleasures, the education of his children, he took upon himself also the care of the little peasant girl so providentially intru ted to him.

He committed her to the hands of Mademoiselle Pascale; for, he reasoned, since Madame de Sorgnes had so decided, it was proper that Tiomane should share in all the educational advantages which Maritza enjoyed. At the proper age she would no doubt marry, and he would provide her with a suitable marriage portion. Like every one else, the consul was under the influence of "Mademoiselle," and he testified substantially his gratitude to this intelligent and active auxiliary, who did so much to lighten his cares. At Smyrna, as in Paris, "Mademoiselle" paid all the bills, wrote all the letters, was the bearer of her mistress' orders to her army of servants—in short, attended to all the details of his luxurious household.

Emmeline Pascale was one of those women who know how to devote themselves, heart and soul, to anything useful . . . to their own interests. She had attained the dual aim of her life—to enrich herself and to govern. Royally paid, loaded with rich gifts, she literally governed the house. And this glorious reign had lasted six years at the time our story opens.

It was then to this absolute authority that our young heroine was intrusted. The pupils and the teacher had fine apartments in the palace, for "Mademoiselle" took good care of her own comfort.

Besides her sleeping-room, her dressing-room, her bath-room, she had her own drawing-room, with a well-chosen library and a magnificent piano. The little girls had each her own sleeping-room, with a class-room and play-room in common. Elli and another Syrian servant were their maids.

"Mademoiselle," who was precise and methodical to a fault, soon traced out the daily routine of their lives. In the morning, two hours devoted to study. At noon, breakfast with the family—with the addition sometimes of a guest who was almost one of the family, the chancellor of the consulate, M. de Riez, an old bachelor and a devoted friend of M. de Sorgnes, who lived in the portion of the palace devoted to the business offices. This was the happiest hour in the day for Tiomane, who still adored her benefactress, and was beside herself with joy if the beautiful fairy gave her a word, a smile, even a look. The siesta followed this meal, then more study. At 4 o'clock the little students were free.

This world is a vast system of compensations; from the top to the bottom of the ladder, there are reprisals.

Quite incapable, young as she was, of understanding the causes, poor Tiomane suffered the effects. She felt herself despised and detested by the servants, who did not spare her many an insult. Even Elli, who had not a bad heart, tried to insinuate herself into "Mademoiselle's" good graces by her rough treatment of "the little donkey-driver," as she took the liberty of calling her. Indeed, in the part of the palace where "Mademoiselle" reigned supreme, Tiomane was treated as a servant. Elli loaded her with menial work, while "Mademoiselle," during study hours, did not hesitate to interrupt her, on the most frivolous pretenses, and Maritza, following the bad example of her seniors, considered her merely a little slave, created to minister to her caprices.

The little girls always dined alone in a room adjoining the class-room. Mademoiselle Pascale presided at dinner. To Tiomane this meal was an agony. At breakfast, in the presence of Monsieur and Madame de Sorgnes, the governess, much too politic to show her malice to her kind-hearted employers, confined herself to an affected indifference, not failing, however, to make the many mistakes of the little peasant girl as conspicuous as possible; but in the evening she vented all her spleen on her defenseless pupil. Whatever she did, Tiomane received the most severe rebukes; her silence was hypocrisy, and when she spoke, it was only to utter an absurdity. Added to this, the amiable Frenchwoman never wearied of ridiculing her pupil's personal appearance, her copper-colored skin, her retrousse upper lip, her provincial manners. Maritza, unintentionally cruel, laughed at these bitter thrusts, bitter and cutting as only a woman's can be. While Tiomane's heart swelled with indignation and sorrow, with that sentiment of strict justice peculiar to children unspoiled by the world, she recognized the truth of the reproaches launched at her ignorance, her awkwardness, and her accent, at the same time that she found it quite natural that she should take, in this opulent mansion, the place, and perform the menial offices, of a servant, just as she had done in the rude hovel of the fisherman in Picardy.

But there Pere Jean's harsh words were often softened by a kind look or smile from his wife, and, above all, by the caresses of the little children, who adored her. Here no one loved her. Her beautiful benefactress grew more and more indifferent, and the consul, though always just and even indulgent, frightened her—he was so grand.

Maritza, whom she could have loved as a sister, kept her at a distance by the imposing airs which she assumed and the wily governess took good care to allow no intimacy between her pupils. Even the visitors to the palace made the humble little stranger feel the marked inferiority of her condition, for they did not condescend to notice her at all, while Maritza was treated like a little queen.

Even the girls of her own age who came to visit the consul's daughter were either quite indifferent or openly insulting to one whom they considered immeasurably beneath them. And the lonely little girl thought sadly of the glad shouts of welcome which always greeted her appearance on the beach at Berck; the affection of her humble companions, as poor as herself; the atmosphere of love in which she had lived in the fisherman's hut, and, trained as she had been in the school of adversity, she compared the past with the present and regretted it. Happiness was in the past—in the poverty of the rude home she had left; the luxury of the consul's palace was dearly bought at the price of daily, hourly insults.

Nevertheless, childhood has in itself such a well spring of joy and hope, such happiness in mere existence, that this sad life was not without an occasional gleam of sunshine. Sometimes the little girls accompanied Madame de Sorgnes in her afternoon drive to the Jardin. Then the fairy godmother, delighted at having an opportunity of displaying her Parisian toilettes, was quite amiable, and Tiomane sometimes had an encouraging smile or a kind word, which made her happy for days. Sometimes, too, the consul's barge took the little girls, under the care of Kifos and Elli, for a sail on the enchanting bay. Tiomane had not lost her love of the sea, and, besides, the absence of her dreaded governess was such a relief. At other times, always under the care of the two Greek servants, [illegible] went to the Bezestein (the Tur[illegible] quarter), and how enjoyable were t[illegible] visits to the narrow streets, with th[illegible] picturesque bazaars filled with [illegible] richest productions of the orient. But what she enjoyed more than anything else was her walks in the spacious gardens of the consulate, for her vigorous nature delighted in exercise. While delicate, petted Maritza, following the example of her indolent mamma, was carried in a sedan chair, her robust companion enjoyed running about in the gardens under the orange trees. She particularly liked a summer-house —half Greek, half Italian in architecture—which stood in the middle of the grand avenue. Columns of pink marble sustained the roof, which formed a terrace, reached by a narrow, winding staircase, hidden under the tropical vines with which the graceful little structure was draped. When she was there alone, under the dazzling eastern sky, it seemed to her indeed that she had left the earth, with its littleness and its miseries, and was alone with God.

One morning when Tiomane entered the classroom at the study hour Maritza ran to her and kissed her affectionately on both cheeks. This unusual tenderness surprised and delighted the lonely little girl.

"It is a commission from Guillaume," said Maritza and she drew from the pocket of her dress a letter, written in a bold schoolboy hand.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

OUR LARGEST LOCOMOTIVES.

They Are Owned by the Southern Pacific Railway Company.

The Northern Pacific Company now owns the two largest locomotives in America. They arrived from the Shenectady Locomotive Works recently and will be put into service on the mountains immediately, says San Francisco Report. The dimensions of the two new locomotives are enormous. They are equipped with four pairs of drivers, fifty-one inches in diameter, on which there rests a weight of 140,000 pounds. The total weight of either one of the engines without the tender, loaded with fuel and water in working order, is 169,000 pounds, and the total weight with the tender, loaded with fuel and water in working order is 150,000 pounds. The boilers are seventytwo inches in diameter and large enough for a full-grown man to stand erect inside. The steam cylinders are twenty-two inches in diameter and give a twenty-six inch stroke. The locomotives are designed for service on the Tehachapi and Sierra Nevada Mountains in hauling heavy freight trains, and were constructed with that particular object in view. The two new engines have been built with special regard for both power and speed. The immense weight on the four pairs of drivers gives the locomotives a driving power greatly in excess of that possessed by any other locomotive ever made in the country. The drivers exceed the dimensions of those in large locomotives of the same class, and a proportionate increase of speed is expected to be developed from them. It is expected that the new engines will enable the company to increase the running time of its freight trains over the mountains, though no new time schedule will be put into effect until it is determined by actual experiment just what the locomotives can accomplish.

OLD SPANISH GRANTS.

California and Texas Will Try to Quiet Real Estate Titles.

It has been true for these many years that when a farm or a ranch has been bought in southern California or Texas the buyer bought also the chance of being obliged to pay for his purchase over again, says the Springfield Republican. Land titles down in that southwestern section of our country have not rested on the most solid foundations, for there never is any certainty that the heirs of the original settler, or the first holder of an ancient Spanish or Mexican land grant may not turn up with a demand to be put in possession of their ancestral acres. Many a man who has bought California or Texas lands on speculation, or for improvement and a home, has found claimants for his ranch springing up unexpectedly. Often in such cases his best way is to buy these claimants off and make his title as good as their quit claims are able to, but many expensive lawsuits follow instead. The Galveston News tells of one buyer of a ranch who has paid for it three times to persons whose claims rested on an old Spanish title. This sort of thing must stop, say these long-suffering Texans and Californians, and the legislatures of these states have taken the matter in hand. In California a constitutional amendment is pending which provides that the title in fee simple shall vest in the person who has held open and adverse possession of lands for five years and paid taxes on the same for the same period. and Texas will probably make a similar enactment.

About Thunderstorms.

The president of the French Meteorological society is of opinion that there are more thunderstorms in Europe than in the equatorial regions. They occur in some parts of France every day of the year, and in six or seven months of 1892 as many as 328 were counted. In Sumatra, where there are storms during the six months of the southeast monsoon, thunder is never heard; and Peru has only one or two thunderstorms in a century, that of 1873 having been the only one since 1830.

A study in oil: The attempt to get the sardine out whole.

YELLOW RIND, BLOOD RED FLESH!

A wonderful combination, a tremendous novelty, found only in Salzer's Golden Pumpkin Watermelon. It's marvelous. We paid $300 for one melon! You will want it, everybody wants it. 5 kernels 10c., 25 kernels 40c. 35 packages earliest vegetable seeds $1.00. Our new creations in oats yielding 201½ bu., barley 116 bu., potatoes 1,200 bus. per acre! Where will it end?

If you will cut this out and send with 12c. postage to John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will get free a package of above Salzer's Golden Pumpkin Watermelon seed and our 148 page seed catalogue free. Catalogue alone 5c. for mailing. w.n.

Words of Cheer.

It was getting late and he had been talking to her for several hours and she had shown very little interest. Finally he asked:

"Can't I say anything to cheer you up?"

"Suppose you say good-night."

The Worm Turns.

Miss Uptowne—He, he! Why is it that you baldheaded men like to sit in the front row?

Mr. Bouttown—Because there we have no Effiel tower hats in front of us.

A New Step in the Dance.

A Georgia preacher with lots of spine has done a unique thing. He went to a holiday dance and turned it into a prayer meeting in the midst of the festivities.

Morgan County, Colorado.

The irrigated farm is the only "sure thing" farm on the face of the earth. And the beauty of it is that it never wears out—never fails to yield double the average of non-irrigated sections. There are irrigated farms in New Mexico that have been tilled for 250 years which are today as good as new. In Arizona, the Pima Indians have for 400 years raised the biggest of big crops from their irrigated land. Along the Nile, in Egypt, are farms that are more than 4,000 years old and which produce larger and better yields than any other lands in the world.

One of the best illustrations of the advantages of irrigation is to be found in the irrigated district surrounding Fort Morgan, Colorado, where during the last ten years half a million dollars have been spent in the construction of a system of irrigating canals which has no superior anywhere. A stretch of country perhaps 30 miles long by 15 wide has been brought under cultivation and now presents an appearance that is almost ideal. Fields of alfalfa, wheat, oats and corn lend trilliancy to the broad plateau. Thousands of sleek cattle and countless flocks of sheep browse upon the nutritious grasses. Here and there an orchard bends beneath its luscious load. A more flourishing community does not exist. And the secret of it is irrigation and Cattle. The Morgan County farmer lives on and from his farm which never fails to yield double the average of non-irrigated sections, and he grows rich on cattle.

Men who are unacquainted with the results of farming by irrigation can form no idea of its superiority over ordinary methods of agriculture. Think what it means to be able to hasten or retard the development of growing crops—to make it rain when, where and in what volume you wish. True, all this means closer attention and greater labor, but are not the results worth it?

In Morgan County there are no cyclones; no extremes of heat and cold; no crop failures. The people are friendly. The religious and educational facilities all that can be desired. The climate the finest in the world.

Morgan County land is not "cheap"—that is, it is not cheap in the sense in which that word is ordinarily understood. The price ranges from $15 to $30 an acre including perpetual water right, but as a man can make a better living off 40 acres there than off 160 acres anywhere east of the Rocky Mountains, the apparent difference after all does not count for much. 80 acres is the favorite size. One Morgan County farmer gives it as his experience that 10 acres under irrigation in Morgan County is preferable to the best and most expensive quarter section in the "rain belt." The success he is meeting with gives weight to his opinion.

Detailed information about Morgan County is contained in an illustrated booklet issued by the Passenger Department of the Burlington Route and now ready for free distribution. A copy will be mailed to any one who will write to J. Francis, G. P. A., Omaha, Neb., for it. No one who is really in earnest in his desire to find a better location than his present one will fail to do this.

Arizona was first in the market with this season's oranges, beating California by a week or so.

BETTER WALK A MILE than fail to get a 5-cent package of Cut and Slash smoking tobacco if you want to enjoy a real good smoke. Cut and Slash cheroots are as good as many 5-cent cigars, and you get Three for 5 cents. Sure to please.

The ghost must walk. It cannot ride in a carriage any longer.

Colorado Gold Mines.

If you are interested in gold mining or wish to keep posted regarding the wonderful strides being made in Colorado, it will pay you to send fifty cents for a year's subscription to The Gold Miner, an illustrated monthly paper published at Denver.

A woman is just as good as a man in the new state of Utah.

The Modern Way

Commends itself to the well-informed, to do pleasantly and effectually what was formerly done in the crudest manner and disagreeable as well. To cleanse the system and break up colds, headaches, and fevers without unpleasant after effects, use the delightful liquid laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs. Manufactured by California Fig Syrup Company.

The false light of conceited prejudice is more dangerous than even the darkness of ignorance.

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

To a farmer corn in the field is worth much more than a corn on the toe.

"A Cup of Parks' Tea at night moves the bowels in the morning."

A farmer's face may be smooth, although his fields are furrowed.

Coe's Cough Balsam

Is the oldest and best. It will break up a Cold quicker than anything else. It is always reliable. Try it.

It makes a farmer have a wry face to see his grain crop short.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is the best of all cough cures.—George W. Lotz, Fabucher, La., August 26, 1895.

A farmer may be toothless and yet have many an acre.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth,

Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.

The good farmer sees many a harrowing sight.

THE GENUINE "BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES" are sold only in boxes. They are wonderfully effective for Coughs and Throat Troubles.

The things we dream of are by no means valueless.

Mothers appreciate the good work of Parker's Ginger Tonic with its reviving qualities—a boon to the pain-stricken, sleepless and nervous.

The world knows just how soft and foolish lovers are, and sympathizes with them even when they sigh.

When you come to realize that your corns are gone, and no more pain, how grateful you feel. All the work of Hindercorns. 15c.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

White robes seem to be going out in Paris. Every wedding gown now ordered is of pale pink or rose color.

Mrs. Talcott, of West Hartford, Conn., celebrated her one hundred and fifth birthday last Christmas day.

The microbe of measles is alleged to have been discovered. He is described as a "somewhat slender bacillus."

The Gutenburg bible in the Brinley collection in London cost a sum equal to $10,000 in United States currency.

The herd of buffalo in Austin Corbin's game preserve on Croydon mountain, New Hampshire, now numbers fifty.

A Pertinent Inquiry.

"James, here's a letter from Cousin Julia; she's had a son drowned."

"What did she have him drowned for?"

Hosts of people go to work in the wrong way to cure a Sprain, Soreness, or Stiffness, When ST. JACOBS OIL would cure in the right way, right off.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. DR. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

W. N. U. D. M—1230 NO. 6

When answering advertisements kindly mention this paper.

JUST BEEN TO THE STORE
SEE WHAT I GOT FOR 10 CENTS

Battle Ax PLUG

The largest piece of good tobacco ever sold for 10 cents and The 5 cent piece is nearly as large as you get of other high grades for 10 cents

Dr. Parkhurst and Young Men

In twelve familiar "talks" Dr. Parkhurst, the great New York preacher and reformer, will address himself to young men. A feature that will continue through the year of 1896 in

The Ladies' Home Journal

ONE DOLLAR FOR AN ENTIRE YEAR

OVER 140 GIRLS WERE EDUCATED FREE

At the best colleges and conservatories under the Free Educational Plan of THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL. Every girl has the same chance now for any kind of education she wants. Not a penny need she expend. Let her simply write to

The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia

COPYRIGHT, 1896, BY THE CURTIS PUBLISHING COMPANY

LOOK AT THE BOX

This is Walter Baker & Co.'s Cocoa box—be sure that you don't get an imitation of it.

Sold by Grocers Everywhere.

WALTER BAKER & Co., Ltd., Dorchester, Mass.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

Cures Where All Else Fails. BEST COUGH SYRUP. TASTES GOOD. USE IN TIME. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS. 25 CTS.

"I firmly believe that Piso's Cure kept me from having quick Consumption."—Mrs. H. D. DARLING, Beaver Meadow, N. Y., June 18, 1895.

MARION A. FELL,
NOTARY PUBLIC.

M. R. CHAMBERS.
ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans at 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farmers' Insurance Co. of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on us, we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co,
Garner, Iowa.

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME, Belmond, Iowa.

ALEX. KIRKWOOD,

....PROPRIETOR OF....

KIRKWOOD :-: HOUSE,

FIRST CLASS ACCOMMADATION. - RATES $1.00 per Day.

Livery and Feed Stable in Connection

Rigs Furnished on Short Notice.

KLEMME, -:- -:- -:- IOWA.

Subscribe for the

KLEMME TIMES.

$1 per. Year

Only Four Days to California.

In response to popular demand, the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad enters upon its 16th year of Philips Personally Conducted Excursions to California. Elegant upholsterad Tourist Cars run through to all California points without charge, leaving St. Paul at 7 p. m., Minneapolis 7:35 p. m. Oct. 3rd and every Thursday thereafter, and reaching California in less than four days. In this age time is an important factor in the selection of a route. The Albert Lea Route is the quickest and most popular. The price of double sleeping car berths is only $6.00 through. A gentlemanly conductor accompanies the car, and a colored porter accompanying the car performs the usual duties Passengers may take meals in dining cars, or prepare them on cooking ranges provided for the purpose. Secure reservations early, addressing A. B. CUTTS, G. T. & P. A., M. & St. L. Ry., Minneapolis, Minn.

THE
Minneapolis & St Louis R. R. Co
A NEW TRAIN TO OMAHA AND
DES MOIOES
It is a HUMMER!
Look out For IT!
THROUGH CARS.
PULLMANS
& COACHES
GREAT!

It will run through on time, reaching Des. Moines, Omaha, Denver, California and all points in the West. The previous complete scrvice will not be disturbed by the addition of this train. Ask your nearest M. & St. L. R. R. ticket agent for rates and particulars. A. B. CUTTS,
Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agt.

Improved farms in Fayette County, Tennessee. Houses, barns, good wells Peach, Apple, Pear and Apricot orchards. All kinds of grain grownon this land. Plenty of fuel cheap. No waste lands, price $10 to $20, from 1 to 7 miles form R. R. towns. J. R. CLINE.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, Feb. 7, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum In Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1895.

JOHN R. CLINE, - - - PROPRIETOR.
GEORGE J. HALL, - - - - EDITOR.

COVERED THE SHIP WITH BLOOD.

An Old Salt Beats the Record With a Yarn About a Whale.

The story of a whale as told by Mate Schlaiker of the good ship Amrum is as follows:

"The Amrum left Progreso, Mexico, with a cargo of hemp, bound for this port. For the first few days out we had such delightful weather that those of the crew who were superstitious declared that something remarkable would happen before we reached port.

"The officers, of course, paid no attention to them until we ran into heavy northeast winds and seas that ran mountains high. Then we began to think that perhaps they were right, and we felt that the remarkable thing had happened after one of the seamen was washed from the top of the deckhouse by a huge comber that broke over us and was carried the entire length of the ship, 210 feet and 3 inches, without being seriously hurt.

"That in itself was remarkable, but it was nothing as compared to an occurrence on Dec. 8, when we ran upon what the lookout thought was an unmarked island, but what we found to be only a school of whales.

"I've seen whales before, but I never saw such a sight as I saw that day.

"The weather had calmed down, and the sea had become smooth again, and when I took my observation just before going to dinner, at noon, I found that we were in latitude 34 degrees 41 mintites and longitude 47 degrees 34 minutes.

"I had just seated myself at the dinner table with the other officers when the ship received a blow that shook her from stem to stern, and threw us from our chairs. Then the ship ceased to move forward and we were filled with consternation.

"'Derelict!' some one shouted, and we all ran on deck, not knowing what had happened to us. We found the crew all forward, some busy with the lookout and others looking over the bow into the water.

"The vessel was covered with blood from the fore rigging to the bridge, and the lookout appeared as though he had been bathed in it.

"I ran to his assistance, and as I did so another great fountain of blood came over the bows. It was from a whale that we had struck. The whale was spouting gallons of blood, and as I looked at him, I saw that we had hit him broadside on and had cut a great gash in his side, the blood from which had discolored the water for hundreds of feet around.

"He was the largest whale that I ever saw, for he exposed fully 90 feet of his length. How much longer he was I had no means of knowing, for, as he went under our starboard bow and disappeared we forged ahead again and right into the midst of a school of whales that was so compact that one might have stepped upon their backs and walked from one to another without wetting his feet.

"It was a most remarkable sight, and one that is rarely seen.

"Just as we reached the whales they all spouted and went out of sight. The water that they threw into the air with their immense flukes came upon the deck and mingled with the blood of their poor, unfortunate mate, who undoubtedly was asleep when we struck him.

"They arose all around us, and in anger thrashed the water until it was covered with red foam. Some of them followed us for a long distance, but none charged on our ship, as we thought that they might do.

"You can appreciate the force of the ship's compact with the whale when I tell you that we were forced backward, although running eight knots an hour when we struck.

"The blood that covered the bridge and everything forward of it we were two days in removing, and I dare say that even then we did not get it all off.

"It was a most wonderful experience, and one that I do not care to go through again, although there was no danger connected with it."—New York Times.

The Poor Poet.

"The return of contributions will be expedited if a stamped envelope is inclosed," read the poet sardonically from the printed slip which accompanied his rejected manuscript. "Great Scott! Who wants to expedite their return? I'm sure mine couldn't come back any faster than they do if I had a private carrier pigeon express." And he gloomily tucked the five sonnets, the ballade and the rondeau into a fresh envelope and sent them off on their nineteenth round.—New York Tribune.

Running the Gantlet.

Running the gantlet as a military punishment was, it is said, originated by Gustavus Adolphus to punish thieves in his army. It was borrowed by the English from the Germans, who copied it from Gustavus, and being employed in the British regiments in America was readily taken up by the Indians of this country.

---

18 Cents Per Bu. In Trade. 18 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

CORN WANTED

AT

WESENBERG BROS'

18 Cents Per Bu. In Trade. 18 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

FRANK GRUETZMACHER

DEALER IN

HARNESS, SADDLES, COLLARS, LEATHER, STRAPWORK, BLANKETS, ROBES, WHIPS, BOOTS, SHOES, GLOVES, MITTENS, REPAIRS, ETC.

Special Bargains In Blankets And Robes.

The way to save money is to buy only what you need and then buy the best and as cheap as you can get it. I am Headquarters for all kinds of BOOTS and SHOES, every pair warranted. Call and see for yourself that I can fit you and save you money. My goods are just as I recommend them.

YOURS RESPECTFULLY,
FRANK GRUETZMACHER.

BELL, BELL, BELL.

The above means THE BELL CLOTHING HOUSE at

GARNER, IOWA.

We have a new and complete stock of

Clothing and Gents' Furnishings.

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Bicycles and Sporting Goods.

It will pay the people of Klemme and vicinity to call.

Yours for business,

F. B. CASSILL & CO

SHOES! SHOES!

We have an entire new stock of Shoes, for both

LADIES AND GENTS

Which we will sell at

WHOLESALE PRICES FOR CASH

For the next four weeks at the OLD HENCHEN STORE,

OPPOSITE POST-OFFICE MAIN ST.,

GARNER, - - IOWA.

This stock of Shoes comprises about $6000.00 worth of the latest styles and most approved makes, and each and every pair will be disposed of at

First Cost

Come early and secure your choice of this chance of a lifetime.

H I SCHNAUTZ. Manager.

ELEVATION FRIGHT.

Some Persons Are Impelled to Jump Off High Places.

At a great height many persons would no more think of looking down upon the surface of the earth than they would of thrusting a hand into a blazing fire. An irresistible impulse comes over them to jump, and this impulse is stronger when the feet are close to the edge of the roof of a high building.

Dr. Edward Lanning, the American physician who practiced his profession in Paris for 10 or 11 years, says he has seen more cases of "elevation fright" in the French capital than he has in any other city he has ever been in.

"I do not know," said he, "that it is any peculiarity of the French character, but I have frequently been called in cases where death has resulted in a leap from a tall building or tower—not that I could do any good, but simply to see whether I could determine from previous family history whether the victim was insane or not.

"About two years ago I was visited by a sailor, an Alsatian, who told me he experienced the peculiar sensation of terror when at an elevation and that he was unable to take a berth on any vessel where his duties would require him to go aloft farther than 12 or 15 feet from the deck. He consented to go with me to a tall building and go on the roof so I could observe his condition when he looked over the edge into space. I took two assistants with me as a precaution.

"One of them brought a rope at the sailor's request. He said he would not dare venture to the edge of the roof unless he had one end of the rope around his waist and felt that the other end was securely held. I acceded to that and told him to go as close to the edge as he pleased.

"We were very high—up 125 feet, I should say. The sailor walked cautiously toward the eaves, and I walked alongside of him. He looked over and jumped back and then walked forward again. I observed that the pupil of his eye had become dilated, and in a few minutes the perspiration ran down his face in streams. His pulse bounded and his muscles twitched. He stood quietly, without tugging at the rope, but told me if he did not know that he was being held he certainly could not resist the desire to leap into space.

"He got down on his hands and knees and tried to become accustomed to looking over the roof's edge, but said he could not. He wanted to draw himself forward and plunge over head first. I finally took him down stairs, when he recovered his equanimity. He came to see me a year afterward and said he had tried his best to cure himself of what he considered a weakness, but was unable to do so. The man was perfectly sane and apparently cool and collected when on terra firma, but at 75 or 100 feet he became an abject coward.

"Some time after I was not surprised when I received a letter from one of my colleagues telling me that the sailor had cast himself from a balloon in which he ascended with an aeronaut near Dieppe and had been dashed to pieces."—New York Mail and Express.

An Obliging Irish Railroad.

At Westport, on asking why the train did not start, seeing that it was a quarter of an hour after the time named for its doing so, the answer I received was, "The engine's gone cold"—doubtless during a warm conversation between the driver and some of his friends—and a lady who was in the same compartment with me, and overheard the remark, told me that on the previous day a station master had said to the driver of a locomotive as he steamed in and drew up at the platform, "Where's your train?" The man had come without it. I suppose these casualties cause inconvenience sometimes, but they contribute diversion to irresponsible travel. Moreover, one sometimes reaps advantage from a free and easy system of locomotion.

When going from Galway to Recess by the new light railway, I wanted at Oughterard to look at the river, but feared I should not be able to do so in the time allowed for our halt. "Sure, we'll wait for you," said a porter, and they did. In Ireland people like waiting. What they do object to is being hurried. They dislike "tedious haste."—Blackwood's Magazine.

Cold Blooded.

"There are several things in this book of mine that I think are particularly good," said the young writer.

"No doubt, no doubt," replied the man of many experiences. "Have you submitted it to a publisher?"

"Not yet. I wanted to get your advice."

"My candid advice? Well, if I were in your place, I'd go through the book and pick out what I considered the passages of striking excellence"—

"Yes?"

"And throw them away."—Washington Star.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR OIL
[FOR OUR FRIEND, THE HORSE.]

Speedily cures Barb-Wire Cuts, Bruises and Lacerated surfaces, Collar and Saddle Galls, Fungus Collar Tumors, Scratches, Thrush, etc.

Geo. Alexander, Olaf, Iowa, says: "One of my horses was totally disabled by reason of barb-wire cut, muscles being lacerated and tora from knee to shoulder and bone splintered. Tried their remedies for months but without avail. The second application of Compound Liquid Sulphur Oil stopped all irritation and one bottle has nearly cured the sore." For sale by J. L. HARR.

FARMS FOR RENT!
FARMS FOR SALE!

Three Fine Farms For Rent; Five Chice Improved Farms For Sale.

TERMS ARE REASONABLE

M. S. Gilman,
KLEMME, - - - - - - IOWA.

H. E. PEITZKE
IS THE BLACKSMITH
THAT
Will do your work well.
He also does wood work.
AS HIS
Prices are right, ney tro lem.
AND
Experience gr
KLEMME, IO

B. C. R. & N. TIME T

GOING SOUTH.

No. 84, Stock	- -	6.00
No. 89. Way freight	-	1.30
No. 82. Pass.	" "	2.28

GOING NORTH.

No. 83. Way freight	-	10.00 a
No. 85. Freight	-	3.58 p.
No. 81. Pass.	" -	5.16 p. m.

F. B. SMITH,
Local Agt.

JOHN BAUMGARTNER.

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY BARBER SHOP.

AN EASY SHAVE. - -

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

SHOP IN KIRKWOOD HOUSE, KLEMME, IOWA.

KLEMME - DRAY - LINE.

H. & S. NISSEN,
Proprietors.

Draying and teaming of all kinds done on short notice.

GIVE US A CALL.

STATE - SAVINGS - BANK
—OF—
KLEMME, IOWA

Does a regular Banking Business. Deals in Domestic and Foreign

EXCHANGE

Loans money on long or short time. Attends to collections and pays interest on time deposits

C. W. KNAPP, Cashier.

GEO. S. GATES,

STONE AND BRICK MASON

Plastering a Specialty. Do all kinds of work in my line. I also make a Specialty of bricking up Cisterns and boilers. All work guaranteed and Prices accordingly.

Give me a trial,

GEO. S. GATES,
Klemme, Iowa.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.

OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.

OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, FEBRUARY 14, 1896. NUMBER 25

J. L. HARR.

PURE DRUGS AND MEDICINES.

Window Shades And Wall Paper. Paints and Oils.

All Will Be Sold Cheap For Cash.

REDUCED PRICES!

On Fur Coats, Fur Robes, Horse Blankets.

GREAT REDUCTION!

On Gent's and Ladies' Underwear, Hats, Caps, Overshoes, Felt Boots, Clothing and Overcoats. Large stock, bound to suit the person and his purse.

YOU CAN'T MISS IT!

To Examine Our Stock. 5 Per Cent Discount for Cash.

LAU BROS., Klemme, Ia.

TIME--Correct Time.

Time Everybody had it!

It has never been easier to get WATCHES.

CLOCKS were never cheaper, never better, never prettier. To-day we sell better WATCHES for $7.00 than we ourselves could buy for $7.00 two years ago.

SHAFER & DOW.

GEO KLUCKHOHN, The Restaurant Man!

Serves the Public with

A Square Meal, Fine Bread Buns, Oysters, Cigars, Tobaccos, etc.

WHEN IN TOWN CALL AND SEE HIM.

KLEMME, - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

Eagle Grove

MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS

MATERIAL THE BEST AND WORKMANSHIP SECOND TO NONE.

GEO. W. SHAFFER, AGENT

Correspondence Solicited.

MESERVEY, - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

Local Mention.

Will Ford Sundayed in Garner.

Fur Coats very cheap at Lau Bros.

Mrs. H. Peitzke has about recovered.

J. J. Suckow and Mart. Lou were at Garner Saturday.

A. C. Ripley of Garner was in town one day last week.

Wm. Finch of Belmond was in town on business Tuesday.

J. E. Wichmnn of Garner was on our streets Tuesday.

Bed Blankets all the way from 95c to $4.00 per pair at Lau Bros.

E. P. Dow has been under the weather, but is at his post of duty again.

H. J. Klemme of Belmond, while in town Wednesday, made the Times office a pleasant call.

Lou Bros., have a nice line of Horse Blankets and Robes. Call and see them.

Mittens, Gloves, etc., are sold cheaper than any other place in town at Lou Bros'

Mrs. Nissen is having serious trouble with her eyes. Dr. Richter, is treating her.

T. H. Wesenberg has gone to Popejoy for a week or ten days on a business trip.

Aug. Stille and wife started last Friday for a visit with relatives at Eldora, Ia.

Mrs. Trumble of Goodell, came up Monday for a visit with relatives in our thiving town.

Mr. Oelkers and daughter, Grace, were visiting at A. J. Weddle's in Goodell over Sunday.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

Call at Kluckhohn's restaurant and see the great number of Staple Groceries you can buy for $5.

G. Hess, assistant at the depot, has been off duty for a few days on account of sickness, but is out again.

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry can be repaired by bringing them to Shafer & Dow's. All work warrented.

Saturday was a very busy day for our merchants. Over 50 teams were counted on main street at one time.

Rev. Haefner of the German M. E. church, is holding a series of revival meetings this week. All who understand the language, come out to these meetings.

Don't buy those little, cheap bulk Oysters sold at other places, when you can get the nice, large, fat, select ones, just fresh at Kluckhohn's Restaurant for the same money you have to pay for the little Jim Crow ones.

Thousands of people are looking Californiawards. They want to know where to go to raise fruit and how to travel cheaply and comfortably. For full answers to these questions address California Bureau of Information Box, 572 Cedar Rapids, Ia.

The Kid Band of Garner, drove down Saturday and gave the people of Klemme an open air concert. Which by the way, was good. The boys play nicely, and our people would be pleased to have them do so often.

Two cars of cattle were shipped from Klemme Tuesday morning. Mr. Charles Griffen went to the city in charge of the stock, one car of which was his property.

There was a surprise party on Am. Gibbs, at the home of Asa Gibbs, on last Friday evening. Am. was completely surprised. Everybody present enjoyed themselves, and a very pleasant evening passed by the young people.

A cold wave struck us Monday morning from the northwest, and a high wind continued during the day. The air was filled with snow, making it very disagreable getting about.

The regular annual meeting of the directors of the State Savings Bank, was held at the bank Tuesday. The officers were all re-elected and the capital stock increased. The bank is in a good prosperus condition.

Notice is hereby given that a Republican Caucus will be held in the School House in Klemme, Ia., on Feb. 22nd. at 6.00 p. m., for the purpose of electiug 4 delegates to the Rep. Co. convention to be held at Britt, Wednesday, Feb. 26th., 1896.

A. KIRKWOOD,
Cen. Com'n. Ell, Tp.

The little daughter of Mr. Fred Webber, Holland, Mass., had a very bad cold and cough which he had not been able to cure with any thing. I gave him a 25 cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, says W. P. Holden, merchant and postmaster at West Brimfield, and the next time I saw him he said it worked like a charm This remedy is intended especially for acute throat and lung diseases such as colds, croup and whooping cough, and it is famous for its cures. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains nothing injurious. For sale by J. L. HARR.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market; costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. HARR. Read our free booklet on Microbic Diseases.

Our people are growing more and more in the habit of looking to J. L. HARR for the latest and best of everything in the drug line. He sells Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of bad colds, croup and whooping cough. When in need of such a medicine give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result.

California Tourist Car—Via B., C. R. & N Ry

Leaves each Monday on Train No. 2 and runs to San Francisco, Los Angeles and intermediate points in California. Rate only $5.50 and $6.00 per double berth. Call on B., C. R. & N. agents or address the undersigned for descriptive pamphlet containing full information.

J. MORTON,
G. P. & T. A.
Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Threw Away His Canes

Mr. D. Wiley, ex-postmaster, Black Creek, N. Y., was so badly afflicted with rheumatism that he was only able to hobble around with canes, and even then it caused him great pain. After using Chamberlain's Pain Balm he was so much improved that he threw away his canes. He says this liniment did him more good than all other medicines and treatment put together. For sale at 50 cents per bottle by J. L. HARR.

Homeseekers' Excursions

via B., C. R. & N. Ry. on February 11th and March 10th 1896. Round Trip tickets will be sold at rate of ONE FARE plus $2.00 to points in the following states and territories: Alabama, Arkansas, Indian Territory, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Kentucky, Missouri, Mississippi, Texas and Tennessee. Tickets are good to return on any Tuesday or Friday within the final limit, which is 30 days from date of sale. Call on B., C. R. & N. agents for rates and further information or address

J. MORTON,
G. T. & P. A.
Cedar Rapids, Ia.

For Newspapers.

Mardi Gras Rates.

For the Mardi Gras st New Orleans and Mobile all agents of the B., C. R. & N. Ry., will sell round trip tickets at greatly reduced Rates. Tickets on sale February 10th to 16th, good to return until March 14th. Double daily train service, through trains with Pullman Sleepers for St. Louis and Chicago via this line. Direct connections at the new St. Louis union depot for New Orleans and Mobile.

Call on B., C. R. & N. agents for rates and further information or address J. MORTON, G. P. & T. A. Cedar Rapids, Ia.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR BATH.

A perfect Sulphur Spring in the retirement of your own home. A toilet article cherished by the ladies. Renders the skin White and Soft. An absolute disinfectant. Purifies the blood by absorbtion and removes all unhealthy secretions and odors from the body. Invaluable in Rheumatism Gout and all blood and skin disorders. Each bottle contains 16 sulphur baths

S. C Cook, Jacksonville, Ill., says: "In our little family circle Compound Liquid Sulphur—Bath is considered a panacea for all ills and one of the greatest luxuries. For sale by J. L. HARR.

"Widows' Row."

The half square on Berks street between Twentieth and Woodstock streets is known to all who are acquainted with the neighborhood as the "Widows' Row." This is due to the fact that no less than 17 bereaved wives reside within its confines. All of these are said to be handsome and thrifty. Five of them are engaged in business for themselves, and 11 have very comfortable incomes. Two years ago there were 23 widows in the row, but four have made new ventures on the matrimonial sea since that time, and two have joined their husbands in another land. It would be a breach of confidence to mention the number who will be remarried before the close of the year, but it is safe to say that the "Widows' Row" will lose its prestige as the abode of lonely females unless several engagements are broken off.—Philadelphia Record.

SOLDIERS IN CAMP.

Rudyard Kipling Writes of the Way In Which the Men Were Kept Toned Up.

The regular working of the empire shifted his world to India, where he tasted utter loneliness in subaltern's quarters—one room and one bullock trunk—and, with his mess, learned the new life from the beginning. But there were horses in the land—ponies—at reasonable prices. There was polo for such as could afford it. There were the disreputable remnants of a pack of hounds, and there were cricket and musketry instruction and the fitting up of the new gymnasium, and Cottar worried his way along without too much despair. It dawned upon him that a regiment in India was nearer the chance of active service than he had conceived and that a man might as well study his profession.

A major of the new school backed this idea with enthusiasm (he was a black little man, full of notions), and he and Cottar accumulated a good library of military works and read and argued and disputed far into the nights. But said the old thing: "Get to know your men, young un, and they'll follow you anywhere. That's all you want—know your men." Cottar thought he knew them fairly well at cricket and the regimental sports, but he never realized the true inwardness of them till he was sent off with a detachment of 20 to sit down in a mud fort near a rushing river, which was spanned by a bridge of boats. When the floods came they went out and hunted stray pontoons down the banks. Otherwise there was nothing to do, and the men got drunk, gambled and quarreled. They were a sickly crew, for a junior subaltern is by custom saddled with the worst men. Cottar endured their rioting as long as he could and then sent down country for a dozen pairs of boxing gloves. Nothing in the regulations forbids an officer taking part in healthy sports.

"I wouldn't blame you for fightin," said he, "if you only knew how to use your hands, but you don't. Take these things and I'll show you." It was great sport, for he could pay back an insubordinate young thief and teach him something at the same time, and the men appreciated his efforts. Now, instead of blaspheming and swearing at a comrade and threatening to shoot him, they could take him apart and soothe themselves to exhaustion. As one man explained whom Cottar found with a shut eye and a diamond shaped mouth, spitting teeth through an embrasure: "We tried it with gloves, sir, for 20 minutes, and that does us no good, sir. Then we took off the gloves and tried it that way for another 20 minutes, same as you showed us, sir, and that done us a world o' good. 'Twasn't fightin, sir; there was a bet on."

Cottar dared not laugh, but he invited his men to other sports, such as racing across country in shirt and trousers after a trail of torn paper and to single stick in the evening, till the native population, who had a lust for sport in every form, wished to know whether the white men understood wrestling. They sent in an embassador, who took the soldiers by the neck and threw them about the dust, and the entire command were all for this new game. They spent money on learning new falls and holds, which was better than buying beer and other doubtful commodities, and the big limbed peasantry grinned five deep around the tournaments.

That detachment who had gone up in bullock carts returned to headquarters at an average rate of 30 miles a day, fair heel and toe; no sick, no prisoners and no court martials pending. They scattered themselves among their friends, singing the praises of their lieutenant and looking for causes for offense.—Century Magazine.

A French Feast of Lanterns.

One of the quaintest of the numerous yearly fetes still in honor at Dunkirk is the fete of lanterns, instituted many hundreds of years ago in honor of St. Martin, bishop of Tours, who died in 396, and who was one of the prelates by whose efforts the early inhabitants of these parts were converted to Christianity. As soon as dusk sets in the celebration commences, and all the urchins of the town congregate in the main thoroughfares. Each one bears a paper lantern, some of which are of considerable proportions, being shaped in the form of a ship or a flower. With lanterns in hand, and blowing lustily on horns and trumpets, the crowd of youngsters parades the streets.—London News.

No Reversible Art For Him.

"If you would like something unusually fine," said the art dealer, "I have a genuine Turner I shall be happy to show you."

"A picture that's painted on one side is good enough for me," responded Mr. Boodelle, the wealthy contractor, transfixing the tradesman with a sharp glance, "ef it's well done."—Chicago Tribune.

NOWHERE

A hurried glance at the above letters and one cannot tell which of two words is indicated.

There is no such uncertainty in a hurried glance or careful examination of our Quadruple Silverware which we guarantee to last ten years.

And you will find that

NO WHERE

Can such an assortment of Shelf and Heavy Hardware, Groceries, Paints, Oils, Lime, Stucco, Brick, Pumps, Wagons, Buggies, Etc., be found as are

NOW HERE.

WE ALSO SELL THE PORTABLE CORN CRIB WHICH HOLDS 400 BU., IS 8 FT. HIGH AND 12 FT. IN DIAMETER.

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mouldings.

And everything used to build with.

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in the week.

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'GR.,
KLEMME, IOWA.

J. H. QUEAL & CO.

Always Lead In The Best Of Grades At The Lowest Prices ON

LUMBER, LATH, Posts, Sash, DOORS SHINGLES ETC.

Call and see us for anything in our line and be convinced of the above facts.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.

Watch this space next week FOR SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

E. P. SCHAEFER.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, . . . IOWA

IOWA NEWS IN BRIEF

THE Cerro Gordo county grand jury has returned indictments against all the druggists of Mason City, twelve in number, for the illegal sale of liquor. Judging from estimates made by some, there has been more liquor sold in Mason City during the past six months than there was under the original package act.

THE house of Mary Dwyer, a widow 67 years old, living at Independence, was entered by an unknown fiend and an outrage attempted. Mrs. Dwyer fought her assailant until he left. She was badly injured about the head and body in the struggle. The room was totally dark and the man talked in whispers, so that no clue to the assailant exists.

JUDGMENT for $30,000 was rendered at Sioux City in favor of Northern Investment Company, proprietor of the Mondamin Clubhouse in that city, against A. S. Garretson, a member of the club, who guaranteed the rent to the company several years ago. The club was unable to meet its liabilities and Garretson was called on to make good the amount due.

J. D. ALEXANDER, a working man of Council Bluffs who has been out of work for several months, was caught a few nights ago in the act of breaking the seal of a Rock Island freight car at Council Bluffs. Investigation disclosed a large quantity of stolen goods in a secret department of his cellar. He said he had been compelled to steal through fear of starvation. He has always borne a good reputation.

SHERIFF STODGHILL, of Wapello county, will be tried in the district court on the charge of contempt of court. Some time ago the board of supervisors passed an order instructing the sheriff to demand and collect in advance all fees in all civil processes. He had occasion to abide by the order, having been asked by an attorney to go to Eldon and serve papers. No money was advanced to cover the expense and Sheriff Stodghill refused to go. Now the attorney in the case has had him charged as stated. It is a test case, the Wapello county bar making the fight as against the Wapello county board of supervisors.

JACOB PITKA, aged 60, residing three miles east of Toledo, was shot at 9 o'clock at night, while sitting in his own home, by some enemy who fired through the window, the ball from a 38-caliber revolver striking the old man in the right side and ranging upward, passing upward along the spinal chord, lodging in the upper part of his body. A doctor was called, but was not able to locate the ball. The would-be assassin is unknown, though some feeling is expressed as to the guilty party. It is known that there has been some trouble between the different members of the family for some time. The physician states that the chances for the injured man's recovery are slight, and he is in a very dangerous condition.

A FRIGHTFUL murder and suicide occurred at Hedrick Friday morning. Three sons of Frank Merrifield, Joe, aged 15, Charlie, 11, and Hugh, 8, quarreled about the talking of the two younger brothers while Joe wanted to sleep. He declared he would shoot them if they did not quit, and accordingly got the gun, a 44-Winchester, and levelled it at the head of his brother Charlie. They tusseled and Charlie got out of the room. Joe then turned the Winchester on the smaller brother, Hugh, and fired, the ball taking effect in the left cheek and passing out the back of the head. He then deliberately placed the muzzle of the gun between his eyes and touched the trigger with his foot, blowing his brains out and the top of his head completely off. The boys are motherless and the father was away at the time.

THE State Bank of Maurice closed its doors a few days ago. A card was posted on the door saying the bank had suspended, but that depositors would be paid in full. Direct cause was slow collections and the large amount of money invested in real estate, the sum being nearly $20,000. The bank has a paid up capital of $25,000. The stockholders being farmers and business men, they are all financially responsible. The suspension was voluntary and for the purpose of liquidating debts. It is said the bank will resume business again in a few days. W. D. Gibbs, of Alton, has been placed in charge. The officers are: B. Thompson, of Sutherland, president; G. W. Pitts, Alton, vice-president; A. E. Thompson, cashier. A financial statement recently published showed the bank's affairs to be in good condition, the assets being more than double the liabilities.

WILLIAM T. STUART has been sentenced by Judge Wolfe to seven and one-half years at Anamosa at hard labor. Stuart's crime was the burning of the Lyons depot July 1, 1895. He was tried and convicted, but secured a new trial and escaped to Canada. He was captured again and convicted, and the total cost to the county is about $2,000.

LEONHARDT FROESCHLE, a Davenport merchant, tied a twenty-five pound weight to his body, placed a noose around his neck, ran the rope over a pulley in the ceiling of his store and stepped from a chair into eternity.

WHEN the corner stone for the new $80,000 courthouse reached Knoxville a few days ago it was found to contain on one face, "A. D. 1896, A. L. 5656, A. F. and A. M., George W. Ball, G. M." The excitement became intense and the cry was that the Masons were not building the courthouse, but the taxpayers of Marion county. Threats of tearing the stone out if laid as it is are made. Many Masons denounce the use of such an inscription on a county building. Architect Bell and Contractor Moses, both of Chicago, are now in Knoxville.

A MOTION for a new trial and change of venue in the Conklin murder case, in which the jury recently disagreed at Oskaloosa, was argued before Judge Dewey. The trial will be held at Washington, beginning March 10.

FRED H. BRUNS, of Lyons county, a naturalized citizen of the United States, who returned to Germany on a visit, complains that he is being held for service in the German army. Congressman Perkins will bring the matter to the attention of the state department.

THE fall of a large section of the wall of the Cudahy packing house at Sioux City has caused the suspension of operations of the plant and will prevent resumption during the week. The building is four stories high and a strip twenty feet wide is missing from roof to basement. The floors have settled so badly that several thousand dollars will be required to repair damages. No one was in the building at the time of the accident.

THE jury in the case of Banker Gunn and Dr. Boatman, on trial at Oskaloosa for causing the death of Irene Severt by abortion, returned a verdict of not guilty. As a result of the acquittal of Gunn and Boatman, P. C. Merrilat, who was arrested and released on bonds of $4,000 for being a party to the tragic death of Irene Severt, was remanded to jail and his bonds dismissed by Judge McCoy. Dr. Sigafoos, who is at Fremont sick, has been arrested.

A ROLFE dispatch says: About a year ago, J. P. Miller, living seven miles southeast of Gilman City, had some trouble with his hired man over his alleged intimacy with the farmer's wife. After this trouble the hired man suddenly disappeared, and no trace of him has been found since. Mrs. Miller suspected all was not right, and was about to complain a few days ago, when her husband threatened to kill her. A search has been begun, which thus far has resulted in finding in an old well a coat, boot and some other articles of apparel. The search is to be continued, as evidence points toward finding the body in a well which Miller filled up about that time.

THE bondsmen of Defaulting Treasurer Kirsebom, of Plymouth county, met in session with the board of supervisors. The bondsmen are inclined not to meet their obligations without a protest. They allege gross negligence on the part of the board of supervisors. The board was repeatedly warned of irregularity in Kirsebom's practices, and was embarrassed often by his inattention to business. For these reasons the bondsmen claim that the board of supervisors is responsible for the defalcation. No definite action was taken beyond deciding that the books for the entire period of Kirsebom's incumbency, two years, should be checked up. Ex-County Auditor Becker and an expert accountant were appointed for this work, which will take four or five weeks. The bonds of the newly appointed treasurer, Peter Brauch, were accepted.

THE case of Stanhope Royster went to the jury at Boone at 5 o'clock last Thursday afternoon, and in less than five minutes they returned a verdict of not guilty. Royster killed McFarland Jan. 10. Royster is a farmer living eighteen miles from Boone. His daughter, a remarkably handsome girl of 18, went to Boone to work. She fell in evil ways and went to live with McFarland, a gambler. When Royster learned of this, he went to Boone to take his daughter home. Going to McFarland's rooms, the latter drove him downstairs and threatened to kill him if he made trouble. Then Royster bought a revolver and shot McFarland. Annie Royster went to Omaha a few days after the tragedy and committed suicide there, placing a handkerchief with chloroform over her mouth. Royster gave himself up and demanded a speedy trial.

S. C. CATRON, a traveling salesman for a Marshalltown buggy firm, has been taken to Cherokee from Winterset, by Deputy Sheriff Miller. Catron is under arrest, charged with being a too much married man. The warrant was sworn out by wife No. 2, who resides at Washta, Cherokee county, who says that she has always known her husband by the name of T. H. Dula. Family No. 1 resides at Winterset and consists of his wife and two daughters, aged fifteen and seventeen years respectively, and a son who has grown up to manhood. Wife No. 2 says that she and Dula (Catron) were married at Sioux City on the 4th of July last, and that her former home was near Onawa. Catron evidently tired of the charms of his second love and left her at Washta. It was learned that Catron was in jail at Winterset on account of some family trouble, and Sheriff Miller was on hand to claim his man as soon as his time was out. Catron says that he was never married to the Washta woman. Wife No. 2 says that when Catron deserted her at Washta he carried her marriage license away with him.

SIOUX CITY business men are urging that another corn palace festival be held in that city, and a public meeting will likely be held soon to find how general the feeling has become. The palace, if it is erected, will probably be made permanent, the projectors having satisfied themselves that a structure of the kind would cost little more than the temporary buildings which have been put up in the past and that the festival could then be made a yearly institution with much less difficulty than has hithertoo been experienced.

They Split.

"I hear," said Slogo, "that the politicians up your way organized a regiment to go to Venezuela—"

Filway—Did! Got 700 men the first meeting.

"Organize?"

"Naw. All split up over electing officers."

"All wanted to be colonel?"

"All! Couldn't get a man to touch it—"

"Why, what do you mean?"

"A hundred and seventy-five wanted to be sutler, and 525 were devil-bent on being quartermaster. Wouldn't a man give in, so we quit."

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS

ENGLAND has acknowledged the right of Brazil to the island of Trinidad.

THE anti-prize fight bill passed by congress has received the president's signature.

CAMPOS says that Weyler will be able to accomplish no more in Cuba than he was.

WM. H. ENGLISH, who ran on the ticket with Hancock in 1880, has just died at Indianapolis.

EX-SENATOR MANDERSON of Nebraska, is an avowed candidate for the republican presidential nomination.

THE secretary of war says that $25,687,860 can be used to advantage before July 1, 1897, in fixing coast defenses.

THE Santa Fe road has made a 10 per cent cut in wages at Argentine, Kas., while at Topeka 300 men have been laid off.

DAN STUART gives out a statement that the Fitzsimmons-Maher fight will surely take place on the 14th, as arranged.

THE king of Corea has instituted a reform in hair cutting, and has ordered all subjects to sacrifice their queues. A revolution is threatened.

A DISPATCH states that Francis Schlatter, the Denver Messiah, is now serving a term on the chain gang at San Bernardino, Cal., for vagrancy.

INDIANA republicans are talking of sending Harrison as a delegate to the St. Louis convention, where it is believed he would do good service for Allison.

RICHARD KLOETTLKE, a Chicago carpenter who was a great deal of an anarchist, and who had been out of work for some time, killed his father, mother, wife and three children and then suicided. He used a revolver.

JOSEPH DUNLOP, proprietor of the Chicago Dispatch, who was recently convicted of sending obscene matter through the mail in the columns of his paper was sentenced in the federal court to two years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $2,000.

BENJAMIN RADCLIFFE, who killed the three members of the school board of Jefferson district, Park county, Colorado, because of charges that had been made against his intimacy with his own daughter, was hanged at Canon City last week.

ADVICES from London state that Ambassador Bayard has authorized President Cleveland to announce his resignation in the event of a vote of censure by the house of representatives for his utterances in his speeches at Edinburg and elsewhere in England.

OHIO republicans will hold their state convention at Columbus on March 10, at which time a big boom is expected to be started for Major McKinley's candidacy. New York's convention will meet on March 24 and Morton's boom is expected to take on large proportions at that time.

CHAIRMAN GOWDY, of the Indiana republican state central committee, has received a letter from ex-President Harrison in which he states that he is in no way a candidate for the nomination to be made at St. Louis in July and that there has never been a day since he left the White House that he has wanted to return. He begs his friends to consider this his final expression upon the subject.

AT Savannah, Mo., a few nights since a night watchman discovered three men working at the front door of the State Bank. He asked them what they wanted, when they knocked him down, bound and gagged him, dragged him into the bank and proceeded to break the safe. This they accomplished without much trouble, and secured $25,000 in money, government bonds and postage stamps. They escaped and the watchman was not discovered until 9 a. m.

THE call for bids for $100,000,000 worth of United States 4 per cent bonds has proved a great success. Four thousand six hundred and forty bids were received for $558,269,850 worth of bonds. The immense offerings astounded experts. A syndicate composed of J. P. Morgan & Co. and the Deutsche Bank of Berlin offered to take the entire amount at 110.6877. This syndicate will get about $34,000,000 of the issue, as there are bids for about $66,000,000 that are better than the one they made.

WHEN Campos arrived at Madrid a large crowd assembled and hooted him. The gendarmes fired and killed one man. His funeral took place last Saturday and was attended by 12,000 people, mostly republicans. After returning from the cemetery they marched to the palace, where they halted and shouted: "Death to the king," "Death to the queen regent," and "Long live the republic." The police and troops seemed afraid to do anything, for the sullen appearance of the crowd indicated that a riot was imminent if they were interferred with.

Mrs. Kruger, wife of the president, is a typical Dutch vrow, plain in her manner and brought up strictly to the Boer idea, which is to disdain dress and amusement of every kind.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen G. Thurber, of Warren, R. I., aged respectively 86 and 80 years, died within three days of each other last week, and were buried together in the same grave.

Jules Simon, the distinguished French statesman, is in better health at 82 than for some years past. He enjoys his old age, and it is said that he becomes a better orator every year.

Mrs. Annie Merifield, of Limington, Me., who is 94 years old, is making considerable pin money knitting socks for the Portland market.

Honors are easy between Mr. Harrison and Mrs. Dimmick. He is twice as old as she, but she is twice as pretty as he.—St. Paul Globe.

An excellent remedy for whooping cough is to pour boiling water on flax seed, steep it some time, strain, and to every pint of tea add enough granulated sugar or honey to make a thick syrup; after boiling them together a few minutes put in the juice of two lemons. A few spoonfuls taken often at regular intervals will soon relieve the cough.

TRADE REVIEW.

NEW YORK, February 9.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The wonderful success of the popular loan alters the phase of events. The influence of this event upon all manufacturing and all trade can not be lightly estimated. It strips the silver agitation of all its power to hurt. It puts the treasury on safe basis for the time, whether congress does anything useful or not. It notifies the foreign nations that the United States has power as well as purpose. It unlocks millions of dollars which have been gathered in preparation, brings several millions of gold from Europe and stimulates the energy of foreign investors to obtain American securities. With such a revolution in business suddenly effected, the customary records of the past week and month are of less value than usual.

But there have been signs of improvement in the iron manufacture, although the average of prices is nearly 1 cent lower. There is a more active demand for plates and sheets. Southern competition lowers coke iron at Chicago and prevents advance in the east, while sales of last year's speculators in the Pittsburg region still depress Bessemer. The ore pool is expected to fix the price for the year at $4, or possibly $4.50, and the coke pool still reduces the output. Speculation has raised copper to 10¼c, with sales of 6,000,000 pounds, and tin to 13⅛c and lead to 3.10c, with large exports of Mexican. Sales of wool have been 4,566,200 pounds against 5,192,150 last year and 6,656,715 in 1893, and with reported reductions in clay worsteds and mixtures, the orders for other woolen goods are still unusually delayed. It is also stated that cancellations in carpets have been unusually numerous since January 1. The cotton mills continue generally active, though talk of decreasing productions still continues. Speculation in wheat has again lifted prices, although western receipts have been 2,800,907 bushels for the week, against 2,792,971 bushels last year and for the year thus far 15,067,695 bushels, against 6,039,000 bushels last year. Atlantic exports have been increasing, though not in the same proportion for the week, flour included, to 1,965,956 bushels, against 1,428,255 bushels last year. Corn has been comparatively steady. Cotton is practically unchanged, receipts continuing to accord with a yield of about 7,000,000 bales for 1895. Failures for the week have been 323 in the United States, against 281 last year, and 63 in Canada, against 58 last year.

RUSSIA OBJECTS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, February 9.—The porte, in response to the request of the Hon. A. W. Terrell, the American minister, that the United States be granted permission to have a dispatch boat at Constantinople, maintains that the Dardanelles, being regulated by an international agreement, the United States should apply for the desired permission to the six powers that signed the treaty of Berlin. It is stated that Russia is opposed to the entry of an American dispatch boat, hence the porte's hesitation to grant Mr. Terrell's request.

CONSTANTINOPLE, February 9.—The negotiations for the surrender of Zeitoun, which is held by the Armenians, to the Turkish authorities, continue. The foreign consuls have informed the beleagured Armenians that they are unable to guarantee the safety of the people under any condition.

WANT WARSHIPS.

BERLIN, February 9.—At a sitting of the budget commission of the reichstag Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, minister of foreign affairs, declared that the naval demands would be introduced in the reichstag this session and that no date had been fixed when it would be advisable to increase the strength of the navy. He continued by stating that when the government should decide to increase the strength of the navy they would communicate with the reichstag, informing that body fully, especially in regard to the financial means required.

Ohio's Convention.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, February 10.—The republican state central committee decided to hold the state convention in this city on March 10th and 11th. Senator Foraker was selected temporary chairman of the convention. The committee adopted strong resolutions favoring the nomination of McKinley for the presidency.

To Nominate Miss Clara Barton.

London, Feb. 10.—The Chronicle says it hears that Mr. Terrell, United States minister at Constantinople, has arranged to nominate Miss Clara Barton, president of the American Red Cross Society, and her colleagues to distribute the relief fund in her possession to the Armenians in accordance with the sultan's agreement, which, however, precludes any Armenians or newspaper correspondents from the nomination.

Damage at New Milford, Conn.

New Milford, Conn., Feb. 10.—Damage to the extent of $5,000 was caused by the storm which raged the greater part of Friday. A stream known as Butler brook became a torrent, and carried away a culvert located near the factory of the New Milford Hat Company, and undermined the dye shop connected with the factory. Traffic by railroad was suspended till almost noon.

F. Hopkinson Smith, the artist, who is noted for his eccentric views of things, made an extended defense of the sultan before the Nineteenth Century club in New York the other day. He believes Abdui Hamid means well.

Signora Duse recently received a rare honor from the king of Sweden. He presented her with the medal of sciences and arts and his autograph and photograph. The king also sang to Duse an ancient ballad that he had set to music. Then he addressed her in Italian and made her promise to call upon him whenever she visited Sweden.

Gov. Morton was born on May 16, 1824, and will therefore be 72 years old this spring. The late George Bliss was 79 at the time of his death.

Queen Victoria, upon the coming of age on April 10 of Walter Maxwell Scott, great-great-grandson of Sir Walter Scott and heir to Abbotsford, will confer a baronetcy upon him. Young Scott's mother is the daughter of the late James Hope Scott. Her mother was the daughter of Lockhart, who married the daughter of Sir Walter. Walter Maxwell Scott is, through the female line, the direct heir of the great author.

IN THE LEGISLATURE

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 3.—Numerous petitions were presented, and then these bills among others, were introduced: By Carroll, to establish qualifications for county superintendents; by Ellis, to amend code relative to compensation of county auditors; by Pusey, to prescribe a standard form of fire insurance policy; by Trewin, to revise to amend and codify laws relating to system of common schools and defining power of directors; also to maintain five normal schools for training teachers and provide for location of same; by Rowe, to amend code relative to discipline and government of jails and penitentiaries; by Eaton, to define and regulate building and loan associations. Ellis submitted minority and majority reports of the judiciary committee on the age of consent bill. The minority want the age raised to 16 to 18 and the majority 14 to 16. Senators Harriman, Eaton, Phelps and Mitchell signed the minority report. Several bills of minor importance were reported by committees. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

The resolution by Finkbine, relative to the salary claimed to be due to ex-Auditor Brown, was taken up and referred to the committee on claims. Resolution by Nolan relative to gambling in futures was adopted. Crow's resolution regarding figure on soldiers' monument came up and was referred to the committee on military. Numerous petitions were presented. Resolution for appointment of a committee to draft resolutions on the death of Hon. M. S. Butler, of Cherokee, was adopted. Among other bills introduced were these: By Davis, to amend code relating to holding of elections; by Johnson, to prevent misrepresentation in the sale of flour in sacks and barrels; by Spaulding, to allow township trustees to erect buildings in which to hold elections; also to partially release mortgages from taxation; by Watters, to extend privileges to towns and villages.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 4.—Among other bills the following were presented: By Alexander, to fix amount of civil damages for sellers of adulterated foods or drinks; by Ellis, to govern foreign building and loan associations; by Hipwell, making appropriation for Soldiers' Orphans' Home and Home for Indigent Children at Davenport; by Harper, to abolish days of grace on negotiable paper; by Ranck, for permanent support and to provide for necessary building for State University. Blanchard offered a concurrent resolution providing for a new code commission and opposing for this session all further consideration of the code. Laid over. Several bills of minor importance were reported. Bill relating to prosecution against adulteration of miners' oils came up and was passed without opposition. Bill to regulate forfeiture of contracts for sale of real estate passed, as did also the bill for protection of lumber or logs in waters of or bordering on the state. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Petitions were presented and senate reported passage of the anti-cigarette bill. Bill for punishment of adulteration of candy was reported. with recommendation for indefinite postponement. The matter of adoption of rules was under consideration by the house until adjournment.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 5.—Petitions on various subjects were presented. These bills were introduced: By Lothrop, relative to public libraries; also, to extend time of certain county officers; by Blanchard, to provide for examination of mine foremen; by Carpenter, to provide for an annual appropriation of $8,000 for the ensuing year and $5,000 each year hereafter for use of State Agriculture Society, to be used for specific purposes. Judiciary committee recommended that bill providing for flags on all school houses be indefinitely postponed. Bill empowering school directors to establish kindergartens passed. Waterman's resolution relative to removing medallions or portraits of men living or dead from monument was referred to special committee of ten members from the senate and fifteen members of the house. Blanchard's resolution to postpone the code revision came up and was indefinitely postponed. Harriman presented a bill to allow executive council to sell a part of fair grounds and purchase other land near the track to make a one-mile track. Bill appropriating $5,000 for relief of orphans' asylum at Andrew passed. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Report on rules was taken up. Rule limiting debate to 10 minutes for each member was adopted. A number of petitions and remonstrances regarding age of consent and manufacturers' bill were presented. Other bills were introduced as follows: By Baker, making appropriation for Soldiers' Orphans' Home and Home for Indigent Children at Davenport; by Byington, regular appropriation bill for State University, and another providing for permanent support; by Finch, authorizing executive council to sell part of State Fair grounds; by Finch, providing a remedy for insurance combines; by Funk, appropriating for Iowa Industrial School at Eldora; by Hinkhouse, relative to trimming hedges; by Huntley, to establish and maintain normal training schools; by McDonald, making an annual appropriation of $5,000 for State Agricultural society; by Martin, providing for government, control, report and inspection of private banks; by Ray, providing for an annual tax in support of State University; by Scott, requiring fire escapes in hotels and boarding houses; by St. John, to exempt Grand Army halls from taxation; by Early, to amend the mulct law, making a majority enough to secure its provisions; also to tax drug stores selling liquors.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 6.—Bills were introduced as follows: By Ellis, relating to farmers' and citizens' voluntary insurance associations; by Ellison, to appropriate money for Anamosa penitentiary; by Harriman, relating to mutual building and loan associations; by Jenkins, appropriating for institution of feeble minded children at Glenwood; by Rowen, to increase support fund of the boys' department of the industrial scoool; also making appropriation for Eldora school; by Sargeant, making appropriation for state normal school at Cedar Falls. Berry's resolution to prohibit introduction of bills after February 20 was referred to committee on code revision. Resolution against gambling in futures was referred to judiciary committee. Committee on military recommended indefinite postponement of a number of minor bills. Trewin introduced a memorial against any medallions of living or dead men on the soldiers' monument. Bill relative to sale of undelivered packages by carriers was ordered engrossed. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

As a committee to draft resolutions on the death of Hon. M. F. Butler, the speaker appointed Messrs. Chapman, Power and Miller of Cherokee. Bills were introduced as follows: By Gurley, to prevent poultry from running at large in cities and towns; by Hanger, to appropriate for support of the state normal school at Cedar Rapids; by Lauder, to provide for care and treatment of epileptics; also to purchase land for site of hospital for epileptics; by McQuinn, making appropriation for college of the blind at Vinton; by Neitert, providing for uniform form of fire insurance; by St John, for appropriation for support of Iowa weather and crop service; by Wheeler, to facilitate the drainage of wet lands. Bill to amend code relative to evidence against gamblers, not allowing witnesses to escape through the claim that they would criminate themselves, was indefinitely postponed. Morrison's bill prohibiting the manufacture and sale of cigarettes came up and Morrison moved to substitute the senate bill and adopt it. A motion to refer to committee on public health was lost. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 7.—A large number of petitions were presented. Bills were presented as follows: By Ellis, excepting from penalties the manufacture and sale of liquors; by Hotchkiss, to prevent insolvent insurance companies from doing business and providing penalties; by Palmer, to appropriate money for hospital for insane at Mt. Pleasant; also, to regulate soliciting and sale of nursery stock; by Penrose, making appropriation for college for blind at Vinton. House refused to concur in senate resolution for special joint committee on soldiers' monument and resolution relative to medallions was referred to military committee. Bills to prevent blindness and creating a state board of embalming were reported favorably. Berry's resolution relative to shutting off introduction of bills after 20th was defeated. Carney offered a resolution with similar provisions. Healy's resolution providing for printing text of the old law and the new law as proposed by code commission, so the senate could work with light, was debated at length. Referred to code committee. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Smith of Greene offered a resolution to appoint a committee of three from the house and two from the senate to investigate charges of unjust discrimination in the selection of faces for the medallions on soldiers' monument and to investigate all acts of the commission. Laid over. Motion to reconsider vote by which cigarette bill was refused reference to committee carried. Senate resolution for appointment of committee on soldiers' monument was nonconcurred in. Resolution of inquiry as to cost of soldiers' monument was adopted. Bills were introduced as follows: By Doubleday, to indemnify counties for care of poor in certain cases; by Finch, relating to sale of intoxicating liquors; by Klemme, to amend code in relation to transportation of intoxicating liquors; by Lauder, to provide for the keeping of resorts for sale of opium and its preparations; by Loomis, to appropriate for the penitentiary at Anamosa; by Mullen, to appropriate for hospital for insane at Mt. Pleasant; by Parker, to appropriate for the institution for feeble minded children at Glenwood; by Perrott, to provide substitute for law governing mutual building and loan associations; by Powers, to prevent combinations in rates by insurance companies. Finch's bill enabling writs of attachment to be served and actions to be brought in one county against residents of another county passed. Bill defining fraternal beneficiary societies was before the house at adjournment.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 8.—Bills were introduced as follows: By Cheshire, to enable cities of the first class to purchase water-works; to amend act to tax sale of intoxicating liquors and regulate same; by Harriman, to pay widow of J. W. Luke salary for his unexpired term; by Phelps, to authorize the purchase of Gillespie's voting machine at elections; by Riggen, relating to sale of liquor by pharmacists; by Cheshire, making appropriation for Benedict home at Des Moines. Bill against combination of fire insurance companies was recommended for passage. Resolution for joint convention for selection of regents and trustees of state institutions on February 13 was adopted. Hinman's bill authorizing townships to build public halls for elections and public meetings passed. Carney's resolution to limit admission of bills into the senate was taken up and February 29th inserted instead of the 20th and the resolution was then adopted. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Petition on anti-cigarettes, Bonaparte dam, plumbers and insurance were offered. These bills were introduced: By Davis, prohibiting sale of beer by druggists; by Doubleday, to indemnify counties for care of insane persons; by Lauder, relating to term of additional supreme judge; by Martin, to appropriate for agriculture society; by Mullen, to provide for the equal assessment of personal property; also to create the Twentieth judicial district of Iowa and to provide for election of judge; by Reed, to establish a chair of pedagogy in agricultural college; by Wilson, relating to suits against insurance companies and the jurisdiction thereof; by Frink, providing for the organization and control of mutual building and loan associations and the better protection of stockholders in such associations. Garner offered a resolution to amend constitution relative to justices of the peace. Fraternal beneficiary society bill came up. It provides that no society can be considered such unless it pays benefits in case of death. Passed. Bill for relief of asylum for orphan children at Andrew passed. Adjourned.

MUCH IN LITTLE.

Mme. Jeanne Hugo, the granddaughter of Victor Hugo, who was recently divorced from her husband, Alphonso Daudet's son, is about to marry a young doctor of Paris.

When Mlle. Christine, the two-headed colored woman, rides on the European railroads she has "heaps of trouble" with conductors who try to levy two fares from the freak.

Among Dr. Donaldson Smith's discoveries in the region of Lake Rudolph is that of the existence of fifteen new tribes of Africans—one of them dwarfs, none over five feet in height.

Mrs. Mercy Thorndike of Rockland, Me., has been a pilgrim here below for ninety-two years. She has moved her place of residence fifty-seven times, and isn't permanently settled even now.

David Jones, of Anderson, Ind., has not slept for nearly a month. Two years ago he had a sleepless spell for ninety-three days, and last year he remained continuously awake for 131 days.

Emperor William, of Germany, received from the empress several Christmas presents of great appropriateness. She gave him a set of porcelain plate with paintings on them of naval scenes, six drinking cups, each holding a golden spoon, and two large landscapes painted by a German artist.

A good deal of interest is manifested just now in an old document on exhibition in Bucksport, Me. It is a commission, signed by Thomas Pownall, governor of Massachusetts, appointing Jonathan Buck first lieutenant of a company to invade Canada, and bears the date of March 13, 1758.

"The Sporting Duchess" has passed its two hundredth performance at the Academy of Music, New York.

Earliest Radishes and Peas.

The editor urges all readers to grow the earliest vegetables. They pay. Well Salzer's Seeds are bred to earliness, they grow and produce every time. None so early, so fine as Salzer's. Try his radishes, cabbage, peas, beets, cucumbers, lettuce, corn, etc! Money in it for you. Salzer is the largest grower of vegetables, farm seeds, grasses, clovers, potatoes, etc.

If you will cut this out and send to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., with 10c postage, you will get sample package of Early Bird Radish (ready in 16 days) and their great catalogue. Catalogue alone 5c postage. w.n.

A Rising "Anti-Monopolist."

"Oh, well, mayor of the town's better than no office—even for a young man," observed the father, "but I'm afraid it will take you a long time to become famous."

Son—A long time? And two street railroads already started?

Jessie Bartlett Davis is suing a publishing house which put her portrait on the title page of a sensational novel.

Nervous

People wonder why their nerves are so weak; why they get tired so easily; why they do not sleep naturally; why they have frequent headaches, indigestion and

Nervous Dyspepsia. The explanation is simple. It is found in that impure blood feeding the nerves on refuse instead of the elements of strength and vigor. Opiate and nerve compounds simply deaden and do not cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla feeds the nerves pure, rich blood; gives natural sleep, perfect digestion, is the true remedy for all nervous troubles.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

Unanimous Choice

The New York Morning Journal recently offered ten leading makes of bicycles as prizes in a guessing contest, giving the winners free choice of any one of the ten machines. The result was ALL of the ten winners selected

Columbia Bicycles

The Journal accordingly bought ten Columbias, paying $100 each for them, without discount or rebate. On even terms few will choose a bicycle other than the Columbia

STANDARD OF THE WORLD
Unequalled, Unapproached.

Beautiful Art Catalogue of Columbia and Hartford Bicycles is free if you call upon any Columbia agent; by mail from us for two 2-cent stamps.

POPE MANUFACTURING CO.
Factories and General Offices, Hartford, Conn.

Branch Stores and Agencies in almost every city and town. If Columbias are not properly represented in your vicinity let us know.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR
W. L. DOUGLAS $3. SHOE BEST IN THE WORLD.

If you pay $4 to $6 for shoes, examine the W. L. Douglas Shoe, and see what a good shoe you can buy for $3.

OVER 100 STYLES AND WIDTHS, CONGRESS, BUTTON, and LACE, made in all kinds of the best selected leather by skilled workmen. We make and sell more $3 Shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

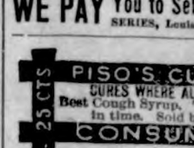
None genuine unless name and price is stamped on the bottom.

Ask your dealer for our $5, $4, $3.50, $2.50, $2.25 Shoes; $2.50, $2 and $1.75 for boys.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE. If your dealer cannot supply you, send to factory, enclosing price and 36 cents to pay carriage. State kind, style of toe (cap or plain), size and width. Our Custom Dept. will fill your order. Send for new Illustrated Catalogue to Box R.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS. but sell direct to the consumer at wholesale prices. Ship anywhere for examination before sale. Everything warranted. 100 styles of Carriages, 90 styles of Harness, 41 styles Riding Saddles. Write for catalogue.



W. B. PRATT, Secy. ELKHART Carriage & Harness Mfg Co. Elkhart, Ind.

THE LAND OF THE
BIG RED APPLE

The Last Good Land to be had in the "Corn Belt" at Low Prices.

For INFORMATION regarding land in Barry Co., S. W. MISSOURI, write to CAPT. GEO. A. PURDY, Pierce City, Mo.; J. G. MARIOTT, Purdy, Mo.; T. S. FROST, Cassville, Mo., or L. B. SIDWAY & CO., 905 Monadnock Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

$5 Hand Bone, Shell, and Corn Mills for Poultrymen. Daisy Bone Cutter. Power Mills. Circular and testimonials Free. WILSON BROS., Easton, Pa.

10,000 MEN WANTED!

To buy our Trees, Shrubs and Vines. See some of our salesmen, or write us. Want fifty more salesmen. Liberal terms. Des Moines Nursery Co., Des Moines, Ia.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. DR. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

WE PAY You to Sell Fruit Trees. STARK NURSERIES, Louisiana, Mo.; Rochport, Ill.

PISO'S CURE FOR 25 CTS. CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

When answering advertisements kindly mention this paper.

CHAPTER VII—(CONTINUED).

"Do you see, he has written to me," added the little one, with charming pride. "Yes, he has written to me, and this is what there is for you—listen!"

She read the sentence, "Kiss Tiomane with all your heart—do you understand?—with all your heart, for her brother Guillaume."

Almost choked with emotion, Tiomane was unable to answer and burst into tears.

What a happy day it was! The poor little girl repeated to herself over and over again these words of love and remembrance from her friend. Was it possible? He thought of her! He loved her!

CHAPTER VIII.

TIOMANE WAS not what would be called an amiable girl. She had a warm heart, a keen sense of justice and a preoccupied mind, which was already grappling with the great questions and duties of life, but also a pride which easily took offense, a sensitiveness which exaggerated the petty trials and insults to which she was daily subjected, and an energy of character which, while it gave promise of making her capable of accomplishing great things in life, kept her now fettered and misunderstood as she felt herself to be, in a chronic state of revolt.

Clear, cool-headed, malevolent Mademoiselle Pascale alone saw the secret struggles, the stifled anger, concealed under a tranquil, almost icy, exterior; she alone saw it all in the lightning glance, quickly veiled by the long lashes of the beautiful sapphire eyes; by the sudden paleness of the face; by the contraction of the firm lips, and her fears for the future redoubled with her aversion. But no hatred, however bitter, can arrest the development of a mind endowed by its Creator with rare gifts. All the education of the little peasant girl, when she was taken from her humble, happy home to the splendid misery of her life in Smyrna, consisted being able to read and write a very little. In two months she had overtaken Maritza, whose knowledge was very limited, and in a very short time she had left her far behind, endowed, as she was, with a wonderful memory, and an analytical mind, which plunged to the depths of all subjects which came within the scope of its study.

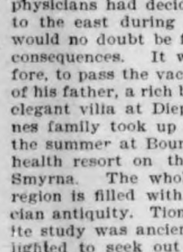
This year M. de Sorgnes' ill health prevented the customary visit to Europe. The disappointment to Tiomane was very great. To return to France, to Berck, appeared to her like release from captivity. How many times in the sad hours which she had spent in her elegant home had she thought of herself as again Pere Jean's servant, restored to her laborious but pleasant life, having resumed her occupation of donkey driver, free and happy and useful. And her sorrow was increased when she learned that the dear schoolboy, her only friend, was not to return for the summer vacation. He had just recovered from a long illness and his physicians had decided that his return to the east during the warm months would no doubt be followed by serious consequences. It was decided, therefore, to pass the vacation with a friend of his father, a rich banker, who had an elegant villa at Dieppe. The De Sorgnes family took up their residence for the summer at Bournabat, a charming health resort on the site of ancient Smyrna. The whole of this classic region is filled with the ruins of Grecian antiquity. Tiomane, whose favorite study was ancient history, was delighted to seek out the traces of the past, mingling—child as she was—fiction with fact, myth with reality. In their daily walks she admired the stone which marks the tomb of Tantalos, at the foot of Mount Sisyphos; Euphesus, with its ruined temple; the walls of the Cyclopes; the repose of Hercules; the grottoes of the Nymphae.

One evening Tiomane, accompanied by Maritza at the piano, sang:

Nous sommes enfants de Marie,
Et nous chantons ces louanges, etc.

The fresh young voice, into which all the fervor of the pure soul seemed to have passed, attracted the consul and his wife, who were chatting in Madame de Sorgnes' boudoir on the same floor. It was at once decided that such a voice ought to be cultivated and an Austrian pianist who had recently established himself in Smyrna was engaged to give the two little girls lessons, Mademoiselle Pascale willingly relegating her duties to another. After a few lessons the professor was convinced of Tiomane's rare musical gifts and he applied himself enthusiastically to their development.

CHAPTER IX.



ANOTHER YEAR, with its joys and sorrows, passed. This summer was to be spent in France. What happiness for all, especially for our young heroine. It was decided at first that the consul would be of the party and all the arrangements for his absence had been made with his chancellor, but at the last moment some unforeseen complications prevented his departure, and Madame de Sorgnes, accompanied by the governess, the children, and a numerous retinue of servants, was obliged to embark without him. Tiomane was delighted at the thought of returning to her own country. At last her beautiful dream was to be realized. Her sad remembrances of the last two years faded away, one by one, as she approached her lost paradise—Berck, the good people, all the happy past, over which she had shed so many bitter tears. And he who called himself her brother, that dear Guillaume, she was to see him again. And when she left the ship at Marseilles, when she found herself again on that quay whence she had embarked two years before for the orient her heart was filled with a nameless joy. They reached Paris a little before the summer vacation had begun. Madame de Sorgnes and the two young girls went to l'ecole Monge the next morning.

Guillaume was now seventeen, and, to use his own expression, had grown like a mushroom. Very tall, slight, elegant and vigorous, with a manly bearing, he had preserved his frank, animated expression, and looked like a soldier, his fond mother said.

The tall boy seized his beautiful little mamma in his arms, and, kissing her again and again, told her she was as young and as pretty as ever.

Then Maritza's turn came. "Let me see, Duchess, how much have you grown?"

His grimace of disappointment nearly broke his little sister's heart, but the disagreeable impression was soon effaced under a shower of kisses. At last he noticed Tiomane. "Ah, the little donkey driver!" He stopped, speechless. No, this could not be the donkey driver—this tall, graceful girl of fourteen, with her dazzling complexion, her sapphire eyes, and her distinguished air. After a moment of hesitation he gave her, too, a good brotherly hug and kiss.

Two weeks later Guillaume, with his diploma in his pocket, joined his family at the beautiful cottage at Berck, where we first made their acquaintance.

What a sensation Tiomane made in the village and on the beach! Her old companions hardly dared recognize her; Mere Jean examined her with open-eyed curiosity; the children had grown and forgotten her; Grise was still living, driven by another servant. And Sister Victoire—how lovingly she kissed her young friend on both cheeks!

"Still as good as ever, I am sure," she said; "but how you have changed!"

Yes, how changed, indeed! Back again in her old home, the young girl found it difficult to recognize her own identity. Was it possible that this was what she had so bitterly regretted—what she had been so anxious to see again? What madness! She felt that she could not have lived a single day in that filthy hovel, engaged in the rude labors which had made up her old life. Whenever she went out the sailors, peasants, and visitors pointed her out, and she heard the whispered words, "That is Tiomane, the donkey driver, a child from the foundling asylum," and the hot blush of shame crimsoned her cheeks. The keenest thrusts, however, came unwittingly from her friends, Guillaume and Maritza.

"Do you remember the day you drove us to Merlimont, Tiomane?"

"Tiomane, pick out the best car for us. You understand it."

"Look, Tiomane, there is Grise! See, she knows you!"

The theme seemed inexhaustable. At first Tiomane was angry, and, to hide her emotion, pretended not to hear—not to understand. Then, by sheer will power, she mastered her feelings and appeared to be amused by her tormentors; jested about her old avocation, and, as always happens in such cases, the jest died out—blunted, deadened against this mask of indifference. People got tired of striking into empty space.

"Decidedly, you are a strong character, Tiomane," Guillaume said to her after one of these encounters; "I could not bear what you do a single day." She had found her boy friend again, but now, added to his old courage in defending her on all occasions, there was a manly admiration which flattered and consoled her. He, the tall collegian, loved to talk with her and discuss the questions of the day with her as with an equal.

"THAT IS TIOMANE."

"You are a surprise to me, Tiomane. In two years your mind is perfectly formed. How did you do it?"

"I studied, I read—that is all."

"Yes, you have read a great deal and you understand what you read; you search, you reflect."

The boy, who had found it very difficult to master a little German, was astonished to find that his adopted sister spoke Turkish, modern Greek, and Italian with perfect fluency.

"Why, I speak them as Kifos and Elli speak them," she would answer, laughing.

And her music—her voice! He made her sing to him every evening and listened in an ecstasy of delight. Often in the morning before the late breakfast, for Madame de Sorgnes and Maritza never appeared before midday, they met on the terrace, all flooded with rosy light of the new day and spent happy hours in watching the awaking beach, the stir, the activity, which the morning brings. Alone with this tall "brother," she put aside her habitual reserve; her apparent coldness thawed under the sunshine of true affection, and was astonished at the joy she felt in speaking and listening, heart to heart. He wished to know everything, was interested in the slightest details, going back even to her impressions when first transported from her rude home to the undreamed-of splendors of oriental life. She told him of their brilliant arrival in Smyrna, of her first awaking to the fact that her loved protectress had grown cold to her, of the hatred and tyranny of Mademoiselle Pascale, and the life of splendid misery which she had endured.

"The hateful old thing," Guillaume interrupted, shaking his fist as if to menace the absent Frenchwoman who had brought all this sorrow to his dearly beloved adopted sister. But suddenly there was a ray of sunshine. His remembrance of her in the postcript to Maritza. How grateful she had been to him for thinking of her.

"Dear little goose!" he murmured, "it was only natural."

He could not help expressing his surprise, however, that such revolts were hidden under such a calm exterior.

"Oh, yes," she murmured, "I felt that I was growing hard and wicked."

What Tiomane did not tell him was her intense happiness in his very real attachment and in the confidence he reposed in her. He, too, began to think aloud when with her and he spoke enthusiastically of his desire for military life. Nevertheless, his father required that he should prepare for the Polytechnic School in preference to Saint-Cyr, thinking that, in case of a change of government, he would be prepared for any career he might choose. This tall boy, endowed with remarkable intelligence, carried into every act an energy, a passion, which was at the same time profitable and injurious. He worked with feverish haste and then amused himself with the same eagerness; we might almost say, with the same frenzy. Violent in his affections, as in his antipathies, he would have given his life for his friend or have boxed the ears of a comrade who had offended him ever so slightly. "It is my head, my head, that plays such tricks," he would say when reprimanded. The affectionate protection of Guillaume seemed to exert a happy influence on the whole household. When with her brother and Tiomane, even "the duchess" laid aside her imposing airs and was gay and natural, and Madame de Sorgnes treated the three young people on an almost equal footing. "Mademoiselle," too, drew in her claws, knowing full well that if she did not they would be bitten off by the hot headed young collegian. The boy friend had subdued every one. Alas! the day of separation, the day of departure, came again. Maritza's grief was violent and unrestrained, while Tiomane stifled her sobs, although her heart was breaking. Guillaume made her promise to write to him often. "Perhaps I may be lazy about answering," he added, "but be indulgent. I love you all so much, and you, too, Tiomane; remember, you, too."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

WONDER OF RELATIONSHIP.

Man Committed Suicide After Finding He Was His Own Grandfather.

In an old scrapbook which has been in the family of the editor of "Notes for the Curios" for twenty-five or thirty years, and which contains a number of clippings without date, there is the following: "William Harman, who committed suicide at Titusville, Pa., a short time since, did so because some one had convinced him that he was his own grandfather. Here is a copy of the singular letter left: 'I married a widow who had a grown-up daughter. My father visited us often, fell in love with my stepdaughter and married her. Thus he became my son-in-law, and my stepdaughter became my mother, because she was my father's wife. Soon after this my wife gave birth to a son, which, of course, was my father's brother-in-law and my uncle, for he was the brother of my stepmother. My father's wife also became the mother of a son. He was, of course, my brother, and also my grandchild, for he was the son of my daughter. Accordingly my wife was my grandmother, because she was my mother's mother. I was my wife's husband and grandchild at one and the same time. And as the husband of a person's grandmother is his grandfather, I was my own grandfather!'"

Was it any wonder that the poor man rid himself of such a tangled relationship?

SENT HIM THEIR BACKS.

How Friends of a Pennsylvania Student Complied with His Request.

There is a young man attending the University of Pennsylvania upon whom the "turn was called" very cleverly the other day. He came to the university to pursue post-graduate studies from a college in a small but distinctively college town. While attending that institution he found time to cultivate the acquaintance of a number of the prettiest girls in the village and the idea took possession of him since he came to the Old Penn that the portraits of all his old "flames" of other college days would add much to the adornment of his quarters. So he penned a request to the fair creatures who lingered most in his remembrance for copies of their photographs. He got them all, too, the other day, but in a form he little expected. The dear girls, on receiving his request, put up a job on him. Eight of them visited a photographer in a body and had a group picture taken, showing only the back of their heads and shoulders. One of these pictures was mailed without comment to the fresh university man. He hasn't had the picture framed for his room.

A Queen's Blunder.

For some time after her marriage with Napoleon the Empress Marie Louise was extremely ignorant of the French language. On one occasion, seeing her husband look vexed over a letter he had received from the court of Austria, she inquired of him what was the matter. "Oh, nothing," replied Napoleon: "your father is an old ganache, that is all." Marie Louise did not know that this was French for fool, and took the first opportunity of asking a courtier what it meant, saying that the emperor had applied the expression to her father. "It means some one very learned and wise," stammered the unfortunate courier. The empress was perfectly satisfied with this explanation and pleased to learn a new word. A day of two after she received the Arch-Chancellor Cambaceres in a crowded salon. Some question was being warmly discussed in the circle, and her opinion was asked. Wishing to be very gracious, Marie Louise turned to Cambaceres and said, "We will refer that point to the archbishop, for we all know that he is the greatest ganache in Paris."

Booth Imitated Himself.

On the occasion of his brother's benefit he was standing behind the scenes when a character actor, who had been giving imitations of noted actors, was about to respond to an encore. "Whom do you imitate next?" inquired Booth. "Well," was the reply, "I was going to represent you in Hamlet's soliloquy, but if you look on I'm afraid I shall make a mess of it." "Suppose I imitate myself?" remarked the tragedian, and hastily putting on the other actor's wig and buttoning up his coat he went on and delivered the well known lines. Next morning the newspapers stated that the imitations ruined the performance, "the personation of Edwin Booth being simply vile enough to make that actor shudder had he seen it."—Toledo Blade.

Even Up.

Lord Rittles—It's well enough for you Americans to joke about us Englishmen never being able to appreciate one of your jokes, but I smile, for I can retaliate that I have never met an American who could understand one of ours. Petersbe (thoughtfully)—You are right—you have us there!—Life.

When you see a small boy ... down the road whistling ... you can exasperate ... "Which way are they ...

PARALYSIS.

From the Press, New York City.

Morris Preslaner of No. 1 Pitt Street, New York, who is a real estate agent and collector of rents, caught a severe cold early last spring, which settled upon his kidneys. Soon he began to suffer severe pain in his backbone, sides and chest. His symptoms grew rapidly more alarming, until at last he was as helpless as a child, and could scarcely move as he lay on his bed.

Though a native of Berlin, Mr. Preslaner has lived in this country for forty years, having served the country of his adoption by three years' hard service in the civil war. He enlisted with the Nineteenth Illinois Infantry, taking part in many battles and marching with General Sherman to the sea. He is now a member of Koltes Post, G. A. R., and is one of the most popular men in the Post.

Mr. Preslaner told a reporter the story of his dreadful illness and wonderful recovery. The reporter met him as he was returning from a long walk, and, saying that he had heard of his wonderful cure, asked him to tell the story. His words were as follows: "To begin with, I was taken sick just a year and a month ago, having taken a severe cold which settled on my kidneys. At first I thought the pain that I had suffered would soon pass away, but, instead of doing this, it grew more intense every day, so that in a week I could walk only with considerable difficulty.

"I called in a doctor, who said I had locomotor ataxia and began treating me for that disease. He did me no good, and all summer long I could scarcely attend to my business at all. Then I called another doctor and took his medicine for several weeks, but experienced no relief. Dr. Truman Nichols, of No. 287 East Broadway, whom I at last called in, helped me more than any of the other doctors, but along towards fall I grew worse despite his treatment.

"Early in November the little strength I had in my legs left me and I was unable to stand. The pain in my back and sides became almost unbearable, and my limbs grew cold. An electric battery I bought failed to help me, and for weeks I felt myself gradually growing weaker until all hope left.

"Some time before this I had read of a wonderful cure a man had received from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, but was so prejudiced against what I thought was a patent medicine of the usual worthless character that I could not make up my mind to try them. As my pains increased and death seemed coming near, I thought of what I had read and of the symptoms of the man who had been cured. They were precisely the same as mine, and at last, with my wife's earnest entreaty, I consented to try the Pink Pills.

"I am now convinced that these pills saved my life. Gradually my strength began to return, the desire to live grew stronger within me. After having taken three boxes I left my bed. This was early in March. All pain had left me, and that terrible dead feeling in my legs had gone away. I was still very weak, but before I had taken the fourth box I was able to get down stairs for a short walk in the open air. Now I feel as if I had been born again and am as happy as a child."

All diseases, such as locomotor ataxia, St. Vitus' dance, partial paralysis, sciatica, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervous headache, palpitation of the heart, effects of la grippe, pale and sallow complexions, and all forms of weakness, either in man or woman, disappear when Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are taken. Pink Pills can be bought of any dealer, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price (50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—they are never sold by the hundred or in bulk) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

How to Buy a Carriage.

The great need of the times is a condition whereby the producer and consumer may deal with each other without the intervention of the middle man. The common carrier should be the only middle man. The Elkhart Carriage and Harness Co., of Elkhart, Ind., deals directly with the consumer. Their goods are shipped anywhere for examination before sale. Every carriage, every set of harness, every article sold, warranted. One hundred styles of carriages, ninety styles of harness and forty-one styles of riding saddles. Send for their 112 page catalogue. This concern does an extensive business throughout the United States.

Adelina Patti declares that the greatest sorrow of her life is the fact that she is childless.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists; 75c.
Hall's Family Pills, 25c.

Telegraph operators in Germany receive $5.11 a week; in Italy, $5.20

BETTER WALK A MILE than fail to get a 5-cent package of Cut and Slash smoking tobacco if you want to enjoy a real good smoke. Cut and Slash cheroots are as good as many 5-cent cigars, and you get three for 5 cents. Sure to please.

The life of a bee depends upon the work it does. When it labors its life is shortest.

Colorado Gold Mines.

If you are interested in gold mining or wish to keep posted regarding the wonderful strides being made in Colorado, it will pay you to send fifty cents for a year's subscription to The Gold Miner, an illustrated monthly paper published at Denver.

Select the best stock in the apiary for queen raising.

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

he chance of a lifetime is sometimes merely an opportunity to quit.

"A Cup of Parks' Tea at night moves the bowels in the morning."

To learn how to live well we must learn how to live one day at a time.

Hegeman's Camphor Ice with Glycerine. The original and only genuine. Cures Chapped Hands and Face, Cold Sores, &c. C. G. Clark Co., N. Haven, Ct.

James O'Neill's first role was the sentinel in "Mazeppa." He played it at the National theater, Cincinnati, during the war.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth, Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.

"The Sporting Duchess" has passed its two hundredth performance at the Academy of Music, New York.

...get decided whether ... America ...

...warded as

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEHOLD.

Cracker jars made from silver or other metal, with a cover that fits closely, will keep the biscuit fresh longer than those made of china.

To remove a glass stopper from a bottle, when it is tightly wedged in, hold the neck of the bottle over a lighted match or place in hot water a few moments. Heat will expand the glass.

A piece of carbonate of ammonia the size of a small pea put into the water in which vegetables are cooked preserves the color. The ammonia evaporates in the boiling. It will also prevent the odor of boiling cabbage.

Walter Baker & Co., Limited, Dorchester, Mass., the well-known manufacturers of Breakfast Cocoa and other Cocoa and Chocolate preparations, have an extraordinary collection of medals and diplomas awarded at the great international and other exhibitions in Europe and America. The house has had uninterrupted prosperity for nearly a century and a quarter and is now not only the oldest but the largest establishment of the kind on this continent. The high degree of perfection which the company has attained in its manufactured products is the result of long experience combined with an intelligent use of the new forces which are constantly being introduced to increase the power and improve the quality of production, and cheapen the cost to the consumer.

The full strength and the exquisite natural flavor of the raw material are preserved unimpaired in all of Walter Baker & Company's preparations; so that their products may truly be said to form the standard for purity and excellence.

In view of the many imitations of the name, labels and wrappers on their goods consumers should ask for and be sure that they get the genuine articles made at Dorchester, Mass.

No Alliance Possible.

"But you love him?"

"Yes."

"And yet your father won't consent."

"He hasn't been asked, but I know it is hopeless for Henry to ask him. Father was a Yale man, and Henry's father was a Harvard.

LET THE EARTH REJOICE AND farmers sing. With our new hardy grasses, clovers and fodder plants the poorest, most worn out, toughest, worst piece of land can be made as fertile as the valley of the Nile. Only takes a year or so to do so! At the same time you will be getting big crops! Teosinte, Giant Spurry, Sacaline, Lathyrus, what a variety of names! Catalogue tells you!

If you will cut this out and send it to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., with 10c. postage, you will get f... their mammoth catalogue and ten grass and grain fodder samples (worth $10.00 to get a start). W.N.

Appreciation.

Papa—Here's a nice little savings bank for you, Willie.

Willie—Won't you give me a quarter, papa?

Papa—What for?

Willie—To put in my nice little savings bank.

Oklahoma.

No little interest is centered in the result of congressional action on the matter of statehood for Oklahoma and the Indian country.

One thing is self-evident to all well posted persons, and that is, if the two territories were united into one state, its almost unlimited mining industries and extensive and rich agricultural area would make it rank well up among the richest states of the union.

A Query.

"It is generally conceded, I believe, that life is a span."

"Yes, I believe so."

"It is also conceded that death is a riderless horse."

"Yes."

"Well, what becomes of the other horse?

Completely Surrounded.

"William," said Mrs. Elderly, "our daughter seems to be completely wrapped up in that young Spilkins."

Peering through the portiere, the old man discovered that it was so.

Of Course.

"Do you let your wife have her own way?"

"Oh, yes; it's only when she wants to have mine that I object."

BRONCHITIS. Sudden changes of the weather cause Bronchial Troubles. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" will give effective relief.

In England less than ninety years ago it was not unusual for a man to sell his wife into servitude.

It is more than wonderful how patiently people suffer with corns. Get peace and comfort by removing them with Hindercorns.

The trend of inventive thought is shown by 1,704 electric patents granted in the United States, and 1,130 in England, last year.

Health once impaired is not easily regained, yet Parker's Ginger Tonic has attained these results in many cases. Good for every weakness and stress

Men should not talk to please themselves, but those who hear them.—Sterne.

For cauliflower salid the vegetable must be first thoroughly cooked.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its ficial effects, to note when chase, that you have the genuir which is manufactured by the Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold b utable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good and the system is regular, th tives or other remedies are not If afflicted with any actual disc may be commended to the m physicians, but if in need toen one should have th the well-informed Figs stands h ed and Skeptical.

"Do you believe in second sight?" inquired Teepee Tom.

"Not fur this part o' the country," replied Derringer Dan. "Yer wanter shoot the fust time ye squints over the barrel, er yer li'ble notter git a chance ter squeeze de trigger at all."

We Are Poisoned by Air and Water When they contain the germs of malaria. To annihilate these and avoid or conquer chills and fever, bilious remittent or dumb ague, use persistently and regularly Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which also remedies dyspepsia, liver trouble, constipation, loss of strength, nervousness, rheumatism and kidney complaint. Appetite and sleep are improved by this thorough medicinal agent, and the infirmities of the age mitigated by it. A wineglassful three times a day.

Fanny Davenport may be seen next season in a new play by an American author.

Two bottles of Piso's Cure for Consumption cured me of a bad lung trouble.—Mrs. J. Nichols, Princeton, Ind., March 26, 1895.

A pigeon is within a fowl and both are within a goose in a Yorkshire pie.

A penny —or two all extra profit.

That's the merchant's reason who urges an inferior binding for a costly skirt. It's not (nothing is) as good as

S·H·&M·

Bias Velveteen Skirt Binding.

Look for S. H. & M. on the label and take no other.

If your dealer will not supply you we will.

Send for samples, showing labels and materials, to the S. H. & M. Co., P. O. Box 999, New York City.

HOW to become Lawful Physician; course by mail. Write Ill. Health University, Chicago.

Never Out of Work. Never idle in a search for those who suffer most from PAINS and cannot work. ST. JACOBS OIL will cure and fit them for work when the chance comes.

BattleAx & PLUG

The largest piece of good tobacco ever sold for 10 cents and The 5 cent piece is nearly as large as you get of other high grades for 10 cents

SALZER'S SEEDS

HURRAH, FARMERS! SHOUT FOR JOY!

Fine, luxuriant pastures and rich meadows, producing tremendous hay yields (4 to 6 tons per acre), are now made possible on every soil, in every clime, by sowing our Extra Grass and Clover Mixtures. You won't need to wait a lifetime for a good start of grass, for we have grasses which, if sown in April, will produce a rousing crop in July. Pamphlet on Grass Culture, etc., 2 cents postage.

WE PAY $400 IN GOLD PRIZES

On Oats, Barley and Corn! The biggest yield on Silver Mine (Nameless Beauty) Oats in 1895 was 207 bushels; the next 206 per acre. You can beat that in 1896 and win $200! Our new tested Barley, Oats, Corn and Potatoes will revolutionize farming! We are the largest growers of farm seeds in the world! Our seeds produce—as the editor of the Rural New Yorker says—Salzer's Early Wisconsin Potato yielded for me 736 bushels per acre. If an early sort yields 736 bushels, what will a late do? Potatoes only $1.50 per barrel.

EARLIEST VEGETABLES IN THE WORLD.

Splendid sorts, fine yields. Onion Seed only 90c. per lb. 35 pkgs. Earliest Vegetables, $1.00, postpaid. 10 pkgs. Flower Seeds, 25c. Everything at hard times prices. Wholesale Market Gardener's List, &c. postage.

Please Cut the Following Out and Send It

With 12 cents in stamps and get our big catalogue and sample of the Pumpkin Yellow Watermelon sensation! Catalogue alone, 5c. postage. WN

JOHN A. SALZER SEED CO. LA CROSSE, WIS.

FIELD AND HOG FENCE WIRE.

26, 33, 42, 50, or 58 inches high. Quality and workmanship the best. Nothing on the market to compare with it. Write for full information.

UNION FENCE COMPANY, DE KALB, ILL.

WELL MACHINERY

Illustrated catalogue showing WELL AUGERS, ROCK DRILLS, HYDRAULIC AND JETTING MACHINERY, etc. SENT FREE. Have been tested and all warranted.

Sioux City Engine and Iron Works, Successors to Pech Mfg. Co.
Sioux City, Iowa.
THE ROWELL & CHASE MACHINERY CO., 1414 West Eleventh Street, Kansas City, Mo.

THE AERMOTOR CO. does half the world's windmill business, because it has reduced the cost of wind power to 1/6 what it was. It has many branch houses, and supplies its goods and repairs at your door. It can and does furnish a better article for less money than others. It makes Pumping and Geared, Steel, Galvanized-after-Completion Windmills, Tilting and Fixed Steel Towers, Steel Buzz Saw Frames, Steel Feed Cutters and Feed Grinders. On application it will name one of these articles that it will furnish until January 1st at 1/3 the usual price. It also makes Tanks and Pumps of all kinds. Send for catalogue. Factory: 12th, Rockwell and Fillmore Streets, Chicago.

...shouldn't a farmer keep a good horse? One reason is he is often without the right means to care for them. Such things as Curbs, Splints, Spavins, Windpuffs, and ...nches can all be ...ed easily—without ...with

...nn's

Comfort to California.

Yes, and economy, too, if you take the Burlington Route's personally conducted once-a-week excursions, which leave Omaha every Thursday morning.

Through tourist sleepers—clean, bright, comfortable—from Omaha to San Francisco and Los Angeles. Second class tickets accepted.

Only $5 for a double berth, wide enough and big enough for two.

Write for folder giving full information. Or, call at the depot and see the local ticket agent.

Burlington Route

J. FRANCIS, Gen'l Pass'r Ag't Omaha, Neb.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair ... & $1.00 at Druggists.

IF YOU HAVE STOCK TO
Write us for market reports. We send our circular. Fill orders for stock supplies.
CLARK BOWLES & CO.,
... Exchange ...
Refer, by permission, Drovers National ...

PATENTS, TR...
Examination ... vesting. ... Report.

MARION A. FELL, NOTARY PUBLIC. M. R. CHAMBERS, ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans at 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farmers' Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on us, we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co,
Garner, Iowa.

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME. Belmond, Iowa.

ALEX. KIRKWOOD,

....PROPRIETOR OF....

KIRKWOOD :-: HOUSE,

FIRST CLASS ACCOMMADATION. – RATES $1.00 per Day.

Livery and Feed Stable in Connection

Rigs Furnished on Short Notice.

KLEMME, -:- -:- :-: IOWA.

Subscribe for the

KLEMME TIMES.

$1 per. Year

Only Four Days to California.

In response to popular demand, the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad enters upon its 16th year of Philips Personally Conducted Excursions to California. Elegant upholsterad Tourist Cars run through to all California points without charge, leaving St. Paul at 7 p. m., Minneaoplis 7:35 p. m. Oct. 3rd and every Thursday thereafter, and reaching California in less than four days. In this age time is an important factor in the selection of a route. The Albert Lea Route is the quickest and most popular. The price of double sleeping car berths is only $6.00 through. A gentlemanly conductor accompanies the car, and the colored porter accompanying the car performs the usual duties [illegible] cars, or prepare them on [illegible] ranges provided for the [illegible] such use. Secure reservations addressing A. B. CUTTS, P. A., M. & St. L. R. R. Minneapolis, Minn.

THE

Minneapolis & St Louis R. R. Co

A NEW TRAIN TO OMAHA AND DES MOIOES

It is a HUMMER! Look out For IT!

THROUGH CARS.
PULLMANS
& COACHES
GREAT!

It will run through on time, reaching Des. Moines, Omaha, Denver, California and all points in the West. The previous complete service will not be disturbed by the addition of this train. Ask your nearest M. & St. L. R. R. ticket agent then the first particulars. A

Gen'l [illegible] over electing [illegible]e colonel?"

Improved [illegible] get a man to touch Tennesse

Peach [illegible]at do you mean?"

[illegible]dred and seventy-five wanted [illegible]ssutler, and 525 were devil-bent [illegible] being quartermaster. Wouldn't a [illegible]man give in, so we quit."

THE KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, Feb. 14, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum In Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1895.

JOHN R. CLINE, - - - PROPRIETOR.
GEORGE J. HALL, - - - - EDITOR.

Announcement.

With this issue of the TIMES George J. Hall severs his connection with the paper and returns to his home in Eagleville, Harrison Co. Mo., where he will engage in other business. Mr. G. A. Griswold has taken charge of the office. It will be the constant aim of the publishers to make this paper first class in every particular. We shall order a new press for the office, a complete line of job type, and a full assortment of No 1 stationary and will be prepared to furnish estimates upon job work of all kinds. We shall endeaver to publish this paper in the interests of our town and will be pleased to have the co-operation of our citizens in our efforts to make this a successful medium for the developement of this locality. We will be pleased to have our many friends call on us at the office and hand us items that will be of interest to the community.

Respectfully,
The Publishers.

Goodell Items.

Tom Cashman is very sick with rheumatism.

The revival meetings in the U. B. church have been very successfull.

The dance Friday night was not very well attended, but those present report a good time.

H. V. Reed has sold his stock of goods to Tom Elder, who will continue the business at the old stand.

Frank Church has charge of Cashman & Finn's offiice during Mr. Cashmans illness.

Prof. Houghton intends starting a school in book-keeping this week.

The next teacher's meeting will be held in the school house on Saturday, 22nd. inst. at 2 p. m.

A number of young men from Washington Iowa, have under consideration the forming of a club to go abroad in 1900, and attend the Paris Exposition. They have four years in which to prepare for expenses, and by depositing a small amount each year, they will be prepared for the trip. Then better rates of transportation can be secured where a number ship together.—Ex.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR.

[DISSOLVED FLOWERS OF SULPHUR.]

Natures greatest germicide, its action being rapid and effective. A few drops, or at most a few ounces, will permanently cure the most stubborn cases of Blood and Skin disorder. Cures Diphtheria in a few hours; Canker Sore Mouth in ten minutes; Catarrh, short course of treatment; Granulated Eyelids, four to six days; Sore Throat, one gargling; Rheumatism, short course of treatment; Erysipelas, two or three applications, and so on through the long list of Blood and Skin diseases—Eczema, Acne, Itch, Ringworm, Pimples, Salt Rheum Herpes, Hives, Tetter, Dandruff, Falling Hair, and all scalp diseases, Open Sores, Tumors, Ulcerated Conditions, Piles and Itching Piles. This is not a "cure-all" but a Guaranteed remedy for above diseases, which are caused by Parasite and impure condition of the blood. Full directions with each bottle.

Dr. H. F. Thompson, of Goodell, Iowa, says: "I applied Compound Liquid Sulphur in several cases of Diphtheria which were becoming formidable. One application entirely removed the membrane, and my patients were discharged on the following day. I consider Compound Liquid Sulphur superior to any other remedy for the successful treatment of diphtheria."

Mrs. S. G. Bunce, Belmond, Iowa, says: "I had suffered with Rheumatism in my right arm for three years and during that time tried almost every known remedy, but got no relief. Three applications of Compound Liquid Sulphur has entirely cured me.

Compound Liquid Sulphur is for sale by J. L. HARR.

Hon. [illegible]rison and [illegible] as old as s[illegible] as he.—St. [illegible]

An exc[illegible] cough is t[illegible] seed, stee[illegible] every pint[illegible] sugar or l[illegible] after boili[illegible] utes put in [illegible] few spoonf[illegible] intervals w[illegible]

At Liberty, Casey county, the night, the youngest cou[illegible] Kentucky were mar[illegible]hen Wm. Clark aged 14, [illegible]ancaster, and Miss Annie [illegible]son aged 15, of Liberty, [illegible] man and wife. The [illegible] did not object and [illegible] did not know he [illegible]arried.

20 Cents Per B u. In Trade. 20 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

CORN WANTED

AT

WESENBERG BROS'

ALSO DEALER IN

Dry Goods, Notions, Hats, Caps, Gloves, Mittens, Groceries, and Queensware.

20 Cents Per Bu. In Trade. 20 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

FRANK GRUETZMACHER

DEALER IN

HARNESS, SADDLES, COLLARS. LEATHER STRAPWORK, BLANKETS, ROBES, WHIPS, BOOTS, SHOES, GLOVES, MITTENS, REPAIRS, ETC.

Special Bargains In Blankets And Robes.

The way to save money is to buy only what you need and then buy the best and as cheap as you can get it. I am Headquarters for all kinds of BOOTS and SHOES, every pair warranted. Call and see for yourself that I can fit you and save you money. My goods are just us I recommend them.

YOURS RESPECTFULLY,
FRANK GRUETZMACHER.

BELL, BELL, BELL.

The above means THE BELL CLOTHING HOUSE at

GARNER, IOWA.

We have a new and complete stock of

Clothing and Gents' Furnishings.

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Bicycles and Sporting Goods.

It will pay the people of Klemme and vicinity to call.

Yours for business,

F. B. CASSILL & CO

SHOES! SHOES!

We have an entire new stock of Shoes, for both

LADIES AND GENTS

Which we will sell at

WHOLESALE PRICES FOR CASH

For the next four weeks at the OLD HENCHEN STORE,

OPPOSITE POST-OFFICE MAIN ST.,

GARNER, - - IOWA.

This stock of Shoes comprises about $6000.00 worth of the latest styles and most approved makes, and each and every pair will be disposed of at

First Cost

Come e[illegible] are your choice of this chance of a lifetime.

[illegible] well [illegible]s, [illegible] line, the direct [illegible] author.

[illegible] men for site or a[illegible] Quinn, making a[illegible] the blind at Victor.

[illegible]. Manager.

BUNDLING KINDLING WOOD.

A Big Industry Which Grew Up From Very Small Beginnings.

More than 25 years ago, in the back yard of an up town house, a man with an idea started to chop up kindling wood and tie it into bundles of requisite size to use in the stove. In those days people bought loads of hickory logs in the fall and had the professional sawyer and splitter, who paroled the streets with ax, buck and saw over his shoulder, reduce them to the required size.

From that man, with his back yard and his idea, a great industry has sprung. The business was a success from the start. First the wood was sold only in the poorer sections of the town, where the slum dwellers found it very convenient to buy the cheap little bundles, all ready for use. They thus economized minutes that could be applied to their working day. After a time it got to be that there was not a street where there was not stores that kept the bundles, and the small coal and wood dealers in the slum basements made them part of their stock in trade.

With the general use of the kindling steam and improved machinery came into use in the cutting and bundling of the wood. Now there are extensive establishments in the city, and the bundles turned out in the course of a year amount to millions. At the present day all manufacturers bundle their wood in the same general way. In the early days the ends of the little sticks were dipped in rosin; another bundler put a small bit of cork in the center of each bundle, while still another had each stick saturated with a chemical preparation. It was the general belief that some aid must be given to the wood, otherwise the coal would not ignite. But all the other methods were put aside when one bundler hit upon the idea of evaporating all moisture from the wood through the agency of a steam heated kiln.

The wood used by the bundlers of kindling in New York is pine and hemlock. The first comes from Virginia and the second from the forests of Pennsylvania. It reaches the city in the shape of long slabs. These slabs are split into lengths of kindling thickness. From the splitting machine the lengths are run along a platform to a buzzsaw, where they are cut into the lengths used in the bundling. As they fall from the buzzsaw table the bits of wood drop directly into a box through which runs an endless chain elevator. By this elevator the wood is carried far up to the top of the building and dropped into the opening of the kiln. Around the sides of the kiln run close coils of steam pipes. In the great kiln the sticks remain from one to four days. The loss in the kiln treatment amounts to 10 per cent. A cord of wood produces 1,000 bundles. The wood is now inflammable and ready for bundling.

This last work is done by boys, who stand at a foot power press. Through openings at the bottom of the kiln the kindling falls to the table before which the boys stand. The bundling machine is two half circles of iron, one of which fits above the other, making an opening the size of a bundle of wood. There is a slot at the bottom of the machine in which the tarred twine is placed. On top of the twine goes a label with the manufacturer's name, and then the wood is packed in. On top of the wood falls the upper half circle of iron, the boy gives pressure with his foot, wood is pressed firmly in a bundle, the twine is tied, and the kindling is ready for delivery. In a day a boy can tie up 1,000 bundles. —New York World.

Standpoints of Criticism.

His eyes were half closed in the reverie which the smile on his lips showed was pleasant. He paid no attention to the other travelers who were in the same section with him —one of them a quiet, neatly dressed gentleman, and the other sleek, slightly rotund and with a large diamond scarfpin.

"Ah," murmured the gentleman in the ecstatic mood, who had been beating time with his forefinger. "Wagner! Wagner! There is nobody else who can write music like him! Is it not so, my friend?" he said to the sleek man who shared his seat.

"Y-yes. I reckon so."

"He wrote music for all time."

"I don't know much about his music, but he makes first rate sleeping cars."

"Yes," chimed in the other, "and I wish he'd stick to his music and sleeping cars and let baseball alone —or else give Washington a good team for a change."—Washington Star.

Law and Lawyers.

In the late Mr. Charles O'Conor's opinion the greatest lawyer was not the man who knows the most law, but the one who sees at a glance the real question involved, and he often declared that many cases were carried to the court of appeals without the lawyers on either side discovering the real legal principle which must govern the case.—W. Watson in North American Review.

A Spiritual Seance.

"Yes, ma'am," said the medium to a young widow, "I can prove to you that the man whom you have loved is near to us."

"How am I to know?"

"You have but to say, 'Come!' and immediately you will see one of those chairs move that are standing against the wall."

The lady made an effort to control her excitement and said, "Come!"

Suddenly six chairs began to dance a wild tarantella. The lady blushed, paid and went.—Tribuna.

FARMS FOR RENT!
FARMS FOR SALE!

Three Fine Farms For Rent,

Five Chice Improved Farms For Sale.

TERMS ARE REASONABLE

M. S. Gilman,
KLEMME, - - - - - - - IOWA.

H. E. PEITZKE
IS THE BLACKSMITH
THAT
Will do your work well.
He also does wood work.
HIS
Prices are right,
AND
Experience great.
KLEMME, IOWA.

B. C. R. & N. TIME TABLE.

GOING SOUTH.

No. 84,	Stock - -	6.00 a. m.
No. 89.	Way freight -	1.30 p. m.
No. 82.	Pass. - -	2.28 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 83.	Way freight -	10.00 a. m.
No. 85.	Freight -	3.58 p. m.
No. 81.	Pass. - -	5.16 p. m.

F. B. SMITH, Local Agt.

JOHN BAUMGARTNER.

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY BARBER SHOP.

AN EASY SHAVE. - -

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

SHOP IN KIRKWOOD HOUSE, KLEMME, IOWA.

KLEMME - DRAY - LINE.

H. & S. NISSEN,
Proprietors.

Draying and teaming of all kinds done on short notice.

GIVE US A CALL.

STATE - SAVINGS - BANK
—OF—
KLFMME, IOWA

Does a regular Banking Business. Deals in Domestic and Foreign

EXCHANGE

Loans money on long or short time. Attends to collections and pays interest on time deposits.

C. W. KNAPP, Cashier.

GEO. S. GATES,

STONE AND BRICK MASON

Plastering a Specialty. Do all kinds of work in my line. I also make a Specialty of bricking up Cisterns and boilers. All work guaranteed and Prices accordingly.

Give me a trial,

GEO. S. GATES,
Klemme, Iowa.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.

OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, FEBRUARY 28, 1896. NUMBER 27

J. L. HARR,

PURE DRUGS AND MEDICINES.

Window Shades And Wall Paper.

Paints and Oils.

All Will Be Sold Cheap For Cash.

REDUCED PRICES!

On Fur Coats, Fur Robes, Horse Blankets.

GREAT REDUCTION!

On Gent's and Ladies' Underwear, Hats, Caps, Overshoes, Felt Boots, Clothing and Overcoats. Large stock, bound to suit the person and his purse.

YOU CAN'T MISS IT!

To Examine Our Stock. 5 Per Cent Discount for Cash.

LAU BROS., Klemme, Ia.

One Week Only!

From March 2nd to 7th

We will sell for cash only

5 lbs 4x Coffee	$1.00
40 " Oat Meal	1.00
25 " Raisins	1.00
3 " 50c. tea	1.00
30 bars Laundry Soap	1.00

You can buy one article or all. Come early before the goods are all gone.

SHAFER & DOW.

GEO KLUCKHOHN,

The Restaurant Man!

Serves the Public with

A Square Meal, Fine Bread Buns, Oysters, Cigars, Tobaccos, etc.

WHEN IN TOWN CALL AND SEE HIM.

KLEMME, - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

Eagle Grove

MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS

MATERIAL THE BLAND WORKMANSHIP SECOND TO NONE.

GEO. V. SHAFFER, AGENT

Correspondence Soited.

MESERVEY, - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

Local Mention.

Beautiful weather?

Mrs. Jessie Henry is quite sick.

Fred Henschen is on the sick list.

Wm. Ford was at Garner Monday.

W. Bloom drove to Garner Sunday.

See Shafer & Dows new ad in this issue.

Mackintosh's, only $4.50 at Shafer & Dows.

Myron Peck of Garner was in town Saturday.

Gruetzmacher Bros. have a new ad this week.

The Cream City Hats sold at E. P. Schaefer's.

Pure Boiled Linseed Oil at Harr's 45c per. gallon.

H. N. Merrick marketed 23 good hogs this week.

A marriage Wednesday. Particulars next week.

J. E. Wichman was doing business in town Monday.

The prevaling disease among the people is LaGrippe.

Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. I. Latham was in town Tuesday.

Nursery agents are busy taking orders among the farmers.

The J. H. Queal Lumber Co. are building a fine new office.

Julius Bettin left for Chicago with stock Tuesday morning.

G. I. Schaper is one who knows that the editor has need of money.

A good half section of land to rent. Inquire at State Savings Bank.

F. B. Smith and Miss Lizzie Grandfield visited at Belmond Sunday.

Mr. Herman Banko was quite sick last week but is better this week.

Pick your Shirt Waist at E. P. Schaefer's before your size is gone.

Geo. Fluhrer, of Chas. City, is visiting his uncle, Louis Sampson, this week.

Chas. McKinstry has bought the Walter Haskell farm northeast of town.

Mrs. Dickenson returned Saturday from Armstrong, where she has been visiting.

Garner was represented Wednesday by Lewis Slick, R. Brewer and Geo Thomas.

D. D. Cuttler, traveling frt. agent of the C. B. & Q. Ry., was in town Wednesday.

Wm. Fuller's little girl who got her arm broke a short time ago is getting along nicely.

A car load of Mitchell and Lewis Wagons received this week at Gruetzmacher Bros.

Mrs. C. W. Knapp, who has been suffering from La Grippe, we are sorry to say is worse.

Take your laundry to E. P. Schaefer's, who is agent for the Mason City Steam Laundry Co.

Call at Kluckhohn's restaurant and see the great number of Staple Groceries you can buy for $5.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

Queal & Co. have just completed 120 foot of lumber shed, which makes them plenty of shed room.

Peter and Anthony Anderson are hauling their grain from the H. Church farm, to market this week.

Cora Merrick will visit friends and relatives at Clear Lake a few days the latter part of this week.

A. Kirkwood and H. N. Merrick were in attendance at the County Convention at Britt Wednesday.

The Kirkwood House has been filled several nights, of late, with people moving through farther northwest.

Wes. Merten and Mr. Stowell of Garner, were in town Friday and made the TIMES office a very pleasant call.

L. B. Bailey returned home Monday. —Signal. We are very much pleased to learn that Mr. Bailey is able to return.

Mrs. Grandfield, who has been visiting her daughter Mrs. F. B. Smith, returned to her home at Belmond Saturday.

Our new Gordon Job Press is in place and we are now prepared to do your job work on short notice. Give us a call.

Lau Bros. have made some great reductions in their winter goods, which they are closing out at cost and some even below cost.

E. A. Remer of Le Mars has formed a partnership with B. Bettin and will do carpenter work here this season. Fred Remer will work for the firm.

Walter Haskell was about town on Saturday. He expects to make quite an extended visit soon, with relatives and friends in the old New England States.

The Signal has blossomed out into a six column quarto, after 25 years of the ups and downs of a country newspaper life. We rejoice with you gentlemen!

J. G. Shafer of Needmore, Pa., father of our townsman Mr. A. B Shafer, will hereafter regularly receive the TIMES. This is a good example for you to follow. Send the TIMES to your relatives..

Additional Locals.

Come to this office for your sale bills.

Remember this prediction. Frost on the 22nd. day of May.

John Mulkins of Goodell, was a very pleasant caller at the TIMES office yesterday.

At August Lau's sale yesterday everything sold well and everything was sold.

G. I. Schaper is batching; his Wife is still in Illinois visiting relatives and freinds.

The Germantown Literary Society has rented an organ to be used at their entertainments.

At the caucus Saturday night, H. Church, H. N. Merrick, Chas. Gruetzmacher and A. Kirkwood were elected delegates to the County Convention held at Britt the 26th.

In order to wipe out all competition the Chicago Custom Pants Co. has made a great cut in prices. Go to E. P. Schaefer's and see the all wool Tailor-made Pants you can get for $3.50.

Fred. and Ed. Remer and their mother from LeMars, Mrs. A. H. Wesenberg's mother and brothers, are visiting at the Wesenberg home. The boys are looking around with a view of locating here.

Henry and Friede Stromer living north of town, lost their two-year-old daughter by death, on Monday. The funeral was held on Tuesday at 10 o'clock, and the remains were laid to rest in the Concord cemetrey.

Don't buy those little, cheap bulk Oysters sold at other places, when you can get the nice, large, fat, select ones, just fresh at Kluckhohn's Restaurant for the same money you have to pay for the little Jim Crow ones.

Thousands of people are looking Californiawards. They want to know where to go to raise fruit and how to travel cheaply and comfortably. For full answers to these questions address California Bureau of Information, Box, 572 Cedar Rapids, Ia.

There will be a school exhition held in the school house in Klemme, on Saturday evening, March 7th. A very interesting program has been prepared at the close of which, the laughable farce, "The Yankee Peddler," will be rendered by our home talent. The proceeds are to go towards buying an organ for the school. Tickets for sale at Shafer & Dows, at 15 and 25c. Let everybody come out and help a good cause.

Program.

The following program was carried out by the Germantown Literary Society, on Thursday evening, Feb. 20th.

Roll Call
Reading of minutes.....by Secretary.
Song.....by Society.
Declamation.....G. I. Schaper.
Recitation.....F. Voelker.
Recitation.....O. G. Gast.
Recitation.....Martin Freido.
Recitation.....C. L. Blummer.
Dialogue..Miss Malinda Lau and... Miss Olive Lunn.
Recitation.....H. C. Lau.
Recess.
Critic's report.....F. J, Schuldt.
Reading of—Society Screamer—..... H. C. Lau.
Question for debate:—Has novel reading a moral tendency?

Aff.	Neg.
G. I. Schaper,	F. J. Schuldt,
Gladys Schmalle,	J. J. Stille.

Decision of Judges, Aff. 2, Neg. 1.
G. I. Schaper, Pres,
Gladys Schmalle, Sec.

The little daughter of Mr. Fred Webber, Holland, Mass., had a very bad cold and cough which he had not been able to cure with any thing. I gave him a 25 cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, says W. P. Holden, merchant and postmaster at West Brimfield, and the next time I saw him he said it worked like a charm This remedy is intended especially for acute throat and lung diseases such as colds, croup and whooping cough, and it is famous for its cures. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains nothing injurious. For sale by J. L. HARR.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR BATH.

A perfect Sulphur Spring in the retirement of your own home. A toilet article cherished by the ladies. Renders the skin White and Soft. An absolute disinfectant. Purifies the blood by absorbtion and removes all unhealthy secretions and odors from the body. Invaluable in Rheumatism Gout and all blood and skin disorders. Each bottle contains 16 sulphur baths

S. C Cook, Jacksonville, Ill., says: "In our little family circle Compound Liquid Sulphur—Bath is considered a panacea for all ills and one of the greatest luxuries. For sale by J. L. HARR.

Our people are growing more and more in the habit of looking to J. L. HARR for the latest and best of everything in the drug line. He sells Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of bad colds, croup and whooping cough. When in need of such a medicine give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market; costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. HARR. Read our free booklet on Microbic Diseases.

California Tourist Car—Via B., C. R. & N Ry

Leaves each Monday on Train No. 2 and runs to San Francisco, Los Angeles and intermediate points in California. Rate only $5.50 and $6.00 per double berth. Call on B., C. R. & N. agents or address the undersigned for descriptive pamphlet containing full information.

J. MORTON,
G. P. & T. A.
Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Homeseekers' Excursions

On March 10th. April 7th and 21st and May 5th, Excursion Tickets at rate of ONE FARE plus $2 FOR THE ROUND TRIP, to points in eleven Southern States and Territories, also to a number of Western and Northern States. An oppertunity to reach almost every city in the South and Southwest and a large number of important points in the Northwest. Tickets are good to return any Tuesday or Friday within the final limit which is 20 days from date of sale.

Call on B., C. R. & N. agents for rates and further information or address J. MORTON, G. P. & T. A. Cedar Rapids, Ia. Exp 5-5

Threw Away His Canes

Mr. D. Wiley, ex-postmaster, Black Creek, N. Y., was so badly afflicted with rheumatism that he was only able to hobble around with canes, and even then it caused him great pain. After using Chamberlain's Pain Balm he was so much improved that he threw away his canes. He says this liniment did him more good than all other medicines and treatment put together. For sale at 50 cents per bottle by J. L. HARR.

A $3,000 CIGAR.

That's What This Smoke Cost a Philadelphia Dealer In Diamonds.

A cigar that cost $3,000 is rather an expensive luxury. That is what Theodore Kaempff, a jeweler of 46 South Third street, Philadelphia, paid for one the other day. The payment was not in money, either, but in diamonds.

A man entered his store, and, after making a purchase, stood talking with the proprietor. The customer invited Mr. Kaempff out to have a cigar. Mr. Kaempff accepted the invitation. They repaired to a nearby cigar store, leaving the jewelry shop in charge of Thomas Coffey, a boy of 10. The jeweler and his customer had just about reached the cigar store when a man entered Mr. Kaempff's place.

"How much are those diamonds?" he inquired of the boy.

Tommy did not know, but told the prospective purchaser that he would find out. The boy went in search of Mr. Kaempff. He was absent about half a minute and returned with Mr. Kaempff. When they were about five yards from the door, they saw the stranger leave the shop.

When Mr. Kaempff and Coffey entered the store, the boy saw that the door of the case on the counter was open, and a tray of diamond rings valued at $3,000 was missing.

Such Is Life.

The latest drama brought out in New York has for its central idea the illustration of the tendency on the world's part to heap fame on a dead artist after imbittering his life by cruel in appreciation and neglect. The artist whose work is receiving the plaudits of the public is supposed to be dead, but he turns out to be alive, and then the interest in his work ceases. The play is not of great dramatic interest, but its idea is so true to life that it has achieved a great popularity in New York. It is a rather strong indictment of the world's appreciation of the living.—Boston Herald.

She Didn't Thank Him.

I saw the chief justice of the United States give his seat to a pretty young lady in a Pennsylvania avenue street car. She took it, but she didn't thank him, and probably was a stranger and did not know who he was. Several who did know him, however, arose and offered him their seats, but he declined them and hung on to a strap for the remainder of his journey while he gossiped with Admiral Meade.—William E. Curtis in Chicago Review.

Not Half as Bad as Football.

Fred Price, the star center rush of the University of Georgia, who left several weeks ago to join the army of Gomez, writes from Pinar del Rio of an insurgent victory in which he participated, but does not seem to have a very high idea of the warfare in Cuba.

"It is not half as exciting or dangerous as football," he says.

Price says he is getting $24 a week in good American money for his work.

THE LEADING Implement DEALERS.

Mitchell & Lewis WAGONS,

Racine Buggies, John Deere Plows, J. I. Case Plows, Keystone Planters, Disc Cultivators.

Also a line of HARDWARE and GROCERIES.

Call on us for prices.

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mouldings.

And everything used to build with.

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in the week.

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'GR.,

KLEMME, IOWA.

J. H. QUEAL & CO.

Always Lead

In The Best Of Grades At The Lowest Prices

ON

LUMBER, LATH, Posts, Sash, DOORS SHINGLES ETC.

Call and see us for anything in our line and be convinced of the above facts.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.

NEW SPRING GOODS!

We have just received a large stock of Foreign and Domestic Dress Goods and Wash Dress Goods.

LADIES SHIRT WAISTS.

A complete line of the Cream City Hats and Caps for SPRING WARE.

A large assortment of Mens' and Boy's Pants, Overalls, Jackets, Shirts, etc.

NEW STOCK OF WINDOW SHADES.

CALL and SEE our NEW GOODS.

We are still CLOSING OUT all Winter Goods very cheap.

E. P. SCHAEFER, KLEMME, IA.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, - - - IOWA

IOWA NEWS IN BRIEF

ALL of the parties injured in the Fleck-Brown fight near Paton, Greene county, will recover.

AT Mason City W. H. Baker has sued L. R. Borchester for $5,000 for alienation of his wife's affections.

A. B. BOYER, a switchman in the Iowa Central yards, had his hands so badly mashed at Oskaloosa that amputation was necessary.

IN the district court at Avoca "Tip" Cuppy was found guilty of assault with intent to commit great bodily injury. He assaulted Pension Commissioner Brown.

A BRAKE beam broke near Moingona, on the Northwestern road, and the train of about sixty cars was badly wrecked. Brakeman Grim was probably fatally injured.

THE Cedar Rapids Republican makes official announcement that Judge Rothrock will not accept renomination to the supreme court, but that he will retire at the close of his present term.

FIRE at Preston destroyed Rodewald's general store, Pollan's store, Bartholomew's bank and the opera house and damaged Junkin & Co.'s drug store and Berteliser's hotel, the total loss reaching almost $40,000.

THE democratic state central committee met at Des Moines and decided to hold a convention at Dubuque on May 20 for the choice of delegates to the democratic national convention, and the regular annual state convention at Ottumwa on August 14.

A JURY in the district court of Clinton county awarded Mrs. Henry Jackson $1,400 damages against one Hilderbrandt, a saloonkeeper. He sold her husband liquor after being notified not to do so, and then Jackson became inebriated and was drowned in crossing the Mississippi river as a consequence. Mrs. Jackson sued for $11,500.

FRANK KREJI, living three miles west of Morning Sun, committed suicide by taking strychnine. He left a letter, stating where he was to be buried, naming his pallbearers, and also chose a minister to conduct the funeral service. This young man was about twenty years old, and leaves a bride of only a few months to mourn his loss. The cause of this rash act was alleged trouble with his father over some land.

A DISPATCH from Boone says: Scarlet fever and diphtheria are epidemic at Grand Junction and the schools have been closed. A great many cases are reported throughout central Iowa towns, especially scarlet fever, and it is feared that other towns may have to follow the example of Grand Junction and close the schools and forbid further gatherings. Boone has a few cases of scarlet fever, but they are not of the malignant type.

A. R. CHAMBERLAIN, an old resident of State Center, committed suicide. The deed was committed at his home. Mr. Chamberlain had been sick for some time, but seemed better on the day of his death, and gave no intimation that he was contemplating self-destruction. At noon, however, he stepped quietly to the bed room, took a revolver from a shelf and sent a bullet into his brain. The ball entered at the temple. Chamberlain died in half an hour. He was about 75 years old. An aged wife survives him.

CASHIER A. E. THOMPSON, of the Maurice State Bank, which recently passed into a receiver's hands, has been arrested on a charge of forgery preferred by Bank Examiner Bennett. On examining the bank last December, Bennett listed $7,868 of notes, which were found to have disappeared when the receiver took charge. In their place was Thompson's note for a like amount. Bennett suspects the originals were forged and that Thompson destroyed them and substituted his own when failure became inevitable.

AT Des Moines a few days ago the baggagemaster at the Rock Island depot found blood coming from one of two zinc covered trunks which had just arrived from Council Bluffs. The police were at once notified and watch was kept until an expressman called for the trunks. The detectives followed him to the Drake Medical college, where they arrested a man who had also been following the wagon, and who gave his name as J. Smith. The trunks were taken to the morgue, and upon being opened were found to contain the bodies of a man aged about 45 and a woman aged about 35. Further investigation disclosed the fact that they had been stolen from the graveyard at Omaha after having been buried several days. The names of the dead persons were Jacob Helin and Hannah Larsen. They died at Emanuel hospital. Every effort will be made to convict the guilty parties.

WHILE switching in the yards at Williams Brakeman Moore, of Dubuque, fell from the top of a box car. Three cars passed over him, killing him almost instantly, the trunk being completely severed. He was a single man and about 25 years of age.

THE trial of J. C. Johnson vs. the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company is now on in the district court at Oskaloosa. Johnson is a colored man who had his foot cut off at Altoona. His claim is that he was forcibly ejected from a train by the company's employes and fell beneath the trucks. He is suing for $10,000.

IN the district court at Ottumwa, the case of Editor Sherman, of the Bussey Banner, against the Ottumwa Street Railway Co., for $15,000 damages for being run over by a street car, was decided in favor of the company.

MICHAEL BRENNAN'S brother, a farmer, borrowed $100 and put him on the train en route to a Keeley sanitarium at Red Oak. The patient got off in Burlington with the money in his pocket, went on a spree and died of alcoholism at St. Francis' hospital. The money that would have saved him paid his funeral expenses.

A MAN with nothing but his underclothing on ran into the central police station at Burlington a few nights ago to seek shelter from doctors whom he claimed were about to dissect him alive at St. Francis' Hospital. He had escaped from his nurse, dropped out of a second story window, and run in his stocking-feet over snow and ice one-fourth of a mile to the station. It was necessary to tie him down when confined in the hospital again. He claims to be a cigarmaker from Omaha, Neb. His name is Speilman.

A WARRANT has been sworn out at Creston for the arrest of J. B. Lewis. Lewis has been employed in R. B. Johnson's second store repairing watches, and has of late been given permission by the proprietor to take watches and sell them, thereby securing a commission. Lewis has heretofore been honest in his transactions, but a few days ago he left the city, taking with him thirteen gold watches and three silver ones, and eight gold and silver watches and a number of chains belonging to Jacob Shoemaker. The value of the goods amounts to about $400.

FIRE started in Flickinger's corner restaurant at Mt. Pleasant, and spread fast, burning the corner restaurant, Hutson's millinery store, Drege's barber shop, Session's notary office and Rundall Bros.' meat market before it was under the control of the fire company. The cause of the fire as yet is unknown, but it is supposed to have been set by incendiaries. The value of the property burned is as follows: Rood & Kepler, four story building, $3,000; Rundal Bros.' store and stock, $700; Mrs. Flickinger's stock, $250; Mrs. Hutson's stock, $150. Sessions and Dedge saved all their stock.

AT a revival at Cedar Rapids Mose Trestdale, of Kenosha, Wis., was converted and confessed to the murder of Wm. Sheldon at Leadville, September 1, 1890. The Colorado authorities have been notified and the man detained. He gave the full details of the crime and declared his desire to atone for it. It is believed that the man is insane rather than criminal. He is being held, however, pending word from the Colorado officials notified. The town is in a fever of excitement over the results of the revival meeting in other directions and the revelations of this man have added materially to the flame.

A JEFFERSON dispatch says: George Fleck, the 17-year-old boy who assisted his father in the terrible fight near Paton three weeks ago with the Brown family, has recovered sufficiently from the shot received in the back to be moved, and is now in jail with his father. The boy tells a pitiful story that makes his father's villainy stand out the plainer. George says that he didn't want to accompany his father on the murderous errand, but that his father drove him to it with threats. The boy was lame and tried to beg off, but the father was obdurate and compelled him to get out the horse and come horseback. When nearly to the Brown home George again protested and tried to induce his father to turn back, but without avail. The old man had a shotgun and he looked threateningly at his son, and the attack was made. After the fight had begun, the boy fought like a tiger. The elder Fleck, who was so terribly battered and torn about the head and face, has nearly recovered, but will always carry some ugly scars as reminders of that night's work. The elder Brown has also recovered and young John Brown, who, it was thought, could not possibly survive, is slowly improving and will probably get well. The trial comes off at the term of court which convenes early in March.

IN THE case of the state vs. L. P. Miller, in which a jury returned a verdict finding the defendant guilty of violating the liquor laws, Judge Holmes of the Polk counsy court in instructing the jury, made a ruling that will be of general interest. The mulct law prohibits the sale of liquors to minors and says the saloonkeeper shall not permit them to enter his place of business. The evidence was to the effect that the son of a tailor on the East Side had entered the saloon on numerous occasions with a letter from his father directing the saloonkeeper to let him have beer in a pail. The old tailor went on the stand and testified that he had arranged with Miller for this, and that the boy went there at his direction and for the purpose of buying beer for him. Miller admitted having made sales to the boy, but claimed the right to do so with the parents' written consent. The court in instructing the jury directed it to return a verdict of guilty if it found the boy had been permitted in the place and had purchased liquors there. The verdict was found on this instruction. It is claimed by the prosecuting attorney that under the law a father is not guardian of his son when it comes to permitting him to enter a saloon before he arrives at age, and that every saloonkeeper who permits a minor to enter his place of business is guilty of a violation of the law.

As nearly as can be ascertained, 275,000 lives were lost in 1895 by battle, railroad accidents and various other disasters in this and other countries.

Dr. Mabel Spencer, of Kansas City, has been appointed county physician of Riley county—the first woman in Kansas to receive such an appointment.

Carlisle was no friend of Turkish tyranny, and the phrase "the unspeakable Turk," so often attributed to Mr. Gladstone, is really his.

"Rodney Stone" is the title of Dr. Conan Doyle's new story. The scene is laid in England of the regency—the period from 1811 to 1829.

Lord Rosebery's forthcoming novel is awaited with more than ordinary curiosity by several prominent Englishmen, who suspect that he has been using a pen dipped in satire.

Edmund Clarence Stedman, who is the author of the best critical works on the Victorian poets, says that Mr. Austin will do as the poet laureate "during what may be called an interregnum."

Vicomtesse Houssaye, whose salon is one of the most highly esteemed in Paris by men of intellectual distinction, was formerly an American girl, Miss Ritter, of California.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS

IT IS asserted that the Transvaal will shortly proclaim its independence.

EX-GOVERNOR ROBINSON, of Massachusetts, died in Springfield on the 22d.

IT is said General Harrison has declined to go to St. Louis as a delegate to the national convention.

THEODORE DURRANT was to have been executed at San Francisco on the 21st for the murder of Blanche Lamont, but a respite of twenty days was granted.

AT A mask ball at the Artists club at Lisbon fire broke out and great loss of life occurred. At last reports forty bodies had been recovered from the debris.

EDGAR WILSON (BILL) NYE died at his home near Asheville, N. C., on the 22d. He had received a stroke of paralysis ten days previous and at no time since had there been any hope that he would recover.

THE Leeds Mercury says that the engagement of William Waldorf Astor and Lady Randolph Churchill, formerly Miss Jennie Jerome, of New York, will shortly be announced. Mrs. Astor died December 22, 1894, and Lord Randolph Churchill died January 24, 1895.

IT IS reported that the German emperor was so disgusted with the criticisms of the English press upon his message to President Krueger congratulating the latter upon his having suppressed Dr. Jamieson and his raiders, that he has expressed his determination not to visit England this year under any circumstances.

A DISPATCH from St. Petersburg says: The young king of Corea has arrived here with the object of seeking the protection of Russia for his country. His visit is kept a profound secret. Those who have been let into a knowledge of his presence here look upon the news as of high importance in connection with Russia's eastern policy.

GEN. WEYLER, captain general of Cuba, announces that he will pardon those insurgents who will surrender at once to the goverment officials. If those who surrender are found armed a second or third time, he gives warning in his statement, just issued, they will be subject to proceedings which may result in their being punished for a capital offense.

A GAS explosion occurred in the Vulcan mine at Newcastle, Col., one day last week when there were between fifty and sixty men in the mine at work. At the shaft mouth a hole 100 feet square was blown out. Every man in the mine perished, as it was utterly impossible for them to exist in the mine after the explosion on account of the condition of the air, the fans being wrecked. At last accounts all of the bodies had not been recovered, but it is certain that about fifty-five were killed.

PROF. LENSCHMER, of the California State University, of Oakland, has completed calculations of the orbit of the new comet discovered by Astronomer Perrine, of the Lick observatory, a few days ago. The stranger in the heavens is only 40,000,000 miles away from the earth and is coming toward the earth at the rate of 1,600,000 miles a day. Prof. Lenschmer says, however, that there is no cause for alarm. He has figured out that the comet will take a new tack about March 1 and sheer off from the earth.

FIRE started in J. Stethcimer & Co.'s shirt waist factory and Van Zandt & Co.'s collar factory, situated in the same building, at Troy, N. Y. There were 300 girls at work in the establishments. The flames spread so rapidly that the narrow stairway, which was the only exit outside of the fire escapes in the rear, was almost cut off, and during the panic that followed five of the employes jumped from the windows, three of them to their deaths, and many others were injured. A large number of girls and women are missing and it is believed when the debris has been cleared away enough dead bodies will be found to make the list of fatalities reach a score. The number of injured runs high and many of them may die from their frightful injuries.

A CABLEGRAM from Ambassador Eustis, at Paris, announcing that Waller, ex-consul to Madagascar, has been released from prison. Eustis has been authorized to provide him transportation to the United States. He has been in prison nearly a year and is entirely destitute. The authorities in Washington feel that they have reason to be gratified at the outcome of the case which as revealed by the correspondence came nearer than the public was aware at one time of leading to a severance of the diplomatic relations between the United States and France. The point at issue was not whether Waller was guilty, but whether our government had the right to insist on satisfying itself that justice had been done him. France submitted evidence to the United States authorities that satisfied them of Waller's guilt, and his release was a great evidence of the good feeling of France for the United States.

The first fiction number of the American Jewess appears in March. Emma Wolf, the best known Jewish novelist in America, heads the list of contributors with a unique story. Among the other good writers Esther Ruskay and Rosa Sonneschien contribute. This magazine aims to bring out new talent, and the March number will demonstrate its brilliant success in that direction. Another interesting feature will be the portrait of its editress, which will appear for the first time in the magazine.

James G. Blaine's old saddle horse, Denman, died the other day at a farm near Trenton, Me., at the ripe age of 25 years. After Mr. Blaine's death, Mrs. Blaine sent the horse to the farm and paid a liberal allowance annually for his support.

Mrs. Langtry's daughter attracts much attention at the Niagara, London's new and fashionable skating rink, where she is frequently seen. Her skill on the ice is more than ordinary, and her beauty rivals that possessed by her mother in the days when the phrase "Jersey Lily" was invented.

A TRANSVAAL HORROR.

JOHANNESBURG, Transvaal, February 21.—Twenty tons of dynamite which had been left standing exposed to the sun and air for three days in the railroad yards at Viedendorp, exploded. The results are appalling. A thousand persons are rendered homeless, more than a hundred were killed outright and between two and three hundred are dangerously and many others seriously injured.

The explosion tore a hole in the ground 200 feet long, 80 feet wide and 30 feet deep. The ground for miles around was convulsed as if by an earthquake. Houses were wrecked and fell, and a mass of iron, earth, stone, wood and human remains were hurled skyward; windows in almost every house were broken and people were blown through the air like straws before the wind. The whole neighborhood was literally torn to pieces. Almost everything within half a mile was raised from the ground. All about are the blackened shapes of human remains, limbs, heads, trunks, scorched, torn victims, mostly Malays, Kaffirs and Chinamen, but a number of white people, including six girls, were among the victims.

JOHANNESBURG, February 22.—President Kruger and the chiefs of the several executive departments of the government of the South African republic made an inspection of the scene of the dynamite explosion at Viedendorp, a suburb of this city, and visited many of the injured men, women and children in the hospitals. President Kruger, after viewing the scene of devastation, declared that the Netherlands railway company, on board of whose cars the dynamite exploded, would have to pay the amount of the damage done, which is calculated at $5,000,000, at least. The president was greatly affected by the scenes in the hospitals and elsewhere.

FITZSIMMONS WON IT.

LANGLEY, Texas, February 22.—Peter Maher was knocked out by Bob Fitzsimmons in the first round after one minute and thirty-five seconds of actual fighting. Fitzsimmons played the same old game he has so often played before, leading on his opponent until he had him where he wanted him, and then landed a lightning right hand swing on the jaw, and it was over. It was the identical blow that knocked out Jim Hall in New Orleans. For the first part of the round, Maher had the better of it. He led often and forced the fighting. In his eagerness to get at Fitzsimmons, he committed a palpable foul during a clinch and was warned by Referee Siler that its repetition would cost him the fight. Maher fought well, but he was no match for his opponent, who proved himself one of the craftiest men that ever stepped into a ring. Fitz is now, by Corbett's action in presenting the championship to Maher, the champion of the world, and after the fight was over, he declared through Julian his willingness to defend the championship against any and all comers. The battle ground was a sandy flat two miles below Langley on the Mexican side of the river. Corbett has challenged Fitzsimmons to fight anywhere for any amount.

VENEZUELAN AGREEMENT.

LONDON, February 21.—English papers discredit the rumor that an actual agreement to submit the Venezuelan question to arbitration has been arrived at between the United States and Great Britain. At the same time there is a disposition to believe the United States will assist Great Britain in fixing the basis of arbitration. The Westminster Gazette says it is in a position to state that Lord Roseberey actually invited negotiations with Washington for a permanent arbitration, with the chief justices of the United States and England to decide the method of procedure in case of a diplomatic hitch.

CUBAN NEWS.

HAVANA, February 21.—Gen. Linares met and attacked a force of the enemy commanded by Maceo near Chimbarazo, fifteen miles from Havana, driving them from the mountains, with a loss of fifteen killed and a number wounded. Later the general came across a force under Gomez, passing through a defile, and opened fire upon them, inflicting a loss of six killed and had twenty-seven wounded. At Guanajales the insurgents commanded by Varona and Sotolongo and insurgents under Garcia and Acevedo were routed by detachments of volunteers.

Great Strike in Berlin.

Berlin, Feb. 24.—The tailors and seamstresses have held stormy meetings in different quarters of the city, which were attended by 15,000 workers, and they have repudiated the agreement for an increase in pay made in their behalf. The great strike still continues. The Prussian government has been doing its utmost to effect an amicable agreement. The question will be discussed in the reichstag soon on a question of the national liberals as to what legislative steps the allied governments intend to take in order to protect the health and morality of the female hands of the clothing trades, and to prevent their being injured by the truck system, as their situation has become worse since the resolution of the reichstag in 1885 and the inquiries of the allied governments in 1887.

The mandolin is just now one of the favorite instruments of London concerss and drawing room entertainments.

Five systems of law are in use in Germany; 18,000,000 people live under the Prussian code, 2,500,000 under the Saxon, 7,500,000 under the French code civil, 14,000,000 under the German commercial code, the modernized form of Roman law, and 500,000 under the Scandinavian law. It is proposed to substitute a new code, the draft of which was completed this year, for all the older laws.

Mrs. Humphrey Ward is hard at work on her new novel, which will deal once more with the "social problem"—this time in the heart of London.

A perfectly proportioned man weighs twenty-eight pounds for every foot of his height.

A woman life insurance is doing a thriving business in and about Mebo Kentucky.

John Brown, of Pittsfield, Mass., who died the other day at the age of 95 was a cousin of "Ossawatamie" John Brown, and an Abolitionist himself.

Miss Edith Lancaster, of London was thrown into an insane asylum "because she didn't believe in marriage." Later she was released; the court ruled that perhaps she had better judgment and more accurate knowledge of men than the average woman.

IN THE LEGISLATURE

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 17.—Bills were introduced as follows: By Bronson, to release and grant to the city of Dubuque certain lands; by Carpenter, relating to protection of fish; by Carroll, regulating sale of petroleum and its products; by Everall, limiting liabilities of lessees in certain cases. Bill providing for appropriation for semi-centennial and memorial hall was referred to appropriation committee. Bill to revise laws in relation to state and legislative departments was recommitted to code revision committee. Several house bills were received and referred. Rowen reported for the committee on penitentiaries and parlons and recommended the passage of a substitute for the senate file relative to keeping adult and juvenile prisoners apart. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

The following bills were introduced: By Brighton, to define the liabilities of fire insurance companies; by Finch, to punish the proprietors and patrons of opium joints; by McAchran, to provide for the punishment of persons engaged in sale of intoxicating liquors; by Manahan, to create county courts and to define the duties of the same; by Morrison of Keokuk, to appropriate $1,000 to enable state etomologist to send out fungus for the killing of chintz bugs; also one regulating the soliciting and sale of nursery stock. Bill relating to overeignity and jurisdiction of state and legislature departments came up and was passed. A motion by Dowell to reconsider the bill, that the point raised by Mr. Van Houton as to certain sections being unconstitutional may be investigated, was carried. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 18.—Bills were introduced as follows: By Cheshire, relating to state banks; also one requiring banks to keep a certain per cent of deposits for a reserve fund; also one authorizing certain cities to establish a department of public health and defining same; by Druet, to tax express companies, and regulating certain taxes; also one to provide for inspection of traction, portable and semi-portable steam boilers; by Ranck, making appropriation for State Historical Society. A resolution by Mitchell, endorsing national military park, was adopted. Judiciary committee reported a substitute for the age of consent bill, with the recommendation that it do pass. Bill to revise laws in relation to state and legislative departments, which was referred to code revision committee to ascertain in regard to its constitutionality, was passed. Bill to allow township trustees to vote a tax to build public halls passed third reading. House bill providing for election in Linn county passed. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

On motion the bill of Doubleday for a 4-mill assessment for county bridges was reconsidered and the same was passed by a vote of 53 to 30. The committee on public health reported favorably on the bill to suppress opium joints and the anti-cigarette bill, but adversely on the bill to appropriate for the state dairy association. Bill to amend code relating to elections, regarding notices of publications, in order that a successor may be chosen to fill the place made vacant by the death of the late Representative McClelland, passed. A bill was introduced to establish a board of inspectors of steam boilers. Bill prohibiting the practice of collecting dead hogs that died of disease and hauling to rendering establishments passed. Bill to transfer Marshall county from the Eleventh to the Seventeenth district was defeated. A memorial to Congress relative to the Vicksburg national park was adopted. A bill regulating registration of voters passed. Anti-cigarette bill was made special order for tomorrow. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 19.—Joint resolutions were introduced as follows: By Kilburn, to amend election laws so that elections will be held only on even numbered years; by Hipwell, directing the survey and sale of lands left dry by the disappearance of Swan and Muskrat lakes in Pocahontas county. These bills were introduced: By Hipwell, to exempt crematories from taxation; by Hurst, requiring corporations to file articles of incorporation with the secretary of state and procure a certificate to do business; by Mitchell, relative to adulteration of skimmed milk, cheese and butter; by Palmer, to create and regulate warehouses. Bill to provide penalties for failure to report diseases of infants at birth which might cause blindness passed. Bill relating to indebtedness of cities and towns passed, as did the bill providing for tax in certain cities of the first class for park purposes.

HOUSE.

Van Houten's resolution calling on auditor for information relative to railroad, telegraph and telephone taxation, passed. Bill prohibiting sale of malt liquors by pharmacists passed. Bill providing for extension of privilege of free libraries to towns, villages and townships passed. Bill increasing support fund of boys' department of the Iowa industrial school passed. Bill appropriating $2,700 per year for Iowa weather and crop service passed. Morrison offered a substitute for the Phelps anti-cigarette bill, and it was made a special order for to-morrow morning. A bill was introduced by Van Houten to prevent extortion of railroads in their charges for storage and transportation of packages. The democratic caucus bill regulating sales of liquor was defeated, 72 to 22, as was also the caucus manufacturing bill. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 20.—Bell introduced a bill to enable cities, towns and villages to levy a tax or license fee from foreign fire insurance companies for fire protection. House concurrent resolution requesting Iowa's congressional representatives to favor the proper improvement of Vicksburg national military park was concurred in. The military committee reported on the senate resolution with relation to medallions on the soldiers' monument a substitute which provides that the committee shall place on the monument no face of a soldier who did not serve in one or more battles; that thirty-two new ones be placed on the monument, so that every regiment may be represented; that no record be kept of the names of the originals of the medallion representations. Riggen presented a minority report opposing all medallion portraits and objecting to their use. Bill increasing from 2 to 3 mills the levy which may be made for fire purposes in cities of the first class, passed. Blanchard's bill to prevent combination between fire insurance companies came up, and was explained by the author. After debate the bill was ordered engrossed.

HOUSE.

These bills were introduced: By Bowers, for protection of game; by Klemme, granting pensions to all Iowa soldiers who enlisted between April 1, 1861, and May 1, 1865; by Putnam, to regulate the manufacture and sale of all goods marked "sterling" or sterling silver; by Reed, relating to appropriations for normal institutes; by St. John, in relation to adulterated milk, skimmed milk, cheese and butter; by Whittier, to authorize use of American photograph voting machines in elections; by Dowell, granting cities power to suppress houses of ill fame and opium joints. Bill to provide for the celebration of the semi-centennial of the admission of Iowa into the union, and to establish a memorial and art building and to appropriate money therefor, passed. Anti-cigarette bill was taken up but no action was taken.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 21.—Bills were introduced as follows: By Hurst, relative to trespassing on another's lands; by Young, for better protection of beneficiary organizations; by Ellison, to provide for placing criminal insane in a separate department at Anamosa penitentiary. Henderson offered a joint resolution to prevent sale of lake beds and creating an officer to be known as commissioner of lakes. Bill to abolish days of grace was reported unfavorably. Blanchard's bill to prevent combination of fire insurance companies passed, 42 to 3. Bill to legalize the voting of Sioux City's bridge tax passed. Carney's bill regulating primary elections was debated at length, but upon a vote failed to pass, 11 to 27. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

The speaker was authorized to appoint a committee to draft resolutions on the death of Simon L. Loftus, and Messrs. Hauger, Worth, McArthur and St. John were appointed. These bills were introduced: By Doubleday, to provide for the drainage of highways and to purchase by condemation the lands over which such drains shall be constructed; by Buchanan, to prohibit the removal of dirt, gravel or sand from the public highway; by Klemme, relating to persons riding bicycles on the highway when meeting persons on horseback or in vehicles; by Ladd, for better protection of members of beneficiary associations; by Mayne, to establish and govern building and loan associations. Funk's bill for amendment and revision of the code relating to the executive department passed. The anti-cigarette bill came up and was referred to the committee on public health, with instructions that the same be reported upon within five days. Bill providing for holding of district court at Correctionville passed, 55 to 24. Adjourned to Tuesday at 10 a. m.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 22.—These bills were introduced: By Cheshire, relating to savings banks; by Trewin, to provide for the manufacture and sale of malt and spirituous liquors; by Berry, relating to terms of redemption of land from executive sale; by Trewin, to regulate taking of testimony by depositions. Bill for better protection of game was reported favorably. Senate bill to prevent placing of mortgage on household goods without consent of both man and wife passed. Several legalizing acts were passed. Adjourned.

CASUALTIES.

The Vulcan coal mine, located in the side of a great hogback, two and a half miles below Newcastle, Colo., was wrecked and partially destroyed Tuesday by a terrific explosion of gas, and all the men employed in the mine at the time, to the number of sixty, were instantly killed.

Three women were killed in the Burdett building fire at Troy, N. Y., Monday.

A broken rail on the Rutland division of the Central Vermont railroad caused a serious wreck at a point about two miles north of Ludlow station, Vt., Tuesday. The engine of a passenger train was derailed and three coaches were thrown down a fifty-foot embankment. About a dozen persons were injured, four of them seriously.

Fire destroyed the farmhouse of Charles Gildermeister at Buxtom place, Riveton, Conn. Mrs. Gildermeister was burned to death. Mr. Gildermeister was so badly injured in trying to rescue his wife that he can scarcely recover.

Two adult daughters of Elmer Minear, a farmer of Kosciusko county, Indiana, were fatally burned while watching a brush fire.

By the explosion of a kettle in a candy manufactury at St. Joseph, Mo., George J. Ridley was killed, and Edward Ziph and Edward Ott were seriously hurt.

BREAK COUNTY LINES.

Wisconsin Apportionment Committee Decides It Legal.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 21.—The question whether or not county lines could be broken legally in the formation of senatorial districts was what troubled the legislative apportionment committee Wednesday and had to be settled before further progress is made. The committee finally voted on the question of breaking county lines in the formation of senate districts, and decied by one majority, 10 to 9, that it could be done. A subcommittee of five, consisting of Senator Baxter and Assemblymen Yawkey, Ray, Burdick and Rosencranz, was appointed to draw up a new bill for senate districts on the plan of breaking county lines where they find it necessary to obtain satisfactory results. Both bodies of the legislature held two sessions, but did no business, awaiting the report of the committee.

WAS TWICE HANGED.

Rope Breaks at the First Attempt to Execute Murderer Fitzgerald.

St. Louis, Feb. 21.—James Fitzgerald was hanged here yesterday for the murder of his sweetheart, Annie Naessens, on the night of Nov. 24, 1893. The trap was sprung at 10 o'clock, and the culprit shot down six feet, but not to death. The rope broke and the victim lay struggling on the ground beneath the gallows. The black cap was instantly removed by the doctors, who found Fitzgerald still conscious. Stimulants were given, and he revived and was taken into the morgue a few feet away, where he was further cared for by the doctors. A new rope was sent for at once, and at 11 o'clock the sick and trembling but nervy victim was again taken to the scaffold. At 11:02 the trap was again sprung, and this time the conremned man went to death.

Report on Prussian Railroad System

Washington, Feb. 21.—A strong argument for government ownership of railways is contained in a report to the state department by United States Commercial Agent Moore, at Weimar, upon the Prussian railroad system. He shows that last year the gross receipts from these railways were $244,467,174, or more than half of the entire revenue of the state. The net earnings, deducting $53,240,600 interest on working capital and sinking fund, were $51,051,000, which will be turned into the treasury for the use of the state. This sum is larger than the income derived from taxes of all kinds.

Apoplexy Claims Another Victim.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 21.—Ex-Governor George D. Robinson, one of Massachusetts' most prominent lawyers, was stricken with apoplexy Wednesday.

March

April, May are most emphatically the months for taking a good blood purifier, because the system is now most in need of such a medicine, and because it more quickly responds to medicinal qualities. In winter impurities do not pass out of the body freely, but accumulate in the blood.

April

The best medicine to purify, enrich and vitalize the blood, and thus give strength and build up the system, is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Thousands take it as their Spring Medicine, and more are taking it today than ever before. If you are tired, "out of sorts," nervous, have bad taste in the morning, aching or dizzy head, sour stomach and feel all run down, a course of Hood's Sarsaparilla will put your whole body in good order and make you strong and vigorous. It is the ideal Spring Medicine and true nerve tonic, because

May

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, carefully prepared. 25 cents.

Ornamenting

It recently occurred to Tiffany & Co., the New York jewelers, to ornament a bicycle elaborately with gold, silver, and precious stones, believing that some wealthy customer would esteem so handsome a mount. They preferred to pay $100 each for

Columbia Bicycles

For their purpose to using any other make of wheel. There must be no question of quality in a bicycle selected for such ornamentation. Therefore they chose Columbias

STANDARD OF THE WORLD
Unequalled, Unapproached.

Beautiful Art Catalogue of Columbia and Hartford Bicycles is free if you call upon any Columbia agent; by mail from us for two 2-cent stamps.

POPE MANUFACTURING CO.
Factories and General Offices, Hartford, Conn.

Branch Stores and Agencies in almost every city and town. If Columbias are not properly represented in your vicinity let us know.

A Fortune for Market Gardeners!

The Wonderful New African Bunch Yam Early Sweet Potato, as yellow as gold and sweet as honey, earliest and most prolific known; a bonanza for the north, on account of its rapid growth and early maturity; matures in the extreme north long before frost; easily cultivated, as it grows right up with no vines to bother with; an immense yielder.

Large Free Catalogue containing over fifty new varieties seeds, including my New Home-Grown Coffee, with testimonials from patrons all over the Union who have tried it. It costs only 2 cents per pound to raise this coffee. Potato seed, post paid, 25 cents per pound by C. E. COLE, Seedsman, Buckner, Mo.

Free sample of Coffee and Large Catalogue for 5 cts. stamps.

and a thousand other famous horses are standing testimonials to the efficacy of

Quinn's Ointment

Never fails to cure Cobs, Splints, Spavins, Wind-puffs, Bunches and abscesses. Proof free. Price $1.50. Smaller size $1. At druggists or by mail.

W. B. EDDY & CO., Whitehall, N. Y.

THE AERMOTOR CO. does half the world's windmill business, because it has reduced the cost of wind power to 1.6 what it was. It has many branch houses, and supplies its goods and repairs at your door. It can and does furnish a better article for less money than others. It makes Pumping and Geared, Steel, Galvanized aeromotor Windmills, Tilting and Flat Steel Towers, Steel Buzz Saw Frames, Feed Cutters and Feed Grinders. On application it will name one of these styles that it will furnish until January 1st at 1/3 of usual price. It also makes Tanks and Pumps of all kinds. Send for catalogue. Factory: 12th, Rockwell and Fillmore Streets, Chicago.

WELL MACHINERY

Illustrated catalogue showing WELL AUGERS, ROCK DRILLS, HYDRAULIC AND JETTING MACHINERY, etc. SENT FREE. Has been tested and all warranted.

Sioux City Engine & Iron Works, Successors to Sioux City Iron Mfg. Co.
Sioux City, Iowa.
THE ROWELL & CHAMACHINERY CO., 1414 Wesleventh Street, Kansas City, Mo.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS.

but sell direct to the consumer at wholesale prices, ship anywhere for examination before sale. Everything warranted. 100 styles of Carriages, 90 styles of Harness, 41 styles Riding Saddles. Write for catalogue. ELKHART CARRIAGE & HARNESS MFG. CO., ELKHART, IND.

W. B. PRATT, Jr.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Restores and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

$5 and Bone, Shell, and Corn Mills for Poultrymen, Bone Cutter, Power Mills, Shellar and testimonials Free. WILSON BROS., Easton, Pa.

We have heard of w... wooden ducks, but a wood... is something new under the sun-... its purposes are different from those of either of the other wooden animals mentioned. If is a not a toy, though it will please a boy. It is a hen, at least it will hatch chickens from hens' eggs.

It is 10x15x8 inches and will take care of twenty-eight eggs. It is an incubator and costs only $6.00.

This wooden hen is made by George H. Stahl, Quincy, Ill. If you want to find out more about it before you buy one write to Mr. Stahl for catalogue "W," which gives a full description, and mention this paper.

Things That will Happen.

"You're not a cousin or anything like that of our fair hostess, are you?"

"No; nothing of the sort."

"Well did you ever attend such a stupid affair in your life."

"Ye-es, a good many. I—I'm her husband you see and I have to.

WHERE DID YOU GET THIS COFFEE?

Had the Ladies' Aid Society of our Church out for tea, forty of them, and all pronounced the German Coffeeberry equal to Rio! Salzer's catalogue tells you all about it! 35 packages Earliest vegetable seeds $1.00 post paid.

If you will cut this out and send with 15c. stamps to John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will get free a package of above great coffee seed and our 148 page catalogue! Catalogue alone 6c. w.n.

A happy man was recently seen in El Dorad... He declared he had just found a gold nugget weighing over 31 pounds and worth about $8,000

Deafness Can Not Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is b... constitutional remedies. Deafness is c...sed by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When the tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists; 75c.
Hall's Family Pills, 25c.

A toboggan slide at St. Moritz, Switzerland, is three-quarters of a mile long, and those who use it shoot from end to end in seventy-one seconds.

There is money to be made in Cripple Creek. When you go take the "Rock Island Route" to Colorado Springs.

This is the only direct line—saves several hours' time to Cripple Creek.

Send for full information.

JOHN SEBASTIAN,
General Passenger Agent, Chicago.

"What is the matter with Phillips senior? He has been ill ever since his son went to college." "Remittent fever, possibly."

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR
W. L. DOUGLAS $3. SHOE BEST IN THE WORLD.

If you pay $4 to $6 for shoes, examine the W. L. Douglas Shoe, and see what a good shoe you can buy for $3.

OVER 100 STYLES AND WIDTHS,

CONGRESS, BUTTON, and LACE, made in all kinds of the best selected leather by skilled workmen. We make and sell more $3 Shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

None genuine unless name and price is stamped on the bottom.

Ask your dealer for our $5, $4, $3.50, $2.50, $2.25 Shoes; $2.50, $2 and $1.75 for boys.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE. If your dealer cannot supply you, send to factory, enclosing price and 30 cents to pay carriage. State kind, style of toe (cap or plain), size and width. Our Custom Dept. will fill your order. Send for new Illustrated Catalogue to Box R.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

10,000 MEN WANTED!

To buy our Trees, Shrubs and Vines. See some of our salesmen, or write us. Want fifty more salesmen. Liberal terms. Des Moines Nursery Co., Des Moines, Ia.

CRIPPLE CREEK. Write BECHEN INVESTMENT CO., Denver, for what you want.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION
25 CTS. 25 CTS.

TIOMANE.

BY JACQUES VINCENT.

COPYRIGHT 1892 BY RAND, McNALLY & CO.

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER XI.—(CONTINUED).

Tiomane, who was always respectful, busied herself in arranging some music on the piano, longing for the moment when she might say good night to Madame de Sorgnes.

But the latter was not at all sleepy, and, lighting a fresh cigarette, was evidently prepared for a long conversation about this wonderful evening.

"And you, my silent darling," she said, addressing Maritza, "did you enjoy your coming out ball, belle debutante?"

Maritza pretended not to hear her mother's question, and seemed absorbed in the work of taking the pearl ornaments from her golden hair.

"Do you know, ma mignonne, you turned all the heads this evening; yes, all—old and young," continued the fond mother, still smoking her cigarette gracefully, and looking admiringly at her daughter. "Yes, Mademoiselle, all—all!" She emphasized the last word with evident pleasure.

Maritza shrugged her shoulders impatiently, but did not reply.

"Decidedly, you ought to be called 'The Beautiful Mute,' my darling. Come and sit beside me. Do you not know that I want to question you? Yes, it is only to hear your confession, ma mignonne, that I am here."

Annoyed, at last, by this strange silence, Madame de Sorgnes threw aside her cigarette, rose and took her daughter's hands in her own, as if to force her attention.

Maritza disengaged herself quickly, saying in a petulant tone, "Let me alone, mamma."

"What is the matter with you, my child?" asked the fond mother.

"Nothing, mamma, I am only weary, oh! so weary," and the spoiled child burst into tears.

"Maritza!" exclaimed the mother, now really alarmed.

"Dear little one," added "Mademoiselle," rushing forward as if to protect her favorite from some invisible enemy, and drawing the beautiful young head to her bosom.

"Maritza, what does this mean?" murmured Madame de Sorgnes, bending and kissing away the tears which coursed down the lovely face. Tiomane had stopped in her work of arranging the music, and stood at the piano, outwardly calm, but trembling from head to foot at the presentiment of coming sorrow. With a fervent prayer for help, she nerved herself to meet it.

"What is the matter, pet?" again pleaded the anxious mother.

Maritza disengaged herself from "Mademoiselle's" protecting arms, and, standing erect, answered, with indescribable violence:

"The matter is, mamma, that here, in my own home, I have been insulted—most grossly insulted."

"Insulted, darling!" interrupted Madame de Sorgnes; "impossible!"

"Yes, mamma, Prince Hassan even—"

"Prince Hassan, my treasure! Why, do you not know that he came here tonight only to see you. He saw you. He was enchanted, as every one is. He told me so over and over again. Yes, sweet one," she added, taking her daughter's head in her hands and kissing the beautiful golden hair, "yes, with one little word you can make Prince Hassan the happiest of men and wear, 'Mademoiselle la Duchesse,' as Guillaume calls you, the closed crown of a princess on this lovely head."

Maritza, recoiling, answered, in a transport of anger bordering on frenzy, "No, no, mamma, never. The prince has insulted me—do you understand? Insulted me for this low born stranger—this intriguer—this perfidious girl."

"I—I! Maritza!" cried Tiomane, pale and cold as a statute. "Do you dare to speak of me thus?"

"Yes, of you, 'my sister, my sister!' " the angry girl replied, with bitter irony. "What an honor for me! My sister, indeed! You are no fool that I must acknowledge. You prepared your triumph most skillfully."

"Prepared my triumph?" echoed Tiomane, no longer trying to curb her anger.

"Yes, prepared. Do you imagine that your maneuvers are so well planned that I can not see through them? You saw the admiration of the prince for me, and, in your ambition, your jealousy, your malice, you determined to supplant me. Mamma, if you only knew how I have been insulted this evening! Can you believe it? The prince had invited me to waltz, in her presence, and she dragged him off to the banquet-hall, under the pretense of needing some refreshments, and kept him there in order to prevent him from keeping his engagement with me—in order to inflict on me the shame of being forgotten—yes, forgotten. I—I—the daughter of the consul-general of France."

"Oh, you wicked girl! you base liar!" cried Tiomane, exasperated beyond all bounds.

"I appeal to 'Mademoiselle' for the truth of what I have said," retorted Maritza triumphantly!

Tiomane looked at the governess, as if she expected but scant justice from her avowed enemy.

"Speak, Pascale," said Madame de Sorgnes imperiously.

"Alas!" that lady replied, in one of sorrow which was contradicted by the wicked joy which gleamed in her stony eyes, "I must confess, madam, that Tiomane's conduct this evening has been very improper."

Tiomane became as pale at this reply, but, making a supreme effort to master her righteous indigration, she said, fixing her now dilated blue eyes on the hypocritical governess:

"Perhaps I am indebted to Mademoiselle Pascale for the discovery of my baseness."

"Precisely, my dear child," that lady replied, with imperturbable coolness. "My position as director of your education imposes upon me the task, the duty, rather, of guiding your first steps in society, and confess I was surprised and shocked at your want of breeding. I thought had so trained you, had inculcated such principles, as were fitted to preserve you from the grave faults into which you have fallen this evening. I and you coquettish to a degree which I could not have believed had I not seen it with my own eyes, and that with Prince Hassan, whom you met for the first time. I observed that, as soon as the dance was ended, he led you, or rather you led him, to the supper-room—"

"A great crime," Tiomane interrupted impetuously, "to be thirsty and to take a sherbet in a room with fifty other persons who were doing the same thing."

"The crime, as you call it, my dear, was not in taking a sherbet," replied "Mademoiselle," in a tone of tranquil security, and with the benevolent expression of a hyena sure of his prey, "for, as you say, there is nothing more proper, after a waltz, than to take the arm of your partner and go to the supper-room for an ice or a sherbet. But it is very improper for a young girl to prolong the tete-a tete."

"The tete-a tete, as you are pleased to call it, as likewise our conversation in the ball-room, was of Maritza alone."

"I am quite willing to believe it, my child," replied her pitiless tormentor; "nevertheless, to lookers-on who knew nothing of the conversation it had the appearance of a flirtation, which, I must tell you, was very harshly commented upon. An invitation to Mademoiselle de Sorgnes in her own ball-room is noted, for when she accepts it she is obliged to refuse many others who desire the honor of dancing with her. Prince Hassan's invitation was noted. You were seen leaving the ball-room on his arm; the waltz began; Maritza waited his return to claim her. It would be quite useless, my dear, to wound your feelings by repeating the comments which were made on your improper conduct."

"This is really abominable!" cried Madame de Sorgnes.

"You see, you see, mamma," added Maritza, who was seated on her mother's knee, while Tiomane and her hypocritical governess stood confronting each other.

"Finally," continued the governess in the same calm, dignified tone, "it was my duty to remember that this scandal would fall upon the beloved family which has so long honored me with its confidence. I could not ignore this duty. This is the reason, Tiomane, that I induced Maritza to go to the supper-room under the pretext of taking a glass of orangeade. I hoped that she would return to the ball-room on the prince's arm, and that your bold attempt at a flirtation with his royal highness would be overlooked."

"You acted intelligently and wisely, Pascale," concluded Madame de Sorgnes.

Tiomane had listened to this pitiless arraignment as one in a dream, utterly unable to comprehend such audacious mendacity. Again and again her white lips half opened in an exclamation of horror, but the words died unuttered, and a frightful terror took possession of her at the semblance of truth concealed under the infamous calumny.

"OH, YOU WICKED GIRL!"

"It is incredible," said Madame de Sorgnes, indignant, that any one should make her Maritza weep; "such duplicity, such insolence—it is really incredible."

"And therefore, dear mamma," continued Maritza, rising, and darting at Tiomane a look of contempt. "After supper, as you know, there was singing—"

"Ah," murmured Tiomane, "they reproach me with the voice which God has given me!"

"The cultivation of which, however, you owe to us, as, indeed, you owe all that you are," answered Madame de Sorgnes, in a harsh tone.

"Yes," said Maritza, "a servant of donkeys, picked up by us on the highway, in her miserable village."

"Alas!" replied Tiomane sadly, "how I wish you had left me in my village!"

"Ungrateful, heartless girl!" retorted Madame de Sorgnes.

"Not ungrateful, not heartless, but humiliated, tortured, from the first day I entered your house—suffering every kind of injustice—always misunderstood—"

"On the contrary, only too well understood," interrupted Mademoiselle Pascale ironically.

"Ah! this is indeed your day of triumph," replied the poor victim, "for all this is your work, begun the first hour I entered this house, and continued pitilessly ever since."

"Do you dare attack 'Mademoiselle' now?" interrupted Madame de Sorgnes severely. "'Mademoiselle,' who has taken such pains with your education. Your insolence passes all bounds. Be silent, I command you."

The silvery voice had lost its sweetness.

"No, my dear madam, I must speak. My heart is too full. I can not remain silent. I do not deny your generous intentions toward me. As Maritza has just said, you picked me up on the highway—a poor orphan—a servant of donkeys. But I must tell you, that here, in this palace, I have been more oppressed, more wretched, than in the poor hovel from which you took me. A bitter hatred has pursued me, unceasingly, with all the refinements of indefetagable cruelty. Oh! What an unhappy childhood! What tears, what struggles, what despair!"

She stopped, overcome by emotion. Madame de Sorgnes had not a bad heart, but she was thoroughly angry, and she saw in Tiomane a rebel, whose every word only increased her guilt.

"My congratulations on the feats of the past," she said cruelly; "your own words prove that even in childhood you bore within you the seeds of the worst, the most perverse, disposition."

Tiomane staggered under this last blow. She remained for a moment motionless, half suffocated. Then, as if animated by a supreme resolve, she rose, her face livid, her features frozen with despair. "Madame," she stammered, "will you permit me to leave your house?"

"As soon as you please," Madame de

PAGE XII.

...CRISIS O... years, of anger, of despair, passed away, and Tiomane grew calm and was able to see things in their true light. It was now broad daylight, but she did not think of trying to sleep. She threw a mantilla over her shoulders, and opened a ... the morning re... and she tried to ... was to be sudd... such insults, her ... was no longer poss... burst on her head, ... herself perfectly s... five years her life h... pier, for this brave ... herself, by degrees, a... and above the petty ... which she was surrou... custom had done, as ... work. Her position in t... plainly marked out, and ... sary, bon gre, mal gre, to ... to it. She knew that th... teemed her, for he took evi... in conversing with her, and ... gratulated her on her ra... gifts. Madame de Sorgnes, ... olus nature could not understa... appreciate so noble a charac... nevertheless, flattered by the su... her protege; and as for Mari... was as much attached to her ... sive companion as so selfish a girl could be. Mademoiselle Pascale, ... had kept up the old animosity, ... its expression had become less ... able. The remarkable progress of her pupil, her courageous perseverance, her rapid artistic development, her dignified, elegant manners, caused the reproaches to grow less and less frequent—they were gradually dying out for want of element. For a long time her hostility had been shown only in the stony look of her cold eyes, and in the harshness of the tone in which she addressed her pupil. But she had one sincere friend, whose affection was not weakened by time or absence. She had seen him but once in five years during the last vacation passed at Berk. She was then sixteen, and he confided to "his tall sister," as he liked to call her, his young dreams of the future—the ambitious dreams of a youth of twenty.

All this past, with its intense joys and its poignant sorrows, was gone forever; and the future which she was to make for herself—what was it to be? What was she to do? What was to become of her, thus abandoned far from her own country, and without any pecuniary resources whatever? One situation alone seemed possible. She was well educated, and a fine musician. Could she not find among the ladies whom she had met at the consulate a position as governess, or as demoiselle de compagnie? But before taking any steps to obtain such a position, would it not be necessary to ask Madame de Sorgnes' permission, and would it be granted?

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

WEAPONS INDIANS FEAR.

They Don't Like to Face Telescopic Sights and Heavy Bullets.

"Indians sometimes face light fight-arms with great courage, but they fight shy of the attentions of any weapon that sends a large projectile," said Col. F. A. Blake, who has had wide experience on the western plains. "The rush and scream of the heavy bullet frightens them, and they prefer to keep away from their range. To that not unreasonable prejudice is due the fact that the buffalo hunters of the early '70s, who in following their business were constantly exposed to the attacks of the hostile Indians, were molested comparatively little by them. The long, heavy rifle, with its telescopic sights and the knowledge of the deadly certainty of the buffalo hunter's aim, almost invariably served to make the red man keep his distance, and set him temporarily free from the notion of scalp hunting.

"One buffalo hunter by the name of Murdock, that I knew, was creeping upon a herd on the naked plain when he saw a band of Comanches riding toward him. He instantly leveled his gun upon them as a warning that they should not approach too near. Checking his warriors the chief of the band pointed with his hand to a buffalo in the distant herd, then mentioned in the Indian language that the hunter should shoot it. Murdock fired as the chief indicated, and the buffalo fell. The Indians gave a loud 'How' of approval, waved their hands, turned their ponies and swept on past the hunter, leaving him to pursue his shooting of the buffalo unmolested."

A Mustard Bath.

A Germantown man had a novel experience with a would-be burglar a few nights ago, says the Philadelphia Record. His wife, on several occasions, had heard noises as if somebody was trying to enter the residence. On the night in question the man of the house had returned home about 1 o'clock in the morning and was sitting in the kitchen soaking his feet in strong mustard water, when he heard some one prying at the shutter. Hastily ascending into the second story, and looking from the window, he espied the burglar hard at work with a jimmy at the shutter. Being in a quandary as to what to do under the circumstances, and with no weapon to defend himself and family, he bethought himself of the tub of water in which he had been soaking his feet. He quickly brought this and doused it on the burglar's head. A muttered curse was all that was heard as the man jumped the back fence and disappeared, leaving behind his kit of tools, which the man of the house shows to verify his story.

An Interesting Scientific Toy.

A toy was shown recently before the London Physiological society which possesses more than ordinary interest. In construction it is extremely simple, consisting of a flat circular disk mounted as a top. One half of the disk is white, the other half black. On the white half are drawn in different positions small segments of black circles, concentric with the circumference. If one were asked what would be the result of the fusion of black and white color sensations which occur in spinning the top one would possibly say gray. But the remarkable fact is nevertheless true that the rings appear colored—red, yellow, blue and violet. On reversing the top the order of the color is reversed. No satisfactory explanation could be given for the phenomenon.

Parasol and Purse.

If you have a parasol let it be one which will stand wear; not the pretty, flower-like kind which wilt at even a damp thought. If you want to look especially well carry a goodly supply of pocket handkerchiefs along and invest in a new pocketbook. This latter is as important an adjunct of the toilet now as the dress itself, and not even a lovely pair of gloves have half a chance when they are clasping a shabby purse.

He ... When Geronimo ... Captured.

From the Press, New York City.

Worn with the exposure of army life on the frontier, and poisoned by the continual drinking of alkali water, Joseph Flegauf returned to Philadelphia eight years ago, broken down in health and unable to do any work.

He had served five years with the Ninth United States Infantry in many a desperate fight with the Indians in Arizona and other frontier states and had won an enviable record. In the fierce conflict when Geronimo, the famous chief of the Apaches, was captured, Mr. Flegauf was among the brave soldiers who, forgetful of everything but duty, charged upon the hostile Indians.

Life on the plains sent to an untimely death many soldiers who were never touched by a redskin's bullet or arrow and Mr. Flegauf came near such a fate as that. A long time before his time was out he was taken seriously ill, but he stuck to his post until an honorable discharge was finally given to him.

When he reached Philadelphia, the Indian fighter was scarcely more than skin and bones, and for three weeks he lay desperately ill in a hospital. He felt dizzy, and his stomach felt as if it had dried up. These symptoms were accompanied by bloody dysentery, which no medicine seemed to relieve.

After two years of suffering, Mr. Flegauf came to New York and was treated by several physicians. These did not agree, some calling his disease catarrh of the stomach, and others chronic diarrhoea.

In speaking to a reporter about his illness Mr. Flegauf said the doctors helped him but, with all the money he spent for advice and medicine, he was able to work only a small part of the time. Since moving to his present home, No. 5 West Forty-second street, in New York, about a year ago, Mr. Flegauf has been so ill that his voice and hearing almost left him.

Then all medicines failed, and the sick man had little hope of recovery. At this critical time Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People were recommended to Mr. Flegauf, and, almost as a last hope, he began taking them.

"The benefial effect of the medicine was felt at once," Mr. Flegauf told the reporter, "and before I had taken a box I began to eat with relish. Three boxes made me so much better that I began work and have been able to keep at it since, for five months."

Dr. William's Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

Spurius ancient coins, some of them of dates anterior to the Christian era, are made in large quantities in London and sold all over the world.

Two bicyclists, Eddie and Theodore Kraguess rode all the way from Minneapolis to San Francisco. They traveled the distance in 38 days, averaging 75 miles a day.

GROW RICH EVERY FARMER.

The editor thinks it is the wish of everybody to grow rich, not for the sake of the money, but for the good that can be done with the money. Now, there are three new cereals recently created that will make money for the farmer. One is Silver King Barley, the most wonderful creation of the age, yielding 90, 100 to 116 bu. per acre in 1895, and there are thousands of farmers who believe they can grow 150 bu. per acre therefrom in 1896.

Then there is Silver Mine Oats, yielding in 1895 209 bu. per acre. Every farmer who tested it, raises 250 bu possible.

Then there is Golden Triumph Corn, which produced over 200 bu. per acre, and 250 bu. is surely possible.

And potatoes, there is Salzer's Earliest, which was fit for table in 28 days in 1895, yielding tremendously, while the Champion of the World, tested in a thousand different places in 1895, yielded from 8 to 1,600 bu. per acre.

Now, in Salzer's new catalogue there is a wonderful arrayal of new varieties of wheat, oats, barley, rye, potatoes, grasses, clovers and forage plants, and the editor believes that it would pay every farmer a thousand-fold to get this catalogue before buying seeds.

If you will cut this out and send it with 10 cents postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will receive, free, 10 grain and grass samples, including above and their mammoth catalogue. Catalogue alone, 5 cents postage. w.n.

Professor Huxley asserted that one acre of good fishing space in the ocean will yield more food in a week than one acre of the best land in a year.

A Trip to the Garden Spots of the South.

On March 10 tickets will be sold from principal cities, towns and villages of the north, to all points on the Louisville & Nashville railroad in Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida and a portion of Kentucky, at one single fare for the round trip. Tickets will be good to return within thirty days and will allow stop-over at any points on the south bound trip. Ask your ticket agent about it, and if he can not sell you excursion tickets write to C. P. Atmore, General Passenger Agent, Louisville, Ky., or Geo. B. Horner, D. P. A., St. Louis, Mo.

Women dentists are coming to the front. Two of them have hung out their shingles in Chicago.

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

The "Bird of Death," a native of New Guinea, is about the size of a pigeon. Its bite causes lockjaw, loss of sight and is nearly always fatal.

I know that my life was saved by Piso's Cure for Consumption. JOHN A. MILLER, Au Sable, Michigan, April 21, 1895.

Nearly all the rivers in West Africa within 1,000 miles east and west of Ashantee, yield gold.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth,
Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.

Kansas City is worth $58,967,300 and owes $864,123.

IRRITATION OF THE THROAT AND HOARSENESS are immediately relieved by "Brown's Bronchial Troches." Have them always ready.

John Wanamaker has sixty-two insurance policies on his life.

"A Cup of Parks' Tea at night moves the bowels in the morning."

A cubic foot of gold weighs 1,209¼ pounds avoirdupois.

Everyone knows how it is to suffer with corns, and they are not conducive to graceful walking. Remove them with Hindercorns.

Mr. and Mrs. Durgin, of Portland, Me., are still a lively and jolly old couple, although his age is 102, and hers 99.

Many influences combine to reduce health to the danger limit. The reviving properties of Parker's Ginger Tonic best overcome these ills.

Nine years ago ten women in New York City organized the order of King's Daughters. Its membership is now over 400,000.

...And you in... time. ...e got one. How about pay? ...Well, we'll pay you—let—me—

...ay mister, make it enough to keep ...le in repair, won't you?

Sifted From the Blood

...idneys, impurities pass off harmless. The inactivity of the organs named ...y cause these impurities to remain ...on the system, but also leads to the ...ration and destruction of the organs ...elves. Prevent Bright's disease, dropsy, gravel and other ailments ...affect the kidneys and bladder with ...ter's Stomach Bitters, which likewise ...overcomes malarial, dyspeptic, bilious, ...us and rheumatic complaints.

To Be Continued.

He—I guess there's going to be some more ...arreling in our church choir.

She—You don't mean it!

He—Yes, I do; the contralto is going to ...marry the tenor.

Pure California Wines.

Pure Wines, for FAMILY and MEDICINAL purposes, are a NECESSITY and not a LUXURY. Send $8.50 to C. F. A. Last, 129 and 131 North Main St., Los Angeles, Cal., and get two cases (24 quart bottles) of PURE OLD CALIFORNIA WINE (assorted) FREIGHT PREPAID. Reference, any bank in Los Angeles, Bradstreet or Dun's Agencies. I guarantee the quality and purity of all shipments. Send for lists to C. F. A. Last, Los Angeles, Cal.

A dictionary recently issued in England ...levotes 17¼ columns to the various meanings of the word devil.

Hegeman's Camphor Ice with Glycerine. The original and only genuine. Cures Chapped Hands and Face, Cold Sores, &c. C. G. Clark Co., N. Haven, Ct.

...ST. ...

you do the mending

Not the Merchant.

He wants to make as much as he can by selling you inferior bindings which he claims are "just as good" as S. H. & M. But you do the mending. Insist on having

THE S. H. & M.

Bias Velveteen Skirt Binding and you save the mending.

If your dealer will not supply you, we will.

Send for samples, showing labels and materials, to the S. H. & M. Co., P. O. Box 699, New York City.

W. N. U. D. M.--1233 NO. 9

When answering advertisements kindly mention this paper

The coming Artist who knows enough to paint a popular subject.

Battle Ax

day in the week.

...EICHSELBAUM, M'GR.,
...LEMME, IOWA.

The ... toba... AL & CO.

The 5 ... ys Lead ... large ... high ... At The Lowest Prices

...ON for IC...

...TH, ...ORS ...C. M'GR.

...convinced of the ...

...S!

...large ...Book of Foreign and Wash Dress Goods.

De Kalb F...

...TS.

CUT AND SL... ...m City Hats and Caps for ...

SMOKING TOB... RING WARE. 2 oz. for 5 Ce... and Boy's Pants, Overalls, CUT AND SL.... SHADES.

CHEROOTS—3 for ... Give a Good, Mellow, Pleasant Smoke. Try ... ur NEW GOODS.

LYON & CO. TOBACCO WORKS, Du...

...T all Winter Goods very

PATENTS, TRADE...

...vention. Send for "Inventors' Guide," ... Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Wash...

KLEMME, IA.

WE PAY You to Sell Fruit T... SERIES, Louisiana, Mo.

STEEL WEB PICKET ... Also CABLED ...

We manufacture a complete li... rented. If you consider quality we ...

THE KL...

Marion A. Fell & Co

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm loans at 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old relisbl Farmers' Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on us, we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co,

Garner, Iow...

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME, Belmond, Iowa.

ALEX... 1a...OD,

...towns, especi...
is feared that other towns ... to follow the example of Grand Junction and close the schools and forbid further gatherings. Boone has a few cases of scarlet fever, but they are not of the malignant type.

A. R. CHAMBERLAIN, an old resident of State Center, committed suicide. The deed was committed at his home. Mr. Chamberlain had been sick for some time, but seemed better on the day his death, and gave no intimation he was contemplating self-destruc... At noon, however, he stepped q... to the bed room, took a revolver... a shelf and sent a bullet into his... The ball entered at the t... Chamberlain died ... an hou... was about 7... An ag... survives hin...

CASHIER ... Maurice St... passed int... been arres... preferred ... On examir... Bennett li... were four... the rece... place wa... amount. ... were fo... destroye... own wh...

AT D... baggag... depot ... two zi... arrive... police...

...on

IOWA.

...scribe for ...

...EMME ...

...r. Year

...largest piece of ... sold for ... 10c ... 25c ... grade ... nearly ...

...our Days to ...fornia.

...sponse to ...ular de... the Minnea... & St... Railroad ent... upon it... ...ar of Phili... ...personall... ...ted Excurs... to Ca... ...Elegant up... ...erad... Further ... fact that they had b... the graveyard at Oma... been buried several d... of the dead persons w... and Hannah Larsen. Emanuel hospital. be made to convict t...

WHILE switching ... Williams Brakema... buque, fell from th... Three cars passed ... him almost instant... completely severed ... man and about 25 ...

THE trial of J... Chicago, Rock Isl... way Company is ... court at Oskaloos... ored man who ha... Altoona. His ... forcibly ejected ... company's empl... the trucks. He ...

IN the district ... case of Editor Shnessee. Houses, barns, good wells Banner, against... ...ch, Apple, Pear and Apricot or... Railway Co., for... ...rds. All kinds of grain grown on... being run over ... s land. Plenty of fuel cheap. No decided in favo... ...ste lands, price $10 to $20, from 1 to ...

MICHAEL ... Billes form R. R. towns. J. R. CLINE.

THE ... & St Louis R. R. Co

A NEW TRAIN TO OMAHA AND DES MOIOES

is a HUMMER!

Look out For IT!

THROUGH CARS.

PULLMANS & COACHES

GREAT!

will run through on time, ...hing Des. Moines, Omaha, ...ver, California and all points ...he West. The previous com... ...e service will not be disturb... ...by the addition of this train. ... your nearest M. & St. L. R. ticket agent for rates and ...rticulars.

A. B. CUTTS,
Gen'l Ticket & Pass. Agt.

...NEW... ...t. Vance.

...EVERY FRIDAY. ...he Post Office at Klem... ...second class matter Oct. ...

GR... ...D & CLINE, PUBLISHERS.

...oodell Items.

Mrs. Wiles is on the sick list.

Tom Cashman is again able to be out.

Will Farman was at Belmond Monday.

Fred Williams, of Garner, was in town Monday.

There are a good many on the sick list these days.

G. W. Wellmeyer, of Belmond, was in town Friday.

R. M. Brisco was a Buffalo Center visitor Monday.

Mr. Eldred, of Belmond, was in town on busines Monday.

A sale of farm machinery occured on our strets Saturday.

Mr. Perkins ad Mr. Holt, of Clarion, were in own Tuesday.

The Masquerde Monday eve was all right ony there were no costums.

G. W. Robinon has sold his town property to Ellis Burk for $1300.

It is rumore that G. W. Butts and Dr. Gooenow have purchased the drg store.

Dr. Thompon subtracted the index finger rom the left hand of Harry Thonis last Friday.

Freddie Eveheart, of Corwith was visiting in town last Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Kephger, who lives southwest of own, fell off a hay stack last week and broke one of his ribs.

Ann... Galagher, of Belmond, was in town Sunday visiting with Mrs. Veltum.

J. E. Velm and Martin Sullivan are ng to organize a ball club this eason.

The ... Fellows have secured Rev. ...dley to address them in the ...B. Church, on March 4th.

Mr. Africa who has been sick for some time, died at four a. m. Monday morning. This makes five deaths in our little city in less than two weeks.

Garner.

A. N. Ellis of Orthel twp. has moved to Garner.

J. S. Higenbotham, of Thompson was in Garner Monday.

H. B. Stanton left for Chicago Thursday with four car load of cattle and hogs.

The Epworth and Junior leages the English M. E. Church are preparing a series of special programes for Easter Week.

The Garner Driving Park Association have elected their officers for the comming year and instructed the directors to plat and place on sale the 20 lots facing the west.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR.

[DISSOLVED FLOWERS OF SULPHUR.]

Natures greatest germicide, its action being rapid and effective. A few drops, or at most a few ounces, will permanently cure the most stubborn cases of Blood and Skin disorder. Cures Diphtheria in a few hours; Canker Sore Mouth in ten minutes; Catarrh, short course of treatment; Granulated Eyelids, four to six days; Sore Throat, one gargling; Rheumatism, short course of treatment; Erysipelas, two or three applications, and so on through the long list of Blood and Skin diseases—Eczema, Acne, Itch, Ringworm, Pimples, Salt Rheum Herpes, Hives, Tetter, Dandruff, Falling Hair, and all scalp diseases, Open Sores, Tumors, Ulcerated Conditions, Piles and Itching Piles. This is not a "cure-all" but a Guaranteed remedy for above diseases, which are caused by Parasite and impure condition of the blood. Full directions with each bottle.

Dr. H. F. Thompson, of Goodell, Iowa, says: "I applied Compound Liquid Sulphur in several cases of Diphtheria which were becoming formidable. One application entirely removed the membrane, and my patients were discharged on the following day. I consider Compound Liquid Sulphur superior to any other remedy for the successful treatment of diphtheria."

Mrs. S. G. Bunce, Belmond, Iowa, says: "I had suffered with Rheumatism in my right arm for three years and during that time tried almost every known remedy, but got no relief. Three applications of Compound Liquid Sulphur has entirely cured me.

Compound Liquid Sulphur is for sale by J. L. HARR.

...AL HORRO...

...ransvaal, F... ...of dyna...

...ing fo... ...parted.

Edgar W. ... slowly dy... mous "Bill" N... ing at his home ... Ashville, N. C.

It is report... by on exchange that Col. Ing... sol has found a church that likes. The united prayers the Christian Endeavors m... of had some effect.

The ci...ses of Sells Bros. and Adam ...repaugh have been merged by the sale of the latter to the ...rmer, and will hereafter be kn...n as the Sells Brothers-Ada... Forepaugh Big Show of the ...orld. The sale was but recen... consumated. When the ag...regation is on the road it will o...upy sixty-four cars, and when ...camped in a city the various ...arts of the exhibition will be ...overed under fifteen tents.—Ex.

RICH, BUT SHOVELS COAL.

A Brooklyn Millionaire's Son Quits College For an Engine Cab.

From college to a machine shop, from an aristocratic home on Brooklyn's "hill" to a daily run as fireman of a locomotive, is not a step that every wealthy young man would choose, yet it is what George D. Pratt chose and what he would be proud of if he were not so modest.

He is a son of the late Charles Pratt, the multimillionaire philanthropist, Standard Oil prince and railway magnate. He graduated with distinguished honors from Amherst college in 1893. He spent a year in travel, making a trip around the world, and then began his earnest preparation for work. The Pratt estate is a very heavy stockholder in the Long Island railroad. George's brother is vice president. George set about to learn railroading in all its branches.

The shops of the company are at Morris Park, and there George first began work. He learned how the various parts of a locomotive are made and how they are put together. Then he moved to a new class room—the cab of a locomotive.

Here, dressed in blue overalls and a greasy cap and jacket, his athletic college training stood him in good stead, for he shoveled coal as well as any other fireman on the line. He liked the work and faithfully kept at it. Now and then he resigned his place to another fireman and took a turn at running the engine, always, however, under the direction of another engineer. He finally gave up his job as fireman and worked for awhile on a freight train. Later he took a turn at track walking. Railroad magnates usually inspect their roads from the rear end of a private car.

Considering his outdoor experience complete, he recently entered the office branch of the service and is now at a desk in the auditor's department.

Mr. Pratt is 26 years old.—New York Journal.

IMITATING WASHINGTON.

Speaker Reed Has Become a Model of Politeness.

It is related of Speaker Reed that since he became a presidential candidate he has allowed President Washington's famous expression about not being outdone in politeness by a colored man to sink deeply into his heart. The other day, the story goes, the speaker was promenading along one of the most fashionable thoroughfares in the northwestern part of the city when he was met by two colored persons who were in anything but gala attire, visibly representing a lower stratum of hardworking colored society.

"How are you, Mr. Speaker?" they asked in passing, doffing their tiles.

"How are you, gentlemen" said the speaker, accenting the last word, taking off his hat and making a very low and stately bow. The speaker's condescension was witnessed by a cluster of fashionable "buds," passing in their carriages at the time, and excited the liveliest attention and interest.—Washington Post.

BIG DEAL IN COAL LANDS.

Syndicate Purchases 10,100 Acres Containing Millions of Tons.

Two railroad companies, through a syndicate, have obtained options on 10,100 acres of coal lands in the Grape Creek district, overlying rich veins, containing 75,000,000 tons of bituminous coal.

George Gould and the Wabash road are said to be interested in the deal, which threatens the valuable interests of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois road in coal freightage from that district to Chicago. The ostensible promoter of the deal is T. A. Broughton, vice president of the Crescent Coal and Mining company and manager of the syndicate. The deal involves the building of a new railroad to the coalfields.—New York Press.

Danger to Our Trade.

Incalculable danger to the export trade of the United States is threatened by Norway.

The grain element of the storthing has combined in an effort to impose heavy duties upon foreign grain and cattle.

It is said that the agrarians constitute the majority in the storthing, and that the contemplated law will unquestionably go into effect.—New York Journal.

A Consolation Event.

New York couldn't get either of the national political conventions, but she is going to have a cat show next month.—Minneapolis Journal.

What They Must Do.

The other scientists will have to either meet the cathode raise or retire from the game.—Chicago Times-Herald.

...In Trade. ...Bu. In Trade.

CORN WANTED

AT

WESENBERG BROS'

ALSO DEALER IN

Dry Goods, Notions, Hats, Caps, Gloves, Mittens, Groceries, and Queensware.

20 Cents Per Bu. In Trade. 20 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

25 YEARS EXPERIENCE IN

BLACKSMITHING

Enables me to do your work in a workmanlike manner.

Plow Work a Specialty.

Also do wood repairing on Wagons and Buggies.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. KROUSE, KLEMME, IA.

BELL, BELL, BELL.

The above means THE BELL CLOTHING HOUSE at

GARNER, IOWA.

We have a new and complete stock of

Clothing and Gents' Furnishings.

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Bicycles and Sporting Goods.

It will pay the people of Klemme and vicinity to call.

Yours for business,

F. B. CASSILL & CO

SHOES! SHOES!

We have an entire new stock of Shoes, for both

LADIES AND GENTS

Which we will sell at

WHOLESALE PRICES FOR CASH

For the next four weeks at the OLD HENCHEN STORE,

OPPOSITE POST-OFFICE MAIN ST.,

GARNER, - - IOWA.

This stock of Shoes comprises about $6000.00 worth of the latest styles and most approved makes, and each and every pair will be disposed of at

First Cost

Come early and secure your choice of the chance of a lifetime.

H. I. SCHNAUT, Manager.

...In Trade. ...Bu. In Trade.

CORN WANTED

AT

WESENBERG BROS'

ALSO DEALER IN

Dry Goods, Notions, Hats, Caps, Gloves, Mittens, Groceries, and Queensware.

20 Cents Per Bu. In Trade. 20 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

25 YEARS EXPERIENCE IN

BLACKSMITHING

Enables me to do your work in a workmanlike manner.

Plow Work a Specialty.

Also do wood repairing on Wagons and Buggies.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. KROUSE, KLEMME, IA.

BELL, BELL, BELL.

The above means THE BELL CLOTHING HOUSE at

GARNER, IOWA.

We have a new and complete stock of

Clothing and Gents' Furnishings.

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Bicycles and Sporting Goods.

It will pay the people of Klemme and vicinity to call.

Yours for business,

F. B. CASSILL & CO

SHOES! SHOES!

We have an entire new stock of Shoes, for both

LADIES AND GENTS

Which we will sell at

WHOLESALE PRICES FOR CASH

For the next four weeks at the OLD HENCHEN STORE,

OPPOSITE POST-OFFICE MAIN ST.,

GARNER, - - IOWA.

This stock of Shoes comprises about $6000.00 worth of the latest styles and most approved makes, and each and every pair will be disposed of at

First Cost

Come early and secure your choice of the chance of a lifetime.

H. I. SCHNAUT, Manager.

...stablish a ...

FARMS FOR RENT!
FARMS FOR SALE!

Three Fine Farms For Rent,

Five Chice Improved Farms For Sale.

TERMS ARE REASONABLE

M. S. Gilman,

KLEMME, - - - - - - IOWA.

H. E. PEITZKE

IS THE

BLACKSMITH

THAT

Will do your work well.

He also does wood work.

HIS

Prices are right,

AND

Experience great.

KLEMME, IOWA.

B. C. R. & N. TIME TABLE.

GOING SOUTH.

No. 84, Stock	- -	6.00 a. m.
No. 89. Way freight	-	1.30 p. m.
No. 82. Pass.	- -	2.28 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 83. Way freight	-	10.00 a. m.
No. 85. Freight	-	3.58 p. m.
No. 81. Pass.	- -	5.16 p. m.

F. B. SMITH, Local Agt.

JOHN BAUMGARTNER.

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY BARBER SHOP.

AN EASY SHAVE. - -

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

SHOP IN KIRKWOOD HOUSE, KLEMME, IOWA.

KLEMME - DRAY - LINE.

H. & S. NISSEN,

Proprietors.

Draying and teaming of all kinds done on short notice.

GIVE US A CALL.

STATE - SAVINGS - BANK

—OF—

KLFMME, IOWA

Does a regular Banking Business. Deals in Domestic and Foreign

EXCHANGE

Loans money on long or short time. Attends to collections and pays interest on time deposits

C. W. KNAPP, Cashier.

GEO. S. GATES,

STONE AND BRICK MASON

Plastering a Specialty. Do all kinds of work in my line. I also make a Specialty of bricking up Cisterns and boilers. All work guaranteed and Prices accordingly.

Give me a trial,

GEO. S. GATES,

Klemme, Iowa.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.

OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.

OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, MARCH 6, 1896. NUMBER 28

J. L. HARR.

PURE DRUGS AND MEDICINES.

Window Shades And Wall Paper.

Paints and Oils.

All Will Be Sold Cheap For Cash.

YOU HAVE IT!

Oats and Corn!

We Want It!

and will pay the Highest Market price to get it.

COAL!

We have it, You want it.

Hard, Soft, Illinois, and Smithing.

WALT. BLOOM, Klemme, Ia.

One Week Only!

From March 2nd to 7th

We will sell for cash only

5 lbs 4x Coffee	$1.00
40 " Oat Meal	1.00
25 " Raisins	1.00
3 " 50c. tea	1.00
30 bars Laundry Soap	1.00

You can buy one article or all. Come early before the goods are all gone.

SHAFER & DOW.

GEO KLUCKHOHN, The Restaurant Man!

Serves the Public with

A Square Meal, Fine Bread Buns, Oysters, Cigars, Tobaccos, etc.

WHEN IN TOWN CALL AND SEE HIM.

KLEMME, - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

Eagle Grove

MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS

MATERIAL THE BEST AND WORKMANSHIP SECOND TO NONE.

GEO. W. SHAFFER, AGENT

Correspondence Solicited.

MESERVEY, - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

TIMES $1 PER YEAR!

Local Mention.

Mr. Andresen returned Tuesday.

Mackintosh's, only $4.50 at Shafer & Dows.

H. Church went to Garner Tuesday on business.

A. Kirkwood was at Garner Monday, on business.

Pure Boiled Linseed Oil at Harr's 45c per. gallon.

D. W. Ballard of Alexander, was in town Monday.

Lou Lewis Sundayed in Clear Lake with relatives.

Miss Ada Griswold drove to Goodell Sunday afternoon.

Miss Annie Scow is stopping a few days with Mrs. Larson.

J. P. Larson's health is such that he had to lay off a few days.

Mr. Wm. Wesenberg, and his son Lou. was in town Saturday.

A good half section of land to rent. Inquire at State Savings Bank.

G. L. Carson, of Garner, was in town between trains Tuesday.

Go to E. P. Shafer for the best, largest and cheepest line of carpets.

N. L. Palmer Sundayed in Burt with friends returning Monday.

John Baumgartner went to Garner Tuesday to try Olson's hair cutting.

August Lau is hauling the rock for his new house near the north elevator.

Send your laundry to the Garner Laundry and patronize home industry.

M. L. Weichselbaum has bought a lot and will move his house onto it soon.

Wm. Stille commenced moving Tuesday onto the Koerner place west of town.

Mr. J. D. Fell, of Garner, was doing business in town a couple of days last week.

Chas. Baumgartner, of Garner, took in the sights in Klemme last Friday.

Lude Fuller, deputy sheriff of Goodell, was doing legal business in town last Friday.

Mrs. Brackett, of the Democrat, called on the editor's family between trains Tuesday.

Mrs. Mulkins, of Goodell, drove up Tuesday and made the editor's family a pleasant call.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

Take your laundry to E. P. Schaefer's, who is agent for the Mason City Steam Laundry Co.

Our Band is progressing rapidly. Come out to the school entertainment Saturday night and hear them play.

We make a special rate on family washing, ask for prices.

GARNER LAUNDRY.

Mr. H. Schwartz is hauling lumber for a new dwelling to be built on his lots in the north east part of the Bartz addition.

Lau Bros. have made some great reductions in their winter goods, which they are closing out at cost and some even below cost.

Special meetings commenced in the Am. M. E. Church Monday evening and will continue a week or more if everything is favorable.

A. B. Shafer received a letter, Monday, from his cousin in Peabody, Kans. whose whereabouts had been unknown to Mr. S. since the war.

August Hartz is moving from the Koerner place onto the August Lau farm and Mr. Lau will move into town as soon as his house can be built.

Misses Lizzie Renziehausen and Anna Scow went to Britt Wednesday, going by team as far as Garner. Where are all of our gallant young men?

Mr. Walensky, of the J. H. Queal & Co's. yard at Buffalo Center, was looking after the Company's interest at this place while Mr. Andresen was away.

Joe. Fotheringham, of Garner, made his regular weekly trip to Klemme Friday. Joe is a firstc lass veterinary surgeon and deserving of your patronage.

J. L. Skene, who has just recently finished the Belmond school building, Sundayed with his father-in-law. H. N. Merrick. We understand that he expects to locate in Garner where he will follow his profession of contractor and architect.

Mr. and Mrs. McKinstry and child got into the buggy with Mr. Merrick Monday evening, just after the 5 o'clock train arrived. One of the horses got a little impatient waiting, and a broken buggy tongue was the consequence. It was lucky that nothing worse happened.

There will be a school exhition held in the school house in Klemme, on Saturday evening, March 7th. A very interesting program has been prepared at the close of which, the laughable farce, "The Yankee Peddler," will be rendered by our home talent. The proceeds are to go towards buying an organ for the school. Tickets for sale at Shafer & Dows, at 15 and 25c. Let everybody come out and help a good cause.

Additional Locals.

Miss Lou Bowen of Garner, is visiting Miss Ada Griswold.

J. L. Baun who went to Wisconsin in the fall, returned last week.

H. W. Schoper moved his family into the Schwartz house Thursday.

A brother of Mrs. Wm. Smith is making the Smith family a visit.

E. P. Schaefer has just received nearly a car load of new furniture.

The Garner Laundry will call for and deliver your laundry, Tuesday and Friday of each week.

Cora Merrick went to Clear Lake Saturday to spend a few days with friends and relatives.

Mr. J. W. Adams of Kalamazoo, Mich., Brother of Mrs. W. Bloom, is visiting at the Bloom home this week.

At the election called at the Merrick school-house, last Monday, to elect a director to fill vacancy, M. Pa[illegible]by was elected.

Dr. Charlton, of Clear Lake, came in answer to a telegram Tuesday to see Mrs. C. W. Knapp who has been very sick, but is improving.

Ned. O'Niell of Clear Lake and Bernice Fell of Garner, drove to Klemme Sunday afternoon and made the editor's family a pleasant call.

Thousands of people are looking Californiawards. They want to know where to go to raise fruit and how to travel cheaply and comfortably. For full answers to these questions address California Bureau of Information, Box, 572 Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Married.

Gerwien—Lau. At the residence of Fred Gerwien 3 miles northwest of town last Wednesday at 2 p. m. occurred the marriage of his daughter, Minnie, to Martin Lau, of Klemme, Rev. G. Haefner tying the knot. And thus two of our young people are joined together for life, to share each other's joys and sorrows. The TIMES join with the people of Klemme in wishing them all the joy and happines obtainable in this life.

Our people are growing more and more in the habit of looking to J. L. HARR for the latest and best of everything in the drug line. He sells Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of bad colds, croup and whooping cough. When in need of such a medicine give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result.

County Conveution.

The county convention met at Britt as per call, with Thos. Duff as temporary chairman and F. E. Blackstone of Garner as secretary. The temporary organization was made permanent and after the regular routine business, the following delegates were appointed by the nominating committee as delegates to State and Congressional convention at Des Moines: E. C. Abbey, F. B. Cassill, Thos. Duff, J. N. Inman, E. L. Stilson, F. B. Rogers, and M. B. Cooper.

The following resolution was reported: "RESOLVED, That this convention respectfully request that our senator and representative, at this session use all honorable means to place Hancock and Winnebago counties in the same representative district."

J. E. Wichman introduced a resolution to have a committee appointed to endeavor to obtain this legislation.

Program.

The following program was carried out by the Germantown Literary Society, on Thursday evening, Feb. 27th.

Roll Call
Reading of minutes.....by Secretary.
Song.....by Society.
Recitation.....O. E. Gast.
Recitation.....G. I. Shaper.
Male Quartette
H. Beier, G. I. Shaper.
F. J. Schuldt, Wm. Beier.
Declamation.....Herman Schuldt.
Recitation.....W. A. Welch.
Query Box.....J. T. Huckle.
Comic Song.....A. C. Schuldt.
Recess.
Talk.....J. J. Stille.
Reading of—Society Screamer—.....O. E. Gast.
Question for debate:—Resolved that city life is preferable to country life.
Aff. Neg.
A. C. Schuldt, J. J. Stille,
W. H. Welch, G. I. Schapeer.
Decision of Judges, Aff. 1, Neg. 2.
Critic's report.....A. Beier.

G. I. Schaper, Pres.
Gladys Schmalle, Sec.

The little daughter of Mr. Fred Webber, Holland, Mass., had a very bad cold and cough which he had not been able to cure with any thing. I gave him a 25 cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, says W. P. Holden, merchant and postmaster at West Brimfield, and the next time I saw him he said it worked like a charm This remedy is intended especially for acute throat and lung diseases such as colds, croup and whooping cough, and it is famous for its cures. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains nothing injurious. For sale by J. L. HARR.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market; costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. HARR. Read our free booklet on Microbic Diseases.

Homeseekers' Excursions

On March 10th. April 7th and 21st and May 5th, Excursion Tickets at rate of ONE FARE plus $2 FOR THE ROUND TRIP, to points in eleven Southern States and Territories, also to a number of Western and Northern States. An oppertunity to reach almost every city in the South and Southwest and a large number of important points in the Northwest. Tickets are good to return any Tuesday or Friday within the final limit which is 20 days from date of sale.

Call on B., C. R. & N. agents for rates and further information or address J. MORTON, G. P. & T. A. Cedar Rapids, Ia. Exp 5-5

Threw Away His Canes

Mr. D. Wiley, ex-postmaster, Black Creek, N. Y., was so badly afflicted with rheumatism that he was only able to hobble around with canes, and even then it caused him great pain. After using Chamberlain's Pain Balm he was so much improved that he threw away his canes. He says this liniment did him more good than all other medicines and treatment put together. For sale at 50 cents per bottle by J. L. HARR.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR OIL

[FOR OUR FRIEND, THE HORSE.]

Speedily cures Barb-Wire Cuts. Bruises and Lacerated surfaces, Collar and Saddle Galls, Fungus Collar Tumors, Scratches, Thrush, etc.

Geo. Alexander, Olaf, Iowa, says: "One of my horses was totally disabled by reason of barb-wire cut, muscles being lacerated and torn from knee to shoulder and bone splintered. Tried their remedies for months but without avail. The second application of Compound Liquid Sulphur Oil stopped all irritation and one bottle has nearly cured the sore." For sale by J. L. HARR.

France and Fine Speeches.

When I read his (Gambetta's) fiery patriotic phrases, and when you tell us that he was avant tout un patriote, I think of Dr. Johnson's brusque saying, "Patriotism is the last refuge of a scoundrel." It is hard to practice the plain virtues, but not hard to se griser de mots about la patrie. What France wants is men with a passion for the plain virtues and capable of inspiring this passion in others. His intellectual qualities, his perception of the law of evolution in politics and his suppleness and adroitness in shaping his course accordingly are far more remarkable. * * * They seem to me Italian rather that French, but whencesoever they proceed they are not, although valuable, what France most needs and cannot supply the place of this.—Matthew Arnold.

This Most Extraordinary Country.

"How did this doosid place get its name?" asked the visiting Britisher.

"The night it was named," explained the Oshkosh citizen, "they was a lot of fellers drinkin hot Scotch. Finally they got full an decided to name the town 'Hot Scotch,' but by that time they was so full that the nighest they could come to it was 'Oshkosh,' an they let it go at that."

"Haw! 'Ow American!"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Every great man exhibits the talent of organization or construction, whether it be in a poem, a philosophical system, a policy or a strategy. And without method there is no organization nor construction. —Bulwer.

The first wood borer was the woodpecker, and so accurate is his work that the hole he bores in the tree is as exactly circular as though measured by a pair of compasses.

In 1890 there were 158 steel works in this country, nearly half of which were in Pennsylvania.

Printing ink is made of linseed oil, rosin, soap and lampblack or other coloring matter.

His Outfit For the Ministry.

The Rev. D. S. Hobson, a negro preacher, was taken to Raleigh, N. C., the other day and jailed for stealing a cow and a mule. He sold the cow and bought a frock coat and Bible and then began active ministerial work.—Atlanta Constitution.

THE LEADING Implement DEALERS.

Mitchell & Lewis WAGONS,

Racine Buggies, John Deere Plows, J. I. Case Plows, Keystone Planters, Disc Cultivators.

Also a line of HARDWARE and GROCERIES.

Call on us for prices.

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mouldings.

And everything used to build with.

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in the week.

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'GR.,

KLEMME, IOWA.

J. H. QUEAL & CO.

Always Lead

In The Best Of Grades At The Lowest Prices

ON

LUMBER, LATH, Posts, Sash, DOORS SHINGLES ETC.

Call and see us for anything in our line and be convinced of the above facts.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.

NEW SPRING GOODS!

We have just received a large stock of Foreign and Domestic Dress Goods and Wash Dress Goods.

LADIES SHIRT WAISTS.

A complete line of the Cream City Hats and Caps for SPRING WARE.

A large assortment of Mens' and Boy's Pants, Overalls, Jackets, Shirts, etc.

NEW STOCK OF WINDOW SHADES.

CALL and SEE our NEW GOODS.

We are still CLOSING OUT all Winter Goods very cheap.

E. P. SCHAEFER, KLEMME, IA.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, . . . IOWA

IOWA NEWS IN BRIEF

A CASE of Asiatic leprosy is reported from Henry county.

THOMAS ARMSTRONG, an Adair county farmer, was killed in a runaway at Fontanelle.

AT Davenport Mrs. Z. H. Wicks and her neice took aconite, mistaking it for rhubarb and pepsin. They are in a very serious condition.

E. A. SPRINGE, a well-known resident of Sheldon, has been arrested and placed in jail, charged with knowing the details of the killing of Maud Strawn.

EX-GOVERNOR BOIES has written a letter to the Des Moines Leader stating that he cannot consent to be considered a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination.

THE safe in the city market at Rockwell City was robbed. The door was blown completely off and $100 in currency and checks taken. There is no clue to the robbers.

A FIRE which visited Allerton a few nights ago destroyed a row of fine business buildings, fourteen in number, at a loss of about $20,000. It is presumed the burnt district will be rebuilt in the spring.

JOHN RUDDY, a man about town at Cedar Rapids, after a night's rounding with politicians, fell unconscious in an alley. He was carried to his home and after a short time died, the victim of mixed drinks.

RECENTLY William Skinner, a farmer living a few miles north of Burlington, while beating his horse, received immediate punishment, the lash of his whip striking him in one eye, entirely destroying the sight.

"TIP" CUPPY, who was found guilty at Avoca of assaulting United States Pension Examiner Brown with intent to commit great bodily injury, was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and the costs, amounting to about $200.

FRANK YERT, a farmer living near Burnside, was seriously injured while blasting rock. A premature charge went off, the bulk of which struck him in the face, terribly disfiguring it. Removal of one eye will be necessary.

FRANK PELTZ attempted to shoot George Murphy at Cedar Rapids because Murphy had notified Peltz to appear and stand trial for being an habitual drunkard and for misconduct. He has been held to the grand jury in $1,000 bail.

IN THE Baker vs. Dorchester case which has occupied the attention of Judge Sherwin's court at Mason City for the past two weeks, the former suing for the alienation of his wife's affections the jury returned a verdict [illegible] damages to the amount of $250.

A SHOCKING fatality occurred at Indianola last week. The 3-year-old daughter of Mrs. Sharkey fell into a barrel of slop and was drowned. The accident took place at the home of Mrs. Sharkey's father, Mr. Silcott, where the little one was left by her mother, who had started that morning for St. Charles.

JOHN NASE, 50 years old, was arrested at Waterloo for bigamy. Wife No. 1 came from Nebraska. Nase says she is to blame, as he married her before she had a divorce from her second husband. Mrs. Nase No. 1 has been married three times. Nase was married the last time in Waterloo February 8.

MRS. JOSEPH FURHMAN, of Dubuque, died last week under peculiar circumstances. The physician applied to refused to grant a burial permit, as the indications were that deceased died of strychnine poison. An inquest held developed the fact that this was the case, and the verdict was that it was self-administered.

WILL PLATT, son of a prominent family at Burlington, departed supposedly for St. Louis, telling his family and friends he was going to study law with a legal firm, of which he gave a fictitious name. He went instead on a tour of the south, became penniless and was run over by freight train at Union

J. S. HAMILTON, a jeweler of Chicago, was drowned at Canton, S. D. He was on his way to Beloit, Iowa, to visit a daughter. He leaves a wife and child in Chicago.

JAMES PAULSON died at the Union county poor farm a few days ago. When he learned that he could not live he confessed that several years ago he had killed Chief of Police Williams at Oklahoma City while resisting arrest as a member of the Cook gang. He also confessed to having killed an Iowa man at Yankton, S. D., and robbing him of $290.

AT Mason City last week Judge Sherwin placed the fine on the druggists found guilty of selling liquor illegally at $400.

THOMAS MCNAMARA, a popular fireman on the Chicago & Northwestern, lately promoted to the position of engineer, a few days ago received the sudden news of the death of a sister of his. Shortly after, as he stood on the street at Clinton telling Father Murray about the sad occurrence, he reeled, fell and expired in the priest's arms. He was about 40 years old and unmarried.

AS DAVID CLARK, of Harvard, was going home from his brother's he was held up by three masked men on a bridge four miles east of Harvard. He was stunned by a blow on the head, which [illegible]ndered him almost unconscious. [illegible] then went through his pockets [illegible]n lashed him on a horse, took [illegible] distance and then put him in [illegible] He seemed to know nothing [illegible]nds searched for him a [illegible]found no trace of him. [illegible] came home in bad [illegible]ahead been tied in a [illegible] The came and let him [illegible]pak[illegible]75.

[illegible], of Knoxville, ex-congress[illegible]e Seventh district, died on [illegible] the result of pneumonia [illegible] co[illegible] a week previous in taking a ride [illegible] after a heated argument.

WALLIE EMMERT, a young farmer living southeast of Kellogg, was kicked by a horse which he was leading out to water, resulting in death almost immediately. He was about 25 years of age and respected by all who knew him. He was unmarried.

AT THE land office in the federal building in Des Moines last week about 1,000 people filed claims for homesteads in the forfeited railroad grants in O'Brien and Dickinson counties. A large number of men were at the south door of the building all night waiting for the doors to open. Four women were in the line which formed at 6 a. m. and got through the land office at about 1 p. m.

B. F. HOWARD, 23 years of age, is under arrest at Fort Dodge for forgery. He forged a check for $65 and gives as his reason that he wanted to learn a trade and was unable to secure money to do so, but was satisfied that by forging a check he would be able to learn a trade in one of two ways. If he had got the money it would have given him a start, and if his guilt was found out the state would teach him a trade. He will remain in jail until court sits in April.

NEW SHARON'S sensational seduction and breach of promise suit has been finished in the district court at Oskaloosa, and the plaintiff gets judgment for $4,000. Maud Smith, the plaintiff, brought suit against Harry Johnson on the charges named for $5,000. The case was one of the most revolting in its developments, one witness being fined $5 for his lewd language on the stand. The girl's father formerly ran a hotel in New Sharon, and young Johnson is a farmer's son. It is understood his father is able to settle.

DEPUTY UNITED STATES MARSHAL GRAY arrested one A. M. Bruce at Seymour, on a charge of using the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud. Bruce located in Albia four weeks ago and used the mails extensively advertising with country merchants for produce, offering extraordinarily high prices. Shipments were received immediately amounting to many hundred dollars. These were shipped at once to Ottumwa, Chicago and elsewhere, and sold. Bruce skipped with the money, not paying the parties from whom he purchased. At Albia and in his circulars he used the name of J. C. Love. Commissioner Hunter placed him under heavy bonds, in default of which he was jailed.

IN the district court at Des Moines the suit of A. E. Stevenson vs. W. A. Richards came up on a motion to transfer to the United States circuit court. Defendant was found lying on the floor in the rear of the court room during the last term of court. It was supposed he was drunk and the court sentenced him to jail for contempt. On the way over he fought the marshal and Richards claims he had to strike him in self defense. Stevenson sues now for damages for assault and battery and alleges he was suffering from a fit at the time. He claims he sustained permanent injuries as a result of the assault. Richards asked that the case be transferred to the United States court on the ground that he was acting under the direction of that court at the time and is therefore entitled to have the case tried there. The court made an order transferring the case to the federal court.

AMOS WYMANS, a carpenter for the Cudahy Packing company at its packing house in Sioux City, met death in a terrible manner a few days ago. His jacket in some manner got caught in a set screw on the collar of one of the shafts with which the elevator is run. The shafting was making fully 120 revolutions per minute. At first the jacket commenced to give, but it held fast and began to wrap around the shafting. Another carpenter caught hold of the jacket and tore it partially loose from the shaft, but Wyman's suspender also caught on the screw. Like a flash he was drawn up the shaft. The upper part of his body was held close to the revolving rod and the body from the waist down was left dangling. As the shaft revolved the body was whipped around and around at every revolution, striking a brick wall on one side and a heavy beam on the other. There is a projection of six inches in the brick wall, about two feet above the level of the shaft, and as the body was whipped downward, the feet at each revolution struck this projection, and were literally chopped off by the sharp edge. The clothing was soon ground up and torn loose from the man's body, when he dropped, bleeding, mangled and battered beyond recognition, to a table, nearly twenty-five feet below. The body struck on a corner of the table and rolled to the floor. The accident occurred in the cutting room, which was crowded with workman, who could only gaze at the terrible sight above their heads, with no way to assist the unfortunate man.

JUDGE CARLTON F. COUCH died in Waterloo on the 25th, after seven weeks' sickness from heart trouble. He was 51 years old and was born in New York. He came to Waterloo in 1866. He read law with Boies and Allen and stayed with the firm through all the changes that have occurred since. He was elected judge of the Tenth district in 1880 and served two terms. On his retirement from the bench he resumed the practice of law with Boies, Couch & Boies. He was president of the Waterloo State bank from its organization to his death.

A few years ago, Sousa's entire income was the $1,200 a year he received as manager of the United States Marine band. Last year his royalties on his marches amounted to $25,000. Mr. Sousa is a native of Washington, where he has lived most of his life, and he is 40 years of age. His father was a musician before him, and his first appearance in public as a performer was when he was 10 years old.

"Mr. Insite, give the class your idea of optimist and pessimist." "Yes, sir. An optimist is a man who is happy when he is miserable, and a pessimist is a man who is miserable when he is happy."

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS

THE gold reserve is said to be getting smaller each day.

DR. JAMESON and his officers have arrived in London.

LORD DUNRAVEN has been expelled from the New York Yacht Club.

IT is said the districts north of Managua, Nicaragua, are in full revolution against President Zelaya.

IT IS reported that at Guata, Cuba, recently the Spanish troops killed a score of peaceable citizens.

A LONDON club has offered a purse for a fight between Corbett and Fitzsimmons. Corbett says he will accept.

IT IS said that 150 Armenians were recently murdered by the Turks at Marsovan because they refused to accept Islam.

THE revolution in the western provinces of Nicaragua has become quite formidable and the government is making an effort to quell it.

WILLIAM C. WHITNEY positively declines to permit his name to be considered as a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination.

THE Baltimore & Ohio railway company applied for the appointment of receivers and the president and third vice-president were appointed as such.

THE London newspapers generally agree that affairs between the United States and Spain have reached an acute stage because of the passage of the Cuban resolution by the senate.

ADVICES from Constantinople state that the authorities have discovered a plot to disrupt the government, and a large number of Turks and 200 Armenians have been placed under arrest.

THE Lincoln, Neb., city council has passed a cigarette ordinance, prohibiting the use of cigarettes, cigars or tobacco by persons under 18 years of age within the city limits under penalty of $25 fine for each offense.

AT WINNIPEG recently Attorney-General Sefton's motion protesting against interference by the dominion government with the Manitoba school laws, was argued in the legislature after an all night sitting by a vote of 31 to 7.

CIRCULARS have been scattered all over the city of Havana stating that as Weyler is executing suspects and 200 have already been murdered, the Cubans will retaliate by using dynamite against the residences and business houses of Spaniards.

THE steamer Bermuda was taken in charge by a United States marshal at New York last week, and an investigation showed that it had on board a party of filibusters bound for Cuba. A large quantity of ammunition and rifles were on board and the party was under the command of Gen. Garcia. All of the party were released except Garcia, the captain of the vessel and four leaders, who were held in $1,000 bail.

AT Wichita Falls a few days ago a couple of men went into the City National Bank and demanded the money. Cashier Dorsey resisted them and was killed. They grabbed a bag of silver coin and, closely pursued by a posse of citizens tried to escape. Nine miles from town they were surrounded in a thicket and soon surrendered. They were taken to town and that night a mob hung them to a telegraph pole in front of the bank they had robbed.

RECENT investigation by Captain-General Weyler discloses the fact that 15,000 men, with 15,000 rifles and 500,000 cartridges cannot be accounted for. The disappearance of the men will ultimately be traced either to death in battle, the number which has been concealed to hide the Spanish losses, details to positions in various parts of the island of which no record has been kept, or desertions to join the rebels with their arms in every province in the island.

ELIZABETH FLAGLER, who shot at a colored lad in Washington while he was stealing apples and unfortunately killed him, came into court last week and pleaded guilty to involuntary murder. She was sentenced to jail for three hours and to pay a fine of $500. Her father, General Flagler, paid the fine and the young lady was conducted to jail to serve the sentence. She passed the three hours in the matron's reception room in the company of her father and was then driven to her home.

IN the midst of a heavy fog, the International Navigation Company's steamship New York went aground west of the ship channel in New York harbor, and the Atlas Line steamer Ailsa was sunk in swash channel by a big French liner, thought to be the Burgogne. The steamer which struck the Ailsa pulled away from the vessel and disappeared in the mist. The Ailsa carried a crew of forty men and there were fourteen passengers on board, three of whom were women. All escaped without injury, owing to the prompt arrival of a large tug belonging to the Merritt Wrecking Company.

General Valeriano Weyler, of the Spanish army, the new captain general of Cuba, is said to be of Irish extraction, is 60 years old, and extremely energetic. He distinguished himself during the Carlist war, and attracted attention during the Spanish war against the Moors in Africa. General Weyler was sent to Cuba in the early part of the ten years' war, and served under two captain generals. He remained there more than two years, and was recalled to Spain on account of charges of extreme cruelty made against him.

A Nevada Chinaman sports a "pigtail" five feet eleven inches long.

A merchant in Harlem advertised for a young woman for light housekeeping. A girl in Yonkers wrote him a letter in answer to the advertisement, asking him where the lighthouse was located, and if there was any way of getting ashore on Sunday night.

Miss Weber, of Urbana, Ill., has the honor to be the youngest and prettiest woman cashier in the United States. Indiana did claim to be unique in the matter of feminine bank employes, but since it has been proved that Urbana's cashier has not only won the esteem and confidence of her employers, but is also in advance of her rival in beauty, the palm goes to Illinois as a matter of course.

WHOLE TOWN WIPED OUT.

VANCOUVER, B. C., February 29.—The Canadian-Australian steamer Blowera from Sydney brings news of great suffering and loss of property in Australia by the extraordinary climate conditions. There is unprecedented heat on land and an excessively high death rate from sunstroke, eighty corpses being buried in Sydney in one day. Terrific storms have prevailed all along the coast. Crops in a great many localities have been ruined. Herds of stock are starving and dying for want of water and there is a distressing array of marine casualties reported. The town of Marrurundi was almost entirely destroyed by an electric wind storm. It was night when the storm struck there. The whole country for thirty minutes was aflame with balls of fire and scintillating sparks of light.

On the Queensland coast the storm was of awful violence. At midnight on January 26, the steamer Glanworth was driven on the rocks off Gladstone. The crew, with a splendid show of courage and obedience, abandoned the vessel with eighty-five passengers, landing them safely at the lighthouse. The vessel is a total wreck.

BACTERIA EVERYWHERE.

BERLIN, February 29.—Prof. Heinrich, of Rostock, has found a number of bacteria in Russian and Roumanian grain which cannot be rendered harmless even by the heat of the oven. The matter was brought to the attention of the reichstag by an Agrarian member, when it presently appeared that the German government had already been making inquiry. The director of public health reported that sixteen German and seventeen foreign samples of grain had been examined for bacteria. The purest was the American. Then came the Moravian, Bohemian and Hungarian barley; the most impure was Turkish rye. In one gramme of German wheat 14,000 to 23,000 bacteria were found; in Russian, 256,000 to 309,000; in La Platte wheat only 5,000. The sample which showed 859,000 bacteria in Rothstock showed fourteen days later in Berlin 150,000, so rapidly does the bacteria disappear. As regards the character of these bacteria, such as would endanger health were not found in a single sample, so the grain is absolutely harmless. But even the worst bacteria are destroyed by the heat of the oven.

WAS A BLACKMAILING PLOT.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 29.—Miss Mattie Overman, with whom Dr. O. C. Brown, on trial before the Congregational Church council for alleged immorality and unministerial conduct, is said to have been unduly intimate, was placed upon the witness stand. Miss Overman created a sensation by admitting that she had entered into a plot with Mrs. Davidson to blackmail Dr. Brown. She said she was induced to take the step by Mrs. Davidson, who told her the money she could obtain in that way would enable her to finish the studies in which she was engaged. Miss Overman said the letters written by herself to Mrs. Davidson, in which statements reflecting on the moral character of Dr. Brown, were contrived to carry out the plot.

SMALL POX IN ILLINOIS.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 1.—The state board of health has been informed that there have been sixteen cases of small pox and seven deaths the last week at the Marine hospital in Cairo. President McFall, of the Benton board of trustees, telegraphed the board that there were now fifteen cases of small pox at Duquoin, and that citizens of Duquoin were fleeing to Benton and asking permission to quarantine against Duquoin, saying the danger was imminent. Secretary Scott left for Duquoin, and if the situation is dangerous, quarantine will be established.

Immense Cost to Spain.

Madrid, March 2.—The papers here publish some curious statistics as to the cost of the Cuban war. Nearly 118,000 men have been sent to the island and the cost of the rebellion has already amounted to 10,000,000 pounds ($50,000,000) and for the second year it will exceed 15,000,000 pounds ($75,000,000). Captain General Weyler reports that it will take at least two years to crush the rebellion.

The Kentucky Deadlock.

Frankfort, Ky., March 2.—The two contested election cases of Werner vs. Tompkins and Dunlap vs. Kaufman came up the Kentucky legislature Friday morning. Speeches were made by Messrs. Carroll and Flippin, but no action was reached before adjournment for the ballot for senator.

Whitney Not a Candidate.

New York, March 2.—W. C. Whitney has sent a letter to the Clarion-Ledger of Jackson, Miss., in which he disclaims any knowledge of a movement engineered by W. B. McAllister in Mississippi promoting his (Whitney's) alleged candidacy for the presidency.

Miss Anthony Goes West.

Rochester, N. Y., March 2.—Susan B. Anthony left last night for California to begin a struggle for the striking out of the world male from the state constitution. Two lectures will be given in each of the fifty-seven counties of the state during the campaign.

In buying the canned vegetables or fruits, those only should be selected that have a slight depression in the end of the can. This, by experts is accepted as proof that the contents of the can are in proper condition. If the end of the can is raised or bulged, reject it, as that is a proof that the contents of the can were not heated sufficiently at the time of sealing, or that in the past or present they have fermented. If cans are ordered by the dozen, the members of the household who inspect the supplies should return all cans having such an appearance.

"This weather is very trying to everybody," said the physician. "Yes," replied Mr. Meekton. "I don't see how my wife is going to bear up under it. When the sun doesn't shine it gives her the blues, and when it does she says its fading the carpet."

Walter Dunlop, the well-known humorous clergyman of Dumfries, was one day talking to a brother of the cloth, who, in a facetious manner said: "Well, Walter, I believe, after all has been said, that my head could hold two of yours." "Man," replied Walter, with a pawky smile, "I never thocht before that you heid was sae eempty."

IN THE LEGISLATURE

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 25.—An immense grist of petitions were presented. Mitchell introduced a bill to repeal previous laws regulating state dairy commissioner's office and enact a substitute therefor. Bill regulating sales of liquors by pharmacists was recommended for passage. Consideration of Kilburn's free text book bill was resumed. Waterman offered an amendment requiring the consent of one-third of the legal voters before the plan may be adopted, and it was adopted. The bill then passed, 37 to 6. It provides that books may be loaned to pupils.

HOUSE.

The speaker being absent, Dowell, of Polk, was elected speaker pro tem. A flood of petitions was poured in, and during their presentation Speaker Byers appeared and took the chair. A resolution for investigation of delay in work of district courts of the state was adopted. Senate amendments to bill granting permission to town ships to erect halls for election purposes, were concurred in. These bills were introduced: By Dowell, to provide for the taxation of fire insurance companies; also one to amend code relative to insurance; by Mayne, to improve the public highways by encouraging the use of wide tires on wagons; by Spaulding, relating to compensation of county surveyor; by Ray, to provide for uniform system of bookkeeping in county affairs; by St. John, relating to adulterations of dairy products; by Morison of Keokuk, concerning compensation of justices of the peace and constables. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 26.—The following bills were introduced: By Cheshire, relative to telegraph and telephone lines; also relating to power of cities of over 7,000 population; by Funk, to declare Spirit and Okoboji lakes to be public and navigable water and to provide for their preservation and improvement; by Hunt, relating to compensation of justices of the peace; by Penrose, to give town councils the right to prohibit the use of barbed wire and remove it when used. A concurrent resolution looking to adjournment Thursday, April 2, at noon, went over. Building and loan association committee presented a substitute bill and it was made a special order for next Wednesday. A plumbers license bill was reported favorably from committee. Bill for establishment of five normal schools was reported avorably. Age of consent bill came up and Ellis explained its provisions. Cheshire offered an amendment to change the minimum age of boys under the bill for immunity from the severe penalties of 16 to 18 years. A heated debate ensued, and a vote on the amendment resulted in its passage, 34 to 14. The bill then passed, 47 to 1, Pusey voting in the negative. The bill raises the age of consent to 16 years and provides for a graded punishment when the victim is over 14 and under 16 years.

HOUSE.

Morrison of Grundy offered a resolution for sine die adjournment on April 9th. Laid over. A majority report from committee on pardons favored pardoning A. D. Hockett, convicted of murder in the Mahaska county court. Bill for extermination of Russian thistle was reported favorably. The committee on constitutional amendments reported for passage joint resolutions known as 1 and 2. Number 1 favors a vote upon the question of constitutional prohibition. Number 2 states the time at which the said vote shall be taken. Senate bill relative to state militia passed. These bills were introduced: By Chapman, to regulate employment of children in manufacturing and mercantile establishments; by Hendershot, to provide for taxation of insurance companies, in which an amendment to the code is proposed; by Ladd, requiring corporations to pay fees before doing business in the state; by Loomis, to regulate management of criminal insane at the penitentiary; by Nietert, to require railroad companies to place on sale mileage books at no higher rate than two cents a mile. House bill appropriating $8,000 for State Agricultural society this year and $3,000 annually hereafter passed. Bill enabling judges to be appointed to conduct court when the regular judges are unable to act, and in cases of vacancy caused by death, passed. Bill relating to the police of the state was taken up and was still under consideration when adjournment was taken.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 27.—A mass of petitions on resubmission, against manufacture of liquors, and relating to soldiers' monument were presented. These bills were presented: By Druet, making an appropriation for industrial home for blind at Knoxville; by Harper, to authorize cities to license and tax transient merchants and peddlers; by Palmer, relative to care of hospital for the insane; by Phelps, to provide for drawing of jurors in superior courts. Phelps offered a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the state constitution relating to trial by jury providing for less than twe ve in civil cases. The committee on constitutional amendments presented a majority and a minority report on resubmission, the majority making no recommendation and the minority recommending the resolution for the amendment be passed. Bill authorizing a tax on foreign insurance companies to sustain fire departments was recommended for passage. Committee on agriculture reported a substitute for Ericson's bill to prevent the spread of disease among swine. Ellis made a motion to reconsider the vote by which the age of consent bill was passed yesterday. This was carried, and he then offered amendments remedying the defects discovered after the bill passed. Bill establishing a state board of embalming passed. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

A resolution by Hinman, calling on the auditor of state to furnish the house with an itemized statement of the expenditures of the soldiers and sailors monument commission was laid over. The resolution providing for submission of a prohibitory amendment to the constitution came up and consideration at this time was opposed by Funk. On a vote the resolution failed to pass, 41 to 52. A motion to reconsider was laid on the table. These bills were introduced: By Griswold, to prohibit sales and distribution of obscene literature and pictures; by Hendershot, to appropriate for Industrial Home of the Blind at Knoxville; by Ladd, to provide for examination of all fire insurance companies; by McAchran, authorizing employment of convicts on highways; by McArthur, to authorizing cities to tax and license peddlers. During the consideration of the school text book bill, to which a dozen amendments were proposed and defeated, the house adjourned to 8 o'clock. At the evening session a large number of legalizing acts were disposed of.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 28.—By Cheshire, to amend laws relative to foreign insurance companies; by Harper, amending law to permit board of supervisors of Des Moines county to assist United States government in construction of a levy on the Mississippi river; by Waterman, making an appropriation to enlarge Fort Madison penitentiary. Joint resolution for ordering 15,000 copies of the railroad commissioners' map passed. Age of consent bill came up and Ellis offered an amendment changing section 3 to provide only jail punishment or fine for any person under 18 years who shall carnally know any female over 14 years old by agreement or consent of female. A long and heated debate ensued and finally upon motion by Carroll the bill was recommitted. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Bill to grant pensions to Iowa soldiers not now drawing pensions from the government was reported unfavorably. Resolution requiring of the state auditor a more definite statement of the expenses of the monument commission was adopted. The substitute to both the senate bill and house bill offered by the committee on schools and text books, relating to free text books in our public schools, was put upon its passage under the suspension of rules and the same was declared passed. The bill provides that upon petition of one-third of the legal voters as recorded at the last school election the question of free books shall be submitted, and if a majority favor the free system the board of directors shall procure such books for the use of the district. Bill empowering judges to keep filled the regular jury panel which may become exhausted by challenges, passed. Bill requiring thirty days before forfeiture of real estate is made written notice must be served on the assignee by some person authorized to serve original notices, passed. Bill requiring two insanity commissioners in counties having two county seats, passed. Woman's suffrage bill came up and Funk advocated its passage as did also Bell, Ladd, Smith, Ray, Morrison of Keokuk, and others. White, Lambert, Reed, Van Houten, Gurley, Crum and others opposed it. The bill failed to pass, 49 to 44, not the constitutional majority.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, February 29.—These bills were introduced: By Kilburn, to prevent and punish taking of orders for intoxicating liquors and the distribution of such liquors; by Ranck, relative to state militia; by Blanchard, to provide for state scholarship in state university in each county and manner of awarding same; by Carney, to provide that cities and towns may supply water, gas and electric light and power to inhabitants for reasonable compensation. Report of code committee on age of consent bill was presented. A substitute was recommended for passage which provides for raising the age of consent to fifteen flat. Its consideration was made a special order for Wednesday, March 4th. Waterman's resolution to remove medallions from soldiers' monument was made special order for Thursday, March 5. A large number of bills recommended for indefinite postponement and legalizing acts were disposed of. Senate concurred in house bill to authorize trustees of libraries in cities to levy taxes for libraries. Adjourned till Tuesday.

HOUSE.

McArthur introduced a joint resolution at the request of Senator Gear. It was a memorial to congress for the payment to the state of Iowa of the amount due her from the government on the sale of military lands. Adopted. These bills were introduced: By Lavender, relating to the taking of depositions; by Lowrey, to appropriate for the purpose of securing apparatus for the superintendent of weights and measures; by McAchran, to regulate the making of mortgages; by Miller, permitting trustees of state institutions to change or lay out highways on land owned by the state; by Weaver, to provide for state scholarships in State University; by Ward, to appropriate for the enlargement of cell capacity in the Ft. Madison penitentiary. Motion to reconsider vote by which senate bill transferring power of making assessments for the support of the library from the city council to the board of library trustees, carried, and the bill passed. These bills also passed: Providing that by an order of the court the pensions of insane soldiers may be expended; to authorize kindergartens in independent school districts; to establish industrial training departments in independent school districts at option of directors thereof. Bill to "suppress intemperance and lying," being a measure to stop sales of liquors by druggists, was defeated, as was also the bill to prevent misrepresentations in branding flour for sale in sacks and barrels. Adjourned.

BIG STRIKE THREATENED.

Street Car Lines in All Large Cities of the Country to Be Tied Up.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 29.—According to the statement of W. D. Mahon, president of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees of America, a general strike is threatened on the lines of New York, Chicago, Boston, Worcester, Milwaukee, Detroit, Philadelphia, and other cities. The decision was reached at a recent meeting in Detroit to inaugurate a strike unless a ten hour day, at 20 cents an hour, was conceded. The fight will be begun immediately in this city, where the men claim they have been tricked. "No third parties will be permitted to intervene, and," said Mahon, "it will be a fight to a finish."

Venerable Indiana Jurist Dead.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Feb. 29.—Judge P. H. Jewett, aged 73 years, died suddenly Thursday at his home. He was one of the oldest lawyers in Indiana, serving eight years as probate and eight years as common pleas judge. He practiced law here twenty years. A wife and several children are left, among them Hon. Charles Jewett, ex-state chairman of the democratic committee and present candidate for congress. Judge Jewett was born in Connecticut and served in the civil war as captain.

Three Thousand Massacred.

London, Feb. 29.—The Anglo-Armenian association has received a telegram from Constantinople which says that 3,000 Armenians have been massacred at Arabkir, and that the widows and orphans of those killed are in terrible distress from cold and hunger. The dispatch also says that the Armenians of Sivas and Cesarea are in daily fear of massacre. Forced conversions to Islamism are general throughout the Asiatic provinces.

Venezuela's Time Has Expired.

London, Feb. 29.—United States Ambassador Bayard paid a hurried visit to the foreign office Thursday. It is understood that his call was connected with the Venezuelan situation. The time allowed by the British government for Venezuela to comply with its demands for the payment of a small indemnity for the arrest of British Police Inspector Barnes expired at midnight last night.

Never.

Jayson—Say, Wilson, do you ever expect to pay me that ten dollars you got from me some months ago?

Wilson—Certainly not. Don't you remember you said not to pay it till it was convenient.

All sensible girls are not necessarily homely.

HIGH PRICE FOR POTATOES.

The John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., pay high prices for new things. They recently paid $300 for a yellow rind watermelon, $1,000 for 30 bu. new oats, $300 for 100 lbs. of potatoes, etc., etc.! Well, prices for potatoes will be high next fall. Plant a plenty, Mr. Wideawake! You'll make money. Salzer's Earliest are fit to eat in 28 days after planting. His Champion of the World is the greatest yielder on earth and we challenge you to produce its equal.

If you will send 14 cents in stamps to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will get, free, ten packages grains and grasses, including Teosinte, Spurry, Giant Incarnate Clover, etc., and our mammoth catalogue. Catalogue 5c. for mailing. w.n.

Might Yet Succeed.

Mudge—There is no doubt that woman is losing all of those finer instincts that she once had.

Wickwire—Well, if that is the case, you may find one of them yet that will marry you.

Certainly Not.

Jess—I wouldn't allow a horrid man to kiss me, would you?

Bess—Certainly not; I don't know any such.

Never.

Jayson—Say, Wilson, do you ever expect to pay me that ten dollars you got from me some months ago?

Wilson—Certainly not. Don't you remember you said not to pay it till it was convenient.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, Lucas County—ss.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of One Hundred Dollars for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. GLEASON, (Seal.) Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists; 75c.

Hall's Family Pills, 25c.

Good advice is the kind you keep to yourself.

All About Western Farm Lands.

The "Corn Belt" is the name of an illustrated monthly newspaper published by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. R. It aims to give information in an interesting way about the farm lands of the west. Send 25 cents in postage stamps to the "Corn Belt," 209 Adams St., Chicago, and the paper will be sent to your address for one year.

All sensible girls are not necessarily homely.

Scrofula

Infests the blood of humanity. It appears in varied forms, but is forced to yield to Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies and vitalizes the blood and cures all such diseases. Read this:

"In September, 1894, I made a misstep and injured my ankle. Very soon afterwards,

A Sore

two inches across formed and in walking to favor it I sprained my ankle. The sore became worse; I could not put my boot on and I thought I should have to give up at every step. I could not get any relief and had to stop work. I read of a cure of a similar case by Hood's Sarsaparilla and concluded to try it. Before I had taken all of two bottles the sore had healed and the swelling had gone down. My is now well and I have been greatly benefited otherwise. I have increased in weight and am in better health. I cannot say enough in praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. H. BLAKE, So. Berwick, Me.

Foot

This and other similar cures prove that

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills the best family cathartic and liver stimulant. 25c.

You can set Your Watch by the Burlington's "Denver Limited," it's so regular.

Leaves Omaha, 4:35 p. m. EXACTLY.

Arrives Denver, 7:30 a. m. EXACTLY.

Fastest and most comfortable train from Omaha to all points in Colorado.

Sleepers—chair car—diner.

Ask the local ticket agent for tickets via the Burlington—and BE SURE YOU GET THEM.

Burlington Route

J. FRANCIS, Gen'l Pass'r Ag't Omaha, Neb.

FLORIDA LANDS!

We are closing out at great sacrifice our Florida fruit and Timber Lands, aggregating over 183 thousand acres, situated in the best counties, at greatly reduced prices to May 1st, 1896, going at $3.00 per acre; first come, first served. Secure a tract of excellent land at an insignificant price in the best climate of the world. Agents wanted. Commission liberal. Send for catalogue and prices.

ELLSWORTH TRUST CO., Chamber of Commerce, Chicago, Ill.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. DR. J. STEPHENS, Lebanon, Ohio.

WE PAY You to Sell Fruit Trees. STARK NURSERIES, Louisiana, Mo.; Rockport, Ill.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

TIOMANE.

BY JACQUES VINCENT.

COPYRIGHT 1892 BY RAND, McNALLY & CO.

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER XII—(CONTINUED).

At 11 o'clock she began to dress for breakfast. At noon she descended to the breakfast-room, pale, but outwardly calm, sustained by the strength of a conscience at peace with God. The consul was alone at the table; the ladies had not appeared and he seemed surprised to see her.

"What! brave girl, already up?"

He was evidently ignorant of what had occurred. He continued smiling kindly on his young companion.

"What a beautiful age! A night spent in dancing gives you wings for the next day. Behold the effect of success."

The tete-a-tete repast was soon ended and Tiomane went back to her own room. In the corridor she met Anais. "Is Madame de Sorgnes up?" asked the young girl. Receiving a reply in the affirmative, she went to Madame de Sorgnes' boudoir and tapped gently. It was "Mademoiselle" who said "Enter." In this most charming boudoir, Madame de Sorgnes, attired in a pink surah peignoir, was half-reclining in an easy-chair. Mademoiselle Pascale was seated near her.

The animated expression of the faces of both ladies showed the absorbing interest of the conversation in which they were engaged. Tiomane closed the door gently and approached the great lady. At the unexpected appearance of her protege Madame de Sorgnes rose, with a gesture of surprise and anger, and her smiling face grew hard and menacing.

As for Tiomane, on finding herself in the presence of the being whom she had once loved so tenderly, she was almost moved to tears.

"Excuse me, dear madam," she said humbly, "but I hope you will grant me a few moments' private conversation with you."

"Bah!" replied Madame de Sorgnes, in a tone of contempt, shaking off the ashes of her cigarette. "I really cannot imagine what you can add to all your insolence of last night."

Tiomane made a supreme effort to restrain her tears, and stammered feebly, "Yes—I know—dear madam, I was exasperated, almost insane, and I most humbly beg your pardon. But I was deeply wounded—the blow was so unexpected, so frightful. I have had time to reflect. I am more calm now, and I am sure no word that can offend you will escape my lips."

"Well, speak," Madame de Sorgnes replied, in a harsh tone, resuming her seat and her indolent attitude.

Tiomane hesitated a moment, and then said very gently, but very firmly, "Dear madam, I wish to speak to you alone."

The governess rose to leave the room.

"Remain, Pascale," said her mistress.

"Ah! madam, it is quite natural that this unfortunate girl should wish to speak to you alone."

"This unfortunate girl, as you very properly call her, will speak, if she speak at all, in the presence of her who has been a mother to her, to whom she owes all that she is, and who even now, after the odious insults of last night, is trying to do all she can to insure her a happy future."

Tiomane's last hope faded away. A few moments before, it seemed to her impossible that such iniquity could be successful. She had said to herself that once alone with her benefactress she would be able to persuade her of the falsehood of the charges which had been made against her, and although quite determined to leave the house where she had suffered so much, she felt that then she could leave it with dignity, carrying with her grateful remembrances, devoid of bitterness. But in the presence of her implacable enemy the conversation must be cold and constrained—the words would die on her lips. Standing before the imperious little lady, who still smoked nonchalantly, by a great effort she said, in a voice which she vainly tried to make firm, "Dear madam, I have come to beg you to decide for me. I think it is better the matter should be decided at once. I do not wish to be a burden on you any longer, my stay in this house appearing quite impossible after what has passed."

"That is my opinion also," Madame de Sorgnes interrupted, in a rude tone.

Tiomane was silent a moment, then she resumed gravely:

"Thanks to the education I have received from you, madam, I think I might be able to obtain the position of governess in some family here—but I did not intend to take any steps to procure such a position without your permission."

"I SHALL ACCEPT NOTHING."

"And I very formally forbid it. It would not suit me at all to meet you, who have been treated by me as a daughter; you, who have had the same advantages as Maritza, at service in the house of one of my friends. Neither would it suit me to see you running about the streets of Smyrna with a roll of music under your arm. My decision is fixed irrevocably. We were talking of it when you entered. I shall write to Sister Victoire to-day that you are about to return to Berck. She will receive you at the convent until further [illegible] from me. You have, as you know, a small sum of money in the savings bank at Berck. It is now increased by the interest of all these years."

"Dear madam, I beg you will not speak of money."

"But I must speak of it that you may know precisely what your position is."

"I hope I shall be able to provide for myself," said Tiomane, with a little pardonable pride.

"Oh, that is easily said, but not so easily carried into execution. My intention is to secure to you a small income, which will enable you to live modestly."

"I shall accept nothing, madam," said the poor girl firmly, but respectfully.

"I shall give Sister Victoire entire charge of your future," continued the lady, as if Tiomane had not spoken. "She is very good and very sensible, and will watch over you. She will save you from yourself. I shall then have done my duty to the poor waif whom I very foolishly adopted. You may prepare at once to take the next steamer to Marseilles. It starts in five days."

Tiomane listened with apparent calmness to this decisive condemnation, dictated doubtless by the wily governess just before her entrance into the room. She did not even glance toward her triumphant enemy. Was it not better to bear defeat bravely?

"Permit me, madam, to implore a last favor. I have but five days to remain in this house. May I not spend them in my own room, where, if you will kindly permit, I will take my meals?"

"Certainly; I think it better for us all that you should remain in your own room."

"Be kind enough, madam, to be the bearer of my heartfelt gratitude to M. de Sorgnes, whom I shall not see again, perhaps. And to you, madam, I wish to offer my very sincere thanks for all you have done for me."

Madame de Sorgnes betrayed not the slightest emotion. Tiomane having approached to kiss her hand, she coldly permitted it; not, however, without evident annoyance.

"You understand, then," she said in a hard, imperious tone, "that you go in five days—Monday evening, at 6 o'clock. Adieu."

The young girl left the room.

CHAPTER XIII.

THE DAYS OF complete isolation which preceded her departure were very sad indeed to Tiomane. Nevertheless, her seclusion spared her the embarrassment, the constraint, of life in common with those whom she could no longer consider friends, and this was, if not happiness, peace.

She passed these five days alone in her room, entirely cut off from the gay life of the palace. In the next rooms she could distinguish Maritza's voice scolding the servants, and Mademoiselle Pascale's hypocritical tones.

From her windows she could see the elegant toilets of the ladies of the house and of the visitors, walking under the orange trees in full bloom on these balmy January days—the oriental spring. All this life and movement made a strange impression upon her. It seemed to her that a long, long time had elapsed since she moved in these brilliant scenes. After so many years passed in opulence she was to return to Berck, almost to her former life. What could she do there? Surely, Sister Victoire, so good, so loving and so intelligent, would understand the truth, and would continue to give the friendless orphan her respect and affection. Would she not be able to find, among the rich visitors to the beach, or in some convent, a situation as teacher, by which she might be able to support herself?

ELI HAD A GREAT PIECE OF NEWS TO COMMUNICATE.

Although her education was of the highest order, she had not the diploma of any institution—a necessity in France; but she spoke fluently and elegantly French, English, Italian and modern Greek, and was a thorough musician—a musical genius, indeed. She was determined to take even the humble position of nursery governess rather than accept the alms of those who had driven her from home.

One tie, and one alone, was hard to break. She wrote a long letter of farewell to Guillaume—a very touching letter, for the cause of the rupture was not mentioned. Was she not sure that her friend, her brother, would always defend her in his heart? Whatever he might hear, whatever his mother and sister might try to prove to him, he would remain always incredulous to any allegation against one whom he knew so well. She told him of her return to France, and of the complete ignorance she was in as to what was to become of her there. Should she ever see him again? She hardly dared indulge this sweet hope, as their meeting would be admissible only with Madame de Sorgnes' consent, and that was not likely to be granted. She ended her letter with loving sisterly counsels—"the last will and testament," she said, of "his tall sister." She assured him of her unalterable affection, and invoked the choicest blessings of heaven on his head. Many tears were mingled with these last words, which were a final farewell to her only love. Perfect calm had returned to her troubled soul. The preparations for her departure were short. On the second day, Eli, having offered her assistance in packing, Tiomane thanked her, but declined any aid, as she intended, she said, to select from her wardrobe only what was absolutely necessary. But the next day the Greek servant, who had related the conversation to her mistress came again with a formal command from Madame de Sorgnes, who required that her protege should retain all her gifts. Tiomane obeyed, and the work of packing began.

Talkative Elli had a great piece of news to communicate. Prince Hassan had asked the hand of Maritza and had been accepted. At that moment the bride-elect was humming a gay air in the next room. "Hein!" added Elli, with a spice of malice in her tone, "they will be well mated, the prince and the princess."

CHAPTER XIV.

THE DAY BEFORE that fixed for Tiomane's departure was one of those enervating days peculiarly trying in that climate. Nature seems to delight in antitheses. At noon the heat was unendurable. At 3 o'clock the ashy gray sky became suddenly black, and seemed to descend upon the city like a leaden winding-sheet. From time to time whirlwinds of reddish sand rose, almost blinding the unfortunate pedestrians. In the distance, the roaring of the sea added to the horror of the scene. Tiomane, nearly suffocated in her room, had attempted several times to open a window; but the burning air which entered had made her close it quickly. When Elli brought her repast she told her there was a dinner party that day at the palace—a dinner of intimate friends, among whom were the governor and Prince Hassan; that, in spite of the size of the apartments, the guests were ill at ease, the servants quite exhausted; that the guests would, no doubt, retire early.

Indeed, Tiomane heard Maritza returning to her sleeping-room about 11 o'clock, and soon deep silence reigned in the palace, broken only by the loud rumblings of the thunder, which seemed to presage a terrible storm. It burst suddenly in the early morning hours, with a thunder peal which semed to shake the whole palace.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

THE ALASKA MAIDEN.

Her Characteristics Described by One Abundantly Qualified to Know Them.

Some of the early American settlers who went to Alaska as bachelors married native women. One of them who died several years ago left behind the following description of the Alaska maiden: "The Alaska maiden is a very queer and unnatural being. She may live with a white man or be lawfully wedded to him, but such tender sentiments as love for her white master never entered her dusky bosom. She may dwell in a fine cottage, wear silks and fine raiment and live upon dainty food and in ease, but to be good and true to him who labors to supply her with these fine things is not according to the Hoyle of her clan. The cottage, silks, well supplied table and liberal allowances of cash are her demands for living with him, and if financial embarrassment causes a shortage in such luxuries the frisky damsel suddenly has home affairs that demand her attention. She is a very dutiful child to her aged parents, and the persistency of her demands for cash and the depletion of her own larder for their support is only equaled by the amount that these old people seem able to consume. She is very aboriginal in her habits, and when she can escape the argus eye of her better half and make a sneak from under the roof of civilization for a time she can always be found rolling in the sand in front of the paternal hovel, munching dried salmon or cakes of seaweed and seal grease. But when she has gorged herself sufficiently on this odoriferous food and visited and gossiped to her heart's content she returns to her cottage again and, with silks soiled and torn and a breath flavored like the breeze from a fish-drying rack, sues for that forgiveness she is always sure to receive. She is then thoroughly soapsudded, a new gown is purchased and the head of the house breathes a sigh of relief, knowing that it will be several days at least before his domestic happiness is again broken.

HE IS A LOYAL SCOT.

William Black Has Many Relics in His Home in Sussex.

William Black, the novelist, is a man of many homes. He has a residence in London, another in Sussex and a country house at Oban, Scotland, where he goes every summer to hunt and fish. It is at his Sussex home that Mr. Black spends the greater part of his time and does all his literary work. Paston house has a cheerful and substantial air, and inside it is crowded with rare and beautiful things. The walls of the wide halls and staircase which lead up to a luxuriously furnished drawing room are covered with pictures by some of England's best artists, prominent among them being a reproduction of a storm scene in "Macleod of Dare." In the drawing room there is a wealth of articles of curious historic interest. Two things that are pretty certain to be shown the visitor are the tray on which the pretender, Prince Charles Edward, was served, when, aided by beautiful Flora McDonald, he found safe shelter from the McDonalds of Kingsbury; and more racy of the land of the thistle than the foregoing, a brace of whisky jars once owned by the family of Rob Roy. Mr. Black is a loyal Scot, and he likes to gather about him reminders of the land of his birth. His study is on the top floor, with no outlook to distract his attention, and well removed from the noise and confusion of the little domestic world below stairs.

Though an old newspaper worker, he must of necessity have absolute quiet and privacy while at work.

Terms of Affection.

"Mamma, dear," is a more loving phrase to a mother's ear than "Honored madam," though it would have astonished our great-grandmothers, and the spontaneous caresses of a child are very sweet. Yet it is possible so to err on the side of familiarity, both with the young and with subordinates, that the sense of reverence for elders and superiors is undermined. But human nature is slow to adopt the happy medium in any of its ways and elderly people declare that manners are daily deteriorating. Only the very old can fully realize the order of things which prevailed up to the early years of the present century, but it has left a leaven behind it which we recognize among the thoroughly well-bred members of society.—Chambers' Journal.

What They Have.

The dog has his day—
To the cat night falls;
The dog has his kennel—
The cat-her-walls.

Tennyson Up to Date.

In the spring the maiden's fancy
Turns to thoughts of hat and frock.
And the young man's, e'en more surely,
To his annual bout with "bock."

MORE OR LESS HUMOROUS.

Doctor: "I must forbid you all mental work." Poet: "But, doctor, you will let me write my poems?" Doctor: "Of course."—Fliegende Blaetter.

De Tanque: "Do you believe in a hereafter?" Old Soak: "You bet I do. I'm trying to think now what to tell my wife when I get home."—Philadelphia Record.

Distressed young mother (traveling with a crying infant): "Dear me! I don't know what to do with this baby." Kind and thoughtful bachelor (in the next seat): "Shall I open the window for you, madam?"—Life.

Judge (to man who was arrested, charged with robbing a liquor store): "Do you know anything about the robbery of this liquor store?" Prisoner (respectfully): "Judge, do you suppose I'd be sober if I did?"—Texas Sifter.

"If you don't do something on this bill before the 15th I intend to sue you." "Ah, and will you permit me to recommend Sharpe and Steele? I receive a percentage of all they get out of me."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Aunt Dorothy: "How many commandments are there, Johnny?" Johnny (glibly): "Ten." Aunt Dorothy: "And, now, suppose you were to break one of them?" Johnny (tentatively): "Then there'd be nine."—Truth.

Mrs. Parkwest: "Did the fish man call today, Norah?" Norah Newcook: "Yis'm." Mrs. Parkwest: "Had he frogs' legs?" Nora Newcook: "Sure, how could Oi tell, m'm? He had on pants an' a long ulster."—New York Herald.

Judge: "Are you aware of any mitigating circumstances in your case?" Criminal: "Yes, your honor, this is the fifteenth time I have been arrested for vagrancy, and I thought that perhaps we might get up a little jubilee."—Household Words.

Man Was Made to Mourn.

Perhaps, but rheumatism need not add to the calamities to which we are more or less subject, when there is such an efficient means of counteracting the dire complaint as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. When the liver, bowels or stomach are out of order, or the kidneys or nerves troublesome, the Bitters is also an efficient remedy. It prevents and remedies all malarial disorders.

Enforced Gallantry.

Hobbs—Wiggles says he pays his wife just as much attention as when they were first married.

Nobbs—He has to. Her money was left so she can only draw the interest.

Best of All.

To cleanse the system in a gentle and truly beneficial manner, when the springtime comes, use the true and perfect remedy, Syrup of Figs. One bottle will answer for all the family and costs only 50 cents; the large size $1. Buy the genuine. Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company only, and for sale by all druggists.

A pessimist is an optimist whose dreams didn't come true.

Authority That Never Fails.

Webster's Dictionary has been the constant authority in The Herald office for more than thirty years; indeed, it was the first book ever called in aid, and has remained to the present day where it was first installed as an authority that has never failed. Webster's International Dictionary has the endorsement of representative authorities all over the country. It maintains itself over and above all dictionaries, and bids fair to do so for generations to come.—The Herald, Dubuque, November 6, 1895.

Where there is a will there is usually a lawyer.

Iowa farms for sale on crop payments, 10 per cent cash, balance ⅓ crop yearly, until paid for. J. MULHALL, Waukegan, Ill.

A dead level is a hard climb to a good many people.

"BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES" are a simple and convenient remedy for Bronchial Affections and Coughs. Carry them in your pocket.

The second book ever printed in the English language was dated 1475, and entitled "The Game of Chess."

Piso's Cure for Consumption has been a family medicine with us since 1865.—J. R. Madison, 2409 42d Ave., Chicago, Ills.

The public debt of Omaha is $3,011,100, and the assessed valuation of the city property is $19,926,780.

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

The Prince of Wales has his life insured for $3,250,000.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth,

Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.

Take people as you find them, but don't find any more of them than is necessary.

"A Cup of Parks' Tea at night moves the bowels in the morning."

Love your enemies, but keep away from them until they begin to love you.

Coe's Cough Balsam

Is the oldest and best. It will break up a Cold quicker than anything else. It is always reliable. Try it.

Women are considered strong minded when they cease to care for the men.

Experience leads many mothers to say "Use Parker's Ginger Tonic," because it is especially good for colds, pain and almost every weakness.

The woman who married for love usually sees that her daughter doesn't.

Those distressing Corns!

Bad as they are, Hindercorns will remove them and then you can walk and run and jump as you like.

There were forty more divorces than there were weddings in Fresno, Cal., last year.

A man gives reasons; a woman excuses.

BEWARE IN TIME.

The first acute twinge of

Sciatica

is the warning to use ST. JACOBS OIL.

Delay, and those twinges may twist your leg out of shape.

BLASTS FROM RAM'S HORN.

Long suffering always makes God's children gentle.

The Lord's side is never afraid of daylight.

Courage is something that a coward can only imitate.

To have Christ, is to have everything God's law requires of us.

Industry and prudence are the best safeguards against bad luck.

Love is the only thing that can lighten burdens by adding to them.

Some very religious people have a different religion on Sunday, from what they have the rest of the week.

The Christian is walking on dangerous ground, who is not praying every day of his life that he may be more like Christ.

When Columbus sighted land, he gave men better eyes and enlarged the world.

Building on a rock is an investment that pays dividends with every thunder clap.

Edison prophecies that in ten years horseless carriages will be the rule, and horse-propelled vehicles the exception.

GRASS IS KING! HURRAH!!

Shout for joy. The green grass rules. It's more valuable than oats, wheat and corn together. Luxuriant meadows are the farmer's delight. A positive way to get them and a very sure one we know is to sow Salzer's Extra Grass Mixtures. No need of waiting a life time either. Salzer has a mixture, sown in April, producing hay in June. Many farmers report yields of six tons of magnificent hay per acre. Over one hundred different kinds of grasses, clovers, Teosinte, Sand Vetch, Giant Spurry and Fodder plants! 35 packages earliest vegetables for $1.00.

If you will cut this out and send with 10c. postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will receive free ten grass and grain samples and their mammoth seed catalogue. Catalogue alone 5c. for mailing. W.N.

A Hopeful Spirit.

Cleverton—Did Miss Redbud expect me last night?

Dashaway—No; she said she didn't think there was any danger of your coming.

There is money to be made in Cripple Creek. When you go take the "Rock Island Route" to Colorado Springs.

This is the only direct line—saves several hours' time to Cripple Creek.

Send for full information.

JOHN SEBASTIAN,
General Passenger Agent, Chicago.

Too many men regard home as a place where they are privileged to be disagreeable.

A man is known by the books he reads; a woman by those she doesn't read.

The top rounds of the ladder of fame are few and far apart.

The advanced woman is advancing in the wrong direction.

Original sin was preceded by the original sinner.

a million killed

would make no impression on the number of the germs of consumption that exist in one affected lung. All germs are little enough, but those which cause consumption are very minute. Cod-liver oil won't kill them. We don't know a remedy which will. The germs float in the air and we can't keep from breathing them into our lungs. Then why don't all of us have consumption? Because a healthy throat, sound lungs, and a strong constitution won't allow the germs to gain a foothold.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, restores and maintains the strength, increases the weight, heals inflamed membranes and prevents serious lung trouble. This is why it is the food-medicine in coughs, colds, loss of flesh, and general debility.

50c. and $1.00 at all druggists.

CUT AND SLASH

SMOKING TOBACCO,
2 oz. for 5 Cents.

CUT AND SLASH

CHEROOTS—3 for 5 Cents.

Give a Good, Mellow, Healthy, Pleasant Smoke. Try Them.

LYON & CO. TOBACCO WORKS, Durham, N. C.

COCOA CAUTION

If "La Belle Chocolatiere" isn't on the can, it isn't Walter Baker & Co.'s Breakfast Cocoa.

WALTER BAKER & CO., LIMITED,
DORCHESTER, MASS.

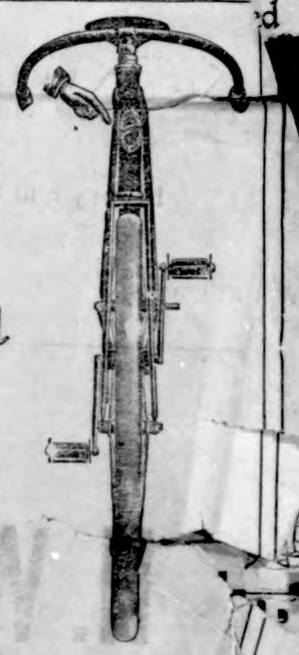
"Pass Your Plate."

BattleAx PLUG

Prices of all commodities have been reduced except tobacco. "Battle Ax" is up to date. Low Price; High Grade; Delicious Flavor. For 10 cents you get almost twice as much "Battle Ax" as of other high grade goods. The 5 cent piece is nearly as large as other 10 cent pieces of equal quality.

10 times out Lumber, Lath, Shingles

The New York Journal recently offered ten bicycles to the ten winners in a guessing contest, leaving the choice of machine to each.



ALL OF THEM CHOSE

Columbia Bicycles

STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Nine immediately, and one after he had looked at others. And the Journal bought Ten Columbias. Paid $100 each for them.

On even terms a Columbia will be chosen

TEN times out of TEN

POPE MANUFACTURING CO.

1896 Art Catalogue free from the Columbia agent; by mail for two 2-cent stamps. HARTFORD, CONN.

..4th PRIZE CONTEST..

1st Prize.	Kimball Piano, "Style 3,"	$ 600 00
2d Prize.	Bicycle, for man or woman	75 00
3d Prize.	Cash	50 00
10 Cash Prizes, each	$25	250 00
10 Cash Prizes, each	$10	100 00
60 Cash Prizes, each	$2	120 00
83 Prizes		$ 1,195 00

The first prize will be given to the person who constructs the longest sentence in good English containing no letter of the alphabet more than three times. It is not necessary to use every letter of the alphabet. The other prizes will go in regular order to those competitors whose sentences are next in length.

Every competitor whose sentence reaches twenty-two letters will receive a paper covered volume containing twelve of Wilkie Collins' novels whether he wins a prize or not. This contest closes April 15, 1896. The prize winners will be announced one week later and the winning sentences published. In case two or more prize-winning sentences are of the same length preference will be given to the best one. Each competitor must construct his own sentence, and no person will be allowed to enter this contest more than once. Sentences cannot be corrected or substituted after they are received. Residents of Omaha are not permitted to compete, directly or indirectly.

RULES FOR THE SENTENCE—(No Others Furnished.)

The length of a sentence is to be measured by the number of letters it contains, but no letter can be used or counted more than three times. No word except "a" or "I" can be used more than once. The sentence must consist of complete words. Signs, figures, abbreviations or contractions, etc., must not be used. The pronoun "I" and the article "a" will be accepted as complete words. Proper nouns cannot be used. Each contestant must indicate by figures at the end of his sentence how many letters it contains.

This remarkably liberal offer is made by the WEEKLY WORLD-HERALD, of which the distinguished ex-congressman,

WILLIAM J. BRYAN, is Editor,

and it is required that each competing sentence be enclosed with one dollar for a year's subscription. The WEEKLY WORLD-HERALD is issued in semi-weekly sections, and hence is nearly as good as a daily. It is the western champion of free silver coinage and the leading family newspaper of Nebraska.

Address,

Weekly World-Herald, Omaha, Neb.

FIRST contest closed February 28, 1895.
SECOND contest closed May 24, 1895.
THIRD contest closed February 15, 1896.
Winner of Knabe Piano in third contest was D. D. Light, Trenton, Mo.
Winner of $100 cash prize in same contest was Mrs Mary L. Dunbar, Garrison, Neb.
Winner of $50 cash prize was Mrs. Florence Thornton, Washington, D. C.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

CRIPPLE CREEK. Write BECHEM INVESTMENT CO., Denver, for what you want.

THE AERMOTOR CO. does half the world's windmill business, because it has reduced the cost of wind power to 1 6 what it was. It has many branch houses, and supplies its goods and repairs at your door. It can and does furnish a better article for less money than others. It makes Pumping and Geared, Steel, Galvanized Aftercompletion Windmills, Tilting and Fixed Steel Towers, Steel Wave Frames, Steel Feed Cutters and Feed Grinders. On application it will name one of these articles that it will furnish cut January 1st at 1/3 the usual price. It also makes Tanks and Pumps of all kinds. Send for catalogue. Factory: 12th, Rockwell and Fillmore Streets, Chicago.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

When answering advertisements kindly mention this paper.

MARION A. FELL,
NOTARY PUBLIC.

M. R. CHAMBERS,
ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans at 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farmers' Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on us, we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co,
Garner, Iowa.

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

KLEMME, Belmond, Iowa.

Murphy has ... appear and stand trial for ben... abitual drunkard and for miss... e has ... ,000 b... IN T... hich a... dge... t... f... ti...

ALEX. KIRKWOOD,

....PROPRIETOR OF....

...KWOOD :-: HOUSE,

...SS ACCOMMADATION. – RATES $1.00 per Day.

Livery and Feed Stable in Connection

Rigs Furnished on Short Notice.

KLEMME, -:- -:- -:- IOWA.

H. W. Schoper.

THE

LEADING - IMPLEMENT - DEALER.

Has on hand a complete stock of FARM

IMPLEMENTS.

Fisher Wagons, Staver Abbot, and Parry Buggies,

Rock Island and U. S. Planters,

Conklin Cultivators,

Morrison and R. I. Sulky Plows.

Pumps Fanning Mills etc.

A fine road wagon

Only $30.

DAVIS SEWING MACHINE, THE BEST ON THE MARKET.

COME and see for yourself.

H. SCHROEDER,

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY - MEAT - MARKET.

Carry a Complete line of { Fresh, Salt and Smoked Meats.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

HIDES.

PICKLES, etc. Always on hand.

Klemme, Ia.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, Mar. 6, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum In Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1895.

GRISWOLD & CLINE, PUBLISHERS.

Goodell Items.

Lige Mulkins is sick.

Harry Galloway is on the sick list.

H. H. Bush of the Hub was in town last Friday.

J. D. Fell of Garner was in town over Sunday.

Messrs. Thompson and Kaus of Meservey were in town Sunday.

Tom Cashman is out and making favorable progress to recovery.

Mr. Lackore of Hayfield is taking Geo. Butt's place in the depot, while George looks around after lost health.

Miss May Thompson of Forest City, came down Monday to spend the week with her brother Doctor Thompson.

Carl Hanson, living in old Amsterdam, swallowed a nickle Sunday. He was quite sick for a few days but is better now.

G. W. Butts and Dr. Goodenow have purchased the Drug Store. Mr. Medowell expects to stay in town about six months.

The Allen family arrived on Wednesday, on the farm sold by C. Fox, who with his family left on Friday for Missouri.

As a result of the revival meetings held here, there were about 50 taken in full connection with the U. B. Church at this place.

Mrs. John R. Cline left Monday enroute for the Hospital in Chicago, where she is to have an operation performed. Dr. Goodenow will take charge of her.

Sunday occurred thefuneral of J. Riddell. The deceased being an Oddfellow, was buried with the solemn and imposing rites of Oddfellowship. Goodell, Thornton and Belmond lodges were represented.

Rams Horn.

No man is fit for heaven who wants somebody else kept out.

An extravagant man loves to lecture his wife on the beauty of economy.

It is right to fast, but it is wrong to look lean

The man who deserves riches can be rich without them

It is better to be a mustard seed than a mountain of dead rock.

FREE TO EVERY READER OF THIS PAPER.

A book on Fancy Work which contains 50 illustrations. Among them are designs for Sofa Pillows, Table Covers, Scarfs, Tray Cloths, Doilies, Celluloid Work, Tapestry Painting, and Embroidery. Directions are given how to make Lamp Shades, Scrap Baskets, Photograph Stands, and a great variety of fancy articles. Also another book telling how to make all kinds of Mats and Rugs, numbering 65 in all. These two books will be sent you FREE if you will send ten cents for a three months' trial subscription to The Home a 16 page paper containing original Stories, Fashions, Fancy Work, etc.,—the cheapest and best paper published. Send to the Publishers, 141 Milk St., Boston, Mass., and get the paper and the two books. When writing ask for their illustrated Premium List, sent free to any address.

Garner.

M. R. Chambers was elected Mayor, at our late city election.

G. E. Troeger visited his parents at Charles City, over Sunday.

Rev. Harvey went te Britt on Monday to assist in revival work at that place.

W. L. Channer returned Friday from his attendance at the Butter Makers Convention at Cedar Rapids.

W. C. Amsden proprietor of the Lathrop drug store with his family arrived in Garner last evening. They will occupy the shoemaker house on State street.

The Miller items in the Signal has a notice of the marriage of Miss Carrie Maben and Mr. C. Thompson, of the Corwith Hustler, on the 29th. of Feb. 1896. While the TIMES wish them Happiness and prosperity, we also sympathize with them on account of their having to wait so long for their Tin Wedding.

Garner residence property has changed hands quite freely the past thirty days. Among others the Congregational church people have bought the lot and house south of the U. P. church, for a parsonage. G. A. Patterson has bought L. D. Byers' house on Maben avenue, and Mr. Byers has bought Wesley Alddridge's residence property.—Signal.

FROM WIDDLETON TO WADDLETON.

When we set out a-journeying, my baby girl and I,
It really is a wonder how the way goes fleeting by.
The course is from the sitting room, her charger is my knee
And the minstrel music with us is her little laugh of glee.

"Oh, from Widdleton to Waddleton it's eighteen miles,
But from Waddleton to Widdleton it's nineteen miles
(Which is just a freak in distance which my conscience reconciles
With the theory that baby songs are full of tricks and wiles)—
Oh, from Widdleton to Waddleton it's eighteen miles."

Her grandma is so jealous when we set about our trip.
She claims to see a tear shade in the quiver of her lip.
She says the way is rocky and the steed is roughly shod,
But we tell her of another path that's smooth and clear and broad.

We never have arrived at where we set about to go,
For always on the journey baby's curly head drops low,
And then I draw her closer, closer, closer to my breast,
And the steed is turned to pasture and its rider is—undressed.

"Still from Widdleton to Waddleton it's eighteen miles,
And from Waddleton to Widdleton it's nineteen miles,
And the breezes bring a murmuring from drowsy afterwhiles,
And a little prayer is uttered for a life to know no trials—
Oh, from Widdleton to Waddleton it's eighteen miles."

—Carl Smith in Ladies' Home Journal.

Family Funds.

One of the old residents of a Massachusetts town delights the younger generation with her stories of life in the town 70 years ago, when she was a little girl. Her father, with his wife and children, and his brother, with wife and children also, occupied a great farmhouse which is still in a state of excellent preservation in spite of its years of hard service.

"My father and my uncle had a 'common purse,'" said the old lady to a young visitor who was begging for reminiscences of that bygone time, "and all the family expenses were provided for from the funds it contained.

"There were 12 children in our part of the house and 13 in my uncle's, so that it took a good deal to provide us with food and clothing.

"My uncle had the reputation of being a little more prudent in money matters than was considered necessary by my father or any one acquainted with our affairs, so I have heard since. In those days the children of both families knew by instinct that my father was the person to whom an appeal for some desired bit of finery or what we called 'unnecessaries' had better be made. The common purse seemed to have greater powers of extension in his hands than in my uncle's.

"I well remember my pretty Cousin Myra dancing with delight when she was on the eve of her sixteenth birthday. 'I'm to have a piano after all, Jennie,' she cried, giving me a hug. 'Father was very doubtful about it, but Uncle Amos told me not to worry, for if father couldn't afford to give it to me he could.'"—Youth's Companion.

---

20 Cents Per Bu. In Trade. 20 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

CORN WANTED

AT

WESENBERG BROS'

ALSO DEALER IN

Dry Goods, Notions, Hats, Caps, Gloves, Mittens, Groceries, and Queensware.

20 Cents Per Bu. In Trade. 20 Cents Per Bu. In Trade.

---

25 YEARS EXPERIENCE IN

BLACKSMITHING

Enables me to do your work in a workmanlike manner.

Plow Work a Specialty.

Also do wood repairing on Wagons and Buggies.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. KROUSE, KLEMME, IA.

BELL, BELL, BELL.

The above means THE BELL CLOTHING HOUSE at

GARNER, IOWA.

We have a new and complete stock of

Clothing and Gents' Furnishings.

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Bicycles and Sporting Goods.

It will pay the people of Klemme and vicinity to call.

Yours for business,

F. B. CASSILL & CO

EVERYBODY
Come in and Examine

Our NEW stock of Dress Goods Just Arrived.

New patterns of fine Woosted Dress Goods,.....Only 30c
Fine Grey Dress Flannell at.....15c
Elegant Henrietta,s at.....50c
LL Sheeting at.....5c

WINTER GOODS!

All winter goods must go at

COST.

LAU BROS.

SEND YOUR ORDERS FOR ABSTRACTS of titles to

J. S. Knauss, Abstracter,

Owner of Complete set, Lands and Town Lots.

Titles Perfected. Promptness and Accuracy GUARANTEED

GARNER, IOWA.

A. L. SPOONER.

Physician and Surgeon.

Office and residence on Main Street first door west of Bank.

Klemme, Iowa.

H. E. PEITZKE
IS THE BLACKSMITH
THAT
Will do your work well.
He also does wood work.
HIS
Prices are right,
AND
Experience great.
KLEMME, IOWA.

B. C. R. & N. TIME TABLE.

GOING SOUTH.

No. 84.	Stock	6.00 a. m.
No. 89.	Way freight	1.30 p. m.
No. 82.	Pass.	2.28 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 83.	Way freight	10.00 a. m.
No. 85.	Freight	3.58 p. m.
No. 81.	Pass.	5.16 p. m.

F. B. SMITH, Local Agt.

JOHN BAUMGARTNER.

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY BARBER SHOP.

AN EASY SHAVE. - -

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

SHOP IN KIRKWOOD HOUSE, KLEMME, IOWA.

KLEMME - DRAY - LINE.

H. & S. NISSEN,
Proprietors.

Draying and teaming of all kinds done on short notice.

GIVE US A CALL.

STATE - SAVINGS - BANK
—OF—
KLFMME, IOWA

Does a regular Banking Business. Deals in Domestic and Foreign

EXCHANGE

Loans money on long or time. Attends to collections and pays interest on time deposits

C. W. KNAPP, Cashier.

GEO. S. GATES,

STONE AND BRICK MASON

Plastering a Specialty. Do all kinds of work in my line. I also make a Specialty of bricking up Cisterns and boilers. All work guaranteed and Prices accordingly.

Give me a trial,

GEO. S. GATES,

Klemme, Iowa.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.

OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.

OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, MARCH 13, 1896. NUMBER 2[illegible]

J. L. HARR.

PURE DRUGS AND MEDICINES.

Window Shades And Wall Paper. Paints and Oils.

All Will Be Sold Cheap For Cash.

YOU HAVE IT!

Oats and Corn!

We Want It!

and will pay the Highest Market price to get it.

COAL!

We have it, You want it.

Hard, Soft, Illinois, and Smithing.

WALT. BLOOM, Klemme, Ia.

One Week Only!

From March 13th to 20th

We will sell for cash only

Tea Kettles Copper Bottom	55c
4 qt. Sauce Pans	17c
1 set Madam Pits Irons	$1.00
Tin Wash Basin's	06c

You can buy one article or all. Come early before the goods are all gone.

SHAFER & DOW.

GEO KLUCKHOHN,

The Restaurant Man!

Serves the Public with

A Square Meal, Fine Bread Buns, Oysters, Cigars, Tobaccos, etc.

WHEN IN TOWN CALL AND SEE HIM.

KLEMME, - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

Eagle Grove

MARBLE AND GRANITE WORKS

MATERIAL THE BEST AND WORKMANSHIP SECOND TO NONE.

GEO. W. SHAFFER, AGENT

Correspondence Solicited.

MESERVEY, - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

TIMES $1 PER YEAR!

Local Mention.

Asa Gibbs is reported quite sick.

Mackintosh's, only $4.50 at Shafer & Dows.

C. W. Knapp was at Garner Tuesday on business.

Pure Boiled Linseed Oil at Harr's 45c per. gallon.

R. M. Brisco, of Goodell, was in town one day last week.

Rollie Stelle of Garner, was in town on business one day last week.

A good half section of land to rent. Inquire at State Savings Bank.

Go to E. P. Shafer for the best, largest and cheepest line of carpets.

Miss Lizzie Renziehauser went to St Paul Friday for spring goods.

I. Sweigard of Garner, droped in on us a few minutes Friday afternoon.

Send your laundry to the Garner Laundry and patronize home industry.

Just look over the large stock of New Farm Machinery at Grutzmacher Bro's.

W. F. Wesenberg made a business trip to Dows and Popejoy the last of the week.

Iou Kaste of S. D. who has been visiting relatives, left for Minneapolis, Wenesday.

Our Creamery has just put in a new churn in order to be up to date in everything.

Rember that we are prepared to get out sale bills on short notice. Give us a trial.

M. L. Gilman returned last week from where he has been with his brotner since October.

J. H. Queal & Co. have just receieved a fresh supply of Lime, Brick, Stucco and Cement.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

Take your laundry to E. P. Schaefer's, who is agent for the Mason City Steam Laundry Co.

The bridge gang of the B, C. R. & N. Ry. have been repairing bridges along this line this week.

We make a specjal rate on family washing, ask for prices.

GARNER LAUNDRY.

One day last week the morning frt. north, had 14 cars of emigrants from Illinois, enroute for Armstrong and vicinity.

Wm. and Chas. Shoemacher, [illegible] and Chas. visiting relatives in Independence, Ia.

Lau Bros. have made some great reductions in their winter goods, which they are closing out at cost and some even below cost.

Geo, Boothroyd of Dakota City, Ia., a Nephew, arrived on the evening train Saturday, and spent Sunday with the editor and family.

A car load more or less of Wall Paper and Paint just receieved. Latest patterns and colors. Prices cut way down. At Shafer & Dow's

D. Webner and N. L. Palmer, each paid a years subscription Saturday. That is what keeps the wolf from the door. Who will be the next?

A Fresh invoice of bulk seed incleuding Red and White Clover, Timothy, Blue Grass, Redtop, Millet and Garden Seeds at Grnetzmacher Bro's.

Mr. Fred Arnold has purchased a deer, from Mr. Ormsby of Emetsburg Iowa. It arrived Tuesday. Mr. Arnold has a park prepared to keep it in.

Shafer & Dow have cut a window in the east side of theer store near the north end, which enables them to show their wall paper to a better advantage.

W. F. Wesenberg and John Stille made a businesj trip to Armstrong last week and Mr. Stille was so well pleased that he invested in 160 acres of land.

Mrs. G. I. Schaper returned last Tuesday evening from her visit in Illinois. She reports a very pleasant time Geo. says he is all right now.

The Germantown Literary Society meet to-night of this week instead of Thursday night on account of the S S. convention in Garner. Thursday night hereafter.

Henry Schroeder drove to Garner Tuesday morning for his father and mother. Their car of goods arrived Wednesday morning. They will live with Henry over the meat market.

Dr. Fraser of Garner was called in consultation with D.r Spooner wednesday, in reference to the advisability of moving Frank Schuldt to Garner. It was decided not advisable at present.

Mr. C. H. Marshall and family of Ashkum Ill. arrived in Klemme Friday. Mar. 6th. He had 3 cars. Teams met him here and he moved on the land bought of A. C. Ripley & Co. north-east of town.

Frank Schuldt while shelling corn last Friday, attempted to fix the sheller without stopping it, and got his hand caught in the gearing in such a manner as to cause the amputation of the thumb. Dr. Spooner performed the operation. Frank thinks he will stop the sheller when repairing it after this.

Additional Locals.

John Suckow is on the sick list.

Bring in your job work, we guarantee satisfaction.

The Red Jacket Pump, best pump on the market, at Lau Bro's.

Lou Wesenberg of Goodell, made us a pleasant call Monday morning.

Mrs. Henry and Mrs. Chas. Gruetzmacher were at Garner Tuesday.

E. P. Schaefer has just received nearly a car load of new furniture.

Two good buggies at cost, to make room for our new stock, at Lau Bro's.

Jacob Baun has commenced hauling cream for the creamery. He made his first trip Monday.

The Garner Laundry will call for and deliver your laundry, Tuesday and Friday of each week.

Our business men are getting right to the front. Just read the new ads. and see the bargains they offer.

Born:—To Mr. and Mrs. Myron Haskins March 5th., a girl of standerd weight. Mother and child doing well.

Papering.—I am ready to do paperhanging in a first class manner and on short notice. All work guaranteed.

REV. C. NOLTE, Goodell, Ia.

The Dows Advocate has been sold to Mr. W. A. Monroe of Traer, Ia. Mr. Monroe is an old printer fresh from the Traer Star-Clipper, and will remodel and improve the paper.

Dr. Charlton of Clear Lake came in answer to a telegram, Sunday, to see Frank Schuldt, He found Frank getting along under the treatment of Dr. Spooner all right and as fast as could be expected.

The officers of the Klemme Cremery held their regular semi-monthly meeting at the creamery on Saturday. The new 300 gal. box churn recently put in was accepted, and theyexpressed entire satisfaction with the management of N. L. Palmer, their Butter Maker. The Company paid 13c for cream during last month and are making from 1200 to 1400lbs. of butter weekly.

The school exhibition passed off very pleasantly. The opening number the Worlds Fair Overture, by the Band, was heartily applauded. Following came recitation's and singing by the school, all of which well done. Little Hazel Peitzke rather excelled, in her rendition of her Kiss song. The afterpiece, "The Yankee Peddlar," was good. The peddler gets with Mr. Hess as the Yankee Peddler, took the cake without a descenting vote. M. C. Lau's song brought down the house. Others were worthy of special mention but our space is limited. Good attention was maintained until the close although the program was a little lengthy. The receipts were $25.05.

Program.

The following program was carried out by the Germantown Literary Society, on Thursday evening, Mar. 5th.

Roll Call

Reading of minutes.....by Secretary.
Song.....by Society.
Query Box.....O. G. Gast.
Duett { Miss Lizzie Martin. / Mjss Frances Lau.
Comic Song.....G. I. Schaper.
Recitation.....H. C. Lau.
Declamation.....Miss Ella Thomas.

Recess.

Music

A. Beier, F. J. Schuldt, Miss Esther Schaefer.

Question for debate:—Resolved that the study of Grammar is more beneficial than History.

Aff.	Neg.
G. I. Schaper,	H. Beier,
F. J. Schuldt,	J. J. Stille.

Decision of Judges, Aff. 3, Neg, 0.

Reading of—Society Screamer—.....H. C. Lau.

Critic's report....Miss Lizzie Martin.

G. I. Schaper, Pres.
Gladys Schmalle, Sec.

Married.

Roths,—Fuller.—At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Fuller 1 mile east of Klemme Ia. at high noon Mar. 10th 1896, the marriage of W. A. Roths and Miss Rena Fuller was solemnized.

There were about 40 witnesses mostly intimate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. Mrs. Schell struck up march and the bride and groom attended by officiating clergyman promptly took their places in the parlor. The vows taken and congratulations offered, then came a repast fit for a king which was greatly enjoyed, much to the credit of host and family.

The groom is a young man of good habits and will make a good husband. The bride is an amiable young woman and fitted to do her part in the journey of life. They enter on the duties of life with the best wishes of their many friends.

The presents were of a character useful and appropriate.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market; costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. HARR. Read our free booklet on Microbic Djseases.

Homeseekers' Excursions

On March 10th. April 7th and 21st and May 5th, Excursion Tickets at rate of ONE FARE plus $2 FOR THE ROUND TRIP, to points in eleven Southern States and Territories, also to a number of Western and Northern States. An oppertunity to reach almost every city in the South and Southwest and a large number of important points in the Northwest. Tickets are good to return any Tuesday or Friday within the final limit which is 20 days from date of sale.

Call on B., C. R. & N. agents for rates and further information or address J. MORTON, G. P. & T. A. Cedar Rapids, Ia. Exp 5-5

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR BATH.

A perfect Sulphur Spring in the retirement of your own home. A toilet article cherished by the ladies. Renders the skin White and Soft. An absolute disinfectant. Purifies the blood by absorbtion and removes all unhealthy secretions and odors from the body. Invaluable in Rheumatism Gout and all blood and skin disorders. Each bottle contains 16 sulphur baths

S. C Cook, Jacksonville, Ill., says: "In our little family circle Compound Liquid Sulphur—Bath is considered a panacea for all ills and one of the greatest luxuries. For sale by J. L. HARR.

Simon S. Hartman, of Tunnelton, West Va., has deen subject to attacks of colic about once a year, and would have to call a doctor and then suffer for about [illegible] time. He was taken recently just the same as at other times, and concluded to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says "I took one dose of it and it gave me relief in five minutes. That is more than any thing else has ever done for me." For sale by J. L. HARR.

All last winter Mr. Geo. Mills, of Lebandon, Conn., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. At times it was so severe that he could not stand up straight, but was drawn over on one side. "I tried different remedies without relief," he says, "until about six months ago I bought a bottle of Chamberlin's Pain Balm. After using it for three days my rheumatism was gone and has not returned since. For sale by J. L. HARR.

Not to be Trifled With.

(From Cincinnati Gaxette.)

Will people never learn that a "cold" is an accident to be dreaded, and that when it occurs treatment should be promptly applied? There is no knowing where the trouble will end; and while complete recovery is the rule, the exceptions are terribly frequent, and thousands upon thousands of fatal illnesses occur every year ushered in by a little injudicious epxosure and seemingly trifling symptoms. Beyond this, there are to-day countless invalids who can trace their complaints to "colds," which at the time of occurrence gave no concern, and were therefore neglected.—When troubled with a cold use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is prompt and effectual. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by J. L. HARR.

Thousands of people are looking Californiawards. They want to know where to go to raise fruit and how to travel cheaply and comfortably. For full answers to these questions address California Bureau of Information, Box, 572 Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Bettin and Remer.

Contractors and Builders.

Plans and specincations furnished on application.

—All work guaranteed.

KLEMME, IOWA.

THE LEADING Implement DEALERS.

Mitchell & Lewis WAGONS,

Racine Buggies, John Deere Plows, J. I. Case Plows, Keystone Planters, Disc Cultivators.

Also a line of HARDWARE and GROCERIES.

Call on us for prices.

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mould[illegible]

And everything used to build[illegible]

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in th[illegible]

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'G[illegible]

KLEMME, IOWA.

J. H. QUEAL & C[illegible]

Always Lead

In The Best Of Grades At The Lowest Prices

ON

LUMBER, LATH[illegible],

Posts, Sash, DOORS

SHINGLES ETC.

Call and see us for anything in our line and be convinced of the above facts.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.

NEW SPRING GOODS!

We have just received a large stock of Foreign and Domestic Dress Goods and Wash Dress Goods,

LADIES SHIRT WAISTS.

A complete line of the Cream City Hats and Caps for SPRING WARE.

A large assortment of Mens' and Boy's Pants, Overalls, Jackets, Shirts, etc,

NEW STOCK OF WINDOW SHADES.

CALL and SEE our NEW GOODS.

We are still CLOSING OUT all Winter Goods very cheap,

E. P. SCHAEFER, KLEMME, IA.

...LEMME TIMES.

...ION A. FL..., . . . IOWA
...OTARY P...

...A NEWS IN BRIEF

...w fell all over central and south-...owa on the 2d.

...ORGE MCCANN, who sued Jerry ...son at Des Moines for $10,000 for ...g bite, got $1.

...HE bridge over the Mississippi at ...venport has been repaired so that ...rancetfic on the Rock Island has been ...sumed.

...LOUIS BRIN, a merchant of Dubuque, ...as robbed of $125 and a diamond pin ...y three footpads on the platform of a ...Lake street car.

JOKITHI UCHIDA, a Japanese student at Cornell college, Mt. Vernon, who was a ward of the Methodist church, suicided by cutting his throat while despondent.

BECAUSE she was despondent over sickness, Mrs. Rebecca Williams, of Webster City, took a dose of strychnine and died. She leaves a husband and three children.

ED. O'BRIEN, of Bennett, a conductor on the B., C. R. & N., fell from a car at Follett's, striking on his head. Concussion of the brain resulted and he will probably die.

FIRE at Elkader a few mornings since burned the Clark house and four frame buildings on the opposite side of the street. The total loss will reach about $15,000, with insurance of $8,000.

FRANK TAYLOR, wanted at Webster City for a heinous crime, was arrested eight miles north of Decorah by Sheriff Christen. Taylor lived near Decorah at one time. He was taken to Webster City by a constable from there.

MRS. AMANDA HUBNER secured judgement for $5,000 damages against the heirs of William Reikhoff in the district court at LeMars, because, some time before his death, which occurred a year ago, Reikhoff promised to marry her, and afterward refused to make his word good. Her original claim was $30,000. The case is the first of the kind ever decided in the United States, and will be appealed by the heirs.

A NEW HAMPTON dispatch says: L. Ray Van Tassell has been found guilty of murder in the first degree and his punishment fixed at life imprisonment. The crime for which Van Tassell is ...nd stand...prison for life is that of admin-...drunkard a...o his wife, on June 5, a fatal ...rychnine. Van Tassell con-...a detective that, as they were ...ad one child to support, he ...s wife would be better out

...ouses and their con-...ed by fire at Laporte. ...o M. Cohen, O. A. ...McCutcheon and E. ...meitzer livery stable ...ived, but the horses ...s brother Ike as the ...the fire and they were ...the fire and taken to ...e they were placed in ...ynching being enter-

...MING, an aged farmer ...ies northwest of West ...himself through the ...lying in bed. Death ...ntly. His invalid wife ...sy for treatment at the ...ath was not discovered ...ne in from work. Poor ...ncial discouragements ...have been the cause. ...o grown sons, two smaller ...his wife, who was raised ...d of Hawaii and was a ...of Queen Lilioukalani.

IN Judge Spurrier's court at Des Moines an interesting case is on trial, in which George M. McCann asks judgment against Jerry Bronson for $10,000 for alleged personal injuries. June 1 he was bitten by a dog belonging to the defendant. He claims that he was terribly injured and that he is suffering pain as a result of the injuries each day, and is threatened with hydrophobia. He claims the dog was mad at the time. The interesting question of whether he can recover for prospective damages will arise in the case. At first he sued and asked for $1,000 damages, but later filed an amendment, in which he claimed he had suffered greater damage than at first supposed, and asks for an additional $9,000.

JOSEPH TELLTIME, an insane boy, who astonished the Sioux City police a few days ago by his strange actions, and who converses after the style of Haggard's latest imagination, is creating quite a stir among the prisoners of the Woodbury county jail, where he is confined. He claims that he is now a second Schlatter. To prove it, he entirely cured one of the prisoners who has been a sufferer from rheumatism for some time. When he first made known his title to his companions in jail they laughed him to scorn. At his urgent request the patient suffering from rheumatism was brought before him. After a few mysterious passes in the air with his hands, he touched the parts affected with rheumatism and the sufferer was immediately relieved.

A CRESTON dispatch says: Yankton, S. D., authorities are interested in the confession of murderer Palson, made to Superintendent Hager at the poor farm a few weeks ago, and have since receiving news of the confession been in communication with the local authorities. It appears that efforts are being made to get the accomplice. Palson said he murdered an Iowa man, securing $200, and this is the crime he was aided in. Further information from Yankton is to the effect that Palson had an exceedingly unsavory reputation while a resident of that place.

SIOUX CENTER, a small town in Sioux county, has served notice that it will go into a contest to get the county seat away from Orange City, a town in the southeast part of the county. The county has nearly 22,000 people. Orange City has been the county seat nearly a quarter of a century.

THE police were called to the home of George Burmeister, in the suburbs of Cedar Rapids, he having become violently insane. He was found in a wretched little house and occupying a little room in which there was no fire and nothing but a few leaves upon which to sleep. It is said that he broke everything placed in the room and it was found necessary to remove all furniture. Burmeister is 80 years old and will probably be confined in the insane departments of the county poor farm. It has also been learned that Burmeister's wife is a decendant of one of the kings of Denmark, and that she has remained aristocratic in habits even in their squalor and poverty. When appearing on the streets it is in silk, with kid gloves and white veil.

PETITIONS have been filed in two suits against the estate of the late E. W. McFarland, in which an aggregate of $10,000 damages is asked for the alleged seduction of the girl and her subsequent death from the remorse by suicide. One of the cases filed is a regular action for damage by Stanhope Royster, father of Virginia A. Royster. The damages asked are $5,000, the plaintiff alleging that amount of injury by reason of the loss of services and assistance of his daughter, and the mortification, humiliation, disgrace and mental pain caused by the alleged wrongs. The other action is almost identical with the first, except that it is brought by Stanhope Royster as administrator of the estate of Virginia A. Royster, deceased. It claims the sum of $5,000 as damages to Annie's estate. The grounds set forth in the petition are practically the same in both suits.

CHARLES GRAY, of Albia, is suffering with an affliction that has baffled the medical fraternity of the state. A few weeks ago a slight swelling appeared on the back of his hand and continued to grow in size until his hand is almost as large as his body. The swelling does not extend above the wrist joint and causes no pain. The local physicians exhausted their resources and recently when the State Medical association was in session in Albia, Gray was taken before the association and seventy-five physicians examined his case. Probing tubes were inserted in the back of the hand and twisted around, causing no pain. Syringes were introduced through the skin and neither blood or water could be withdrawn. The association labored with him two days, but the doctors were baffled. The afflicted hand continues to swell. He will be taken to Chicago or St. Louis for further treatment.

A DISPATCH from Rome says the visit of Archbishop Hennessy, of the Dubuque diocese, to the vatican, has resulted in the formation of a new diocese, to be called the Sioux City diocese. The bishop will be Rev. Timothy Tracy, of Sioux City. Rev. T. M. Lenihan, M. R. V. F., of Fort Dodge, will be made bishop of Cheyenne, vice Bishop M. F. Burke, transferred to St. Joseph, Mo. The diocese of Sioux City embraces the Carroll, Crawford, Monona, Webster, Calhoun, Sac, Woodbury, Humboldt, Ida, Pocahontas, Buena Vista, Cherokee, Plymouth, Palo Alto, Clay, O'Brien, Sioux, Kossuth, Emmet, Dickinson, Osceola and Lyon. Archbishop Hennessy controls the archdiocese of Dubuque, diocese of Davenport, diocese of Omaha and diocese of Cheyenne, and the new diocese of Sioux City. The diocese of Dubuque was established January 28, 1827, and was created an archbishopric in 1893. Rev. Timothy Tracy is a native of Irelaud. He was educated at Waterford, Ire., Milwaukee, Wis., and Dubuque. In 1880 he graduated from St. Joseph seminary.

IN the federal court at Des Moines last week United States Attorney General Harmon and District Attorney Charles D. Fullen began three suits against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, the Burlington & Missouri River railroad company and nearly 1,000 residents and land owners of Mills, Montgomery and Adams counties, in the southwestern part of the state, together with a large number of financial institutions and persons interested in the land in those counties. The suits are brought by the government to cancel grants of land to the Burlington route in 1856 and 1864. The grants attacked comprise possibly 35,000 acres, and the settlers and owners thereof are made parties to the suits, although having purchased the land from the railroad company. The grounds upon which the action is brought relate to the law of adjustment of land grant claims of 1887, and it is alleged by the attorney general that the lands in question were patented by settlers or otherwise disposed of by the government prior to their transfer to the railway company, a transfer made, it is claimed, in violation of the land grant law of 1856 as amended in 1864, by the ministerial agents of the government, thus abridging the rights of both the government and original owners in favor of the railroad company.

An Art Connoisseur.

Madame goes with her maid to purchase a still life picture for her dining room. She selects at the picture dealer's a painting representing a bouquet of flowers with a pie cut in two and a half-penny roll. She paid 500 francs for the lot.

"Madame," whispered the bonnie, "you have made a bad bargain, let me tell you. I saw a picture like that sold for 400 francs."

"And was it as good as this one?"

"Of course it was; there was a lot more pie!"

True to His Name.

Lipper—There's something in a name, after all.

Chipper—What has reconverted you to that belief?

Lipper—Why, meeting that new Chinese laundryman you recommended to my patronage.

Chipper—Chin-Chin?

Lipper—Yes; he turns out to be considerable of a wag.

The Idea.

"But what earthly use is it to discover the north pole? I can't see."

"It will save future expeditions."

Doctor Albright.

A BROAD MINDED PHYSICIAN WITH PROGRESSIVE IDEAS.

Believes in Recommending Any Medicine That He Knows Will Cure His Patients —Thinks Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a Great Discovery—He Cites Some Marvelous Cures.

From the Examiner, Lancaster, Pa.

AKRON, PA., April 24th, '95.

DR. WILLIAMS' MEDICINE CO.:

Gentlemen—While it is entirely contrary to the custom of the medical profession to endorse or recommend any of the so-called proprietary preparations, I shall, nevertheless, give you an account of some of my wonderful experiences with your preparation. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The fact is well known that medical practitioners do not as a rule, recognize, much less use, preparations of this kind, consequently the body of them have no definite knowledge of their virtue or lack of it, but roundly condemn them all without a trial. Such a course is manifestly absurd and unjust, and I, for one, propose to give my patients the best treatment known to me, for the particular disease with which they are suffering, no matter what it is, where or how obtained. I was first brought to prescribe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills about two years ago, after having seen some remarkable results from their use. Reuben Hoover, now of Reading, Pa., was a prominent contractor and builder. While superintending the work of erecting a large building during cold weather, he contracted what was thought to be sciatica. He first noticed it one morning in not being able to arise from his bed. After the usual treatment for this disease he failed to improve, but on the contrary grew rapidly worse, the case developing into Hemiphlegia, or partial paralysis of the entire right side of the body. Electricity, tonics and massage, etc., were all given a trial, but nothing gave any benefit, and the paralysis continued. In despair he was compelled to hear his physician announce that his case was hopeless. About that time his wife noticed one of your advertisements and concluded to try your Pink Pills.

He had given up hope and it required a great deal of begging on the part of his wife to persuade him to take them regularly.

He, however, did as she desired, and if appearances indicate health in this man, one would think he was better than before his paralysis.

'Why,' says he, 'I began to improve in two days, and in four or five weeks I was entirely well and at work.'

Having seen these results I concluded that such a remedy is surely worth a trial at the hands of any physician, and consequently when a short time later I was called upon to treat a lady suffering with palpitation of the heart and great nervous prostration, after the usual remedies failed to relieve, I ordered Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The result was simply astonishing. Her attacks became less frequent and also less in severity, until by their use for a period of only two months she was the picture of health, rosy-cheeked and bright-eyed, as well as ever, and she has continued [illegible] more than one year since [illegible] monly known, St. Vitus' dance, as beneficial results have in all cases marked their use. As a spring tonic any one who, from overwork or nervous strain during a long winter has become pale and languid, the Pink Pills will do wonders in brightening the countenance and in buoying the spirits, bringing roses to the pallid lips and renewing the fountain of youth.

Yours Respectfully,
J. D. ALBRIGHT, M. D.

A Small Girl's View.

Auntie—Ethel, you must not be so impatient. Remember that Rome was not made in a day.

Ethel—Why, auntie, how can you say such a thing? It is wicked, really wicked. You know that God made all the world in six days and he certainly did not spend more than five minutes on Rome!

FATTENING HOGS COSTS ONE CENT

The editor recently heard of a farmer fattening hogs at less than one cent a pound. This was made possible through the sowing of Salzer's King Barley, yielding over 100 bu. per acre, Golden Triumph Corn, yielding 200 bu. per acre, and the feeding on Sand Vetch, Teosinte, Hundredfold Peas, etc. Now, with such yields, the growing of hogs is more profitable than a silver mine.

Salzer's catalogue is full of rare things for the farmer, gardener and citizen, and the editor believes that it would pay everybody a hundred-fold to get Salzer's catalogue before purchasing seeds.

If you will cut this out and send it with 10 cents postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., they will mail you their mammoth seed catalogue and 10 samples of grasses and grains, including above corn and barley, Catalogue alone, 5c postage.

W. N.

The Bow-Legged Beau.

Maisie—Sis, there's a young gentleman down in the parlor wants to see you.

Sister—Who is he, dearie?

Maisie—Well, I don't know his name, but he's the one that looks so much like a wish bone.

Catarrh Can Not Be Cured

With local applications as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props.,
Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists; price, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills, 25c.

Business Brisk.

Mrs. Society (of Chicago)—How is business, Mrs. Elite?

Mrs. Elite—Business is picking up, my dear. I added $5,000 a year to my alimony income by my last two divorces.

Cheap Railroad Rates.

On April 7 and 21 and May 5, 1896, half rate excursions will be run to all points on the Cotton Belt Route in Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas. For full particulars and illustrated pamphlets about lands in the southwest write E. W. LaBeaume, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

Of the insect known as the "common fly" there are twelve species and forty-eight varieties.

The French ministry includes three representatives of the medical profession.

IN T...

DES MOI... examination... mended for... introduced... tion of the... weeds and D... liens. Bill d... insurance c... standard... favorabl... used for... the bill... cent in... bill pro... ...poration... stock wh... ...security. The bill raisin... ...h a girl may consent to he... ...13 to 16 years was put on p... ...ven minutes after it was called u... ...and was passed, 72 to 9. Bill aiming to abate the practice of taking leins on household goods that are in actual use by families passed. Bill authorizing state or any county or municipal corporation to receive, hold or manage gifts and bequests passed. Bill to establish a board of park commissioners in cities having a population of 25,000 passed. Bill fixing compensation of members of soldiers relief commission at $25 per annum passed. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, March 3.—These bills were introduced: By Eaton, relative to annexation of contiguous territory by cities and towns; by Garst, in relation to certain persons convicted of crime and providing for a system of parole; also relative to stopping of trains at railway crossings; by Junkin, fixing the place in which action in certain contracts relating to insurance shall be brought. Elections committee reported a substitute for the primary elections bill. Senator Ellis filed the report of the judiciary committee, giving as a reason for indefinitely postponing Senator Lothrop's appellate court bill that there was not time to perfect such a measure, although the crowded condition of the supreme court docket demanded some relief. House age of consent bill was placed on the calendar. House kindergarten bill came up and was passed. House joint resolution asking congress to refund 5 per cent interest to the state on lands sold on military script, passed. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Bill to encourage the manufacture of sugar was reported adversely. Bill to reimburse ex-Auditor Brown was reported favorably. The committee recommends that Mr. Brown be allowed $4,000. Funk and Allen, in speaking to a question of personal privilege, denounced the correspondent of the Muscatine Journal for what they termed false statements in connection with the vote on resubmission. A resolution by Griswold, thanking the senators and representatives in congress "for their patriotic action in recognizing the belligerent rights of the Cubans," was adopted amid great applause. These bills were introduced: By Brighton, to change the penalties for drunkenness; by McDowell, pertaining to the militia; by Potter, to establish a recorder's office at Avoca; by Ray, to amend code relative to taxing traffic in intoxicating liquors; also relating to adoption of children in the soldiers' orphans' home; also relating to high schools; by Temple, relating to electric street railways and the payment of license fees by same; by Williams, relating to annexation of contiguous territory by cities and towns. Bill establishing and regulating mutual building and loan associations passed. Provision is made that the affairs of such associations shall be examined at [illegible] a year by the auditor of state, being conducted illegally. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, March 4.—Hobart presented a bill to increase the number of judges in the Fourth judicial district. Concurrent resolution thanking congress for its action relative to Cuba passed. Spirit and Okoboji lake navigation bill was reported favorably as was also the bill to prohibit agents outside of Iowa from placing fire insurance. The committee bill regulating building and loan associations came up. Waterman offered an amendment providing for withdrawal of all or any number of shares and it was adopted. Ellis moved to strike out provision that all foreign building and loan associations shall deposit with the state auditor $100,000. Adjourned

HOUSE.

The auditor of state submitted an itemized statement of the cost of the soldiers' monument. The bill for the care of hospitals for the insane was reported adversely, for the reason that the condition of the state treasury would not warrant the outlay. The committee on insurance recommended the passage of the following bills: In relation to the jurisdiction of insurance companies; to prevent the placing of insurance by agents outside of the state; to prevent the issuance of fire insurance policies by companies without the state until said companies have complied with the law; for the better protection of members of beneficiary associations. Bill granting power to trustees of state institutions to lay out roads through lands owned by the state was reported favorably. The committee on public health made majority and minority reports on the anti-cigarette bill. The majority report favored the passage of the Morrison substitute with amendments, or rather with eliminations. The minority report recommended the passage of senate file 7 with the Potter amendments, which provide that wholesalers may make sales to dealers outside the state. Byington's bill for a tax of one-tenth of one mill for five years for the state university for building purposes passed. Anti-cigarette bill came up and a motion to substitute the minority report for the majority report carried, 58 to 24. Lauder arose to a point of order, saying the bill had once been before the house and had been disposed of and that it could not now be taken up. The speaker asked for time to examine the records before making a ruling, and amid confusion and excitement the house adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, March 5.—Carney offered a bill relating to vagrants. Several legalizing bills were presented. Resolution that after March 6 senate meet at 9 a. m. and adjourn at 12 m. was adopted. Insurance committee reported favorably on bill to prevent outside insurance companies from placing policies. Committee on claims reported favorably on claim of ex-Auditor Brown after cutting the amount from $6,750 to $4,000. Consideration of the building and loan bill was resumed and Pusey spoke against provision requiring foreign companies to deposit $100,000 with state. Junkin supported the committee bill. Carney and Lothrop opposed the deposit clause and Trewin favored it. On motion the clause was retained, 37 to 8. The bill then passed, 46 to 4.

The senate age of consent bill came up as reported from code committee, and an amendment making the age 16 was defeated, 21 to 28. The bill then passed. It makes the age 15 flat. Bill to reimburse soldiers of Iowa for purchase of gray uniforms, after being cut down from $4,000 to $2,500, was reported favorably. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

The committee on public health recommended for passage the following bills: To 20 Cents Per

20 Ce... Bu. I...

...idge was indefinitely post-...easing and granting to the ...e the title to certain lands, ...river and slough beds, ...rohibit telephone compan-...g extra fees for sending ...ng county lines passed ...d assessors to reach tax. ...ts purpose being to get at ...es kept in bank vaults, came defeated, 47 to 25. Adjourned.

...N OF BOTH PARTIES.

...hamber of Commerce Wants Standard Delegates.

..., March 7.—The regular mo... ...eeting of the chamber of commerce was held Thursday. After the usual routine business had been transacted, Henry Hentz, chairman of the special committee on "sound financial legislation," offered the following appeal, which was adopted without a dissenting vote:

"It is important to every business man, producer and wage-earner to put a stop to the enormous cost of the government and to all of our people resulting from the continuance of the agitation in favor of the free coinage of silver, which stands in the way of a revival of confidence and national business prosperity. Therefore, we ask all citizens to unite in a vigorous effort to urge the selection of delegates to the political conventions of both great parties who will advocate clear and distinct platform utterances in favor of the maintenance of the present gold standard of value. The time is short, and action ought, therefore, to be all the more prompt and determined."

TELLS OF PEARL BRYAN.

Colored Man Alleges that He Can Locate Her on the Missing Dates.

Greencastle, Ind., March 7.—Allee Bell, colored, arrived here Thursday, and called on S. Bryan, father of Pearl Bryan, the Fort Thomas, Ky., victim. He says that Pearl Bryan was in Newport on Thursday and Friday, Jan. 30 and 31, and stayed at the house of a family named Johnson. He described her perfectly, and also Jackson and Walling, saying he had often seen them in Newport. The prosecuting attorney took the man's statement and has sent it to Cincinnati. Bell says he was given a ticket to Greencastle and $6 in money by a prominent citizen of Newport, whose name he refused to divulge and who, he says, told him to come here and tell his story to the Bryan family. If his statement is borne out by the facts he locates Pearl Bryan upon the days and night upon which no definite trace of her has been discovered.

Australians Want Federation.

Sydney, N. S. W., March 7.—The conference of Australian premiers has been concluded. They adopted resolutions recording the urgency of the need of colonial federation, which was declared essential to any complete scheme of Australian defense. Resolutions were also adopted advocating an amendment in the direction of uniformity of military laws for the colonies and for the establishment of a cordite factory in Australia. It was also resolved to be desirable to extend without delay the provisions of the Chinese restriction acts to all colored races.

To Examine the Bank's Accounts.

Carlyle, Ill., March 7.—A petition has [illegible] filed and granted to Elijah P. be used in the examination of the accounts of the defunct Ramsay bank of Carlyle. A similar petition will be filed in St. Clair county, in which it will be asked that the Seiter bank accounts also be examined. An expert will be employed and the affairs of both banks given a rigid inspection.

Pension for Mrs. Gresham.

Washington, March 5.—The house committee on invalid pensions decided to report favorably the bill passed by the senate granting the widow of ex-Secretary Gresham a pension of $100 per month. General W. W. Dudley addressed the committee in advocacy of favorable action on the measure.

Is Civil-Rights Bill Invalid?

Omaha, Neb., March 7.—Billy Huston, a restaurant keeper, was discharged yesterday on a complaint charging him with violating the civil-rights bill. A point was raised that the civil-rights bill was practically invalid, due to the fact under the law it was provided that a convicted person should be fined, but no provision was made for commitment in case the fine was not paid. It was held that, therefore, the court could not collect the fine, as it could not enter up a judgment.

Damage Will Reach $2,000,000.

Boston, Mass., March 6.—With the subsidence of the waters, which during Sunday night, Monday and Tuesday overwhelmed a greater part of New England, figures of losses sustained are coming in, and from those received it is apparent that the total damage in the section will be considerably more than $2,000,000. This does not include the wages to thousands of laboring men and women through the suspension of manufacturing and other industries. Six lives have been lost.

RELIGION AND REFORM.

A floating chapel has just been fitted at Kuttawa, Ky., to make evangelizing voyages along the Cumberland, Ohio and Mississippi rivers.

Emmanuel church, Lambeth, England, has just set up an alabaster and green marble reredos, carved by a workingman in the congregation in memory of his wife.

Out of the 19,756 public elementary schools in England, 11,897 are controlled by the Church of England and draw support from the whole community. In 18,000 parishes there are no other public schools.

There is a Catholic hospital in Berlin, the St. Heduige, which is served by the sisters of charity. A recent annual report shows that during the year 5,640 persons were admitted to the hospital. Of this number 3,311 were Protestants, 2,248 were Catholics and fifty-nine were Jews.

Ireland has about 4,000,000 Catholics and 1,200,000 Protestants. Catholics are most numerous in the county of Cork, while Protestants have the ascendancy in the county of Antrim. A little over 76 per cent of the entire population are Catholics, 12 per cent belong to the Church of England and 9 per cent are affiliated with the Presbyterians.

Spring Medicine

Your blood in Spring is almost certain to be full of impurities—the accumulation of the winter months. Bad ventilation of sleeping rooms, impure air in dwellings, factories and shops, overeating, heavy, improper foods, failure of the kidneys and liver properly to do extra work thus thrust upon them, are the prime causes of this condition. It is of the utmost importance that you

Purify Your Blood

Now, as when warmer weather comes and the tonic effect of cold bracing air is gone, your weak, thin, impure blood will not furnish necessary strength. That tired feeling, loss of appetite, will open the way for serious disease, ruined health, or breaking out of humors and impurities. To make pure, rich, red blood Hood's Sarsaparilla stands unequalled. Thousands testify to its merits. Millions take it as their Spring Medicine. Get Hood's, because

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Insist

On a good (the best) skirt binding as strenuously as on a good cloth for the skirt.

Ask for (and take no other) the

S·H·&M·

Bias Velveteen Skirt Binding.

If your dealer will not supply you we will.

Send for samples, showing labels and materials, to the S. H. & M. Co., P. O. Box 699, New York City.

The name of the greatest oat is "ILLINOIS" Yields over 100 bushels per acre, rust proof, matures early, longest and heaviest straw, grain large and weighty. I control the entire Stock of "Illinois." Have also Sunol and Leading Sorts.

OATS

Send Postal Card for ... structive new SEED ... It's FREE if yo... H. W. BU... Rockford ROCK... LINE.

It is the direct line.

The difference between the Burlington and all other lines to Montana and the Pacific Northwest is the difference between a direct line and the line that isn't direct.

The Burlington is the direct line.

It is from 50 to 328 miles shorter than any other line to Helena, Butte, Spokane, Seattle and Tacoma.

A fast train for those and all other north-western points leaves Omaha at 4:35 p. m. daily. Connect with it if you want to reach your destination quickest and most comfortable.

Time-tables and information about rates will be furnished on application to the local ticket agent or by addressing

Burlington Route

J. FRANCIS, Gen'l Pass'r Ag't Omaha, Neb.

CUT AND SLASH
SMOKING TOBACCO,
2 oz. for 5 Cents.
CUT AND SLASH
CHEROOTS—3 for 5 Cents.
Give a Good, Mellow, Healthy, Pleasant Smoke. Try Them.
LYON & CO. TOBACCO WORKS, Durham, N. C.

THE AERMOTOR CO. does half the world's windmill business, because it has reduced the cost of wind power to 1/3 what it was. It has many branch houses, and supplies its goods and repairs at your door. It can and does furnish a better article for less money than others. It makes Pumping, Geared, Steel, Galvanized Combination Windmills, and Fixed Steel Towers, Steel Buss Frames, Steel Feed Cutters and Feed Grinders. On application it will name one of these articles that it will furnish until January 1st at 1/3 the usual price. It also makes Tanks and Pumps of all kinds. Send for catalogue. Factory: 12th, Rockwell and Fillmore Streets, Chicago.

LEARN MUSIC

Without a teacher by using our chart. You can get a thorough knowledge of the art of playing the piano or organ quickly. Endorsements from leading musicians all over the country are received daily. Something entirely new. Wonderful results in a very short time. Mailed prepaid FOR $1.00. Liberal terms to agents.

IOWA MUSICAL CO., Des Moines, Ia.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS. but sell direct to the consumer at wholesale prices. ...ship anywhere for examination before sale. Everything warranted. 100 styles of Carriages, 90 styles of Harness, 41 styles Riding Saddles. Write for catalogue. ELKHART CARRIAGE & HARNESS MFG. CO., ELKHART, IND.

W. B. PRATT, Secy.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM. Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

PATENTS, TRADE MARKS

Examination and Advice as to Patentability of Invention. Send for "Inventors' Guide, or How to Get a Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Washington, D. C.

FIGS AND THISTLES.

Truth never blushes when you look it in the face.

The devil gets all the votes, when some men run for office.

Don't fool with sin. It is safer to play with a rattlesnake.

The people who talk the most, do not always say the most.

Every true prayer begins with a right feeling toward men.

Good fortune does not always ride in a gold-mounted carriage.

To live without prayer, is to live a half-hearted and one-sided life.

God has never tried to make a man who could please everybody else.

We owe a debt of gratitude to every one in the world who needs our love.

When the heart is full of compassion there is not room for prejudice.

The yoke of Christ is easy, only when it is worn every day in the week.

"Resist not evil with evil," was meant for nations as much as for men.

The man who fears the light, is kept tired by running from a shadow.

Stop Thief.

Stop a small malady which is stealing your strength, before it outruns your power to arrest it, and recover what it took from you. The safest and promptest recuperator of waning vitality is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which renews vigor, flesh and nerve quietude because it restores activity to those functions whose interruption interferes with general health. Use the Bitters for dyspepsia, malarial, rheumatic and kidney complaints and biliousness.

Proof Positive.

Mr. Murphy—I want you to sign this paper. It's an application from Michael Colliwins for a place in the sanitary department.

Mr. Easy (after signing)—Is he fit for the place?

Mr. Murphy—Fit for it? He ought to be. He has been after it for five years.

Might Have Known.

Young Wife—Hubby, dear, do you love me better than your pipe?

Young Husband—What a foolish question to ask, dear.

Young Wife (sadly)—Yes, I might have known without asking.

Helping Her Out.

Mrs. Peck—What do you sit there reading for when I am trying to think of a word? Should I say "disillusionized" or "disillusioned?"

Mr. Peck—I dunno. Just say "married" and let it go at that.

None Too Much Time.

"Perkins, why does Lent last forty days?"

"Because it takes most women that long to decide what kind of Easter bonnets they want."

"Are you on intimate terms with your neighbors?" "No, they are with us. Why, they know dreadful secrets of ours that we never heard of even."

Cats and dogs can not live at a greater elevation than 16,000 feet above the sea level.

...ss Comfort understanding of the transient nature of the many ...sical ills, which vanish before properforts—gentle efforts—pleasant effes—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR

W. L. DOUGLAS $3. SHOE BEST IN THE WORLD.

If you pay $4 to $6 for shoes, examine the W. L. Douglas Shoe, and see what a good shoe you can buy for $3

OVER 100 STYLES AND WIDTHS

CONGRESS, BUTTON and LACE, made in all kinds of the best selected leather by skilled workmen. We make and sell more $3 Shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

None genuine unless name and price is stamped on the bottom.

Ask your dealer for our $5, $4, $3.50, $2.50, $2.25 Shoes; $2.50, $2 and $1.75 for boys.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE. If your dealer cannot supply you, send to factory, enclosing price and 36 cents to pay carriage. State kind, style of toe (cap or plain), size and width. Our Custom Dept. will fill your order. Send for new Illustrated catalogue to Box R.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

FOUNTAIN SYRINGES

Best quality rubber with three hard rubber tubes, qt., 65 cts; 3 qt., 75 cts; 4 qt. 90 cts. Goodyear's Bulb Syringe, H. K. Pipes, 50 cts. Cloth Injection Water Bottles—no better made—2 qt. $1.00; 3 qt., $1.25. Send stamps or money orders. Mackintoshes and Rubber Goods. When in the city kindly call. Des Moines Rubber Co., 314 Sixth Ave., Des Moines, Ia.

$5 Hand Bone, Shell, and Corn Mills for Poultrymen. Daisy Bone Cutter. Circular and testimonials Free. WILSON BROS., Easton, Pa.

10,000 MEN WANTED

To buy our Trees, Shrubs and Vines. Some of our salesmen, or write us. Want first-class salesmen. Liberal terms. Des Moines Nursery, Des Moines.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

CHAPTER XIV.—(CONTINUED).

Awakened by the crash, Tiomane sprang from her bed. In the next room she heard Maritza crying for aid in a terrified voice. Forgetting all her unkindness, Tiomane was about to go to her when he heard Elli's voice in the apartment. The faithful servant had gone at once to her young mistress. At that moment a second peal of thunder, more terrible even than the first, was heard. From its apparent nearness, it must have fallen on the palace, and, as if some disaster had happened, there was suddenly a hurrying to and fro, the opening and shutting of doors, quick steps, confused voices. What had happened? Trembling with terror, Tiomane ran to the window and opened the shutter. As she did so a blinding flash of lightning made her reel. The great mansion shook to its foundations. She understood all, and her blood seemed frozen in her veins—it was an earthquake. One must have felt this indescribable, irresistible, giddy sensation which terrifies the bravest hearts, to imagine Tiomane's feelings. For a moment she stood petrified; then another flash showed her the oscillation of the mirror over the mantel, and at the same time it seemed to her that the floor was torn from its foundations.

A frightful confusion of voices succeeded the fall of heavy furniture, the crash of china, the ringing of bells, a deafening mingling of sounds under the subterranean upheaval. Obedient to the impulse so well known to those who have passed through such a chaos of nature, Tiomane, half-distracted, breathless, opened her door, rushed out into the corridor, crossed it—still with the dreadful feeling that the earth was fleeing from under her feet. The door of the vestibule was open. She reached the garden, illumined by the lightning flashes, which constantly succeeded each other, or rather which were mingled in one immense blinding light, as if the heavens were consuming the earth. All the inhabitants of the consulate were fleeing to the garden. She followed the others, and soon reached the orange grove, and then a vast esplanade, far from any of the buildings, the surest refuge from the impending danger. In the lurid light she recognized Madame de Sorgnes and Maritza, and knelt on the ground beside them. At last the wished-for day dawned. The shocks had ceased; some degree of calm returned to the terror-stricken hearts.

Suddenly, in a hollow whisper, the words were heard:

"And the consul, where is he?"

It was the devoted friend, the chancellor, Monsieur de Riez.

"My husband!" exclaimed Madame de Sorgnes, suddenly awakened from the stupor into which she seemed to have fallen.

At once every group was scrutinized. The dear name was repeated, was called—no answer came. What misfortune had overtaken him? Madame de Sorgnes remembered that it was he who had assisted her in leaving the doomed dwelling; it was he, the loving husband and father, who, with thoughtful affection, had thrown their mantels over the shoulders of his wife and daughter, and had even put on their slippers, for in their terror they were unable to help themselves. It was he who had conducted them to the garden; but having reached the garden, they had become separated. Then she could remember nothing more—her memory was a perfect blank. The garden, then, was the place to search. Monsieur de Riez, followed by many of the servants, went to seek his friend. Madame de Sorgnes, leaning on Maritza's arm, followed slowly, and Tiomane, her loving heart torn with anxiety, not feeling the flinty path which was tearing her bare feet, was the last of the sad train. No trace of the dear lost one. They walked on and reached the broad avenue leading from the palace. There was a cry of inexpressible distress. Three of the marble columns of the summer-house were lying broken on the ground. Under the debris was a human body, face downward. A hand, cut off at the wrist by a piece of the falling capital, bore on its little finger a ring with the consul's coat of arms. The chancellor made an imperative gesture of warning that Madame de Sorgnes might be prevented from advancing. But the half-distracted woman, breaking away from the kind hands which held her back, rushed to the spot. She uttered one heartrending cry and fell fainting to the ground.

UNDER THE DEBRIS WAS A HUMAN BODY.

CHAPTER XV.

A WEEK HAD passed—a sad week for the stricken family. The funeral had taken place amid heartfelt demonstrations of grief, for all who knew Monsieur de Sorgnes loved him. After the first terrible emotion, the stricken widow had taken to her bed—brain fever supervened, accompanied by alternate delirium and unconsciousness, and she was spared, at least, the last sad preparations—everything was done without her knowledge. Tiomane took up her position as nurse at the sick bed of her benefactress, snatching only a few hours' sleep in a chair at her side. The femmes de chambre, Anais and Elli, obeyed her directions. Madamoiselle Pascale, pretending that it was necessary to spare Maritza's delicate nerves, remained shut up in her own suite of apartments, far from the sick room, thus saving herself from the onerous duties of nurse. On the tenth day after the funeral, Madame de Sorgnes awakened, after a night of peaceful sleep, and recognized those around her. Tiomane, who was at her pillow, was the first to receive a look of recognition. This return of reason was also that of suffering, and the poor lady burst into tears and sobs. Tiomane sent for Maritza, who threw herself into her mother's arms, and the three grief stricken ones mingled their tears. A letter from Guillaume came in reply to the telegram announcing the terrible accident. How grieved he was not to be with his mother and sister in their sorrow! What would he not have given to see the remains of that dear father! But the distance was so great that he was obliged to give up that sad consolation and remain at school, feeling that in so doing he was obeying his father's wishes. The convalescence of the invalid was very slow. But after many weeks she was dressed by loving hands, and moved wearily about her apartments in her mourning crapes. She consented to receive Prince Hassan, and Maritza found her sweet smiles again in the presence of her fiance, whose visit was necessarily short and grave. No one seemed to remember the terrible scene which preceded the lamentable event. Even the governess affected total forgetfulness of any conflict with Tiomane, well satisfied, as she was, that another should assume the duties of nurse and consoler, and mentally resolving that she would indemnify herself for her enforced amiability later on. A week had passed since Maritza had seen her fiance. The day after his first visit, a note from him announced his sudden departure for Constantinople, whither he had been summoned by the grand vizier. The young girl awaited his return with impatience. One afternoon Madame de Sorgnes, seated on the veranda of her suite of apartments, was conversing sadly with the two young girls. Mademoiselle Pascale was reading a newspaper. Elli came to ask her mistress' permission to allow the chancellor to join them. A sign of acquiescence being given, M. de Riez entered. He carried under one arm an enormous role of papers, and his face was extremely grave. He remained some minutes almost silent, seated by the invalid's chair, as if he hesitated to announce the real object of his visit. But at last he said, with evident reluctance:

"Dear madam, I have deferred, as long as possible, intruding upon your sorrow, to call your attention to business matters—always painful under such circumstances—peculiarly so to you, I know—but I can put it off no longer—it is absolutely necessary."

Tiomane and [illegible] confidential business conversation, rose to leave the room.

"No, no, remain," said the widow. "I have no secrets from you, my dear ones."

The chancellor, with an encouraging smile, said, "Madame de Sorgnes is quite right in keeping near her those who love her best—for she needs all their sympathy and devotion."

The governess and Tiomane resumed their seats. Maritza, with an instinctive feeling of fear, took her mother's hand and held it, as if to reassure her.

The chancellor continued, "You understand, my dear madam, do you not, I wish to talk to you of business matters?"

The widow made a gesture of weariness.

"I beg, madam," he continued more earnestly, "that you will listen attentively, for it is necessary, most necessary, that you should understand these matters, judge and decide. I repeat, it is a question of your business matters, and it is imperatively necessary that you should understand them thoroughly."

She shrugged her shoulders wearily.

"It is useless, quite useless. I am utterly unable to think, to understand. And then, you know, I know nothing of business matters, interest, and all that."

Certainly, he did know it. He knew well, only too well, that frivolous, childish mind, governed by caprice alone, incapable of any serious thought, of any mental effort whatever. He continued, nevertheless, in a still graver tone:

"These matters are most important, however, my dear madam, for on you alone rests the responsibility of directing your household, of watching over the interests of your children."

At this evocation of her irreparable loss, the poor lady could no longer restrain her tears. The visitor ceased speaking, evidently distressed by this transport of grief, of which he had been the innocent cause.

"You torture me, you torture me, Monsieur de Riez," she exclaimed; "do you not see how you make me suffer?"

"Alas! madam," he replied, "do you not know that it is inexpressibly painful to me to speak to you as I have just done—and yet I have not reached the end. What remains to be said is still more painful for me to say, and for you to hear."

"After what I have suffered, can anything be painful?" she murmured, trying, but vainly, to stifle her sobs. The chancellor looked at her with such profound commiseration that she shuddered.

"Ah! what is it? what have you to say to me, Monsieur de Riez?"

"In the first place, madam, I must tell you that the French government will send a consul-general here soon, and it will be necessary for you to prepare to leave this house."

"Can it be true? I had not even thought of anything so dreadful. It is cruel to take even my house from me." Tears flowed in torrents down her pale cheeks.

"Leave our home! oh, can it be possible?" exclaimed Maritza.

"Monsieur de Riez," said Madam de Sorgnes, in a calmer tone, "is there no way of arranging this matter? This house, where I have lived so happily with my husband, is very dear to me. There are other mansions in Smyrna suitable for the consulate. I wish to purchase this one."

The chancellor started, and his kind face became very sad.

"You do not know, dear madam," he said, "you have never known, for your good husband shielded you from all care, the anxieties by which he was often well-nigh overwhelmed. He did not, however, he could not, foresee this terrible denouement—so sad to all of us. Even I, who thought I knew all, was far from suspecting—"

"What do you mean?" stammered the poor lady, while the two young girls and the governess looked at him with horror-stricken faces.

"You must know all, my dear madam," he answered. "The situation, the painful situation, demands certain steps which must be taken at once."

"Speak! speak plainly, that I may understand you," said the widow, growing still more agitated.

"Allow me, then, dear madam, to state as briefly as possible these most painful details. These are the facts: Monsieur de Sorgnes, a most skillful financier, has for many years engaged in the boldest stock speculations. For some time he was very successful, but his expensive manner of living swallowed up this money as fast as it was made. The last few years have been most disastrous—but his was one of those brave, hopeful hearts not easily cast down. In order not to change his manner of living, in order not to deprive his idolized wife and children of the luxuries to which they had been accustomed, he was forced to borrow money. Everything leads me to believe that, had he lived, all would have gone well; but now—"

Madame de Sorgnes listened in a sort of stupor, not understanding the full meaning of these terrible words, not daring to look into the frightful abyss so suddenly opened before her, but trembling from head to foot, with a nameless terror of the future.

"And then?" she murmured, not having courage to give utterance to her fears. Monsieur de Riez avoided a direct reply.

"You see, my dear madam, that the situation is very grave, and that it must be carefully weighed by you. Now that you are in some degree prepared, shall we examine together all this business, in detail? As chancellor of the consulate, and as the dearest friend of the deceased, the whole responsibility devolves on me. You know my love for your husband. I wish to show to his wife and children the same devotion, the same zeal."

Madame de Sorgnes did not reply. She was overwhelmed with horror of a disaster the whole extent of which she could not measure.

"I have here," continued Monsieur de Riez, pointing to the enormous bundle of papers which he had laid upon the table near him, "all the documents bearing upon the case; all the bills contracts, notes, etc., which must be submitted to you, my dear madam."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

MANET'S PICTURES.

Treat for the Lovers of the Impressionistic School at the Art Institute.

Lovers of the impressionistic school will find a treat in store for them in the fifteen pictures of Edouard Manet, which were placed on exhibition at the Art Institute, says Chicago Post. Manet is the founder of this school and the master to whom all apostles of the method turn for light and guidance. Like others of his peculiar views his place is not fixed in the world of art and his genius is a much-disputed point. He is described as an "eccentric realist," and his work stands boldly out in defiance of many of the recognized and revered rules which have been handed down to us. The most important picture is a large canvas showing Christ attended by angels. The figures are remarkably drawn, and there is a suggestion of Guercino in his effects here, but the imitation, if it is an imitation, is only a weak one. "The Bull Fight," which is spoken of as being one of the most striking examples of Manet's art, possesses a certain dramatic force; the action is good, but the multitude of onlookers is disposed of in a curious way. The tiers of people look a little distance off like banks of beautiful, nodding flowers, while by a somewhat closer inspection they lose even this semblance to a reality and appear only inexpressive little dabs of paint. The "Concert at the Tuileries" is the best executed work of the entire collection, while "My Garden" shows a masterly handling of color. Whatever the opinion held as to his school, his drawing or composition, there is a freshness and lack of conventionality about Manet's art that is as charming as it is unusual. This collection comes to us direct from New York, where it attracted much attention.

TRANSPARENT CURTAINS.

From Within You Can Look Right Through Them.

A new invention for the production of a fabric for window blinds is reported from Yorkshire, England. The material and apparatus employed and the process adopted in the manufacture give a fabric that is transparent from the room, but opaque from without. The fabric contains linen, aluminium, isinglass, borax, tallow, etc. The apparatus contains a cylinder filled with a patent glassifying compound. The yarn is saturated and coated with this compound as it is wound off the bobbins, and drawn through an opening at the top of the cylinder; it is then passed over a roller situated above this opening and down to a series of heating and drying plates; then around another roller, to the rewinding arrangement of the apparatus, where the yarns are wound upon the bobbins again, and are then ready for a knitting machine. The inventor claims that this blind is so flexible that it can be easily rolled up and down; that it is so transparent that a room is not darkened when it is drawn; that while those inside a room can see through the blind almost as perfectly as though it were glass, those outside can not see inside the room, unless the latter is lighted most brilliantly and darkness prevails outside, and that it is artistic, and therefore pleasing to the eye. The blinds shown are hand-painted, but it is expected that in the future it will be possible to print them by machinery, and thus reduce the expense of production, so that the cost of fitting windows will not be much greater than that incurred by ordinary blinds.

Wonderful Electrical Demonstration.

Prince Henry of Prussia stood the other day with tongues of flame more than a yard long shooting forth from his hands in quivering zigzag, accompanied by incessant cracklings. It was in the lecture room of the Scientific society, Urania, at Berlin. He had offered himself as a subject to Prof. Spies to demonstrate the fact that alternating electric currents of high power and great frequency passed through the human body, far from causing death, produce no ill effects. The prince declared that he felt no inconvenience while Professor Spies was passing through his body a discharge of 10,000 alterations a second with a tension of 100,000 volts.

Japanese Swords.

The early Japanese swords were expected to be so keen that a blade suspended horizontally beneath a tree would sever any falling leaf that might strike upon its edge.

"THE WOODEN HEN"

Hatches chickens from hen's eggs. It is 10x15x8 inches; will take care of 28 eggs. Write to Mr. Geo. H. Stahl, Mfr., Quincy, Ill., for a copy of his booklet "W," describing the "Wooden Hen," also large catalogue. Both sent free. Mention this paper.

RAM'S HORNS.

When you find yourself weak, take Christ for your strength.

No man ever got enough religion in his head to cause the devil an hour's uneasiness.

The man who has the most claim upon us, is often the one we have the least claim upon.

The friends of the devil are the first to get mad when the gospel is being preached right.

To cherish an unforgiving spirit, is to refuse to go all the way to the cross with Christ.

The Christian's business should come to a standstill whenever it interferes with God's business.

We cannot say, "Our Father," so that God will hear, unless in the "Our" we include all men.

As long as the Christian has trials he may know that God loves him and the devil hates him.

No one can work effectively for the salvation of men, unless he first prays fervently for them.

If you are in trouble, give your burden to the Lord, and try to comfort somebody who is in greater trouble.

Visiting the sick will often cure lukewarmness with as much dispatch as mustard will raise a blister.

No man who sincerely seeks help from Christ will ever fail to get [illegible] cause there are flaws in his th[illegible]

There are people who watch the [illegible] in church, and count the minutes though they were diamonds.

The Good Samaritan forgot that the Jew was his enemy, as soon as he got to where he could see him bleed.

Some people are ready to give the Lord anything the preacher will take on quarterage, but never have any time to devote to his service.—Ram's Horn.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS ANNUALLY.

And more could be made by the farmer if they would plant Salzer's big crop-ping seeds, because Salzer's seeds sprout, grow and produce, giving you from 4 to 6 tons of hay per acre, over 200 bu. of corn, 116 bu. of barley, 1,200 bu. of potatoes, 209 bu. Silver Mine Oats and the like per acre. These are positive facts, all of which can be substantiated by oath. Now, the editor asks why sow poor seeds and get poor yields when such big, bountiful yields are possible? Salzer's catalogue tells you all about it.

If you will cut this out and send it with 10 cents postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will receive their mammoth catalogue and 10 samples of grain and grass seeds, worth $10 to anybody to get a start from. Catalogue alone, 5 cents postage. W.U.

Getting Even.

Mamma—Tommy, I'm ashamed of you. What makes you act so rude to your Uncle Robert?

Tommy—Well, mamma, every time he comes here he says, "Hello, Tommy, how big you are! You've grown a foot since I saw you last," and it makes me feel like a centipede."

Farmers Make Sure

Of an abundant yield of grain if they use the Campbell Sub Surface Packer, manufactured only by the Sioux City Engine and Iron Works, Sioux City, Ia. This Packer will put the bottom of the plowed ground in condition to gather and retain moisture to such an extent as to assure a crop. This machine completely firms the bottom and leaves the surface loose and covered with small lumps, actually forces decomposition of all stubble or foreign matter turned under and in every instance has shown a gain of 75 to 200 per cent. over ordinary yields. We suggest to all our farmer readers to write to this firm for their pamphlet, containing many valuable pointers on prairie farming, and full particulars in regard to the Campbell Sub Surface Packer.

Mrs. Mercy Thorndike, of Rockland, Me., has been a pilgrim here below for ninety-two years. She has moved her place of residence fifty-seven times, and isn't permanently settled now.

There is money to be made in Cripple Creek. When you go take the "Rock Island Route" to Colorado Springs.

This is the only direct line—saves several hours' time to Cripple Creek.

Send for full information.

JOHN SEBASTIAN,
General Passenger Agent, Chicago.

Take equal parts of corn meal and red lead and mix to a paste with molasses, spread on plates and set in the places frequented by roaches.

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

The Spartans did not inquire how many the enemy are, but where they are.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth,

Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.

Thirty-nine of the fifty-six men who signed the declaration of independence were college graduates.

"BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES" are unrivalled for relieving Coughs, Hoarseness and all Throat Troubles. Sold only in boxes.

According to the very best ecclesiastical authorities, Christ was never known to laugh.

Hegeman's Camphor Ice with Glycerine. The original and only genuine. Cures Chapped Hands and Face, Cold Sores, &c. C. G. Clark Co., N. Haven, Ct.

Richard A. Proctor was authority for the statement that the earth receives only the one two-billionth of the sun's heat.

"A Cup of Parks' Tea at night moves the bowels in the morning."

The seeds of good we sow,
Both in shade and shine will grow,
And will keep our hearts aglow,
While the days are going by.

Get Hindercorns and use it if you want to realize the comfort of being without corns. It takes them out perfectly. 15c, at druggists.

Parson—I hope you little boys respect your father and obey your mother? Boy—Rather! She can lick father, she can.

The reviving powers of Parker's Ginger Tonic render it indispensable in every home. Stomach troubles, colds and every form of distress yield to it.

"Contains all creeds within its mighty span
The love of God displayed in love of man."

A man is known by the books he reads; a woman by those she doesn't read.

The doing of an evil to avoid an evil can not be good.

In Constant Use.

It is not the weightiest dictionary that serves the most practical purpose; it is rather the one that gives in an authoritative way just what is wanted without loss of time or patience. And this is just what Webster's International Dictionary may be depended upon to do whenever it is called upon. Other Dictionaries are referred to by The Democrat, but the one that is always at hand and in constant use is the standard and that is Webster's International.—The Davenport Democrat, Davenport, Oct. 24, 1895.

If there is anything in a young man the Rontgen ray should bring it out.

For Lung and Chest Diseases, Piso's Cure is the best medicine we have used.—Mrs. J. L. Northcott, Windsor, Ont., Canada.

Pity is often envy in disguise.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Is the original Sarsaparilla, the standard of the world. Others have imitated the remedy. They can't imitate the record.

50 Years of Cures

Hosts of people go to work in the wrong way to cure a SPRAIN, when St. Jacobs Oil would cure it in the right way, right off.

"Knocks Out Dirt, Colors."

Battle Ax PLUG

The Large Piece and High Grade of "Battle Ax" has injured the sale of other brands of big prices and smaller pieces. [illegible] allow the dealer to impose [illegible] by saying they are "just as [illegible] as "Battle Ax," for he is a [illegible] to work off his unsalable stock.

ALABASTINE.

IT WON'T RUB OFF.

Wall Paper is Unsanitary.

Kalsomine is temporary, rots, rubs off and Scales.

THE DOCTOR—"One layer of paper is bad enough, you have three here, Baby may recover but cannot thrive."

ALABASTINE forms a pure and permanent coating and does not require to be taken off to renew from time to time. Is a dry powder. The latest make being adapted to mix, ready for use, with Cold Water. Can be easily brushed on by any one. Made in white and twelve fashionable tints. ALABASTINE is adapted to all styles of plain and relief decorating.

ASK YOUR PAINT DEALER FOR CARD OF TINTS.

If not for sale in your town, write us for name of nearest dealer.

MANUFACTURED ONLY BY ALABASTINE CO., GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

BLOOD POISON A SPECIALTY

Primary, Secondary or Tertiary Blood Poison permanently cured in 15 to 35 days. You can be treated at home for the same price under same guaranty. If you prefer to come here we will contract to pay railroad fare and hotel bills, and no charge, if we fail to cure. If you have taken mercury, Iodide potash, and Mucous Patches in mouth, Sore Throat, Pimples, Copper Colored Spots, Ulcers on any part of the body, Hair or Eyebrows falling out, it is this BLOOD POISON that we guarantee to cure. We solicit the most obstinate cases and challenge the world for a case we cannot cure. This disease has always baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians. $500,000 capital behind our unconditional guaranty. Absolute proofs sent sealed on application.

IT IS QUICKLY CURED BY THE

Address COOK REMEDY CO., 307 Masonic Temple, CHICAGO, ILL. COOK REMEDY CO.

CINCO-CAPCI will cure the TOBACCO HABIT, in 3 to 15 days, or money refunded. CINCO-CAPCI is the only combination of pure concentrated drugs which is a true antidote for the poisons retained in the system from the use of TOBACCO. It leaves the patient in better health than before taking, and is absolutely free from any injurious effects. CINCO-CAPCI is easy and pleasant to take. It allows the patient to use all the Tobacco he wants while under treatment. The "craving" and "hankering" will disappear as if by magic. Thousands throughout this broad land bless the day they heard of CINCO-CAPCI. Do you smoke or chew Tobacco? Do you find it difficult or impossible to stop? CINCO-CAPCI cures cigar and pipe smoking, chewing and snuff taking, and also the deadly cigarette habit. Medicine in tablet form, easily carried in the pocket. ONE BOTTLE CURES. PRICE, $2.00

Address SEABURY & CO., at Chicago, Ill., or Boston, Mass.

FIELD AND HOG FENCE WIRE.

26, 33, 42, 50, or 58 inches high. Quality and workmanship the best. Nothing on the market to compare with it. Write for full information.

UNION FENCE COMPANY, DE KALB, ILL.

ALL HORSE TROUBLES

Such as Spavins, Curbs, Windpuffs, Splints and Bunches, are positively cured with

Quinn's Ointment

Write for proof. Price $1.50. Smaller size 50c. At all druggists or sent by mail.

W. B. EDDY & CO., Whitehall, N. Y.

WELL MACHINERY

Illustrated catalogue showing WELL AUGERS, ROCK DRILLS, HYDRAULIC AND JETTING MACHINERY, etc. SENT FREE. Have been tested and all warranted.

Sioux City Engine and Iron Works, Successors to Peech Mfg. Co. Sioux City, Iowa.

THE HOWELL & CHASE MACHINERY CO., 1414 West Eleventh Street, Kansas City, Mo.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Write MACHER INTELLIGENCE CO., Denver, for what you want.

W. N. U. D. M.--1235 NO. 11

When answering advertisements kindly mention this paper.

ARION A. FELL,
NOTARY PUBLIC.

M. R. CHAMBERS,
ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans at 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farmers' Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on us, we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co,
Garner. Iowa.

LOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

TAVERN

IN

IOWA.

a year ago, Reikhoff promised to marry her, and afterward refused to make his word good. Her original claim was $30,000. The case is the first of the kind ever decided in the United States, and will be appealed by the heirs.

Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME, Belmond, Iowa.

ALEX. KIRKWOOD,
....PROPRIETOR OF....

KIRKWOOD :-: HOUSE,

FIRST CLASS ACCOMMADATION. - RATES $1.00 per Day.

Livery and Feed Stable in Connection

Rigs Furnished on Short Notice.

KLEMME, IOWA.

H. W. Schoper.

THE
LEADING - IMPLEMENT - DEALER.

Has on hand a complete stock of FARM

IMPLEMENTS.

Fisher Wagons, Staver Abbot, and Parry Buggies,
Rock Island and U. S. Planters,
Conklin Cultivators,
Morrison and R. I. Sulky Plows.
Pumps Fanning Mills etc.

A fine road wagon
Only $30.
DAVIS SEWING MACHINE, THE BEST ON THE MARKET.
COME and see for yourself.

H. SCHROEDER,

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY - MEAT - MARKET.

Carry a Complete line of { Fresh, Salt and Smoked Meats.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

HIDES.

PICKLES, etc. Always on hand.

Klemme, Ia.

WE WILL SELL

AT PRIVATE SALE,
Our Large Stock Of

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Plows, Cultivators, Hay Rakes and Loaders, Seeders, Disc Harrows, Planters, Wind Mills and Pumps, Water Tanks, Buggies and Waggons. We handle the KEYSTONE FENCE, the best fence on earth. Also the

Milwaukee Binders and Mowers

At prices that defy competition.

LAU BROTHERS.

KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, Mar. 13, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum in Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1895.

GRISWOLD & CLINE, PUBLISHERS.

Goodell Items.

Mrs. Mayer was at Belmond Saturday.

M. Humphreey of Meservy was in town Saturday.

Mrs W. E. Farmen was a Belmond visitor Friday.

M. Thompson of Meservey was on our streets Saturday.

John Ahrenkiel will work the Ellwood farm this season.

Dr. Goodenow and Miss Fannie Farman are in Chicago this week.

Floyd Williams and wife returned Friday from an extended visit at Eldora.

Quite a number from here attended the Masquerade at Meservey Friday night.

W. E. Farmen left Sunday when he will purchase a complete spring and summer stock.

A. O. Christopher formerly Principal at the High School at this place was visiting old friends here over sunday.

Chas. Brisco has purchased J. E. Velzum's restaurant and takes charge at once. Chas. is a hustler and will no doubt work up a good trade.

Mrs Mulkins went to Chicago on Monday when she will lay in a first slass stock of milinery see her anouncement in another column.

Mr and Mrs E. F. Reed entertained Company from Salina City Cal. and Mrs Olive Sergeant of Dows Iowa, Thursday and Friday. They took the afternoon train Friday for Dows, Iowa.

The latest version of an old poem runs, "Mary had a little mule, and the teacher, like a fule, stepped up behind the mule and hit him with a rule, and then there was no skule-"—Ex.

Garner.

Court opened Monday.

A. C. Ripley was at Britt on Monday.

E. Merten is erecting a new house in the south part of town.

T. E. Cassill, Mrs. Lovell and Earl Terwilliger are recovering from illness.

Clair Pollock is back in his old position with Fred Katter and Co., after his recent illness.

Mr. Whittum and Mr. Smith both of Floyd connty, were visiting friends in town several days last week.

Mrs. Irwin Dow has severed her connection with the Conty Auditor's office and is working for Brockway & Sprole.

Rams Horn.

No fish gets away that bites at the devil's hook.

There are too many church members and not enough christians.

There is something wrong with the religion that never gets happy outside of church.

One says, "There are people who are encyclopedias of everything that should be forgotton.

It will be found out some day that many people who hit the devil the hardest started with one talent.

The man who can work and not worry rest and not rust is not apt to be an object of interest to an undertaker

Fishing for compliments may secure a few bites but is certain of many back bites. What is caught that way is not worth stringing.

There are men so stupid that when an idea tunnels their thick skulls it rattles about in their dusty craniums like seeds in a gourd or beans in bladder. There are others so full of large thoughts that their heads swell upward like the domes of cathedrals.

G. A. R Fall In.

Iowa State Encampment at Cedar Rapids April 28th to 30th. ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP from all points in Iowa on the B., C.R. & N. Ry. the "Quick Step Route" to Cedar Rapids. Tickets sold April 27, 28 and 29, good to return until and including May 2nd. Call on B., C. R & N. agents for further information. Ex. 4. 30.

When they have a sand storm in Europe it amounts to something. In Hungary farms and villages were burried by the sand like Pompeii was by the ashes of the volcano.—Ex.

MILLENNIUM OF YOUTH.

Bad Boys and Girls to Be Made Good by Hypnotic Suggestion.

Away with your prisons and reformatories! Out upon dark cells, cat o' nine tails, bread and water and all the other old time methods of teaching the naughty young idea how to shoot into the bullseye of reform. A new genius has arisen, the royal road to reformation has been discovered, and henceforth bad boys and girls will be made good while you wait, like old shoes.

In a recent number of a metaphysical magazine a new genius tells how to do it. "Mental suggestion" is the coming method. Hypnotism succeeds the dark cell. All you have got to do is to take a young rascal and mentally suggest to him to be good, and the thing is done in a jiffy. The writer says that he has tried it and that it works. He would be willing to tackle Jesse Pomeroy, or the Boy Firebug, or any other youthful offender against the laws, and sooner or later convert him into an estimable citizen. "Some cases of moral infirmity are reached in ten minutes," he says. "Others may take ten days, weeks or even longer. But we must not be discouraged."

Never give a negative suggestion, cries this learned pundit, always a positive one. Suggest to a boy that he is going to be honest and industrious. That will fetch him. To suggest the negative is repellent. It does not catch on. That is the great fault with teachers and parents. They do not take the right side of the matter. They should lead, not attempt to drive.

Just as soon as the hypnotists have a chance to get in their fine work there will be a millennium among the growing generation. Elmira will go broke for want of custom, and Randall's island can be turned into a public park. Three cheers!—New York World.

COME STRAIGHT

To Our Store

If you want to save money in what you must purchase along the line of

GENERAL Merchandise.

Onr stock is complete iu department; is fresh and new, and we are selling the goods with special regard to the Hard Times.

WESENBERG BROS.

---

25 YEARS EXPERIENCE IN

BLACKSMITHING

Enables me to do your work in a workmanlike manner.

Plow Work a Specialty.

Also do wood repairing on Wagons and Buggies.
Satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. KROUSE, KLEMME, I.

BELL, BELL, BELL.

The above means THE BELL CLOTHING HOUSE at

GARNER, IOWA.

We have a new and complete stock of

Clothing and Gents' Furnishings.

Watches, Jewelry, Silverware, Bicycles and Sporting Goods.
It will pay the people of Klemme and vicinity to call.
Yours for business,

F. B. CASSILL & CO

EVERYBODY
Come in and Examine

Our NEW stock of Dress Goods Just Arrived.

New patterns of fine Woosted Dress Goods,.....Only 30c
Fine Grey Dress Flannell at.....15c
Elegant Henrietta,s at.....50c
LL Sheeting at.....5c

WINTER GOODS!

All winter goods must go at

COST.

LAU BROS.

SEND YOUR ORDERS FOR

ABSTRACTS

of titles to

J. S. Knauss, Abstracter,
Owner of Complete set, Lands and Town Lots.

Titles Perfected. Promptness and Accuracy GUARANTEED

GARNER, IOWA.

A. L. SPOONER.

Physician and Surgeon.

Office and residence on Main Street first door west of Bank.

Klemme, Iowa.

H. E. PEITZKE
IS THE BLACKSMITH
THAT
Will do your work well.
He also does wood work.
HIS
Prices are right,
AND
Experience great.
KLEMME, IOWA.

B. C. R. & N. TIME TABLE,

GOING SOUTH.

No. 84, Stock	- -	6.00 a. m.
No. 89, Way freight	-	1.30 p. m.
No. 82. Pass.	- -	2.28 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 83. Way freight	-	10.00 a. m.
No. 85. Freight	-	3.58 p. m.
No. 81. Pass.	- -	5.16 p. m.

F. B. SMITH, Local Agt.

JOHN BAUMGARTNER.
PROPRIETOR OF
CITY BARBER SHOP.

AN EASY SHAVE. - -
A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

SHOP IN KIRKWOOD HOUSE, KLEMME, IOWA.

KLEMME - DRAY - LINE,

H & S. [illegible]
Proprietors.

Paving and teaming of all kinds done on short notice.

GIVE US A CALL.

STATE - SAVINGS - BANK
—OF—
KLEMME, IOWA

Does a regular Banking Business, Deals in Domestic and Foreign

EXCHANGE

Loans money on long or short time. Attends to collections and pays interest on time deposits

C. W. KNAPP, Cashier.

GEO. S. GATES,
STONE AND BRICK MASON

Plastering a Specialty. Do all kinds of work in my line. I also make a Specialty of bricking up Cisterns and boilers. All work guaranteed and Prices accordingly.

Give me a trial,

GEO. S. GATES,
Klemme, Iowa.

PATENTS

Caveats and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with references to actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

SNOW & CO.
OPPOSITE PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Examination and Advice as to Patentability of Invention. Send for "Inventor's Guide, or How to Obtain Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Washington, D. C.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, APRIL 3, 1896. NUMBER 32

Church Directory.

AMERICAN M. E. CHURCH.
Preaching Service, 10.30, a. m.
Sunday School, 11.30, " "
Epworth League, 7.30, p. m.
Every Sunday.
Prayer meeting, Thursday, 7.30 p.m.
Everyone most cordially invited.
CHARLES E. ANDERSON, Pastor.

GERMAN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School 9.30 a. m.
Preaching Service 10.30 " "
Evening Service — Preaching and Epworth League alternately—8.00 p.m,
Prayer meeting Wednesday 8.00 p.m.
Rev. G. HAEFNER, Pastor.

GERMANTOWN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School and Preaching alternately 9.30 and 10.30 a. m. and 2.00 and 3.00 p. m.
Epworth League 8.00 p. m. each Sunday. Rev. G. HAEFNER, Pastor.

REFORMED CHURCH.
Preaching Service
Rev. TREIKE, Pastor.

SEND YOUR ORDERS
FOR ABSTRACTS
of titles to
J. S. Knauss, Abstracter.
Owner of Complete set, Lands and Town Lots.
Titles Perfected. Promptness and Accuracy GUARANTEED
GARNER, IOWA.

A. L. SPOONER.
Physician and Surgeon.
Office and residence on Main Street first door west of Bank.
Klemme, Iowa.

H. E. PEITZKE
IS THE BLACKSMITH
THAT
Will do your work well.
He also does wood work.
HIS
Prices are right,
AND
Experience great.
KLEMME, IOWA.

B. C. R. & N. TIME TABLE.

GOING SOUTH.

No. 84, Stock	6.00	a. m.
No. 89. Way freight	1.30	p. m.
No. 82. Pass.	2.28	p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 83. Way freight	10.00	a. m.
No. 85. Freight	3.58	p. m.
No. 81. Pass.	5.16	p. m.

F. B. SMITH, Local Agt.

KLEMME - DRAY - LINE.
H. & S. NISSEN,
Proprietors.
Draying and teaming of all kinds done on short notice.
GIVE US A CALL.

Local Mention.

Pure Boiled Linseed Oil at Harr's 45c per. gallon.

Bring in your job work, we guarantee satisfaction.

Four good living rooms to rent. Inquire at Lau Bro's.

A. H. Wesenberg was at Garner Monday on business.

Our R. R. Station has been undergoing some repairs lately.

A good heavy double harness, 1½ inch tugs for $24, at Lau Bros.

Wm. J. Dickinson returned Saturday, very much improved.

Wm. Terhufen the butcher of Meservey, was in town Tuesday.

Fresh Kraut and fine sour Pickles just received at the butcher shop.

The rain Saturday was surely a blessing, but we need very much more.

Mrs. A. Lutterman of Popejoy, Sundayed with her brother A. H. Wesenberg.

Mens' and boy's Pants Overalls and Shirts are very cheap at E. P. Schaefer's.

Remember that we are prepared to get out sale bills on short notice. Give us a trial.

The weather took a sudden change Wednesday, and gave us a little touch of winter again.

Fred Gerwein commenced seeding Saturday March 29th. How is that for early seeding?

Otto Remer, of LeMars, arrived Friday. He will work this season with Bettin & Remer.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

J. L. Harr and Geo. Kluckhohn are having cisterns made this week. Geo. Gates does the work.

Rev. C. E. Anderson and wife took the train, Tnesday, for Independence, where he has a sister; from there to Fayette, his old home.

Mrs. Wm. Smith made us a call Monday morning and settled for one year's subscription. Thanks, a splendid example who will follow?

Mrs. Wm. Parks of Clear Lake, a sister of Mrs. Griswold, arrived Friday to be at the wedding. She returned Tuesday after the wedding.

A Fresh invoice of bulk seed incleuding Red and White Clover, Timothy, Blue Grass, Redtop, Millet and Garden Seeds at Grnetzmacher Bro's.

Everybody should attend the Easter services at one of our churches, and don't fail to bring your pocket-book, as a Missionary collection will be taken.

The wildgame has commenced to arrive and the hunters are cleaning up their guns and getting after it. A few ducks and an occasional goose are captured.

The Epworth League at the Am. M. E. church was well attended Sunday evening. It is a good place to go and the young people and the older ones also, should attend.

Cris Lau, while out hunting Saturday morning south of town near the river, saw three wolves, one old one and two young ones, but did not get near enough to shoot them.

A daily instalment of "Sons and Fathers," The CHICAGO RECORD'S great prize story, will do you more good than a daily dose of medicine—and it is far pleasanter to take.

The second quarterly conference of the Am. M. E. church will be held at Goodell Sat. and Sunday April, 11th and 12th. Quarterly conference 3:00 p. m. Saturday, preaching Sat. eve., 7:00 P. M. Sunday 10:30 a. m. No preaching here that day on this account.

The CHICAGO RECORD'S $10,000 prize story, "Sons and Fathers," began publication in that paper on Monday, March 23. New subscribers, whose subscriptions may be received later than that date, will be able to get the story from the beginning by simply indicating their desire to have the ealier installments furnished them.

Additional Locals.

See the new ad. of W. C. Schuler.

Bicycles repared on short notice at Shafer and Dow's.

A heavy rain Tuesday morning did a great amount of good.

Heavy work harness from 24 to $28, all complete at Lau Bros.

Born:— to Mr. and Mrs. W. Stille Tuesday morning, a boy.

The Red Jacket Pump, best pump on the market, at Lau Bro's.

Ad Elder of Goodell, spent some time Sunday p. m. at Klemme.

Irwin Dow, of Garner was in town Monday, looking for a hired girl.

Frank Gruetzmacher has something to say this week in another column.

Two good buggies at cost, to make room for our new stock, at Lau Bro's.

J. J. Suckow is going to build a house in the northern part of town this spring.

The German M. E. Church is preparing an appropriate program for Easter Sunday.

If you think of getting a new Carpet this spring call and see E. P. Schaefer's line.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Schaefer are rejoicing over the birth of a boy since Tuesday morning.

The youngest son of Chas. Piebe, about 8 months old, died Tuesday. Funeral Thursday.

Miss May Schneider of Garner, was making ye editor and family a visit a few days this week.

The Garner Laundry will call for and deliver your laundry, Tuesday and Friday of each week.

Something new. A stove repairer makes his daily route from the Kirkwood house repairing stoves.

E. P. Schaefer was at Garner Wednesday and delivered an elegant Kimball Piano sold to A. J. Schuler.

The Northern Pacific Land Co's exhibition car passed through here Friday. A number of our people visited it while the train stopped.

Wanted.

1000 dozen eggs and 500 lbs bntter in exchange for Wall Paper and Paints. Shafer & Dow.

Papering.—I am ready to do paperhanging in a first class manner and on short notice. All work guaranteed.
REV. C. NOLTE, Goodell, Ia.

Libbie Shattuck. Esther and Kate Schneider, Grace Bliss, and Sam Schneider drove down from Garner and made us a pleasant call Monday evening.

"Sons and Fathers," The CHICAGO RECORD'S great $10,000 prize story, is pure in thought and expression throughout. It is a story for the fireside and the family and is in entire keeping with the reputation of Chicago's family newspaper, The RECORD.

Married.

At noon, March 31, at the residence of the bride's parents. Rev. Chas. E. Anderson and Miss Ada M. Griswold, both of Klemme.

Rev. Anderson is a graduate of Upper Iowa University and a member of the North West Iowa Conference of the M. E. Church. He is now serving his second year on the Klemme charge and is loved and honored by all who know him. His three years in the ministry have proven him a man of large ability and sterling character and one for whom his friends predict a bright future.

The bride is an estimable and talented young lady well and favorably known over considerable of Hancock and Humboldt counties having lived in those parts all her life.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. E. Stevens of West Bend. None but the family being present.

C. E. STEVENS.

EVERYBODY
Come in and Examine
Our NEW stock of Dress Goods
Just Arrived.

New patterns of fine Woosted Dress Goods,.....Only 30c
Fine Grey Dress Flannell at.....15c
Elegant Henrietta,s at.....50c
LL Sheeting at.....5c

WINTER GOODS!
All winter goods must go at
COST.
LAU BROS.

They Have Arrived.
Our Second Lot
Of New Spring Goods, ann a Large assortment of
FURNITURE and WINDOW SHADES
Call and see our NEW GOODS and get prices on our Furniture, Organs and Sewing Machines.
E. P. SCHAEFER, KLEMME, IA.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, - - - IOWA

Probably Ballington Booth bolted because he wasn't a favorite son.

Carrying the war into Africa sometimes reacts disastrously on the carrier.

History repeats itself. A Chicago man is in a Minnesota jail for striking Billy Patterson.

A St. Louis syndicate has bargained for 500 cars of ice for use at the convention in June. It is hard to realize there are really 501 candidates.

The Standard Oil Company announces that it will bore 300 holes in Southeast Kansas this year. It looks like it would make the blame thing leak.

While waiters in the United States are forbidden to wear mustaches, army officers in Dublin are required to wear them. The sword of tyranny cuts both ways.

The statement that gold will be much cheaper fifty years from now is a hint to those of us whose pockets bulge with the yellow metal to unload while there is time.

The British ministers are so convinced that arbitration is the right way and the only right way to settle disputes that they are ordering a fresh batch of enormous warships.

The other day the stock in the Blue Jay mine in Colorado sold for 60 cents a share in the morning and for $27.50 at night. Early investors regard this mine as a sure enough "bird."

A fine deposit of marble has been discovered in the bed of Treaty Creek, one mile from Wabash, Ind. It is, in color, both mottled and blue, and the quality is pronounced first-class by experts. Three heavy charges blew out large fragments weighing a ton or more, and this will be worked up in monuments.

There has been, since the first of February, a marked decrease in the circulating medium of the country, amounting, according to a treasury statement, to over $60,000,000. Compared with last year the circulating medium was $45,000,000 less. On the date mentioned, March 1, 1896, there was outstanding $1,528.000,000.

The annual report of the New York Free Circulating library tells a striking story of continued growth and usefulness. It has six branches now—at 49 Bond street, 135 Second avenue, 251 West Forty-Second street and 18 East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. In the year ending Nov. 1, 1895, it circulated 654,451 volumes, an increase of 18,318 over the previous year, and all with only 81,785 volumes on its shelves. Only two libraries in America—the public libraries of Boston and Chicago—can beat this total circulation.

After so many years of discussion, it is surprising to see how many people still misunderstand the true issue between the makers of oleomargarine and the makers of butter. We have seen men stand up in large meetings and assert that oleomargarine was a good product, a cheap product, a blessing to the poor of our great cities and, hence, should not be suppressed. The leaders of the meeting usually explain that the contest is not for the suppression of the manufacture of oleomargarine, but to take away from it the element of fraud. The only reason for coloring it like butter is that it may be sold as butter. Oleo is naturally pearl-colored—oleo (oil); margarine (pearly)—pearl-colored oil. Let it have its natural color, and then if any one wants to buy it, let them do so. The real issue then is, to place such restrictions on it that it will be impossible for it to be sold except for what it is.

In view of the strained relations between this country and Spain it becomes of interest to consider the trade relations of the United States with both Spain and Cuba. The trade with the latter country is of infinitely more importance than that with the mother country. Last year we imported from Spain goods to the value of $3,826,960, and we exported to that country goods to the value of $10,596,474. This gives a total of a little over $14,000,000. The trade for the year 1894 was $3,000,000 in excess of this. From Cuba last year we imported a little over $51,000,000 worth of goods and exported to that island goods valued in excess of $9,400,000. This gives a total trade of over $61,000,000, or four times that with Spain. This was $32,000,000 less than the year 1894. The decrease was due very largely to the increased duties on American goods carried into Cuba, and also to the present disturbance in that island, the latter being evidently the predominating cause.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

PRISONERS IN A FIGHT.

Dignity of the United States Court at Council Bluffs Ruffled.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, March 28.—The dignity of the United States court was ruffled by a fight which took place between three federal prisoners and a witness while the prisoners, in charge of a marshal, were being taken from the court room. Charles Burns, William Petty and Samuel Long are on trial for counterfeiting, and "Curley" McBee, an old pal of the gang, testified against them. Attempts have been made at different times to get even with the man who "peached," and the quartette met at the entrance to the court room. The alleged counterfeiters were handcuffed and closely guarded, but notwithstanding this precaution Burns made a lunge with his free hand which staggered McBee and, surrounding him, the trio began to beat and kick him. Officers hastened to the rescue and, using their guns as cudgels, soon had Burns lying insensible on the floor. All three prisoners are serving penitentiary terms on minor offenses and are looked upon as bad men to deal with.

A VICIOUS YOUNGSTER.

A Twelve-Year-Old Winterset Lad Stabs and Seriously Wounds a Companion.

WINTERSET, March 27.—Charles Irvin, a boy about 12 years of age, stabbed William Briggs, another boy, with a knife, cutting a gash about three inches long and quite deep in the left arm. Irvin was arrested by Marshal Casteel and put in jail, where he is now awaiting the action of the grand jury, which convenes in April. The Irvin boy is the son of A. M. Irvin, an old resident of Winterset, and he says that he will not bail him out until he thinks it over a while. The boy has always borne a hard name. The boy, when asked by the marshal if he did it intentionally, replied, "You bet I did." It will probably send him to the penitentiary or the reform school.

TWO SCOTT COUNTY SUICICES.

Woman Makes a Second Attempt—Trial of a Farmer.

DAVENPORT, March 28.—Mrs. W. D. Boies, the wife of an undertaker, who recently attempted suicide by morphine, a few days ago made application for a divorce on the ground of alleged inhuman treatment and then left home, taking all the furniture and renting a room. Later she withdrew the divorce proceedings. Parties passing heard moans and physicians barely saved her, she being found again succumbing to a dose of poison she had taken. Derangement of mind affects the poor woman.

Chris Schroeder, a well to do farmer of Gilberttown, shot himself while despondent.

NEW MYSTERY AT DUBUQUE.

Farmer Found Dying By the Roadside Accuses a Companion.

DUBUQUE, March 29.—Joseph Lynch, a prominent farmer of Otter Creek, was in Barnard, and in the evening left for home in company with a man named Alexander. Later Lynch was found on the roadside paralyzed and unable to say anything except that Alexander had thrown him from the wagon seat to the roadside. He is in a dying condition.

A FARMER HAS DISAPPEARED.

Iowa City Man Deliberately Escapes From Financial Embarrassment.

IOWA CITY, March 27.—Financial embarrassment has caused Samuel Stagg, a well known farmer living near Iowa City, to leave home, and his whereabouts cannot be determined. He left letters stating that he would never return. He is about 45 years old, and leaves a wife and four children.

Rev. Kline, of Adel, Robbed in Cheyenne.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 27.—Rev. C. E. Kline, of Adel, Iowa, stopped off in Cheyenne with his wife and two daughters, while en route to Seattle, Wash. While in the depot his pocket was picked and he lost $30 in currency, certificates of deposit on a Des Moines bank for $2,200 and four railway tickets to Seattle. No trace of the pickpocket has yet been found.

Voted $20,000 for Public Improvements.

OTTUMWA, March 28.—The city council voted to order street paving to the amount of nearly $20,000. Vitrified brick will be used and the work will be commenced some time during the coming month, or as soon as the legal limit for notice and publication shall have expired.

Arm Torn Off While Duck Hunting.

OTTUMWA, March 27.—J. B. Hammond, a prominent young business man of Ottumwa, while out duck shooting, accidentally discharged his gun, tearing off his left hand. He was brought to the city and his arm was amputated between the wrist and elbow.

FIRE AT DES MOINES.

L. Harbach's Furniture Store Damaged to the Extent of $60,000.

DES MOINES, March 28.—A fire which broke out on the fifth floor of L. Harbach's six-story furniture house on Walnut street, between Fourth and Fifth streets, resulted in a loss on stock and building estimated at between $60,000 and $75,000. The damage was principally due to water falling on the stock, the building being burned only on the two upper floors and the roof. The stock in the building at the time was valued by Mr. Harbach at $100,000. Both stock and building were amply covered by insurance. The wholesale department, being in a different building, will not be interfered with in the least.

False Pretenses.

CRESTON, March 27.—Andy Thompson was convicted in the district court of obtaining money under false pretenses. He collected money on a note after having disposed of the same to a local bank. The author was compelled to pay the note a second time, and he called the attention of the grand jury to the case, and Thompson was indicted. He has just been convicted.

Certain Now He Has Enough.

SIOUX CITY, March 17.—After twenty years of wedded life, a divorce, a remarriage, and eight years more of connubial bliss Jacob Hoxie has again sued for a separation from his wife. He charges desertion, and says if the court will grant his prayer there will be no occasion for its interference again.

Odd Fellow Case at Jefferson.

JEFFERSON, March 29.—At the conclusion of the submission of testimony in the suit to enjoin the locating committee from giving the Odd Fellows' Orphans' Home to Indianola, it was decided to submit briefs within the coming two weeks, after which Judge Elwood will render his decision.

Blythe for Congress.

MASON CITY, March 27.—The Globe Gazette of this city authoritively announces the candidacy of James E. Blythe, ex-chairman of the republican central committee, for congress from the Fourth district. The present incumbent, Thos. Updegraff, will also be a candidate.

John Rama Acquitted.

OTTUMWA, March 28.—The jury in the case of the State vs. John Rama, on trial for the killing of Ed. Reliford in January, returned a verdict of acquittal. It was shown that the deed was done in self defense. The jury had disagreed at a former trial.

Fire at Zearing.

ROLAND, March 27.—The creamery and contents at Zearing were entirely destroyed by fire. It was owned and operated by E. S. Hoyt. The origin of the fire is not known. Fifteen hundred dollars insurance was carried.

Donovan Pleads Guilty.

CHEROKEE, March 30.—Tim Donovan, who shot Tobias Hogan because by impersonating her husband Hogan had outraged Mrs. Donovan, has pleaded guilty to assault with intent to do great bodily injury.

Killed by a Circular Saw Explosion.

DUBUQUE, March 30.—Thomas Carr, of Prairie Creek, is reported to have been fatally injured by the bursting of a circular saw he was operating.

BREVITIES.

The coroner's jury at Des Moines has rendered a verdict holding Charles F. and Henry W. Wilcox to answer for the death of O. E. Pearson.

Harry Mauer, aged 18, while hunting ducks in Pleasant Valley, near Iowa City, was accidentally shot by a 12-year-old comrade and died from the effects of the wound a few hours later. The boys were creeping up closer to ducks in a swamp and young Mauer, who was in the lead, received the contents of his companion's weapon in his abdomen.

At Burlington recently Christian Eckstrom met death at the hands of Riley Whitten and Fred Schoeltkoiff n a fight with guns for the possession of Eckstrom's third wife. The woman, after being abused by Eckstrom, who had come home drunk, took her infant and fled to the house of her sister, Mrs. Whitten. Eckstrom bought a revolver at the store of Mrs. John Larson and went to Whitten's house with the intention of getting his wife or satisfaction. Unknown to Eckstrom Mrs. Larson, who had a suspicion of impending trouble, sold him rim fire cartridges with a center fire revolver. When he made his attack on the Whitten residence his revolver would not discharge, but he forced his way into the house, where he fought Whitten and Schoeltkoff, the latter shooting twice with a shot gun and the former emptying five chambers of a revolver. Eckstrom fell dead at the door of the room in which his wife had taken refuge. The coroner's jury exonerated his executioners, and they were discharged.

IN THE LEGISLATURE

SENATE.

DES MOINES, March 23.—Perrin, for the committee on suppression of intemperance, reported for amendment and passage the code revision bill relating to the sale of intoxicating liquors. Funk called up Druett's bill to repeal section 4023 of the code of Iowa relating to fines imposed for the disturbance of religious and other gatherings. The bill sought to establish a minimum fine of $25 or ten days imprisonment in the county jail for any person willfully disturbing any public gathering. There was considerable difference of opinion as to the advisability of this change and a good deal of discussion ensued. The hour of adjournment arrived and further consideration of the measure was deferred.

HOUSE.

Senate file 387 was substituted for house file 141 and it was put upon passage. The measure changes the form of city bonds so that they may be paid at any time after the date set for payment by agreement. In other words the bonds may be continued beyond their maturity by agreement. The bill passed. House voted to non-concur in senate's action in defeating the bill in relation to trimming osage and other hedges. Among bills indefinitely postponed were Manahan's bill referring to Russian thistles and Brighton's bill to define the liability of fire insurance companies, save property for taxation, discourage incendiarism, and lessen the cost of insurance. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, March 24.—Druett's bill relating to penalties for disturbing religious meetings was recommitted. These bills passed: Amending laws relative to state board of medical examiners, giving aggrieved persons the right to appeal from its decisions; Ericson's bill to prevent the spread of disease among swine; raising amount necessary in case of appeal to the supreme court from $100 to $300. Waterman's bill to punish crime of unlawfully breaking and entering railroad or express cars was defeated. Junkin's bill to provide for the auditing and payment of certain expenses of district judges came up and Junkin explained that it was to pay the expenses of judges traveling from one county to another. A rather heated debate ensued and the bill was finally killed, failing to receive a constitutional majority. The collateral inheritance tax bill came up. The bill provides for a tax of 5 per cent on all inheritances above $1,000, other than for the use of father, mother, husband, wife, lineal descendant, adopted child, the lineal descendant of an adopted child of a decedent, or to or for charitable, educational or religious societies or institutions within this state. It is provided that if a life estate is given to lineal descendant or any other exempted heir, when such life estate is terminated the remainder man, if he is not an accepted heir, shall pay the tax. Other exceptions are provided for and the bill is carefully guarded in every way, including the means for collection. The bill passed without opposition. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Temple's bill to place street car companies operated by other than horse power under the supervision of the railway commission was taken up and met with strong opposition. It was finally voted down. Neitert's bill to define the liability of fire insurance companies and to provide a form of policy to be known as the "Standard fire insurance policy of Iowa," came up. Finch moved to substitute the house bill on the same subject and after a short debate the motion carried. A proposed amendment that the amount named in the policy should be conclusive evidence of the amount of the loss was defeated. The bill was finally passed, 59 to 31. House bill for protection of wives, providing that liens may not be placed upon household goods without their consent, also passed. Bill relating to the meeting of township trustees for settlement with road supervisors passed. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, March 25.—Funk introduced a resolution for a committee to inquire into the state of the code work and report as soon as possible. The object is to determine whether it is possible to complete it at this session. Bill to transfer Marshall county from the Eleventh to the Seventeenth judicial district and to provide for another judge came up and passed, 30 to 13. The bill to create the Twentieth judicial district, to be composed of Des Moines, Henry and Louisa counties, was also passed. Phelps, for constitutional amendments and suffrage, reported for passage joint resolutions 13 and 16. One proposed to amend the constitution in relation to elections and the other to amend the same in relation to the method of voting. A motion to postpone the liquor manufacturing bill from to-morrow until Tuesday caused a peppery debate and the motion carried. The jury bill reported from the judicial committee came up next and was under consideration at the time of adjournment.

HOUSE.

The bill to correct the law in reference to the condemnation of certain lands came up and passed. The work on the government levee near Burlington is now at a standstill because there is no law by which the government can secure certain lands upon which to build said levee. A resolution was offered by Hinman that further work on the code be deferred until the completion of the regular work. The committee on pharmacy reported a substitute for the bill authorizing the examination by the governor of the books and affairs of the state board of pharmacy. The bill regulating and providing for examination of building and loan associations, which had passed the senate, came up and was passed. Resolution by Morrison instructing the trustees of the insane hospital at Independence to buy Iowa coal for that institution passed. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, March 26.—Perrin introduced a bill to empower judges of district and superior courts to limit time consumed by attorneys in certain cases; also bill to amend code so that plaintiff in a suit may withdraw only before the evidence is all taken. Upton introduced a bill fixing the senatorial districts. Senate concurred in resolution to advise Iowa institutions to patronize Iowa manufactures as far as possible. Resolution for committee to investigate condition of code work was adopted. Bill in relation to drainage and levees passed. House amendments to building and loan association bill was concurred in. Jury bill came up and after a warm debate it was referred to the judiciary committee. Waterman's bill to provide severe punishment for opening a railway or express car passed. The bill to punish disturbers of religious meetings passed. House bill to authorize executive council to sell certain lands belonging to the state for the use of the state fair and authorize the purchase of other property with the proceeds of the sale, passed. Bill to extend the time of Judge Deemer one year passed. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Morrison's resoulution for final adjournment on April 9 came up and a substitute by Byington providing for completing the code at this session was finally adopted, 55 to 39. Bill to establish and maintain five additional normal schools came up and was defeated after a lengthy debate. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, March 27.—House concurrent resolution for completion of the code work was read and referred. Bill limiting time for bringing suits against municipal corporations for damages resulting from unsafe condition of highways or bridges to three months and time for serving to sixty, instead of ninety days, passed. Bill to pay claims, not to exceed $21,500, of individuals and counties for making exhibit of Iowa at New Orleans exhibition, passed. The bill providing for holding a term of court at Correctionville, Woodbury county, came up and a lengthy debate ensued. The minority report, indefinitely postponing the bill, was finally adopted, 27 to 10. House bill to prevent pharmacists from selling malt liquors passed. Bill increasing support fund of the Eldora industrial school from $8 to $10 per month passed. Riggin's bill empowering cities and towns having water supply and public sewers to regulate plumbing connecting with said sewers and to appoint an inspector for that purpose, passed. Bill providing two commissions of insanity in Lee county was ordered to engrossment. Rowen filed a motion to reconsider vote by which the Correctionville court bill was killed. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

House concurred in senate amendments to bill enabling cities of the first class to construct or buy water works and to manage same. Cornwall introduced a bill to apportion the state into representative districts. Motion to reconsider vote by which Bonaparte dam bill was killed came up and the bill was referred to the committee on appropriations. An hour and a half was spent in consideration of a bill to regulate bicycles on public highways, and then the bill was lost, 52 to 38.

Bill providing punishment for malicious interference with horses, harness or vehicles passed. Senate bill requiring that juvenile prisoners be kept separate from adult prisoners passed. Ex-Auditor Brown's claim was referred to committee on appropriations. Bill to give labor commissioner power to compel witnesses to answer questions relating to statistics required in his work failed to pass, 32 to 34. A motion to reconsider was at once made and the bill will come up again. A dozen unimportant bills were indefinitely postponed and the house adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, March 28.—Rowen withdrew his motion to reconsider Woodbury county stub court bill. Bill to investigate the condition of the code work reported that the committee work was approximately done and twenty-six pages had been passed upon by the senate. Bill appropriating $4,000 for the purchase of books and duplicates for collection of books for the state library to be designated as the "Iowa Traveling Library," passed. Bill granting to city of Dubuque title to Lake Pessta passed. Bill to allow cities of the second class and incorporated towns to construct sewers passed. Senate refused to concur in house amendments to bill for punishment of disturbers of horses and vehicles. Waterman introduced a substitute for the house resolution providing for finishing the code this session. It provides for adjournment April 9 and for an extra session beginning the second Tuesday in January, 1897. Judiciary bill requiring purchase of materials and supplies for state institutions in the state when all things are equal was under consideration when adjournment was taken.

HOUSE.

Senate bill relating to funding of indebtedness of cities and towns passed. Bill providing "traveling" libraries passed. It enables any public school or college library having not less than five hundred volumes to become an associate library with the state library. Bill to fix salaries of mayors and aldermen in cities working under special charter passed. Bill providing that persons assisting prisoners to escape may be arrested without a warrant passed. Motion to reconsider vote by which the labor commissioner's bill failed to pass prevailed and the bill was made a special order for Tuesday next. Funk's bill raising the allowance to the boys' industrial school from $8 to $10 per month was returned from senate slightly amended. The same was concurred in and as amended the bill passed. A substitute for the senate bill defining fraternal beneficiary societies, orders or associations and regulating same was passed. Senate bill authorizing county auditors to collect and receive moneys due their respective counties passed. Bill empowering cities working under special charters to establish boards of health passed. Adjourned.

Henry L. Acres, a postal clerk of Burlington, suicided by shooting.

TIOMANE.

BY JACQUES VINCENT.

COPYRIGHT 1892 BY RAND, McNALLY CO.

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER XVIII.—(CONTINUED).

Neither Madame de Sorgnes nor Maritza offered any assistance, accustomed as they had become to trust for everything to her. But Guillaume did rebel. Tiomane imposed silence on his revolts. He longed for the time when he could rid her of these disagreeable duties, and put his mother and "sisters" at ease. In the meantime, he would work like a galley slave. Tiomane was only at the beginning of the struggle. Day by day, the difficulties, far from lessening, seemed to multiply, and, even harder to bear than her wearisome household labors, were the unreasonable requirements of her two companions. During the first week after their removal to the apartments in the Rue d'Assas, they had been almost cheerful in their feeling of relief at their escape from the dull pension, and the enjoyment of the comforts of their little home. But the complaints were heard again. Ennui, the ennui of the idle, overwhelmed them. On no consideration would Madame de Sorgnes consent to see any of her old Parisian friends; indeed, she could not be induced to go out at all, fearing to meet some of them, and she had inspired Maritza with the same fear. The young beauty could no longer be persuaded to walk in the garden of the Luxembourg, all perfumed now with the lilacs in bloom, whence the strains of the military band came to the little drawing room on the fifth floor, filling her with inexpressible sadness. Tiomane succeeded, however, after much coaxing, in inducing them to go out sometimes very late in the afternoon, when they would not run the risk of meeting any acquaintances. But walking soon fatigued these indolent orientals. By an anomaly of her childish character, Madame de Sorgnes, who had decided to flee from society, went out, accompanied by her daughter, one fine morning in May, and taking a carriage drove to the Champs Elysees, and the Bois de Boulogne, an amusement which cost 8 francs—more than the expenses of a whole day. Tiomane chided her gently, but was at once told by Madame de Sorgnes that she could never think of entering an omnibus. In a few days she repeated her drive twice, and went to dine at the Restaurant de la Cascade. The mother and daughter always returned from these excursions more excited and more dissatisfied than ever. The view of this Parisian luxury, the carriages, the toilettes, the shops revived all their regrets. They seemed like two lost souls, who, from the infernal regions, see the joys of the blessed of heaven. The days soon came when they yielded to temptation. They purchased bonnets, gowns, and the thousand-and-one costly trifles of the feminine toilette. In vain Tiomane implored, pointing out the yawning abyss to which they were hastening. They were deaf to her prayers and entreaties. This third month was most disastrous. The follies and extravagances of the mother and daughter could no longer be counted. What barrier could Tiomane interpose between them and certain ruin? Her pleadings irritated them, without doing any good. They treated her as an impertinent, tiresome person, from whom one escapes as quickly as possible—whose warnings one ridicules and despises. She spoke to them on the subject only once again. One morning after breakfast she begged Madame de Sorgnes to listen to her. Of her little capital, very necessary to add to the small and very uncertain income from the railway shares, there remained only 400 francs and if Guillaume did not succeed in getting a position as a engineer what were they to do?

"I beg, Tiomane, that these daily jeremiads may cease," Madame de Sorgnes answered petulantly, putting her fingers in her ears.

Tiomane removed the breakfast things and left the room to hide the tears she could not restrain. After her household duties were finished she went out for a walk, feeling the need of solitude—the solitude of a crowd—where one can at least think undisturbed. She walked on, weary, discouraged, angry, saying to herself that, perhaps, after all it was useless to struggle any longer—nothing could save this thoughtless, self-indulgent mother and daughter; that they were of the number of those who run headlong, eyes open, to the precipice at whose base is certain death. And yet how could she abandon them to their impending fate?

Self-sacrifice has its intoxication—the superhuman longing which sustains the martyr. She reproached herself for momentary weakness and resolved again to try to protect them—to save them from themselves. She tried to think what she could do to add to their slender resources. Her time was almost all taken up in household cares, and even if she could spare a few hours a day to give lessons in languages or in music what mother would choose her in preference to a diplome? As to her music, had not her fingers lost their skill?

Thus communing sadly with herself, she reached the Bon-Marche, and, still reflecting, still questioning, she stopped mechanicaly before the shop windows. She started; surely she recognized those exquisite embroideries on silk, forming the most elegant arabesques. This was the industry par excellence of the Smyrniotes—just now the latest craze in Paris. She had learned it during her stay at Bournabat and she had some very beautiful designs in her trunk. Taking courage, she entered the shop. In a few moments she came out, her face radiant. Certainly, they would accept her embroideries and pay her well for them.

That evening she began her new labors, working until after midnight. Madame de Sorgnes wept at this new proof of Tiomane's energy and devotion and promised to abide by her advice in future.

"What!" exclaimed Guillaume the following Wednesday, when he came to visit them, on finding Tiomane bending over her embroidery frame; "this is sheer madness—you will be ill." And he repeated for the fiftieth time, "Oh, when can I put an end to this?"

In a fortnight Tiomane carried her first piece of embroidery to the Bon Marche. It procured her at once more orders than she could fill. By working all the time that she was not occupied in household labors she could make 3 francs a day.

July came. Guillaume graduated the fiftieth of his class. Tiomane's fears were fully realized. The young man could not hope to obtain any place under the government.

CHAPTER XIX.

A WEEK LATER, Guillaume fell like a bomb into his mother's little drawing room.

"Hurrah! hurrah! we are rich; I have a position!"

An old school of l'ecole Monge, Henri Sancede, of whom he had often spoken to them, who had graduated a year before from the Polytechnic, had procured him a position with his uncle, who was the proprietor of extensive iron works at Blinville.

Guillaume was to receive 150 francs a month, board and lodging. His Sundays could be spent with the family. Blinville being only two hours by rail from Paris. He returned to the little nest on the fifth floor, and the widow, proud of her boy, smiled again.

Guillaume insisted that the wife of the concierge should resume her duties, not only preparing the dinner, but the breakfast also. He begged Tiomane to give up her embroidery, but this she could not be induced to do.

"Yes, we are almost rich," she echoed hopefully, but she did not give up a certainty for an uncertainty.

On the fourth Sunday of the month the young engineer came, bringing all his salary, which he poured into Tiomane's lap, keeping nothing for himself.

"You know I am an extravagant fellow, Tiomane, and if I need anything I will draw upon your purse."

YOU KNOW I AM AN EXTRAVAGANT FELLOW.

While he was speaking, a piano, which he had ordered, was brought into the room.

"What extravagance!" cried Tiomane.

"Bah! only 25 francs a month."

"But that is enormous for us."

"It will be our only pleasure to listen to you, and really you owe us formidable arrears."

This second winter opened less gloomily than the preceeding one. With the increase in their income the future did not seem so threatening. Doubtless the craze for oriental embroideries was only a passing one; the income from the railway shares might cease any day; but Guillaume, so intelligent and so industrious, had made a beginning, and advancement must come. So reasoned the fond mother.

Tiomane had found again her greatest pleasure. Every evening was spent at the piano and her rich voice filled the whole house with exquisite tones. The wife of the concierge reported daily the compliments upon her abilities uttered by M. Desgoffes, a celebrated professor of vocal music, who occupied the apartments on the first floor.

In spite of her fixed determination to be a recluse Madame de Sorgnes could not refuse to welcome her son's friend to her home, and one Sunday Guillaume brought Henri Sancede—Cato, as his college friends called him.

The young man was of medium height, with a well-knit, powerful frame, a face that could not be called handsome, and yet two energetic brown eyes and a very sweet smile made it a very striking face. He was the son of a country physician residing in the Jura, had been admitted to Pecole Monge as a charity pupil, and had graduated at the Polytechnic with credit. Everything about him indicated the plodder of firm, unswerving will. He was of the number of those who, when they start in life, trace out the path which they intend to follow, and, keeping the goal ever in view, never deviate from it.

A rather amusing incident marked the presentation of the young stranger. When the two friends entered the little drawing-room they found Tiomane at the piano; Madame de Sorgnes was smoking her eternal cigarettes, reclining gracefully on a sofa, and listening to the music. Maritza entered the room after the visitors had been seated some minutes. As if dazzled by the brilliant apparition Henri Sancede rose instantly, the grave face showing the greatest emotion. Guillaume enjoyed his friend's embarrassment and concealed a smile by pulling an incipient mustache, of which he was not a little proud. Maritza seated herself opposite the visitor, who tried to turn his eyes from his charming vis-a-vis, but they came back involuntarily, and when their eyes met Henri's face became crimson.

"Really, I never suspected that Cato was made of such inflammable material!" cried Guillaume when his friend had taken leave. "My beautiful little duchess only could work such a miracle on grave, cold Cato."

Maritza, not all displeased at the impression she had made, deigned to say that she thought Cato very agreeable.

"I will tell him that you think so," said the teasing brother.

The next Sunday Sancede was invited to dine in the Rue d'Assas. The same emotion, the same embarrassment.

"She is his fate," murmured Guillaume in Tiomane's ear.

Monsieur Sancede was seated at table between Madame de Sorgnes and Maritza, and, having recovered his sangfroid, made himself very agreeable.

Far from being the cold philosopher that his college friends considered him, Cato was endowed with the keenest wit and in his skirmishes with impulsive Guillaume the sharpest arrows came from his side of the table. In short, Sancede won golden opinions from the three ladies. Madame de Sorgnes invited him to come every Sunday, but, to his great regret, he could promise only every alternate Sunday, his uncle claiming half his leisure.

Youth is the great magician. These fortnightly dinners were real fetes. The two young men came quite early. When the weather was fine they all went to Luxembourg. Sometimes the little mamma preferred remaining at the fireside. Then the four young people started out, Guillaume giving his arm to Tiomane and Henri offering his to Maritza and walking proudly like a king. On these walks the "duchess" was very gay and amiable, chattered like a magpie, pouring out all the trifles with which her head was filled, and Cato drank in her words as if they solved the most important problems.

If it rained they remained indoors, and the little nest was filled with animation and joy. Tiomane sang and Guillaume never wearied of listening to her music. As for Sancede, no music to him was comparable to Maritza's silvery laugh.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Why It Did Not Work.

"When I was farming in Carolina," says an old Connecticut fellow, "I got ahead of Providence in the hailstone business. After I had planted my crop of tobacco I rigged up a line of poles the entire length of the field, with ropes stretching from pole to pole, and to those ropes I attached a cloth material not so stiff as crinoline nor so flexible as cambric. By a system of pulleys anyone standing at the edge of the field could pull the main guy rope and in five seconds the entire crop would be covered by this curtain or awning. I was taken ill about this time and my physician told me I must go to California for my health, so I went, but before going I instructed my wife how to work my device and told her that whenever she saw a storm coming to cover the crop."

"And so the hailstones never damaged your tobacco?" inquired the little man with the chin whiskers.

"No, sir, never touched it. But, then, you see," he added, leisurely taking a long pull at his cigar, "there wasn't any tobacco to ruin, for every time a storm came up my wife drew the curtains and the crop died of drought."—New York Tribune.

A Good Likeness.

A conceited individual out west got an itinerant portrait painter to paint the portrait of himself holding a favorite ass, and when the job was finished he invited a friend to inspect it. After carefully examining it the friend said:

"It is a capital portrait. But who is that holding you by the bridle?"

The friends do not speak now and the portrait is consigned to oblivion.—Tammany Times.

Luck.

Nelson—Well, I'm the luckiest chap in the world.

Stanley—How so?

Nelson—It appears that Madge broke with me about the same time she did with Jack Boodles, and now she's sent me back his presents instead of my own.

EASTER PRESENTS.

PRETTY THINGS SEEN IN THE BIG STORES.

"When Thoughts Are True Gifts Which Are Daintest Are Chosen to Express Them"—Appropriate Gifts for Dear Friends.

AS SWEET AS THE first wreath of spring and as dainty as the earliest April flowers are the ideal Easter remembrances. They should be in harmony with the influences of the day, which turn the minds of all to the mystery of awakening of life, and at the same time be what charming woman loves to receive, says a New York religious weekly.

Among such things are found exquisitely bound books, small etchings or water colors in ivory frames—all especially appropriate gifts for this season.

Collections of poems, whose covers are in delicate shades, with designs which hint at more than they express, are offered at very reasonable prices. One book of verses was clothed in white enamel and silver, with a design in the form of a Greek lamp, whose flame was contorted by the wind of destiny.

For the woman who is fond of dreaming the rare small volumes of essays in quiet grays and undecided greens, with an ideal head in the form of a cameo on one side.

She who loves to sit at nature's feet and learn would be delighted with a book which treats of orchids, lichens, or simple wild flowers. One of the books on orchids designed for an Easter gift has a cover of white linen, embroidered with silks in the natural colors of orchids. There are also delightful stories of birds and woods which come in artistic bindings.

The latter come in nearly all shades to match or contrast with the Easter gowns. Some of the most popular this year are in bright red.

Much less expensive and entirely pleasing are the diaries. One is in white and gold cover, with a white pencil, and bearing the inscription, "For Happy Thoughts." Small white silk banners, with suitable quotations, are trifles intended to be hung near the bedside, so that proper food for reflection may be furnished for the mind to go to sleep over.

If one has artistic talent she may draw her own designs and make a booklet of flowers, putting her favorite lines of poetry under each one. One ingenious woman has made studies in brown sephia of the child characters in Dickens.

Endless opportunities for suitable selections are offered in china. A tiny candlestick to light the path to sweet dreams may be bought for 75 cents or $1. A beautiful cup from which to sip tea and tell fortunes costs but $2. A Royal Copenhagen in green and white can be had for $2.50. Such a gift tied with a violet ribbon, with some violets scattered in the box in which it is sent, is always charming. The china frames for portraits are more expensive; one six inches high, with very delicate Dresden pattern, was marked $6. Other articles in china are tiny clocks, trays for pens and pins, and ring stands. Some of the letter seals have Dresden handles. Seals finished in white pearl, with a box of wax in "the color she uses" are pleasing. Stationery may be added without causing offence.

Greek lamps in silver are among the novelties. Such a lamp exhibited in one of the prominent stores is said to be an exact reproduction of the lamps used in Ephesus, one hundred years before Christ. It has the seal of Ephesus upon the top, in the shape of a bee, and in the handle there is a real Roman coin dating back to the time of Gallienus, 260 A. D. The price of this lamp is $6. Plainer lamps can be had for $5. Silver candlesticks cost $3 and $4.

LIZARD SKIN.

A bell to call my lady's maid, a silver box for the sponge on her writing table, a bottle for mucilage, a silver mounted ink eraser, are useful as well as pleasing.

Cut glass vinaigrettes, silver mounted, are very pretty and cost but $2 or $3. A vinaigrette in cut glass with glass top may be bought for seventy-five cents. If one wishes to make a very expensive gift she may have an amethyst, topaz, or opal for the top.

Paper weights of glass, with the picture of a Madonna in them or a portrait of one of the poets, would suit the fancy of the modern Hypatias. These paper weights cost but twenty-five cents, and are arranged so that any picture may be put in. Change purses, stamp cases and card cases, in the delicate shades of leather, will please the rosebud. Her older sisters will appreciate those of real lizard skin or carved leather.

If one cares to give comfort at Easter time let her send her best schoolgirl friend a "shoe and stocking chair," a novelty just put upon the market at $6.50. For a friend who sails away, a lap tablet for writing is a genuine happy thought. An elderly person will find pleasure in using one of the porcelain egg sets, consisting of an odd shaped tray, a tall, graceful cup for coffee, and two little cups for eggs, with a bit of a tray for salt and pepper. These may be had for $2. A stand for four or six eggs, of any color, with a gilt handle is $3.50.

To an invalid friend send an enamelled medicine chest, painted with trailing arbutus, wild roses and apple blossoms, with a door closed by a band of pink ribbon tied in a jerky bow. The bachelor maid who has her own apartments will call you blessed if on Easter morn she finds your card and a pot of narcissus, primroses, hyacinths, daffodils, crocuses or hepticas. They will be placed on her window sill and receive her dearest confidences. A little box of chocolates, with a pansy and the motto, "Pensez a moi," or a basket of buttercups will often give more pleasure than a costly gift. A single rose in a crystal vase combines the graces of fragrance, beauty and utility. The tender thought that prompts the sending of a bunch of violets, sweet peas, lilies of the valley or mignonette, will sometimes more forcibly remind one that there is joy and glad new life on earth than does the reception of brilliant gems. The latter are beautiful, but not necessarily convincing.

IN SILVER.

For Easter.

RISE! This day shall shine for evermore,
To thee a star divine on Time's dark shore!

Till now thy soul has been all glad and gay;
Bid it awake and and look at Grief to-day!

But now the stream has reached a dark, deep sea;
And sorrow, dim and crowned, is waiting thee.

Each of God's soldiers bears a sword divine;
Stretch out thy trembling hands to-day for thine!

Then with slow, reverent step and beating heart,
From out thy joyous day thou must depart—

And, leaving all behind, come forth alone,
To join the chosen band around the throne.

Raise up thine eyes! Be strong! Nor cast away
The crown that God has given thy soul to-day!

An Imprudent but Gushing Woman.

Young women who take books at the circulating library are imprudent to use their pages as blotters. They are doing wrong also, for it is against the rules. A copy of "Lord Ormond and His Aminta" which has been in use in a Philadelphia library, held in front of a mirror revealed the inscription, "I send you my heart with a kiss." All women finish their letters with that phrase, which cannot therefore betray anybody, but, in this case, the signature was there.

H. W. Schoper.

THE

LEADING - IMPLEMENT - DEALER.

Has on hand a complete stock of FARM

IMPLEMENTS.

Fisher Wagons, Staver Abbot, and Parry Buggies,

Rock Island and U, S. Planters,

Conklin Cnltivators,

Morrison and R. I. Sulky Plows.

Pumps Fanning Mills etc.

A fine road wagon

Only $30.

DAVIS SEWING MACHINE, THE BEST ON THE MARKET.

COME and see for yourself.

H. SCHROEDER,

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY - MEAT - MARKET.

Carry a Complete line of Fresh, Salt and Smoked Meats.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

HIDES.

PICKLES, etc. Always on hand.

Klemme, Ia.

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME. Belmond, Iowa.

Garner.

Dr. L. I. Aldrich was in Garner Monday.

Roll Maben, of Forrest City, was in Garner, Tuesday.

The board of supervisors will convene, April 5th.

Miss May Gillet, of Ellington, was visiting in Garner the first of the week.

Miss Mamie Finch of Belmond, spent Sunday in Garner.

Ebe Melcher has traded his Garner property to H Rhodes and moved back onto his farm. Mr. Rhodes has moved to town.

M. B. Cooper, A. W. Schmalle, Chas. Bailey and Ly Howe four of Garnrr's crack hnnters started Monday evening for Minnesota.

Last week Wes Aldridge shook the Garner dust from his feet and with his wife and children household goods etc., took the public highway for Britt. Mr. and Mrs. Aldridge leave a good many friends in Garner. We shall miss Wes' merry laugh and jokes and feel lonesome every day. He will open a law office in Britt and hold down the legal business of the west side. We wish him lots of success and many dollars.—Signal.

Fred Booze, of Belmond, was accidentally shot in the hip by a gun in the hands of a young town lad March 26th.—Ex.

Wednesday morning, March 25th 11-year-old Elbert Hendron of Jeffersontown, Ky. came into the city of Louisville with a chain two feet long attached to his ankle. He was taken to a hardware store and the chain removed. He says that for two years his father, William Hendron, has had him chained to a log. The elder Hendron will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. —Ex.

Everybody is going to take in the festival on Easter night. There will be an entertainment given for the most critical. A temperance lecture at 8 p. m. sharp, followed by the festival proper, when the disiples of Terpsichore will enjoy themselves to the wee sma' hours.—Corwith Hurtler.

It would appear from the above, that a new line of Sunday evening entertainment was indulged in at Corwith.

One would scarcely believe that in the three years from 1892 to 1895 the value of horses in the United States fell off one-half, or six hundred million dollar; but such is the statement of statistics compiled by the U. S. department of agriculture. The causes are said to be bicycle and the trolley car.—Ex.

France and Fine Speeches.

When I read his (Gambetta's) fiery patriotic phrases, and when you tell us that he was avant tout un patriote, I think of Dr. Johnson's brusque saying, "Patriotism is the last refuge of a scoundrel." It is hard to practice the plain virtues, but not hard to se griser de mots about la patrie. What France wants is men with a passion for the plain virtues and capable of inspiring this passion in others. His intellectual qualities, his perception of the law of evolution in politics and his suppleness and adroitness in shaping his course accordingly are far more remarkable. * * * They seem to me Italian rather that French, but whencesoever they proceed they are not, although valuable, what France most needs and cannot supply the place of this.—Matthew Arnold.

SPRING

Style

MY Millinery Store is now ready for spring BUSINESS.

Hats!

I have just received a new and complete line of

Flowers, Tips, Ribbons, Laces, Fancy Braids, Persian Silks etc.

And everything you could expect to find in a first class store.

MISS ADNA BARTA of St. Paul, a first class trimmer will be with me the entire season.

YOU are invited to come in. No trouble to Show Goods.

Dressmaking in connection.

Miss E. Renziehausen,

COME STRAIGHT

To Our Store

If you want to save money in what you must purchase along the line of

GENERAL

Merchandise.

Onr stock is complete iu department; is fresh and new, and we are selling the goods with special regard to the Hard Times.

WESENBERG BROS.

MARION A. FELL, NOTARY PUBLIC.

M. R. CHAMBERS, ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farm Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co,

Garner, Iow

WE WILL SELL

AT PRIVATE SALE,

Our Large Stock Of

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Plows, Cultivators, Hay Rakes and Loaders, Seeders, Disc Harrows, Planters, Wind Mills and Pumps, Water Tanks, Buggies and Waggons. We handle the KEYSTONE FENCE, the best fence on earth. Also the

Milwaukee Binders and Mowers

At prices that defy competition.

LAU BROTHERS.

T'MES $1. PER YEAR!

STATE · SAVINGS · BANK

—OF—

KLFMME, IOWA

Does a regular Banking Business. Deals in Domestic and Foreign

EXCHANGE

Loans money on long or short time. Attends to collections and pay interest on time deposits

C. W. KNAPP, Cashier.

Bettin and Remer.

Contractors and Builders.

Plans and specifications furnished on application.

—All work guaranteed.

KLEMME, IOWA

GEO. S. GATES,

STONE · AND · BRICK · MASON

Plastering a Specialty. Do all kinds of work in my line. I also make a Specialty of bricking up Cisterns and boilers. All work guaranteed and Prices accordingly.

Give me a trial,

GEO. S. GATES,

Klemme, Iowa.

JOHN BAUMGARTNER.

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY BARBER SHOP.

AN EASY SHAVE. - -

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

SHOP IN KIRKWOOD HOUSE, KLEMME, IOWA.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.

OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.

OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

During the winter of 1893, F. M. Martin, of Long Reach, West Va., contracted a severe cold which left him with a cough. In speaking of how he cured it he says: "I used several kinds of cough syrup but found no relief until I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which relieved me almost instantly, and in a short time brought a complete cure." When troubled with a cough or cold use this remedy and you will not find it necessary to try several kinds before you get relief. It has been in the market for over twenty years and constantly grown in favor and popularity. For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by J. L. HARR.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, Apr. 3, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum in Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1895.

GRISWOLD & CLINE, PUBLISHERS.

We present the patrons of the TIMES this week with a 5 col. quarto instead of the 7 col. folio we have been issueing. We find that the social and business interests of Klemme demand a larger paper, and in order to keep pace with the rapid advancement in our town, we are compelled to enlarge the same. It shall be our aim to merit the patronage of the entire country tributary to Klemme, and hope with the co-operation of the people to make the TIMES second to no other paper in the County.

Res. Griswold & Cline.

Goodell Items.

Tom Elder Sundayed in Garner.

L. A. Griswold Sundayed at Garner with————.

Ad. Elder is working for his brother Tom in the store.

Rev. C. F. Schell returned from conference Monday.

R. M. Brisco and son returned from Chicago Monday.

MRS. MULKINS is selling a vast amount of millenery at her opening sales.

A. J. Weddle while putting a belt on a pulley, Tuesday, got his hand mashed puite badly.

Mrs. Kinney returned from Garner, Saturday, where she has been visiting.

Ira and Ivy Haynes, returned to their home at Marble Rock' after an extended visit With the R. M. Brisco family.

H. A. Miller, State Bank examiner, was looking after the financial condition of the State Savings Bank one day last week.

Mr. Staack of Dysart, has purchased the Mulkins meat market and took possession April 1st. His family will follow in a few days.

Rams Horn.

Wanting to do right will amount to little, unless we decide to do it.

Strip Satan of the fine robe that hides his cloven foot, and he would not be dangerous.

Our great sins do not consist so much in things we do, as those we neglect to do.

This world is full of green pastures which have been prepared expressly for the Lord's sheep.

There are not many millionairs alive to-day, whom angels do not consider poor men.

Whoever throws a stone straight at the devil, will hit some highly respectable man in the face.

When Jesus comes to make up his jewels, he will find some of his brightest in the darkest places.

Christ did not come into the world to be admired for his knowledge, but to shed his blood to make atonement for sin.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market; costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. HARR. Read our free booklet on Microbic Diseases.

Homeseekers' Excursions

On March 10th. April 7th and 21st and May 5th, Excursion Tickets at rate of ONE FARE plus $2 FOR THE ROUND TRIP, to points in eleven Southern States and Territories, also to a number of Western and Northern States. An oppertunity to reach almost every city in the South and Southwest and a large number of important points in the Northwest. Tickets are good to return any Tuesday or Friday within the final limit which is 20 days from date of sale.

Call on B., C. R. & N. agents for rates and further information or address J. MORTON, G. P. & T. A. Cedar Rapids, Ia. Exp 5-5

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR BATH.

A perfect Sulphur Spring in the retirement of your own home. A toilet article cherished by the ladies. Renders the skin White and Soft. An absolute disinfectant. Purifies the blood by absorbtion and removes all unhealthy secretions and odors from the body. Invaluable in Rheumatism Gout and all blood and skin disorders. Each bottle contains 16 sulphur baths

S. C Cook, Jacksonville, Ill., says: "In our little family circle Compound Liquid Sulphur—Bath is considered a panacea for all ills and one of the greatest luxuries. For sale by J. L. HARR.

Wanted—An Idea Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer and list of two hundred inventions wanted.

MILLENNIUM OF YOUTH.

Bad Boys and Girls to Be Made Good by Hypnotic Suggestion.

Away with your prisons and reformatories! Out upon dark cells, cat o' nine tails, bread and water and all the other old time methods of teaching the naughty young idea how to shoot into the bullseye of reform. A new genius has arisen, the royal road to reformation has been discovered, and henceforth bad boys and girls will be made good while you wait, like old shoes.

In a recent number of a metaphysical magazine a new genius tells how to do it. "Mental suggestion" is the coming method. Hypnotism succeeds the dark cell. All you have got to do is to take a young rascal and mentally suggest to him to be good, and the thing is done in a jiffy. The writer says that he has tried it and that it works. He would be willing to tackle Jesse Pomeroy, or the Boy Firebug, or any other youthful offender against the laws, and sooner or later convert him into an estimable citizen. "Some cases of moral infirmity are reached in ten minutes," he says. "Others may take ten days, weeks or even longer. But we must not be discouraged."

Never give a negative suggestion, cries this learned pundit, always a positive one. Suggest to a boy that he is going to be honest and industrious. That will fetch him. To suggest the negative is repellent. It does not catch on. That is the great fault with teachers and parents. They do not take the right side of the matter. They should lead, not attempt to drive.

Just as soon as the hypnotists have a chance to get in their fine work there will be a millennium among the growing generation. Elmira will go broke for want of custom, and Randall's island can be turned into a public park. Three cheers!—New York World.

Harry Mauer, aged 18, while hunting ducks in Pleasant Valley March 24th, was accidentally shot by a 12-year-old comrade, and died from the effects of the wound. The boys were creeping up closer to ducks in a swamp near Iowa City and young Mauer, whe was in the lead, received the contents of his companion's weapon in his abdomen. —Ex.

When in need of

CLOTHING

And you want an assortment to select from; or if you are looking for a New Dress something new, nobby and dressy, SPRING CAPES, DRESS TRIMMINGS,

Ladies Shirt Waists,

Or Fine Shoes,

we invite you to call and visit our

New Store

wnen in GARNER.

W. C. SCHULER.

IDENTIFICATION COUPON.

The accompaning solution of the mystery in the CHICAGO RECORD'S $10,000 prize story "Sons and Fathers," is sent by

Name_____

Post Office_____

A Reader of the KLEMME TIMES.

Spring Goods are all in

The Bell Clothing STORE, at

GARNER, IOWA.

When in town call and see us, we can save you money.

A Fine Shoe IS DRESSY

Strong Shoes WILL WARE,

A Poor Shoe IS DEAR AT ANY PRICE.

It is the universal verdict that FRANK GRUETZMACHER has the largest and most complete stock of

SHOES

in town, and is selling them fully 10 per cent less than other firms.

Harness and Shoes Repaired.

Remember we make HARNESS to order.

Give us a call

F. GRUETZMACHER.

This space is for sale.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

CUBA.

HAVANA, March 26.—The insurgent expedition which left New York on board the steamer Bermuda on March 15th, has landed on the shores of Cuba. It is positively known that the men, arms and ammunition on board the Bermuda were safely put on shore and conveyed to the headquarters of the Cubans despite the vigilance of the Spanish guards. General Calixto Garcia was at the head of the party and is now understood to be in the insurgent camp.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Nicholas De Cardenas, who was sent some months ago to Peru as the representative of the Cuban revolutionists, has returned to New York. Cardenas' mission met with financial as well as political success. He brings back quite a large sum of money, the result of voluntary contributions in Peru. It is understood that Cardenas will be sent on a special mission to Europe.

HAVANA, March 28.—Capt. Gen. Weyler has once more issued a proclamation. He proclaims that, in view of the fact that the insurgents avoid engagements with the troops and devote themselves entirely to acts of incendiarism, he has resolved to deal with them as incendiaries and bandits, applying the rules set forth in his former proclamation.

THE NILE EXPEDITION.

PARIS, March 26.—A semi-official note says that France will refuse to sanction England's use of the Egyptian reserve fund for the purpose of paying the expenses of the Dongola expedition unless precise pledges are given for the evacuation of Egypt.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 26.—The council of ministers addressed a message to the high commissioner of the porte in Egypt reproaching him for not having put a stop to the British Dongola expedition. The ministers also addressed an appeal to France and Russia requesting them to intervene to the end of regulating the position of Egypt, and Germany was also asked to use her good offices in the same direction. It is believed in well informed circles that the action of the porte in this matter was taken at the instance of Russia. The Turkish ambassador to Great Britain has been instructed to make representations to Lord Salisbury expressing the porte's idea in regard to the Egyptian situation.

CAIRO, March 27.—At the meeting of the Egyptian public debt commission held for the purpose of discussing the matter of granting the sum of £500,000 from the reserve fund to meet the expense of the expedition up the Nile valley, the Russian and French members of the commission lodged a protest against such action and withdrew from the meeting. The commission decided to advance from the reserve fund the sum of £500,000 asked by the government for the purpose of defraying the cost of the expedition. Of this amount £200,000 will be furnished immediately.

LONDON, March 28.—The Times correspondent at Cairo telegraphs that the sultan of Turkey lately demanded that the Egyptian government explain the object of the Soudan expedition. In reply the government stated that Egypt, in accord with Great Britain, intended to recover the territory lost by the revolt in the Soudan. The sultan has thus forced Egypt's hand by eliciting the admission that the ultimate object of the expedition is to rescue the Soudan from the Mahdists.

NEW YORK, March 28.—The World's special from St. Petersburg says: Salisbury's policy is coming to be looked upon here as a direct attack upon the Franco-Russian alliance. Some anxiety is being caused by the conviction now gaining ground that English diplomacy has proved more than a match for France.

Allison and Reed in Texas.

AUSTIN, March 27.—The Reed and Allison forces were in the majority in the state convention and controlled the organization. The delegates at large selected are divided, two being for Allison and two for Reed. A hand-to-hand fight was brought about by the efforts of the McKinley forces to capture the chair, but no one was dangerously hurt. Immediately after adjournment the McKinley delegates took possession of the hall and elected a solid delegation for McKinley.

Omaha's Curfew Ordinance Vetoed.

OMAHA, Neb., March 27.—Mayor Broatch has vetoed the Curfew ordinance. He claims that it would be a dead letter if passed and savors too much of the Connecticut blue laws. If the boys are disorderly on the streets the police have ample power under existing ordinances. Councilmen predict that it will be carried over his veto

Reed in Massachusetts.

BOSTON, March 28.—The republican state convention elected delegates to the St. Louis convention who are instructed to vote for Thomas B. Reed.

THE IOWA LAUNCHED.

The Vessel Christened By Miss Mary Lord Drake.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 30.—The "Iowa," the fourth and last of the first-class battleships authorized by congress several years ago, was launched at Cramp's shipyard at Kensington Saturday amid the enthusiastic cheers of over twenty thousand spectators. Among the guests was a large party from Washington headed by Secretary of the Navy Herbert, while Governor Drake headed the Iowa contingent. The vessel was christened by Miss Mary Lord Drake, daughter of the governor, and smoothly took the water from the ways. The Iowa, the keel of which was laid two and a half years ago, is the fourth battleship to be owned by the United States. She has been constructed for sea purposes, the first three built, the Indiana, Massachusetts, and Oregon, being coast battleships. The vessel cost about $4,000,000. She will require a compliment of nearly five hundred men. Her battery is to consist of four 12-inch, eight 8-inch and six 4-inch breech-loading rifles, twenty 6-pounders, four 1-pounders, four gatlings and one field gun. Gov. Drake, Secretary McFarland, State Auditor McCarthy, State Treasurer Herriott, Senators Allison and Gear, the Iowa delegation in congress, the governor's staff and many other Iowans of prominence were in attendance.

Small Pox in Indian Territory.

INDEPENDENCE, Kas., March 29.—Traveling men and persons who have come up through the Indian Territory within the last few days report that the people are greatly aroused over the spread of small pox, which is raging in different parts of the territory, and that all the towns along the Missouri Pacific railroad, from Coffeyville to Fort Smith, Ark., are quarantined. No person is allowed to get on or off the trains, and business is at a standstill.

Minnesota Lands Open May 1.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The president has issued a proclamation opening the Red Lake Indian reservation in Minnesota to settlement. The date selected is May 1. The White Earth reservation will be opened by a proclamation to be issued later, though it was originally planned to issue the proclamations simultaneously. The two comprise about 1,000,000 acres and form a portion of the old Chippewa lands.

Riley Stricken.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 28.—James Whitcomb Riley was prostrated by an acute attack of brain fever. For several hours it was feared his illness would result fatally, but later reports show that the crisis has passed and that there is a reasonably fair chance of recovery.

Three Hundred Chinamen Killed.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—Three hundred Chinese were blown to atoms by the explosion of a magazine in the fort of Klang, China, according to the advices by the steamer Disaster. It was the work of mutinous soldiers.

China-Russian Treaty.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—A steamer from China brings the report that a secret treaty has been effected between Russia and China.

TERSE NEWS.

The delegates from South Dakota to the St. Louis convention were instructed to vote for McKinley for president.

A gas explosion in the Adrian mine at Punxsatawney, Pa., caused the death of four men. Others were injured.

It is believed Russia is working secretly against Great Britain in an effort to incite Moslem fanaticism against England's advance up the Nile.

The republican state convention of New York endorsed Governor Levi P. Morton for the republican presidential candidacy and selected Thomas C. Platt, Chauncey M. Depew, Warner Miller and Edward Lauterbach as delegates at large to the St. Louis convention.

Chicago dispatch: Starvation is more than a figure of speech just now in the Seventh, Eighth and Nineteenth wards. Even in the headquarters of the striking sweat-shop workers, where the famished unmarried men congregate, nothing better than dry bread and weak coffee was to be had yesterday, and very little of them. The manufacturers have refused again to arbitrate. One of the leaders, commenting upon this fact, said: "That means they will try to starve us into submission. Well, let them do it. We have little to regret. If they do not starve us idle they will starve us working unless we win our minimum wage. We have determined to win this fight or starve—and we are so near starvation now that no one can say that we are making idle threats. They may starve us, but they shall not enslave us again under the old slavery." His statement describes the situation. It is starvation in either case, at the scale of wages on which the men struck.

BOERS PREPARING FOR WAR.

Burghers Arming Themselves With Strong Fortifications.

NEW YORK, March 26.—A dispatch to the World from Capetown, South Africa, says: The Transvaal is being fortified; the burghers are arming to the teeth, and other warlike preparations are being made. Eight forts are being built at Pretoria, the capital. Hostility to Great Britain is openly and freely expressed at Pretoria. Emissaries have been sent to the Orange Free State and to Cape Colony, it is reported, to stir up race feeling. Germany, Austria and France, it is said here, will guarantee the independence of the Transvaal if necessary. President Krueger will not go to England after all, the volksraad (legislature) refusing to grant him permission to go. This action has caused consternation on the Rand. The Star, in a leader, speaks of it as "tricking the English government."

GOVERNOR ALTGELD INDICTED.

He and Trustees University of Illinois Did Not Display the Flag.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 27.—Governor John P. Altgeld and the entire board of trustees of the University of Illinois have been indicted by the Champaign county grand jury for alleged neglect or refusal to comply with the law requiring the American flag to be displayed over the university buildings. The flag has been displayed from the flag pole in front of the military hall, but not from the separate buildings.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 29.—The Champaign county grand jury which indicted John P. Altgeld, governor of the state of Illinois, and the other members of the board of trustees of Illinois University for non-compliance with the state law requiring the United States flag to be floated over all public school buildings, also brought in indictments against Rev. Father Wagner, pastor of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, and Rev. Father Verhahn, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran church, for failure to comply with the law in not maintaining the United States flag over their respective parochial schools.

MAY BE A FAKE.

Story That Harrison Might Accept If Nominated.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 28.—One of General Harrison's most influential adherents among the Indiana politicians is authority for the statement of much significance just now in the political world. Anent Harrison's being a receptive candidate, he said that a letter had been written to the general recently by leading republicans of Indiana asking him if he would accept in case the convention nominated him. In reply to this letter General Harrison is said to have remarked that "being drafted and volunteering are two different matters." The inference is that he would accept the nomination.

England Has Purchased Delagoa Bay.

LONDON, March 28.—The Chronicle publishes a report that Great Britain has purchased Delagoa bay, East Africa, from the Portuguese. The price paid, according to the report, was £5,000,000. The purchase includes the whole country between the South African republic and the South Indian ocean, from Amatongalaland to the Limpopo river, as far as the territory of the British South Africa company.

LONDON, March 29.—Mr. Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, announced to the house of commons that there was not an atom of foundation for the reports of the purchase by Great Britain of Delagoa bay and an adjoining strip of territory.

Massacre in Africa.

CAPE TOWN, March 28.—Information has been received here that the Matabeles of the Inseza and Filabusti districts have revolted and murdered many white settlers there. Large numbers of whites are flocking to Buluwayo for protection.

IOWA PATENT OFFICE REPORT.

DES MOINES, March 25.—Patents have been allowed, but not yet issued, as follows: To M. Macy, of Adel, Iowa, for a gauge for flouring mill rollers. The device is very simple, strong and durable and well adapted to show whether or not the rollers are trammed or parallel while in motion. Rollers are often parallel when stationary and yet out of tram when rotating, and the device for detecting such defect is very important in milling. To C. F. Murray, of Des Moines, a practical railroad man, for a block signal system that will operate automatically to protect a train in front and rear when going in either direction. It is designed to be used at stations and on dangerous curves, etc., and is positively actuated by the passing trains. Six United States patents were issued to Iowa inventors on the 17th. Printed copies of the drawings and specifications of any one patent sent to any address for 25 cents. Valuable information for inventors about securing, valuing and selling patents sent free.

THOMAS G. AND J. RALPH ORWIG,
Solicitors of Patents.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—After a fruitless effort to secure a vote on the Cuban resolution, it was, on motion of Sherman, recommitted to conference. During the day Mills offered a resolution directing the president to request Spain to grant home rule to Cuba, and if Spain refuses the president is directed to take possession of the island by force of arms and hold it until the Cubans can organize a government which will be recognized by the powers.

HOUSE.

The house spent the day in consideration of District of Columbia business.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The resolution offered by Senator Hoar was adopted, requesting the president to transmit to the senate all the dispatches, correspondence, etc., from November 1875 to 1878, concerning the pacification in the then pending conflict in Cuba. Mills spoke in behalf of his resolution to take forcible possession of the island of Cuba in order to aid the Cubans. Morgan also presented evidence that a state of war exists in Cuba and at the end of his remarks the Mills resolution went to the calendar. The senate then resumed consideration of the legislative appropriation bill, and it was almost completed when senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

Bill to abolish death penalty in certain cases in District of Columbia passed. Bill also was passed to make the sales of spirituous liquors under a false brand punishable by fine and imprisonment. Senator Hill's bill to remove the restrictions against the appointment, as officers of the army or navy, of persons who held commissions in the regular army or navy before the rebellion, and who subsequently took part in the war on the side of the confederacy, after two hours' debate, passed with one dissenting vote, Boutelle of Maine. A bill called up by the judiciary committee was passed as follows: To make railroad corporations, for the purpose of jurisdiction, citizens of the states through which they pass, and to make it unlawful to shoot or throw any missile at a locomotive or car engaged in interstate commerce.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Platt introduced a resolution for adjournment on May 2. Most of the day was spent in consideration of the legislative appropriation bill, which is not yet completed.

HOUSE.

House took up the naval appropriation bill, which carries $31,611,034 ($2,468,438 more than the current law) and authorizes four new battleships and fifteen torpedo boats, the cost of which, complete, will be almost $35,000,000. Good progress was made on the bill.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The senate spent most of the day on the legislative appropriation bill, but did not complete it, owing to Mr. Sherman's motion to strike out the proposition for the change from fees to salaries for United States district attorneys and marshals. The subject was debated at length, and will be voted on tomorrow. A joint resolution was adopted allowing ex-President Harrison to accept decorations from Brazil and Spain. A joint resolution was passed providing for the appointment of a commission under the direction of the secretary of war for the preliminary survey with plans, specifications and approximate estimates of cost thereof, for the construction of a ship canal of approved width and depth, from the lower shore of Lake Michigan to the Wabash river, and for the further investigation of the practicability of the construction of such waterway. Bill admitting Arizona to statehood was reported favorably.

HOUSE.

The naval appropriation bill was passed to-day. It carries $31,611,034 and authorizes the construction of four battleships and fifteen torpedo boats, the total cost of which will be in the neighborhood of $35,000,000. Mr. Heatwole (Rep., Minn.) introduced a resolution providing for a non-partisan commission consisting of nine experts in political economy and banking for aiding congress in the deliberations of the banking and currency matters.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—After a day's work the senate passed the legislative appropriation bill, carrying $21,500,000. Aside from providing the usual appropriations, the bill is important in effecting a reform of the system of compensation for United States district attorneys and marshals, salaries being substituted for fees. The senate adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE.

The appropriations committee wanted to bring up the sundry civil appropriation bill to-day, but the southern members, who wanted to take up the war claims, defeated the attempt. Then the republicans retaliated by forcing a motion to pass over all claims on the calendar. Southern members filibustered against the pension bills and as a result nothing of importance was accomplished. Adjourned till Monday.

Can Photograph the Body.

CLEVELAND, March 27.—Prof. D. C. Miller, of the Case School of Applied Sciences, succeeded in obtaining a photograph of his own ribs and backbone by means of the Roentgen rays. The exposure lasted an hour, the professor lying face downward on a photographic plate, 8 by 12 inches, without divesting himself of his clothing, the Crookes tubes being suspended over his back. A clear print, showing all the bones of the chest and back, was obtained.

Pres. Hippolyte Is Dead.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Secretary Olney has received a cablegram from United States Minister Henry Smythe at Port Au Prince, Hayti, announcing the death of President Hippolyte. No particulars are given.

That

Extreme tired feeling afflicts nearly everybody at this season. The hustlers cease to push, the tireless grow weary, the energetic become enervated. You know just what we mean. Some men and women endeavor temporarily to overcome that

Tired

Feeling by great force of will. But this is unsafe, as it pulls powerfully upon the nervous system, which will not long stand such strain. Too many people "work on their nerves," and the result is seen in unfortunate wrecks marked "nervous prostration," in every direction. That tired

Feel-

ing is a positive proof of thin, weak, impure blood; for, if the blood is rich, red, vitalized and vigorous, it imparts life and energy to every nerve, organ and tissue of the body. The necessity of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for that tired feeling is, therefore, apparent to every one, and the good it will do you is equally beyond question. Remember that

Hood's
Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are easy to take, easy to operate. 25 cents.

Home-seekers
Excursions'

Burlington Route

April 7, April 21, May 5.

To the South and West—Arizona, Arkansas, Texas, NEBRASKA, Kansas, etc.

Call at the local ticket office and get full information about rates, stop-over privileges, return limits, and territory to which reduction will apply. Or, better still, write to J. FRANCIS, G. P. A., Burlington Route, Omaha, Neb.

P. S. The crop of 1896 is going to be the biggest Nebraska ever had. No question about it. Not in ten years have conditions been so favorable. Better figure on getting hold of a good quarter section before prices advance.

CUT AND SLASH
SMOKING TOBACCO,
2 oz. for 5 Cents.
CUT AND SLASH
CHEROOTS—3 for 5 Cents.
Give a Good, Mellow, Healthy, Pleasant Smoke. Try Them.
LYON & CO. TOBACCO WORKS, Durham, N. C.

SIX BICYCLES TO BE GIVEN AWAY

(THE NORMANDY BICYCLE.)
On a word contest. Send a 2-cent stamp for conditions.
FREE. :: SIX BICYCLES. :: FREE.
Agents Wanted in every town in Iowa. Write for terms.
NORMAN LICHTY, The Druggist,
State Agent for Iowa. Des Moines.

$12 A DAY TO SALESMEN
WANTED BRIGHT SALESMEN to introduce Dr. T. DE WITT TALMAGE'S latest, greatest, most famous book,
"THE EARTH GIRDLED."
Samoa, Hawaii, the South Seas, Australia, India, Egypt, Palestine, Europe and all their wonders. Thrilling experiences among savages, cannibals and wild races. Amazing heathen superstitions, startling revelations. 400 original photographs of curious races and strange places. No capital or experience required, exclusive territory. Extraordinary inducements and illustrated circulars free. Be quick. Address, TALMAGE, Box 649, Cincinnati, O.

WHAT IS ALABASTINE?
A pure, permanent and artistic wall-coating ready for the brush by mixing in cold water.
FOR SALE BY PAINT DEALERS EVERYWHERE.
FREE { A Tint Card showing 12 desirable tints, also Alabastine Souvenir Rock sent free to any one mentioning this paper
ALABASTINE CO. Grand Rapids. Mich.

$25.00 IN GOLD
Given to party who sends us the largest number of words, using only our firm name, with order for one lot of ten packages of our CHOICE FLOWER SEEDS on receipt of 25c, or five lots for $1.00. This is a special inducement to place our 1896 varieties in every home at less than cost. Send money order or stamps.
(Preserve this as it will not appear again.)
CHICAGO FLOWER SEED CO., 78 Monroe St., Chicago.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

DEFENSES OF ANIMALS.

Cuttle fish possess an ink bag from which a dark fluid may be ejected into the water, effectually concealing them from pursuers.

It is well known that some caterpillars are so nauseous to the taste that birds will not eat them. These same caterpillars are large and handsomely colored.

The porcupine and the hedgehog are well provided for. The porcupine has some of the hairs of its body lengthened into sharp quills which do not stand erect but at a slope. It charges its enemy backwards. The hedgehog is robed in sharp defensive armor from nose to tail and at a suspicion of danger will roll itself up into a ball, which no dog cares to attack. If water is poured on it it will uncoil.

Any one who has handled a hawk knows how well the beak and claws can work. Even the English sparrow will bite and scratch in an incredible way.

The swan uses its bill for defense simply by hissing. But its wing is unequaled among birds. A blow from it will kill a dog and it is said that a single stroke will break a man's arm.

Ostriches have powerful beaks with which they can deliver deathly blows, but their chief defense is their kick. An ostrich's kick is nearly as bad as a mule's.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, Lucas County—ss.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of One Hundred Dollars for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure. FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886. A. W. GLEASON, (Seal.) Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists; 75c.

A Good Housewife.

Frau A—Frau Neumann is an extremely tidy sort of person, don't you think?

Frau B—I should think she was! The other day a burglar got into her house, and the first thing she did was to ask the man if he had wiped his feet on the mat.

Following Precedents.

Higbee—You women have a queer idea of a debating club. When I looked in last night you were all talking at once.

Mrs. H.—We conduct our club on congressional lines, Henry.

I believe Piso's Cure is the only medicine that will cure consumption.—Anna M. Ross, Williamsport, Pa., Nov. 12, 1895.

An enterprising clergyman in Toronto recently advertised a Sunday service in this attractive fashion: "Evening service subject, 'Woman.' Come and worship." □

Iowa farms for sale on crop payments, 10 per cent cash, balance ½ crop yearly, until paid for. J. MULHALL, Waukegan, Ill.

"Drop all of transiency
Whatever be its claim,
Ourselves to immorta ize,
That is our aim."

Coe's Cough Balsam
is the oldest and best. It will break up a Cold quicker than anything else. It is always reliable. Try it.

Thirty years ago there were only two dozen explosive compounds known to chemists; now there are over a thousand.

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Aliceton, Wis., is the only town in the United States without one female inhabitant.

"A Cup of Parks' Tea at night moves the bowels in the morning."

According to the Journal of Anthropology, there are 2,750 dialects and languages known.

It is so easy to remove Corns with Hindercorns that we wonder so many will endure them. Get Hindercorns and see how nicely it takes them off.

The Louisana Supreme Court has decided that the Sunday liquor law applies to social clubs.

There is pleasure and profit and no small satisfaction in abating troublesome and painful ills by using Parker's Ginger Tonic.

Much admired—"Your daughter has had a great many admirers." "Oh, yes; she puts nearly all her window curtains on the rods with her old engagement rings."

Advertisement in a Cleveland paper: "Wanted—Cooking in private family, where second girl is kept without washing. Address box 143."

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

---

Fire Apparatus, Engines and Hand Extinguishers. Town and farm agents wanted. Write for circulars. Chemical Fire Engine Co., 903 Walnut St., Des Moines, Iowa.

THE DWARF IN HISTORY.

In 1828 the Tennessee newspapers reported the discovery of a burial ground, the skeletons of which attained the maximum height of nineteen inches. Great excitement prevailed but history fails to prove anything that would startle science.

Herodotus vouched for the existence of pygmies but he was not believed. Aristotle thought that tiny men and minute horses lived in caves along the Nile. But even when Pliny gave details and Maundeville added testimony no one would believe them.

In Rome dwarfs were so popular as freaks that the people tried to manufacture them. A receipt for dwarfing consisted of a salve made of the grease of moles, bats and dormice. It is commonly believed nowadays that alcoholic drinks will hinder the growth of children and puppies.

Philetas of Cos was one of the earliest dwarfs who attained fame. He was a poet and the tutor of Ptolemy Philadelphus. He was said to carry weights in his pockets to keep himself from being blown away.

Nicephoros Calistus speaks of an Egyptian dwarf no bigger than a partridge. Mark Antony owned Sisyphus, who is reported to have been less than twenty-four inches high. Julia, the niece of Augustus, had two dwarfs to wait on her. They were named Coropas and Andromeeda and each was two feet four inches high, or a little taller than the Aztec dwarfs who were exhibited and married in London about thirty years ago.

In the seventeenth century the empress of Austria gathered all the dwarfs and all the giants together at Vienna. Great fear was felt lest the giants should injure the pygmies, as they were all housed together. But, on the contrary, the little people teased, robbed and insulted the giants till they begged to be protected by sentinels.

A Spring Trip South.

On April 7 and 21, and May 5, tickets will be sold from principal cities, towns and villages of the north, to all points on the Louisville & Nashville railroad in Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida and a portion of Kentucky, at one single fare for the round trip. Tickets will be good to return within twenty-one days, on payment of $2 to agent at destination, and will allow stop-over at any point on the south-bound trip. Ask your ticket agent about it, and if he cannot sell you excursion tickets write to C. P. Atmore, General Passenger Agent, Louisville, Ky., or Geo. B. Horner, D. P. A., St. Louis, Mo.

Precious Metals.

The great mining camps of Cripple Creek, Colo., and Mercur, Utah, as well as those of Wyoming, Idaho and Montana, are best reached via the UNION PACIFIC.

The fast time and through car service on "The Overland Route" are features appreciated by all. For information regarding the above camps address your nearest agent, or E. L. LOMAX,
Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agent, Omaha, Neb.

Would Be Good for Hats.

"Mother," said little Nellie one day, her brows puckered over her thoughtful brown eyes, "can people kill baby angels?"

"Why, no, darling," was the reply. "What makes you ask?"

"'Cause mother," explained Nell, "I was wondering if there wings would do for bonnets."

Prescience.

She stood before the glass gazing earnestly. "Really," she said, "I do believe I have a mustache coming."

And yet she seemed rather pleased than otherwise.

In another moment the young man she had seen through the window had entered the room, bringing his mustache with him.

Unwarranted Inference.

"Dear me," exclaimed the new arrival in Hades, "why here comes the shades of people who I know to have been truly good. Well, I never."

"That party," calmly explained the old settler, "doesn't belong here. It is merely making a slumming tour."

About the Same Thing.

Husband.—I see a Denver theatrical manager has turned his house into a resort for men only.

Wife—The very idea!

Husband—At least, it looks so. He has ruled out all women with tall hats.

It is now customary to copper-face the bottoms of ships by the galvanic process, as a protection against decay.

"The Gurgelhausens are a very old family, I believe." "Oh, yes; their debts date back to the crusades."

Mrs. Greene declares that her husband is just like a fire. When he goes out, there's no knowing where he goes to.

Electric heating, under the most favorable conditions is twice as expensive as that of steam.

There are now in the United States 3,706 National banks.

A WORD TO MOTHERS.

An Opportunity for Reflection After Reading Implied Advice.

"How many girls we meet to-day between the ages of 13 and 17 who are going out in company without either father or mother accompanying them," begins a conversation reported in the Philadelphia Press. "Either they go out alone or with a young girl or young man as easily influenced as themselves. These young people have an idea that their parents are growing old and are of a different generation from themselves, therefore they neither understand nor sympathize with them, so they seek suggestions from those who they think will coincide with their views and with the times generally. How differently the daughter feels toward the wise mother who has made of her a friend and companion from childhood. Bound up in the love and influence and confidence of such a mother, there will be no question concerning the useful womanhood of such a daughter."

"But sometimes," I interrupted, "one sees daughters that are far superior in moral character to their mothers."

"There are instances, of course, where the daughter would be better off had the mother no influence whatever over her," was her answer.

"It is shameful that such a state of affairs should exist, and yet it is true. The mother seems as greatly pleased over the daughter's success in 'catching new beaux' as other mothers feel when their daughters receive prizes for efficient work in school. They proudly exhibit the packet of love letters the daughter has received in one week, and we have only to look out upon the street of any town, from twilight until 9 to 10 o'clock in the evening, to see the result of such training. Young girls dressed in their best are noticed walking up and down the streets, endeavoring to attract attention, or chatting with some youth upon a street corner. These are somebody's daughters. Are they yours? Perhaps some mothers will ask: 'What harm, so long as there are other girls with her?' But who are the other girls and what is their influence over your daughter? Do you suppose these girls are the confidential companions of their mothers, or that they repeat to them one-half the conversation which passes between them and their street friends?

"If you have not previously secured your daughter's confidence, however, be sure it will not be given you then, for their timidity and bashfulness will be far greater at that time than ever before. If she does not go to you she gathers a little information from one young friend, a little more from another, and very likely none of it correct and much of it harmful.

"The complaint of the paragraph, I think, is just. Women should make every effort to be their daughters' confidantes—yes, and their sons', too."

Honor Well Placed.

Miss Emma C. Sickles, who achieved considerable reputation for the part she played in connection with the uprising of the Indians at Pine Ridge agency in 1890, has just received a notification that she has been awarded a gold medal by a society in Paris, France, whose motto is: "To Save or to Perish." Miss Sickles was in 1886 a teacher in the Indian school at Pine Ridge agency and was well acquainted with all the Indians. When the uprising at the agency occurred in 1890 she volunteered her services to the war department. Secretary Proctor and Gen. Schofield sanctioned her enterprise. She managed at great personal risk to get into the camp of the hostile Indians, and although the massacre of Wounded Knee took place she has always maintained that by giving Gen. Miles timely information of the intentions subsequent to that she averted a wholesale slaughter at the agency.—Detroit Free Press.

Hit Him All Right.

A young woman from out of town went to tea among the literary set last week. She was introduced to a whole roomful of people, and afterward she went about trying to call everybody by his right and proper name—she rather prides herself on that sort of thing, you know. She remembered an amazing number of names, but when she came to one distinguished looking man she paused in despair. "I know everybody else's name," she said, "but when I try to remember yours I am completely at sea." "Then you're not far wrong," said the distiguished looking man. "My name is Atwater."—Washington Post.

Times Have Changed.

A Maine paper notes as evidence of the change that has come over methods and men that whereas in old times the paymaster on the Kennebec ice fields never used anything but cash and brotherly love in making payments, he now keeps a loaded revolver on his pay table as a precaution against the possibility of bold thieves trying to snatch his pile of greenbacks.

Boston's Free Books.

Boston is not sorry that it has built the finest public library in the United States. The attendance in a single day sometimes reaches 5,000 persons.

His New Method.

"George," she said as she looked up from her paper; "you were always telling me before marriage how much you loved me!"

"Yes."

"And now you never mention it."

"No."

"Is it because—because——?"

"It's because I put it down in the cash book now instead of telling you!"

Unnecessary Courtesy.

Teacher—Now, Willie, suppose you were to hand a playmate your last apple to take a portion of it, wouldn't you tell him to take the larger piece?

Willie—No, mom!

"You wouldn't! Why?

"Cos 'twouldn't be necessary."

An Idle Scavenger.

The bowels act the part of a scavenger, inasmuch as they remove much of the debris, the waste effete matter of the system. When they grow idle, neglectful of duty, it is of the utmost importance that they should be impelled to activity. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters effects this desirable object without griping them like a drastic purgative. The Bitters is also efficacious for malaria, bilious, dyspeptic and kidney trouble.

A pelican's pouch is large enough to contain seven or eight quarts of water.

When Traveling,

Whether on pleasure bent, or business, take on every trip a bottle of Syrup of Figs, as it acts most pleasantly and effectually on the kidneys, liver, and bowels, preventing fevers, headaches, and other forms of sickness. For sale in 50 cent and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company only.

Great Britain's territory in Africa amounts to 2,570,000 square miles.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth,
Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.

Orange growing has become an important industry in Arizona.

Poets Break Out...

in the Springtime. And a great many who are not poets, pay tribute to the season in the same way. The difference is that the poet breaks out in about the same spot annually, while more prosaic people break out in various parts of the body. It's natural. Spring is the breaking-out season. It is the time when impurities of the blood work to the surface. It is the time, therefore, to take the purest and most powerful blood purifier,

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

CRIPPLE CREEK Write for what you want to THE MECHEM INVESTMENT CO., Mining Exchange, Denver, Colo.

W. N. U. D. M.--1238 NO. 14

When answering advertisements kindly mention this paper.

Such ills as SORENESS, STIFFNESS, and the like,

ST. JACOBS OIL WIPES OUT Promptly and Effectually.

Off for a Six Months' Trip.

BattleAx PLUG

When you spend a dime for "Battle Ax" Plug, you get 5⅓ ounces. When you spend the same amount for any other good tobacco, you get 3⅕ ounces, or for 5 cents you get almost as much "Battle Ax" as you do of other high grade brands for 10 cents.

BLOOD POISON A SPECIALTY

Poison permanently cured in 15 to 35 days. You can be treated at home for the same price under same guaranty. If you prefer to come here we will contract to pay railroad fare and hotel bills, and no charge, if we fail to cure. If you have taken mercury, still have aches and pains, mouth, Sore Throat, Pimples, Copper Colored Spots, Ulcers on any part of the body. Hair or Eyebrows falling out, it is this BLOOD POISON that we guarantee to cure. We solicit the most obstinate cases and challenge the world for a case we cannot cure. This disease has always baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians. $500,000 capital behind our unconditional guaranty. Absolute proofs sent sealed on application.

Address COOK REMEDY CO., 307 Masonic Temple, CHICAGO, ILL. COOK REMEDY CO.

CINCO-CAPCI will cure the any form, TOBACCO HABIT, in 3 to 15 days, or money refunded. CINCO-CAPCI is the only combination of pure concentrated drugs which is a true antidote for the poisons retained in the system from the use of TOBACCO. It leaves the patient in better health than before taking, and is absolutely free from any injurious effects. CINCO-CAPCI is easy and pleasant to take. It allows the patient to use all the Tobacco he wants while under treatment. The "craving" and "hankering" will disappear as if by magic. Thousands throughout this broad land bless the day they heard of CINCO-CAPCI. Do you smoke or chew Tobacco? Do you find it difficult or impossible to stop? CINCO-CAPCI cures cigar and pipe smoking, chewing and snuff taking, and also the deadly cigarette habit. Medicine in tablet form, easily carried in the pocket. ONE BOTTLE CURES. PRICE, $2.00

Address SEABURY & CO., at Chicago, Ill., or Boston, Mass.

It's Pure

Walter Baker & Co.'s Cocoa is Pure—it's all Cocoa—no filling—no chemicals.

WALTER BAKER & CO., Ltd., Dorchester, Mass.

Wall Paper
and
All kinds of
Painting material
Cheap at
HARR'S.

J. H. QUEAL & CO.

Always Lead
In The Best Of Grades At The Lowest Prices
ON

LUMBER, LATH,
Posts, Sash, DOORS
SHINGLES ETC.

Ca l and see us for anything in our line and be convinced of the above facts.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.

SPRING GOODS!

Our Spring goods have arrived consisting of

—BLACK, WHITE and FIGURED—

LAWNS

Light Colored CALICOS, MUSLINS,
GAUZE UNDERWEAR ETC.

We also have a large line of HATS, CAPS and SHOES.
Butter and Eggs Wanted.

SHAFER & DOW.

GEO KLUCKHOHN,
The Restaurant Man!

Serves the Public with

A Square Meal, Fine Bread
Buns, Oysters, Cigars,
Tobaccos, etc.

WHEN IN TOWN CALL AND SEE HIM.

KLEMME, - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

ALEX. KIRKWOOD,

....PROPRIETOR OF....

KIRKWOOD :-: HOUSE,

FIRST CLASS ACCOMMADATION. - RATES $1.00 per Day.

Livery and Feed Stable in Connection

Rigs Furnished on Short Notice.

KLEMME, IOWA.

Locals.

Wind? Just a few.

Come out to the Easter services at the church, sunday at 10:30 a. m.

The wind Thursday, unroofed a portion of Bloom's crib breaking down the telegraph wire from the creamery to the depot.

W. H. Eiseman and Fred Arnold are attending banking business ltke old timers during Knapps absence.

Jake Baum's team started out for a run the other morning, but were stopped before any damage was done.

Program.

The following program was carried out by the Germantown Literary Society, at the open meeting on Thursday evening, March 26.

Roll Call

Reading of minutes.....by Secretary.
Song.....by Society.
Declamation...Miss Gladys Schmalle.
Query Box.....H. C. Lau.
Declamation.....Miss Lizzie Martin.
Comic Song.....A. C. Schuldt.
Recitation.....C. L. Blumer.
Declamation.....H. Stroemer

Duett.

Esther Schaefer.....Bertha Lemke
Declamation.....G. I. Schaper.
,, ...Miss Ella Thomas.

Quartett.

C. C. Schafer — Miss Esther Schafer.
H. Beier — G. I. Schaefer.
Recitation.....Miss Francis Lau.
,, ...O. G. Gast.
Declamation.....J. J. Suckow.

Recess.

Question for debate:—RESOLVED that the proper way to introduce temperance is by prohibiting legislation.

Aff.	Neg.
A. C. Schuldt	G. I. Schaper
J. J. Stille	H. Stroemer

Decision of Judges Aff.1, Neg.2.
Declamation.....Aug. Schaper.
Dialogue, C. L. Blumer, O. G, Gast, J. T. Huckle, Darkey Song.....A. C. Schuldt.
Collection:—$1,33.

Many thanks to the liberal contributors.

G. I. Schaper, Pres.
Gladys Schmalle, Sec.

SCHOOL NOTES.

We have an enrollment of 58.

The number of tardies for the three weeks of the spring term are two.

Some of the pupils in room II have made arrangments to remain in school during the entire term.

The absentees are still rather numerous on account of the prevailing sickness.

Look for the monthly report next time.

Thousands of people are looking Californiawards. They want to know where to go to raise fruit and how to travel cheaply and comfortably. For full answers to these questions address California Bureau of Information, Box, 572 Cedar Rapids, Ia.

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons sbuject to attacks of bilious colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In many instances the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by J. L. HARR.

G. A. R. Fall In.

Iowa State Encampment at Cedar Rapids April 28th to 30th. ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP from all points in Iowa on the B., C.R. & N. Ry. the "Quick Step Route" to Cedar Rapids. Tickets sold April 27, 28 and 29, good to return until and including May 2nd. Call on B.. C. R & N. agents for further information. Ex. 4. 30.

An Affidav.it

This is to certify that on May 11th, I walked to Melick's drug store on a pair of crutches and bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm for inflamatory rheumatism which had crippled me up. After using three bottles I am completely cured. I can cheerfully recommend it.—Charles H. Wetzel, Sunbury, Pa.

Sworn and subscribed to before me on August 10, 1894.—Walter, Shipman J. P. For sale at 50 cents per bottle by J. L. HARR.

The first wood borer was the woodpecker, and so accurate is his work that the hole he bores in the tree is as exactly circular as though measured by a pair of compasses.

THE LEADING Implement DEALERS.
Mitchell & Lewis WAGONS,

Racine Buggies, John Deere Plows, J. I. Case Plows, Keystone Planters, Disc Cultivators.

Also a line of HARDWARE and

GROCERIES.

Call on us for prices.

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mouldings.

And everything used to build with.

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in the week.

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'GR.,
KLEMME, IOWA.

YOU HAVE IT!
Oats and Corn!
We Want It!

and will pay the Highest Market price to get it.

COAL!

We have it, You want it.

Hard, Soft, Illinois, and Smithing.

WALT. BLOOM, Klemme, Ia.

25 YEARS EXPERIENCE IN

BLACKSMITHING

Enables me to do your work in a workmanlike manner.

Plow Work a Specialty.

Also do wood repairing on Wagons and Buggies.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. KROUSE, KLEMME, IA.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, APRIL 10, 1896. NUMBER 33

Church Directory.

AMERICAN M. E. CHURCH.
Preaching Service, 10.30, a. m.
Sunday School, 11.30, " "
Epworth League, 7.30, p. m.
Every Sunday.
Prayer meeting, Thursday, 7.30 p.m.
Everyone most cordially invited.
CHARLES E. ANDERSON, Pastor.

GERMAN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School 9.30 a. m.
Preaching Service 10.30 " "
Evening Service — Preaching and Epworth League alternately—8.00 p.m,
Prayer meeting Wednesday 8.00 p.m.
Rev. G. HAEFNER, Pastor.

GERMANTOWN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School and Preaching alternately 9.30 and 10.30 a. m. and 2.00 and 3.00 p. m.
Epworth League 8.00 p. m. each Sunday. Rev. G. HAEFNER, Pastor.

REFORMED CHURCH.
Preaching Service ——
Rev. TREIKE, Pastor.

SEND YOUR ORDERS
FOR
ABSTRACTS
——of titles to——
J. S. Knauss, Abstracter.
Owner of Complete set,
Lands and Town Lots.
Titles Perfected. Promptness and Accuracy
GUARANTEED
GARNER, IOWA.

A. L. SPOONER.
Physician and Surgeon.
Office and residence on Main Street first door west of Bank.
Klemme, Iowa.

H. E. PEITZKE
IS THE BLACKSMITH
THAT
Will do your work well.
He also does wood work.
HIS
Prices are right,
AND
Experience great.
KLEMME, IOWA.

B. C. R. & N. TIME TABLE.

GOING SOUTH.

No. 84,	Stock - -	6.00 a. m.
No. 89.	Way freight -	1.30 p. m.
No. 82.	Pass. - -	2.28 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 83.	Way freight -	10.00 a. m.
No. 85.	Freight -	3.58 p. m.
No. 81.	Pass. - -	5.16 p. m.

F. B. SMITH,
Local Agt.

KLEMME - DRAY - LINE.
H. & S. NISSEN,
Proprietors.
Draying and teaming of all kinds done on short notice.
GIVE US A CALL.

Local Mention.

MRS. GEO. SCHAEFER was at Garner Monday.

Bring in your job work, we guarantee satisfaction.

H. E. Peitzke has ordered a new drill for heavy work.

Theo. Wesenberg was at Algona on busneess Wednesday.

Frank Lampson was in town Wednesday, between trains.

Mrs. A. B. Shafer was quite sick Tuesday but is better again.

Rev. Koemer Jr. of Dows is visiting a few days with relatives in Klemme.

Jacob Myers, from near Garner, was doing business in Klemme Monday.

Joe Fotherihgham has to make an extra trip quite often. He was down Saturday.

Miss Mamie Hubbard of Garner, came down Friday to see her sister, Miss Mattie.

Remember that we are prepared to get out sale bills on short notice. Give us a trial.

Lau Bro,s have just got in a carload of Milburn Wagons and Buggies. They are dandies.

N. L. Palmer was at Algona Monday. The wind blows for Nels, in that direction quite often.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

M.S. Gilman and J. Cline of Goodell, went to Armstrong Monday evening on a little land deal.

Mr. John Wesenberg left Tuesday for Popejoy, to spend several weeks with his son, O. F. Wesenberg.

Miss May Schneider returned to her home, Monday, after a very pleasant stay of a week with us.

Mr. Nolte of Sheffield, a nephew of H. Terhufen was visiting here Saturday and Sunday, driving back Sunday.

Aug. Lau's new dwelling house is fast nearing completion. Bettin & Remer are doing the work which insures a good job.

Miss Bernice Fell was down Saturday and Miss Lue Bowen returned with her to spend Sunday with friends at Garner.

A Fresh invoice of bulk seed incleuding Red and White Clover, Timothy, Blue Grass, Redtop, Millet and Garden Seeds at Grnetzmacher Bro's.

Mr. Walker from Decatur Co. will commence school in the Hamilton school April 13th. He taught a very successful term there last winter.

The directors of the creamery held their regular meeting last Saturday. The price for cream was 13cents. During the week 2140 lbs. of butter was made.

Saturday was a very busy day in Klemme. Our streets were lined with teams from morning until late at night and our business men were busy attending to customers.

A daily instalment of "Sons and Fathers," The CHICAGO RECORD'S great prize story, will do you more good than a daily dose of medicine—and it is far pleasanter to take.

Hanna Station, across the country to the west is booming. Two elevators, a two story hotel, two lumber yards now, with the promise of a brick and tile factory this summer.

Mr. H. N. MERRICK called at the TIMES office, MONDAY. We are glad to see him getting along so nicely and hope he will soon be able to walk without the assistance of crutches.

Albert Burk and John Hartfeller were out hunting last Friday when Burks gun exploded, damaging his left hand so badly that Doc. Goodenow who dressed it, thought it doubtful if the little finger could be saved.

The Easter services at the Am. M. E. church were carried out according to the program. The collection was $11.63. Miss Floy Shafer took the first prize, having collected $2.04. MISS Sarah Kluckhohn received the second prize, her collection being $1.90.

Additional Locals.

Henry Lau is having trouble with his eye.

Wm. Wesenberg has gone to Popejoy on business.

Bicycles repared on short notice at Shafer and Dow's.

Four good living rooms to rent. Inquire at Lau Bro's.

A. H. Wesenberg drove his big team to Popejoy, Saturday.

Heavy work harness from 24 to $28, all complete at Lau Bros.

C. Dillon is now running passenger train in Hogan's absence.

Two good buggies at cost, to make room for our new stock, at Lau Bro's.

Guy Lovell and Sam Schneider drove to Klemme Sunday afternoon.

H. E. Peitzke is having his chamber plastered. Geo. Gates is doing the work.

Those pattern hats in the show window at Miss Renziehausen's are beauties.

Jim Forrest and Curt Ripley rode down from Garner on their wheels, Saturday.

Doings of Congress and the State Legislature on the inside of this paper. Read them.

H. E. Peitzke had his fingures on his right hand mashed Saturday between two plows.

The Garner Laundry will call for and deliver your laundry, Tuesday and Friday of each week.

C. W. Hartfeller and wife are rejoicing over the arrival of a bright baby girl since March 28th.

Geo. Blank and family of Garner, drove down in the buss, Sunday, to see his brother's family here.

Mr. A. Snyder of Elgin Iowa, has located in Klemme and will work on section. He will occupy a portion of Reichard's house.

Wm. Shoemacher left for Independence Saturday in answer to a telegram stating his little daughter was dangerously ill.

Wanted.

1000 dozen eggs and 500 lbs butter in exchange for Wall Paper and Paints. Shafer & Dow.

Mart Lau has hunting down fine. He goes out on his wheel and if he can't shoot the game, he runs them down with his wheel.

Papering.—I am ready to do paperhanging in a first class manner and on short notice. All work guaranteed.
REV. C. NOLTE, Goodell, Ia.

The regular quarterly meeting of the German M. E. church will be held next Sunday. Preaching morning and evening by Presiding Elder, Rev. Koemer.

John Baumgartner went to Garner last Wednesday, to the birthday gathering of his grandmother Mrs. Grau. There were about 30 present and a very enjoyable time was had.

Mr. Lutterman of Popejoy, came up Monday and went north Tuesday. Mrs. Lutterman who has been visiting at the Wesenbergs, her brother, will follow in a few days. They will mako Algona their future home.

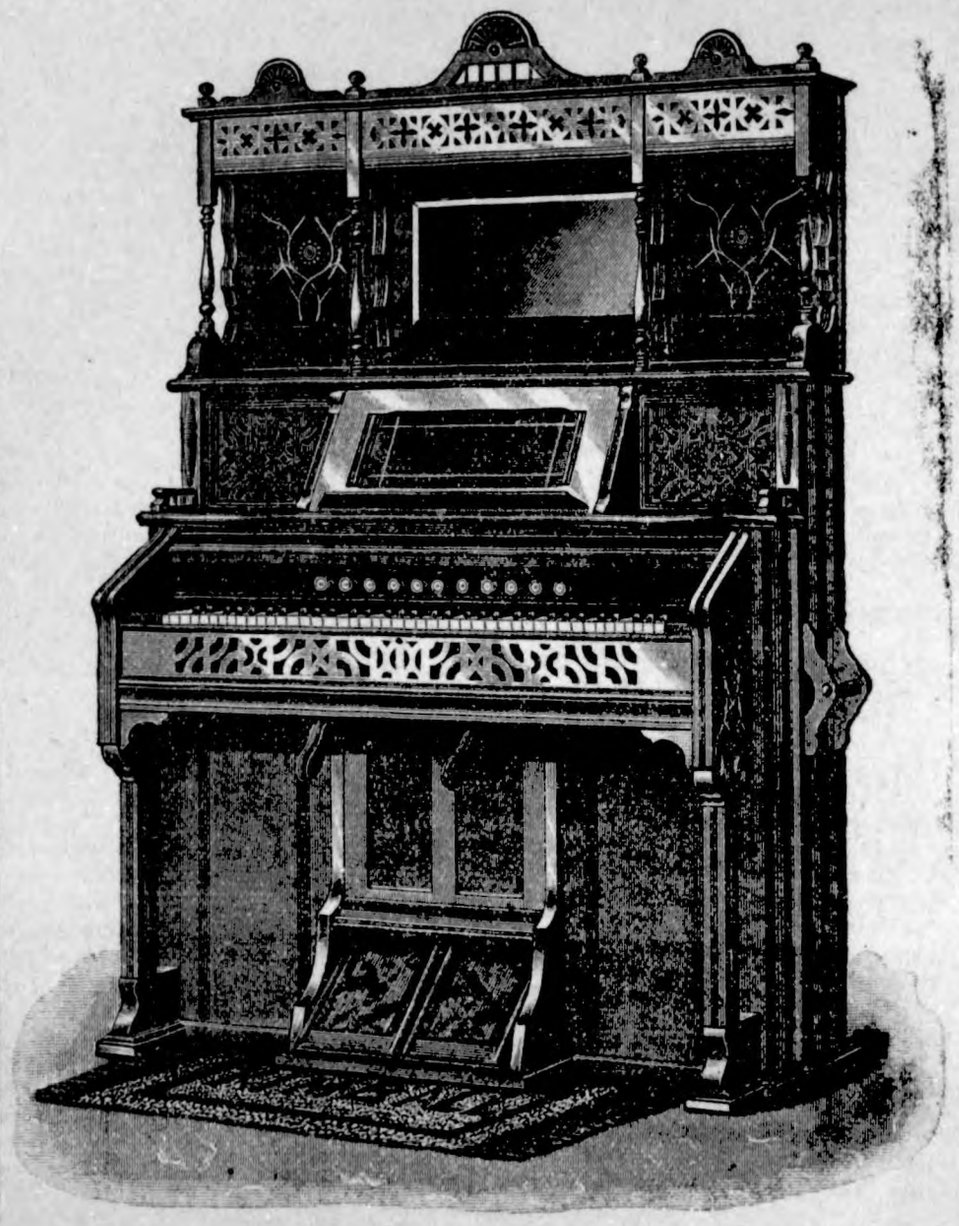
The Easter program at the German M. E. church was favorably received though a few good parts were left out on account of the speakers not being preparad. The juvenile choir did well, considering the amount of time spent in practice.

Mr. Joe Miller has returned to make his home among us. Mr. Miller is no dauber, but a first class painter, who has served 15 years at the business in the east, where they do the best kind of work. When in need of a painter he is the proper man to employ.

The CHICAGO RECORD'S $10,000 prize story, "Sons and Fathers," began publication in that paper on Monday, March 23. New subscribers, whose subscriptions may be received later than that date, will be able to get the story from the beginning by simply indicating their desire to have the ealier installments furnished them.

It is a truth so I've been Told
That farmers, young and Old
Come 20 miles in the Cold
To buy a Harness that is Sold
At $24
at
LAU BROS.

We carry a fine line of
DRY GOODS and GRCERIES
Boots, Shoes, and Hardware.
We are in the market for large deals in
MACHINERY.



E. P. Schaefer is agent of Hancock County for the celebrated KIMBALL
ORGANS AND PIANOS.
They are sold very reasonable and on easy terms.

IN THE LEGISLATURE

SENATE.

DES MOINES, March 30.—Consideration of the bill regulating the purchase of material, articles and supplies for state institutions was resumed and it was finally passed. Bill providing for an additional board of commissioners of insanity in counties which have two county seats passed. Trewin's bill for protection of fish came up and failed to receive a constitutional majority. House bill to amend the code in relation to care of insane was substituted for senate bill on same subject and was then passed.

At the afternoon session bills recommended for postponement were taken up, and fourteen were indefinitely postponed. Cheshire's bill raising the present fine and punishment for the importation, printing, publishing, selling and distribution of obscene books and pictures passed. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Bill to amend code so that railroads may carry the militia of the state and ministers of the gospel at reduced rates without violating the law passed. Bill to quiet title to Lake Peosta in the city of Dubuque was returned by senate with a verbal amendment, which was concurred in by the house and the bill passed. Pharmacy committee's bill providing that the board of pharmacy shall elect its secretary and treasurer, who shall not be a member of said board; that the said officer's bond shall be $10,000, and his salary $1,000 a year, and that he shall turn over to the state treasurer the receipts of his office once a month, was passed. Bill passed providing that hospitals for the insane may draw their appropriations on the first day of the quarter instead of the last. Bill authorizing cities acting under special charters to dedicate parks, public squares or plats of ground for free public library purposes passed.

In the afternoon these bills passed: To exempt crematories from taxation; to amend code relative to drainage; reducing the tax levy for ditching purposes from 5 to 3 mills: to prevent the manufacture and sale of adulterated food and drugs; to amend code relative to publication of statements by banks. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, March 31.—Carroll introduced a bill to amend the laws and prohibit the sale and use of impure oil in coal mines. It was passed by a unanimous vote. Trewin called up Waterman's resolution fixing the time of adjournment on April 9. A warm debate followed, participated in by Waterman, Trewin, Cheshire, Carney, Junkin, Berry, Rowen, Carpenter, Funk, Druet, Ellis, Henderson, Kilburn, Mitchell and others. Berry offered an amendment providing for an extra session beginning the third Tuesday of April, 1896. A motion to postpone consideration of the resolution until Friday carried, 36 to 10. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Cornwall's bill relative to permanent survey of land and the establishment of corners passed. Lauder's bill relating to the evidence of value, proofs and the action in certain cases on policies of fire insurance passsd. Senate bill to prohibit use of impure oil in coal mines passed. Allen's bill giving the labor commissioner an assistant at $1,000 and authority to compel witnesses to give information necessary to work of his office passed.

In the afternoon the bill to repeal acts of Twenty-third general assembly relative to compensation of justices of the peace and peace officers and enact a substitute therefor passed. Bill to amend code relative to marshals in incorporated towns passed. Bill to provide for taxation of fire insurance companies was indefinitely postponed. Bill to amend code relative to embezzlement by public officers passed. Bill relative to sale of property by carriers for charges passed. Bill to amend code relative to time of bringing action against insurance companies was indefinitely postponed. Bill prohibiting removal of dirt, gravel or sand from public highways passed. Bill to add attorney general to executive council was defeated. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, April 1.—Pusey introduced a bill to amend the code in relation to the regulation of the practice of medicine and surgery and Craig one to provide additional support for the Iowa National Guard. Hipwell called up the claim of Scott county against the state of Iowa for expenses incurred in the care, restraint and transportation of insane persons not having a known residence in Iowa. The bill proposed to pay the claim of $1,003.79 to the extent of $412.89. The bill received a vote of 38 to 2. Claim of ex-Auditor of State Brown came up and was defeated, 21 to 24. Question of granting a pardon to William Slowey, a life convict confined in the penitentiary for the crime of murder, came up, but it had not been disposed of when the liquor manufacturing bill came up as a special order. The bill proposes a mulct manufacture law. In any city where 65 per cent of the electors grant their consent to the manufacture of liquors it shall be exempted from penalties. It must be sold in quantities of not less than four gallons, or an eighth of a barrel, in a single case No manufacturing plant can be within 300 feet of a school house or church. Harper offered an amendment to make the statement of consent signed by 50 per cent instead of 65. He called for the yeas and nays, and the amendment was lost by a vote of 29 to 14. Ellis made the opening speech in favor of the bill. An amendment by Cheshire providing for sale and exportation outside of the state was adopted.

In the afternoon Junkin spoke in opposition to the bill. Rowen followed in a speech also against it. Pusey advocated the passage of the bill and Harriman and Berry opposed it, after which the senate anjourned.

HOUSE.

Senate substitute for house bill permitting cities of 5,000 population to construct sewers passed. Bill to punish for the keeping and maintaining of resorts where opium and its preparations are sold, and for resorting thereto, passed. Bill compelling railroads to name stations the same as towns in which they are situated passed. McAchran's bill for protection of fur bearing and game animals and song and game birds was defeated. Early's bill to prevent the issuance of policies of fire insurance upon risks situated in Iowa by insurance companies without their having complied with the state laws, came up. Early offered an amendment providing a penalty of 2½ per cent of the premium paid for such insurance when reported, and double that if not reported. The clerk proceeded to the calling of the roll and as there was not a quorum present, on motion of Early further consideration was postponed until to-morrow morning. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, April 2.—A resolution for appointment of a sifting committee was laid over under the rules. House bill relating to compensation of justices of the peace and peace officers was substituted for the senate bill and passed. Consideration of the mulct liquor manufacture bill was resumed and an amendment to prevent the manufacture of liquor within three hundred feet of the ground upon which colleges or schools are located was adopted. Cheshire took the floor in advocacy of the bill and Hotchkiss followed in an earnest address in opposition. At the conclusion of this address Phelps offered the democratic bill as a substitute. Lothrop then spoke in favor of the passage of the mulct bill.

In the afternoon Everall spoke in favor of the bill, as also did Waterman. Eaton opposed it. Late in the afternoon the first vote was taken. Senator Carpenter offered two amendments, one of which sought to permit any county to manufacture by a vote of 50 per cent of the people. It was defeated by a vote of 4 to 30. The vote on the democratic substitute resulted in its defeat, 7 to 33. The vote was then taken on the bill and it was lost, 22 to 27. Healey was absent. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Bill to transfer Harrison county from the Fourth to the Fifteenth judicial district came up and was passed. Hotchkiss' bill authorizing counties, cities, townships and other municipal corporations to take and hold property by gift and bequest passed. Senate amendments to bill providing for two commissioners of insanity in counties having two county seats were concurred in. Senate bill to increase penalty for distributing obscene literature passed. Senate bill requiring trimming of willows and osage hedges passed. Neitert introduced a bill to provide additional support for the Iowa National guard, and Brighton one enlarging the amount of exempt property of mechanics. The le islature apportionment bill came up and Temple explained that the basis of the ratio of representation is found by dividing the whole number of the population by the number of counties and giving one representative to each county, but if any county is found to have more than the average such counties are to have two members. The amendment prevailed and the resolution passed, 64 to 29.

In the afternoon the bill providing that none of the state board of medical examiners shall be a member of the faculty of a medical school passed. Bill relating to elections, embodying many of the essential features of the Swiss initiative and referendum came up and a strong fight was made for its passage, but it was defeated. Bill limiting time for bringing action on tax deeds passed. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, April 3.—Palmer introduced a bill to enlarge the amount of exempt properties to mechanics. Bill to reimburse members of Second and Third Iowa infantry for gray uniforms purchased during the war passed. Bill to assist in extermination of Russian thistles passed. Bill granting N. B. Raymond $1,500, salary as supreme court reporter, which he had not received because of sickness, passed. Bill appropriating to B. I. Salinger $2,200 to bring reports of supreme court decisions up to date passed. Bill to pay widow of Judge L. O. Hatch $228.50 for physical injuries received during his term of office passed. Bill to enable trustees of state institutions to lay out, establish, vacate or change public highways through land on which state institutions are situated passed. Bill granting cities of first class and those working under special charters additional power regarding streets, alleys, highways, etc., passed. Bill relating to parks in cities of 2,500 passed. Berry's resolution for adjournment was defeated and Cheshire then offered a substitute for the pending resolution, which provides for adjournment sine die on Saturday, April 11. This substitute was adopted, 36 to 12. The woman suffrage resolution came up and when submitted failed to pass. Military committee's substitute for Carney's bill relating to use of pensions of inmates of the Soldiers' Home was under consideration when the senate adjourned until after dinner.

In the afternoon consideration of the bill was resumed and an amendment was adopted to give preference of admission to soldiers who do not draw pensions. The bill then passed. A bill to exempt crematoriums from taxation was defeated.

HOUSE.

Bill to prevent fire insurance companies from placing their insurance in the state without their first having complied with the law came up and was debated by Early, Brant, Evans, McArthur, Klemme, Smith, Tibbitts, Mayne, Bell, Gurley, McAchran and Neitert. The bill was then put upon its passage and was defeated. Bill to allow same pay to mayors of second class cities as is allowed to justices when acting in such capacity, providing mayor is not paid a regular salary, passed. Spaulding's labor bill, known as the strike bill, came up and Spaulding made a vigorous speech in favor of its passage. Dowell opposed it and Doubleday supported it. Porter said the ground was already covered by the statute. Crow opposed it and then Spaulding closed the debate. The bill was then defeated.

At the afternoon session the bill to declare Spirit and Okoboji lakes to be public and navigable and to provide for their preservation and improvement passed. The senate concurrent resolution for final adjournment on April 11 was concurred in, 51 to 36. Bill to prevent spread of disease among swine passed. The McArthur manufacturing bill was made a special order for next Tuesday. Spaulding's bill to partially relieve mortgaged real estate of taxation and tax the mortgage therewith failed to receive a constitutional majority. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, April 4.—Bill adding to the funding powers of cities of the first class passed. House amendments to bill to declare Spirit and Okoboji lakes public waters were concurred in. Amendments to bill preventing spread of diseases among swine were also concurred in. Vote by which the bill to exempt crematoriums from taxation was lost was reconsidered. Bill amending mulct laws so that townships containing no municipal incorporations shall receive one-half of the $600 collected from each saloon passed. Bill to amend code in relation to the expenditure of pensions of insane soldiers passed. Motion to consider vote by which bill to regulate purchase of supplies at state institutions passed prevailed. The bill was then amended so as so transfer securing of supplies for the several institutions from the hands of the executive council to the boards of the institutions and again passed. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Bill providing that county attorney shall have an office with fuel and stationery within the court house passed. Bill to authorize trustees of state institutions to lay out and vacate roads through lands owned by the state was reconsidered and passed. Bill for extermination of Russian thistles passed. Bill relating to paving, curbing and sewering by cities acting under special charters passed. Bill to reimburse members and heirs of members of the Second and Third Iowa infantry for gray uniforms purchased during the war passed. Bill providing for the transfer of county road funds to the general county fund when there is an excess of the former passed. Resolution acknowledging an invitation to attend the centennial celebration at Nashville in 1897 was adopted. Morrison presented a bill providing for state representation at same. Senate bill reducing interest on judgments to 8 per cent after execution passed. Bill granting H. H. Jelly $2,500 for injuries received while at work on the institution for feeble minded children passed. Adjourned.

TEN LIVES LOST.

Fatal Fire in a Brooklyn Tenement House—Victims Are Italians.

New York, April 2.—Ten persons lost their lives in a fire early Wednesday at 36 Union street, Brooklyn. The building was a four-story tenement house, occupied by Italians. The dead:

AUGUST BUNO.
MRS. AUGUST BUNO, his wife.
SALLY BUNO, 5 years old.
JOHANNA BUNO, 18 months old.
LENA CALABIA, 18 years old.
NICOLO TRALIA, 80 years old.
LENA TRALIA, his daughter, 24 years old.
DOMINICK TRALIA, his son, 24 years old.
BABY, 18 days old.
CORNELIA MARRETTI. 26 years old.

CASUALTIES.

A cloudburst on Tuesday laid waste a strip of country about five miles wide along Little Sexton Creek and the south fork of the Kentucky River in Owsley and Clay counties, Ky. The residence of Wade Marders, on Little Sexton Creek, was washed down, and his wife and little girl were drowned.

William F. Courteney, member of the John Stapleton theatrical company, took morphine by mistake for quinine, and was saved from death by a physician on a train near Logansport, Ind.

Four people were killed and two injured in a fire which started early Sunday morning in the three-story business and tenement building, No. 374 Hudson street, New York.

During a windstorm the wall of a building recently destroyed by fire fell upon the house of H. A. Vaughn at No. 745 Cedar avenue, Cleveland, Ohio. Tons of brick crashed through the roof, carrying down a portion of the upper floor. Mrs. F. O. Bradford, of Olmsted Falls, O., a sister of Mrs. Vaughn, was killed in her bed, and Miss Emma Dietrichs, a domestic, was badly injured.

A gale broke the ice on Lake Winnebago, Wis., Sunday and it was driven to the west shore in great masses, piling up to a height of twenty or thirty feet. Trees were uprooted and huge bowlders were moved like pebbles Boat houses and all structures along the shores were wrecked. In Oshkosh North Park suffered greatly from the moving ice.

FOREIGN.

Austria will oppose the desires of the Balkan states in regard to federation.

The journey of the King of Servia to Athens is caused by the knowledge of the pretensions and intentions of Greece in regard to Macedonia.

The Argentine government has rejected Chili's proposal to remove the line of demarkation between the two republics to the seventy-second meridian.

Serious riots have taken place at Prague. The strikers attacked the weavers who had resumed work and a number of serious conflicts took place.

The Matin says that the resignation of Baron de Courcel, the French Ambassador at London, is merely postponed until the approaching debate in the chamber of deputies

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Bill to approve a compromise and settlement between the United States and the state of Arkansas came up and was passed. Peffer's resolution providing for a committee of four senators to investigate and report all the material facts and circumstances connected with the sale of United States bonds by the secretary of the treasury in the years 1894, 1895 and 1896 was next on the calendar. Hill tried to get it postponed, but Peffer, Teller and Wolcott objected and gave notice it would be called up to-morrow. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

House took up consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill and fifteen of the one hundred pages were disposed of. Resolution authorizing ex-President Harrison to accept certain medals presented him by governments of Brazil and Spain was adopted. Adjourned.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Peffer gave notice he would defer his motion to proceed with the bond investigation until to-morrow. The postoffice appropriation bill, carrying $93,000,000, was considered in part, but not completed. George's speech in opposition to Dupont's claim to a seat occupied most of the day, and was not completed.

HOUSE.

House disagreed to senate amendments to legislative appropriation bill and conference was ordered. Consideration of sundry civil appropriation bill was then resumed. A discussion of the silver question was begun and it took up considerable time. Shuford, of North Carolina, introduced a resolution to investigate recent bond issues. Mahaney, of New York, introduced a bill to appropriate $2,000,000 to widen locks of Erie canal.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Call introduced a resolution of a radical character concerning Cuba, proposing the immediate use of a United States naval force to protect Americans in Cuba against atrocities and for humane treatment. It went over under the rules until to-morrow. Butler introduced a bill requiring the acceptance of the current legal tender funds in payment of notes, bonds and private obligations, explaining that the purpose of the measure was to put a stop to gold notes, gold mortgages, etc., which were being wrung from people to their dire distress. George concluded his speech in opposition to the seating of Dupont. Consideration of the postoffice appropriation bill was resumed and Vilas spoke in opposition to ocean mail subsidies. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Consideration of sundry civil appropriation bill was resumed. An amendment appropriating $30,000 for the purchase of the house in which President Lincoln died was adopted. The question of adopting an amendment providing for a $75,000 appropriation for a military post at Spokane, Wash., brought up the question of finance and the speeches which followed were of a political nature. The amendment was adopted. Adjourned.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Bill passed granting the Atchison & Nebraska and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroads right of way through the Sac and Fox Indian reservations in Kansas and Nebraska. Considerable time was spent in consideration of postoffice appropriation bill, but no action was reached.

HOUSE.

Resolution calling on president to furnish information as to the purposes of the work of the Venezuela commission was adopted. Sundry civil bill came up and Hainer, of Nebraska, opposed the appropriation of $32,600 for Howard University, a colored institution of Washington. Politics were injected into the debate in which Bartlett, Cannon, Sayers, Hepburn, and Evans participated, and the appropriation passed, 129 to 105.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—About thirty private pension bills were passed and then Hitt called up the conference report on the Cuban resolutions, recommending concurrence in the senate resolutions. He moved the adoption of the conference report and spoke in advocacy thereof. Boutelle said the resolutions amounted to nothing. He was opposed to the recognition of belligerency. No action was taken on the bill and at a night session a number of pension bills passed.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The debate on the Cuban resolution continued throughout the day, an evening session also being devoted to it. This was with the understanding that a vote will be taken Monday.

In a three cornered billiard contest at New York, between Ives, Schaefer and Garnier, Ives and Schaefer each won three games. The tie will be played off at Chicago next month.

IOWA PATENT OFFICE REPORT.

DES MOINES, April 3.—Patents have been allowed to Iowa inventors as follows: To H. Mendenhall and F. B. Davis, of Audubon, for important improvements relating to a feed trough for animals, for which patent No. 339,915 was issued to the said Mendenhall April 13, 1886. To J. W. Terman, of New Sharon, for a composition for purifying and preserving butter, sweet milk, etc., and destroying bacteria or other micro-organisms therein. Rancid butter treated therewith and sterilized thereby is said to be as good and sweet as fresh butter. Valuable information about obtaining, valuing and selling patents sent free to any address. Printed copies of the drawings and specifications of any United States patent sent upon receipt of 25 cents. Our practice is not restricted to Iowa and inventors in other states can have our services on same terms as the Hawkeyes.

THOMAS G. AND J. RALPH ORWIG,
Solicitors of Patents.

Mothers

Anxiously watch declining health of their daughters. So many are cut off by consumption in early years that there is real cause for anxiety. In the early stages, when not beyond the reach of medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla will restore the quality and quantity of the blood and thus give good health. Read the following letter:

"It is but just to write about my daughter Cora, aged 19. She was completely run down, declining, had that tired feeling, and friends said she would not live over three months. She had a bad and nothing seemed to do her any good. I happened to read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and had her give it a trial. From the very first dose she began to get better. After taking a few bottles she was completely cured and her health has been the best ever since." MRS. ADDIE PECK, 12 Railroad Place, Amsterdam, N. Y.

Cough

"I will say that my mother has not stated my case in as strong words as I would have done. Hood's Sarsaparilla has truly cured me and I am now well." CORA PECK, Amsterdam, N. Y.

Be sure to get Hood's, because

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, reliable and beneficial. 25c.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR

W. L. DOUGLAS $3. SHOE BEST IN THE WORLD.

If you pay $4 to $6 for shoes, examine the W. L. Douglas Shoe, and see what a good shoe you can buy for $3.

OVER 100 STYLES AND WIDTHS, CONGRESS, BUTTON, and LACE, made in all kinds of the best selected leather by skilled workmen. We make and sell more $3 Shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

None genuine unless name and price is stamped on the bottom.

Ask your dealer for our $5, $4, $3.50, $2.50, $2.25 Shoes; $2.50, $2 and $1.75 for boys.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE. If your dealer cannot supply you, send to factory, enclosing price and 36 cents to pay carriage. State kind, style of toe (cap or plain), size and width. Our Custom Dept. will fill your order. Send for new Illustrated Catalogue to Box R.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

Remember!

You are wasting money when you buy cheap binding instead of the best.

Remember there is no "just as good" when the merchant urges something else for

S·H·&M·
REGISTERED TRADE MARK.

Bias Velveteen Skirt Binding.

Look for "S. H. & M.," on the Label, and take no other.

If your dealer will not supply you we will.

Send for samples showing labels and materials, to the S. H. & M. Co., P. O. Box 699, New York City

WHY shouldn't a farmer keep a good horse? One reason is he is often without the right means to care for them. Such things as Curbs, Splints, Spavins, Windpuffs, and Bunches can all be cured easily—without firing, with

Quinn's Ointment

We can prove it. If you think a horse worth having is a horse worth saving, write for particulars. Price $1.50. Smaller size 50 cents. At all druggists, or sent by mail.

W. B. EDDY & CO., Whitehall, N. Y.

MONEY!

You can make lots of it by securing the agency in your own town for the MISSES LIZZIE'S IMPROVED PATENT CAKE TINS AND MEASURING CUPS. Need no greasing. Our agents are selling from five to thirty-eight sets per day. 100 per cent. profit

Write at once for circulars and terms.

A. JUDD, Clifton Springs, N. Y.

WELL MACHINERY

Illustrated catalogue showing WELL AUGERS, ROCK DRILLS, HYDRAULIC AND JETTING MACHINERY, etc. SENT FREE. Have been tested and all warranted.

Sioux City Engine and Iron Works, Successors to Pech Mfg. Co.
Sioux City, Iowa.
THE ROWELL & CHASE MACHINERY CO., 1414 West Eleventh Street, Kansas City, Mo.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

Home-seekers

Excursions'

April 7, April 21, May 5.

To the South and West—Arizona, Arkansas, Texas, NEBRASKA, Kansas, etc.

Call at the local ticket office and get full information about rates, stop-over privileges, return limits, and territory to which reduction will apply. Or, better still, write to J. FRANCIS, G. P. A., Burlington Route, Omaha, Neb.

P. S. The crop of 1896 is going to be the biggest Nebraska ever had. No question about it. Not in ten years have conditions been so favorable. Better figure on getting hold of a good quarter section before prices advance.

CUT AND SLASH

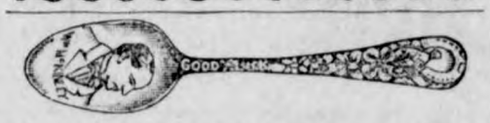
SMOKING TOBACCO, 2 oz. for 5 Cents.

CUT AND SLASH

CHEROOTS—3 for 5 Cents.

Give a Good, Mellow, Healthy, Pleasant Smoke. Try Them.

LYON & CO. TOBACCO WORKS, Durham, N. C.



Send us 22 cents in stamps and we will mail you a Handsome Sterling Silver Plated Souvenir Tea Spoon with picture of Ex-Gov. McKinley of Ohio engraved in bowl. Or for 27 cents we will send the same spoon with Gold Plated Bowl. Four assorted handle designs. We also have bowl engravings of all Presidents and noted Generals. Send for Catalogue. Agents wanted.

NIACARA FALLS SOUVENIR CO., Niagara Falls, N. Y.

$12 A DAY TO SALESMEN

WANTED BRIGHT SALESMEN to introduce DR. T. DE WITT TALMAGE'S latest, greatest, most famous book,

"THE EARTH GIRDLED."

Samoa, Hawaii, the South Seas, Australia, India, Egypt, Palestine, Europe and all their wonders. Thrilling experiences among savages, cannibals and wild races. Amazing heathen superstitions, startling revelations. 400 original photographs of curious races and strange places. No capital or experience required, exclusive territory. Extraordinary inducements and illustrated circulars free. Be quick. Address, TALMAGE, Box 649, Cincinnati, O.

ALABASTINE.

IT WON'T RUB OFF.

Wall Paper is Unsanitary. KALSOMINE IS TEMPORARY, ROTS, RUBS OFF AND SCALES.

ALABASTINE is a pure, permanent and artistic wall-coating, ready for the brush by mixing in cold water.

For Sale by Paint Dealers Everywhere.

FREE A Tint Card showing 12 desirable tints, also Alabastine Souvenir Rock sent free to any one mentioning this paper.

ALABASTINE CO., Grand Rapids, Mich.

THE DOCTOR—"One layer of paper is bad enough, you have three here. Baby may recover but cannot thrive."

"No wonder poor Dinnie's so tired, carrying all day that great big piece of 52

BattleAx PLUG

No matter how much you are charged for a small piece of other brands, the chew is no better than "Battle Ax." For 10 cents you get almost twice as much as of other high grade goods. The 5 cent piece is nearly as large as other 10 cent pieces of equal quality.

I never used so quick a cure as Piso's Cure for Consumption. J. B. Palmer, Box 1171, Seattle, Wash., Nov. 25, 1895.

The tombs of the Persian kings were caves in rocks, inaccessible except by an apparatus of ropes from above.

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Anthony Hope Hawkins, who eliminated his last name when he took to literature, will visit this country next winter.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

$5 Hand Bone, Shell, and Corn Mills for Poultrymen. Daisy Bone Cutter. Power Mills. Circular and testimonials Free. WILSON BROS., Easton, Pa.

SCHOOL FOR MONKEYS.

Calcutta's Novel Institution Where Our Speechless Animals Are Taught.

There has just been founded at Calcutta an institution for the education of monkeys, says the Paris Journal des Debats. Probably the prime movers of the affair never heard of Prof. Garner, the celebrated American simiologist, who has again gone to Africa to make an exhaustive study of the language of monkeys, or else they have deemed it easier to teach the monkeys than to learn from them in simian tongue. At any rate, one of the methods employed in this strange educational institution is the following:

A young monkey is taken and before him is placed a set of blocks on which are painted in capitals the letters of the alphabet. These blocks are, in fact, exactly similar to those which children play with in every civilized country in the world and they are used in precisely the same way as if the monkey was a young specimen of the human race. There is one professor for each monkey and the monkey is taught by means of the blocks to spell certain words. If the word is "fruit," for example, the monkey, after having been taught to arrange the blocks so as to spell the word quickly and without error, receives a bit of fruit as his reward. The same exercise is repeated with other words, and it is hoped that in time the simians will learn how to read and spell and understand English if they cannot speak it.

Only young animals are taken, for they learn more quickly than the old ones. There is no danger of this queer school lacking scholars, for there are thousands of monkeys to be found in that part of India where Calcutta is situated. An effort will also be made it is said, to educate these wild beasts so that they may become fairly efficient domestic servants. The school is so young, as yet, however, that what it will accomplish is entirely a matter of speculation. Its "professors" are enthusiastic about their novel work and seem to think that a new field of usefulness will soon be opened up for these chattering little beasts.

SHOES FROM THE MAYFLOWER.

Footgear of 480 Years Ago Very Like the Modern Style.

Mrs. Eliza A. Brown of Brownsville, Me., has in her possession a pair of shoes which came over on the Mayflower, say the New York World. This particular pair of shoes was made at Chatham, London, in 1417, by John Hose, whose trade-mark can still be observed. Mrs. Brown inherited the shoes from her mother, Mrs. Lydia Gilman, of Acton, Me.

Mrs. Gilman had her choice between two pairs, the only authentic relics of this nature of the famous puritan expedition. They are of green brocade satin with buckles and tie over the instep. The heels are made of cork and are very light. Between the soles and uppers there is a piping of white kid. The stitching, which is visible, is done as neatly and exactly as in any specimen of latter-day machine work.

The shoes are an interesting example of the rotation of fashions. Although 480 years old they are exactly in the style of the fashionable indoor woman's shoe for 1896. The toes are of the toothpick variety, as pointed as they can be, and turned up a little. The ancient shoes seems to be broader at the ball of the foot than is the vogue today. The uppers are of a curious-looking green brocade satin, the color of which has not been impaired in all these years.

This rare old pair of shoes could be worn by a fashionable New York woman today without exciting any comment.

Mexico Is Growing.

The American people are getting better acquainted with Mexico and the Mexican people than they were, but even now it will probably surprise many to learn that our nearest neighbor on the south has, according to a census taken last October, a population of 14,000,000, or about one-fifth the population of the United States. There are 196 cities and 496 villages, not to speak of towns, ranches, and hamlets, in the republic. Mexico will hold an international exposition this year and American business-men who visit it will find that there is agreat field in that country for American trade if it were only wisely conducted.

One Pair of Kings.

Col. North, the nitrate king, has bought up one of the King of Belgium's estates, the castle and domain of Ardenne. The castle extends to 16,000 acres, and affords splendid shooting. The Colonel will have the King for a neighbor there, as the shooting box of Ciergon, which was a favorite resort of his father, and crowns a rock within sight of Ardenne, does not form a part of the transfer.

Egyptian Politeness.

Egypt's khedive is polite to the Duke of Cambridge, who is going up the Nile. He has placed his yacht at the duke's disposal and provided him with an ass, "which enjoys a high reputation as a weight carrier," according to the Court Journal.

THE LAND OF THE FREE.

There is not a town, country or post-office in the United States which bears the name Shakespeare.

The 300,000 miles of telegraph wire in the United States would extend from Boston to San Francisco 100 times.

There are more than 500,000 telephones in use in the United States and they are used about 2,000,000 times daily.

Woolen manufacture employs 220,000 Americans.

When the vessels now being built are completed the United States will have a navy of forty-five vessels, ranging in size from 11,300 tons to 120 tons displacement.

Saved From Destruction.

This is what happens when the kidneys are rescued from inactivity by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. If they continue inactive they are threatened with Bright's disease, diabetes or some other malady which works their destruction. Malarial, bilious and rheumatic ailment and dyspepsia are also conquered by the Bitters, which is thorough and effective.

Lack of Culture.

Harry—What girl was it you had in tow last evening?

Willie (indignantly)—What you are pleased to call tow is usually spoken of by people of culture as blond tresses.

Precious Metals.

The great mining camps of Cripple Creek, Colo., and Mercur, Utah, as well as those of Wyoming, Idaho and Montana, are best reached via the UNION PACIFIC.

The fast time and through car service on "The Overland Route" are features appreciated by all. For information regarding the above camps address your nearest agent, or E. L. LOMAX, Gen'l Pass. & Ticket Agent, Omaha, Neb.

Tascott has been discovered in the Yukon mining country, but Charley continues traveling incog.

The soil of Cuba is so fertile that in some sections four crops a year are raised.

Under the Weather.

That is the common Spring complaint. You feel "logy," dull. Your appetite is poor. Nothing tastes good. You don't sleep well. Work drags. You cross every bridge before you come to it. There's lots of people have felt like you until they toned up the system by taking the great spring remedy

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

It's been curing such cases for 50 years. Try it yourself.

Send for the "Curebook." 100 pages free. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

The nervous system is weakened by the Neuralgia Torture.

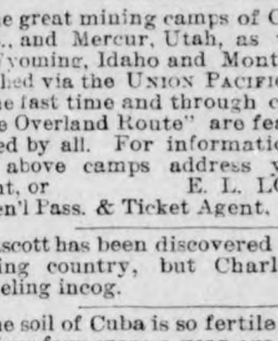
Every nerve is strengthened in the cure of it by

SAINT JACOBS OIL TRY IT

Chosen by the Government



The War Department proposes to test the bicycle thoroughly for army use, and recently advertised for proposals for furnishing five bicycles for the purpose. Result: Bids from $50 to $85 each for other machines; our bid of $100 each for Columbias, their invariable price. And the Government selected

Columbia Bicycles

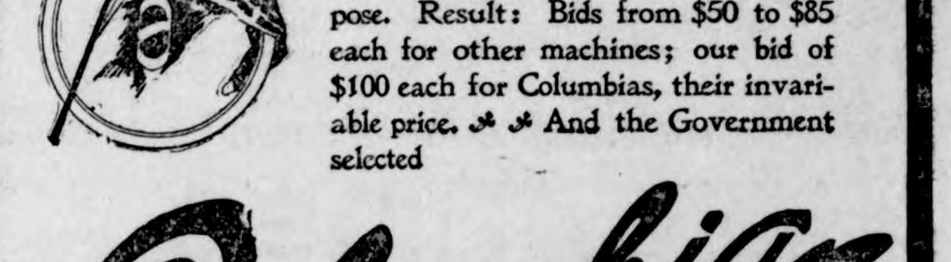
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

The experts who made the choice decided that Columbias were worth every dollar of the $100 asked for them. If YOU are willing to pay $100 for a bicycle, why be content with anything but a Columbia?

The handsome Art Catalogue that tells of Columbia and Hartford bicycles is free from any Columbia agent; by mail for two 2-cent stamps

POPE MANUFACTURING CO., HARTFORD, CONN.

Branch Stores and Agencies in almost every city and town. If Columbias are not properly represented in your vicinity, let us know.



FIELD AND HOG FENCE WIRE.

26, 33, 42, 50, or 58 inches high. Quality and workmanship the best. Nothing on the market to compare with it. Write for full information,

UNION FENCE COMPANY, DE KALB, ILL.

PATENTS, TRADE MARKS

Examination and Advice as to Patentability of Invention. Send for "Inventors' Guide, or How to Get a Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Washington, D. C.

GRIPPLE CREEK Write for what you want to THE MECHEM INVESTMENT CO., Mining Exchange, Denver, Colo.

Fire Apparatus, Engines and Hand Extinguishers. Town and farm agents wanted. Write for circulars. Chemical Fire Engine Co., 903 Walnut St., Des Moines, Iowa.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS.

but sell direct to the consumer at wholesale prices. ship anywhere for examination before sale. Everything warranted. 100 styles of Carriages, 90 styles of Harness, 41 styles Riding Saddles. Write for catalogue. ELKHART CARRIAGE & HARNESS MFG. CO., ELKHART, IND.

W. B. PRATT, Secy.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

W.N.U. D. M.--1239 NO. 15

When answering advertisements kindly mention this paper

H. W. Schoper.

THE

LEADING - IMPLEMENT - DEALER.

Has on hand a complete stock of FARM

IMPLEMENTS.

Fisher Wagons, Staver Abbot, and Parry Buggies,

Rock Island and U, S. } Planters,

Conklin Cnltivators,

Morrison and R. I. Sulky Plows.

Pumps Fanning Mills etc.

A fine road wagon

Only $30.

DAVIS SEWING MACHINE, THE BEST ON THE MARKET.

COME and see for yourself.

H. SCHROEDER,

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY - MEAT - MARKET.

Carry a Complete line of { Fresh, Salt and Smoked Meats.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

HIDES.

PICKLES, etc. Always on hand.

Klemme, Ia.

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME, Belmond, Iowa.

Garner.

N. V. Brower returned from Indiana Saturday.

The school enrollment, at present, is something over 300.

G. A. Patterson bought T. B. Wallace's house last week.

Miss Etta Palmer, of Britt, was visiting Miss Edith Abbey last week.

Ira Latham left for DesMoines Tuesday, he expects to purchase a steam engine for his laundry.

Miss Grace Bliss, who has been visiting her sister Mrs. C. J. Schneider the past few weeks returned home Monday.

Miss Susie Young, a missionary just returned from India, will give an interesting address on mission work, in the U. B. church next Sunday, at 10:45 a. m.

At a meeting of the directors of the Driving Park association Monday evening at the Farmers Savings Bank, the track was leased to E. P. Fox for the coming year.

E. P. Fox and family returned from Colorado last Wednesday. They are pleased to be home again. They expect to live in the house formerly occupied by Otto Baumgartner.

AN IOWA ORATOR.

Congressman Cousins Wins Fame by a Single Speech at Washington.

A debate was on in the national house of representatives recently when a tall, broad shouldered member with a boyish face caught the eye of the speaker and began to talk. It was a busy day, and excitement was running high, so the inconspicuous member who had the floor was given but little attention at first. He had spoken but a few moments, however, before group after group on the floor stopped their chatter and began to listen, until finally every person in that crowded chamber was following his words with as much attention as the official stenographers.

"Why, who is that talking?" some one asked of a veteran correspondent in the press gallery.

"That's young Bob Cousins of Iowa," was the answer.

And it was, although few of the spectators had ever heard of him before. He was making a speech that was to bring him fame at a bound. Embassador Bayard had furnished him with a topic, and as he pilloried the diplomat with merciless facility and hurled at him shafts of sarcasm tipped with ridicule and winged with eloquence the house listened with approbation.

ROBERT G. COUSINS.

Congressman Robert G. Cousins is a thorough product of Iowa. He was born, reared, educated and trained in the Hawkeye State. His parents settled in Cedar county when Iowa was a territory. When a boy, he worked on his father's farm and attended the public schools. In course of time he went to Cornell college, which is located in the same congressional district which he now represents. He afterward studied law and was admitted to the bar at the age of 23. In 1886 he served with distinction in the Iowa legislature and was chosen as presidential elector in 1888.

When he was elected as a member of congress in 1893, he had a lucrative practice and had already gained some local fame as an orator. He did not have a chance to distinguish himself in the Fifty-third congress, but was re-elected to the present congress and has made one or two good speeches besides the one that has so recently brought him fame.

SPRING Style

MY Millinery Store is now ready for spring BUSINESS.

Hats!

I have just received a new and complete line of

Flowers, Tips, Ribbons, Laces, Fancy Braids, Persian Silks etc.

And everything you could expect to find in a first class store.

MISS ADNA BARTA of St. Paul, a first class trimmer will be with me the entire season.

YOU are invited to come in. No trouble to Show Goods.

Dressmaking in connection.

Miss E. Renziehausen,

COME STRAIGHT

To Our Store

If you want to save money in what you must purchase along the line of

GENERAL Merchandise.

Onr stock is complete iu department; is fresh and new, and we are selling the goods with special regard to the Hard Times.

WESENBERG BROS.

MARION A. FELL, NOTARY PUBLIC.

M. R. CHAMBERS, ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans at 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farmers' Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on us, we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co,

Garner, Iowa.

WE WILL SELL

AT PRIVATE SALE,

Our Large Stock Of

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Plows, Cultivators, Hay Rakes and Loaders, Seeders, Disc Harrows, Planters, Wind Mills and Pumps, Water Tanks, Buggies and Waggons. We handle the KEYSTONE FENCE, the best fence on earth. Also the

Milwaukee Binders and Mowers

At prices that defy competition.

LAU BROTHERS.

TIMES $1. PER YEAR!

STATE · SAVINGS · BANK

—OF—

KLFMME. IOWA

Does a regular Banking Business. Deals in Domestic and Foreign

EXCHANGE

Loans money on long or short time. Attends to collections and pay interest on time deposits

C. W. KNAPP, Cashier.

Bettin and Remer.

Contractors and Builders.

Plans and specifications furnished on application.

—All work guaranteed.

KLEMME, IOWA

GEO. S. GATES,

STONE AND BRICK MASON

Plastering a Specialty. Do all kinds of work in my line. I also make a Specialty of bricking up Cisterns and boilers. All work guaranteed and Prices accordingly.

Give me a trial,

GEO. S. GATES,

Klemme, Iowa.

Wanted—An Idea Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer and list of two hundred inventions wanted.

JOHN BAUMGARTNER.

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY BARBER SHOP.

AN EASY SHAVE. - -

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

SHOP IN KIRKWOOD HOUSE, KLEMME, IOWA.

STOP!

If you want any Painting done and see

JOE MILLER,

a painter of 15 years experience.

All work guaranteed.

Leave orders at Shafer & Dows.

KLEMME IA.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.

OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.

OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, Apr. 10, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum in Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1895.

GRISWOLD & CLINE, PUBLISHERS.

Goodell Items.

L. A. Griswole is down with lagrippe,

Dr. Goedenow's baby died Tuesday and was burried Wednesday

Doc. Thompson went to Forest City, Friday, to spend Sunday at home.

F. E. Brooks was in attendance at the funeral of his sister at Chapin, Monday.

A birth was reported last week at Dr. Goodenow's home. The child is very sick at the present writing.

The Easter services at the M, E. church were fine. The church was beautifully decorated and was crowded. A good collection was taken.

John Cline was in Chicago last Monday to see his wife, who is being treated there at the Presbyterian Hospital. She will return this week.

Mrs. Griswold drove down Monday evening to nurse Mrs. Mulkins who has been very sick, but at present is much better. She returned Wednesday evening.

Rams Horn.

Character is always telling somebody what it is.

A self made man always spoils his job somewhere.

The fire and the gold never understand each other.

Whoever hinders God's work robs the whole world.

Religion snould do the most where it is needed most.

Some people would say more, if they did'nt talk so much.

No one is not free from sin who is not free from the love of sin.

An easy chair for the discontented, cannot be found at a furniture store.

The man who helps the weak, takes God's way to gain strength for himself.

When there is no gospel in the preaching, what good will it do to crowd the church.

The more faith men have in God, the more love they will have for each other.

The bible is full of comfort for those in the dark, but not for those in doubt.

Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, still holds the championship of America. Saturday in an individual match with I. L. Budd he succeeded in killing ninety-four birds out of a possible 100, while his opponent was credited with but seventy-four Gilbert killed forty-eight out of the first fifty, and only missed hitting two in the whole match. Budd did not shoot as well as his admirers expected, although he had considerable bad luck in birds falling outside the line.—Ex.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market; costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. HARR. Read our free booklet on Microbic Diseases.

Homeseekers' Excursions

On March 10th. April 7th and 21st and May 5th, Excursion Tickets at rate of ONE FARE plus $2 FOR THE ROUND TRIP, to points in eleven Southern States and Territories, also to a number of Western and Northern States. An oppertunity to reach almost every city in the South and Southwest and a large number of important points in the Northwest. Tickets are good to return any Tuesday or Friday within the final limit which is 20 days from date of sale.

Call on B., C. R. & N. agents for rates and further information or address J. MORTON, G. P. & T. A. Cedar Rapids, Ia. Exp 5-5

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR.

[DISSOLVED FLOWERS OF SULPHUR.]

Natures greatest germicide, its action being rapid and effective. A few drops, or at most a few ounces, will permanently cure the most stubborn cases of Blood and Skin disorder. Cures Diphtheria in a few hours; Canker Sore Mouth in ten minutes; Catarrh, short course of treatment; Granulated Eyelids, four to six days; Sore Throat, one gargling; Rheumatism, short course of treatment; Erysipelas, two or three applications, and so on through the long list of Blood and Skin diseases—Eczema, Acne, Itch, Ringworm, Pimples, Salt Rheum Herpes, Hives, Tetter, Dandruff, Falling Hair, and all scalp diseases, Open Sores, Tumors, Ulcerated Conditions, Piles and Itching Piles. This is not a "cure-all" but a Guaranteed remedy for above diseases, which are caused by Parasite and impure condition of the blood. Full directions with each bottle.

Dr. H. F. Thompson, of Goodell, Iowa, says: "I applied Compound Liquid Sulphur in several cases of Diphtheria which were becoming formidable. One application entirely removed the membrane, and my patients were discharged on the following day. I consider Compound Liquid Sulphur superior to any other remedy for the successful treatment of diphtheria."

Mrs. S. G. Bunce, Belmond, Iowa, says: "I had suffered with Rheumatism in my right arm for three years and during that time tried almost every known remedy, but got no relief. Three applications of Compound Liquid Sulphur has entirely cured me.

Compound Liquid Sulphur is for sale by J. L. HARR.

The bicycle riders of Klemme will be interested to know that the bicycle bill has passed both houses of the legislature. It provides that persons riding bicycles on public highways shall, on meeting or passing persons, turn out to the right, giving half of the road and when horses or other animals attached the vehicals become frightened, the cycler shall dismount and use reasonable care to prevent accidents. Persons failing to do this shall be liable for all damages resulting therefrom, together with a fine not exceeding $10.

The station agent at the Fort Dodge and Mason City depot disappeared with about $250 of the company's money. Nothing can be heard of his whereabouts and detectives are trying to trace the matter up but find it very difficult, as no one has seen him since he left.—Ex.

When in need of

CLOTHING

And you want an assortment to select from; or if you are looking for a New Dress something new, nobby and dressy, SPRING CAPES, DRESS TRIMMINGS,

Ladies Shirt Waists,

Or Fine Shoes,

we invite you to call and visit our

New Store

wnen in GARNER.

W. C. SCHULER.

IDENTIFICATION COUPON.

The accompaning solution of the mystery in the CHICAGO RECORD'S $10,000 prize story "Sons and Fathers," is sent by

Name_____

Post Office_____

A Reader of the KLEMME TIMES.

When you mail your guess to THE CHICAGO RECORD, 181 Madison St. Chicago, send this coupon properly filled out' with it.

Spring Goods are all in

The Bell Clothing STORE, at

GARNER, IOWA.

When in town call and see us, we can save you money.

A Fine Shoe IS DRESSY

Strong Shoes WILL WEAR,

A Poor Shoe IS DEAR AT ANY PRICE.

It is the universal verdict that FRANK GRUETZMACHER has the largest and most complete stock of

SHOES

in town, and is selling them fully 10 per cent less than other firms.

Harness and Shoes Repaired.

Remember we make HARNESS to order.

Give us a call

F. GRUETZMACHER.

Now Is Your Chance.

A firm that has had experience in handling farm machinery knows which kinds give the best satisfaction.

Terhufen & Son

on second street, handle Deering Binders, Dubuque Norweigen Plows, Pekin Riding Plows, Mascot Corn Cultivators, Evans Planters, Smith wagons and

FANCY BUGGIES.

We meet any competition on the same class of goods.

Call on us and get OUR PRICES.

Terhufen & Son.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, - - - IOWA

"Tom Brown's" earthly school days may be over, but his soul goes marching on.

Why is it that war is always breaking out in countries that are full of unpronounceable names?

As Kruger will not go to England it is possible England will come to Kruger. Neither move would be because of love.

An exchange asks: "Will the new woman knit her own stockings?" Hardly. The indications are that the new woman will wear socks.

Wizards Edison and Tesla will pardon the suggestion that if they work a little more and talk about it a little less they would get there sooner.

The report came from Virginia that four barrels of whisky were found in the house of one of its legislators, but an investigation proved that it was all "moonshine."

If the Gould boys are New Jersey farmers, as they proved themselves to be in order to avoid New York taxation, they should at once grant themselves reasonable freight rates.

Chancellor Snow of the Kansas university has bought a bicycle and is learning to ride it. The snow fall in Douglass county is expected to be quite heavy for the next few weeks.

The new cable line between France and the United States will be welcome. Who knows that we may not be missing other war scares because of a lack of facilities to transmit the news.

Postmaster Hesing has been chosen captain of a baseball team, but the mailed hand will be barred in the game. If he is made pitcher of his nine he will probably use the postal delivery.

Washington spiritualists want to investigate the haunted houses of the capital. No doubt the landlords would be happy to rent these structures to any embodied spirits applying for them.

A St. Paul woman has filed a claim against a late affianced's estate for the expenses of her trousseau and $2,000 more for the marriage that did not come. He seems to have escaped just in time.

A confidential clerk in New York robbed his employer to get money with which to feed his dog. If he be sent to prison, every dog fancier in the state will promptly petition the governor to pardon him.

Before the days of lucifer matches and railroads it would have gone hard with Prof. Roentgen if he had discovered his cathode rays. He would have been branded and hanged as a witch in short order.

Spain wants $24,000,000, and asks Spanish bankers to hand out the money. It is a case of stand and deliver. The banks will have to do it, although they are fully aware that it is "a permanent investment."

The Ameer of Afghanistan has ordered a number of men's bicycles from an English firm. A large order for women's bicycles, one for each of the members of the Ameer's harem, is, it is announced, to follow.

The establishment of a penny savings bank in Chicago is again being discussed. The penny banks are already in successful operation in several cities. In Detroit such a bank made it a profitable branch of its business. It issued stamps that were sold at drug stores, distributed a lot of literature to interest the people in the subject, and not only increased its business legitimately, but stimulated thrift among the children. In some cities penny banks are run in connection with the schools, and the children show their interest by patronizing them freely. They are just the thing for every town.

The large woman has at last been recognized. A year or more ago while Mrs. Anna M. Gray of Edwardsville, Ill., was getting off the cars with some bundles the train started, causing her to fall. The lower court decided that she was injured to the amount of $950, and the court of appeals last week affirmed the decision and said: "A fleshy woman has the right to ride on a train and to have a valise and parcels, and she is entitled to more time for alighting than might be required for a foot-racer or a grey-hound." It may be that little women are classed with the racer and the grey- hound; so if we were you we wouldn't take any chances, but would alight as soon as possible—or else get fleshy.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

THE MADISON PAGE CASE.

It Has Been Decided in Favor of the Board of Education in the District Court.

SIOUX CITY, April 3.—Judge Ladd, in the district court, has made a decision in the much-talked-of case of Madison Page vs. the board of education, by which he dismissed the petition of the plaintiff. This is a decided victory for the board of education, the superintendent of schools and the principal of the high school in a case wherein a pupil brought suit to be reinstated in school after having been suspended for a violation of the rules. The decision in this case has been looked forward to with a great deal of interest by all persons interested in educational work, and the matter has been the subject of discussion in every household since it first came to public notice by the action of the board of education in upholding Professor Turnbull for suspending young Page. The case has been bitterly fought by both sides, and a large number of authorities were cited by both parties in support of the arguments. The boy's father says he may appeal to the supreme court.

CALLED TO HANG SOME ONE.

Was the Insane Idea of a Young Burlington Madman.

BURLINGTON, April 4.—A young man named Layton, who has gradually been losing his mind of late, went insane at a Salvation Army meeting and was taken home in an ambulance. Dr. Burch, who was called in, was unable to control him, so violent had he become, and he escaped through the door. While the doctor was preparing to send for assistance, Layton returned with a rope and made a desperate effort to hang the doctor. Three policemen responded to the calls sent in for aid, and it took their united strength to overpower the madman, who persisted in his idea that he was called to hang some one.

BURGLARS' LARGE HAUL.

Five Hundred Dollars Worth of Jewelry Secured at Victor.

VICTOR, April 4.—Thieves pried open the front door of Ford Conneley's jewelry store and then blew up the safe. It was completely shattered. They secured $500 worth of jewelry and made their escape. A posse was sent in pursuit as soon as the burglary was discovered, but as yet no trace of the robbers has been found. The jewelry had only recently been purchased. No one seems to have heard the explosion, which must have been a heavy one, as the safe was broken into fragments. Officers all over the state have been notified to be on the lookout.

ORR NOT GUILTY.

Did Not Appropriate Goods Entrusted to His Care.

IOWA FALLS, April 5.—Luke Orr, charged by J. F. Thomas, his employer, with grand larceny in making away with goods entrusted to his care as manager of the Chicago Bargain Store, was discharged after a trial lasting two days. Thomas is a Chicago merchant with a branch store in Iowa Falls. Counter-suits on various charges are now threatened.

GUN WAS LOADED.

Rockford Druggist Shoots Himself and May Die.

MASON CITY, April 4.—Tony Brinkson, druggist of Rockford, accidentally shot himself in handling a revolver. The bullet found lodgement in the bowels. He is in a very critical condition.

Mysterious Death at Jefferson.

JEFFERSON, April 4.—Henry Mocal, a well known farmer in the north part of this county, was found at his home, shot through the heart, and a shot gun was found lying near by. The gun is usually kept near where it was found, and whether it is a case of suicide or accident is not known.

Shot by His Hired Man.

GENEVA, April 6.—Charles Hoffmiester, a substantial German farmer living south of town, was accidentally shot by a 32-caliber revolver in the hands of his hired man. The doctors pronounce the wound fatal.

An Indictment for Murder.

JEFFERSON, April 6.—The Carroll county grand jury indicted Peter Weise for the murder of Ben Levich last February, and returned a bill against George Bowen, a prominent attorney, charging embezzlement.

Cigarette Bill Constitutional

DES MOINES, April 6.—In response to an inquiry from Governor Drake, Attorney General Remley has handed down an opinion upon the cigarette bill, in which he declares it to be constitutional.

Killed at a Crossing.

CHEROKEE, April 4.—Mrs. Norman Lockwood was instantly killed and her son probably fatally injured by an Illinois Central freight train on the Sioux Falls branch near Cherokee.

Young Lady Strangely Missing.

WEBSTER CITY, April 3.—Minnie White, aged 22, a handsome young lady of this city, mysteriously disappeared on the 31st, and all efforts have failed to disclose her whereabouts. She was making her home with Rev. Mr. Mahood and family, and in the afternoon she took the baby out for an airing, and, deserting it, she left for parts unknown.

Got a Verdict for One Cent.

CRESTON, April 4.—The smallest judgment ever awarded in the Union county district court was given to A. S. Kinser, who sued John Smith for slander. Kinser alleged Smith called him a thief at a public gathering, and thought $2,000 would satisfy the injury sustained. The jury gave him a verdict of 1 cent.

Thrown Out and Killed.

DUBUQUE, April 3.—A farmer named Davis, while returning home from Dubuque, was thrown from his wagon near Bennettsville and killed. His dead body was found beside the road.

BREVITIES.

The announcement is made that the Iowa Chautauqua Assembly will not hold a session at Colfax this year.

John Monroe, of Shenandoah, a respected citizen 74 years old, suicided by hanging himself in the wood house. Temporary derangement is assigned as the cause for the rash act. He leaves a wife but no children.

The Harrison elevator burned at Burlington last week. It was owned by the National Linseed Oil company. Loss on the building and grain stored therein is estimated at from $40,000 to $50,000; insurance, $25,000.

Mrs. Ida Severt, of Fremont, administrator for the dead Irene Severt, has recently brought suit against J. A. Gunn for $10,000 for seduction and against J. A. Gunn and R. J. Boatman jointly for $10,000 for abortion.

Burlington dispatch: Howard Higbee, the 13-year-old son of Colonel Higbee, who was supposed to have been kidnapped, was found late at night wandering in the suburbs. He could give no explanation of his whereabouts during the day. He is either injured or demented.

Jacob Eplers, aged 45, was found alongside the Chicago & Northwestern tracks, at Boone, with his head and one arm cut off. It is thought he attempted to jump off a moving freight train. Eplers was employed at the Northwestern round house as a sand-drier. He leaves a family.

Frank Seller died at Dubuque recently from the effects of an injury received a few hours earlier. He was an old miner and while hoisting a tub of dry bone to the mouth of the shaft a piece fell off, fracturing his skull. He was 63 years old and one of the most experienced miners in this region.

At Washington recently the jury in the Conklin wife murder case acquitted the defendant, Phil Conklin, of Oskaloosa. The jury went out at 9:30 and came in at 5. The first vote stood eleven for acquittal and one stood out. Conklin and all his women folks wept, and then he shook hands with all the jurors and they, too, cried, and everybody cheered.

A Malvern dispatch says: William Deford, of Lyons township, is in jail, charged with incest, Mrs. Frank Hanner, his daughter, being the alleged victim. Deford was arrested on complaint of the woman's husband, who claims to have witnessed their illicit relations. The woman is alleged to have confessed to her husband that she had sustained criminal relations with her father since she was 12 years old.

It is announced that the executive council has completed the annual assessment of the valuation of the railroad property in the state as required by law. Very few changes are made in the assessment of the different roads, and the total assessed value remains practically the same as in 1895. The total increase of assessment on the different roads and branches foots up $508,798, but the total decrease on the other hand foots up $503,847, and thus makes the net increase but $4,951.

Judge Giberson, of the Cedar Rapids superior court, recently handed down his decision, granting a temporary writ of injunction restraining Ignace Sindellar from the further sale of intoxicating liquors. The hearing was had a couple of weeks ago and was the outgrowth of an unfortunate affair just previous to the last city election. John Rodeck, an old German, met a number of friends one afternoon, and as a result of numerous drinks became so badly intoxicated that he died that night, the result of alcoholic coma and exposure. His widow has brought numerous suits for damages, and these injunction proceedings were the outgrowth of the matter. The hearing attracted a great deal of attention and the judge's ruling has been awaited with much anxiety.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

CUBA.

HAVANA, April 3.—The capture of Pinar Del Rio and Santa Clara by the insurgents, who occupied them several hours and left them in flames, is a severe blow to the Spanish. General Luis Maria Pando and General Alvaro Suarez Valdes, military governors of the destroyed cities, have been ordered to return to Spain by Captain General Weyler. The captain general is badly worried over the situation. He thought he had Pinar Del Rio so strongly guarded that it was absolutely impossible for Maceo's forces to break in. But in the middle of the night of March 25 they came and literally laid the town in ashes. Of several hundred residences not more than two dozen were left uninjured.

PHILADELPHIA, April 4.—A private cablegram from Puerto Cortez states that only ninety cases of guns were found on the steamship Bermuda. It appears that the men and the greater portion of the cargo were successfully landed in Cuba. The men were under the command of Sergeant W. H. Cox, who is considered one of the best artillery instructors and most efficient handlers of batteries in this country. The men were secured by the Cubans for the purpose of organizing their own men into effective battalions and training them in the use of guns procured from the United States.

MADRID, April 4.—The Spanish Trans-Atlantic Steamship Company have two out of the six ships they are remodeling as cruisers nearly ready to put to sea. Each is armed with six 12-inch breech-loading guns, and several rapid firing guns also will be added. A careful study of all her resources show that in event of war with the United States Spain could muster every available merchant steamer she controls. Turning them into warships they would furnish about thirty fairly formidable cruisers.

HAVANA, via Key West, April 4.—The court martial is busy in various parts of the Havana province and death sentences were recently passed on the seventy captured insurgents, who will soon be shot.

TAMPA, Fla., April 6.—It is rumored here that in a battle which occurred Tuesday in Pinar del Rio between the forces of Maceo and Colonel Suarez the Spaniards lost 800 men. The insurgent loss was also heavy. No details of the battle are given. Colonel Suarez was seriously wounded.

NORTHERN AFRICAN TROUBLES

France Makes Some Mysterious Moves With Her Navy—The Soudan.

TOULON, April 3.—There are signs at the dock yards and arsenals of preparations for a grave event. Orders have been received to prepare a number of war ships for active service. It is believed that the move is more of a precautionary measure than indicating the probability of an outbreak of hostilities. The French Mediterranean squadron, however, will be strengthened and the second class cruiser, Cecille, has sailed on a special mission to the African coast.

WADY-HALFA, April 3.—Confirmation has been received here of the news from Suakim that Osman Digma with a large force is threatening Sinkat, which is only a little over fifty miles from Suakim. The Dervishes are advancing northward in force, and an attack is expected in a short time.

MONROE DOCTRINE.

Receives Endorsement From the Central American Republics.

CITY OF MEXICO, April 6.—The Universal publishes telegrams from all over Central and South America regarding President Diaz's utterances on the Monroe doctrine in his recent message to congress. President Barrios, of Guatemala, praises the statesmanlike tones of the message. Salvador, Honduras, Colombia, Venezuela, Uruguay, Argentine and Brazil all favor a Latin American union, and speak in glowing terms of the noble and courageous president of Mexico. Chili favors the union, but prefers that the United States be kept out of the conference. The other republics heartily endorse President Diaz's message.

Gets $3,200 for Killing an Outlaw.

GUTHRIE, Okla., April 3.—The notorious outlaw, Carl Thorn, alias Diamond Point, who led the raid at Coffeyville, Kansas, and who, while a member of the Dalton gang, killed four men, was killed by United States Marshal George Richards, of Dover. Both outlaw and officer exchanged ten shots. Richards gets $3,200 reward.

No High Hats in Ohio.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 4.—A novel measure, aimed at high theater hats, has been enacted into a law by the legislature. It provides that any manager permitting any person to wear a hat or other headgear in a theatre, obstructing the view, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined $10.

MEXICO AND VENEZUELA.

President Diaz, of Mexico Endorses the Monroe Doctrine.

CITY OF MEXICO, April 3.—The president's message, delivered at the opening of congress, alluded to the Anglo-Venezuelan controversy as follows: "Now that, happily, the crisis has passed which seemed to threaten war between two great nations into which the Anglo-Saxon race is divided, and now that our sister republic, Venezuela, is carrying on at Washington peaceful negotiations with her powerful adversary, it may not be out of place for the Mexican government to state her opinion with regard to the Monroe doctrine. The Mexican government cannot but declare its partiality for a doctrine which condemns as criminal any attacks upon the part of the monarchies of Europe against the republics of America, against the independent nations of this continent, now all subject to a popular form of government. The whole of our history, and especially the struggle of our people to shake off the yoke of a foreign empire, which is European both in its origin, form and resources, and the torrents of blood shed in that struggle are sufficient testimony to the world of our love of independence and our abhorrence to all outside interference. But it is our opinion that to the United States, owing to the immensity of its resources, belongs the obligations of assisting other republics of the hemisphere against the attacks of Europe. Each one of these republics ought, by means of a declaration like that of President to Monroe, proclaim that every attack on the part of a foreign power with a view of curtailing territory or independence or of alienating institutions of any one of the republics of America would be considered by the nation making such declaration as an attack upon itself, provided that nation deliberately attacked or threatened in that manner, bespoke the aid of other nations opportunely. In this manner the doctrine now called by the name of Monroe would become the doctrine of America in the fullest sense of the word, and although originating in the United States, would belong to the international law of this continent."

In Southern Africa.

PRETORIA, Transvaal, April 3.—President Kruger has received from Governor Sir Hercules Robinson, of Cape Colony, a reply to his offers of assistance in quelling the uprising in Matabeleland. Sir Hercules Robinson declined the offers of assistance, and thanked President Kruger and the burghers heartily for their offer. In the massacre of white men at Inyali the Matabeles killed six persons, who in turn killed fully fifty of the Matabeles.

Waller's Story.

LONDON, April 6.—John L. Waller, ex-consul at Tamatave, Madagascar, has arrived here. He declares that he was subjected to the most abusive and humiliating treatment while enroute to France, and in the prison was also illtreated. He also declares that in applying for pardon he made no agreement whatever to waive his claims for damages against the French government.

Manitoba's School Trouble.

OTTAWA, April 4.—The government received a telegram from Winnipeg stating that the dominion commissioners and provincial officers failed to come to any terms in the Manitoba school question, so the dominion delegates will return without having accomplished anything.

TERSE NEWS.

The republican state convention of selected delegates who will vote for Reed.

Governor Lippett and entire republican state ticket are elected in Rhode Island by pluralities of about 11,500.

Fire destroyed a ramshackle tenement house in Brooklyn, and ten inmates were burned to death in their beds.

T. Simon Sam, formerly minister of war for Hayti, has been elected president to succeed President Hippolyte, deceased.

The Omaha city council, by a vote of 13 to 4, passed the curfew ordinance over the mayor's veto, and the law will go into effect at once.

The recent Oklahoma convention to select delegates to the St. Louis convention voted down a resolution instructing for McKinley. It is looked upon as a victory for Reed.

The Missouri supreme court has affirmed the sentence of the Taylor brothers, convicted of the murder of the Meeks family near Milan. The execution is set for April 30.

A dispatch from Jamaica says: The American schooner William Todd, from Mobile, Ala., was fired upon by two Spanish gunboats six miles off the Isle of Pines. Four solid shots crossed the schooner's bow after the captain hoisted the United States colors. The vessel was boarded and searched by an armed boat's crew, but nothing of a contraband character rewarded the searching party.

TIOMANE.

BY JACQUES VINCENT.

COPYRIGHT 1892 BY RAND, McNALLY CO.

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER XX.

ONE MONDAY morning, a few weeks after the events narrated in the last chapter, as the ladies were rising from the breakfast table, what was their astonishment to see Guillaume enter. His face was haggard, his clothing in disorder, his manner nervous and agitated. Rushing up to his mother, he kissed her again and again, in a sort of frenzy, saying:

"Kiss me, little mamma; kiss me."

Then he seized his sister in his arms, embracing her in the same way.

"What has happened, Guillaume?" questioned Tiomane, really alarmed. He looked at her, but did not reply. "But why," she continued, "are you in Paris to-day? You did not tell us yesterday—your place?"

I HAVE LOST 6,000 FRANCS.

"Why, no; why, no," he answered quickly, cutting short all questions. "Be easy—I have a vacation."

He accompanied the words with a glance which contained a supplication, a prayer, and she understood that he wished to speak to her—to her alone. At that moment the wife of the concierge brought in the mail from Smyrna. To the mother and daughter this souvenir of their country always brought joy, and Madame de Sorgnes seized eagerly the letter bearing the arms of the consulate of France. Tiomane took advantage of the opportunity. "Ah, Guillaume," she said coaxingly, "while your mother and Maritza are perusing and reperusing M. de Riez' journal, I think you ought to help me with my accounts."

She led the way to her own room, and closed the door.

"Well?" she questioned, overwhelmed with a presentiment of sorrow to come.

"Well, this is what it is," he answered in a husky voice. "Last evening I left you very early in order to join some young men with whom I had promised to take supper. I intended to take a night train, and be at the works at the usual hour. I drank a good deal of wine at the supper, and, half-intoxicated, went, with my companions, in the same state as myself, to a gambling-house. We played during the remainder of the night—forgetting everything. In short, I have just come out of it, and have lost 6,000 francs."

She listened, hardly daring to understand, crushed, stupefied, under the suddenness and enormity of the disaster.

"So you did not go home," she stammered; "you played—you lost."

"Six thousand francs—do you not understand? Six thousand francs!"

"Six thousand francs," she repeated. "Can it be possible?"

"Yes, that is the sum; and the worst of it is, I can not pay—I was obliged to confess it openly, there; and my creditor is a hard-hearted wretch—an Italian who lives on baccarat—a robber. He threatened me there, and he had a right to do it," he added, in a sudden transport of frantic rage, "and I had not the right to answer him. One can not answer a man to whom he owes money; one cannot expose oneself to the danger of killing him—and thus freeing oneself."

"Oh! this is horrible," murmured Tiomane bitterly.

"Listen," he resumed, in a tone that showed he had recovered some degree of self-control. "I wanted to tell you, but I implore you let my mother and sister remain in ignorance of it. Tell them whatever you please—only do not tell them the truth."

What do you intend to do?" she asked.

"I do not know."

"Nevertheless—"

"But I do not know—I can not tell. I can not return to my place after so inexcusable an absence."

"You have lost your situation?"

"Why, certainly. My employer is severe—absolutely severe—with regard to absence without permission. But I shall not remain a burden upon you. I shall seek work—anything. Oh, this debt that I can not pay—never pay perhaps! And it will all be made public! A situation will be difficult to find after such a story is bruited abroad. For myself it matters little, but for my mother and sister, and you, my good Tiomane. Cast back into your poverty, and by me! What a miserable wretch I am!" He stopped, overcome with emotion.

Maritza's voice called him from the next room.

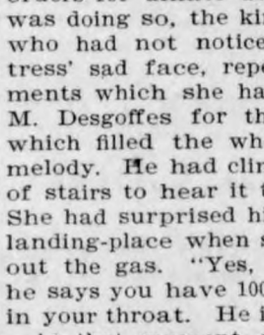
"Go to them at once," said Tiomane, in a tone of authority which he always obeyed. "Give me time to think, to reflect, on what ought to be done. I will say that I have an errand in the city, and will ask you to accompany me; then we can talk without fear of being interrupted." When she found herself alone, she sank down, overcome with contending emotions and bitter thoughts. This, then, was the end of all her efforts—a catastrophe more terrible than anything she had imagined! And it was Guillaume, in whom she trusted; Guillaume, from whom she had hoped so much, was its author. A supper, a game of cards—the pleasure of a moment! He had not even thought of them. He had no love, no pity, for them. His mad folly had cast them back into their poverty—a poverty even greater than that under which they were suffering when they came to Paris, for now the last farthing of the small sum of money in reserve had been expended. They would now be obliged to live on the small income from the railway shares. Fifteen hundred francs for four persons, until this guilty, infatuated boy found another position! And, under the circumstances, when would that be?

This debt, this enormous debt, which it was impossible to pay, terrified her. There was no one to help them. Sancede—that good, devoted Sancede—could do nothing, for he was poor himself. In her terror and excitement she imagined the most dreadful consequences. With Guillaume's impulsive character, would he be able to endure the insults of his creditor? Would he not, in a moment of uncontrollable anger, avenge himself on the man? Or, unable to bear the disgrace of a debt he could not pay, maddened by the degradation of his position, would he not put an end to his own life?

The entrance of the wife of the concierge forced Tiomane to affect a calm which she did not feel, and to give her orders for dinner as usual. While she was doing so, the kind-hearted woman, who had not noticed her young mistress' sad face, repeated the compliments which she had just heard from M. Desgoffes for the wonderful voice which filled the whole house with its melody. He had climbed the four pairs of stairs to hear it the evening before. She had surprised him listening on the landing-place when she came up to put out the gas. "Yes, yes, mademoiselle, he says you have 100,000 francs' income in your throat. He is sure of it."

At that moment, when all hope had abandoned her, when she knew not where to turn, these words fell upon Tiomane's ears like a revelation from heaven. Her voice was worth money! She knew not how, she did not try to comprehend; but her voice was worth money—that was all. Could it be true? Without stopping to reflect, urged on by one thought, ready to undertake anything, she begged the good woman to go down at once and ask the professor if he would grant her an interview for a few moments. She soon reappeared, the bearer of M. Desgoffes' compliments. He would be delighted to see the young lady who had given him so much pleasure.

CHAPTER XXI.



IT WAS ONLY when Tiomane found herself in the large and elegantly furnished antechamber on the first floor that she began to tremble. A valet conducted her to the drawing-room, where she found a middle-aged gentleman seated at a grand piano. He rose to receive her. His appearance was not prepossessing—a bald head, green spectacles, a hooked nose, a long, gray beard.

"Ah! it is you, mademoiselle?—the sweet singer, who fills the whole house with her music. What volume! And what do you intend to do with your beautiful talent?" All this time he was eyeing her keenly, taking no notice of her frightened face.

She made a great effort to appear calm, and said, "Sir, I come to you in a moment of frightful despair."

"Indeed!" he said, still eyeing her sharply.

She continued, "The wife of the concierge says you think my voice is worth money."

"She is quite right," he answered nonchalantly, at the same time adjusting his green spectacles; "and, besides, you are a beautiful girl, a very beautiful girl. What a furore you would make on the stage!"

"On the stage!" she echoed, in a tone of alarm.

"Yes. Does that frighten you?"

He seated himself again at the piano.

"You know music very well," he said; "you sing badly; nevertheless, you are a musician—a genius. Do you read at sight?"

"Oh, yes," she answered, her awe of this very plain-spoken gentleman increasing.

"Come here! Bah! I am not going to eat you. This has just appeared," he said, opening the score of a new opera. "I suppose you were not present at the rehearsal last evening," he added in a mocking tone. He played the first measures.

Tiomane read music very correctly, but now her voice trembled with emotion. When she had finished, the professor said, "That is bad, very bad, but it is because you are frightened. Here is Faust—you must know that, and your voice is warming up a little."

This time she sang beautifully.

"Well," he said, pointing to a chair opposite his, "now let us talk business. What do you want of me?"

The poor girl had become frightfully pale, and her heart beat so that she felt ready to faint.

"Allow me, sir, to be very frank with you, to tell you my whole history, that you may understand the reason of my coming here."

SEATED AT A PIANO.

In a few words she told him all—her name—the death of her parents—the romantic story of her adoption by the wife of the consul-general of France—her life in Smyrna—the death of the consul—their ruin—their voluntary exile from their own country—their poverty when they arrived in Paris—the improvement in their condition consequent upon Guillaume's success—and, last of all, the irreparable ruin and despair into which they were again plunged by his folly. He owed 6,000 francs, and she feared he would put an end to his life to escape the taunts and insults of his creditor.

The maestro listened, evidently very much interested—sometimes looking very much amused.

"What a plot for a novel!" he murmured, more than once.

When she ceased speaking, he said, after a silence which to Tiomane appeared endless:

"If I understand you, then, what you wish at once is 6,000 francs, to pay the debt of this foolish young gambler?"

"Oh, sir," she answered, clasping her hands and looking into his face appealingly, "I would give my life to obtain that sum!"

The mocking smile was seen again through the gray beard.

"Listen," he said. "I am quite sure that a Barnum would make his fortune out of you. Well, I am not a Barnum—neither am I a philanthropist. You are very beautiful and interesting, and, what is of more consequence, you have a wonderful voice. It goes without saying that you do not know how to sing—but you can learn. You started a little while ago when I spoke of your going on the stage. Well! I have a daughter myself, and I understand your feelings. With your education, and the society in which you have moved—it is a pity. However, I will not urge you to go upon the stage—there are concerts. Ah! what a success you will be! Well, not to make too long a story, this is what I offer you. To-day is a holiday, and the banks are closed—but to-morrow I promise to hand you 6,000 francs."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Old-Style Pipes Reappearing.

A European sculpter living in this city fifteen or twenty years ago, and not successful in his own art, took to modelling clay pipes. The clay was burned a light reddish buff, and he chose for his subjects the heads of local celebrities—Boss Tweed, Peter Cooper, and other men known for various things. It was necessary that the subject should have some striking peculiarity, the more grotesque the better. The Peter Cooper pipe had a wide popularity, and so had one simulating a caricatured Irish face. These pipes were lost to view for some years, or, at any rate, not made in large numbers, but they have recently reappeared. The subjects now are less local than formerly, though the work seems much the same in execution as before, and the new pipes bear the old name. They are, however, more than double the original price.

A Lot of Money for Vets.

The pension agency at Topeka, Kan., paid out during the year ending July 1 very nearly $15,000,000.

Snuffing Out Chinch Bugs.

Infected chinch bugs are fast doing up what few remain of their healthy brethren in Missouri.

Died While Praying.

C. B. Cole, an aged resident of Aurora, Ill., died while on his knees at prayer at his bedside.

SOUTHERN AFRICA TURMOILS.

British Wait for Ammunition and the Situation Grows Worse.

CAPE TOWN, April 4.—It is difficult to obtain accurate information regarding the rebellion of the natives of Matabeleland. It is not denied, however, that the situation becomes darker every day. The situation is made worse by the scarcity of arms and ammunition for defense. It is an open secret that every good rifle procurable was smuggled into the Transvaal previous to Jameson's raid and afterward captured by the Boers. The British are now in the position of hunters caught in their own trap, and until the weapons of defense arrive from England they are almost helpless. The natives are aware of this, and should they combine in the uprising the result could not be otherwise than disastrous. The whole country outside of a radius of ten miles around Bulawayo is in open insurrection, all of the Matabeles and others are flocking to the Matapo hills, where the son of the late King Lobengula has been raised to his father's rank preparatory to taking command of the insurgent natives. Advices from the Transvaal show that the work of preparing for war continues day and night without any effort at the concealment of the armored forts being built for the protection of Pretoria. It is rumored that Sir Hercules Robinson, the governor of Cape Colony, seeing the approach of clouds, is desirous of resigning before the storm breaks; and the other officers would like to do the same. Under the encouragement of Germany, the British prestige in South Africa has been rudely shaken. Most energetic steps will be necessary to establish the statu quo which prevailed before Jameson's raid. It had leaked out that the British Chartered Company is greatly alarmed, and has called on Governor Robinson to ask for reinforcements from Great Britain or India.

RUSSIA AND FRANCE.

Indications That They Will Combine to Resist British Aggression in the Soudan.

PARIS, April 4.—In the chamber of deputies M. Bourgeois, prime minister and minister of foreign affairs, made reply to the interpellations submitted by Mm. Deafosse, Pierre, Alype and Lebon, in which they asked for information on the situation in Egypt. M. Bourgeois declared that Great Britain had installed herself in Egypt without having been invested with a mandate to do so by the powers or by the sultan of Turkey, and had therefore caused permanent uneasiness. The sultan's mandate had not been secured, although Egypt was a dependency of the Ottoman empire, whose integrity the powers had agreed to respect. The action of the Russian and French delegates on the Egyptian debt commission in protesting against the illegal appropriation of Egyptian funds for the Soudan expedition, had established a reservation in regard to the Egyptian question. M. Bourgeois added that Russia and France were never more closely associated than at present. The cabinet, he concluded, was continuing the negotiations concerning Egypt with firmness, and was inspired with confidence in defending, with Europe, their common rights and interests. Upon the conclusion of M. Bourgeois' statement the chamber, by a vote of 300 to 213, adopted a vote of confidence in the government. The concensus of opinion in the lobbies is that part of M. Bourgeois' reply to the interpellations clearly indicated that he was trying to procure a conference of the powers on the Egyptian question.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 5.—The Viedomosti, in the course of a violent article, says: "Balfour's statement that England is not bound in any way simplifies the Egyptian situation. This was the last chance to announce the European significance of the Suez canal. While the English are in Egypt there can be no peace for Europe. England is encircling the world with her territory."

PARIS, April 5.—The senate, by 155 to 85 votes, refused the government a vote of confidence, and this was due to the inability of the government to add to the explanations on the Egyptian question. All the senators left the chamber. After the vote the senate immediately adjourned until April 21. A meeting of the ministers was called to discuss the situation.

Wholesale Murder.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., April 3.—It is believed that Henry F. Bastian, a farmer who lived near here, but who suicided on March 13, was the murderer of five persons who had worked for him on his farm. The bodies of two victims have been found and search is being made for the others, who disappeared very mysteriously.

The Negus Butchers Them.

NEW YORK, April 3.—A Herald's special from Rome says: The Negus Menelik has ordered the massacre of a number of prisoners and sick persons who have fallen into the hands of his forces during the present campaign in Abyssinia.

Know Thyself.

SCIENCE HELPS YOU TO BE YOUR OWN DOCTOR.

From the Era, Bradford, Pa.

Too few people are acquainted with the rapid advance of medical science, and too many doctors are still plodding in the old paths. Once it comes to pass that people know themselves, that all physicians are abreast of the world's knowledge, much of our suffering will come to an end. Medical scientists are not delving into the depths of knowledge for the mere benefit of brother physicians, but for the benefit of the world. They place in the hands of the well man a means of keeping well, in the hands of the sick man a means of recovery. To the parent they give the power of saving the child. Science is working for you—will you accept the proffered help?

Mrs. George Rowend, an estimable lady who resides at No. 276 East Main Street, has cause to feel grateful toward the science of medicine.

She stated to a reporter that she had been suffering with a female trouble for many years. She had been doctored for the ailment for a long time—in fact, nearly all her life—and had never received anything more than temporary relief. During the last three years her condition grew worse and was aggravated by an affection of the heart. Her health was so poor that she found it almost impossible to perform her household duties.

"I never believed in proprietary medicines," said Mrs. Rowend, "but one day last fall I read an article in a newspaper which told of the cures effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to try the medicine. Before I had taken the contents of one box I began to feel better. The depressing weakness which had bothered me for so many years began to disappear, and the action of the heart at once became stronger and more regular.

"I took nine boxes of the pills and I am now feeling better than I have for several years, and I have unbounded faith in the medicine."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

SMILES BETWEEN SERMONS.

"Wouldn't you oblige," said the reporter who gets novel interviews, "by telling me what book helped you most in life?" And after a thoughtful pause the great man answered: "My bank book."—Family Call.

New Chum: And how am I to know when I'm getting near the gold? Old Digger: Well, just keep on digging till yer pick gets yaller like mustard, and you can reckon you are coming on it.—Sydney Bulletin.

Jones: It is a fashionable congregation, isn't it? Smith: Very! Their minister may believe what he likes about the Bible, but if he should ever advocate the taxation of church property he'd have to go.—Puck.

The Pilgrim—Easter Number

Will be ready the early part of April. Everything in it will be new and original. It will contain articles by Capt. Chas. King, U. S. A., ex-Gov. Geo. W. Peck, of Wisconsin, and other noted writers. An entertaining number, well illustrated. Send ten (10) cents to Geo. H. Heafford, publisher, 415 Old Colony building, Chicago, Ill., for a copy.

A Parallel Case.

Tommy—You know when you was sick last summer the doctor sent you away for awhile—said a change would do you good.

Mrs. Figg—Yes.

"I wonder if I wouldn't feel better if I was took out of school for awhile and sent to the theater every day instead?"

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury,

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure, be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by druggists; price, 75c per bottle.

Fifty-cent gas is the rage in Kansas City. It is so cheap that the very air is burdened with a large quantity in various stages of strength.

Hegeman's Camphor Ice with Glycerine. The original and only genuine. Cures Chapped Hands and Face, Cold Sores, &c. C. G. Clark Co., N. Haven, Ct.

After every inundation in Egypt the land is covered with innumerable frogs; and these the storks gobble with great gusto.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth,

Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.

It should be noted that General Weyler is a steadfast friend of electrocution. Most of his executions are done by wire.

Good reasons why you should use Hindercorns. It takes out the corns, and then you have peace and comfort, surely a good exchange. 15c, at druggists.

The young man who is waiting for something to turn up finally discovers that he has been turned down.

Every dollar spent in Parker's Ginger Tonic is well invested. It subdues pain, and brings better digestion, better strength and better health.

The crater of Aetna is a quarter of a mile high on a plain three miles across.

"A Cup of Parks' Tea at night moves the bowels in the morning."

Papa (on top of the stairs)—Is that young man gone, Mamie? Mamie—Yes, papa, awfully.

Wall Paper
and
All kinds of
Painting material
Cheap at
HARR'S.

J. H. QUEAL & CO.

Invite you to come and inspect their Dry, Bright, well seasoned stock of

LUMBER LATH SHINGLES SASH DOORS — BRICK LIME CEMNFT

Oak and Cedar Posts.

We have a complete stock to select from at the lowest price. Let us figure on your bill.

We will not be undersold.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.

SPRING GOODS!

Our Spring goods have arrived consisting of

—BLACK, WHITE and FIGURED—

LAWNS

Light Colored CALICOS, MUSLINS,

GAUZE UNDERWEAR ETC.

We also have a large line of HATS, CAPS and SHOES.
Butter and Eggs Wanted.

SHAFER & DOW.

GEO KLUCKHOHN,
The Restaurant Man!

Serves the Public with

A Square Meal, Fine Bread Buns, Oysters, Cigars, Tobaccos, etc.

WHEN IN TOWN CALL AND SEE HIM.

KLEMME, - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

ALEX. KIRKWOOD,

....PROPRIETOR OF....

KIRKWOOD :-: HOUSE,

FIRST CLASS ACCOMMADATION. - RATES $1.00 per Day.

Livery and Feed Stable in Connection

Rigs Furnished on Short Notice.

KLEMME, IOWA.

Locals.

Dr. Wallace of Garner made the TIMES office a pleasant call Thursday.

E. P. Schaefer will have a stock of Ladies Capes next week. Call early before they are picked over.

E. P. Schaefer left Tnesday for Chicago to buy goods. You may expect the very latest styles on their arrival.

Frank Gallery left Monday for Buchanan Co. to attend the funeral of his mother-in-law. His wife went last week.

The Boswag Bros. living 3 miles east of Garner, were in town Saturday and bought one of those fine riding plows of Lau Bros.

"Sons and Fathers," The CHICAGO RECORD'S great $10,000 prize story, is pure in thought and expression throughout. It is a story for the fireside and the family and is in entire keeping with the reputation of Chicago's family newspaper, The RECORD.

SCHOOL NOTES.

May look for the monthly report next week, as we cannot get it published this week.

Emma Rusch is the latest enrollment up to writing.

The writing class is quite enthusiastic at present: we are writing all farms of notes, drafts, checks, due bills and etc. Actual business should not be forgotten in the school work.

The school will observe Arbor Day by having appropriate exercises for that day. We shall also try to plant some trees.

The new desks for the primary room are here and the primaries are glad.

Mrs. A. B. Shafer, and MRS. Henry, and MISS Hubbard were visiting our school last Friday afternoon.

We cordially invite all patrons and friends to make us a call.

Thousands of people are looking Californiawards. They want to know where to go to raise fruit and how to travel cheaply and comfortably. For full answers to these questions address California Bureau of Information, Box, 572 Cedar Rapids, Ia.

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons sbuject to attacks of bilious colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In many instances the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by J. L. HARR.

G. A. R. Fall In.

Iowa State Encampment at Cedar Rapids April 28th to 30th. ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP from all points in Iowa on the B., C.R. & N. Ry. the "Quick Step Route" to Cedar Rapids. Tickets sold April 27, 28 and 29, good to return until and including May 2nd. Call on B., C. R & N. agents for further information. Ex. 4. 30.

An Affidav.it

This is to certify that on May 11th, I walked to Melick's drug store on a pair of crutches and bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm for inflamatory rheumatism which had crippled me up. After using three bottles I am completely cured. I can cheerfully recommend it.—Charles H. Wetzel, Sunbury, Pa.

Sworn and subscribed to before me on August 10, 1894.—Walter, Shipman J. P. For sale at 50 cents per bottle by J. L. HARR.

During the winter of 1893, F. M. Martin, of Long Reach, West Va., contracted a severe cold which left him with a cough. In speaking of how he cured it he says: "I used several kinds of cough syrup but found no relief until I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which relieved me almost instantly, and in a short time brought a complete cure." When troubled with a congh or cold use this remedy and you will not find it necessary to try several kinds before you get relief. It has been in the market for over twenty years and constantly grown in favor and popularity. For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by J. L. HARR.

DUNKARDS'

Annual meeting at Ottawa, Kas., MAY 26-29. Tickets will be sold MAY 23, 24 and 25, from all points on the B., C. R. & N. Ry., at rate of ONE FARE Plus $2 for the Round Trip. Good to return 30 days from date of sale, if ticket is deposited with station agent at Ottawa before June 1. For further information call on B., C. R. & N. agents.

THE LEADING Implement DEA ERS.

Mitchell & Lewis WAGONS,

Racine Buggies, John Deere Plows, J. I. Case Plows, Keystone Planters, Disc Cultivators.

Also a line of HARDWARE and

GROCERIES.

Call on us for prices.

GRUETZMACHER BROS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mouldings.

And everything used to build with.

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in the week.

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'GR.,

KLEMME, IOWA.

YOU HAVE IT!

Oats and Corn!

We Want It!

and will pay the Highest Market price to get it.

COAL!

We have it, You want it.

Hard, Soft, Illinois, and Smithing.

WALT. BLOOM, Klemme, Ia.

25 YEARS EXPERIENCE IN

BLACKSMITHING

Enables me to do your work in a workmanlike manner.

Plow Work a Specialty.

Also do wood repairing on Wagons and Buggies.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. KROUSE, KLEMME, IA.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, APRIL 17, 1896. NUMBER 34

Church Directory.

AMERICAN M. E. CHURCH.
Preaching Service, 10.30, a. m.
Sunday School, 11.30, " "
Epworth League, 7.30, p. m.
Every Sunday.
Prayer meeting, Thursday, 7.30 p.m.
Everyone most cordially invited.
CHARLES E. ANDERSON, Pastor.

GERMAN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School 9.30 a. m.
Preaching Service 10.30 " "
Evening Service — Preaching and Epworth League alternately—8.00 p.m,
Prayer meeting Wednesday 8.00 p.m.
Rev. G. HAENER, Pastor.

GERMANTOWN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School and Preaching alternately 9.30 and 10.30 a. m. and 2.00 and 3.00 p. m.
Epworth League 8.00 p. m. each Sunday. Rev. G. HAENER, Pastor.

REFORMED CHURCH.
Preaching Service — —
Rev. TREIKE, Pastor.

SEND YOUR ORDERS
FOR ABSTRACTS
—of titles to—
J. S. Knauss, Abstracter.
Owner of Complete set,
Lands and Town Lots.
Titles Perfected. Promptness and Accuracy
GUARANTEED
GARNER, IOWA.

A. L. SPOONER.
Physician and Surgeon.
Office and residence on Main Street first door west of Bank.
Klemme, Iowa.

H. E. PEITZKE
IS THE BLACKSMITH
—THAT—
Will do your work well.
He also does wood work.
HIS
Prices are right,
AND
Experience great.
KLEMME, IOWA.

B. G. R. & N. TIME TABLE.

GOING SOUTH.

No. 84,	Stock - -	6.00	a. m.
No. 89.	Way freight -	1.30	p. m.
No. 82.	Pass. - -	2.28	p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 83.	Way freight -	10.00	a. m.
No. 85.	Freight -	3.58	p. m.
No. 81.	Pass. - -	5.16	p. m.

F. B. SMITH,
Local Agt.

KLEMME - DRAY - LINE.
H. & S. NISSEN,
Proprietors.
Draying and teaming of all kinds done on short notice.
GIVE US A CALL.

Local Mention.

A fine line of New Spring Hats at E. P. Schaefer's.

Nels palmer spent Sunday with friends at Algona.

E. P. Schafer returned from Chicago Tuesday morning.

Mrs. C. W. Knapp is not improving as fast as could be wished.

A Good Oak cane seated dining chair for $1. at E. P. Schaefer's.

One second hand sulky plow, the Clipper, for sale at H. E. Peitzke's.

Mr. Wilson has been laid up a few days with catarrahal sore throat.

See the sound condition of our bank. Read the statement in this irsue.

Aug. Lau is building a large barn on his lots in the north part of town.

It is time for everybody to commence grumbling because it is too wet.

Miss Luella Wesenberg of Goodell, spent Sunday with her relatives in Klemme.

Remember that we are prepared to get out sale bills on short notice. Give us a trial.

A. B. Shafer made some garden Monday morning, Apr. 13th., the first for this season, we think.

Phillip Schneider will be in Klemme between trains Tuesday. Be sure and be on time and get your picture.

Art Gibbs has a situation with H. W. Schoper, one of our large implement dealers. He commenced work this week.

If you want a well drilled or your pump fixed Rollie Steele, of Garner will attend to it promptly. Office with Duffy.

The lady visitor of Goodell, and one of the firm of W. Bros. of Klemme gave the contractor of Klemme, a reception Apr. 13th.

Noah Shaw was taken very sick with pleurisy, Saturday evening. Dr. Spooner was called and at this writing he is much improved.

A Fresh invoice of bulk seed incleuding Red and White Clover, Timothy, Blue Grass, Redtop, Millet and Garden Seeds at Grnetzmacher Bro's.

Mr. William Rollinson who has been a guest of the King family for the past ten days, returned Wednesday, the 8th., to his home in Des Moines.

Willard Carver, a lawyer of Ocheyedan Iowa, was in town, Saturday, visiting friends. He is enroute for Missouri. We received a call from Mr. Carver.

A daily instalment of "Sons and Fathers," The CHICAGO RECORD's great prize story, will do you more good than a daily dose of medicine—and it is far pleasanter to take.

Weichselbaum, tired of running through the mud has put in a crossing from his office north across the street. Other crossings are badly needed in town, let the good work go on.

Regular Quarterly Services were held in the German M. E. church on Sunday. Presiding Elder, Koener conducted the services. There was a very small congregation in the evening owing to the inclemency of the weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson arrived home safely Friday evening. They report a very pleasant visit with relatives at, and near Fayette Iowa. From Independence, they enjoyed the company of Miss Ella Anderson who accompained them to Fayette.

Thos. Way of Britt, and Al. Schmalle of Garner, were in town Tuesday in the interests of the Western Electric Telephone Co., of which Mr. Way is president. They are agitating the question of extending their telephone line from Garner via. Klemme to Goodell, there to connect with the Iowa Union Co. If our citizens take hold of this project we will be in direct communication, not only with the county seat, but almost the entire state. The Electric Co. have now over 1000 miles of line completed, They also have connecting arrangements with the Iowa Union Co.

Additional Locals.

H. E. Peitzke has fenced his lots by the shop.

Bicycles repared on short notice at Shafer and Dow's.

Four good living rooms to rent. Inquire at Lau Bro's.

Remember the Cape sale closes Tuesday at E. P. Schaefer's.

Heavy work harness from 24 to $28, all complete at Lau Bros.

M. L. Weichselbaum is having an addition built to his residence.

Two good buggies at cost, to make room for our new stock, at Lau Bro's.

The Garner Laundry will call for and deliver your laundry, Tuesday and Friday of each week.

Wanted.

1000 dozen eggs and 500 lbs butter in exchange for Wall Paper and Paints. Shafer & Dow.

Papering.—I am ready to do paperhanging in a first class manner and on short notice. All work guaranteed.
REV. C. NOLTE, Goodell, Ia.

The CHICAGO RECORD'S $10,000 prize story, "Sons and Fathers," began publication in that paper on Monday, March 23. New subscribers, whose subscriptions may be received later than that date, will be able to get the story from the beginning by simply indicating their desire to have the ealier installments furnished them.

STATEMENT
—of the condition of the—
STATE SAVINGS BANK OF KLEMME,

Organized under the laws of Iowa, located at Klemme, in the county of Hancock, at the close of business on the 25th. day of March, A. D. 1896, made to the Auditorof State as required by law.

ASSETS.

Amount of Bills, Bonds and other evidences of debts discounted or purchased actually owned by the Bank,	$26,152.57
Good	$26.152.57
Past due	$3.376.98
Amount of cash on hand, Gold and silver coin	$165.90
Legal tender and national bank notes and subsidiary coin	$1,189.20
Drafts on solvent banks on hand and cash items	$93.85
The amount subject to be drawn at sight on deposit with solvent banks or bankers North Western National B'k. Chicago	$274.52
First Nat. Bank Garner Ia.	$4,297.58
Overdrafts	$281.89
The value of real property	$724.10
The value of personal property.	$982.25
Total Assets	$34,161.86

LIABILITIES.

The amount of capital stock actually paid up in cash	$10,000.00
Amount sight deposits	$8,651.19
Amount time deposits	$11,210.45
Surplus fund	$4,000.00
Other profits on hand	$300.22
Total liabilities	$34,161.86
Amount of all liabilities to the Bank on part of the Directors....As borrowers	$750.00

STATE OF IOWA } ss.
Hancock County. }

We J. E. Wichman President and J. M. Elder and Isaac Sweigard Directors of the Bank above named, do solemnly swear that the foregoing statement is full, true and correct, to the best of our knowledge and belief, that the assets therein set forth are bona fide the property of said Bank in its corporate capacity; and that no part of the same has been loaned or advanced to said Bank for the purpose of being exhibited as a portion of its assets.

J. E. WICHMAN
President,
ISAAC SWEIGARD J. M. ELDER
Directors.

Subscribed and sworn to before me by J. E. Wichman, Isaac Sweigard and J. M. Elder this 11th. day of April 1896.
{ seal } CHAS. W. KNOOP
Notary Public

It is a truth so I've been Told
That farmers, young and Old
Come 20 miles in the Cold
To buy a Harness that is Sold
At $24
at
LAU BROS.

We carry a fine line of
DRY GOODS and GRCERIES
Boots, Shoes, and Hardware.
We are in the market for large deals in
MACHINERY.

Just Arrived,
A New Line of
Spring Goods.
E. P. SCHAEFER has just returned from Chicago with a large assortment of New Goods, in the very latest styles.
CALL AND SEE THEM.

Remember the CAPE SALE;
which will last until
April 21ts.
E. P. SCHAEFER.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, - - - IOWA

Dressmakers' bills will be worn unusually large and full this season.

Cremation is fast becoming one of the burning questions of the day.

The Spaniards have proved that even though they can't fight they are able to torture.

Colonel Jolley is a candidate for governor of Kansas. He ought to be a happy man.

It is about time for the special correspondents in Cuba to bring off another battle or hang a few spies.

Soon we may be telephoning under the sea, and then who knows but we will hear what the wild waves are saying.

The fact that American iron bedsteads are being shipped to Jerusalem ought to make our iron manufacturers rest easy.

Nothing was lacking to the homecoming of the Marlboroughs save the presence of Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt and Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont.

A Nebraska man has sued a telegraph company for $2,000 because a message was delayed so long it made him miss his mother-in-law's funeral. Think of that.

It is never too late to learn. Mrs. Lydia Blackburn, aged 36, attends school every day in Chicago. A year ago she could not read or write. To-day she can do both very nicely.

A Montreal florist is getting a great advertisement. He has sued Queen Victoria for $1,900 for flowers sent to a state funeral. The queen has offered to settle for $900, but the florist still says $1,900 or fight.

Lucinda Tucker of Kansas, who invented the song, "Good-bye, Old Party, Good-bye," which inspired the populists and retired Senator Ingalls, has rescued her husband from drunkenness with a cowhide.

Chicago messenger boys are to be mounted on wheels. As it is a very difficult task to remain on the wheel without making it go, at least a little it is safe to say a noticeable gain in time will result.

A Chicago madman created much excitement at the opera last week in that city. The malady probably came upon him when he found that he had paid $3.50 to look at a pair of puff sleeves and listen to discourses on subjects of such vital interest as the most scientific way of treating a cold in the head or the merits and demerits of detached collar and cuffs for shirt waists.

Judge Wright of Champaign has summoned before him all persons who have expressed contempt of the recent action of the grand jury in indicting the state university trustees—which is practically a call for a mass meeting of the entire population of the state, lunatics, dumb persons and members of the grand jury alone excepted.

The common council of Omaha passed the curfew ordinance. The people opposed it and the mayor of course vetoed it. Then, just for spite, the council passed it over the veto, which act has enraged nine-tenths the people. They say the curfew shall not ring; and that's exactly what the boys and girls say, who are now trying to get an ordinance passed compelling aldermen to be home by 9 p. m.

A strange phenomenon has been noticed in various parts of Nebraska. Water stands higher in wells and is found in larger volume in streams than for several years at this season. There has been very little rain in Nebraska during the last fall and winter, yet streams which were dry last years are filling with water from some unknown source and wells show more water than usual. The weather bureau has begun an investigation and the railroads are assisting.

A German investigator has announced that the total length of telegraph lines in the world is 1,062,700 miles, of which America has 545,600 miles; Europe, 330,700; Asia, 67,400; Africa, 21,500, and Australia, 47,500 miles. The United States has a greater length than any other country, 403,900 miles, and Russia comes next, although European Russia has only 81,000 miles. The other countries follow in this order: Germany, France, Austria-Hungary, British India, Mexico, the United Kingdom, Canada, Italy, Turkey, the Argentine Republic, Spain and Chili. In point of proportion, however, Belgium leads with 409 miles of wire for every 1,000 square miles of territory; Germany comes next with 250 miles; Holland is only slightly behind Germany, and the United Kingdom has 280 miles of telegraph for every 1,000 miles of country.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

SOMETHING OF A DETECTIVE.

Sheriff of Clayton County Hunts Down a Murderer.

ANAMOSA, April 12.—Sheriff Benton, of Clayton county, has proven himself quite a clever detective. In some way he found that a man answering the description of George Lusch, the man who killed Mathis Martzel last June near Osburn, was working in the southwest part of Missouri. He started for the place and on arriving there found no man answering to that name. He went to the postoffice where he was supposed to get his mail and asked if anyone had asked for mail addressed to Lusch. The postmaster replied in the negative, but said there was a letter in the postoffce with that address. The sheriff did not tell who he was, but watched the office, and in two or three days his man called for mail for Mr. Lusch and was immediately told he was wanted in Clay county, Iowa. Mr. Benton had the necessary papers and brought his man with him and he now reposes in the Clayton county jail to answer to the charge of murder.

KILLED BY A TRAIN.

Death of a Workman While Beating His Way on the "Q."

CRESTON, April 11.—The body of a dead man was found about one mile from Villisca, by the engine crew on train No. 5, who informed the section foreman at Villisca and the mangled remains were taken to Villisca, where investigation revealed the fact that the dead man was E. A. Robinson, of Lincoln, Neb. He had evidently been killed during the night by some freight train. His father is the engineer at at the State Journal office, and his relatives were notified. Just how the young man came to his death, so far as the minute particulars are concerned, will never be known, but it is supposed he was beating his way. He held a card in the Lincoln Plumber's Union, No. 25.

MOTIONS TO DISMISS.

Filed in the Cases of the State vs. Richmond et al., at Des Moines.

DES MOINES, April 11.—In the case of the state vs. Dr. Spinney, W. S. Richmond et al., in which the defendants are indicted on charges of violating the laws relative to the control of the building and loan associations with which they were connected, motions have been made asking that the remaining indictments be dismissed. Of the cases reported by the grand jury but two have been tried and the state failed to secure a conviction in either of these. Five terms of court have elapsed since any of the cases were tried. The defense asks that the cases be dismissed for want of prosecution and for the further reason that there is not enough evidence to convict.

FREMONT COUNTY THIEVES.

Expert Poorman, of Des Moines, Has Completed His Investigation.

DES MOINES, April 9.—Messrs. D. A. and Geo. F. Poorman returned from Sidney, Fremont county, where they have been for the past three months, examining the county offices. They found a shortage of nearly $12,000 and an immense amount of corruption in the county offices there. Before his departure, Mr. Poorman submitted his report, which is the second that he has made and which shows over $6,000 due the county in addition to an equally large shortage disclosed in the first report, making a total steal of about $12,000.

CAME HOME TO PLEAD GUILTY

An Indianola Forger Returned From the Sandwich Islands to Do It.

INDIANOLA, April 10.—In the district court in the case of the state vs. W. E. Labarten, the defendant pleaded guilty to six different indictments for uttering forged promissory notes. Defendant fled to the Sandwich Islands, but his conscience so troubled him that he returned and yielded himself up. He was sentenced to seven years and ten months in the penitentiary.

SIXTEEN AND A HALF YEARS.

William Royce, Who Murdered Nellie Patton, Sentenced.

SIOUX CITY, April 10.—William Royce was sentenced to sixteen years and a half in the penitentiary for the murder of Nellie Patten. He had pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree. His attorney made a strong plea for leniency and the sentence is considered severe.

Lawyer Accidentally Killed.

WILLIAMSBURG, April 10.—T. S. Kitchen, a prominent young attorney of this city, and a nephew of Judge Fairall, of Iowa City, was found dead on the banks of the Iowa river near South Amana. He had gone there with a party of duck hunters, got separated from them, and not returning, a searching party was sent out and found the body. Both barrels of the gun had been burst.

ALMOST A CYCLONE.

Severe Windstorm Visits Southeastern Iowa.

OTTUMWA, April 11.—A fierce wind and hail storm visited southeastern Iowa, amounting almost to a cyclone in some places. A fierce rain, accompanied by a heavy hail and a high wind, visited Lucas. South of town the storm assumed the velocity of a cyclone. Mr. Scoville's barn, containing a carriage and farm implements, was blown away and scattered all over the section, while other similar occurrences are reported. It is impossible to estimate the damage. A number of farm buildings were blown away, and hundreds of panes of glass smashed by hail.

Persistent Attempts to Wreck a Train.

MASON CITY, April 12.—Twice during the week attempts have been made to wreck the night passenger on the Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern. Ties were piled across the track at the White Fox bridge just east of Clarion. Each time the engineer has discovered the obstruction just in time to avert a terrible accident. The officials of the road are investigating.

Jack Pizer Gets Sixteen Years.

MAQUOKETA, April 12.—Jack Hizer was sentenced by Judge Waterman to the penitentiary at Anamosa for sixteen years for criminal assault. This makes his third term for the same offense.

Suicide at Applington.

PARKERSBURG, April 13.—Mrs. Chris Ibling, living north of town, shot herself at the home of her sister in Aplington. Recovery is impossible. Temporary insanity was the cause.

Killed by a Train.

FORT DODGE, April 13.—John P. Timmons, a painter living at Duncombe, was killed by the cars while under the influence of liquor.

Died From Alcoholism.

OTTUMWA, April 11.—Patrick Ogill, a laborer, ended a week's drunk by dying in bed. He drank an unusually large amount of liquor and was unable to sober up.

BREVITIES.

A Pretoria dispatch says: "In the Landrost court all of the members of the reform committee were committed for trial on the charge of high treason for their participation in the Johannesburg uprising."

Amanda Biedler, the 19-year-old daughter of W. W. Biedler, of Council Bluffs, committed suicide by shooting herself. A dispute with a sister was the cause. This is the third daughter that has suicided in three years.

While Daniel Haviland, a carpenter, and another workman were working in the Firmenick Glucose Works, at Marshalltown recently a bar in the hands of Haviland was in some way caught in the machinery and hurled with such force against the head of Mr. Haviland that his skull was crushed like an egg shell. He died a few hours later.

An accidental hanging occurred in Lincoln township, Union county. Hilda, the 4½-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson, was playing with other children on a large box. They had been throwing stones into the box, one of the boards being removed. Hilda became overbalanced and fell into the box, her head catching in such a manner as to hang her, and the child strangled to death before assistance arrived, her companions being too small to aid her.

Judge Fee made a ruling in the district court at Albia that affects every newspaper publisher in the state. In the contest for the award of the county printing, the several newspapers made reductions in their subscription price to increase their list. The Republican advertised a rate of 25 cents, limiting the reduced rate to persons living within the county. The board made the award to the Republican, as having the largest list. A contestant appealed, and Judge Fee has just ruled that a publisher may not reduce his subscription price when competing for the county printing for the purpose of increasing his list. The case is appealed to the supreme court on a demurrer to this ruling.

At Cedar Rapids recently, after a three days' trial, the jury in the case of William Liefheit against the Schlitz Brewing Company brought in a verdict for the defendant. Liefheit brought this suit about four years ago, claiming, as the assignee of Fred Jurries, of Clinton, the sum of $14,481.78 for moneys paid the defendant for liquors and expended on the company's buildings at Clinton, the action being brought under the prohibitory statutes of the state, which provide a penalty for the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors and which provide that a person may recover money paid out for such liquors. The case was first brought in the district court, then transferred to the federal courts, and then sent back to the district court. After being postponed two or three times the case came to trial this term. An appeal has been taken.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

CUBA.

MADRID, April 10.—Imparcial says: "More than ever the effects of the insurrection are felt in the farming districts, where, at the present time, it is hard to engage laborers, as so many have gone to Cuba. Any one who takes a trip through the agricultural districts will be convinced beyond doubt, that the present strain on the country is terrible and one which Spain cannot stand without serious injury for any length of time."

CHICAGO, April 10.—The Tribune's special from Key West, Fla., says: Four times within the past four days the Spanish forces have been defeated by the insurgents under Maceo in the province of Pinar del Rio, according to advices just received from Havana, but not a word has been allowed to go out in regard to these engagements by the Spanish authorities. It is said in Havana that the Spanish loss in the four engagements was over 1,500 in killed and wounded, although the government suppresses all information about the battles. The number of wounded soldiers arriving in Havana proves the truth of the rumors. One train from the west brought in 400 wounded men.

MADRID, April 11.—Affairs look so serious again that American tourists are hurrying away. The passage of the belligerency resolutions has caused excited talk. A guard is still maintained at the American legation, but it has not been increased. A feeling is prevalent that a crisis is near and that trouble might break out at any moment. The captain general of Ferrio reports that the fleet which is being organized there is ready to go to sea. The ships composing it are the ironclads Pelace, Infanta Maria, Teresa, Vizcayaya and Oquendo; the torpedo destroyer Destructor and various other torpedo boats. They will forthwith be supplied with the necessary war material and will probably start for the river Arosa shortly to go through a course of instruction until the government decides on their ultimate destination.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—President Cleveland has taken action in behalf of Cuba. He has made to Spain a formal proposition that the good offices of the United States be accepted in mediation between that country and her rebellious colony in the West Indies. This proposal was made in a cablegram of instructions to our minister at Madrid, Mr. Taylor. No diplomatic dispatch of equal importance has left the capital since Secretary Olney's note to the British government on the Venezuelan boundary question was sent to London last summer. The president does not ask Spain to grant the independence of Cuba, nor does he suggest that home rule be accorded the people of that island. He simply asks that reforms be granted.

MADRID, April 12.—The government is planning for the defense of the coast in the event of war.

NEW YORK, April 12.—After being out eight minutes the jury in the case against the Cubans charged with being concerned in the Bermuda filibustering expedition returned a verdict of "not guilty."

KEY WEST, April 13.—News has been received of the safe landing of three cargoes of guns and ammunition shipped from this country to the Cuban insurgents.

THE DEVIL PROMPTED HIM.

Murderer of the Stone Family Makes a Written Confession.

AKRON, Ohio, April 11.—In the presence of detectives and a stenographer, Romulus Cottel, alias John Smith, the ex-hired man of the Stone family, made a written confession of the crime for which he is held. He is still calm and perfectly self-possessed. He retold the story of the brutal affair without flinching, and said he did not care for the consequences of his act. The only excuse he would offer for the perpetration of the crime was, "The devil told me to do it." The feeling against Smith at Tallmadge is high and trouble from that source is feared. Anson B. Strong, who has been in jail on suspicion of being implicated in the crime, has been released.

MURDERED TWENTY-SEVEN.

Holmes Says He Did It and Would Have Killed More.

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—H. H. Holmes, about to hang for the murder of Benj. Pietzel, has made a written confession detailing the crimes which he has committed. He says that he has killed twenty-seven persons and would have killed six more but circumstances prevented. He committed the crimes to secure money to educate his son. He says the devil has been the guiding genius of his destiny, and he could not help being a murderer any more than some can help being poets.

Ohio Will Electrocute.

COLUMBUS, April 10.—The electrocution bill has passed the house, and the law becomes effective July 1.

AMERICANS AT ATHENS.

They Win Many of the Contests at the Stadium.

ATHENS, April 12.—At the Olympic contests, the long distance race from Marathon, twenty-six miles, was won by a Greek in 2 hours and 48 minutes. The Americans dropped out. The 100 metre race was won by Thos. Burke, of Boston, in 12 seconds; the high jump by Ellery Clark, of Harvard; the hurdle race of 110 metres by Thos. Curtis, of Boston, in 17 3-5 seconds; parallel bar contest by a German; contest at climbing the pole by a Greek; pole jump, W. W. Hoyt, of Harvard; rifle and revolver contests, Paine brothers, Americans. The high jump was a tie between an American and an Irishman.

TRADE REVIEW.

The Volume of Business the Lowest Ever Known.

NEW YORK, April 12.—R. G. Dun & Co. say in their weekly review of trade: Failures for the past week have been 209 in the United States, against 207 last year, and 33 in Canada, against 27 last year. The volume of business has not on the whole increased, nor have prices appreciably advanced since April 1, when the range for all commodities was the lowest ever known in this country. Breadstuffs and iron products have risen slightly, but some other articles have declined, and the root of the matter is that demand for consumption is still below expectations.

Negus Cuts Off Prisoners' Legs.

ROME, April 12.—The defeat of the Italians at Tueruf, the real extent of which still remains concealed, seems likely to be the preface to the taking of Kassala. This place has been vigorously attacked. Fanfulla advocates the abandonment of Africa, anticipating other serious disasters. The Capitale asserts that the Negus has cut off the legs of thousands of his prisoners.

A "Spartan-like" Deed.

PENT WATER, Mich., April 12.—H. B. Minchell, an insurance agent, killed William Sands, of the Sands & Maxwell Lumber Co., and then went home and murdered his wife and two children, after which he suicided. He left a note saying he believed it Spartan-like for pauper fathers to kill their pauper children.

TERSE NEWS.

Healer Schlatter is now in New Mexico en route te Arizona.

Colonel Breckinridge will again make the race for congress this fall.

Peru is very much pleased with the action of congress relative to Cuba.

The Spaniards suffered another severe defeat at the hands of the insurgents near San Blas.

The French and English press censures congress for its action relative to Cuba. Spanish securities have fallen on the London stock exchange.

The republican state convention of to select delegates to St. Louis failed to instruct, but adopted resolutions favoring protection, reciprocity and free coinage of silver at 16 to 1.

The Ohio legislature has passed the Norris anti-treating bill. The bill makes it a misdemeanor for any person to treat or offer to treat another person to an intoxicating drink, or to give or offer to give another person an intoxicating drink in any place where liquor is sold. The bill received the necessary fifty-seven votes, with but seven in opposition.

London advices say: A dispatch to the Times from Caracas says that a friendly settlement of the Venezuela boundary question is certain. The Times also has an editorial, which comments on the foregoing "gratifying news," and says: "Very little additional knowledge is contained in the documents published yesterday. If Lord Salisbury's arbitration proposals lead to a definite practical result we will not have to regret our long controversy with Venezuela."

Ex-President Benjamin Harrison and Mrs. Mary Scott Lord Dimmick were united in marriage at New York on the afternoon of the 6th in the presence of a small party of friends at St. Thomas' church. Among those present were Gov. Morton and the members of the Harrison cabinet and their wives. Mr. Harrison's children were not present. It is understood they are displeased with the match. Mrs. Harrison is a niece of her husband's first wife.

A Rock Island dispatch says: A possible seventh victim has been added to the Bastian farm list of murders. Alex Sternberg, although he never worked for Bastian, was last heard of peddling in Bastian's neighborhood. That was fifteen months ago, and no trace can be found of the man. Sternberg worked for a while at Augustina College, in Rock Island. The men still at work on the Bastian farm found parts of an old trunk in a well that Bastian had filled up. The silver watch found last week when Louderbach's watch was unearthed has been identified as having belonged to Fritz Kreinsen.

TIOMANE.

BY JACQUES VINCENT.

COPYRIGHT 1892 BY RAND, McNALLY CO.

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER XXI.—[CONTINUED.]

"Oh, sir! oh, sir!" she murmured, "how can I thank you?"

"Besides, I will allow you 200 francs a month, for you must eat well, and not kill yourself with housework. Your adopted mother will sign a paper, in which it will be stipulated that you owe me two years of your talent, after you have acquired it, bien entendu—for I am going to make you work very hard. When I think proper you will make your debut at the Eden, and from that day you will owe me, I repeat, all the money you make. Do you understand? You will have no compensation whatever but the 200 francs a month for your support. Do you accept my offer?

Tiomane was half suffocated with joy.

"How shall I ever repay you, sir?" she said, happy tears raining down her cheeks.

"Oh! do not trouble yourself about that," he answered, laughing; "that is my business. Do not imagine that I am a philanthropist. Not at all! I have said so already. But I relieve you from your trouble. To-morrow morning. I repeat, I will hand you 6,000 francs, as soon as the engagement is signed, and 200 francs a month will be paid you to keep the pot boiling."

Before leaving the professor's apartments, Tiomane begged him not to reveal her brother's guilty folly. He gave her his word of honor.

How shall we describe Guillaume's gratitude and confusion when Tiomane told him what she had done? At first he declared he could not and would not accept such a sacrifice, but she imposed it upon him as something which she, his "sister," had a right to do, and which he, without shame, could accept. She knew that the tender words in which he thanked her were not idle promises.

The lesson had been severe, but efficacious. Guillaum was one of those noble souls that gratitude binds irrevocably.

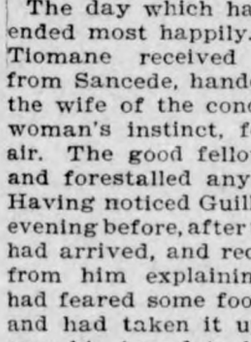
The day which had opened so sadly, ended most happily. In the afternoon, Tiomane received a long telegram from Sancede, handed her privately by the wife of the concierge, who, with a woman's instinct, felt a storm in the air. The good fellow had guessed all, and forestalled any evil consequences. Having noticed Guillaume's absence the evening before, after the train from Paris had arrived, and receiving no telegram from him explaining his absence, he had feared some foolish boyish exploit, and had taken it upon himself to excuse his friend to his uncle, who was very rigid in the observance of rules himself, and who required his employes to be equally so. He had told his uncle that the sudden and dangerous illness of Madame de Sorgnes was the cause of his friend's absence, and he begged Tiomane to send the deserter back to his post of duty as soon as possible. Guillaume was saved.

Madame de Sorgnes was not undeceived. The next morning she signed the paper which Tiomane presented to her without bertaying much surprise that so grave a determination had been reached without consulting her, and thought only that her adopted daughter was very ambitious.

"So we intend to be a great artist," she said; "oh! how well I understand it! We want to be applauded, admired! What, indeed, is more to be desired in this world?"

Tiomane, knowing the address of Guillaume's creditor, sent him the 6,000 francs, and then she wrote her "brother" a long letter, telling him they were all free again.

CHAPTER XXII.



PROFESSOR DESgoffes was considered, in the little world of the Conservatoire, a man who understood business matters thoroughly. He was said to be rich and avaricious—hard-hearted to his confreres who might be unfortunate, pitiless to pupils who had not very decided talent; but no one disputed his ability. He possessed, above all, the tact and skill necessary to communicate his knowledge—he was an accomplished teacher. When he met a pupil of real talent, he devoted himself to its cultivation with tyrannical zeal, expecting both glory and profit as his reward—therefore, Tiomane could not have fallen into better hands. He devoted one hour every evening to her—after her unremitting labors during the whole day. Then—the two, master and pupil, alone in the great drawing-room, she standing before him, that he might have an opportunity of watching every movement of her mouth and throat—the struggle against the bad habits contracted under an inferior professor began. On the fifth evening, Tiomane made the acquaintance of Mademoiselle Desgoffes. The professor had often spoken to her of his love for his only daughter, and she was not a little curious to see this prodigy. Natalia had, though young, received many prizes in music, and was already considered a virtuoso. In the middle of the lesson, she burst into the room like a cyclone.

"Mademoiselle!" she said, with a deliberate ease and coolness which denoted a frank, independent character, "I have admired you for several evenings, without seeing you, and I could not resist the temptation of making your acquaintance. Ah! your face suits your magnificent voice."

At twenty-two, Natalia Desgoffes was, in appearance, a tom-boy of seventeen. Her short, curly chestnut hair stood up like an aureole around her small head; a face quite pretty from its arch expression, large brown eyes; a very inquiring, retrousse nose; a smile that was most charming in its warmth and heartiness. Approaching the piano, and holding out both hands to Tiomane, she said:

"My father has told me your history. You are a noble creature. May I kiss you?"

"Most certainly," said Tiomane, whose heart was quite won by this friendly greeting.

"We shall be friends," continued Natalia. "I know it—I feel it. Papa, I intend to play all her accompaniments at the concerts."

The laughing face became suddenly grave—she seated herself near the instrument and listened with delight to the difficult exercises of the young cantatrice.

The next Sunday Natalia rang unceremoniously at Madame de Sorgnes' door. Guillaume and Sancede had already arrived. Mademoiselle Desgoffes introduced herself very prettily to the mistress of the house, and then stood in speechless ecstasy before Maritza's dazzling beauty. Cato loved her from that moment. She appeared to all of them just what she was—a warm-hearted girl, without any feminine pretensions whatever, devoted to her father and to her art, spontaneous in her sympathies, incapable of disguising a single thought which passed through her busy brain, a little given to ridiculing her friends—but always in their presence—thoroughly good, without cant or hypocrisy. In the easy fashion which was peculiar to her, and one of her greatest charms, she told them the story of her life.

Having lost her mother when quite young, she found herself, still a mere child, the mistress of her father's house. An old woman, who had been her mother's maid, directed the servants, and accompanied her when she went out. She was looking forward eagerly to her twenty-third birthday, when she intended to announce that she was twenty-five and emancipate herself forever from this unnecessary tutelage. She suggested many plans of neighborly companionship and amusement. There mas a musicale every Thursday evening in her father's drawing-room—a reunion of some of the most noted artists in Paris. Would not the ladies do them the honor of coming to their entertainments? She promised Maritza many conquests—un succes fou. Cato's smiling face grew hard and cold.

"MAY I KISS YOU?"

However brilliant may be the talents of a young artist, there is no royal road to musical perfection. Nevertheless, thanks to her rare intelligence and her untiring application, at the end of three months Tiomane had the satisfaction of receiving the congratulations of her professor.

"If we go on in this way," he said, "at the end of a year we shall make ourselves heard."

Natalia, who was interested in everything that interested her father, and admiring Tiomane's wonderful voice as much as he, often came up to assist her in her studies. Her presence brought joy to all—smiles followed her footsteps. Even grave Cato laughed at her lively sallies. She had adopted, with the two young men, the easy ways of an old friend, teasing them in turn; attacking, replying, but always gay and amiable. Sancede soon gave up the war of words, but Guillaume was not so easy a conquest, and nothing was more amusing than these skirmishes, each trying to drive the enemy into a corner—talking the sheerest nonsense—perpetrating the most atrocious puns—anxious only for the last word, which was usually Natalia's. So on Sunday, after breakfast, if she did not come up at the usual time, Guillaume went down to seek her, and she received an ovation at her entrance.

"What a good, kind audience you are," she would say. "Ah! if I could have this warmth at the Salle Erard!"

"Is that a pun?" asked Guillaume.

"No, it is not a pun. I am in sad, sober earnest. I am sometimes frozen there—frozen in my heart as well as in my feet."

The three ladies returned her visits by going down every Thursday evening to the Desgoffes musicales; Madame de Sorgnes could not refuse the young girls this pleasure. Her rare blonde beauty, in its setting of widow's weeds, always produced a murmur of admiration, and Maritza was declared a little goddess. Their comparatively easy circumstances had allowed her to indulge in the luxury of a lovely gown of pink crape; this charming toilet gave her indescribable pleasure.

"And I can not see you in that beautiful gown," said poor Sancede, with a sigh, when she showed him her treasure.

"Well, some Sunday I will wear it for you—for you alone; there, are you content?"

Henri, overjoyed at this flattering speech, begged and obtained permission to send her flowers every Thursday, which she graciously condescended to wear at the musicale.

Tiomane had already worked very hard, and, appreciating more and more the professor's method, her zeal redoubled. Music creates for its votaries a world apart—a world essentially ideal. Little by little, hope and joy returned to Tiomane's sad heart. She looked forward eagerly to the future, which her friend Natalia painted for her in glowing colors—the bravos, the frenzied acclamations, the adulation, the incomparable prestige of a cantatrice of talent.

"Really, you no longer seem to dwell on this planet," said Maritza to her one day, with a little grimace.

"Everything is going on so very well for us on this planet now," was the affectionate reply, accompanied by a loving kiss.

Indeed, life had become very easy and pleasant to Madame de Sorgnes and her daughter—the income from Smyrna, that received from Professor Desgoffes, and Guillaume's salary. He surprised Tiomane one day by handing her 500 francs in excess to his salary money, which he had made by working at night. He was indeed keeping his promises loyally. Every Sunday he came directly from Blinville to the Rue d'Assas. The little home seemed dearer than ever since his terrible folly. Formerly he was in the habit of leaving them before the hour for the train; now he seemed to be jealous of every moment.

How happy Tiomane was! Alone, and in secret she tasted the joys of this complete conversion.

The summer passed happily in this fever of hope and work, and the autumn came.

One evening, early in October, M. Desgoffes told his pupil that he thought the time for her debut had come, and that he intended to introduce her to the director of the Eden. In spite of her terror in singing before this supreme arbiter of her fate, she acquitted herself entirely to the great man's satisfaction, and it was decided that the young artist should make her debut, in six weeks, in Faust. No one knew better than Professor Desgoffes how to excite curious, music-loving Paris. Tiomane's name soon appeared on every wall, for the cunning metteur en scene had retained this original appellation. Well-written articles appeared in the leading newspapers, giving the most romantic details of the young artist's life; and for more than a month her name was in every mouth in the most aristocratic salons. All this time Tiomane, in her enforced solitude, was studying the role of Marguerite. Everything in her life was effaced by the one absorbing thought—her debut. If she succeeded, she would be able to put her loved ones at ease; and, at the same time, the young girl looked forward with the natural pride of an artists to the realization of the triumph which the professor and her friend Natalia promised her confidently. With what mingled emotions of fear and hope Tiomane went through the preparatory rehearsals! The unfeigned delight of her very critical master could not but encourage her, and Natalia was a tower of strength—she was unshaken in her faith in her friend's success.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

"Revised "America."

In one of the Buffalo public school examintions the pupils were required to write a stanza of "America." Some of the verses submitted were remarkable. Here is one of them:

My country 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of number three
Of thee I stand.
Land where my fathers die,
Land of the pilgrim's pie,
From every mountain sigh
Let freedom ring.

Another pupil started off in this way:

My country, 'tis of three,
Sweet land of libert tea.

Curious answers were given to other questions in the examination. For instance: Question—"Who is the chief executive of the nation?" Answer—"Chief Cleveland." Question—"Tell all you know about him." Answer—"He has two babies." Another question was: "What becomes of the water in Lake Erie?" and to this one youngster replied "We drink it," while another said: "It washes out the Hamburg canal."

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The senate spent the entire day on the postoffice appropriation bill, but did not complete it. Gorman and Allen criticised the administration of the postoffice department. Several bills of minor importance were passed.

HOUSE.

The conference report on the Cuban resolutions was adopted by a vote of 244 to 27. Eighteen republicans and nine democrats voted against it. The resolutions are those passed by the senate some time ago. Later the river and harbor appropriation bill passed. It carries in actual appropriations $10,330,560, and authorizes contracts for thirty-two new projects with a limit of cost of $51,721,210. The New Mexico bond bill was defeated and the bill to open the Assinaboine military reservation was passed.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The postoffice appropriation bill was passed just previous to adjournment. Most of the day was devoted to consideration of an amendment for the consolidation of smaller offices with larger ones. It was defeated. Butler introduced a resolution providing for a constitutional amendment to limit the veto power of the president, so that a majority vote by both houses may pass a bill over such veto.

HOUSE.

A resolution was introduced providing for an investigation of the case of Mrs. Maybrick, who is imprisoned in London for poisoning her husband. A proposition for the United States to share with the District of Columbia the expense of creating and maintaining a public library in Washington was defeated. A bill to fix the standard of weights and measures by the adoption of the metric system was debated, but action was not reached. Adjourned.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Most of the day was given to consideration of the Indian appropriation bill, which was not completed. Resolution calling for the sending of the United states fleet into Cuban waters to protect Americans came up and a speech by Turpin in its support was the feature of the day.

HOUSE.

The bill to adopt the metric system of weights and measures was passed to-day, but later it was reconsidered and recommitted. Conference report on the agricultural appropriation bill was adopted. The remainder of the day was devoted to debate on the bill to exempt sailing vessels engaged in the coastwise trade from compulsory pilotage laws. Adjourned.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Some progress was made on the Indian appropriation bill, but the sectarian school question went over. The calendar was cleared of all private pension bills. Mantel made an address on the resolution to recommit the tariff bill to the finance committee. He defended the course of the silver senators in voting against proceeding with the bill. Butler made a speech in favor of a government postal telegraph system.

HOUSE.

Bill relieving coastwise vessels from the pilotage laws failed to pass. District of Columbia appropriation bill came up and as all appropriations for sectarian institutions had been stricken out the A. P. A. and Catholic question was the cause of a heated discussion. The bill passed without alteration. Senate amendments to postoffice appropriation bill were concurred in. "Filled cheese" bill came up, but no action was taken.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—A resolution requesting the president to intervene with the British authorities for the release of Mrs. Maybrick caused considerable discussion. It was referred. Indian appropriation bill was debated, but no action taken. Bill making trans-Mississippi exposition at Omaha in 1898 international in scope, appropriating $50,000 for buildings and limiting government liability to $200,000 passed. Adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE.

The house spent the entire day on the "filled cheese" bill. A night session was devoted to consideration of private pension bills.

TAYLOR BROTHERS ESCAPED.

Missouri Murderers Break Jail—One Recaptured—Second Attempt.

CARROLLTON, Mo., April 13.—The notorious Taylor brothers, the condemned murderers of the Meeks family, broke from the county jail. George Taylor made his escape, but Bill was retaken and placed behind the bars in the jail in which the two brothers were to have been hanged together on April 30. Their escape was accomplished by breaking off a bar from their cell and going to the roof, where they let themselves down to the ground with a piece of hose.

A TEXAS TRAGEDY.

Kills His Daughter and Her Lover, Then Blows Himself to Atoms.

BENHAM, Texas, April 11.—At the depot at Millican, a man named John Brooks shot and killed his daughter, Mollie Brooks, and also her lover, A. C. Worrells, just as they were about to board the north-bound passenger train for Bryan, where they were going to be married. After the shooting, Brooks went to the rock quarry near Millican and sat down on a box of dynamite, which he exploded and blew himself to atoms. Nothing but his legs and feet were found.

Rhode Island For Reed.

PROVIDENCE, April 11.—At the republican state convention delegates were selected who will vote and work for Thomas Reed for president.

IN AFRICA.

ROME, April 9.—A dispatch from Massowah says that Colonel Stevani attacked the dervish entrenchments in the vicinity. He won a partial success and proposed to renew the attack, but General Baldesseri, the commander-in-chief, ordered him to make no further attack and instructed him to evacuate Kassala and Adigrat. These orders have been complied with.

CAIRO, April 10.—It cannot be denied that there exists in Cairo a strong apprehension that disaster will soon overtake the head of the Dongola expedition. Merchants who have business relations with the Soudanese report a great rising and rallying among the Dervishes in and around Dongola. They confirm the report that the green flag is up and holy war is declared. Their opinion is that 50,000 men will soon be ready to intercept the march of the Anglo-Egyptian army, if the plan of pushing beyond Akashen is persisted in. Gen. Kitchener is known to be yearning for fresh military glory. Aggressive and self-willed, it is feared he will fall into the error recently committed by Baratieri in Abyssinia. Preliminary skirmishing so far has given some confidence to the Egyptian troops. The policy of the Soudanese is evidently to draw the invading army as far from its base this summer as possible, so that when the main attack is made, retreat for it will mean slaughter. Many well informed people express the belief that the fate of Hicks-Pasha awaits the Sirdar's column. The Dervishes are better armed and better prepared to fight than when they checked Lord Wolseley's advance. The English, as a rule, pooh pooh the idea of defeat, but they are extremely anxious. The Dervishes are very active in the rear of the Egyptian column, and great difficulty is experienced already in keeping up the telegraphic communication.

CAIRO, Egypt, April 11.—It is thought that the plan of pushing the Anglo-Egyptian army direct to Dongola has been suddenly abandoned. The purchase of camels and horses has been stopped. It has been found, it is thought, that the force of the Nile is too weak to cope with the hordes of dervishes now in the field and gathered to the Khalifa's flag between Akisheh and Dongola. It is not probable now that any attempt will be made to advance beyond the former point at present.

MORE TROUBLE IN TURKEY.

A Reverend Missionary Charged With Inciting Sedition Among Prisoners.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 10.—Advices from Diarbekir indicate beyond reasonable doubt that Rev. Geo. C. Knapp, the American missionary at Bitlis, is accused of inciting sedition among the Americans in jail there. Serious complications are likely to follow. The British consul at Bitlis, after a careful inquiry into the charges, pronounced them absurd.

LONDON, April 10.—There is much indignation in England over the intention of the sultan Turkey to exclude Christian missionaries from Asia Minor and those who were active in measures in behalf of the Armenians take a leading part also in voicing the public sentiment on this question. The case of the Rev. G. C. Knapp, the American missionary at Bitlis, who is detained at Diarbekir, is attracting much attention. A special meeting of the Armenian relief committee adopted a resolution protesting against the measures threatened by the sultan and urging the British government to do its utmost to secure the immediate withdrawal of the irade. Another resolution adopted earnestly requests the British government to take immediate steps to obtain the release of Mr. Knapp, whose self-denying labors in the distribution of relief to starving Armenians has been the means of saving many lives.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 13.—The Armenian Catholic patriarch has refused to resign at the command of the sultan. The Catholic patriarch declares that it will be impossible for him to disobey the pope's injunction to remain at his post.

Nicaraguan Revolt.

PANAMA, April 9.—After a truce of fifteen days, during which all attempts to arrange peace between President Zelaya, of Nicaragua, and the leaders of the rebellion proved futile, another battle has been fought between the government forces and the revolutionists at Laceiba. The number of men engaged was about 500 on each side. The action lasted eight hours, but the details received are so meager that it is impossible to ascertain on which side the victory rested Prisoners and deserters who have reached the capital declare the insurgents' situation is desperate. The government is preparing for a general attack.

Another Massacre Feared.

LONDON, April 9.—The Chronicle says: "According to private advices from Constantinople, the palace is thwarting the pledges which the porte has given the British ambassabor and the United States charge d' affaires. It is feared that another organized massacre will occur in the Cilician provinces."

H. W. Schoper.

THE

LEADING - IMPLEMENT - DEALER.

Has on hand a complete stock of FARM

IMPLEMENTS.

Fisher Wagons, Staver Abbot, and Parry Buggies,

Rock Island and U, S. Planters,

Conklin Cnltivators,

Morrison and R. I. Sulky Plows.

Pumps Fanning Mills etc.

A fine road wagon

Only $30.

DAVIS SEWING MACHINE, THE BEST ON THE MARKET.

COME and see for yourself.

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME. Belmond, Iowa.

WE WILL SELL

AT PRIVATE SALE,

Our Large Stock Of

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Plows, Cultivators, Hay Rakes and Loaders, Seeders, Disc Harrows, Planters, Wind Mills and Pumps, Water Tanks, Buggies and Waggons. We handle the KEYSTONE FENCE, the best fence on earth. Also the

Milwaukee Binders and Mowers

At prices that defy competition.

LAU BROTHERS.

LOCALs.

It is against the law to sell cigarettes in Iowa.

J. W. Ramsy was in town yesterday on business.

Ward Cassill was putting on weather strips on doors in town yesterday.

Mr. H. N. Merrick is getting along nicely and is steadily improving.

Frank Schuldt, who had his hand injured quite badly some time ago, came down from Garner where he has been staying with his sister. He called at the TIMES office and informed us that his hand was doing nicely. He went home Wednesday night.

People's Party Convention, Des-Moines, April 22,

ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP from all points in Iowa. Tickets on sale April 21st and 22nd. Good to return until and including April 23d. Call on B., C. R. & N. agents for information.

Garner.

Maud and Addie Howland Sundayed at Ellington.

Mrs. Will Fonda was called to Mason City yesterday, on account of sickness of her sister.

The "Deestrict Skule" at the opera house was largely attended and the ladies aid society realized about $54.

Miss Ruba Peck, of Plankington S. D. is visiting M. J. Hyde's and other relatives in Garner.

Mr. Holmes, of Beloit, Kas. and Mrs. Braund, of Garner were married last Sabbath.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Harvey are rejoicing over a little boy that came to their home Monday night.

Erwin Dow's baby boy two years old had the misfortune to break the bone of one of his legs last Friday. It is not known just how the accident happened.

Walter Haskell returned home last week from his eastern trip. He likes the land of the yankees and is intending to move with his family to the old Massachusetts home in a short time.

The first eye out in base ball occurred at Swea City last week, in a game between Bancroft and Swea City clubs. A foul ball hit Nels Benson, putting out one eye and fracturing the cheek bone.

A recent number of the Buenos Ayres Standard contains the interesting information that Mr. Whitelaw Reid, editor of the New York Tribune, who was a candidate for vice-bresident of the U. S. at the last election, is now speaker of the house of representatives and will be the republican candidate for president at the next election.

A Desperate Youth.

Nell—Young Spriggins told me that if I rejected him he would go and commit suicide, but I rejected him just the same.

Belle—And did he commit suicide?

Nell—No, but he did the next thing to it. He went and proposed and got himself accepted by that horrid Van Alstyne girl.—Somerville Journal.

To Be More Accurate.

Mr. Manhattan (to Miss Bawstawn)—Do you ride a wheel?

Miss Bawstawn—I ride a pair of wheels.—Detroit Free Press.

SPRING

Style

MY Millinery Store is now ready for spring BUSINESS.

Hats!

I have just received a new and complete line of

Flowers, Tips, Ribbons, Laces, Fancy Braids, Persian Silks etc.

And everything you could expect to find in a first class store.

MISS ADNA BARTA of St. Paul, a first class trimmer will be with me the entire season.

YOU are invited to come in. No trouble to Show Goods.

Dressmaking in connection.

Miss E. Renziehausen,

COME STRAIGHT

To Our Store

If you want to save money in what you must purchase along the line of

GENERAL

Merchandise.

Onr stock is complete iu department; is fresh and new, and we are selling the goods with special regard to the Hard Times.

WESENBERG BROS.

H. SCHROEDER,

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY - MEAT - MARKET.

Carry a Complete line of Fresh, Salt and Smoked Meats.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

HIDES.

PICKLES, etc. Always on hand.

Klemme, Ia.

MARION A. FELL, NOTARY PUBLIC.

M. R. CHAMBERS, ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans at 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farmers' Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on us. we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co;

Garner, Iowa.

25 YEARS EXPERIENCE IN

BLACKSMITHING

Enables me to do your work in a workmanlike manner.

Plow Work a Specialty.

Also do wood repairing on Wagons and Buggies.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. KROUSE, KLEMME, IA.

STATE · SAVINGS · BANK

—OF—

KLFMME, IOWA

Does a regular Banking Business. Deals in Domestic and Foreign

EXCHANGE

Loans money on long or short time. Attends to collections and pay interest on time deposits

C. W. KNAPP, Cashier.

Bettin and Remer.

Contractors and Builders.

Plans and specifications furnished on application.

—All work guaranteed.

KLEMME, IOWA

GEO. S. GATES,

STONE · AND · BRICK · MASON

Plastering a Specialty. Do all kinds of work in my line. I also make a Specialty of bricking up Cisterns and boilers. All work guaranteed and Prices accordingly.

Give me a trial,

GEO. S. GATES,

Klemme, Iowa.

Wanted—An Idea Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer and list of two hundred inventions wanted.

JOHN BAUMGARTNER.

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY BARBER SHOP.

AN EASY SHAVE.

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

SHOP IN KIRKWOOD HOUSE, KLEMME, IOWA.

STOP!

If you want any Painting done and see

JOE MILLER,

a painter of 15 years experience.

All work guaranteed.

Leave orders at Shafer & Dows.

KLEMME IA.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.

OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.

OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, Apr 17, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum in Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1895.

GRISWOLD & CLINE, PUBLISHERS.

Goodell Items.

Tom Elder spent Sunday in Concord.

Jim Elder was at home over Sunday.

Mrs. Geo. Elder has been sick but is better.

Ted Tierney is assisting in the Journal office this week.

Old Dye Kinney is sojourning n Klemme this week.

Mrs. Haflenback of Wesley, was visiting Mrs. Mulkins this week.

Mrs. Thompson has returned after quite a lengthy visit in Belmond, with her mother.

Mrs. Mulkins is again attending to business after her severe illness.

L. A. Griswold has been quite sick, but is able to be in the office again. He spent Sunday at Klemme.

Rams Horn.

Every reform that comes to stay. begins in the heart.

The less we have, the more it means in heaven when we give?

What do you suppose angels think when they see a preacher looking for an easy place?

While we are drinking the bitter, Christ is preparing the sweet.

The man who prays much can do much, if he prays in the right way.

The world may kill God's man, but it has never been able to hurt his truth.

Men is instinctively religious; the heart will find a God, or create one.

The world was plunged into sin be-cause the first pair looked at the forbidden fruit; not because they clubbed the tree.

Every dart the devil aims at the heart of man is pointed with a doubt.

If you don't have any temptations, it is a pretty sure sign that there is something wrong with your Christian experience.

The more an enemy hates us the hotter fire kindness will kindle on his head.

Estherville Republican: Abell Bros. have promised to open Hotel Orleans this season and make extensive improvements if the citizens of Dickinson county will put the mulct law in operation. Spirit Lake has been the paradise of footleggers and it is very doubtful if that class will consent to a trial of the new law. However, the mulct would close up at least twenty five places that are wide open each summer.

All grades of refined sugars have advanced 1-16 cent. The rise was caused by a general decrease in raw material and the fact there is no Cuba sugar coming into this country.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market; costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. HARR. Read our free booklet on Microbic Diseases.

Homeseekers' Excursions.

On March 10th. April 7th and 21st and May 5th, Excursion Tickets at rate of ONE FARE plus $2 FOR THE ROUND TRIP, to points in eleven Southern States and Territories, also to a number of Western and Northern States. An oppertunity to reach almost every city in the South and Southwest and a large number of important points in the Northwest. Tickets are good to return any Tuesday or Friday within the final limit which is 20 days from date of sale. Call on B., C. R. & N. agents for rates and further information or address J. MORTON, G. P. & T. A. Cedar Rapids, Ia. Exp 5-5

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR OIL

[FOR OUR FRIEND, THE HORSE.]

Speedily cures Barb-Wire Cuts, Bruises and Lacerated surfaces, Collar and Saddle Galls, Fungus Collar Tumors, Scratches, Thrush, etc.

Geo. Alexander, Olaf, Iowa, says: "One of my horses was totally disabled by reason of barb-wire cut, muscles being lacerated and torn from knee to shoulder and bone splintered. Tried their remedies for months but without avail. The second application of Compound Liquid Sulphur Oil stopped all irritation and one bottle has nearly cured the sore." For sale by J. L. HARR.

During the winter of 1893, F. M. Martin, of Long Reach, West Va., contracted a severe cold which left him with a cough. In speaking of how he cured it he says: "I used several kinds of cough syrup but found no relief until I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which relieved me almost instantly, and in a short time brought a complete cure." When troubled with a cough or cold use this remedy and you will not find it necessary to try several kinds before you get relief. It has been in the market for over twenty years and constantly grown in favor and popularity. For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by J. L. HARR.

An Affidavit

This is to certify that on May 11th, I walked to Melick's drug store on a pair of crutches and bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm for inflamatory rheumatism which had crippled me up. After using three bottles I am completely cured. I can cheerfully recommend it.—Charles H. Wetzel, Sunbury, Pa.

Sworn and subscribed to before me on August 10, 1894.—Walter, Shipman J. P. For sale at 50 cents per bottle by J. L. HARR.

DUNKARDS'

Annual meeting at Ottawa, Kas., May 28-29. Tickets will be sold May 23, 24 and 25, from all points on the B., C. R. & N. Ry., at rate of ONE FARE Plus $2 for the Round Trip. Good to return 30 days from date of sale, if ticket is deposited with station agent at Ottawa before June 1. For further information call on B., C. R. & N. agents.

G. A. R. Fall in.

Iowa State Encampment at Cedar Rapids April 28th to 30th. ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP from all points in Iowa on the B., C. R. & N. Ry. the "Quick Step Route" to Cedar Rapids. Tickets sold April 27, 28 and 29, good to return until and including May 2nd. Call on B., C. R & N. agents for further information. Ex. 4. 30.

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons sbuject to attacks of bilious colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In many instances the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by J. L. HARR.

When in need of

CLOTHING

And you want an assortment to select from; or if you are looking for a New Dress something new, nobby and dressy, SPRING CAPES, DRESS TRIMMINGS,

Ladies Shirt Waists,

Or Fine Shoes,

we invite you to call and visit our

New Store

wnen in GARNER.

W. C. SCHULER.

IDENTIFICATION COUPON.

The accompaning solution of the mystery in the CHICAGO RECORD'S $10,000 prize story "Sons and Fathers," is sent by

Name_____

Post Office_____

A Reader of the KLEMME TIMES.

When you mail your guess to THE CHICAGO RECORD, 181 Madison St. Chicago, send this coupon properly filled out with it.

Spring Goods are all in

The Bell Clothing STORE, at

GARNER, IOWA.

When in town call and see us, we can save you money.

A Fine Shoe IS DRESSY

Strong Shoes WILL WEAR,

A Poor Shoe IS DEAR AT ANY PRICE.

It is the universal verdict that FRANK GRUETZMACHER has the largest and most complete stock of

SHOES

in town, and is selling them fully 10 per cent less than other firms.

Harness and Shoes Repaired.

Remember we make HARNESS to order.

Give us a call

F. GRUETZMACHER.

Now Is Your Chance.

A firm that has had experience in handling farm machinery knows which kinds give the best satisfaction.

Terhufen & Son

on second street, handle Deering Binders, Dubuque Norweigen Plows, Pekin Riding Plows, Mascot Corn Cultivators, Evans Planters, Smith wagons and

FANCY BUGGIES.

We meet any competition on the same class of goods.

Call on us and get OUR PRICES.

Terhufen & Son.

IN THE LEGISLATURE

SENATE.

DES MOINES, April 6.—Senate concurred in resolution to accept the invitation to the state to make an exhibit at the Nashville exhibition. Bill to amend the code so that the burden of proving a claim unpaid shall not be placed upon the party filing a claim against estate of decedents, passed. Carney's jury bill came up as a special order and it was passed to its engrossment. Bill providing for doing away with registration in towns of less than 3,500 passed. House amendments to Gorrell's bill providing for the trimming of hedge fences were con curred in.

Bill regulating redemption under contracts for sales of real estate passed. House amendments to road fund bill was concurred in. Bill appropriating $275 to Mrs. McClelland passed. The revenue bill was made a special order for to-morrow. Bill to allow aliens to inherit property in the state passed. Hotchkiss' bill providing punishment for insurance agents who accept money for insurance after the company has become insolvent was under consideration when the senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

Bill to pay widow of the late Representative McClelland the salary which would have been due her husband had he survived the session passed. Bill defining express companies and providing for taxation of same was reported favorably. Bill to declare opium joints nuisances passed. Bill to change the name of the Industrial Home fon the Blind at Knoxville to the Home for the Blind passed. Motion was made to reconsider the vote by which the bill to compel a record of landlord's liens to be kept by the county recorder to make them valid against innocent purchasers, and the motion prevailed. The bill was again defeated when put upon its passage. Bill to punish crime of unlawfully breaking and entering railroad or express cars was defeated. The joint resolution that congress be memorialized to reimburse the settlers on railroad lands in northwestern Iowa between the Big Sioux river and the west fork of the Des Moines river and from McGregor to point of intersection with the McGregor & Western railway in O'Brien county, was passed. Bill providing for adoption of children into the soldiers' orphans' home was discussed, but no action was taken.

Bill appropriating $10,000 for purpose of defraying the expenses of holding a semi-centennial celebration of the admission of Iowa into the union, to e held at Burlington next September, passed. Bill changing term of office of sub-directors from three to one year passed. Bill relating to the jurisdiction of suits against insurance companies doing business in Iowa, and limiting the time in which suits may be brought against insurance companies doing business in the state passed.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, April 7.—Hauger's bill to amend code in relation to teachers' certificates passed. Civics and economics are made requisite studies in securing a certificate. Bill authorizing railroad commissioners to direct changes in the names of railway stations when it is the wish of the people, passed. Vote by which jury bill was passed to engrossment was reconsidered. Hotchkiss' insurance bill came up and was slightly amended and then passed. Several minor amendments were made to the jury bill and it was passed by a unanimous vote. The special order, being a substitute for the bill to revise and amend the statutes in relation to revenue, came up and the committee report was adopted. An amendment by Cheshire to do away with the county poll tax of 50 cents was lost. The bill proposed to raise state revenue at such rate as should be fixed by the executive council. Trewin moved to amend this by returning to the old law, which provided that this tax should not exceed two mills on the dollar. Lost. Motion to exempt estates of aged or infirm people was defeated. The bill provides for exemption of homesteads of union soldiers or sailors and their widows not exceeding $800. A motion to tax homesteads of less than $500 and for which the owner may be in debt, on the basis of the value of the owner's equity therein, was under consideration when recess was reached.

In the afternoon the amendment was lost. Waterman moved to strike out the provision for assessment at 50 per cent of cash value. Lost. An amendment by Cheshire providing for assessment at 33⅓ per cent was also lost. Waterman called up the appropriation bills and had bills passed allowing sums as follows: For purchase of site for Cherokee Hospital for Insane, $12,140; for buildings for Hospital for Insane at Cherokee, $50,000 during 1896 and 1897, $150,000 during 1898 and 1899, $200,000; for Hospital for Insane at Independence, $20,300; State University, $21,000; Institution for Feeble Minded at Glenwood, $17,300; Fish Commission, $6,000; College for Blind at Vinton, $10,500. Waterman stated the entire appropriations would amount to $887,000, which would require an assessment for state purposes, including the university tax, of 2.7 mills. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Baker introduced a bill to levy a tax for park purposes. Rowen bill was made a special order for the afternoon session. Bill to make attorney general a member of the executive council was reconsidered and passed. Bill to appropriate $4,000 to reimburse ex-Auditor Brown passed, 68 to 17. Bill to regulate the fees for incorporation and increase in capital stock of companies and corporations came up. A motion by Hauger to exclude creamery companies and mutual insurance companies from the provisions of the act carried. Foreign insurance companies were included, on motion of Finch, and the bill then passed. The liquor manufacturing bill came up The minority report, that the bill be indefinitely postponed, was adopted, 51 to 47. Early's bill to amend mulct law so that a majority only of voters of any city or county will be required to secure a saloon, instead of 65 per cent, as at present, was indefinitely postponed. Finch's bill to give the supreme court reporter an assistant, as well as a raise in salary, was indefinitely postponed.

In the afternoon McArthur moved to reconsider the vote by which the revenue bill was made a special order for this afternoon. The motion carried and the bill was withdrawn. The collateral inheritance tax bill passed. Potter's bill providing for the payment of a bounty out of the treasury to manufacturers and producers of sugar passed. Bill to prevent placing of insurance in Iowa by agents outside of the state, and providing penalties therefor passed. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, April 8.—Bill to repeal certain sections of the code relative to taxes for park purposes passed. Application of George A. Trout for pardon came up and the same was granted. Bill appropriating $10,500 for the College for the Blind at Vinton passed, also bill appropriating $13,200 for Fort Madison penitentiary. The bill appropriating $48,000 for the State Normal School passed. An appropriation of $6,000 for the state fish commission was passed. A. F. Hockett's application for pardon was granted.

Carroll introduced a bill to make government property taxable. It passed at once. A resolution providing for a sifting committee passed. The following appropriations already passed by the house were passed by the senate: Benedict home at Des Moines, $9,200; soldiers' home, Marshalltown, $51,800; industrial home for blind, Knoxville, $18,000; orphans' home, Davenport, $18,000; Iowa National Guard, $5,200; industrial school, Eldora, $18,500; Anamosa penitentiary, $66,198; Agricultural College, Ames, $54,500; hospital for insane at Mt. Pleasant, $49,100; hospital for insane at Clarinda, $199,300; capitol building repairs, $7,100. A resolution to give revenue bill no further consideration passed. Bill appropriating $25,000 to purchase a site for a memorial, historical and art building, and giving power to secure plans for the erection of a fire proof building for the use of the historical department passed. Bill appropriating $870.28 for the expenses of the Shiloh commission passed. Labor commissioner's bill was amended to read that only on complaint of two persons, or when he could not get the information in no other way should the commissioner be allowed to enter and investigate any factory. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

These bills passed: To make provision for the care and cure of epileptics; limiting time in which persons suing cities for injuries received shall give notice to such city and the following appropriation bills: Agricultural college, Ames, $54,500: penitentiary, Anamosa, $66,198; Benedict home, Des Moines, $9,200; soldiers' home, Marshalltown, $51,800; home for the blind, Knoxville, $18,000; industrial school, Eldora, $18,500; school for the deaf, Council Bluffs, $17,100; State University, Iowa City, $46,000; soldiers' orphans' home, Davenport, $18,800; Iowa National Guard (addition) $5,200; hospital for insane, Cherokee, to be used in the year 1896, $25,000; to be used in the year 1897. $25,000; to be used in the year 1898, $75,000; to pay balance on hand, $12,140; home for feeble minded, Glenwood, $65,800; industrial school, Mitchellville, $17,000; hospital for insane, Independence, $19,300; State Normal school, Cedar Rapids, $48,000; penitentiary, Ft. Madison, $13,200; state fish commission, $6,000; college for blind, Vinton, $10,500; hospital for insane, Clarinda, $199,300; hospital for insane, Mt. Pleasant, $49,100.

The bill requiring the trustees of the new Cherokee asylum for the insane to employ a homeopathic physician and surgeon to superintend medical department of the hospital passed. Earley's bill to punish pharmacists for illegal sales of liquors by applying the mulct law failed to pass. Bill to improve public highways by encouraging the use of wide tires upon wagons carrying heavy loads passed. Bill fixing the number officers and employes of the general assembly passed. The bill reduces the number of committee clerks from eighty to twenty-seven, and will, so Mr. Ray claimed, result in a saving of from $16,000 to $18,000 for each legislature in clerk hire alone. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, April 9.—Vote on bill to exempt crematoriums from taxation was reconsidered and the bill passed. Bill granting to city or town councils the power to prohibit the use of barb wire for certain purposes and to provide for the removal of such wires, passed. Bill amending act empowering certain cities under special charters to establish boards of health passed. Joint resolution proposing an amendment to the state constitution came up. It raises the number of representatives in the legislature to not exceeding 115 and gives each county a chance to be represented in the general assembly regardless of population. Where the population of a county is in excess of the ratio number prescribed it shall be entitled to an additional representative. It passed. Bill granting labor commissioner additional powers and a deputy at $1,200 per year passed. Application of William Stowey for pardon was granted. Bill to prevent the issuing of policies of fire insurance upon risks situated in this state by insurance companies, associations, partnerships, individual or individuals, without their having complied with the insurance laws of the state, which compel the payment of 2½ per cent on every premium received, passed. Bill amending code so that railroads can grant reduced rates to Iowa National Guards passed. A resolution was introduced by Carpenter looking to an extra session in 1897.

Bill placing express companies under control of the railroad commissioners passed. Bill to change term of school directors from three years to one year passed. Waterman introduced a bill providing for a state tax levy of 2½ mills and it passed. Bill relating to drainage of highways and giving road supervisors power to enter upon private lands and remove obstructions from natural waterways passed. Resolution granting pardon to William Stowey was adopted. A resolution presenting to the lieutenant governor the chair he has occupied during the session was adopted. Bill to grant ex-Auditor Brown $4,000 passed. House bill for regulation of the pharmacy commission passed. Bill apportioning the state into senatorial districts as at present passed. Bill giving the attorney general a salary of $4,000 a year and $1,000 for clerical assistance passed. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Wood introduced a bill for a general levy for state purposes. Application of George A. Trout for a pardon was granted. Bill to make all government currency taxable passed. Senate bill providing for the taxation of express companies 1 per cent of the gross receipts passed. Senate bill granting to city or town councils the right to prohibit use of barb wire fences within city limits passed. House concurred in senate amendments to labor commissioner bill. Bill appropriating $25,000 for a memorial building passed. The senate bill by Cheshire to make it lawful for the superintendent of public asylums, hospitals, poorhouses and penitentiaries to turn over to medical colleges the bodies of persons who die and remain unclaimed in such institutions was defeated.

Bill appropriating $5,000 for the purchase of a silver service for the battleship Iowa passed. Bill appropriating $10,000 to provide for an exhibit of the state's resources at the Trans-Mississippi and International Exposition, to be held at Omaha in 1898, passed. Appropriation to reimburse individuals and counties for making the exhibit at the New Orleans exhibition was reduced from $21,500 to $12,000 and passed. Bill granting widow of the late Judge Hatch the salary of the office from the time of his death to the appointment and qualification of his successor passed. Bill appropriating $7,100 for repairs on the capitol passed. Adjourned.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, April 10.—The following bills passed: Amending code relative to assisting prisoners to escape; providing for the transfer of corporate stock when used as collateral security; appropriating $5,000 for a silver service for the battleship Iowa; appropriating $10,000 for an exhibit of Iowa resources at the trans-Mississippi exhibition at Omaha in 1898; authorizing people of cities under special charters to transfer or dedicate parks, public squares or plats of ground for free public library purposes; increasing powers of state oil inspector relative to naptha, benzine and gasoline; authorizing cities under special charter to provide for sprinkling of streets and to levy and collect the cost thereof from abutting property. Ellis filed a motion to reconsider vote by which joint resolution proposing an amendment to the state constitution in relation to woman suffrage was lost. During the session Senator Rowen was called to the chair and while occupying it a basket of magnificent flowers was presented to him. A card on it read: "Compliments of the democratic members of the senate to the Hon. John E. Rowen, senator from Wright—May your life be spared, your pathway strewn with roses until the time when the party of which you are such a distinguished leader, recognizing your wise counsel and able statesmanship, call you to preside as governor over the destinies of the state of which you are now such a distinguished citizen." Senator Rowen responded, thanking the donors.

In the afternoon these bills passed: Regulating payment of mayors when acting as justices of the peace; to reimburse several counties for care of inmates of the Soldiers' Orphans' home. House amendments to soldiers' home pension bill were not concurred in. Resolution for an extra session came up. The resolution was finally adopted, 38 to 12. It cites the impossibility of doing the work of the code now and declares it advisable that it be done not later than January of 1897. The fire and police board bill came up and was passed. House amendments to New Orleans exposition appropriation bill were concurred in. The senate went into executive session and confirmed the appointments of J. J. Russell, of Greene county, and L. B. Raymond, of Franklin county, as commissioners of the Soldiers' Home. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Joint resolution providing that no medallions be placed on the soldiers' monument was concurred in. Bill providing for a state levy of $1,400,000 yearly passed. Bill to compel insurance companies to comply with laws of the state before placing insurance was defeated. Bill providing that the soldiers' home at Marshalltown may take from such inmates as receive more than six dollars pension per month the excess of that sum, which amount goes toward the support of the institution, came up, and after a prolonged debate the original bill passed. Baker, dem., offered a resolution recognizing the "distinguished ability, uniform courtesy and eminent fairness" of Speaker Byers, thanking him for his services and giving him the chair and gavel used during the session. It passed unanimously. Application of James Johnson, of Pottawattamie county, for pardon, was granted. Judiciary committe bill relative to the drawing of jurors passed.

These bills passed: Relating to redemption from execution sales of real estate; to prevent discrimination by fire insurance companies or their agents by rebating any part of the premiums charged or commissions allowed, and for limiting the expense of procuring the business; to employ N. B. Raymond to bring report of decisions up to date; to grant N. B. Raymond $8,000 unpaid salary; to reimburse Scott county for caring for insane persons of unknown residence; to pay expenses of the Shiloh commissioners; to regulate payment of secretary of the pharmacy commission; relating to courts of appeal in establishing highways; imposing tax upon oil when there is no inspection; exempting crematoriums from taxation. The Bonaparte dam bill was defeated.

SENATE.

DES MOINES, April 11.—Bill governing trustees in appointment of superintendents failed to pass. Resolution providing that medallions already prepared for the soldiers' monument, which have been ordered not to appear on the same, be placed in the new state memorial building passed. Harper introduced a bill amending code relating to boards of park commissioners and it passed. The house resolution in the form of a memorial to congress for the reimbursement of certain settlers on lands of the Sioux City & St. Paul road, to which the titles were found defective, was adopted. Waterman, for appropriations, introduced a bill appropriating money for the payment of salaries of state and judicial officers and state expenses and other bills. It passed. Bill granting $2,000 claim of H. H. Jelley for injuries received while working at the state institution of feeble minded children passed. Bill authorizing appointment of a commission to co-operate with the Vicksburg National Military Park commission in marking positions of Iowa troops in the battles and siege of Vicksburg passed. Bill authorizing taxation of bicycles passed. Bill authorizing corporations, properly qualified, to act as sureties on bonds passed. A recess was then taken, after which a committee was appointed to inform the governor the legislature was ready to adjourn. A house message was received to the effect that the house refused to recede from its amendments to the soldiers' home pension bill, which killed the measure. Lieutenant Governor Parrott then in a short address complimented the senators for their work and declared the senate adjourned sine die.

HOUSE.

Representative apportionment bill passed. Temple, on behalf of the members, presented Speaker Byers with a gold watch. These bills passed: To raise salaries of clerks in penitentiaries from $70 to $100 per month; relating to transfer of stock to be used as collateral; relating to proving up claims against the state; establishing park commissioners in certain cities; regulating plumbing and plumbers in cities having a water and sewerage system; relating to senatorial and representative districts; the general appropriation bill for payment of state and judicial officers and other bills; relating to transcripts on appeal. A joint resolution that the medallions that have been ordered taken off the soldiers monument be placed in the rooms of the historical society passed. House concurred in senate resolution relative to extra session to consider code work. Fire and police commissioners bill was defeated. Chief Clerk Rowen was presented with a gold watch in a neat speech by Byrington. House insisted on its amendments to the soldiers' home pension bill. A committee was appointed to notify the governor the house was about to adjourn. Speaker Byers in a short address made acknowledgment of the splendid testimonial presented to him during the day and thanked the members for their co-operation in the good work accomplished. Adjourned sine die.

BIG SHIP GOES OVER.

British Steamer Blairmore Is Capsized While at Anchor.

San Francisco, Cal., April 11.—While riding at anchor in Mission bay Thursday the British ship Blairmore was struck by a violent squall, which, together with the swife flood tide, threw the craft on her starboard side, capsizing her completely and sinking her in less than fifteen minutes. Fifteen seamen struggled in the water. Six were confined in the hold, and were probably pinned down by the falling tonnage used to hold the ship's ballast in place. The imprisoned men never reached the deck, as did their comrades engaged with them in handling the ballast below, and the bodies of the six are imprisoned in the steel hull. The unfortunate men who lost their lives were:

T. LUDWIG, first mate.
HENRY CLARK, seaman.
ROLAND SIEGEL, apprentice.
G. REINBAUM, seaman.
H. SINSTRAND, watchman.
WILLIAM KERRY, the steward.

TELLS OF THE MURDER.

Confession of Romulus Costell, the Slayer of Alvin Stone and Others.

Akron, O., April 11.—Romulus Costell, alias John Smith, arrested for the murder of Alva and Mrs. Stone and Ira Stillson, their nephew, has made a full confession. After fracturing the skulls of his victims, he disfigured the bodies with a pocket-knife. Malice prompted the crime, he says, for he was enraged that Stone had discharged him without paying him in full. It is known, however, that he intended to kidnap Flora Stone, the youngest daughter. Smith said he felt better after he had confessed. There was not a tremor in his voice while he recited the details of murder. Smith is but 17 years old, and says he left home in Turin, N. Y., five montss ago because of trouble with his father.

Whitney and Cleveland to Confer.

Washington, April 11.—President Cleveland and ex-Secretary Whitney will have a conference soon. It is understood they will discuss the political situation. This conference, in all probability, will have an important bearing upon the coming campaign. The statement is made with a good deal of positiveness by gentlemen familiar with the facts that Mr. Cleveland is anxious to have Mr. Whitney become a candidate for the nomination to be made at Chicago, and that he would be glad, in case Mr. Whitney indicates a willingness to accept, to come out with a declaration that under no circumstances will he accept a nomination for a third term. So far as can be learned Mr. Whitney does not want the nomination, and is likely to tell the president so frankly.

Bank

President Isaac Lewis of Sabina, Ohio, is highly respected all through that section. He has lived in Clinton Co. 75 years, and has been president of the Sabina Bank 20 years. He gladly testifies to the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and what he says is worthy attention. All brain workers find Hood's Sarsaparilla peculiarly adapted to their needs. It makes pure, rich, red blood, and from this comes nerve, mental, bodily and digestive strength.

"I am glad to say that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a very good medicine, especially as a blood purifier. It has done me good many times. For several years I suffered greatly with pains of in one eye and about my temples, especially at night when I had been having a hard day of physical and mental labor. I took many remedies, but found help only in Hood's Sarsaparilla which cured me of rheumatism, neuralgia and headache. Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved itself a true friend. I also take Hood's Pills to keep my bowels regular, and like the pills very much." ISAAC LEWIS, Sabina, Ohio.

Neuralgia

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are prompt, efficient and easy in effect. 25 cents.

Webster's International Dictionary

The One Great Standard Authority,
So writes Hon. D. J. Brewer, Justice U. S. Supreme Court.

Send a Postal for Specimen Pages, etc.

Successor of the "Unabridged."

Standard of the U. S. Gov't Printing Office, the U. S. Supreme Court, all the State Supreme Courts, and of nearly all the Schoolbooks.

Warmly Commended by State Superintendents of Schools, and other Educators almost without number.

THE BEST FOR EVERYBODY
BECAUSE
It is easy to find the word wanted.
It is easy to ascertain the pronunciation.
It is easy to trace the growth of a word.
It is easy to learn what a word means.

The Chicago Times-Herald says:—Webster's International Dictionary in its present form is absolute authority on everything pertaining to our language in the way of orthography, orthoepy, etymology, and definition. From it there is no appeal. It is as perfect as human effort and scholarship can make it.—Dec. 14, 1895.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Publishers, Springfield, Mass., U.S.A

Home-seekers

Excursions

April 7, April 21, May 5.

To the South and West—Arizona, Arkansas, Texas, NEBRASKA, Kansas, etc.

Call at the local ticket office and get full information about rates, stop-over privileges, return limits, and territory to which reduction will apply. Or, better still, write to J. FRANCIS, G. P. A., Burlington Route, Omaha, Neb.

Burlington Route

P. S. The crop of 1896 is going to be the biggest Nebraska ever had. No question about it. Not in ten years have conditions been so favorable. Better figure on getting hold of a good quarter section before prices advance.

CUT AND SLASH
SMOKING TOBACCO,
2 oz. for 5 Cents.
CUT AND SLASH
CHEROOTS—3 for 5 Cents.
Give a Good, Mellow, Healthy, Pleasant Smoke. Try Them.
LION & CO. TOBACCO WORKS, Durham, N. C.

$12 A DAY TO SALESMEN
WANTED BRIGHT SALESMEN to introduce DR. T. DE WITT TALMAGE'S latest, greatest, most famous book,
"THE EARTH GIRDLED."
Samoa, Hawaii, the South Seas, Australia, India, Egypt, Palestine, Europe and all their wonders. Thrilling experiences among savages, cannibals and wild races. Amazing heathen superstitions, startling revelations. 400 original photographs of curious races and strange places. No capital or experience required, exclusive territory. Extraordinary inducements and illustrated circulars free. Be quick. Address, TALMAGE, Box 649, Cincinnati, O.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c, and $1.00 at Druggists

SCHOOL DESKS Save 50c freight on each by having them shipped from the Western School Supply House, Des Moines.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water.

Not Likely to be Disappointed.

An inquisitive person passing along a country road stopped to talk with a farmer hoeing corn.

"Your corn is small," said the inquisitive person.

"Yes, I planted that kind," said the farmer.

"It looks yellow."

"I planted yellow corn."

"I don't think you'll get more than half a crop."

"Don't expect to—I planted it on shares.

Two of a Kind.

"I've got a personal letter from the editor of the Houston Bugle," remarked the editor of the Galveston Trombone, laughing heartily.

"What is there funny about it?" inquired the manager.

"He calls me an ass and signs it 'yours fraternally.'"

What They Were Playing.

"You naughty boys!" exclaimed the mother of one of the group of noisy juveniles, "what are you doing?"

"Playing."

"But I heard you calling names."

"Yes'm. We're playing we're the senate."

BLISS TRIUMPH POTATOES

at $1 a bushel; $2 a bbl. of 11 big pecks; 3 bbls. for $5. No potato is earlier; or one-half barrel of Triumphs and one-half barrel of late for $2.25; 3 bbls. for $6.

To get these low prices

Cut This Out and Send the Money

along to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., and get Salzer's Pedigree Potatoes at above cheap prices!

Good until April 25th, 1896. W. N.

Unanimous on One Point.

"But, I am so unworthy, darling," he murmured, as he held the dear girl's hand in his.

"Oh, George," she sighed, "if you and papa agreed on every other point as you do on that, how happy we could be."

When Traveling,

Whether on pleasure bent, or business, take on every trip a bottle of Syrup of Figs, as it acts most pleasantly and effectually on the kidneys, liver, and bowels, preventing fevers, headaches, and other forms of sickness. For sale in 50 cent and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company only.

London contains a quarter of a million working single women whose individual earnings do not average more than twenty-five cents a week.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth,

Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.

There is nothing the devil fears so much as the truth.

HALL'S

Vegetable Sicilian

HAIR RENEWER

Will restore gray hair to its youthful color and beauty—will thicken the growth of the hair—will prevent baldness, cure dandruff, and all scalp diseases. A fine dressing. The best hair restorer made.

R. P. Hall & Co., Props., Nashua, N. H.
Sold by all Druggists.

Who Wants It?

BICYCLE FOR THIRTY CENTS

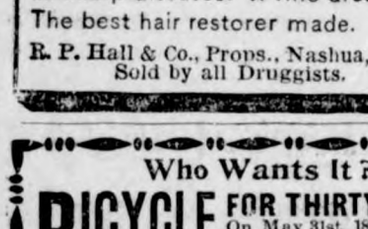
On May 31st, 1896, we shall give absolutely FREE a beautiful high-grade Ladies' or Gent's Bicycle, to the subscriber to Household Guest who can form the greatest number of words from the letters "GUEST," by using them backwark or forward, but do not use any letter more than twice in the same word, like this—use, sue, set, suggest etc. Write your words, and number of them, on clean writing paper, with your name and address, and mail it to us at once with thirty cents in stamps, silver or money order, for 6 months' subscription to our family Magazine—the best in the land. If you are already a subscriber, your subscription will be extended 6 mos.

Remember! everyone entering this contest will secure a beautiful prize by return mail, as soon as their list of words is received, and if your list is the largest on May 31st, we will send you free an elegant high-grade ladies' or gents bicycle.

We give many elegant premiums, such as diamond rings, silk dresses, gold watches, fine pictures, rare portfolios, and many others, and we think this the most liberal offer we've ever made.

If two or more happen to have the same number of words, then neatness, etc., shall determine the winner, but if your list is largest, you win, no matter how poorly written. Write now. Dept. 4
Chicago Household Guest, 358 Dearborn-st., Chicago.

"POSITIVE CORN CURE."



Plain Medicated RubberBands... No Grease or Acid.

Guaranteed to Cure. Money back if you are not satisfied. All druggists or send 25 cents to

MEDICATED RUBBER CO.,
(UNINCORPORATED)
225 Dearborn St., ...CHICAGO.

•WALL PAPER FREE•

Would be dearer than ALABASTINE, which does not require to be taken off to renew, does not harbor germs, but destroys them, and any one can brush it on.

Sold by all paint dealers. Write for card with samples.

ALABASTINE CO., Grand Rapids, Mich.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C.
Successfully Prosecutes Claims.
Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau.
3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

CRIPPLE CREEK Write for what you want to THE MECHEM INVESTMENT CO., Mining Exchange, Denver, Colo.

PURE CALIFORNIA WINES. L. Apffel, Wholesaler, Los Angeles, Cal. 2 cases, asstd., freight paid, $7—$8—$9. Eastern shipments my specialty.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

BITS OF INFORMATION.

Strange bed-warmers are used by Chilian women. In cold weather, when in bed they keep their feet warm by placing them on a dog.

The first steamship to cross the Atlantic was the Sirius, about 700 tons, which arrived at New York, from England, April 23d, 1838.

Since 1850 the world has expended $1,500,000,000 in waging war, and four times that sum in holding standing armies in readiness.

French wheelmen will again have to pay 8s. per annum tax on their machines, the effort to get the rate of taxation reduced having failed.

If any member of the Imperial family lives out of Russia for more than one-fourth of the year, then his or her income is considerably reduced.

In China, in time of pestilence, persons are permitted to witness gratuitously theatrical performances and displays of fireworks, the object being that their minds may be distracted from the prevailing epidemic.

The perpendicularity of a monument is visibly affected by the rays of the sun. On every sunny day a tall monument has a regular lean from the sun. This phenomenon is due to the greater expansion of the side on which the rays of the sun fall.

The Employers Liability Question.

Employe—Sir, I would respectfully ask you for an increase of salary; I have got married lately.

Manager of Works—Very sorry, my friend, I can be of no assistance to you. The company is not responsible for any accidents that happen to our men when off duty.

The Rack, the Thumbscrew and the Boot

Were old-fashioned instruments of torture, long since abandoned, but there is a tormentor who still continues to agonize the joints, muscles and nerves of many of us. The rheumatism, that inveterate foe to daily and nightly comfort, may be conquered by the timely and steady use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which likewise eradicates neuralgia, bilious, bowel, stomach and nerve complaints.

Hard on the Spinster.

Miss Highmynde—Woman, Doctor, will never have her rights until she is allowed to vote!

Dr. Bluff—H'm! a woman who doesn't know enough to manage her husband and get his vote doesn't deserve one.

How's This.

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O., Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price, 75c per bottle. Sold by all druggists. Testimonials free.

The traffic in slaves was suppressed in the District of Columbia in 1857.

Homeseekers' Excursions.

On April 21st and May 5th, the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway company will sell tickets at very low rates to points in Missouri, Kansas and Texas. For particulars address, H. A. Cherrier, 316 Marquette Building, Chicago, Ill., or T. B. Cookerly, 503 Locust street, Des Moines, Iowa.

During the absence, for three months, of the Rev. Mr. Cochrane, of the Unitarian church at Bar Harbor, Me., his wife will attend to all his ministerial duties.

A Spring Trip South.

On May 5, tickets will be sold from principal cities, towns and villages of the north, to all points on the Louisville & Nashville railroad in Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida and a portion of Kentucky, at one single fare for the round trip. Tickets will be good to return within twenty-one days, on payment of $2 to agent at destination, and will allow stop-over at any point on the south-bound trip. Ask your ticket agent about it, and if he cannot sell you excursion tickets write to C. P. Atmore, General Passenger Agent, Louisville, Ky., or J. K. Ridgely, N. W. P. A., Chicago, Ill.

The liquor traffic can be improved when the devil can be made ashamed of himself.

Coe's Cough Balsam

Is the oldest and best. It will break up a Cold quicker than anything else. It is always reliable. Try it.

Our highest duty is to love God and keep his commandments.

"A Cup of Parks' Tea at night moves the bowels in the morning."

"Virtue if the root of conscience,
Conscience—happiness and cheer;
Cheerfulness inspires successes,
Success is the crown most dear."

Piso's Cure for Consumption is our only medicine for coughs and colds.—Mrs. C. Beltz, 439 8th ave., Denver, Col., Nov. 8, '95.

There is a billionaire family in the world, the Rothchilds, whose combined wealth is estimated at $1,000,000,000.

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

A handsome monument will soon be erected to General Sherman in Lancaster, O., his native city.

Just how it does it is not the question.

It is enough to know that Hindercorns takes out the corns, and a very pleasing relief it is. 15c, at druggists

"I feel rather sad when I think of refusing him." "Never mind, my dear. I felt the same way when I first refused your father."

"I have tried Parker's Ginger Tonic and believe in it," says a mother and so will you say when familiar with its revitalizing properties.

Men who have seen a good deal of life don't always end by choosing their wives so well.

A QUEST FOR WEALTH

CORNELIA SEIBELS RETURNS WITHOUT HER MILLIONS.

Although Eighty-four Years Old She Visited London and Bremen in Search of Imaginary Estates — Miss Seibels' Fatal Search for Gold.

AMONG the 283 steerage passengers who landed at Baltimore the other day from the North German Lloyd at Locust Point, was Miss Cornelia Seibels, who returns to America after hunting fortunes in Germany and England to which she believes she is heir.

Miss Seibels is 84 years old, and was born near Edgefield Court House, N. C. Some time ago she read of the death of a Mr. Seibels in Eberfeldt, Germany, who is said to have left $300,000,000 to relatives, some of whom lived in the United States. Her father, Miss Seibels stated, came to America from Eberfeldt three years after the close of the revolutionary war, settled in the Carolinas, and married. Miss Seibels says there are several more millions due her from the Temple estates in England. Her mother, she says, was Marion Sarah Temple, daughter of William Temple, from whose family in England another great fortune is said to be awaiting heirs.

Eleven weeks ago, Miss Seibels said, she left New York on a North German Lloyd steamer with a view of pressing her claims to the two fortunes. Landing in Bremen, she proceeded to Eberfeldt, where she sought the services of a lawyer. No one assisted her, and her persistence even did not enlist enough information to satisfy her as to the chances of securing the Seibels fortune. Intending to return to Germany later and make a final effort in her own behalf, Miss Seibels decided to go to England and there get legal assistance in obtaining some of the millions of the Temple estate, which were, as she thought, only awaiting her presence and proofs before having them handed to her.

Reaching London all alone, she entered the city by railroad, landing at Victoria station. Afterward, she says, she was arrested, and no argument that she could use would make the London justice, before whom she was taken, believe that she was an heiress to the millions in the Temple estate. "Thirty days in the workhouse," said Miss Seibers, "was what the justicemated out to me. I could not get a lawyer to take up my case, so after serving my sentence I set my face toward Germany again, where I hoped I might have better luck."

Again going to Bremen, she says, she found no one willing to assist her, and finally decided to return to this country.

She said she was going to her niece, Mrs. Sallie Strathem, in Atlanta, Ga. Before starting on her fortune hunt she lived at Jackson, Miss. She says that the late L. Q. C. Lamar, of Mississippi, was her cousin.

Plungers and the Soothing Weed.

The biggest plungers do not smoke. Whether their success can be attributed to their abstemious habits is a question. Pittsburg Phil neither smokes nor drinks. The silent plunger possesses no bad habits at all. Grannan never was accused of using tobacco in any form but occasionally opens a bottle. Will Wallace does not enjoy an after-dinner cigar. Beau Brummel Quinn, Sammy Mulford, W. W. Beverley and Barney Schreiber would advise young men to never taste tobacco in any form. Starter Ferguson, Ed Corrigan, G. B. Morris, a dozen other owners could be added to the same list. Hugh Jones smokes an occasional cigarette. George Wheelock, when here, only smoked after dinner. George Rose chews up more cigars on the block than he burns. Johnny Humphreys can be classed among the anti-puffers. Leo Mayers has the mild form of the cigarette habit but Bookmaker Hughes makes up for them all. When he has not a Havana in his mouth it is a piece of imported plug. Johnny McCormick can be classed among the antis. Starter Caldwell enjoys his cigar, but is not a great smoker.—San Francisco Exchange.

Is Bacon Reincarnated?

Will not the Baconians make an excellent case for Lord Bacon and his profound knowledge of modern science? May it not almost be proved that Bacon is reincarnated in the person of Baron Roentgen? Else how shall Roentgen get the credit for his discovery? For was it not Lord Bacon who made Hamlet say to his mother—

Come, come, and sit you down; you shall not budge;
You go not till I set you up a glass
Where you may see the inmost part of you.
—Boston Transcript.

How Many, Net?

Mrs. Van Cott has been in the evangelist business for thirty-three years, and in that time claims to have saved 70,000 souls, gross.

CUT PRICES ON PLANET, JR., GOODS.

We are not in the senseless combine to charge two prices for Planet, Jr., tools. It is all nonsense in these hard times to ask for fancy prices for garden cultivators and drills when iron and wages are so cheap. Show our prices to your hardware merchants. Show them to everybody! Planet, Jr., combined drills, other seedsmen's price $9.00, our price $6.75; Planet, Jr., double-wheel hoes $6.00, our price $4.50, and so on! Potatoes, $1.50 a barrel. All prices for seeds low.

Cut This Out and Send Money

Cut this out and send money along with order to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., to insure getting above low prices. Mammoth catalogue, 5c postage. W.N.

French doctors have taken a picture of an unborn child by means of the Roentgen rays.

The Pilgrim—Easter Number

Will be ready the early part of April. Everything in it will be new and original. It will contain articles by Capt. Chas. King, U. S. A., ex-Gov. Geo. W. Peck, of Wisconsin, and other noted writers. An entertaining number, well illustrated. Send ten (10) cents to Geo. H. Heafford, publisher, 415 Old Colony building, Chicago, Ill., for a copy.

It is said Dr. Jameson's medical practice in South Africa was worth $15,000 a year

The sinner is on his way to God as soon as he turns his back on sin.

Fairy Footsteps.

See the white violets,
Glistening here and there;
Like a broken string of pearls
They are scattered everywhere.

Don't you think the fairies,
Trapesing through the snow,
Have left their dainty slippers
Amid the ferns to grow?

There are Dictionaries and Dictionaries but the noblest Roman of them all seems to be Webster. It is still easily in the lead in the great race for popularity.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

The Remedy with a Record.

50 Years of Cures

W.N.U. D. M.--1240 NO. 16

When answering advertisements kindly mention this paper

Pain often concentrates all its Misery in RHEUMATISM

Use at once ST. JACOBS OIL if you want to feel it concentrate its healing in a cure.

"A very smooth article."

BattleAx PLUG

Don't compare "Battle Ax" with low grade tobaccos—compare "Battle Ax" with the best on the market, and you will find you get for 5 cents almost as much "Battle Ax" as you do of other high grade brands for 10 cents.

A. D. 1780.

Try Walter Baker & Co.'s Cocoa and Chocolate and you will understand why their business established in 1780 has flourished ever since. Look out for imitations.

Walter Baker & Co., Ltd., Dorchester, Mass.

BLOOD POISON A SPECIALTY

Primary, Secondary or Tertiary Blood Poison permanently cured in 15 to 35 days. You can be treated at home for the same price under same guaranty. If you prefer to come here we will contract to pay railroad fare and hotel bills, and no charge, if we fail to cure. If you have taken mercury, iodide potash, and still have aches and pains, Mucous Patches in mouth, Sore Throat, Pimples, Copper Colored Spots, Ulcers on any part of the body, Hair or Eyebrows falling out, it is this BLOOD POISON that we guarantee to cure. We solicit the most obstinate cases and challenge the world for a case we cannot cure. This disease has always baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians. $500,000 capital behind our unconditional guaranty. Absolute proofs sent sealed on application.

IT IS QUICKLY CURED BY THE

Address COOK REMEDY CO.,
307 Masonic Temple, CHICAGO, ILL. COOK REMEDY CO.

Wall Paper
and
All kinds of
Painting material
Cheap at
HARR'S.

J. H. QUEAL & CO.

Invite you to come and inspect their Dry, Bright, well seasoned stock of

LUMBER
LATH SHINGLES
SASH DOORS

BRICK
LIME
CEMNFT

Oak and Cedar Posts.

We have a complete stock to select from at the lowest price. Let us figure on your bill.

We will not be undersold.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.

SPRING GOODS!

Our Spring goods have arrived consisting of

—BLACK, WHITE and FIGURED—

LAWNS

Light Colored CALICOS, MUSLINS,

GAUZE UNDERWEAR ETC.

We also have a large line of HATS, CAPS and SHOES.

Butter and Eggs Wanted.

SHAFER & DOW.

GEO KLUCKHOHN,
The Restaurant Man!

Serves the Public with

A Square Meal, Fine Bread
Buns, Oysters, Cigars,
Tobaccos, etc.

WHEN IN TOWN CALL AND SEE HIM.

KLEMME, - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

ALEX. KIRKWOOD.

.....PROPRIETOR OF.....

KIRKWOOD :-: HOUSE,

FIRST CLASS ACCOMMADATION. — RATES $1.00 per Day.

Livery and Feed Stable in Connection

Rigs Furnished on Short Notice.

KLEMME, -:- -:- -:- IOWA.

Locals.

Geo. Gruetzmacher was reported on the sick list last week.

Wm. Meyer is Bloom's right hand man during Shaw's sickness.

Mrs. Henry Gruetzmacher went to Relmond, Monday, returning Tuesday.

Call and see the New Designs in Dress Goods just received at E. P. Schaefer's.

Preaching service, as usual in the Am. M. E. church at 10 a. m. next Sunday.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

Geo. Schafer was on the sick list Monday, and Louis Sampson took his place on the cream wagon.

Garner was represented Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. Bracket, Al. Schmalle, Charley Gutterman, Phillip Schneider and Joe Fotheringham.

Rollie Steele, of Garner, has bought the pump interests of Mr. Duffy and will add to the stock, plumbing tools and repairs. Office with Duffy.

The Swartz Bros. moved their grinding machinery and building from the printing office lot onto the Bettin lot north of E. P. Schafer's store, last Saturday.

On Friday, Apr. 10th, 1896 occurred the death of the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Willie. The service was held in the German Reform church on Sunday, Apr. 12. Rev. Trieke officiating. The sympathy of many friends go out to the bereaved parents in their affliction.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that the Contract for County Grading will be let at the office of the Co. Recorder at 2 o'clock p. m. May 1st. 1896.

H. V. REED
Co. Recorder.

H. Schroeder, has the finest meat wagon we have seen. It has an ice apartment and farmers can have meat as fresh and nice as the people that live next door to the meatmarket. He will start soon to make his regular trips to the country.

Laurence Larsen, of Mason City, a son-in-law of Fred Arnold, was in town Tuesday. Mr. Larsen called at the TIMES office and subscribed for the paper. We shall see more of him this summer, as he expects to do business in these parts, with a feed cooker, that is manufactured in Mason City.

F. B. Smith takes a lay off 30 days, and will start with his family for Ringgold County to visit a sister. Another sister living at Sac City will be visited after which he expects to move to Livermore, to take charge of that Station. O. H. Enger from Burdette will have charge of this station. Mr. Smith opened this station about five years ago, during which time he has been a very faithful agent for the company and a highly respected citizen of our town. we take pleasure in recommending Mr. Smith and family to the people of Livermore.

SCHOOL NOTES.

MONTHLY REPORT.
Room No. 1.

No. of Days Taught, ...20.
No. Enrolled, ...30.
No. Cases of Tardiness,.....9.
Average Daily atte ndance.....23.
No. Neither Absent nor Tardy,....5.

Minnie Schuettpelz. Esther Lau. Sarah Kluckhohn. George Wesenberg. Elmer Dow.

MATTIE HUBBARD
Teacher.

Room 2.

No. of Days Taught.....20.
No. Enrolled, ...27.
No. Cases Tardiness .....8.
Average Daily Att.....22.

Pupils neither absent nor tardy, Frank Kluckhohn, Win. Barz Chas. Suckow, Talbert Spooner, Floy Schaefer.

J. J. SUCKOW,
Teacher.

Teacher and pupils in room No. 1 are rejoicing over a number of bran new seats, which were ready for use Monday morning. George Schoper reentered school Monday after an absence of a week on account of sickness.

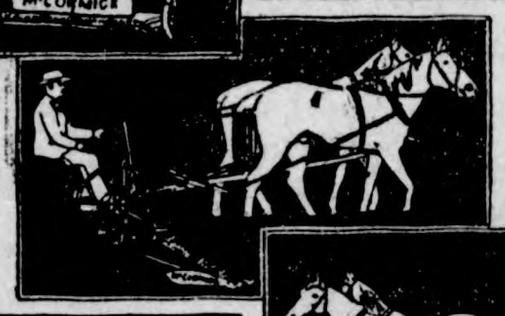
Arbor Day is near at hand. we wish to see a goodly number of the patrons of the school present, as this is one of the most important days of the year. Come one come all, and help us plant trees. Mrs. J. P. Larson visited room one last Tuesday.

Our number of tardy marks are growing less and less. We hope with the aid of the parents to abolish tardiness,

McCormick's Masterpieces

"THE THREE KINGS" OF THE HARVEST FIELD.

THE "OPEN ELEVATOR"
King of all Grain Harvesters.
THE No. 4 STEEL MOWER
King of all Grass Cutters.
THE '96 CORN BINDER
King of all Corn Harvesters.



Come In and See Them! They Are Matchless!

The great Money-Savers of the Farm.

AT THE WORLD'S FAIR
They Won the Only Honors.
IN EVERY TEST they prove their superiority.
IN EVERY LAND they lead the leaders.

WE have satisfied ourselves that McCormick Machines are the lightest draft, most durable and most reliable grain and grass cutters built by any manufacturer. We believe they are the cheapest machines a farmer can own—if experience has proven anything, it has proven this. We believe a careful examination of them will convince any man that they are planned with a mechanical nicety and put together with a degree of care far ahead of that shown in any other make of harvesting machinery. We want all interested parties to come and see them. Guaranteed to work where others fail.

GRUETZMACHER BROS. AGT'S.

We also handle the CELEBRATED
Elwood and Dekalb FIELD FENCING
The best on the market. Also, MITCHELL AND LEWIS WAGONS, RACINE BUGGIES, JOHN DEERE PLOWS, J. I. CASE PLOWS AND KEYSTONE PLANTERS.

Hardware and Groceries.

GRASS AND GARDEN SEEDS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mouldings.

And everything used to build with.

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in the week.

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'GR.,
KLEMME, IOWA.

YOU HAVE IT!
Oats and Corn!
We Want It!

and will pay the Highest Market price to get it.

COAL!

We have it, You want it.

Hard, Soft, Illinois, and Smithing.

WALT. BLOOM, Klemme, Ia.

TIMES $1. PER YR. IN ADVANCE.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, MAY 8, 1896. NUMBER 37

Church Directory.

AMERICAN M. E. CHURCH.
Preaching Service, 10.30, a. m.
Sunday School, 11.30, " "
Epworth League, 7.30, p. m.
Every Sunday.
Prayer meeting, Thursday, 7.30 p.m.
Everyone most cordially invited.
CHARLES E. ANDERSON, Pastor.

GERMAN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School 9.30 a. m.
Preaching Service 10.30 " "
Evening Service — Preaching and Epworth League alternately—8.00 p.m,
Prayer meeting Wednesday 8.00 p.m.
Rev. G. HAEFNER, Pastor.

GERMANTOWN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School and Preaching alternately 9.30 and 10.30 a. m. and 2.00 and 3.00 p. m.
Epworth League 8.00 p. m. each Sunday. Rev. G. HAEFNER, Pastor.

REFORMED CHURCH.
Preaching Service
Rev. TREIKE, Pastor.

B. C. R. & N. TIME TABLE.

GOING SOUTH.

No. 82.	Pass. - -	2.20 p. m.
No. 84,	Stock - -	6.45 a. m.
No. 86.	Way freight. -	1.40 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 81.	Pass. - -	5.00 p. m.
No. 83.	Way freight -	11.35 a. m.
No. 85.	freight - -	4.00 p. m.

No. 84. Runs Sunday and not Monday.
H. O. ENGER, Local Agt.

SEND YOUR ORDERS FOR ABSTRACTS of titles to

J. S. Knauss, Abstracter.

Owner of Complete set, Lands and Town Lots.

Titles Perfected. Promptness and Accuracy GUARANTEED

GARNER, IOWA.

A. L. SPOONER.

Physician and Surgeon.

Office and residence on Main Street first door west of Bank.

Klemme, Iowa.

H. E. PEITZKE IS THE BLACKSMITH THAT

Will do your work well.
He also does wood work.
HIS
Prices are right,
AND
Experience great.
KLEMME, IOWA.

KLEMME - DRAY - LINE.

H. & S. NISSEN, Proprietors.

Draying and teaming of all kinds done on short notice.

GIVE US A CALL.

Local Mention.

John Zook is painting his house.

See the new R. R. time table in this issue.

Men's mackintosh's for $3.50 at E. P. Schaefers.

Adda Hamilton Sundayed in Garner with friends.

Gold, Silver, Leather and Silk Belts at E. P. Schaefers.

Otto and Fred Remer were at Dows visiting over Sunday.

Mrs. H. W. Schoper visited friends in Forest City last week.

Wagon Boxes by the wholesale from 10.50 to $12.50 at Lau Bros.

H. J. Klemme of Belmond, was in town on business Tuesday.

Heavy work harness from 24 to $28, all complete at Lau Bros.

The work on E. P. Dow's house is being rapidly pushed forward.

Wm. Peitzke and Chas. Dake drove over from Clear Lake Wednesday.

Work has commenced on John Suckow's new house in the Barz addition.

Beautiful weather which everybody enjoys and improves the time by making garden.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

Read the Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage sermon in this issue. We have arranged to have his sermon each week.

Bert Hess is studying German. It is'nt much use Bert, most all the German girls can talk English all right.

N. Shaw and one of Klemme's young ladies attended the entertainment at the U. B. church in Goodell, Sunday night.

Our creamery has an increasing business. 2100lbs., of butter last week with a prospect of quite an increase this week.

L. G. Benken and family of Grundy Center, arrived Tuesday to visit H. Benken his brother and other relatives about here.

A. Remer and Will Wesenberg drove to Goodell Sunday and took in the Y. P. C. U. entertainment at the U. B. church in the evening.

Byers and Bush of Garner were callers at the TIMES office Friday morning of last week. They have the contract for painting August Lau's elegant new house.

Busy people have no time, and sensible people have no inclination to use a slow remedy. One Minute Cough Cure acts promptly and gives permanent results. Harr.

Fred Haupt is building an addition to his house. He has a cistern under it with a pump in the kitchen which makes it handy for Mrs. Haupt.

It's just as easy to try One Minute Cough Cure as any thing else. It's easier to cure a severe cough or a cold with it. Let your next purchase for a cough be One Minute Cough Cure. Better medicine; better result; better try it. Harr.

For every quarter in a man's pocket there are a dozen uses; and to each one in such a way as to derive the greatest benefit is a question every one must solve for himself. We believe, however, that no better use could be made of one of these quarters than to exchange it for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, a medicine that every family shoul be provided with. For sale by J. L. HARR.

School Items.

Mrs. John Zook visited our school last Tuesday.

Mr. Brooks of Livermore, gave room 2 a pleasant call last Thursday.

A few of the scholars of room 2 had to leave school on account of work.

Will Bartz has re-entered school after an absence of three weeks on account of work at home.

Two new pupils were added to our enrollment last Monday. They were Bennie and Minnie Lau,

Additional Locals.

Report the news to the editor.

Mrs. Thos. Galley is quite sick.

H. A. Sweigart was in town Sunday.

Mrs. J. Zook went to Goonell Wednesday.

E. Goodwin of Garner was in town Tuesrday.

John Baumgartner was at Garner Tuesday night.

Bicycles repared on short notice at Shafer and Dow's.

Genuine Hand Made Harness only $27, at Lau Bros.

J. FitzPatrick of Britt, was in town on business, Saturday.

The finest Single Harness in town for only $4, at Lau Bros.

Walt Bloom shipped a car of hogs to Chicago Sunday morning.

Pure Boiled Linceed Oil 45 cents per gallon C. S.Collins, Garner Ia.

Wm. Stille has a new well on his place on the west side of the track.

Weichselbaum is having his house painted. Joe Miller does the work.

Frank Gruetzmacher has a new cistern just completed on the Stille place.

Geo. Bush and Sam Schneider were painting on the Aug. Lau house Wednesday.

Miss Louise Steineker and a friend of Hayfield, were visiting friends in town this week.

Last week 57 cases of eggs were shipped from this station. This week the uumber will be about 75.

Binding Twine, superior sisal, pure manilla and standard, all new, at bottom prices. at Lau Bros.

The Garner Laundry will call for and deliver your laundry, Tuesday and Friday of each week.

The corners and casings on Geo. Gruetzmacher's house have been painted which greatly mproves the looks.

The report comes to us as we go to press that L. D. Gamm died Thursday morning with Quinsy, also that John Steele died Thursday about 2 p. m.

Wanted.

1000 dozen eggs and 500 lbs butter in exchange for Wall Paper and Paints. Shafer & Dow.

James Sturgeon the rustling land agent of Clarion, was in Klemme Wednesday to see how business is done in a town that is alive.

Papering.—I am ready to do paperhanging in a first class manner and on short notice. All work guaranteed.
REV. C. NOLTE, Goodell, Ia.

Klemme market: Hogs, $2.80, Corn, 16 cents, Oats 14 cents, Wheat, 50 cents, Barley, 17cents, Eggs, 8cents, Butter, common 8cents.

Mr. A. B. Shafer and the editor of the TIMES went a-fishing Friday afternoon. They came home well loaded with———? mud and disappointment.

The Dows Advocate says: "M. A. Fell, one of the late proprietors of the Advocate, will move from Garner to Clarion, where he has bought a lot and will erect a dwelling."

The Kirkwood house social last week was the occasion of a considerable sport in voting for, who should be May Qneen. A crown had been prepared and Clarice Gibbs was crowned Queen. The receipts were $15.45

Last Friday night about 8:30 Mr. Dickinson was missed and a search failed to find him. Monday night a telegram from Armstrong stated he had arrived there. It is supposed he walked the entire distance.

It is rumered that the C. & N. W. R R. have secured the controlling interests in the B. C. R. & N. Ry. That something has happened, is evident from the changes that are being made among the employees.

Joe Willert who lives 5 miles northwest of town, had some carpenters repairing his house last Friday. His little son, 5 years old sat on the work bench watching the work when he swung his hand behind him, struck the draw knife that lay there and severed the cords of his wrist. He was brought to town and Dr. Spooner dressed it, He is doing nicely.

GO TO LAU BROS.

for bargains in

SHOES.

We hove a new line of shoes and are selling them at bottom prices.

DRY GOODS.

Our line of dry goods is complete.
New spring goods arriving almost daily

SPRING UNDERWEAR.

We have an extra quality of gauze, that we are selling at 60 cents per suit. You cant beat it. Come and see.

MACKINTOSH'S.

We can fit you at from $4.00 up as you want.

PRODUCE,

always taken in exchange at the highest market price,

Our Stock Is Complete,

And Prices Reduced.

CALL AND SEE OUR

NEW DRESS GOODS AND TRIMMINGS.

Silk waist pattern per yd.	35c	Just recieved
A large assortment of light and dark prints per yd.	5c	a new lot of Ladier Shirt Waists,
One lot of Ladies belts at	25c	Lace Curtains,
Ohe lot of Baby hoods at	25c	Chenille Curtains and Table Covers.
One lot of Pearl Buttons all sizes per doz.	5c	Boy's Suits and Blouce Waists.
One lot of L.L. muslin per yd.	5c

Summer Underwear.

A LARGE STOCK OF Cream City HATS.

Fredora Hats from 75c to $2.50. Men's children's and misses straw Hats.

COME AND MAKE YOUR SELECTION EARLY.

Yours Respectfully

E. P. SCHAEFER.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, - - - IOWA

The (spinning) wheel is growing in popularity.

The quack doctor doesn't do much healing, although he is often very successful in heeling himself.

Ask the cashier of a bank for a small loan and see the cashier give the counter sign, which is a shake of the head.

The man who brought in the story of Nansen with such a hurrah, by this time has probably had his tale feathers pulled.

A Boston paper says that Bernhardt is 52, feels like 30 and looks only 28. It is the popular verdict that she can still act like sixty.

People who imagine they could do great things if they had the time generally waste a considerable quantity of what they do possess.

Two Englishmen in Tonawanda, N. Y., wiped their feet on the stars and stripes, but this isn't the first time the old flag has wiped off Englishmen.

A new African war has broken out among the natives at Aruwimi. War formerly was a European feature, but has now become a "native" industry in Africa.

In New York the other day John Pugelesy, a 75-year-old miser, worth $1,500,000 in real estate, died of starvation in a cellar for which he paid $3 a month.

Bert T. Derck of Kokomo, Ind., finally smoked his last cigarette, and after remaining unconscious for four weeks, quietly let go of the life line and sank from sight. Aged 22.

Mary Daly of Holbrook, Mass., has been arrested for throwing strips of paper around the streets containing words of reflection against Mary Good, who is said to be just like her name.

A New York man claims to have looked at the human heart, but it is the general impression that the subject of investigation came from another state, as even Roentgen rays and fluorescent screens have limitations.

It is pretty safe to wager that the young fiend who murdered an entire family near Tallmadge, Ohio, the other day, never will be hanged. Electrocution goes into effect in that state July 1.

Rev. Joseph H. Milburn of Indianapolis, favors Sunday baseball, and the other ministers of course are amazed. The question is causing more talk just now in the Indiana capital than politics, and Sunday games are running on all the vacant lots.

William Slowey of Clinton, Iowa, after spending sixteen years of his life in the penitentiary, has been released through the aid of a deathbed confession of the real murderer. Circumstantial evidence is getting a good many hard knocks these days.

The Chicago doctors claim to have discovered that the X rays will destroy the germs of cholera, typhoid fever, consumption, diphtheria, influenza and glanders. The doctors announce that the ray, properly applied, will destroy any form of infectious or contagious germ. If this turns out to be true epidemics from contagious diseases need never again occur.

A bill is in preparation and will soon be introduced in the Ohio legislature to regulate the size of the paper collar on a glass of beer. Many barkeepers it is said, in drawing beer manipulate the glass so that the drinker gets a surplus of foam and little beer. The law is based on a German statute which requires the marking of glasses in which the beer is served and there must be no foam below that mark. A fine is provided for violation of the law.

Intense interest has been aroused in medical and other circles in Berlin by the announcement of a young physician, Erich Langheld, at the International Physicians' Congress at Weisbaden Saturday last, that he has discovered a new remedy for tuberculosis named anti-microbia. Its principal ingredients, it appears, are ozone and cod liver oil, applied by subcutaneous injection. In the experiments of the last five years, he explained, the greatest difficulty to overcome was that of keeping the ozone pure and easily available. Of the ninety cases of tuberculosis treated in the Moabit hospital during the last year all have been cured. Profs. Gerhardt and Senator confirmed the foregoing statement.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

SUE ON LYON COUNTY BONDS.

Vast Financial Institutions Commence Suit in Federal Court.

SIOUX CITY, May 2.—The Aetna Life Insurance Company, the United States Bank, the Cincinnati General Life Insurance Company, the Savings and Trust Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, and the Hartford Steam Boiler Inspection and Insurance Company have pooled issues and begun suit in equity in the federal court against Lyon county to recover on a large issue of bonds of that county now held by the complainants, and which, it is alleged, are repudiated by the county. The case has been in court before and once Judge Shiras decided that some of the bonds were legal and some of them not legal. This new suit brings the whole matter into court again. The value of the bonds is about $53,000.

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT.

Judge Josiah Given Elected Department Commander.

CEDAR RAPIDS, April 30.—The first day of the G. A. R. encampment the parade was the feature. Three thousand were in line and they were reviewed by Governor Drake and Department Commander Thompson. Largely attended camp-fires were held in the evening. At the first business session, officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Department commander, Judge Josiah Given, Des Moines; senior vice-commander, Gen. H. M. Day, Cedar Rapids; junior vice-commander, Capt. E. I. Weiser, Decorah; medical director, Dr. H. C. McCoy, Algona; chaplain, Rev. N. Bartlett, Iowa City. Marshalltown was selected as the place for holding the next annual encampment by an overwhelming vote.

GOT BIG DAMAGES.

Drayman Griffis Against the Rock Island at Avoca.

AVOCA, May 3.—The jury in the case of Griffis against the Rock Island road returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $15,000. The plaintiff, 21 years old, was engaged in the dray business in the town of Carson, seventeen miles south of Avoca, and while attempting to place a trunk on the depot platform, was caught by a moving car, and his left leg was cut off just below the knee. Plaintiff claimed that there were no lights, signals nor anything to apprise him of the approaching danger, and that he neither saw nor heard the moving car until it was too late to save himself. Defendant will ask for a new trial.

Street Car Hold Up.

BURLINGTON, May 2.—As motor No. 3, of the electric railway, on the South Hill route, reached the end and was making the change of trolley pole, two masked men covered the conductor and motorman with guns and demanded their money. The conductor was a little slow in turning over the cash, whereupon one robber fired a shot at him, but his aim was poor. All they secured was the fares of one trip, amounting to $1.05. No clue to their identity.

Killed by a Train.

IOWA CITY, May 1.—Anton Muehriein, an old man past 70 years, was run over by a train on the Rock Island road and his head almost severed from his badly mangled body. It is supposed he desired to cross the track on which a freight was standing, and while crawling beneath the cars met his death. He was a pioneer of Iowa City, having lived here about forty-five years.

Dr. Reid Not Guilty.

DAVENPORT, May 1.—The jury in the case against Dr. Reid, charged with performing a criminal operation on Annie Dierters, returned a verdict of not guilty, thus exonerating Dr. Reid in the third and final trial of like nature since and including the Reid-Carney case, in which Mrs. Carney, of Iowa City, was alleged to have been the victim.

Convicts Pardoned.

DES MOINES, May 1.—Gov. Drake has pardoned two life convicts from the state penitentiaries. They are George A. Trout, sent from Sioux City for killing a former friend, and A. F. Hockett, sent from Mahaska county for killing his sister's seducer. The legislature recommended that the pardons be granted.

Hatch Jury Disagreed.

DUBUQUE, May 2.—In federal court the jury in the case of the Hatch administrators vs. the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway disagreed and was discharged. The plaintiffs claim $15,000 on account of the death of Judge Hatch, of McGregor, who fell through a bridge and was killed.

Mine Inspectors.

DES MOINES, May 1.—Governor Drake has re-appointed James A. Campbell, of Ottumwa, James W. Miller, of Oskaloosa, and Morgan W. Thomas, of Des Moines, as state mine inspectors.

CROP REPORT.

Plenty of Moisture and Everything Favorable So Far.

DES MOINES, April 30.—The Weather Crop Bulletin says: For the month of April the total precipitation is now from 1 to 3 inches above the normal for the state at large, and in all sections there is an ample reserve of moisture in the soil and subsoil. These favorable conditions have brought all forms of vegetation forward with unusual rapidity, and in respect to the growth of plants and foliage, the season is now earlier than the average. Oats, barley, spring wheat, fall wheat and rye have been greatly benefited, and in all sections of the state pasturage is now ample for the support of stock. Farm work has been vigorously pushed and a large area is ready for planting. Some corn has been planted in the southern districts, and with favorable weather this work will be quite general within the coming week. A good beginning has been made in planting potatoes.

GRIEF UNHINGED HER MIND.

A Mother Buried Three Children and Then Committed Suicide.

IOWA CITY, May 4.—Mrs. David Goodwin, aged 36, while temporarily insane, drowned herself in the Iowa river. She had been ill with malarial fever, and after her husband dropped to sleep, she stole from the house, which is within a short distance of the river, clad only in a night robe. She waded out ten feet from shore, and lying down in two feet of water, ended her life. The body of the unfortunate woman was found face downward a few hours later. The Goodwins have lost three of their four children by death, the last one only a short time ago, and it is supposed this also aided in unsettling Mrs. Goodwin's mind.

HOKE APPROVES.

Secretary of the Interior Passes on Iowa Land.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Secretary Hoke Smith has approved the report of Robert L. Berner, special commissioner to investigate the claims of persons on the Des Moines river land grant. He has also approved the findings of the commissioner of the general land office in reference to lists A and B. All in list A are ordered paid, but those in B that were modified by a supplemental report of Mr. Berner were rejected. All other claims will be submitted to congress shortly.

BREVITIES.

Dubuque is to have a new Masonic Temple, six stories high and to cost $100,000.

At Cedar Rapids, Thomas Lally, who killed his mother while drunk, was sentenced to the penitentiary for twenty years. Gus Trainor, convicted of manslaughter, was given five years.

Al. Hughes, of Creston, has been indicted by the grand jury at Oskaloosa, for forcing Mrs. Mary Brooks to sign a settlement withdrawing her suit against Thomas Seevers, of Oskaloosa. His trial will occur later.

Quite a sensation was caused at Muscatine recently when Sheriff Wiley discovered that the dynamite prisoners had cut a hole in the steel floor of the jail and also a great hole in the wall and were ready to break for liberty, they having been furnished the tools by outsiders. They will be more closely guarded in the future.

A train on the Illinois Central was wrecked about one mile east of Raymond. A sudden rain storm had flooded that section and undermined the track. The train was late and was running at a high rate of speed on a down grade. At the foot of the grade the train struck the water. The engine, baggage car and smoker passed over safely. The day coach was turned over on its side. The chair car was set crosswise of the track and the rear trucks crowded under the sleeper. The first sleeper was thrown partially crosswise of the track and nearly broken in two. A dozen persons received serious injuries, but none of them will prove fatal.

Excitement was created at Bloomfield recently by D. B. Pugh breaking into his grandchild's room and striking her over the head with his heavy cane, cutting a terrible gash, and as she fell to the floor he struck her on the arm with his cane and broke her arm in two places. The girl is about 16 years old, and is the eldest daughter of Bush Pugh, proprietor of the English Kitchen. It is doubtful if she will ever recover, owing to her precarious condition aside from her wounds. A large crowd gathered in front of the English Kitchen, where the doctor was dressing the wounds, and it took quite an effort to prevent the angry people from horsewhipping the old man. Mr. Pugh was arrested and put under $1,000 bonds to appear at the next term of court. The cause of the trouble was that the girl had eaten four of the old man's bananas, and he became enraged over the trifling offense and attacked her with his cane.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

CUBA.

HAVANA, April 30.—The Spanish gun boat Mesagora captured near Berracos, on the northern coast of Pinar del Rio, the American schooner Competitor, of Key West, loaded with arms and ammunition, for which she was seeking a landing place. The schooner's cargo consisted of 38,000 cartridges of different makes and designed for different styles of weapons, many packages of dynamite and a large number of cases containing Mansur and Remington rifles. The vessel and her cargo were brought to Havana.

HAVANA, May 2.—Gomez's advance is confirmed. It is now reported he has entered Matanzas province with a strong force of ten or twelve thousand men, five pieces of artillery and plenty of ammunition. It is presumed an attack on the trocha on both sides in combination with Maceo will follow, and hot fighting is expected.

MADRID, May 3.—Senor Labra, deputy for Cuba, speaking at Seville, declared that Spain's natural policy was alliance with France against America. The Cuban war, he said, if prolonged, meant ruin for Spain, and there will be renewed struggles unless the reforms for Cuba are conceded. Local autonomy, he said, was indispensable.

NEW YORK, May 3.—The World's Madrid special says that despite the denials from official circles that the pope, through the nuncio here, has urged Spain to accept American mediation in Cuban affairs, there is an impression, especially among military men and Cuban representatives, that the report is true.

KEY WEST, Fla., May 4.—Reliable advices from Cuba state that none of the five Americans captured on the schooner Competitor have as yet been executed. Six persons on the Competitor were killed during the engagement which resulted in the capture of the schooner.

ENGLISH PLOT DISCOVERED.

Jameson's Raid in the Transvaal Backed By South Africa Company.

LONDON, May 1.—A message from Pretoria appears to confirm a dispatch from Pretoria published in the Paris Tempes, which is to the effect that telegrams were put in as evidence during the trials of the reformers which, from a cipher discovered in Dr. Jameson's baggage after the fight at Doornkoop, and the surrender of the raiders, prove the complicity of the Chartered South Africa Company with the Johannesburg reform leaders and Dr. Jameson. They also prove that the chartered company had opened a credit for £400,000 in the name of Col. Francis Rhodes at Johannesburg to organize the raid. The Pretoria dispatch to the Tempes further adds that documents in possession of the Transvaal government compromise notable personages and the officers in charge of the English army.

SHAKEL'S VICTORY.

Bucket Shop Man Induces the Grand Jury to Investigate the Board of Trade.

CHICAGO, May 2.—On complaint of William Shakel, the "bucket shop king," of Chicago, the grand jury has decided to investigate charges of conspiracy preferred by him against President W. T. Baker, of the board of trade and Civic Federation; John Hill, Jr., chairman of the bucket-shop prosecuting committee of the board of trade; Thomas Candy, a Civic Federation detective, who obtained evidence against the raided bucket-shops, and others. The alleged conspiracy is in connection with the procuring of justice court warrants on which the successive raids were made by the police. The investigation of the board of trade officials was taken independently of the state's attorney, who repudiates the Shakel complaint, although addressed to him.

TAYLOR HANGED.

One of the Murderers of the Meeks Family Meets Death.

CARROLLTON, Mo., May 1.—Wm. Taylor, one of the Taylor brothers who murdered the Meeks family, was hanged yesterday. Taylor's nerve never deserted him. His neck was broken and he was declared dead in ten minutes.

Mrs. Tucker Very Ill.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—Mrs. Booth-Tucker, consul of the Salvation Army, is very low, but her attendants believe she will recover. All her engagements on the Pacific coast have been cancelled and she will make no effort to visit the northwest, going directly to New York as soon as able.

Two Hundred Chinamen Drown.

SHANGHAI, May 1.—A collision occurred at Woo Sung between the steamers New Chwang and On Wo. The latter sank and over 200 persons, mostly Chinese, were drowned.

Sentences Commuted.

CAPE TOWN, May 1.—The sentences of the leaders of the Transvaal raid to death for high treason, have been commuted by President Kreuger.

SHAH OF PERSIA KILLED.

Assassinated While Entering a Shrine at Teheran.

TEHERAN, Persia, May 2.—The shah of Persia was assassinated while entering the shrine of the Shah Abdulazin. The assassin fired point blank at his heart. The shah was at once carried to his carriage and conveyed to the palace. There he was attended by the court physicians, but in spite of their efforts he expired within two hours. The assassin was promptly arrested and said he was Say Yid from Kerman. It is believed the murderer had accomplices. Nashier Ed Din, shah of Persia, was born in 1829, and succeeded to the throne in 1848 on the death of his father. The heir apparent is his eldest son, Nuzafer Ed Din, born in 1853.

HANDSOME PRESENT.

Baron Hirsch Willed $5,000,000 to the Prince of Wales.

LONDON, May 3.—Baron Hirsch, who died recently, left to the prince of Wales by will £1,000,000 ($5,000,000.) Common rumor has had it for a long time that the prince of Wales was heavily in the baron's debt. Whether the bequest is exclusive or inclusive of this alleged indebtedness cannot be known perhaps until the will is read. The baron certainly and frequently was of great financial assistance to his royal highness. In return, the prince gave him constant social countenance, even going to the baron's vast shooting domains in Austria a few years ago on a visit.

A Cuban Victory.

KEY WEST, Fla., May 2.—A notable victory has been won by the insurgents commanded by Gen. Calixto Garcia, in the provinces of Santiago de Cuba. Garcia's forces fell upon the Spanish column commanded by Gen. Munoz and almost annihilated it. The battle occurred near Zanja. Garcia had 3,500 men and the opposition 2,500. Garcia drove the troops into the river and over 300 were either killed by bullets or drowned, while 400 were wounded.

Worst Not Yet in Armenia.

BOSTON, May 4.—A letter from Smyrna says the Armenian relief funds are diminishing, while the number of the destitute is increasing, and expresses the fear that the worst has not come; that famine and pestilence will be inevitable during the approaching summer months.

Methodist Conference.

CLEVELAND, O., May 4.—The eligibility committee of the Methodist general conference has decided in favor of permitting the women delegates to retain their seats in the conference.

Vermont for McKinley.

MONTPELIER, Vt., April 30.—The republican state convention selected delegates and instructed them for McKinley.

TERSE NEWS.

M. Meline has succeeded in forming a new cabinet for France.

The German reichstag has adopted a motion to prohibit option dealings in grain and grain products.

An explosion occurred in the palace of the governor-general of Cuba recently. The walls were torn, great stones fell, and several employes in the governor-general's office were wounded. The explosion is attributed to the insurgents.

The trial of Dr. Jameson, the Transvaal raider, and his associates, was resumed in London last week. After the presentation of immaterial evidence the trial was adjourned till June 11, pending the arrival of a witness from South Africa.

Dispatches say the five leaders of the reform committee of Johannesburg, J. H. Hammond, an American, and Francis Rhodes, George Farrar, Lionel Phillips and Charles Leonard, Englishmen, have been condemned to death by the Transvaal government.

A second fire, which started in the Portland hotel, at Cripple Creek, Col., destroyed all that was left of the main portion of the city, except the railroad stations and a few scattering houses. An effort was made to stay the flames by dynamite, but the destruction only stopped when it lacked fuel upon which to feed.

The Arizona republican convention split and two delegations were selected, one favoring McKinley and the other opposing him. Illinois republicans selected William Penn Nixon, of the Chicago Inter Ocean, R. W. Patterson, editor of the Chicago Tribune, ex-Governor Fifer, and ex-Governor Richard Oglesby, as delegates-at-large and instructed them for McKinley.

Georgia republicans failed to instruct their delegates to St. Louis; Pennsylvania democrats instructed for ex-Governor Pattison and gold; Nebraska sound money democrats selected delegates to contest with the silver delegation; Mississippi democrats instructed for E. C. Walthal for the vice-presidency, and declared for free coinage; Michigan democrats declared for gold and in Alabama the republicans endorsed McKinley.

TIOMANE.

BY JACQUES VINCENT.

COPYRIGHT 1892 BY RAND, McNALLY CO.

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER XXVII.—(CONTINUED.)

good wife. I think she loves him very sincerely."

"Yes, Maritza has a warm heart and such a rare devotion could not fail to touch it."

"And what a happy fellow he is!" resumed Guillaume, holding out to her some of the choicest roses on the table, with a hand that trembled in spite of his efforts to appear calm. "How fortunate to be able to offer everything to his wife! to take her poor, to take her for herself alone, and bring ease and luxury to the life which she devotes to him!"

"And is not that the duty of a husband?" said Tioman sharply.

"Yes," he answered with emotion, "you are right, it is indeed a husband's duty—his privilege. And how much to be envied are those who are able to fulfill this duty of nature—this desire of the heart! But to love a woman richer than oneself is a bitter sorrow, Tiomane."

"I should think so," she answered, coldly.

There was again a painful silence. She continued to choose carefully the most beautiful flowers, apparently thinking of nothing but her loving task.

He resumed, in an agitated voice: "So it is your opinion, also. You do not admit that, in spite of the strength, the sincerity, the irresistibleness, if I may say so, of his love, a man may not dare to aspire to such a union? You do not admit that he may hope in the future that he may have a right to be confident that his efforts, inspired by so holy a motive, will be crowned with success. To raise himself to her level! That is his ambition. You do not admit that the wife might find her happiness in the power of the sentiment she inspires; that the greatness of the love may make her forget the mediocrity of the position; that she may have pity on——"

"No!" she interrupted harshly, incensed at these repeated protestations of a love which she believed was spoken of another, and taking pleasure in plunging the sword deeper and deeper into that suffering heart; "no! Were I that woman, the thought would come to me that my poverty would have been less sought than my wealth. I should despise a man who would consent to take this inferior place in the household. I should think that if he had any dignity, any nobility of character, he would have concealed a love which after all was profitable to him; yes, profitable, I repeat. I should think that he ought to have concealed his love, and waited until he had conquered a position equal, if not superior, to that of the woman of his choice. In short, my opinion is that a self-respecting man is never dependent on his wife."

Guillaume had become deadly pale at these implacable words.

He rose, his eyes sparkling with grief and rage.

"Be it so," he said. "You have become cruelly severe of late. I hope that all women are not so hard-hearted."

"I hope not," she answered with cruel irony.

The next day, at the wedding, Guillaume was as gay as in his happiest days at Smyrna. He answered Natalia's brilliant sallies, and, to a careless observer, seemed overflowing with happiness. On this day, which brought such joy to all other members of the little family, Tiomane suffered a thousand deaths. She thought of another union which would doubtless soon take place. But she resolved that she would flee to the end of the world to escape it. Madame de Sorgnes was very lonely after the departure of her daughter, who was to reside at Blinville. Tiomane tried, by loving attentions, to make her forget her loss, and sincere and continuous effort always bears healing fruit. By degrees she learned to accept her broken life with resignation, and devoted herself passionately to her beautiful art. She was engaged at the Eden for the whole season and was to interpret some of those great conceptions of Wagner's, which seem too sublime to be the work of human intellect.

A certain outward calm was established. Natalia never visited them. Guillaume appeared at the house as rarely as possible, and when he did come avoided a tete-a-tete with Tiomane, which would have been equally painful to both. Madame de Sorgnes went frequently to pass a few days with her children at Blinville, Sancede's increased labors sometimes making the Sunday visit to Paris impossible. The great singer, obliged to remain in the city in consequence of her engagements, was necessarily excused from accompanying her benefactor.

The winter passed and time, as ever, did its kindly work. Tiomane kept hidden in her heart the most bitter sorrow that a loving woman is called to bear, but no one guessed her secret, and this thought was some balm to her wounded pride.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

SPRING CAME. One Sunday Monsieur and Madame Sancede, accompanied by Guillaume, came to breakfast in the Rue d'Assas. During the meal they spoke of a magnificent proposal from Monsieur de Riez.

The construction of an important railroad at Smyrna was under consideration—the chancellor being president. A number of Greek bankers were to furnish the capital. These gentlemen, old friends of Monsieur de Sorgnes, offered his son the position of chief engineer, with a salary of 20,000 francs and a share in the earnings of the road. This godsend seemed to Madame de Sorgnes the realization of a dream. She pictured the winter there, under the beautiful Ionian sky, breathing the perfume of the orange blossoms, sailing on the blue sea, and the summer in France in the pretty village where Maritza was the happy mistress of a beautiful home, set in a velvety lawn, and surrounded by venerable trees.

The young engineer seemed irritated by the general enthusiasm and listened coldly to their rose-colored plans for the future. At last, breaking the silence, he said brusquely:

"I am attached to Paris. I have many friends here. Why can I not be left in peace where I am?"

That afternoon he accompanied the family to the concert at the Eden. After the concert Henri and Maritza went to pay a visit in the Boulevard Haussman and Guillaume escorted his mother and Tiomane home.

When Madame de Sorgnes went to her room to take off her wraps Guillaume followed Tiomane to hers.

Astonished at the intrusion the young girl remained standing, waiting for an explanation, without removing her bonnet.

"Pardon me, Tiomane," he said in a resolute tone, "if I annoy you, but in this important decision I feel the need of your counsel, and, as in the happy days long ago, I beg you to be my guide. Will you refuse me this favor?"

The young girl did not speak for several minutes; then she said in an agitated voice:

"In what can I serve you?"

"I repeat—by advising me."

"On what subject?"

"On my duty," he said humbly. "I find myself placed in an exceedingly difficult position. Must I obey the dictates of my heart or the dictates of duty? I can not hide from myself that my duty as a man, as the head of a family, imposes upon me this voluntary exile, which will secure ease and luxury for my mother."

"Certainly."

"Well! it is this cruel separation that terrifies me," he resumed, his eyes, full of love, fixed on hers. "On one hand I see fortune offered to me; I see the opportunity of climbing the first rounds of the ladder which will lead me higher—when I can hope to obtain, perhaps, that consideration, that pity, which you one day so cruelly denied me."

In spite of her efforts to control herself these words troubled Tiomane strangely. His imploring attitude, his agitated manner, surprised and touched her.

"Come," he said gently, "be my friend again, my sister, as in the old happy days in Smyrna—will you?"

She smiled sadly.

"I am ready to serve you," she answered, making a great effort to speak calmly. "You ask my advice. Well, I will give it without any circumlocution. Whatever interest of the heart, as you say, may make you wish to remain in Paris; however painful this separation from those you love may be, you have not the right to seek to escape the duties of a son. And then, for yourself, believe me, conquer your independence—before all—in spite of all."

She was sadly sincere at this moment, trying to think only of the best interests of her "brother," and responding loyally to what he expected from her.

He held out his hand to her. She gave him hers.

"I will obey you," he said gravely.

CHAPTER XXIX.

THE EVE OF GUILLAUME'S departure had arrived He had bid a final adieu to Blinville, to his sister and her husband, and to his mother, who was spending a few days with her daughter. Madame de Sorgnes was to join her son in the autumn. Tiomane had seen Guillaume but a moment on his arrival, but he asked permission to come and pass the evening with her, after all the last preparations for his journey were completed.

It was 8 o'clock. She waited for him in the little drawing-room, her heart oppressed with a nameless grief. All was ended between them! To-morrow he would be far away! Oh, how frightfully far away from her! Now she was able to measure the depth of her love, forgetting all her petty bitterness, all her jealousy. Was he not the first being she had ever loved? Was he not the brother who had consoled her, sustained her, protected her?

She had thought her heart would be lightened by his absence. How readily one can be mistaken about oneself!

The room had grown almost dark. Seated at the open window, she listened mechanically to the ticking of the clock on the mantel; every minute brought the supreme, the last, interview nearer. Suddenly she recognized his step in the antechamber. She trembled from head to foot. The door opened. He entered.

For a moment he stood on the threshold, hesitatng. Then he came forward and, without speaking, seated himself beside her.

Emotion paralyzed both. Both were very pale, motionless, not finding a word to say to each other, their hearts were so full.

The silence was prolonged until it became oppressive, and yet it seemed impossible to break it.

The ticking of the clock seemed weird and solemn, giving a poignant eloquence to this voiceless communion. Guillaume's eyes were fixed on the floor and he seemed to be studying mechanically the pattern of the carpet. Tiomane looked out into the great deserted garden. Suddenly she heard a sob. She turned her head and saw that Guillaume had buried his face in his hands and was weeping bitterly.

"Guillaume, what is the matter?" she exclaimed.

He had risen and left her side, rage and despair written on his face.

"I beg," she continued, agitated with a nameless sorrow, "that you will answer me. What is the matter?—tell me, what is the matter?"

"You ask me!" he answered, "you! you! Do you not see that the sacrifice is beyond my courage? Yes—at the last moment—inspite of my resolutions—I can not—no, I can not—leave you!"

"Me! me!" she stammered, weeping. "What are you saying?"

"Blame me, ridicule me," he continued bitterly, "if you will. I may be weak, cowardly, unmanly, but the suffering is too great, now that the hour has come for our separation—our eternal separation, perhaps. In these last few weeks hope had returned. I felt within me the power to conquer fortune, to make for myself a name, that I might come and lay it at your feet, begging you to have pity. But I was insane. Why should I hope to win you? Why should you ever think of linking your life with mine? Have you not declared it clearly enough—you wish great wealth, a famous name; you dream of your carriage emblazoned with the arms of a noble family; you hope to wear the coronet of a duchess on your beautiful brow. Natalia has told me all. Ah! Tiomane, how hard, how pitiless, you are, and what a loving heart you have tortured and rejected."

She listened, stupefied, thunderstruck by this revelation—hardly daring to understand. Trembling from head to foot, she leaned on an easy chair.

"What does this mean, Guillaume?" she stammered. "Is it possible you do not love Natalia?"

He looked at her with such unfeigned surprise that the truth flashed on her mind, clear as noon-day, and she murmured, "Oh, how deceived I have been!" while happy tears flowed down her cheeks.

"Guillaume, my brother, pardon me."

He, too, at last, understood the truth, and he seized her hand in a transport of happiness.

"Tell me that I am not dreaming, Tiomane; tell me that you did not mean to drive me away from you; tell me that you did not hate and despise me. Oh, speak! I implore you!"

He had forced her to seat herself, while he, kneeling at her side, held both her hands in his, his face transfigured with happiness. Their eyes met. Each penetrated the secret so long concealed. Each read clearly the heart of the other.

Night came, and the servant, entering with the lamp, drew them from their ecstasy. When she had left the room Guillaume led Tiomane to a sofa near the light and seated himself beside her.

"I must look at you, darling. I must look into your honest blue eyes and feast on your dear smile."

Yes, she smiled upon him as one smiles on awaking from a frightful dream and finding a delightful reality.

"Ah! cruel girl," he said, "so you doubted me—you accused me — you would not see, when the truth was so clear."

"I was so jealous, Guillaume," she answered. "I thought you loved Natalia. You always seemed to seek each other's society; to understand each other so well."

"My poor foolish darling, Natalia was my confidant. She guessed my secret, and thought she was working for the happiness of both. How angry she was with you for your cruel words. She thinks you utterly heartless."

The dual confession was ended. As in the old days in Smryna, the days of their childish friendship, the words welled up from their happy hearts, simple, without disguise. Each recalled in detail the sad story of their foolish mistake.

They separated when the clock on the mantel struck twelve. Before Guillaume took leave, it was decided that he should take his wife with him when he returned to the East, and a telegram was sent to Monsieur de Riez in the morning. A reply was received granting him several weeks' leave of absence from his post.

Some days before her marriage Tiomane made a full confession to Guillaume's well-meaning but most injudicious confidant.

"Is it possible!" exclaimed Mademoiselle Desgoffes. "Jealous of me! Am I a woman?"

(THE END.)

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The naval appropriation bill was before the senate throughout the day. Chandler offered an amendment making it unlawful for retired naval officers to enter the service of contractors furnishing armor plates, etc., to the government. It had not been disposed of when the senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

The first two hours was devoted to District of Columbia business. A rule was then adopted providing for concluding consideration of the pension bill to-day and for a vote to-morrow. Mr. Hepburn offered an amendment providing that the pension office should construe the pension laws liberally in the interest of the claimant, and that no claimant should be required to produce proof that would exclude all reasonable doubt, but that claims should be decided in favor of the preponderance of the proof. The amendment was adopted and the bill ordered to its passage.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—After some routine business the senate resumed consideration of the naval appropriation bill. Chandler amendment was agreed to. That portion of the bill providing for new battleships and torpedo boats caused much discussion, the tariff and finance entering into the question. Gorman made a vigorous speech in opposition to the expenditure of $51,000,000 for a new navy in times of peace.

HOUSE.

The house passed the Pickler general pension bill. The republicans and populists voted solidly in favor of the measure, and the democrats, with six exceptions, solidly against it. The bankruptcy bill was taken up and consideration begun, under an agreement to vote on it next Saturday. Henderson explained that the bill was based on the Torrey bill, which had been urged on congress for several years. It had been tripped of its harsh features.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Teller and Sherman made two notable speeches on the financial question to-day. Teller said no real effort had been made to enact tariff legislation this session. He said he would not hesitate to separate himself from the republican party if it declared for the gold standard. Sherman said the time had come for a decisive opinion from the people. He appealed the case to them at the coming election. Several addresses on Marquette were made and then the naval appropriation bill came up. Little was accomplished.

HOUSE.

The house spent the day in consideration of the bankruptcy bill. The report of the election committee in favor of Bell in the contested election case of Pearce vs. Bell, from the Second Colorado district, was adopted.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The senate spent another day on the naval appropriation bill without completing it. Gorman further opposed the item of four battleships. Chandler moved to substitute thirty large and fast torpedo boats for two of the battleships. Quay wanted the number of battle ships increased to six.

HOUSE.

The general debate on the bankruptcy bill was continued and concluded. Culberson, of Texas, who has always heretofore fought every bankruptcy bill containing an involuntary system, stated that he would vote for the pending measure.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Butler, of North Carolina, introduced a bill to make the Mexican silver dollar, Japanese yen and the trade dollar full legal dollars in the United States. Senate voted to construct two battleships instead of four. Tillman made a sensational speech. He said there was too much red tape about the senate. Hill interposed and he told Hill he represented the bondholders and bankers. He announced that the slogan of the silver democrats was "America for Americans; to Hell with Britain and her Tories," and added: "If we don't defeat you this year, we will serve notice that we will with interest in 1900." He would leave the party if it adopted a gold platform. Hill said he would support the nominee no matter what the platform might be. He said the administration had done its duty. If Tillman went to Chicago with any other idea than of abiding by the decision of the majority he ought not to be admitted. Tillman said the party had split before and it would split again.

HOUSE.

The house again devoted the major portion of the day to debate on the bankruptcy bill. A bill to provide for a delegate in congress from Alaska was defeated. A bill passed to authorize the free importation of foreign exhibits to the Tennessee exposition. An evening session was devoted to pension bills.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—After a week's debate the senate to-day passed the naval appropriation bill. The bill as passed is substantially as it passed the house, excepting the reduction of the battleships from four to two.

HOUSE.

The house to-day, after five days debate, passed the Henderson bill to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy laws. It provides for both voluntary and involuntary bankruptcy.

Buluwayo Safe.

BULUWAYO, May 1.—Earl Grey, co-administrator with Cecil Rhodes, of the territory of the British Chartered South Africa Company, has arrived with a strong escort. It is no longer likely that the natives will attack the town in force, although they still number over 15,000 armed men in the vicinity.

New Canadian Cabinet.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 3.—Sir Charles Tupper, the Canadian premier, has completed the work of reconstructing the cabinet and the new members have been sworn in.

IOWA PATENT OFFICE REPORT

DES MOINES, April 28.—Patents have been issued to the Parson's Band Cutter and Self-feeder Co., of Newton, Iowa, for the attachment for threshing machines for which they have prior U. S. patents. They report 700 sold last season. Their factory is one of the most important and successful establishments in Newton. Rev. J. D. Stockman, financial agent of Drake University, has been allowed a patent for a humanitarian device adapted for fastening bed clothes so that children cannot get exposed to cold while sleeping. It is made of wire and readily applied as required for practical use. A. J. and A. R. Wilson, of Houston, Texas, have been allowed a patent for a rotary engine, comprising an approximately spherical chamber, a rotable shaft extended eccentrically through said chamber, an approximately spherical piston set on said shaft with its surface in contact with the chamber at a point extending longitudinally of the shaft, induction and exhaust ports on opposite sides of said contact point and a disk shaped piston of a size to normally engage the inner surface of the chamber at all times, slidingly mounted in a central longitudinal slot in the shaft. J. W. Eckerd, of Bloomfield, Iowa, has been allowed a patent for a water elevator and carrier, mechanisms connected with a line of fixed posts to carry and direct a bucket from the house and into a well at a distance to be filled and returned to the house by turning a crank to wind a rope, to which the bucket is attached, upon a drum. Valuable information about obtaining, valuing and selling patents sent free to any address. Printed copies of the drawings and specifications of any United States patent sent upon receipt of 25 cents. Our practice is not confined to Iowa. Inventors in other states can have our services upon the same terms as the Hawkeyes.

THOMAS G. AND J. RALPH ORWIG,
Solicitors of Patents.

Living Ahead of Our Income.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Treasury figures show that up to May 1 the excess of expenditures over receipts for the fiscal year aggregates $23,200,000. For the month of April the excess is $4,500,000. In round figures the receipts for the months of the fiscal year are $274,800,000 and expenditures $298,000,000.

Spain Loses by Drought.

MADRID, May 1.—A meeting of the cabinet was held to consider the serious conditions in Spain due to drought, which has almost destroyed the cereal crops. The cabinet decided to enter upon the organization of relief works. Unless it rains before the middle of May, the loss from the drought will amount to $180,000,000.

Prices Lowest Ever Known.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Dun's review of trade states that the general range of prices for commodities, farm as well as manufactured products, is nearly 1 per cent lower than it was April 1 and the lowest ever known, the decline since October, 1892, being 16.7 per cent.

Holmes Will Hang May 7.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 1.—Governor Hastings has refused to grant a respite in the case of H. H. Holmes, who is to be hanged in Philadelphia on May 7 for the murder of Benjamin F. Pietzel.

Knapp to Constantinople.

ALEXANDRETTA, Turkey, May 2.—Rev. George H. Knapp, the American missionary who was expelled from Bitlis, has left here for Constantinople.

LITERARY NOTES.

An attractively seasonable flavor pervades The Ladies' Home Journal for May, the rich bounties of spring being presented in poetry, in prose and in picture. Among the more conspicuous features in this direction, aside from the dainty cover, which gives a suggestion of having been touched with the brush of a water-colorist, is a drawing by W. Hamilton Gibson, illustrating Frank Dempster Sherman's poem, "God's Miracle of May."

In the Review of Reviews for May, Mr. W. T. Stead begins a series of sketches of "Ambassadors of the People," i. e., the great newspaper correspondents of the world and especially those connected with the London press. The first paper deals with M. de Blowitz, the Paris correspondent of the Times. Others are promised on Messrs. Norman, Dillon, Smalley, and Stillman, all representatives of the Times in various countries.

Three striking contributions to the May Atlantic are the opening number of a series of letters from Dante Gabriel Rossetti to William Allingham, ably edited by George Birkbeck Hill, with a delightful autobiographical sketch of Allingham; Kendric Charles Babcock's discussion of "The Scandinavian Contingent," being the third paper in the series on race characteristics in American life; and an anonymous paper of Mr. Olney's fitness for the presidency.

The month of flowers is appropriately celebrated in the contents of the May number of St. Nicholas. Poems, sketches, and illustrations are pervaded by the breath of spring. "Betty, the Bound Girl," by Ethel Parson, is a ballad founded upon an incident of the revolutionary war. A story of England centuries ago is "His Father's Price," by John Bennett. The hero of the tale, a little boy, wins a place in a great household by the plucky way in which he faces the consequences of a youthful prank. The number contains three full-page pictures—"Spring," drawn by M. A. Cowles; "A May Day Party in Central Park," by F. H. Lungren, and "The Great Bicycle Race at Grasshoppertown," by I. W. Taber.

H. W. Schoper.

THE

LEADING - IMPLEMENT - DEALER.

Has on hand a complete stock of FARM

IMPLEMENTS.

Fisher Wagons, Staver Abbot, and Parry Buggies,
Rock Island and U, S. Planters,
Conklin Cnltivators,
Morrison and R. I. Sulky Plows.
Pumps Fanning Mills etc.

A fine road wagon

Only $30.

DAVIS SEWING MACHINE, THE BEST ON THE MARKET.

COME and see for yourself.

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME. Belmond, Iowa.

WE WILL SELL

AT PRIVATE SALE.

Our Large Stock Of

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Plows, Cultivators, Hay Rakes and Loaders, Seeders, Disc Harrows, Planters, Wind Mills and Pumps, Water Tanks, Buggies and Waggons. We handle the KEYSTONE FENCE, the best fence on earth. Also the

Milwaukee Binders and Mowers

At prices that defy competition.

LAU BROTHERS.

Goodell Items.

Mrs. Parker is very sick.

Tom Elder spent Sunday in Goodell.

Dr. Thompson was at Forest City over Sunday.

Mr. Porter has gone to Missouri to look at some land.

Bob Brisco was at Garner and Klemme, Monday.

Mrs. Chas. McGuire of Belmond was in town Thursday,

Miss May Thompson of Forest City was visiting here Thursday.

J. B. whipple who has been visiting here, returned Monday.

Mrs. Ingraham returned from Minnesota, Thursday.

Mrs. Mulkins was at Garner Thursday.

J. E. Veltum has moved his household goods to Belmond, where he expects to make his future home.

Miss Ethel Brooks spent Sunday with F. E. Brooks and wife. She is teaching at West Lake.

Billy Smith while polishing a plow shear the other day, got a piece of steel in his eye.

L. Butterfield formerly of the Eagle Grove Eagle, spent Sunday with his parents.

The following were Goodell's sunday visitors: Miss Grace Boughton of Belmond: Frank Parker and family of West Lake: E. Strasberg, J. Tiede and Bert Butterfield of Meservey: Harvey Sweigard of Garner, and Miss Barta of Klemme: A. H. Robins of Belmond: E. P. Dow and family and Mr. Shafer.

Exchange Clips.

A 60-foot seine has just been taken to Webster City by the State Fish Commission for the purpose of helping fish over the Boone River dam. This is the first action of the kind by the fish commissioner, and he announces that within the next month all the principal dams in the state will be visited and the fish given a lift to higher waters.

State Fish Commissioner Delavan arrived in Anamosa from Cedar Rapids, where he arrested five men for violating the fish law, among them being J. C. Winters, sheriff of Tama County, who was fined $13.—Ex.

Superintendent Stafford, of the school census bureau, says the returns will not show over 1,500,000 population for Chicago. This does not show any increase over the last census, but this is due to the fact that there was a five per cent. addition to the figures at that time.—Ex.

Governor Hastings of Pennsylvania has very properly refused to grant a respite to the arch-murderer Holmes. The latter claimed that he wanted more time to get himself into a spiritual condition. The governor read the petition and promptly indorsed it "Application refused." His action in this matter will be universally commended. Holmes should have been hung before he ever had time to weave a tissue of lies into book form.—Ex.

It is not a miracle. It won't cure everything, but it will cure piles. That's what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will do, because it has done it in hundreds of cases. Harr.

SPRING Style Hats!

MY Millinery Store is now ready for spring BUSINESS.

I have just received a new and complete line of

Flowers, Tips, Ribbons, Laces, Fancy Braids, Persian Silks etc.

And everything you could expect to find in a first class store.

MISS ADNA BARTA of St. Paul, a first class trimmer will be with me the entire season.

YOU are invited to come in. No trouble to Show Goods.

Dressmaking in connection.

Miss E. Renziehausen,

COME STRAIGHT

To Our Store

If you want to save money in what you must purchase along the line of

GENERAL Merchandise.

Onr stock is complete iu department; is fresh and new, and we are selling the goods with special regard to the Hard Times.

WESENBERG BROS.

H. SCHROEDER,

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY - MEAT - MARKET.

Carry a Complete line of Fresh, Salt and Smoked Meats.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

HIDES.

PICKLES, etc. Always on hand.

Klemme, Ia.

MARION A. FELL, NOTARY PUBLIC.

M. R. CHAMBERS, ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans at 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farmers' Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on us, we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co,

Garner, Iowa.

25 YEARS EXPERIENCE IN

BLACKSMITHING

Enables me to do your work in a workmanlike manner.

Plow Work a Specialty.

Also do wood repairing on Wagons and Buggies.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. KROUSE, KLEMME, IA.

STATE · SAVINGS · BANK

—OF—

KLFMME, IOWA

Does a regular Banking Business. Deals in Domestic and Foreign

EXCHANGE

Loans money on long or short time. Attends to collections and pay interest on time deposits

C. W. KNAPP, Cashier.

Bettin and Remer.

Contractors and Builders.

Plans and specifications furnished on application.

—All work guaranteed.

KLEMME, IOWA

GEO. S. GATES,

STONE · AND · BRICK · MASON

Plastering a Specialty. Do all kinds of work in my line. I also make a Specialty of bricking up Cisterns and boilers. All work guaranteed and Prices accordingly.

Give me a trial,

GEO. S. GATES,

Klemme, Iowa.

Wanted—An Idea Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer and list of two hundred inventions wanted.

JOHN BAUMGARTNER.

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY BARBER SHOP.

AN EASY SHAVE. - -

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

SHOP IN KIRKWOOD HOUSE, KLEMME, IOWA.

STOP!

If you want any Painting done and see

JOE MILLER,

a painter of 15 years experience.

All work guaranteed.

Leave orders at Shafer & Dows.

KLEMME IA.

Mr. D. P. Davis, a prominent liveryman and merchant of Goshen, Va., has this to say on the subject of rheumatism: "I take pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, as I know from personal experience that it will do all that it is claimed for it. A year ago this spring my brother was laid up in bed with inflamatory rheumatism and suffered intensely. The first application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm eased the pain and the use of one bottle completely cured him. For sale by J. L. HARR.

Honest Prices,
Reliable Goods,
Courteous Treatment,

Is our motto.

We handle Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Hats, Caps, Crockery, Hardware, Ammunition.

Buck's Celebrated Stoves.

TIN SHOP UP STAIRS.

5 pr. ct. off for cash.

SCHNEIDER CO. GARNER, IA.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, May 8, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum in Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1895.

GRISWOLD & CLINE, PUBLISHERS.

Garner.

Asa Gibbs of Klemme, was in town Monday.

The frame is up to the Pollock house on the Finch addition.

The foundation is being laid for L. D. Gamm's new house

Dr. H. T. Schneider is preparing to build a residence on his lots in the west part of town.

Miss Lillie Leonard of Mason City, visited relatives in Garner over Sunday.

We understand that the base ball team was organized last wednesday evening.

Charley Cooley, of the Mirror, drove up with his family from Clear Lake, on a visit with friends in Garner. while here one of his horses, a valuable one was taken sick at Lamson's livery barn and died some time during the night.—SIGNAL.

Rams Horn.

A sad countennace is the hypocrite's favorite mask.

No college ever made a saint.

Sin feels safe as long as it can hide its head.

We may kill God's man, but we cannot kill his truth.

The devil's favorite pew in church is near the front.

The older the Christian, the newer he will find God's book.

If you want to do something, find one who believes something.

How small God's army always seems to be when we take it upon ourselves to number it.

It never hurts God's work any for people to get mad at the truth.

God will give us strength to resist temptation if we will use it to walk away from bad company.

God can see jewels where we would see only common sand and gravel.

Next to hearing a hypocrite pray, the devil loves to hear a stingy man talk in church.

An opportunity to help the poor is a chance Christ has given us to do something for him.

Take a dose of DeWitt's Little Early Risers just for the good it will do you. These little Pills are good for indigestion, good for headache, good for liver complaint, good for constipation. They are good. Harr.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market; costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. HARR. Read our free booklet on Microbic Diseases.

It's all the same, a slight cold, congested lungs or severe cough. One Minute Cough Cure banishes them. Harr.

Burns are absolutely painless when DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is promptly applied. This statement is true. a periect remedy for skin diseases, chapped hands and lips, and never fails to cure Piles. HARR

DUNKARDS'

Annual meeting at Ottawa, Kas., May 26-29. Tickets will be sold May 23, 24 and 25, from all points on the B., C. R. & N. Ry., at rate of ONE FARE Plus $2 for the Round Trip. Good to return 30 days from date of sale, if ticket is deposited with station agent at Ottawa before June 1. For further information call on B., C. R. & N. agents.

BUY THE BEST

The "DOMESTIC"

Is absolutely the best Sewing Machine made. Leads in latest and best improvements.

SIMPLE
PRACTICAL
DURABLE

For over 30 years has been endorsed by the public as the most satisfactory of all sewing machines. We want your trade and can save you money. Write for free catalogue and prices.

THE DOMESTIC S. M. CO.

298 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR OIL

[FOR OUR FRIEND, THE HORSE.]

Speedily cures Barb-Wire Cuts. Bruises and Lacerated surfaces, Collar and Saddle Galls, Fungus Collar Tumors, Scratches, Thrush, etc.

Geo. Alexander, Olaf, Iowa, says: "One of my horses was totally disabled by reason of barb-wire cut, muscles being lacerated and torn from knee to shoulder and bone splintered. Tried their remedies for months but without avail. The second application of Compound Liquid Sulphur Oil stopped all irritation and one bottle has nearly cured the sore." For sale by J. L. HARR.

Open the door of your heart to Christ, and he will open the windows of heaven for you.

Our lives please God when they make sinners want to know Christ.

When in need of

CLOTHING

And you want an assortment to select from; or if you are looking for a New Dress something new, nobby and dressy, SPRING CAPES, DRESS TRIMMINGS,

Ladies Shirt Waists,

Or Fine Shoes,

we invite you to call and visit our

New Store

wnen in GARNER.

W. C. SCHULER.

THE QUESTION is often asked, What Paint shall we use?

THE ANSWER: If you are looking for covering capacity, wearing qualities, general appearance, and your money's worth, you must buy

THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINT.

Covers Most, Looks Best, Wears Longest, Most Economical, Full Measure.

Our prices are for "best goods" first, last and all the time. We are in the business to stay and S. W. P. stays with us.

BRUSHES,
COLORS IN OIL,
HOUSE & COACH
VARNISHES,
WALL PAPER.

C. S. COLLINS, GARNER, IOWA.

Spring Goods are all in

The Bell Clothing STORE, at

GARNER, IOWA.

When in town call and see us, we can save you money.

For GOOD DEALS IN

HARNESS,

Call on

F. GRUETZMACHER.

You will find a Number One Hand Made Harness Warranted.

Single harness from	5 to $20.
Collars from -	75c to $3.50
Sweat Pads -	25c to 75c
Lap Dusters -	35c to $2.50.

I carry a complete line in Saddlery and Sandlery Hardware.

Shoes.

My stock of shoes is such that I can fit any one small or large in style, comfort and prices.

Now Is Your Chance.

A firm that has had experience in handling farm machinery knows which kinds give the best satisfaction.

Terhufen & Son

on second street, handle Deering Binders, Dubuque Norweigen Plows, Pekin Riding Plows, Mascot Corn Cultivators, Evans Planters, Smith wagons and

FANCY BUGGIES.

We meet any competition on the same class of goods.

Call on us and get OUR PRICES.

Terhufen & Son.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

"DIVISION OF THE SPOILS" LAST SUNDAY'S SUBJECT.

A Lesson Radiant with Coming Rewards for All Well Doers — "Shall Divide Spoils with the Strong"—Isaiah, 53:12

IN THE Coliseum at Rome, where persecutors used to let out the half-starved lions to eat up Christians, there is now planted the figure of a cross. And I rejoice to know that the upright piece of wood nailed to a transverse piece has become the symbol not more of suffering than of victory. It is of Christ the conqueror, that my text speaks. As a kingly warrior, having subdued an empire, might divide the palaces and mansions and cities and valleys and mountains among his officers, so Christ is going to divide up all the earth and all the heavens among his people and you I will have to take our share if we are strong in faith and strong in our Christian loyalty, for my text declares it: "He shall divide the spoil with the strong."

The capture of this round planet for Christ is not so much of a job as you might imagine, when the Church takes off its coat and rolls up its sleeves for the work, as it will. There are sixteen hundred millions of people now in the world, and four hundred and fifty millions are Christians. Subtract four hundred and fifty millions who are Christions from the sixteen hundred millions, and there are eleven hundred and fifty millions left. Divide the eleven hundred and fifty millions who are not Christians by the four hundred and fifty who are Christians, and you will find that we shall have to average less than three souls each, brought by us into the kingdom of God, to have the whole world redeemed. Certainly, with the church rising up to its full duty, no Christian will be willing to bring less than three souls into the kingdom of God. I hope, and pray Almighty God that I may bring more than three. I know evangelists who have already brought fifty thousand each for the kingdom of God. There are two hundred thousand people whose one and only and absorbing business in the world is to save souls. When you take these things into consideration, and that the Christians will have to average the bringing of only three souls each into the kingdom of our Lord, all impossibility vanishes from this omnipotent crusade. Why, I know a Sabbath School teacher who for many years has been engaged in training the young, and she has had five different classes, and they averaged seven to a class, and they were all converted, and five times seven are thirty-five, as near as I can calculate. So that she brought her three into the kingdom of God and had thirty-two to spare. My grandmother prayed her children into the kingdom of Christ, and her grandchildren, and I hope all her great-grandchildren, for God remembers a prayer seventy-five years old, as though it were only a minute old; and so she brought her three into the kingdom of God, and had more than one hundred to spare. Besides that, through the telephone and the telegraph, this whole world, within a few years, will be brought within compass of ten minutes. Besides that, omnipotence, omnipresence, and omniscience are presiding in this matter of the world's betterment, and that takes the question of the world's salvation out of the impossibilities into the possibilites, and then out of the possibilities into the probabilities, and then out of the probabilities into the certainties. The building of the Union Pacific Railroad from ocean to ocean was a greater undertaking than the girdling of the earth with the Gospel; for one enterprise depended upon the human arm, while the other depends upon almightiness.

Do I really mean that all the earth will surrender to Christ? Yes. How about the uninviting portions? Will Greenland be evangelized? The possibility is that after a few more hundred brave lives are dashed out among the icebergs, that great refrigerator, the Polar region, will be given up to the walrus and bear, and that the innabitants will come down by invitation into tolerable climates, or those climates may soften; and, as it has been positively demonstrated that the Arctic region was once a blooming garden and a fruitful field, those regions may change climate and again be a blooming garden and a fruitful field. It is proved beyond controversy, by German and American scientists, that the Arctic regions were the first portions of this world inhabitable; the world hot beyond human endurance, those regions were, of course, the first to be cool enough for human foot and human lung. It was positively proved that the Arctic region was a tropical climate. Prof. Heer, of Zurich, says the remains of flowers have been found in the Arctic region, showing it was like Mexico for climate, and it is found that the Arctic was the mother region from which all the flowers descended. Prof. Wallace says the remains of all styles of animal life are found in the Arctic regions, including those animals that can live only in warm climates. Now that Arctic region, which has been demonstrated by flora and fauna and geological argument to have been as full of vegetation and life as our Florida, may be turned back to its original bloom and glory, or it will be shut up as a museum of crystals for curiosity-seekers once in awhile to visit. But Arctic and Antarctic, in some shape, will belong to the Redeemer's realm.

What about other unproductive or repulsive regions? All the deserts will be irrigated, the waters will be forced up to the great American desert between here and the Pacific by machinery now known or yet to be invented, and, as Great Salt Lake City has no rain and could not raise an apple or a bushel of wheat in a hundred years without artificial help, but is now through such means one great garden, so all the unproductive parts of all the continents will be turned into harvest fields and orchards. A half-dozen De Lesseps will furnish the world with all the canals needed, and will change the course of rivers and open new lakes, and the great Sahara desert will be cut up into farms with an astonishing yield of bushels to the acre. The marsh will be drained of its waters and cured of its malaria. I saw what was for many years called the Black Swamp of Ohio, its chief crop chills and fevers, but now, by the tiles put into the ground to carry off the surplus moisture, transformed into the richest and healthiest of regions. The God who wastes nothing, I think, means that this world, from pole to pole, has come to perfection of foliage and fruitage. For that reason he keeps the earth running through space, though so many fires are blazing down in its timbers and so many meteoric terrors have threatened to dash it to pieces. As soon as the earth is completed Christ will divide it up among the good. The reason he does not divide it now is because it is not done. A kind father will not divide the apple among his children until the apple is ripe. In fulfilment of the New Testament promise, "The meek shall inherit the earth," and the promise of the Old Testament, "He shall divide the spoil with the strong," the world will be apportioned to those worthy to possess it.

It is not so now. In this country, capable of holding, feeding, clothing and sheltering twelve hundred million people, and where we have only sixty million inhabitants, we have two million who cannot get honest work, and with their families an aggregation of five millions that are on the verge of starvation. Something wrong, most certainly. In some way, there will be a new apportionment. Many of the millionaire estates will crack to pieces on the dissipations of grand children, and then dissolve into the possession of the masses who now have an insufficiency.

What, you say, will become of the expensive and elaborate buildings now devoted to debasing amusements? They will become schools, art galleries, museums, gymnasiums, and churches. The world is already getting disgusted with many of these amusements, and no wonder. What an importation of unclean theatrical stuff we have within the last few years had brought to our shores! And professors of religion patronizing such things! Having sold out to the devil, why don't you deliver the goods and go over to him publicly, body, mind and soul, and withdraw your name from Christian churches, and say: "Know all the world by these presents that I am a patron of uncleanness and a child of hell!" Sworn to be the Lord's, you are perjurers.

If you think these offenses are to go on forever, you do not know who the Lord is. God will not wait for the Day of Judgment. All these palaces of sin will become palaces of righteousness. They will come into the possession of those strong for virtue and strong for God. "He shall divide the spoil with the strong."

If my text be not a deception, but the eternal truth, then the time is coming when all the farms will be owned by Christian farmers, and all the commerce controlled by Christian merchants, and all the authority held by Christian officials, and all the ships commanded by Christian captains, and all the universities under the instruction of Christian professors; Christian kings, Christian presidents, Christian governors, Christian mayors, Christian common council. Yet, what a scouring out! what an upturning! what a demolition! what a resurrection must precede this new apportionment!

I do not underrate the enemy. Julius Caesar got his greatest victory by fully estimating the vastness of his foes, and prepared his men for their greatest triumph by saying: "Tomorrow King Juba will be here with thirty thousand horses, one hundred thousand skirmishers and three hundred elephants." I do not underrate the vast forces of Sin and Death; but do you know who commands us? Jehovah-jireh. And the reserve corps behind us are all the armies of heaven and earth, with hurricane and thunderbolt. The good work of the world's redemption is going on every minute. Never so many splendid men and glorious women on the side of right as to-day. Never so many good people as now. Diogenes has been spoken of as a wise man because he went with a lantern at noonday, saying he was looking for an honest man. If he had turned his lantern toward himself he might have discovered a crank. Honest men by the ten thousand! Through the International Series of Sunday School lessons the next generation all through Christendom are going to be wiser than any generation since the world stood. The kingdom is coming. God can do it. No housewife with a chamois cloth ever polished a silver teaspoon with more ease than Christ will rub off from this world the tarnish, and brighten it up till it glows like heaven; and then the glorious apportionment! for my text is reinforced by a score of other texts, when it says of Christ: "He shall divide the spoil with the strong."

"But," you say, "that this is pleasant to think of for others, but befor that time I shall have passed up into another existence, and I shall get no advantage from that new apportionment." Ah, you have only driven me to the other more exciting and transporting consideration, and that is, that Christ is going to divide up heaven in the same way. There are old estates in the celestial world that have been in the possession of the inhabitants for thousands of years, and they shall remain as they are. There are old family mansions in heaven filled with whole generations of kindred, and they shall never be driven out. Many of the victors from earth have already got their palaces, and they are pointed out to those newly arrived. Soon after our getting there we will ask to be shown the Apostolic residences, and ask where does Paul live, and John; and shown the patriarchial residences, and shall say: "Where does Abraham live, or Jacob?" and shown the martyr residences and say: "Where does John Huss live, and Ridley?" We will want to see the boulevards where the chariots of conquerors roll. I will want to see the gardens where the princes walk. We will want to see Music Row, where Handel and Haydn and Mozart and Charles Wesley and Thomas Hastings and Bradbury have their homes, out of their windows, ever and anon, rolling some snatch of an earthly oratorio or hymn transported with the composer. We will want to see Revival Terrace, where Whitefield and Nettleton and Payson and Rowland Hill and Charles Finney and other giants of soul reaping are resting from their almost supernatural labors, their doors thronged with converts just arrived, coming to report themselves.

But brilliant as the sunset, and like the leaves for number, are the celestial homes yet to be awarded, when Christ to you, and millions of others, shall divide the spoil. What do you want there? You shall have it. An orchard? There it is; twelve manner of fruits, and fruit every month. Do you want river scenery? Take your choice on the banks of the river, in longer, wider, deeper roll than Danube or Amazon or Mississippi if mingled in one, and emptying into the sea of glass, mingled with fire. Do you want your kindred back again? Go out and meet your father and mother without the staff or the stoop, and your children in a dance of immortal glee. Do you want a throne? Select it from the million burnished elevations. Do you want a crown? Pick it out of that mountain of diamonded coronets. Do you want your old church friends of earth around you? Begin to hum an old revival tune and they will flock from all quarters to revel with you in sacred reminiscence. All the earth for those who are here on earth at the time of continental and planetary distribution, and all the heavens for those who are there.

But notice that there is only one Being in the universe who can and will distribute the trophies of earth and heaven. It is the Divine Warrior, the Commander-in-Chief of the Centuries, the Champion of Ages, the universal Conqueror, the Son of God, Jesus. You will take the spoils from his hand, or never take them at all. Have his friendship and you may defy all time and all eternity, but without it you are a pauper, though you had a universe at your command. We are told in Revelation that Jacob's twelve sons were so honored as to have the twelve gates of heaven named after them—over one gate of heaven Naphtali, over another of heaven Issachar, over another Dan, over another Gad, over another Zebulon, over another Judah, and so on. But Christ's name is written over all the gates, and on every panel of the gates; and have his help, his pardon, his intercession, his atonement, I must, or be a forlorn wretch for ever. My Lord and my God! make me and all who hear me this day, and all to whom these words shall come, thy repentant, believing, sworn, consecrated and ransomed followers for ever.

Decide, Then Act.

Count Von Moltke, the great German strategist and general, chose for his motto, "Erst wagen, dann wagen," (First weigh, then venture), and it is to this he owed his great victories and successes. Slow, cautious, careful in planning, but bold, daring, even seemingly reckless in execution the moment his resolve was made. Vows must ripen into deeds, decision must go on to performance.

ONE WAS A TRAMP.

Pathetic Little Scene at a Dying Man's Side.

The way-train ahead of us had struck an open switch and been ditched, and two passengers were killed ou ight and five or six others more or less injured, says the Detroit Free Press. The killed and injured were lying on the depot platform as our train came up, and among the latter was a professional tramp who had been stealing a ride. After the doctor had looked him over the vagabond, who had not lost consciousness for a moment, smiled faintly and asked:

"Wall, pard, what's the verdict of the jury?"

"You are badly hurt," was the reply.

"I know that. I was right in the squeeze when the two cars cum together. I'm as flat as a pancake. Will I ever tramp agin?"

"I'm afraid not."

"Ar' my legs off?"

"No; you are fatally injured, however."

"That means I'm a goner?"

"Yes."

"Wall, I'd hev liked to got over this and had sunthin' to talk about and brag over, but I ain't doin' no kickin'. My pard was on the car ahead. Was he hurt?"

"No; here he is."

At that moment a ragged, unkempt and typical vagabond came forward and bent over the victim and asked:

"Wall, Jim, they say you hev to go?"

"Yes."

"How ye fellin' over it?"

"Sorter. No use to kick, Tom."

"That's right; you never was no kicker, nohow. Got any friends?"

"No."

"Want word taken to anybody?"

"No."

"Kin I do anythin' for ye?"

The dying man gazed at him for a moment in silence and then whispered:

"Tom, ye ar' the only pardner I ever had as knowed the Lord's prayer. Jest say it over to me."

The old tramp pulled off his cap and knelt down, and as the score of us uncovered and bowed our heads he repeated the prayer word for word and with such feeling as astonished everybody. When he had finished he rose up and said:

"That's it, Jim, and kin I do anythin' more?"

"Nothing more for him!" answered the doctor, as he looked down upon the pale face. "Your partner is dead!"

HIS HONOR'S TOOTHACHE.

He Proved to Be More Than the Dentist Had Bargained For.

A good story is told of Judge W. D. Greer, a prominent lawyer of Paducah, says the Paducah Standard. Once during a visit to St. Louis he had a severe attack of toothache. He sought a dentist's office and was met by a young man who was scrupulously neat and clean. The latter bowed suavely and the judge began:

"I believe you profess to be able to extract teeth without pain?"

"Yes, sir," was the reply, "and if I don't do it I'll refund your money."

The judge was seated in the operating chair and the last thing he remembers was the dentist inserting a small tube in his mouth. He got a dose of gas and became unconscious. When he came to the young man was under a table, his erstwhile spotless shirt and collar covered with blood and his clothes torn up almost beyond recognition. He was desperately waving the judge off, saying all the while: "Get out of here! Get out of here!"

He seemed very anxious to have the judge get out but he couldn't be induced to leave his retreat under the table.

"Why, young man, what's the matter?" asked the judge, who didn't understand the situation, in surprise. "If I've done anything I'm willing to pay for it."

The young man obtruded his head for a moment, glanced reproachfully about at the demolished furniture and his own sorry plight, wavered for a moment and then exclaimed: "Pay! You get out of here!"

It seemed that the judge under the influence of the gas had cleaned out the establishment and the dentist didn't get the tooth, either.

Hell.

To send a sinner to endless hell is no more a victory over sin than to corral the social evil within certain plague spots is a victory over that vice, or to banish all the Hawaiian lepers to Molokai is a victory over leprosy. The only victory over sin, as over physical disease, is to cure it—not to shut it up in any kind of nether world, there to propagate and fester and putrefy to the end of infinite time.—Rev. C. F. Henry.

Iced Water Attracts Poisons

A scientific paper adds these new terrors to iced water as a beverage.

It says the water possesses the quality of attracting to itself the poisonous gases exhaled by the lungs and pores of the body. One of the best ways to purify a freshly painted room is to set about it basins of iced water, changing them every few hours. The water in these basins will be found to be deadly poisonous.

That Tired Feeling

Extreme tired feeling afflicts nearly everybody at this season. The hustlers cease to push, the tireless grow weary, the energetic become enervated. You know just what we mean. Some men and women endeavor temporarily to overcome that

Feeling by great force of will. But this is unsafe, as it pulls powerfully upon the nervous system, which will not long stand such strain. Too many people "work on their nerves," and the result is seen in unfortunate wrecks marked "nervous prostration," in every direction. That tired

ing is a positive proof of thin, weak, impure blood; for, if the blood is rich, red, vitalized and vigorous, it imparts life and energy to every nerve, organ and tissue of the body. The necessity of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for that tired feeling is, therefore, apparent to every one, and the good it will do you is equally beyond question. Remember that

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are easy to take, easy to operate. 25 cents.

HOW MANY different advertisements of COLUMBIA BICYCLES HAVE YOU SEEN?

The variety of Columbia Bicycle advertising is great. All the good points of Columbias, all the delight of riding them, cannot be fully described in any one advertisement, nor in a hundred.

We wish to know how many announcements can reach any one person, and so offer a

COLUMBIA BICYCLE as a PRIZE

to whoever shall send us the greatest number of different Columbia Bicycle advertisements clipped from newspapers or magazines issued since Jan. 1, 1896.

Many advertisements differ only in a word or two; others in the style of type; distinct variations only, however, will be counted.

Each advertisement must have plainly attached to it the name and date of the newspaper or magazine from which it is clipped.

Separate entries cannot be combined.

Entries must be received by us at Hartford on or before Tuesday, June 30, 1896. In case of a tie, the award will be made according to priority of receipt and entry. Address

Department of Statistics, POPE MFG. CO., Hartford, Conn.

CUT AND SLASH

SMOKING TOBACCO, 2 oz. for 5 Cents.

CUT AND SLASH

CHEROOTS—3 for 5 Cents.

Give a Good, Mellow, Healthy, Pleasant Smoke. Try Them.

LYON & CO. TOBACCO WORKS, Durham, N. C.

ALL HORSE TROUBLES

Such as Spavins, Curbs, Windpuffs, Splints and Bunches, are positively cured with

Quinn's Ointment

Write for proof. Price $1.50. Smaller size 50c. At all druggists, or sent by mail.

W. B. EDDY & CO., Whitehall, N. Y.

Send us 22 cents in stamps and we will mail you a Handsome Sterling Silver Plated Souvenir Tea Spoon with picture of Ex-Gov. McKinley of Ohio engraved in bowl. Or for 27 cents we will send the same spoon with Gold Plated Bowl. Four assorted handle designs. We also have bowl engravings of all Presidents and noted Generals. Send for Catalogue. Agents wanted.

NIAGARA FALLS SOUVENIR CO., Niagara Falls, N. Y.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR

W. L. DOUGLAS $3. SHOE BEST IN THE WORLD.

If you pay $4 to $6 for shoes, examine the W. L. Douglas Shoe, and see what a good shoe you can buy for $3.

OVER 100 STYLES AND WIDTHS,

CONGRESS, BUTTON, and LACE, made in all kinds of the best selected leather by skilled workmen. We make and sell more $3 Shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

None genuine unless name and price is stamped on the bottom.

Ask your dealer for our $5, $4, $3.50, $2.50, $2.25 Shoes; $2.50, $2 and $1.75 for boys.

TAKE NO SUBSTITUTE. If your dealer cannot supply you, send to factory, enclosing price and 36 cents to pay carriage. State kind, style of toe (cap or plain), size and width. Our Custom Dept. will fill your order. Send for new Illustrated Catalogue to Box R.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

"Just as Good" never yet equalled the S·H·&M· REGISTERED TRADE MARK. BIAS VELVETEEN SKIRT BINDING

Simply refuse the "just as good" sort.

If your dealer will not supply you we will.

Samples showing labels and materials mailed free.

"Home Dressmaking," a new book by Miss Emma M. Hooper, of the Ladies' Home Journal telling how to put on Bias Velveteen Skirt Bindings sent for 25c., postage paid.

S. H. & M. Co., P. O. Box 699, N. Y. City.

One of the health-giving elements of HIRES Rootbeer is sarsaparilla. It contains more sarsaparilla than many of the preparations called by that name. HIRES—the best by any test.

Made only by The Charles E. Hires Co., Philadelphia. A 25c. package makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere.

WELL MACHINERY

Illustrated catalogue showing WELL AUGERS, ROCK DRILLS, HYDRAULIC AND JETTING MACHINERY, etc. SENT FREE. Have been tested and all warranted.

Sioux City Engine and Iron Works, Successors to Pech Mfg. Co. Sioux City, Iowa.

THE ROWELL & CHASE MACHINERY CO., 1414 West Eleventh Street, Kansas City, Mo.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS.

but sell direct to the consumer at wholesale prices. ship anywhere for examination before sale. Everything warranted. 100 styles of Carriages, 90 styles of Harness, 41 styles Riding Saddles. Write for catalogue. ELKHART CARRIAGE & HARNESS MFG. CO., ELKHART, IND.

W. B. PRATT, Secy.

"IT WILL NOT RUB OFF"

ALABASTINE

DURABLE AND BEAUTIFUL WALL COATING.

$5 Hand Bone, Shell, and Corn Mills for Poultrymen. Daisy Bone Cutter. Power Mills. Circular and testimonials Free.

WILSON BROS., Easton, Pa.

DEADLOCKS IN 3 COUNTRIES.

France, England and the United States Experience These Stumbling-Blocks.

The situation in Washington just now calls to mind the legislative deadlock in England during the last parliament, when the house of commons sent up measure after measure, only to be met by the hopelessly large tory opposition, in the house of lords, says the Review of Reviews. Affairs have now reached the pass in England where the liberal party can never hope to enact an important law except by means of threats which would make the house of lords feel its own existence to be in danger. At the moment when these words are written the long-growing divergence of sentiment between the French senate and chamber of deputies has resulted in a very critical and stubborn locking of horns. In France the senate represents moderate republicanism of the steady, conservative sort. The chamber of deputies has been growing even more radical and socialistic, until at length a radical majority has found its way to the front in a radical cabinet under Prime Minister Bourgeois. This cabinet has taken a kind of action respecting the investigation of the southern railway scandals that meets with the disapproval of the senate. Repeated votes have shown the senate's lack of confidence in the ministry. In accordance with the theory of the French government, and in accordance with all former precedents, the cabinet should have resigned. But, inasmuch as the chamber of deputies has voted as strongly in favor of the Bourgeois policy as the senate has voted against it, Premier Bourgeois informs President Faure that he is satisfied with the approval of the deputies and proposes to ignore the senate. The situation is the most peculiar and in some regards the most dangerous one that has arisen in the practical working of the French constitution since the present republic was founded a quarter of a century ago. Thus everything in the nature of a serious legislative and political strain that has occurred in the three great constitutional governments of England, France and the United States within the past year or two has grown chiefly out of the wide difference of character and sentiment between the two halves of a bicameral legislative system. In England the one real question of internal constitutional reform, upon which all other reforms must wait, is that of a complete recasting of the house of lords. In France and the United States the principal remedy for the present strains and deadlocks must be found in the better education of public opinion.

HE COULD FIGHT.

One Blow Secured a School for the Pale, Thin Young Man.

In the mountains of the south the schools are still maintained upon the subscription plan. A traveling man just returned from that section gave the following account of an examination of an applicant for a school:

"I was stopping at a cabin all night," said he, "and a pale, slender young man came during the evening to talk with my host."

"I am thinking of starting a school here," he said, "and I wanted to see if you would subscribe."

'Kin yo' read?"

"Yes."

"Kin yo' write?"

"Certainly."

"Kin yo' figger?'!

"Of course."

"Air yo' married?"

"No."

"Wall, we did want a married man nex' time. The las' three teachers has run off with gals, an' thar ain't enuff gals in this hyar neighborhood now. But I don't s'pose none of 'em would want a lean feller like yo'. I don't reckon yo' not bein' married 'll make much diff'rence. Couldn't expect sich a po'ly feller ter be married Then thar's one thing. Me and Bill Simpkins an' Alf Toney is all gwine ter school an' larn ter read an' write. I done licked Bil lan' he done licked Alf, so I reckon the only one ter settle with is me. We ain't gwine to 'bey no man we kin lick. Kin yo' fout?"

"I studied boxing," said the stranger.

'Don't know nothin' 'bout thet. Does makin' boxes make muscle?"

"Try one and see," was the cool rejoinder.

The big mountaineer hit at the little man, and when he regained consciousness had his head in the wood box and his feet sticking up in the air.

Looking about him with a dazed expression, he said:

"Young feller, shake. I'll go with yo' some day an' we'll git thet school. An' say, young feller, set me ter work on them boxes, will yo'?"—Washington Star.

Physical Strength.

Physical strength is highly rated in Switzerland. In several cantons the custom still prevails of holding wrestling matches. The champions taking part in these athletic sports belong to the most diverse ranks in the social scale.

During the Franco-Prussian war the cost to the French nation of each Prussian killed was £20,000.

PARALYSIS FOLLOWS BLOODLESSNESS AND NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

A PATIENT WOMAN AFFLICTED FOR YEARS.

She Tells How at Last She was Permanently Cured.

From the Press, New York City.

For more than fifteen years, Mrs. A Mather, who lives at No. 43 East One-hundred-and-twelfth Street, New York, was a sufferer from anæmia, which, in spite of the treatment of physicians, gradually developed into nervous prostration until finally marked symptoms of paralysis set in. Mrs. Mather gladly gave the reporter her experience.

"For many years," Mrs. Mather said, "I was a constant sufferer from nervousness. It was about fifteen years ago that my condition began to grow worse. Soon I became so affected that I was prostrated and, until about two years ago, was a part of the time unable to leave my bed. I employed several physicians from time to time, my bills at the drug store for prescriptions sometimes amounting to as much as $50 a month, but all the doctors did for me did not seem to help me at all. My blood became greatly impoverished and after years of suffering I was threatened with paralysis.

"When I walked I could scarcely drag my feet along and at times my knees would give way so that I would almost fall down. Feeling that doctors could not help me I had little hope of recovery, until one day I read in a newspaper how a person, afflicted almost the same as I was, had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I purchased a box and began taking the pills. The effect of the first box pleased me so much that I bought another. Before I had taken all the pills in the first box I began to experience relief and, after the third box had been used, I was practically cured. It was really surprising what a speedy and pronounced effect the medicine had upon me.

"I always keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the house now, and when I feel any symptoms of nervousness find that they give me certain relief."

Mrs. Mather's daughter, Miss Anna, corroborated her mother's account, and told how she herself had been cured of chronic indigestion by these pills, and how, too, her cousin had been cured of anæmia.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Med. Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

CURIOUS FACTS.

In the forests of Java a species of spider has been discovered which produces webs of such exttraordinary strength that a knife is required to sever them.

Muskets were first used by the French at the siege of Arras in 1414, and came into general use about a century after. Bayonets were invented at Bayonne 1673.

The assistant postmaster general has lately decided that the authorities of insane asylums have the right to withhold letters to patients when it seems necessary.

A deer's eyes command a wide field of vision, and the animal can see behind as well as before, though not so distinctly, for when alarmed it will always turn so as to gain a clearer view of the object.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

Does the new woman do what her grandmothers did? Knit!—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

The proper height for a lady to raise her skirt, on a muddy day, is a little over two feet.

A wise man is he who asks a great deal ob advise an' takes a bery little ob hit.—Thomas Cat.

A milkman ought to make a good reporter, for he takes to pumping naturally.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

He (indignantly)—I hope I know my own mind!

She (sweetly)—Yes; you surely ought to know so much as that.

If Professor Roentgen's discovery makes it possible to see through one's hand, what is to become of the great American game of poker?

Racycle Presidential Puzzle.

Men and women, boys and girls: readers of this paper if you neglected to send in your answer to the advertisement of the Presidential Puzzle in last week's issue of this paper, do not neglect to do so now. Do not put it off. Get your copy of last week's paper,

Cut the Advertisement Out.

It gives all the particulars which enable you to get the best $100 Racycle; which, with the discount allowed by working the puzzle, makes it the cheapest as well as the best. We want at once a few Racycles in your locality as advertisements—now is your opportunity. Send us your solution of puzzle, your name and address, model wanted and height of frame.

MIAMI CYCLE AND MFG. CO., Middletown, Ohio.

A Feminine View.

Little Boy—The preacher said there is no marryin' in heaven.

Little Girl—Of course not. There wouldn't be enough men to go 'round.

The excavations made on the site of Nineveh prove that that city was burned and then deserted by its inhabitants, who were probably deported after the last siege.

The main difference between a man and a boy is that each thinks the other is having all the fun in life.

Completely Educated.

Mr. Oldboy—Well, I guess we'll have to take Willie home from college.

Mrs. Oldboy—Why? He has been there only two years.

Mr. Oldboy—But he is now the best all-around athlete in the college, and if he stays he will only waste his time.

At the Opera.

She—Aren't the gowns gorgeous?

He—Yes, I think in most cases the beauty of the wearer fails to eclipse that of the dress.

She—Well, at any rate the gowns don't totally eclipse the wearers.

A Trinity of Evils.

Biliousness, sick headache and irregularity of the bowels accompany each other. To the removal of this trinity of evils Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is specially adapted. It also cures dyspepsia, rheumatism, malarial complaints, biliousness, nervousness and constipation. The most satisfactory results follow a fair trial. Use it daily.

She Knew Him.

Wise Mother—Be careful not to allow the children to annoy their father at breakfast this morning?

Nurse—Yes, ma'am.

Wise Mother—His base ball club lost yesterday.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O., Proprs. of Hall's Catarrh Cure, offer $100 reward for any case of catarrh that can not be cured by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for testimonials, free. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

All the merchants of Plymouth, Mich., have entered into an agreement that none of them in the future will offer chromos, prize packages or any other gifts in the effort to secure trade.

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

For invalids and dyspeptics barley soup is commended as a light diet. It requires only one hour and a half to digest.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth,

Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.

Thousands of laborers in China live on rice alone, the cost of supporting each person being less than a cent a day.

Hegeman's Camphor Ice with Glycerine. The original and only genuine. Cures Chapped Hands and Face, Cold Sores, &c. C. G. Clark Co., N. Haven, Ct.

A line of street cars, to be propelled by compressed air, will soon be seen on the thoroughfares of Chicago.

"A Cup of Parks' Tea at night moves the bowels in the morning."

Those who attain any excellence commonly spend life in one pursuit; for excellence is not gained upon easier terms.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is the only cough medicine used in my house.—D. C. Albright, Mifflinburg, Pa., Dec. 11, 1895.

The onion is a historic vegetable, having been used since the dawn of history by the Greeks, the Romans and the Egyptians.

W.N.U. D.M.--1243 NO. 18

When answering advertisements kindly mention this paper.

Picking up Knowledge

Is easy enough if you look for it in the right place. This is the right place to learn just what to do for that debilitating condition which Spring always brings. Do you want to be cured of that languid feeling, get back your appetite, sleep soundly, and feel like a new man?

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

will do it. It has done it for thousands. It has been doing it for 50 years. Try it.

Send for the "Curebook." 100 pages free. J. C. Ayer Co. Lowell, Mass.

PATENTS, TRADE MARKS

Examination and Advice as to Patentability of Invention. Send for "Inventors' Guide, or How to Get a Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Washington, D. C.

Wanted. Good Agents can make from $100 to $300 per month soliciting for WOOD'S PATENT DISPLAY CABINETS which are presented to lodges. For full particulars address T. E. WOOD CO., Kalamazoo, Mich.

CRIPPLE CREEK Write for what you want to THE MECHEM INVESTMENT CO., Mining Exchange, Denver, Colo.

SCHOOL DESKS Save 50c freight on each by having them shipped from the Western School Supply House, Des Moines.

PURE CALIFORNIA WINES. L. Apffel, Wholesaler, Los Angeles, Cal. 2 cases, asstd., freight paid, $7—$8—$9. Eastern shipments my specialty.

OPIUM and WHISKY habits cured. Book sent FREE. Dr. B. M. WOOLLEY, ATLANTA, GA.

NAPOLEON consulted the stars. Know thyself. Send date of birth and 25 cents to HAZELRIGG, Astrologer, Room 26, 106 E. 23d St., N. Y.

ST. JACOBS OIL Is a prize fighter and champion in every contest with RHEUMATIC PAINS It knocks out in every round, and on its belt is written "I CURE."

Wall Paper
and
All kinds of
Painting material
Cheap at
HARR'S.

J. H. QUEAL & CO.

Invite you to come and inspect their Dry, Bright, well seasoned stock of

LUMBER
LATH SHINGLES
SASH DOORS

BRICK
LIME
CEMFNT

Oak and Cedar Posts.

We have a complete stock to select from at the lowest price.
Let us figure on your bill.

We will not be undersold.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.

SPRING GOODS!

Our Spring goods have arrived consisting of

—BLACK, WHITE and FIGURED—

LAWNS

Light Colored CALICOS, MUSLINS,

GAUZE UNDERWEAR ETC.

We also have a large line of HATS, CAPS and SHOES.
Butter and Eggs Wanted.

SHAFER & DOW.

GEO KLUCKHOHN,
The Restaurant Man!

Serves the Public with

A Square Meal, Fine Bread
Buns, Oysters, Cigars,
Tobaccos, etc.

WHEN IN TOWN CALL AND SEE HIM.

KLEMME, - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

ALEX. KIRKWOOD,

....PROPRIETOR OF....

KIRKWOOD :-: HOUSE,

FIRST CLASS ACCOMMADATION. - RATES $1.00 per Day.

Livery and Feed Stable in Connection

Rigs Furnished on Short Notice.

KLEMME. -:- -:- :-: IOWA.

Locals.

Mens' Bicycle Belts at E. P S's.

Cement, Lime, Brick and stucco at Lau Bros.

New Mouldings for Pibture Frames at E. P. Schaefers.

Mr. Purdy of Belmond, was looking over our town Tuesday.

Two good buggies at cost, to make room for our new stock, at Lau Bro's.

Dr. Spooner has raised his barn and put an addition on the south side.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Elder of Garner, spent Sunday with friends in Klemme.

Terhufen & Son have as fine a lot of Iron and Wood Pumps as there are in town.

The rain has fiilled up the Iowa river so that fishing is being indulged in by old and young.

If the weather coutinues favorable the crops will undoubtly exceed last last year's yeald.

J. L. Harr has enclosed his property with a neat picket fence, which improves the looks wonderfully.

S. Sturgeon of Garner, was in town Monday between trains, and made the TIMES office a very pleasant call.

Miss May Schneider of Garner, came down Thursday and remained over Sunday a guest of the editor's family.

The Tower Cultivator will be found to be exactly the implement practicable to work sod corn. Terhufen & son has them for sale.

If you want the best Organ or Piano in the world and at the latest, lowest prices, address C. Brooks, Livermore Iowa.

A little ill, then a little pill, The ill is gone the pill has won. DeWitt's Little Early Risers the little pills that cure great ills. Harr.

Geo. Dickinson and Julius Henschen returned from Thompson Tuesday they have been working for Wanamaker, building a house for C.W Knapp on his farm.

Lau Bros. are giving away a life size crayon picture of yourself or any member of the family with every $10 worth of goods bought for cash. Call and see sample.

Special sale of Buggies for the next 10 days on account of being short of room. If you want a buggy this spring now is your chance. Gruetzmacher Bros.

N. Shaw finds it necessary to stop work for a while until he can regain his health. He quit for Bloom Wednesday night and W. Myers takes his place.

The Tower Surface Cultivator has knives that are drawn with a shaving cut through the ground and handles easier, has lighter draft, disturbs corn roots less, raises more and better matured corn than any other cultivator. You can buy one of Terhufen & Son.

Last Saturday while Simon Rimels was in the field working and his wife had gone to Goodell, some theives entered his house went to the bureau and took what money was in a pocketbook. There was a $10 bill, some dollars and halves, about $16 or more in all. No clue as yet.

We might tell you more about one Minute Cough Cure, but you probably know that it cures a cough. Every one does who has used it. It is a perfect remedy for coughs, colds and hoarseness. It is an especial favorite for children, being pleasant to take and quick in curing. Harr.

BREEDERS ATTENTION!

Well bred, good sized horses sell and are for general use.

Mac Michael 11924, is a large, fine, royal bred stallion, that has been tried and his foals are all you can ask. He is speedy, and sound, and weighs 1250 pounds. A 3-year-old filly by him went miles in 2:10 last year. I am standing him for $10.0C this year; next year $50.

R. J. W. BLOOM,
Garner, Ia,

How to Treat a Wife.

(From Pacific Health Journal.)

First, get a wife; second be patient. You may have great trials and perplexities in your business, do not therefore, carry to your home a cloudy or contracted brow. Your wife may have trials, which, though of less magnitude, may be hard for her to bear. A kind word, a tender look, will do wonders in chasing from her brow all clouds of gloom.—To this we would add always keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house. It is best and is sure to be needed sooner or later. Your wife will then know that you really care for her and wish to protect her health. For sale by J. L. HARR.

McCormick's Masterpieces

"THE THREE KINGS" OF THE HARVEST FIELD.

THE "OPEN ELEVATOR"
King of all Grain Harvesters.
THE No. 4 STEEL MOWER
King of all Grass Cutters.
THE '96 CORN BINDER
King of all Corn Harvesters.

The great Money-Savers of the Farm.

Come In and See Them! They Are Matchless!

AT THE WORLD'S FAIR
They Won the Only Honors.
IN EVERY TEST they prove their superiority.
IN EVERY LAND they lead the leaders.

WE have satisfied ourselves that McCormick Machines are the lightest draft, most durable and most reliable grain and grass cutters built by any manufacturer. We believe they are the cheapest machines a farmer can own—if experience has proven anything, it has proven this. We believe a careful examination of them will convince any man that they are planned with a mechanical nicety and put together with a degree of care far ahead of that shown in any other make of harvesting machinery. We want all interested parties to come and see them. Guaranteed to work where others fail.

GRUETZMACHER BROS. AGT'S.

We also handle the CELEBRATED
Elwood and Dekalb FIELD FENCING

The best on the market. Also, MITCHELL AND LEWIS WAGONS, RACINE BUGGIES, JOHN DEERE PLOWS, J. I. CASE PLOWS AND DEERF PLANTERS.

Hardware and Groceries.

GRASS AND GARDEN SEEDS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mouldings.

And everything used to build with.

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in the week.

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'GR.,
KLEMME, IOWA.

YOU HAVE IT!

Oats and Corn!

We Want It!

and will pay the Highest Market price to get it.

COAL!

We have it, You want it.

Hard, Soft, Illinois, and Smithing.

WALT. BLOOM, Klemme, Ia.

TIMES $1. PER YR. IN ADVANCE.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, MAY 15, 1896. NUMBER 38

Church Directory.

AMERICAN M. E. CHURCH.
Preaching Service, 10.30, a. m.
Sunday School, 11.30, " "
Epworth League, 7.30, p. m.
Every Sunday.
Prayer meeting, Thursday, 7.30 p.m.
Everyone most cordially invited.
CHARLES E. ANDERSON, Pastor.

GERMAN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School 9.30 a. m.
Preaching Service 10.30 " "
Evening Service — Preaching and Epworth League alternately—8.00 p.m,
Prayer meeting Wednesday 8.00 p.m.
Rev. G. HAEFNER, Pastor.

GERMANTOWN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School and Preaching alternately 9.30 and 10.30 a. m. and 2.00 and 3.00 p. m.
Epworth League 8.00 p. m. each Sunday. Rev. G. HAEFNER, Pastor.

REFORMED CHURCH.
Preaching Service
Rev. TREIKE, Pastor.

B. C. R. & N. TIME TABLE.

GOING SOUTH.

No. 82.	Pass. - -	2.20 p. m.
No. 84,	Stock - -	6.45 a. m.
No. 86.	Way freight. -	1.40 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 81.	Pass. - -	5.00 p. m.
No. 83.	Way freight -	11.35 a. m.
No. 85.	freight - -	4.00 p. m.

No. 84. Runs Sunday and not Monday.

H. O. ENGER,
Local Agt.

SEND YOUR ORDERS
FOR ABSTRACTS
of titles to
J. S. Knauss, Abstracter.
Owner of Complete set,
Lands and Town Lots.
Titles Perfected. Promptness and Accuracy
GUARANTEED
GARNER, IOWA.

A. L. SPOONER.
Physician and Surgeon.
Office and residence on Main Street first door west of Bank.
Klemme, Iowa.

H. E. PEITZKE
IS THE BLACKSMITH
THAT
Will do your work well.
He also does wood work.
HIS
Prices are right,
AND
Experience great.
KLEMME, IOWA.

KLEMME - DRAY - LINE.
H. & S. NISSEN,
Proprietors.
Draying and teaming of all kinds done on short notice.
GIVE US A CALL.

Local Mention.

H. J. Klemme did business in town Tuesday.

N. Shaw made a trip to Mason City last week.

Bicycles repared on short notice at Shafer and Dow's.

A fine assortment of baby carriages at E. P. Schaefers.

Wagon Boxes by the wholesale from 10.50 to $12.50 at Lau Bros.

Mrs. Arnold returned Tuesday from her visit at Mason City.

For sale one second hand Case stirring plow, cheap. H. E. Peitzke.

Irwin Dow and wife, of Garner. were guests of E. P. Dow, Sunday.

Dr. Smith of Garner was called here Monday night to see Mrs. Gilman who is very sick.

W. C. Schuler the Garner merchant has something to say in this issue, read his new ad.

Mr. Case of Clear Lake, drove over to Klemme, Tuesday, and was a guest of Rev. Anderson.

Born: To Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Peitzke of Clear Lake, Sunday, a boy. Mother and child doing well.

Mr. and Mrs. Parks, of Clear Lake, drove over Sunday and took dinner with the editor's family.

The Barz addition is building up very fast and is going to be the finest residence portion of Klemme.

W. C, Nolte who has been drilling a well for E. P. Dow, drove home to Sheffield Friday, returning Monday.

Fred Haupt called at the TIMES office Friday and paid for his paper. He is suffering with rheumatism in his foot.

Henry Peitzke and family drove to Garner, Sunday. He drove down in 45 minutes, getting home ahead of the rain.

John Suckow while worknig around his new house Tuesday evening, stepped on a nail which will probably lay him up for a few days.

There will be an ice cream sociable held in the school house hall Tuesday evening by the band. Come and bring your best girl and have a good time.

Weichselbaum and Andersen have been improving their places by planting a row of trees across the north side and down the end of their lots.

Lightning struck the barn of Chas. Williams one day last week, but did not set it afire. He was fortunate as the barn contained his grain, hay and horses.

Eczema is a frightful affliction, but like all other skin diseases it can be permanently cured by applicationr of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It never fails to cure Piles. Harr.

Dr. Spooner and wife Mrs. Dow and Miss Hubbard, drove to Garner Friday night to attend the school entertainment, but returned before the entertainment, fearing rain.

NOTICE.

All persons are hereby forbidden to drive across the school yard. By order of the school board.

STEVE DAY
Secretary.

Alf. and May Schneider of Garner, were out west of town Monday taking some views with the camera and being near town drove in and called on ye editor and family and took a picture of the TIMES office and help.

In this issue we publish the advertisement of the Domestic Sewing Machine Co. The Improved Domestic is the easiest and ligtest running sewing machine made, and mechanically, so simple that a child can understand it. The Domestic Bicycle is a perfect wheel.

For every quarter in a man's pocket there are a dozen uses; and to each one in such a way as to derive the greatest benefit is a question every one must solve for himself. We believe, however, that no better use could be made of one of these quarters than to exchange it for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, a medicine that every family shoul be provided with. For sale by J. L. HARR.

Additional Locals.

A. H. Wesenberg went to Popejoy Tuesday.

Ice cream at the school house Tuesday evening.

J. L. Harr and family were at Belmond, Sunday.

Genuine Hand Made Harness only $27, at Lau Bros.

H. W. Shoper mabe a business trip to Goodell, Wednesday.

The finest Single Harness in town for only $4, at Lau Bros.

Steele & Barch are drilling a well for Weichselbaum this week.

Mrs. Buttolph living about 3 miles east of town is dangerously ill.

Mart Lau and wife drove to Hayfield. Sunday and returned Tuesday.

Ice cream every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon at Geo. Kluckhon's.

Mr. Patterson, one of the Garner millers was doing business in town Wednesday.

The person who does not read advertisements is one who probably has nothing to buy.

Hans Nissen has commenced his cellar, and we expect to see a fine residence there soon.

Binding Twine, superior sisal, pure manilla and standard, all new, at bottom prices. at Lau Bros.

E. W. Overholzer a brother of Mrs. Chas Lunn arrived from Illinois Saturday, to make her a visit.

Rev. Anderson was called to Meservey, Tuesday, to preach the funeral sermon of Mrs. Young.

Call at Terhufen & Son and see the Johnson self feeder for threshing Machine, best on the market.

Chas Gruetsmacher drove to Garner Wednesday to meet his wife and Mrs. Henry Gruetzmacher on their return from Redfield S. D.

Wanted.

1000 dozen eggs and 500 lbs butter in exchange for Wall Paper and Paints. Shafer & Dow.

Papering.—I am ready to do paperhanging in a first class manner and on short notice. All work guaranteed.
REV. C. NOLTE, Goodell, Ia.

H. A. Sweigart and John Stibal passed throngh town Monday evening for Garner. Harvey has been appointed cashier of the State Savings Bank of Goodell.

Mrs. B. DeYoung, Middleburg, Ia., writes, I have used One Minute Cough Cure for six years, both for myself and children, and I consider it the quickest acting and most satisfactory Cough Cure I ever used. Harr.

F. B. Smith and family returned Tuesday from their visit feeling first rate, having had a very pleasant time. Mr. Smith went immediatly to Livermore to make arrangements about a dwelling. He takes charge of that office the 15th.

Geo, Schaefer got in a hurry to cross the track ahead of the train with his cream wagon the other evening, when the end board of his wagon fell out and one can of cream; but the cans were all tied together so the one was draging behind. Only part of the can was lost however.

School Items.

Klemme School Report for month ending May 8th.

Room No. 1.

No. Days Taught	20.
No. Enrolled	32,
Average Daily Attendance	24.
No. Cases of Tardiness	8.
No. Neither Absent nor Tardy	7.

Hazel Peitzke, Blanche Peitzke, John Wesenberg, George Wesenberg, Elmer Dow, Bennie Lau, and Minnie Lau.

MATTIE HUBBARD, Teacher.

Room 2.

No. Days Taught.	20.
No. Enrolled	28.
No. Daily Attendance	16.
No. Cases Tardiness	18,

No. Neither absent nor tardy. John Stille.

JOHN SUCKOW
Teacher.

GO TO LAU BROS.
for bargains in

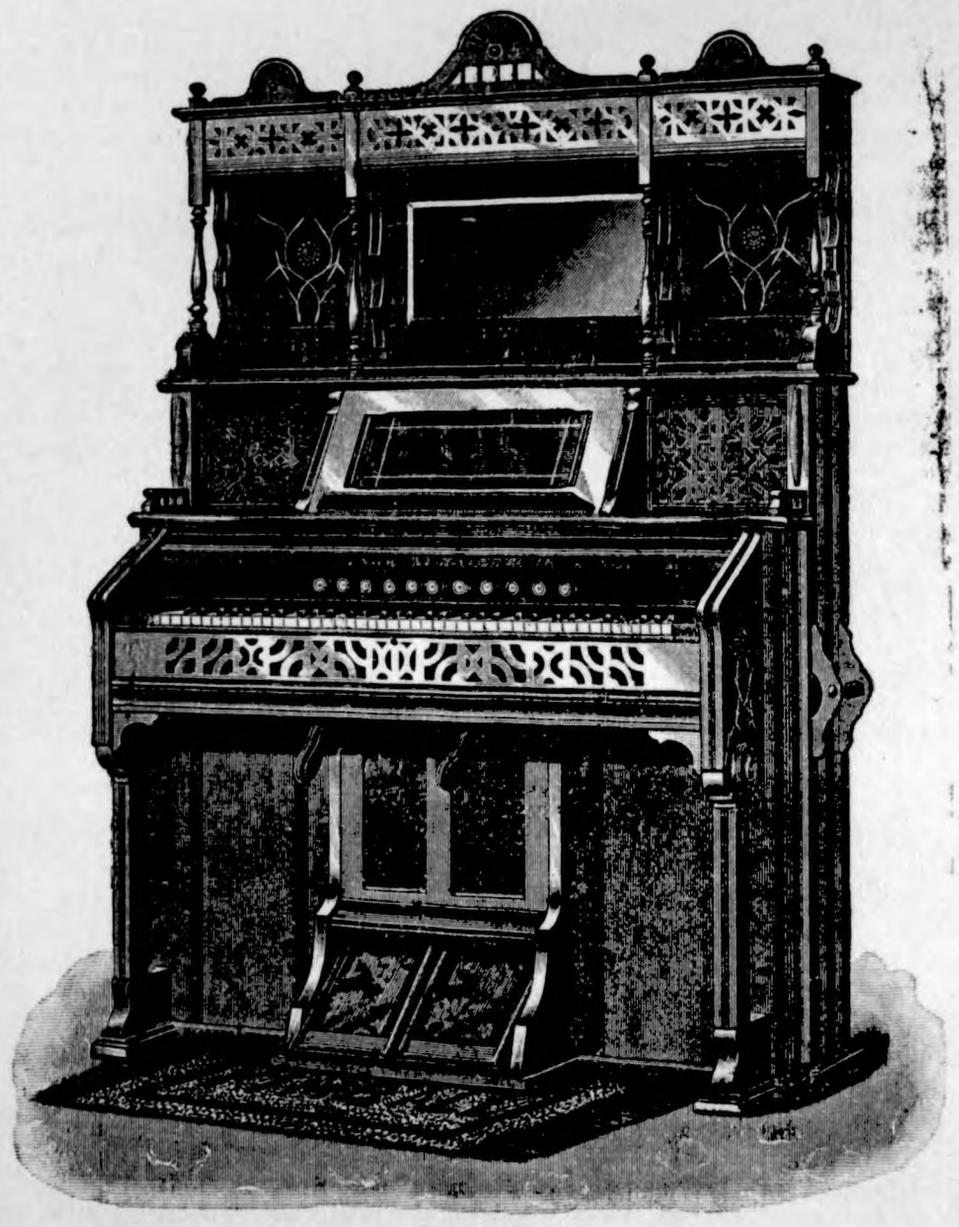
SHOES.
We have a new line of shoes and are selling them at bottom prices.

DRY GOODS.
Our line of dry goods is complete.
New spring goods arriving almost daily

SPRING UNDERWEAR.
We have an extra quality of gauze, that we are selling at 60 cents per suit. You cant beat it. Come and see.

MACKINTOSH'S.
We can fit you at from $4.00 up as you want.

PRODUCE,
always taken in exchange at the highest market price,



For Organs, Pianos, Sewing Machines and FURNITURE,
GO TO
E. P. SCHAEFER.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, - - - IOWA

Two young men in Manitoba insist that they have seen the devil. People generally will be glad to know where he is located.

The discovery of a sweet girl kleptomaniac in Vassar College would be distressing, but who is it in the building that is swiping everything that isn't fastened down?

When the novelist of the future writes about his hero reading his enemy through and through, it will, of course, be presumed that the Roentgen process has been used.

In view of the number of widows some of the millionaires of the wild West have left, it is difficult to understand how they found time to accumulate so much money.

Poet Laureate Austin is doubtless sharpening his quills for an assault on Buluwayo. He may find an opportunity to make the British people forget all about the man Tennyson.

Edison says he is bothered almost to death with letters from cranks, who want all sort of impossible things and ask all sorts of fool questions. He says he was not aware until recently how many fools there are in the world.

Bloomer restaurants in the east have proved a failure. The managers depended on pretty girls in bicycle costumes, instead of good meals. When people go to restaurants they usually go to feast the stomach rather than the eye.

European statisticians have been gathering some facts with regard to the growth of population in the various countries of Europe during the decennial period 1885-95. The aggregate increase was 29,922,800. Some states have advanced greatly. For example, Russia added 12,510,800 to her existing population; Germany, 4,522,600; Austro-Hungary, 3,502,200; Great Britain, 2,452,400; Turkey, 1,100,000, and France, 67,100.

The bureau of American republics at Washington has had some difficulties lately, but seems to have passed over them. The cause of the trouble, if trouble it may be called, is not known, but may have arisen from the belief of some of the representatives of the powers that their nations were not receiving as much attention as they should. Mexico and Argentina had signified their intention to withdraw, but have now changed their minds. On the other hand Chili, which has always held aloof, has signified her willingness to take part in the future work of the bureau. It is believed that the plan of work will be modified to some extent.

It looks as if the near future would see the orange market of the United States well supplied. The California orange crop for this year will be about 2,800,000 boxes, worth about $5,000,000. These oranges grow on 10,000 acres of orange orchard. But there are said to be 80,000 acres of new and unbearing orange orchards in California. When they come into bearing oranges should be cheap. In Florida the great frosts of last year killed the orange trees over wide areas. The trees were cut off at the stumps and are now growing up, and some of them are scheduled to begin to bear in two years more. Altogether it appears that a great many trees of this kind of fruit are in process of growth.

The agitation for lower street-car fares is spreading. Some of the cities, such as Detroit and New York, have taken the question up in earnest. In the latter case it is not the city alone that is involved, but every city in the state, as the state legislature has taken hold of the matter. A bill has been prepared and introduced in the assembly at Albany providing that at certain times of day the companies shall sell thirty tickets for $1, whenever the road can pay its fixed charges and 5 per cent on the investment. The reduction of fares is a thing of great moment to the larger cities. It means that the people can go farther in the country for their homes. At the present time the number that feel they can afford to pay double fares each way is small. But if the fares be reduced to 3 cents the double fare would be scarcely more than the single one is now. When a few cities and states have passed such laws and made them operative the movement will progress rapidly to the advantage of all. The roads will not be entirely the losers, since a reduction of fares greatly increases the volume of travel, especially of well-to-do people. Austria reduced the charges on her railroads nearly one-half and the passenger traffic more than doubled in a single year.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

WHO THE "WILD MAN" IS.

Name and Residence Discovered After a Period of Eleven Years.

DES MOINES, May 9.—The identity of the "wild man," an inmate of the county insane asylum for eleven years, has been discovered. He is Lewis Curry, and formerly lived in Woodbury county, where he has several relatives. Eleven years ago he was captured in the woods south of Des Moines. He had no clothes and was named the "wild man." No one could find where he came from and he was sent to the county asylum where he has spent his days and nights pacing his cell. Recently it was discovered by Supervisor Brewer that he was sent to the Independence asylum some thirteen years ago from Woodbury county. He escaped and traveled on foot to Polk county. He will be sent back to Independence. Polk county will present a bill for $1,100 to Woodbury county for his care the past eleven years. According to the state law Woodbury county will have to pay the bill.

CROP REPORT.

Another Favorable Week in This Mos Promising Season.

DES MOINES, May 7.—The Iowa Weather and Crop Bulletin says: "There are no complaints of superabundant rainfall, and there are comparatively few reports of damage caused by the heavy storms of the week. It may therefore be set down as another favorable week in this most promising season. Small grain and grass are doing remarkably well in all sections. Pasturage is abundant, and the hay crop promises to be unusually heavy. Plowing and planting were retarded by the wet weather in all sections where there was an excess of moisture. In the southeast, and portions of other southern districts, about half the usual acreage of corn has been planted; and in all of the southern half of the state a good beginning has been made. Within the coming week, if weather is favorable, the planting operations will be general."

GRAIN MEN SUE FOR $1,000,000.

Iowa Shippers in Northwestern Counties Go After Railroads.

SIOUX CITY, May 8.—The Northwestern Iowa Grain Shippers' Association held a meeting here, and it was decided to bring suits against all the railroads entering Sioux City for alleged overcharges on grain shipments. They are encouraged to bring these suits for return of overcharges by the success of the association in a test suit tried in federal court a few years ago. Spencer Smith, of Council Bluffs, is attorney for the association, and will file the papers in a few days. There were over seventy members of the association at the meeting, and they are prepared to make a prolonged fight against the railroad companies. The aggregate amount claimed because of the alleged violations of the interstate commerce law in the matter of charges is nearly $1,000,000.

IOWA BOY WON.

A. M. Cloud, of Lenox College, Wins in Interstate Oratory.

TOPEKA, Kansas, May 8.—A. M. Cloud, of Lenox College, Hopkinton, Iowa, was given first place in the interstate oratorical contest here. Fred Elliott, of Monmouth College, Ill., second. The states represented were: Colorado, Nebraska, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

DAWSON GUILTY.

The Jury Convicts Him on the Charge of Murder.

DES MOINES, May 9.—The jury in the case of S. R. Dawson on the charge of murdering his son-in-law, Walter Scott, found Dawson guilty of murder in the second degree, after being out eight hours. On the first ballot the vote stood ten for murder in the second degree and two for manslaughter.

Dynamiter Found Guilty.

MUSCATINE, May 10.—The jury in the case of Mart S. Woods, tried the second time on the charge of dynamiting the house of E. M. Kessinger, returned a verdict of guilty. Two others are under indictment, and the grand jury is now investigating charges against more of the conspirators. The verdict against Woods causes general rejoicing.

Dubuque's Municipal Sensations.

DUBUQUE, May 10.—Since the investigation of the late Mayor Olinger in regard to the sale of permits commenced, the corporation of New Vienna sent in for the receipt of $58 paid for certain lamps and posts bought in Dubuque. The money had been paid as claimed to Mayor Olinger. The treasurer could not send the receipt because he had not received the money. A friend of the late mayor, however, appeared and paid in the money, claiming it was forgotton. Investigation is still in progress.

BOIES FOR PRESIDENT.

Walsh Working With Buck Henrichson, of Illinois.

OTTUMWA, May 9.—Secretary Walsh has reports from thirty-three counties which show the silver men have elected 238 delegates and the gold men 83. The same counties last year sent 182 silver and 204 gold delegates. With the counties which sent silver men last year, if no further gains are reported, they will have a big majority in the Dubuque convention. Secretary Walsh is working with Chairman Henrichson for the nomination of Boies for president.

DES MOINES, May 11.—The Leader says: Conventions have been held in sixty of the ninety-nine counties in Iowa, to select delegates to the democratic state convention, which will be held in Dubuque, May 20. Omitting Woodbury and Blackhawk counties, in which there are contesting delegations, the vote of the remaining fifty-eight counties is as follows: For free silver and the selection of Horace Boies to head the Iowa delegation to Chicago, 356; against free silver, 167; doubtful, 9. The same counties, at the democratic state convention in Marshalltown, in 1895, voted as follows: For free silver, 295; against free silver, 325. These returns insure the complete control of the Dubuque convention by the free silver democrats and the presentation of the name of Horace Boies for the democratic nomination for president on a free silver platform.

GILBERT CHAMPION.

The Spirit Lake Man Led All the Rest at Guttenberg.

GUTTENBERG, N. J., May 10.—Fred Gilbert, of Iowa, won the title of champion target shot of America at the initial clay pigeon championship tournament. Gilbert broke 266 out of a possible 300 flying targets, defeating E. D. Fuller, of Utica, N. Y., and J. A. R. Elliott, of Kansas City, who tied for second place, with 261 breaks each. Rollo Heikes, of Dayton, O., finished fourth, with a total of 258 broken.

Narrow Escape for a Hundred.

IOWA CITY, May 9.—Fire broke out in the third story of the Iowa City Academy while the literary society was in session. A hundred persons were present and were in much danger, there being only one narrow exit available, but a panic and calamity were averted by the coolness of the proprietor, Prof. W. A. Willis, who conducted all safely from the burning building. The prompt work of firemen saved the academy from the flames and the loss will not amount to $500.

Iowa Photographers.

DES MOINES, May 10.—The State Photographers located the next meeting at Des Moines and elected officers as follows: President, W. C. Edinger, Des Moines; first vice president, F. J. McMullen, Greenfield; second vice president, Robert A Gardner, Fort Madison; secretary, J. R. Hall, Monroe; treasurer, T. A. Brown, Marshalltown.

Miss Pitzer Found.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, May 10.—Miss Maud Pitzer, the missing Glenwood school teacher, was arrested in Fremont, Neb., upon a telegram from Glenwood officers, the presumption being that Miss Pitzer is insane. She will at once be taken to her home.

Lives, But is Insane.

CLINTON, May 8.—William Klitzen, who shot himself in a Clinton saloon recently, intending to commit suicide, is still at Mercy Hospital. Dr. J. C. Langan says he will live, but will always be insane.

BREVITIES.

Send 70c to News, Des Moines, Iowa, for campaign Daily News to Dec. 1, '96.

The convention of the First district republicans unanimously renominated Sam M. Clark to succeed himself as representative in congress.

Governor Drake has appointed F. S. White, of South Des Moines, as commissioner for Iowa at the centennial exposition to be held at Nashville, Tenn., this year.

Governor Drake has issued a pardon to William Higney, who was sent to the Anamosa penitentiary December 2, 1895, under a sentence of two years for robbery. He was sent from Sioux City.

Des Moines dispatch: The handsome bronze medal and the highly prized diploma won by the state of Iowa at the World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago have been received at the office of Secretary of State McFarland. The greatest of international expositions recognized Iowa as the greatest of agricultural states in the world, and the people have just cause to be proud of that medal and diploma. The medal is of bronze, about three-eighths of an inch thick and three inches in diameter. On the face of the bronze disc is a figure of Columbus, while on the reverse side is the inscription, "World's Columbian Exposition, in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the landing of Christopher Columbus. MDCCCXCII--MDCCCXCIII. To the state of Iowa." The diploma is upon the finest of parchment.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

CUBA.

MADRID, May 7.—Dispatches from Havana say that the American newspaper man, Hamilton, captured on board the schooner Competitor will be released, but the others captured at the same time will be shot, in spite of the protests from Washington.

HAVANA, May 8.—Details of the Carcarapiara fight have been received and show that the Cubans won a great victory and were not defeated, as the Spanish official report stated. Maceo was not present. The insurgents numbered 2,000, under Delgado and Socarras, and occupied a strong fortified position. Their position was attacked by Spaniards under General Inclan, who were repulsed repeatedly. Finally the insurgents charged and drove the Spaniards, the latter retreating to Bahia Hondo and being continually harrassed. The Spanish loss was about 200 killed and nearly 300 wounded. The insurgent loss was light, owing to the protection of hills. General Bernall has been recalled, and it is said will be courtmartialed for failing to arrive on time to aid General Inclan.

MADRID, May 9.—The former premier, Sagasta, denies that there exists any difference of opinion among the liberal leaders regarding Cuba. He said: "The war costs $100,000,000 annually and certainly 10,000 soldiers every year. Can we fold our arms in the face of this sorrowful prospect? The liberal minority will do its duty. We shall endeavor to secure a practical solution of the difficulty in order that the institution of reforms, instead of being a promise, shall become a reality."

NEW YORK, May 9.—A messenger direct from Cuba reported to General Palma at the office of the Cuban junta practically as follows: "Gen. Maceo, with a well equipped army, has full and complete possession of Pinar del Rio, and expects to hold his present position until the rainy season sets in. The victory claimed for the Spanish troops under Gen. Ynclan was a severe reverse for Spain."

MADRID, Map 10.—A cablegram from Havana says that the filibusters captured on the Competitor have been sentenced to death. They are: Alfredo Laborde, born in New Orleans; Owen Milton, of Kansas; William Kinle, an Englishman, and Elias Bedia and Theodore De La Maza, both Cubans. The accused men pleaded not guilty and witnesses admitted that when the men were captured they were not armed and offered no resistance. Nevertheless, the prosecuting officer demanded the conviction of the prisoners and their condemnation to death. United States Consul General Williams made a written protest against the trial.

HIS OWN MEDICINE.

Multi-Murderer Holmes Executed at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—Herman W. Mudgett, alias H. H. Holmes, was hanged yesterday in the county prison for the killing of Benj. F. Pietzel. Twenty minutes after the drop fell he was pronounced dead. The execution was in every way devoid of sensational features. To the last he was self-possessed and cool, even to the extent of giving a word of advice to Assistant Superintendent Richardson as the latter was arranging the final details. He died as he had lived, unconcerned and apparently thoughtless of the future, even with the recollection still vividly before him of the recent confession in which he admitted the killing of a score of both sexes in all parts of the country. Almost his last words were a point blank denial of any crimes committed except the deaths of two women at his hands by malpractice. Of the murder of several members of the Pietzel family he denied all complicity, particularly of the father, for whose death he stated he was unjustly suffering the penalty. Then with the prayer of the spiritual attendants still sounding in his ears and with a few low spoken words to those about, the trap swung and beyond a few incidental post mortem details, the execution which culminated one of the worst criminal stories known to criminology was ended.

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—The body of H. H. Holmes was taken from the vault in the Holy Cross cemetery and lowered into a grave ten feet deep. The box which contains the body, embedded in cement which has already hardened, weighs over a ton, and was too wide to be lowered into an ordinary grave. At the conclusion of the burial service a layer of cement two feet thick was piled upon the coffin, and his tomb will be a solid wall of rock. The precautions were the result of Holmes' last wishes. He feared the dissecting table more than he did the grave.

Chinese War Indemnity.

BERLIN, May 9.—The Deutsche-Asiatisch Bank handed to the agent of the government of Japan the sum of 84,000,000 marks as part of the Chinese war indemnity.

CONVENTION WILL BE SHORT.

Chairman Carter Thinks It Will Not Last Very Long.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—"I do not believe that the republican national convention will have a long session this year," says Senator Carter, of Montana, the chairman of the national committee. "I shall call the national committee to meet in St. Louis early in June, probably on the 10th of that month. It is unusual to call the committee a week in advance of the meeting of the convention, but I deem it necessary on this occasion in order that the roll may be made up as fairly as possible. There are 123 contested delegates and the national committee must hear those cases and determine which delegates are entitled to places on the temporary roll. This will take time, and it will be better for the committee to attend to this business in advance of the meeting of the convention in order that there may be no delay. Of course the titles to the seats will be ultimately determined by the convention, but it devolves upon the national committee to give preliminary hearings in order to make up a temporary roll. Of course our deliberations will be unbiased by the contentions of the various candidates. Nevertheless, the temporary roll will necessarily play an important part in the organization of the convention."

TRUST INDICTMENTS.

Head Officials of the American Tobacco Company in Trouble.

NEW YORK, May 9.—The grand jury found indictments against President James B. Duke and the following directors of the American Tobacco company: W. H. Butler, William A. Marburg, Louis Ginter, George Arenbe, George W. Gail, Benjamin N. Duke, George W. Watts, Josiah Browne and Charles C. Emery. The charge against them is conspiracy and violation of section 168 of the penal code, which embraces acts injurious to trade and commerce.

BOLLN CONVICTED.

Former City Treasurer of Omaha Found Guilty.

OMAHA, Neb., May 10.—Henry Bolln, ex-city treasurer, after a second trial, has been convicted of embezzling $105,500 of public funds of the city and school board of Omaha. Punishment may be from one to twenty-five years and a fine to the amount or double the amount of embezzlement.

Missionaries Massacred.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—The steamer Monawai brings news of the wholesale massacre of traders and missionaries by natives of the islands on the Manning straits and the Solomons Acts of cannibalism followed. The trading station was sacked. Two English missionaries are missing and it is supposed they were murdered.

The Women Win

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 8.—The report of the M. E. conference committee, providing for a compromise on the woman question, was adopted. It allows the women to retain their seats, on the understanding that it shall not establish a precedent.

TERSE NEWS.

About 1,300 street car employes are on a strike at Milwaukee.

The volksraad, or parliament, of the Transvaal, was opened on the 5th by President Kruger.

Earl Grey, in charge at Bulawayo, has officially expressed the opinion that the back of the Matabele rebellion is broken and Bulawayo is as safe as London or Paris.

Indiana republicans instructed for McKinley and bi-metallism on an international basis. In Michigan the national money plank was endorsed and the delegates were instructed for McKinley. In New Jersey the democrats declared for sound money and the abolishment of greenbacks. Tennessee democrats declared for free silver.

Washington dispatch: The long expected order of the president, including in the civil service most of the offices now remaining outside of the classified service, has been issued. The order will include within the civil service 30,000 additional government employes. Practically the only position left outside the civil service will be the assistant secretaries, heads of bureaus and, in a few cases, private secretaries and laborers. The order takes effect immediately.

The latest Transvaal revelations are producing an increasing sensation coupled with deep humiliation in England. Cecil Rhodes, who by the publication in Pretoria of the telegrams exchanged between various people just previous to the invasion of the Transvaal by Dr. Jameson and his filibusters, is so clearly shown to have been the head and front of the conspiracy, was not only premier of Cape Colony at the time but was also a member of of the privy council. As the matter stands, Rhodes and other officers of the British Chartered South Africa Company are liable to be arrested and it is possible that the charter of the company will be revoked.

THE NEW OLD WOMAN

"IT IS TIME FOR you to take in sail,' as Emerson says. There is nothing left, Aunty. The modern, progressive, innovating, overturning, new woman has"—

"Hold, my dear, you are breathless. You mean to say she has left nothing for the old woman to do. Nevertheless, I shall not take in sail until the voyage is over, though I may have to shorten it up a bit," said the older woman with a smile.

"Spoken with the spirit of our Scandinavian ancestors who met death standing," replied the young girl; "still I think it nice to be out of the hurry and whirl of things, and have time to rest."

"Yes, my child, there is one thing that the old woman has, that the new woman has not, that is time. Let me tell you an anecdote to illustrate."

"Oh, do! Chauncey Depew says the modern speaker must have his joke," said the girl, mischievously adding, "I suppose it is the same with the ancient speaker, Aunty."

"A dear old woman said to me: 'My time don't count for much now; it is like hen's time.' Then she told me of an old farmer who attended an agricultural fair and saw an incubator for the first time. When it was explained he said: 'Well, it may be a great thing for savin' the hen's time, but with us, that don't count for much.' However, I think time ought always to count."

"Even with hens and old women?" innocently inquired the girl.

"Women of affairs do not grow old," answered the other. "If there is anything that can keep the spirit of youth fresh within us, it is keeping in touch with the world, having, as some one says, a genius for humanity."

"Now, you are talking about the new old woman; do you consider her an outgrowth of the new young woman?"

"A development, yes, certainly."

"I should say they all had the develops, very seriously," laughingly remarked the girl.

Without noticing this, her aunt continued:

"We have some grand old women of that type, broad-minded, leading spirits. I heard one of them lately address a large meeting. Her voice was clear and cultured; her thought sparkled with wit and logic; she was nearly 80. I thought we are all making history; not all so eventful as this woman, yet we are storing away memories and traditions; why not learn to tell them well, one of the resources of age that make it interesting?"

"Yes, Aunty, it is good to tell a thing well, but not too often. It is a sure sign of dotage to repeat over and over."

"You are thinking of that old-fashioned old woman who sits by the fire, garrulous and grumbling, who entertains you with her rheumatism and other troubles, these being the only tragedies life has left."

"Yes, and I am thinking of the old woman who knitted stockings and mended trousers and cut carpet rags, and pieced quilts, and nursed the sick, who spoiled the children—as grandmothers old and new-fangled will continue to do to the end of time—and always had unfailing cookies with which to mend either broken heads or hearts, who rocked the baby and pared potatoes for dinner while she was resting herself."

"She is a creature of the past, my dear."

"I am half sorry for it; but let me tell you of an old dame I visited on a summer afternoon of blessed memory. She was in her rose garden where she received me, making a quaint picture of herself. There were roses in her cheeks, though she was over 80, and most of her time was spent out of doors among her flowers. She was never so happy as when cutting the great fragrant roses, to send to friends, to the sick, to the bride, to the church or the funeral. She literally scattered roses. Then, too, she was interesting and knew all about flowers, the cultivation and the sentiment of them, knew the language of a red, red rose. Many children in the neighborhood came to her for bulbs and roots, which she taught them to cultivate, offering little prizes for the best results. Now, what epoch would you say my old dame belongs to?"

THAT OLD FASHIONED WOMAN.

"Ah, my dear, you must understand that the new old woman has other 'spheres' beside the rostrum. She is a woman of resources, and still keeps a first-hand instead of second-hand interest in life. Oliver Wendell Holmes talked of giving up to the boys, but he told me that as long as the muse did not desert him he would not desert her. I like your old woman of the flowers; even the little window garden with its few geraniums and pot of parsley, from which a green sprig may be had in winter to garnish a dish, is a pleasant care for an old woman. I remember my own grandmother's garden, the pinks and marigolds, larkspurs and primroses; there was summer savory and sweet marjorum and sage. I can see her now, daintily putting up the little bunches to dry for winter. Her life was as peaceful as her posies, and it was one long 'summer savory' of kind deeds, though it had not been without its storms and trials."

"Wake up, my lady! You have left the new old woman, and gone dream-journeying down the past."

"It is true we cannot get away from the past; it is a part of us; but life is more interesting for old people than it was then. Most of us have had leisure for books, and travel and social life.

"Then, you do approve of leisure for the new old woman?"

"Yes, leisure, not idleness, nor listlessness, but restfulness. Considering life as a day, one is naturally busier in the morning; we have strength and vigor, and take our place and begin work. After crossing the meridian, we do not readily undertake new enterprises. Habits are the crutches of the old, and we hobble along on them. Though, naturally, life's cares drop away and fall behind us, as the shadows do in the afternoon, as we go westering with the sun, still it is well, as I said before, not to drop out of line entirely, to keep an interest in the world around us, not forgetting that world toward which we are journeying, being neither too worldly nor too other-worldly."

"Ah, that I may be like that when I have crossed over into life's afternoon, but it will be hard," said the girl, pensively.

"Not if you begin it in the morning, keeping your sympathies broad and active, putting away, little by little, treasures of experience and knowledge, saving them as one saves dollars, against age and want, doing something daily to help another onward."

"I believe it is possible to redeem the busiest life from the menial, the commonplace, by adding a trifle daily to its mental and spiritual stores."

NOT BRIGHT TO ORDER.

Most Clever People Are Duller Than One Imagines.

"How I envy your opportunities of going among people who are clever," said a society belle to a literary woman, according to the New York Tribune. "I get so tired of our dinners, where nothing but personalities are talked, and of eternally meeting the same set. Now, you bookish people when you meet each other can always look forward to something interesting and new. I wish I could change places with you!"

"My dear," answered the literary woman, "I will tell you a secret. Clever people, as you call them, are duller than you imagine. Nothing is more depressing than what are called literary reunions. We poor authors dread them beyond everything—parties where we are invited to meet each other and are expected to shine. We would far rather be mixed up with people of the world and be thought smart.

"I went last night to a reception at Mrs. J——'s, who 'adores genius' and affects culture, and it was the dreariest function amaginable. It was composed almost entirely of literary people, with their wives and husbands. Women in aesthetic gowns and frowsy hair and long-stemmed nodding American beauty roses pinned on one side of their corsages wandered about and tried to look interesting. A light refreshment was passed—ice-cream, I think, and cake and lemonade, for we authors are not supposed to care for the grosser and more material elements represented by terrapin and pate—and there we glared at one another for an hour or more.

"Later on in the evening I met one of my quondam associates at Mrs. M——'s, whose set, you know, is one of the smartest and most frivolous in town. 'What a relief!' he exclaimed on seeing me, 'and how delightful all these women look, and I am just longing for supper, which I see is about to be announced. Mrs. M——'s chef, they say, is the best in New York,' and off he skipped, and I saw him a minute afterward with pretty little Mrs. X——, who hasn't an idea in her head, enjoying himself hugely. No, my dear, you need not long to go with literary people. Taken together they are not amusing and I am sure I ought to know."

The origin of railways is traced to a contrivance for simplifying the transit of coal from the English mines to the place of shipment. The invention consisted of a double parallel line of wooden beams or trams fixed to the ground and furnished with flanges to prevent the wheels of the cars from slipping aside. The motive power was furnished by horses. The date of which these roads were first used is set down as between 1602 and 1649.

FARM AND GARDEN.

MATTERS OF INTEREST TO AGRICULTURISTS.

Some Up-to-Date Hints About Cultivation of the Soil and Yields Thereof—Horticulture, Viticulture and Floriculture.

EARLY last spring, through the local papers we advised the farmers and ranchmen in Wyoming, not to purchase seeds or plants of sachaline until its value could be determined by the Experiment Station.

The plant has been so thoroughly advertised and such extravagant statements have been made of its hardiness, productiveness, and value as a forage plant, that we believe every farmer should be advised of our results in growing it. One ounce of seed and twenty roots were purchased of A. Blanc & Co., Philadelphia, for each Experiment Farm. These have been given a careful trial in each place. At Laramie the roots were planted in pots in the greenhouse in order to give them a good start before setting them out in the field. These made small growth and though kept under the glass they died down to the ground at the end of six months. At Sheridan, sixty-one plants came up from the seeds by the middle of August, the tallest reaching a height of eight inches. None of the seed grew at the other farms and at no place did plants from the roots reach a height of more than twenty-six inches. In short, our trials indicate that sachaline is not sufficiently hardy to be of practical value in any part of the state. According to reports, it has failed in Colorado, Kansas, New Mexico and Texas.

However in reporting our results we would mention the fact that the seed of another species of knotweed (Polygonum cuspidatum), is sometimes sold for true sachaline, and we are not sure that our seed and roots were not of this variety. In fact measurements of leaves on plants at Sheridan would indicate that they are "false sachaline." Whether we have grown the true sachaline or not, we believe that any attempt to grow it in this state will result only in loss of time and money.

A circuar from the Department of Agriculture on sachaline, by Lamson Scribner, says:

"From the native station of the plant, along moist river banks, upon an island with a cold and very moist climate—and from the recommendations as to its culture by horticulturists who have had experience in growing the plant, it is very doubtful if it will prove a success in the arid regions of the west; in fact it seems hardly probable that it can grow there at all."

B. C. Buffum,
Prof. Agriculture and Horticulture.

Rot in Apples, Grapes and Plums.

Bulletin 31 from the Missouri experiment station, by J. C. Whitten, horticulturist, details the results of numerous experiments in preventing rot in apples, grapes, plums, etc. The practical points brought out are condensed into the following:

During the past two years, systematic experiments have been carried on at the experiment station, at Columbia, in spraying for insects and fungous diseases in order to determine the general efficacy of spraying, the most economical strength of spraying mixtures, the number of applications necessary for the various fungous diseases, the best time to spray, and other unsettled points.

Apple scab, the worst fungous disease of the apple in this country, was very largely controlled in orchards sprayed once before the buds started in the spring, with copper sulphate (two pounds to fifty gallons of water) and four times, subsequently with bordeaux mixture. The bordeaux mixture was applied in various strengths from one pound to six pounds of copper sulphate and the same weight of lime, to fifty gallons of water. The three and four-pound solutions gave as good results as the six-pound solution the first season, and the second season, after systematic spraying was begun, the one and two-pound solutions were sufficient to hold the scab almost entirely in check. In unsprayed orchards, the scab ripens its spores early in the season, and these spores germinate upon the fruit and leaves, causing a second crop of the fungus that appears as clouds or blotches on the apple in autumn. On sprayed trees, no trace of this second crop of scab could be found, while on unsprayed apples it was almost universal.

* * *

Bitter rot developed to only a slight extent on the station grounds, about the time the fruit was gathered. Generally throughout the state it was very bad. The only case in which we had an opportunity to test the efficacy of the bordeaux mixture for this disease was on some Fameuse trees. These trees were sprayed (as outlined) for scab. At the time of gathering in autumn, the following percentages of fruit, sprayed with two, four and six-pound solutions, were affected with bitter rot. Unsprayed trees 84 per cent. affected, sprayed with two-pound solution 41 per cent, four-pound solution 57 per cent, and six-pound solution 25 per cent affected. Since this disease developed so late in the season, no other experiments were carried on to check it except to thoroughly spray two trees just before the fruit was gathered, with ammoniacal copper carbonate solution. It is expected that this will lessen the amount of bitter rot next season. In 1896 more extensive experiments for this destructive disease will be pursued in several orchards.

* * *

The black rot of the grape was more readily controlled by the use of bordeaux mixture than were most of the other fungous diseases. The plum rot was most successfully managed by spraying with the bordeaux mixture until the fruit reached nearly full size and then spraying weekly, during the ripening period with the ammoniacal copper carbonate solution. The reason for using the latter solution at that time was because it left no sediment on the fruit at the time of gathering, as did the bordeaux mixture.

* * *

We sometimes hear of unsuccessful results from spraying, but these experiments show, while all diseases can not be immediately and totally eradicated, that continued spraying will to the station that he had carefully intelligent fruit grower sent word to to grow less and less each year. One cause the fungous diseases mentioned sprayed according to directions, but that there was more scab on his sprayed than on his unsprayed trees. A careful examination of apples from his orchard revealed the fact that they were badly burned (probably by impure chemicals or too strong a mixture), but there was no trace of fungous disease in his fruit. Very common mistakes are the use of impure chemicals, allowing the ingredients to settle so the first trees get none an dthe last trees too much of the chemicals, improper mixing of the solutions, usig the wrong solution, and failing to spray at just the proper time.

The cost of these spraying mixtures and spray pumps is very small, and the labor involved is very slight. There is no single investment that will pay such profits on the general farm as systematic spraying.

Full particulars as to how to make up the different solutions, the time and best methods of applying them, will be found in bulletin 31 of this station, which may be had, free of charge, by addressing the director of the experiment station, Columbia, Mo.

Proposed Live Stock Regulations.

The senate committee on agriculture has authorized a favorable report upon the animal industry bill. It is a recodification of the existing laws bearing upon the subject of animal and meat inspection, with numerous important additions. Among the additions are provisions putting inspection of meat products and live stock, the extirpation of infectious and contagious diseases, the regulations on the transportation of live stock, and the prevention of the exportation or importation of diseased stock in the direct charge of the bureau of animal industry. Stock exposed to contagion, as well as those already affected, are included within the inhibitions of the bill. Transportation companies are forbidden, under a penalty of $1,000, from receiving or shipping infected animals for interstate commerce. The owners of cars or pens which have contained diseased cattle are required to disinfect them thoroughly. Veterinary inspection of live stock whose meat is to be exported is exacted, and shippers of meat products are required to mark packages plainly so as to indicate the species of the animal. No slaughter of animals at abattoirs having government inspection is to be allowed on Sundays or holidays, or at night in the absence of an inspector. Inspectors are authorized to condemn such animals or carcasses as are found to be diseased, and, if necessary, to destroy them. It is made unlawful to import carcasses of diseased cattle or other live stock which have not been inspected or certified. The secretary of agriculture is authorized to maintain at the expense of the United States microscopical examinations of swine carcasses at the time of slaughter whenever and wherever he may deem it expedient, and especially with reference to hog meat intended for export. Provision is made for sending veterinary surgeons to districts where horses, cattle or hogs are suffering from infectious diseases.

Penalties for disregard or disobedience of the law are provided in all cases and in several instances fines amounting to $5,000 are imposed.—Farmers' Review.

There Are Others.

She plays a stunning game of golf;
  Is winner at the goal;
Looks captivating at the links,
  And does not miss a hole.
But when the maiden tries her hand
  At making pumpkin pie,
Her victims writhe in agony,
  Give up the ghost and die.
—N. Y. World.

An oath on the lip shows that the devil is in the heart.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Bond investigation resolution came up and Hill took the floor and spoke till adjournment. An agreement was reached that the Dupont election case should come up after the river and harbor bill.

HOUSE.

Boutelle moved to non-concur in the senate amendment to naval bill which cuts the number of battleships to two instead of four. The matter was debated at length but not acted upon. Woodman offered a Cuban resolution requesting the president to issue a proclamation taking a neutral stand between Spain and Cuba.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Pettigrew supported the bond investigation resolution. Call introduced a resolution requesting president to protest against execution of American citizens taken off the schooner Competitor. Senate made some progress on the river and harbor bill. Hill took the floor and spoke against the bond resolution. He held the floor at adjournment.

HOUSE.

Senate amendment to naval bill cutting battleships from four to two was non-concurred in. Tomorrow and Wednesday, the 13th, was set aside for the consideration of private pension bills.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Morgan moved to refer to the committee on foreign relations a resolution he introduced some time ago for the recognition of the belligerency of the Cuban insurgents. It was so ordered. Little progress was made on the river and harbor bill. Hill continued his address in opposition to the bond investigation. He roasted Pettigrew for his position on the silver question. He yielded to Call, who spoke in favor of the resolution. An amendment that the investigation be carried on by the finance committee was adopted, the main resolution going over until tomorrow.

HOUSE.

The house adopted a resolution providing for final adjournment Monday, May 18. A large number of private pension bills were passed, among them those of the widow of Secretary Gresham, the daughter of Gen. Phil Kearney, Gen. Parrott, the widow of Gen. Blunt, and Gen. Kimball.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—By the decisive vote of 51 to 6, the senate to-day inaugurated an investigation to be conducted by the senate committee on finance into the facts and circumstances connected with the sale of United States bonds by the secretary of the treasury during the last three years. Conference report on legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill was agreed to.

HOUSE.

The net result of a three and a half hours' session of the house to-day was the passage of a bill to amend the act creating the court of appeals so as to allow appeals from the supreme court of the territories to the court of appeals.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The river and harbor bill was completed in the senate to-day with the exception of the item for a deep sea harbor on the Pacific coast. This has aroused keen opposition. Mitchell of Oregon gave notice that when the last appropriation bill was passed, he would press the joint resolution for the election of United States senators by a direct vote of the people.

HOUSE.

The members of the house to-day voted themselves $100 per month for clerks' hire during the recesses of congress. Under a resolution passed by the Fifty-second congress, the members of subsequent congresses received $100 per month for clerk hire during the sessions. A bill was passed to quiet the title to the land of persons who purchased the same in good faith without notice and for valuable consideration, and to enable the government to issue patents on such lands. The amount for the Sioux City improvements of the Missouri river was increased from $10,000 to $50,000. Twenty-two private pension bills were passed at the night session.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Consideration of the river and harbor bill was resumed. It finally went over till Monday. These bills passed: Giving to the evidence of private soldiers the same right as that of officers in pension cases. Amending the pension law of 1890 so that the absence of an honorable discharge shall not be a bar to a pension, provided there is no charge of desertion against the applicant. A resolution was adopted inquiring of the several government departments as to the number of aliens employed. Many bills of minor importance were passed.

THE SENATE OBJECTS.

Believes the Date Set by the House, May 18, is Too Early to Adjourn.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The house resolution for a final adjournment on the 18th of the present month is considered in the senate as too early a date. The resolution was referred to the committee on appropriations, and will not be reported back to the senate until the appropriation bills are in a fair way to be out of the road within a fair period of time. It is safe to assume that Mr. Allison will not consider the resolution for at least ten days, and the conclusion of the senators who have discussed the question is that an adjournment will be had not earlier than June 1.

Japan, Corea and Russia.

YOKOHAMA, May 11.—Negotiations are in progress between Japan and Russia looking to joint action in Corea. The chief points under discussion are the return of the king to the palace from the Russian embassy, Japan to have disposal of the troops around the palace, and the placing of the telegraph system in the hands of Japan.

H. W. Schoper.

THE

LEADING - IMPLEMENT - DEALER.

Has on hand a complete stock of FARM

IMPLEMENTS.

Fisher Wagons, Staver Abbot, and Parry Buggies,

Rock Island and U, S. Planters,

Conklin Cnltivators,

Morrison and R. I. Sulky Plows.

Pumps Fanning Mills etc.

A fine road wagon

Only $30.

DAVIS SEWING MACHINE, THE BEST ON THE MARKET.

COME and see for yourself.

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME, Belmond, Iowa.

WE WILL SELL

AT PRIVATE SALE,

Our Large Stock Of

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Plows, Cultivators, Hay Rakes and Loaders, Seeders, Disc Harrows, Planters, Wind Mills and Pumps, Water Tanks, Buggies and Waggons. We handle the KEYSTONE FENCE, the best fence on earth. Also the

Milwaukee Binders and Mowers

At prices that defy competition.

LAU BROTHERS.

Goodell Items.

Mr. Thompson of Forest City was in town Monday.

F. E. Brooks and wife were at Hampton over Sunday.

P. w. Carlson of Pilot Mound, Ia., is looking over his property in this vicinity.

The Thompson rooms are now occupied by Goodenow and wife.

Frank Tucker and family has started for an overland trip to Kansas City, Mo.

Ad. Elder has secured a position with his brother-in-law, surveying near winona Minn. and left for there Monday.

At a meeting held in the barber shop Monday evening, it was decided to celebrate the 4th of July in grand style at Goodell this year.

wm. Schaper had an accident Monday. The team became frightened near the elevator and distributed oats and wagon along the street permiscuously.

Dr Harry Thompson left last Thursday for Rock Rapids where he has located. He has been here about a year and will be greatly missed. He is a good physician.

The house owned by G. H. Richardson one mile north of Belmond was struck by lightning Sunday evening. The people living there were rendered senseless. The lightning entered the roof of the house and went out at the door.

Did you think how readily the blood is poisoned by constipation? Bad blood means bad health and premature old age. DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills, overcome obstinate constipation. Harr.

Bicycles.

The police had a very interesting encounter with the bicycle Wednesday. A local dealer toted about twenty machines to the station and proceeded to allow the officers to amuse themselves in the hope of catching an order or two. when the officers got through two of the machines were badly smashed while nearly all the others were scratched and damaged. But the dealer got the orders.

A new contrivance for the comfort of bicyclist to prevent sunstroke in the sweltering dog days is a parasol or awning which is fixed to a long steel rod. The awning may be raised or lowered and tilted at any angle to suit the location of the sun. It is fastened to the handle bar, and, to offset its manifest advantages, is the fact that it will probably make the owner cross-eyed in the course of a few rides.

The railroad companies, alarmed at the opposition being developed by the cyclers to the attempt to charge for the carrying bicycles, are beginning to back water and in a very short time an order may be expected doing away with the charge. The baggage men say that it will fill the baggage cars with bicycles. Of course it will but the railroad men seem to forget that the passenger coaches will be filled with wheelmen at the same time.

In the Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of—DeWitt's Little Early Risers, for they always cleanse the liver, purify the blood, and invigorate the system. Harr.

SPRING Style Hats!

MY Millinery Store is now ready for spring BUSINESS.

I have just received a new and complete line of

Flowers, Tips, Ribbons, Laces, Fancy Braids, Persian Silks etc.

And everything you could expect to find in a first class store.

MISS ADNA BARTA of St. Paul, a first class trimmer will be with me the entire season.

YOU are invited to come in. No trouble to Show Goods.

Dressmaking in connection.

Miss E. Renziehausen,

COME STRAIGHT

To Our Store

If you want to save money in what you must purchase along the line of

GENERAL

Merchandise.

Onr stock is complete in department; is fresh and new, and we are selling the goods with special regard to the Hard Times.

WESENBERG BROS.

H. SCHROEDER,

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY - MEAT - MARKET.

Carry a Complete line of Fresh, Salt and Smoked Meats.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

HIDES.

PICKLES, etc. Always on hand.

Klemme, Ia.

MARION A. FELL, NOTARY PUBLIC.

M. R. CHAMBERS, ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans at 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farmers' Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on us, we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co,

Garner, Iowa.

25 YEARS EXPERIENCE IN

BLACKSMITHING

Enables me to do your work in a workmanlike manner.

Plow Work a Specialty.

Also do wood repairing on Wagons and Buggies.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. KROUSE, KLEMME, IA.

STATE · SAVINGS · BANK

—OF—

KLFMME, IOWA

Does a regular Banking Business. Deals in Domestic and Foreign

EXCHANGE

Loans money on long or short time. Attends to collections and pay interest on time deposits

C. W. KNAPP, Cashier.

Bettin and Remer.

Contractors and Builders.

Plans and specifications furnished on application.

—All work guaranteed.

KLEMME, IOWA

GEO. S. GATES,

STONE · AND · BRICK · MASON

Plastering a Specialty. Do all kinds of work in my line. I also make a Specialty of bricking up Cisterns and boilers. All work guaranteed and Prices accordingly.

Give me a trial,

GEO. S. GATES,

Klemme, Iowa.

Wanted—An Idea Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer and list of two hundred inventions wanted.

JOHN BAUMGARTNER.

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY BARBER SHOP.

AN EASY SHAVE. - -

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

SHOP IN KIRKWOOD HOUSE, KLEMME, IOWA.

STOP!

If you want any Painting done and see

JOE MILLER,

a painter of 15 years experience.

All work guaranteed.

Leave orders at Shafer & Dows.

KLEMME IA.

Mr. D. P. Davis, a prominent liveryman and merchant of Goshen, Va., has this to say on the subject of rheumatism: "I take pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, as I know from personal experience that it will do all that it is claimed for it. A year ago this spring my brother was laid up in bed with inflamatory rheumatism and suffered intensely. The first application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm eased the pain and the use of one bottle completely cured him. For sale by J. L. HARR.

Honest Prices,
Reliable Goods,
Courteous Treatment,

Is our motto.

We handle Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Hats, Caps, Crockery, Hardware, Ammunition.

Buck's Celebrated Stoves.

TIN SHOP UP STAIRS.

5 pr. ct. off for cash.

SCHNEIDER CO. GARNER, IA.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, May 15, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum In Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1895.

GRISWOLD & CLINE, PUBLISHERS.

Garner.

Elwin Bailey was in town the first of the week.

Charley Doolittle is doing a job of abstracting for Ripley & Co.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Abbey visited with relatives at Ellington Sunday.

J. D. Keat has moved into one of E. C. Abbey's cottages south of the water works.

J. S. Higenbotham, of Thompson was in Garner the first of the week.

Mrs. Leon Prescott and children of Forest City, were visiting at J. E. Wichman's the past week.

There will be two days race meeting at the Garner driving park June 12 and 13.

The May term of the District Court will commence next Monday.

The entertainment given by the pupils of the public school last Thursday evening was excellent. Everything was carried out successfully. The first prize was given to Miss Hanna Cramer the second to Miss Bertha Merrick. About $93 were realized.

Rams Horn.

The right cross for us is the first one we come to.

Most troubles will run when we look them squarely in the face.

It is hard to find a poorer man than the rich man who never gives.

No man can give his best service where he has not first given his heart.

God is still looking for people who can be trusted with money.

God never made a law without also making a penalty for its violation.

Whenever a man gains a victory over himself, the Lord has helped him.

We must know God with the heart before we can praise him with the lips.

We cannot pick out the Lord's own by looking over a church register.

There will be another new bicycle factory in Milwaukee within a very short time and the new factory will turn out wooden wheels.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market; costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. HARR. Read our free booklet on Microbic Diseases.

The wheelmen of Peoria to the number of 2000 indulged in a parade through the principal streets. It was the first event of the kind and was a big success.

One Minute is the standard time, and One Minute Cough Cure is the standard preparation for every form of cough or codl. It is the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results. Harr.

BUY THE BEST

The "DOMESTIC"

Is absolutely the best Sewing Machine made. Leads in latest and best improvements.

SIMPLE
PRACTICAL
DURABLE

For over 30 years has been endorsed by the public as the most satisfactory of all sewing machines. We want your trade and can save you money. Write for free catalogue and prices.

THE DOMESTIC S. M. CO.

298 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Young mothers dread the Summer months on account of the great mortality among children caused by bowel troubles. Perfect safety may be assured those who keep on hand DeWitt's Colic & Cholera cure, and administer it promptly. For cramps, bilious colic, dysentery and diarrhœa, it affords instant relief. Harr.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR BATH.

A perfect Sulphur Spring in the retirement of your own home. A toilet article cherished by the ladies. Renders the skin White and Soft. An absolute disinfectant. Purifies the blood by absorbtion and removes all unhealthy secretions and odors from the body. Invaluable in Rheumatism, Gout and all blood and skin disorders. Each bottle contains 16 sulphur baths

S. C. Cook, Jacksonville, Ill., says: "In our little family circle Compound Liquid Sulphur—Bath is considered a panacea for all ills and one of the greatest luxuries. For sale by J. L. HARR.

Overcoming a difficulty, will change it into a blessing.

Clothing at prices lower than ever. Clothing that is new, stylish and Clothing that is good fitting. That is what makes clothing sell.

The Hot Weather coats and vests are in, and are the correct thing. We show you a line of

NEW HATS.

—Straw Hats in endless variety—

We are exclusive agents for the GORDON HAT just as good as a Stetson hat and costs one half the money.

5 per. ct. off for cash

W. C. SCHULER,

GARNER IA,

THE QUESTION is often asked, What Paint shall we use?

THE ANSWER: If you are looking for covering capacity, wearing qualities, general appearance, and your money's worth, you must buy

THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINT.

Covers Most, Looks Best, Wears Longest, Most Economical, Full Measure.

Our prices are for "best goods" first, last and all the time. We are in the business to stay and S. W. P. stays with us.

BRUSHES,
COLORS IN OIL,
HOUSE & COACH
VARNISHES,
WALL PAPER.

C. S. COLLINS, GARNER, IOWA.

Spring Goods are all in

The Bell Clothing STORE, at

GARNER, IOWA.

When in town call and see us, we can save you money.

For GOOD DEALS IN

HARNESS,

Call on

F. GRUETZMACHER.

You will find a Number One Hand Made Harness Warranted.
Single harness	from 5	to $20.
Collars from	-	75c to $3.50
Sweat Pads	-	25c to 75c
Lap Dusters	-	35c to $2.50.

I carry a complete line in Saddlery and Sandlery Hardware.

Shoes.

My stock of shoes is such that I can fit any one small or large in style, comfort and prices.

Now Is Your Chance.

A firm that has had experience in handling farm machinery knows which kinds give the best satisfaction.

Terhufen & Son

on second street, handle Deering Binders, Dubuque Norweigen Plows, Pekin Riding Plows, Mascot Corn Cultivators, Evans Planters, Moline wagons and

FANCY BUGGIES.

We meet any competition on the same class of goods.

Call on us and get OUR PRICES.

Terhufen & Son.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

A PLEA TO CONGRESS BEFORE IT ADJOURNS.

"Let the Name of God Be Written in the Constitution" He Says—God Will Settle the Silver Question in His Own Time and Way.

SENATORS in this text stand for law-makers. Joseph was the Lord Treasurer of the Egyptian government, and among other great things which he did, according to my text, was to teach his senators wisdom; and if any men on earth ought to be endowed with wisdom, it is senators, whether they stand in congresses, parliaments, or reichstags, or assemblies, or legislatures. By their decisions nations go up or down. Law-makers are sometimes so tempted by prejudices, by sectional preferences, by opportunity of personal advancement, and sometimes what is best to do is so doubtful that they ought to be prayed for and encouraged in every possible way, instead of severely criticised and blamed and excoriated, as is much of the time the case. Our public men are so often the target to be shot at, merely because they obtain eminence which other men wanted but could not reach, that more injustices are hurled at our national legislature than the people of the United States can possibly imagine. The wholesale belying of our public men is simply damnable. By residence in Washington I have come to find out that many of our public men are persistently misrepresented, and some of the best of them, the purest in their lives and most faithful in the discharge of their duties, are the worst defamed. Some day I want to preach a sermon from the text in II. Peter: "They are not afraid to speak evil of dignities. Whereas angels, which are greater in power and might, bring not railing accusation against them before the Lord. But these, as natural brute beasts, made to be taken and destroyed, speak evil of the things that they understand not." So constant and malignant is this depreciation and scandalization in regard to our public men that all over the land there are those who suppose that the city of Washington is the center of all corruption, while, what with its parks and its equestrian statuary, and its wide streets, and its architectural symmetries, and its lovely homes, it is not only the most beautiful city under the sun, but has the highest style of citizenship. I have seen but one intoxicated man in the more than six months of my residence, and I do not think any man can give similar testimony of any other city on the American continent.

The gavels of our two houses of national legislature will soon fall, and adjournment of two bodies of men as talented, as upright and as patriotic as ever graced the capitol, will take place. The two or three unfortunate outbreaks which you have noticed only make more conspicuous the dignity, the fraternity, the eloquence, the fidelity which have characterized those two bodies during all the long months of important and anxious deliberation. We put a halo around great men of the past because they were so rare in their time. Our senate and house of representatives have five such men where once they had one. But it will not be until after they are dead that they will get appreciated. The world finds it safer to praise the dead than the living, because the departed, having a heavy pile of marble above them, may not rise to become rivals. But, before the gavels of adjournment drop and the doors of Capitol Hill shut, there are one or two things that ought to be done, and let us pray God that they may be accomplished. More forcibly than ever before, congress has been implored to acknowledge God in our constitution. The Methodist church, a church that is always doing glorious things, has in its recent Wilmington conference requested our congress to amend the immortal document, which has been the foundation and wall and dome of our United States government, by inserting the words, "Trusting in Almighty God." If that amendment is made, it will not only please all the good people of the country, but will please the heavens. It was only an oversight or a mental accident that the fathers who made the constitution did not insert a divinely worshipful sentence. They all, so far as they amounted to anything, believed in "God, the Father Almighty, the Maker of heaven and earth, and in Jesus Christ, his only begotten Son." The constitution would have been a failure had it not been for the Divine interference. The members of the convention could agree on nothing until, in response to Benjamin Franklin's request that the meetings be opened by prayer, the Lord God was called on to interefere and help, and then the way was cleared, and the states signed a document; a historical fact that all the rat-terriers of modern infidelity cannot bark out of existence! I know that there was an exception to the fact that the prominent men of those good times were good men. Tom Paine, a libertine and a sot, did not believe in any thing good until he was dying, and then he shrieked out for God's mercy. And Ethan Allen, from one of whose descendants I have received within a few days a confirmation of the incident I mentioned in a recent sermon, as saying to his dying daughter that she had better take her mother's christian religion than his own infidelity. The article sent me says: "The story has been denied by some of the Allen family, but the Bronson family, some of whom were with the dying girl, affirm that it is substantially true. In such a matter one confirmation is worth more than many denials." So says the article sent me. There is no doubt that Ethan Allen was the vulgarest sort of an infidel, for, sitting in a Presbyterian church, his admirers say he struck the pew in front of him and swore out loud, so as to disturb the meeting, and no gentleman would do that. I do not wonder that some of his descendants are ashamed of him; but of course they could not help it, and are not to blame. But of all the decent men of the revolution believed in God, and our American congress, now assembled, will only echo the sentiments of the fathers when they enthrone the name of God in the constitution. We have now more reason for inserting that acknowledgement of divinity than our fathers had. Since then the continent has been peopled and great cities from the Atlantic to the Pacific built, and all in peace, showing that there must have been supernal supervisal. Since then the war of 1812, and ours the victory! Since then great financial prostrations, out of which we came to greater prosperity than anything that preceded. Since then sanguinary 1862, 1863, 1864 and 1865, and notwithstanding the fact that all the foreign despotisms were planning for our demolition, we are a united people and tomorrow you will find in both houses of congress the men who fought for the north and the south, now sitting side by side, armed with no weapon except the pen, with which they write home to their constituents who want to be appointed postmasters. The man who cannot see God in our American history is as blind of soul as he would be blind of body if he could not at 12 o'clock of an unclouded noon see the sun in the heavens. As a matter of gratitude to Almighty God, gentlemen of the American congress, be pleased to insert the four words suggested by the Methodist conference! Not only because of the kindness of God to this nation in the past should such a reverential insertion be made, but because of the fact that we are going to want Divine interposition still further in our national history. This gold and silver question will never be settled until God settles it. This question of tariff and free trade will never be settled until God settles it. This question between the east and west, which is getting hotter and hotter and looks toward a republic of the Pacific, will not be settled until God settles it. We needed God in the one hundred and twenty years of our past national life, and we will need Him still more in the next one hundred and twenty years. Lift up your heads ye everlasting gates of our glorious constitution, and let the King of Glory come in! Make one line of that immortal document radiant with Omnipotence! Spell at least one word with Thrones! At the beginning, or at the close, or in the center, recognize him from whom as a nation we have received all the blessing of the past and upon whom we are dependent for the future. Print that word "God," or "Lord," or "Eternal Father," or "Ruler of Nations," somewhere between the first word and the last. The Great Expounder of the constitution sleeps at Marshfield, Massachusetts, the Atlantic ocean still humming near his pillow of dust its prolonged lullaby but is there not some one now living, who, in the white marble palace of the nation on yonder hill, not ten minutes away, will become the irradiator of the constitution by causing to be added the most tremendous word of our English vocabulary; the name of that being before whom all nations must bow or go into defeat and annihilation—"God?"

Again before the approaching adjournment of our American congress, it ought to be decided and forever settled that no appropriations be made to sectarian schools, and that courtship between church and state in this country be forever broken up. That question already seems temporarily settled. I wish it might be completely and forever settled. All schools and all institutions, as well as all denominations, should stand on the same level before American law. Emperor Alexander of Russia, at his Peterhoff Palace, asked me how many denominations of religion there were in America, and I recited their names as well as I could. Then he asked me the difference between them, and there I broke down. But when I told him that no religious denomination in America had any privileges above the others, he could hardly understand it. The Greek church first in Russia. The Lutheran church first in Germany. The Episcopal church first in England. The Catholic church first in Rome. Mohammedanism first in Constantinople. The emperor wondered how it was possible that all the denominations in America could stand on the same platform. But so it is, and so let it ever be. Let there be no preference, no partiality, no attempt to help one sect an inch higher than another. Washington and Jefferson and all the early presidents, and all the great statesmen of the past, have lifted their voice against any such tendency. If a school or institution cannot stand without the prop of national appropriation, then let that school or that institution go down. On the other side of the sea the world has had plenty of illustration of church and state united. Let us have none of the hypocrisy and demoralization born of that relation on this side of the Atlantic. Let that denomination come out ahead that does the most for the cause of God and humanity. Men, institutions, and religions getting what they achieve by their own right arm of usefulness, and not by the favoritism of government. As you regard the welfare and perpetuity of our institutions, keep politics out of religion.

But now, that I am speaking of national affairs from a religious standpoint, I bethink myself of the fact that two other gavels will soon lift and fall, the one at St. Louis and the other at Chicago, and before these national conventions adjourn, I ask that they acknowledge God in the platforms. The men who construct those platforms are here this morning or will read these words. Let no political party think it can do its duty unless it acknowledges that God who built this continent, and revealed it at the right time to the discoverer, and who has reared here a prosperity which has been given to no other people. "Oh!" says some one, "there are people in this country who do not believe in a God, and it would be an insult to them." Well, there are people in this country who do not believe in common decency, or common honesty, or any kind of government, preferring anarchy. Your very platform is an insult to them. You ought not to regard a man who does not believe in God any more than you should regard a man who refuses to believe in common decency. Your pocket-book is not safe a moment in the presence of an atheist. God is the only source of good government. Why not, then, say so, and let the chairman of the committee on resolutions in your national conventions take a pen full of ink and with bold hand head the document with one significant "Whereas:" acknowledging the goodness of God in the past, and begging his kindness and protection for the future. Why, my friends, this country belongs to God, and we ought in every possible way to acknowledge it. From the moment that, on an October morning in 1492, Columbus looked over the side of the ship and saw the carved staff which made him think he was near an inhabited country, and saw also a thorn and a cluster of berries (type of our history ever since, piercing sorrows and cluster of national joys), until this hour our country has been bounded on the north, south, east and west by the goodness of God. The Huguenots took possession of the Carolinas, in the name of God. William Penn settled Philadelphia, in the name of God. The Hollanders took possession of New York, in the name of God. The Pilgrim Fathers settled New England, in the name of God. Preceding the first gun of Bunker Hill, at the voice of prayer all heads uncovered. In the war of 1812, an officer came to Gen. Andrew Jackson and said: "There is an unusual noise in the camp; it ought to be stopped." General Jackson said, "What is the noise?" The officer said, "It is the voice of prayer and praise." Then the General said, "God forbid that prayer and praise should be an unusual noise in the encampment. You had better go and join them." Prayer at Valley Forge. Prayer at Monmouth. Prayer at Atlanta. Prayer at South Mountain. Prayer at Gettysburg. "Oh!" says some infidel, "the northern people prayed on one side and the Southern people prayed on the other side, and so it did not amount to anything." And I have heard good Christian people confounded with the infidel statement, when it is as plain to me as my right hand. Yes; the Northern people prayed in one way, and the Southern people prayed in another way, and God answered in his own way, giving to the North the re-establishment of the government, and giving to the South larger opportunities, larger than she had ever anticipated, the harnessing of her rivers in great manufacturing interests, until the Mobile and the Tallapoosa and the Chattahoochee are Southern Merrimacs, and the unrolling of great Southern mines of coal and iron, of which the world knew nothing, and opening before her opportunities of wealth which will give ninety-nine per cent more of affluence than she ever possessed; and instead of the black hands of American slaves, there are the more industrious black hands of the coal and iron mines of the South which are achieving for her fabulous and unimagined wealth.

And there are domes of white blossoms where spread the white tents,
And there are ploughs in the track where the war wagons went,
And there are songs where they lifted up Rachel's lament.

Faith.

All human knowledge, all human affection, is built on faith. Faith is the eye and ear of the soul. All history is with us as a matter of faith. The farmer sows his seed by faith, and largely by faith a man prospers in business. Business is based wholly on faith. Faith makes national business intercourse possible; faith binds together the church, the nation and the family.—Bishop Arnett.

EFFECT OF TEA CIGARETTES.

They Give One a Sensation of Thickening in the Head.

One of the most injurious and dangerous of new fashions is the tea cigarette, says the Cincinnati Tribune. That this is no empty, baseless story of a new craze is shown by the application made last week to the commissioner of internal revenue at Washington for permission to manufacture tea cigarettes in Michigan. The applicant was told that, to engage in such manufacture, he must comply with the law governing the manufacturing of tobacco cigarettes, tea being a substitute for tobacco; that he must register, give bond and so on, and that the cigarettes when made, must be packed, stamped, branded and labeled, exactly as the tobacco cigarettes, before the government would sanction their removal from the factory for sale. Several descriptions of the tea cigarette have been printed, but these have erred in the presumption that the tea was taken as sold, rolled up in a paper and smoked. This would be practically impossible, as the sharp edges of the tea would cut the paper in all directions, spoil the draft and render the cigarettes unsmokable. To make the tea cigarette one takes a grade of green tea which has but little dust, being composed of unbroken leaf, and dampens it carefully, just enough to permit the leaves to be unrolled without being broken, and so as to be left pliable and capable of being stuffed in the paper cylinder, while the dampness is not sufficient to stain the paper. The cigarettes are laid aside for a few days and are then ready to be smoked. The feeling of a tea cigarette in the mouth is peculiar. The taste is not so disagreeable as might be supposed, but the effect on the tyro is a sense of thickening of the head and a disposition to take hold of something or to sit down. If the beginner quits then, that settles it, he will not try tea cigarettes again. If, however, the smoker sits down and tries a second cigarette, inhaling it deeply, then the thickening feeling passes and is succeeded by one of intense exhilaration; the nerves are stimulated until the smoker feels like flying, skirt dancing or doing something else entirely out of the common way. This stage lasts as long as the smoke continues, which is until the reaction of the stomach sets in. Words cannot describe the final effect of the tea cigarette. The agony of the opium fiend is a shadow to that of the nauseated victim of the tea cigarette. It will be hours before food can be looked at, yet the first step toward cure is a cup of tea. An hour afterward comes the craving of the tea cigarette.

THE MERMAID FABLE.

The Manatee, an Unlovely Creature, Much Resembles the Human Form.

Few people who visit the curio stand on the lake front at Palm Beach, just north of the Royal Poinciana grounds, to see the live manatee, or "sea cow," are imaginative enough to perceive in the wonderful, unlovely form of the huge pachyderm in its cage of inadequate proportions the origin of the delightful fable of the mermaids or the Grecian legends of the sirens, says the Florida Citizen. That these did originate in this monster of the sea is indisputable.

The manatee, or lamantin, the Latin name for which is manatus, belongs to the gems of herbivorous cetacea, or manatidae, its chief characteristic being its rounded tail fin, further distinguished by the presence of small flat nails at the edge of the swimming paws, in the edge of which under the skin fingers can easily be felt. Connected together as they are by strong ligaments, they possess considerable power of motion, whence the same manatee, from the Latin manus, hand. The name sea cow originated in the similarity of the manatee's mouth and nose to that of the cow. The structure of the teeth is also distinctive; the crowns of the grinders are square, with two transverse ridges.

The species, all of which are inhabitants of tropical coasts, feed entirely on plants and grasses which grow along shore and on the bed of the water, the former made accessible by the tide, which after it has retired often exhibits plain proof of their browsing. They live chiefly in shallow bays and creeks and often ascend rivers to a considerable distance from the sea.

Kings in Exile.

An interesting book could be written telling the story of the African Kings, or rather great chiefs in exile. There is an Arabi in Ceylon, and Zobeir, who was sent to Gibraltar. Then there is Ja-Ja, whom the English dispatched to the West Indies (with a badly selected lot of wives, as he complained pathetically), and Behanzin of Dahomey, who was lately indebted to the French for a passage to Martinique. The English, too, have Zulu chiefs interned at St. Helena—Gungunhana and Prempeh—whose future place of residence is still to be decided.

An oysterman of South Norwalk, Conn., came to New York last week with a boat load of oysters. He couldn't find a profitable sale for them, so took them back and planted them again.

Cripple

The iron grasp of scrofula has no mercy upon its victims. This demon of the blood is often not satisfied with causing dreadful sores, but racks the body with the pains of rheumatism until Hood's Sarsaparilla cures.

"Nearly four years ago I became afflicted with scrofula and rheumatism,

Made

Running sores broke out on my thighs. Pieces of bone came out and an operation was contemplated. I had rheumatism in my legs, drawn up out of shape. I lost appetite, could not sleep. I was a perfect wreck. I continued to grow worse and finally gave up the doctor's treatment to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Soon appetite came back; the sores commenced to heal. My limbs straightened out and I threw away my crutches. I am now stout and hearty and am farming, whereas four years ago I was a cripple. I gladly recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla." URBAN HAMMOND, Table Grove, Illinois.

Well

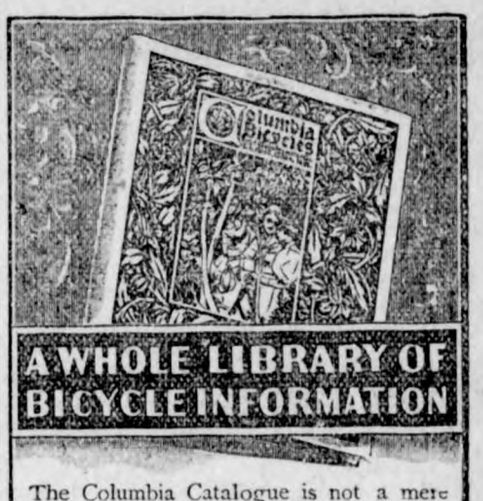
Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills cure liver ills, easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.



A WHOLE LIBRARY OF BICYCLE INFORMATION

The Columbia Catalogue is not a mere price-list. It gives convincing reasons why all who love pleasure and comfort in bicycling should select

Columbia Bicycles

STANDARD OF THE WORLD

$100 to all alike

Your knowledge of bicycle making will grow by reading this interesting book.

Free from the Columbia agent or by mail from us for two 2-cent stamps.

POPE Mfg. Co., Hartford, Conn.

CUT AND SLASH

SMOKING TOBACCO, 2 oz. for 5 Cents.

CUT AND SLASH

CHEROOTS—3 for 5 Cents.

Give a Good, Mellow, Healthy, Pleasant Smoke. Try Them.

LYON & CO. TOBACCO WORKS, Durham, N. C.

WHAT IS ALABASTINE?

A pure, permanent and artistic wall-coating ready for the brush by mixing in cold water.

FOR SALE BY PAINT DEALERS EVERYWHERE.

FREE A Tint Card showing 12 desirable tints, also Alabastine Souvenir Rock sent free to any one mentioning this paper.

ALABASTINE CO., Grand Rapids, Mich.

The many imitations of HIRES Rootbeer simply point to its excellence—the genuine article proves it.

Made only by The Charles E. Hires Co., Philadelphia. A 25c. package makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere.

WANTED--A LOCAL AGENT

IMPERIAL ACCIDENT ASSOCIATION, Des Moines, Iowa.

Special Polices for All Occupations. Cheapest Policies Sold. Write us. Liberal terms to agents

CRIPPLE CREEK Write for what you want to THE MECHEM INVESTMENT CO., Mining Exchange, Denver, Colo.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

Cripple Creek Gold Stocks. Marvelous profits; dividend payers only; prospectus free. Van Buren Invest. Co., Bankers & Brokers. 808, 16th., Denver.

LINDSEY ✣ OMAHA ✣ RUBBERS!

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

VETERANS' CORNER.

CAMPFIRE SKETCHES FOR OUR SOLDIER READERS.

Imagination in War More Injurious to the Courage of Soldiers than Bullets —Opinions of Great Generals on War.

EAR tired Mother Earth has gone to sleep;
Walk tiptoe through her chamber, lest she waken!
Her children faithful watch above her keep,
While she with slumber sweet is overtaken.

Not long ago a thousand tender ferns
Spread over her their wealth of dew-spun laces,
And nestled close to her warm heart, where burns
The fire that kindles springtime's sylvan graces.

And when the blessed Mother longed for rest,
How soothingly the little slender grasses
Threw all their soft green arms across her breast;
No wintry blast shall touch her as it passes!

The maples watched her with a beaming smile
When proud October covered them with glory,
And gladly doffed their golden robes, the while
With them they made her bed—the old sweet story!

And yesterday all day the longing sky
Bent lovingly and wistfully above her,
While soft, white kisses—oh, so tenderly!
Came down and covered her—who could but love her!

Imagination in War.

"In my opinion," remarked the college professor, who rose from the ranks during the last war to the position of colonel, "the imagination of men does more injury to the cause of courage than all the appliances of war yet discovered."

"In other words," caromed a Washington Star reporter, "if a man didn't think he wouldn't be afraid of anything?"

"That's about it," admitted the professor. "I had a remarkable case happen to me during the battles around Richmond. That is to say, it happened to another man, but I was part of it. I was on a skirmish line and I was lying behind a log with two other men—I was only a private then—one of whom was an inveterate joker, and the other was one of the imaginative kind of soldiers. In fact, he was so imaginative that he was almost scared out of his wits, and when the bullets and shells began flying through the woods, cutting off saplings, clipping limbs all around us and barking the top of the log behind which we lay, I thought the fellow would burst a blood vessel or go crazy or do some other fool thing unbecoming a soldier. Tom, the joker, noticed the man's terror and called my attention to it.

"Then he reached out and dragged in a stick cut from the tree above us by a bullet and, fixing a pin in it, proceeded to have his fun. The man was at the far end of the log, ten feet from Tom, and I was just beyond Tom on the other side, and, I am free to confess, was nervous enough to wonder at Tom's manner at such a time. However, I couldn't help watching his movements and actualy laughed to see him sliding the pin-point stick along toward the unsuspecting victim. Having got it at the right distance, he waited for a smashing volley of bullets, and just as it came he prodded the soldier in the back with the pin. Well, it was really funny to see the chap jump and yell and roll over, and we both fairly howled. But it wasn't so funny when the man didn't move after his first startled action and Tom looked around at me in a scared kind of way. His surprise found expression in an oath and he called to the man. There was no answer, and he called again, with the same result. Then he crept over to him and gave him a shake. That brought no response, either, and Tom dragged him around so he could see his face. It was an ashy blue, with the eyes staring wide open, and the man was as dead as Julius Caesar, with never a mark on him, save, perhaps the pin scratches in his back."

"I should think your joking friend could never have forgiven himself for that cruel joke," suggested the writer.

"I'm sure he never would have," concluded the professor, "because Tom was a good fellow and a brave soldier, but he never had much chance to, for when the next volley came he was on his knees beside his dead comrade trying to do something for him, and his head was just high enough above the log for a shell to clip the whole top of it off."

Follow after charity, and desire spiritual gifts.

Gen. Sickles' Medal.

Gen. D. E. Sickles wears a medal which was presented to him by the government of Venezuela for his service to General Paes, who was Bolivar's lieutenant-general. General Paes was twice elected president of Venezuela. Upon his first election General Paes was living in New York and President Buchanan, through General Sickles' intercession, had General Paes taken to Venezuela on a warship of the United States navy for his inauguration. When General Paes died not many years ago he was living in New York. General Sickles was marshal of the procession that carried the remains to the warship which at General Sickles' request carried the body of the Venezuelan warrior back to Venezuela. These signal acts were appreciated by the congress of Venezuela.—Exchange.

First Prisoner of War of 1812.

Mrs. William Gossip, whose maiden name was Anna Catharine Coade, and who was among the first batch of prisoners taken by the Americans in the war of 1812-14, is living in this city, says the Halifax (N. S.) Herald. Mrs. Gossip was born in Halifax in 1809. Her father, Capt. Coade, was a native of Ireland and for many years commanded the Admiral Nelson, an ocean-going ship. Her mother was a daughter of George Moren, a united empire loyalist, and in his day one of the most prominent citizens of Halifax. Mr. Moren, before his residence in Halifax, had been extensively engaged in shipbuilding in New York city, and, owing to his attachment to the British crown, had suffered the loss of nearly all his property.

Just previous to the breaking out of the war Mrs. Coade taking with her her daughter, at that time about 4 years of age, went to St. Johns, N. F., to meet her husband on his return from a European voyage. But the two were fated never to meet in this world again. During a terrible hurricane, long remembered in New Foundland, the Admiral Nelson, with all on board, were lost.

After waiting in St. John's until all hope was abandoned, Mrs. Coade, now a widow, embarked for Halifax with her child in one of the sailing packets that plied between the two cities. Until within a few hours' sail of Halifax they had an excellent passage, but when almost within sight of their destination they became becalmed. With the returning wind came an American privateer on the prowl for prizes, which snapped them up. Their ship, the first prize in the war, with all on board, was taken to Salem, Mass. The prisoners, who were very well treated, were allowed to retain their private belongings, and after a few months' detention were permitted to return home.

Mrs. Gossip retains a faint recollection of her imprisonment. Her husband, the late William Gossip, was, of course, known to almost every Haligonian and esteemed and respected by every one who knew him. Ten years ago Alexander Lawson and Mr. Gosip met in this city. Fifty-five years previously both had worked in the newspaper business in Pictou—Lawson on the Colonial Patriot, on which he began to work in 1828, and Gosip publishing the Observer in 1831. The Patriot was the first liberal paper published in the province. The Observer was the Pictou conservative organ. The real question of difference between the two was kirk and anti-burgher.

Gossip came to Halifax in 1836 and founded and edited and published for thirteen years the Halifax Times. After that he published the Halifax Church Times. In 1857 he dropped out of the profession and thence for a third of a century carried on an extensive book-selling and stationery business in Halifax. He died a few years ago, aged 82 years, leaving, besides his wife, three sons—James in California; William, formerly city engineer of Halifax and Dr. Charles Gossip of Windsor—and two daughters—Mrs. W.H. Wiswell and one who resides at home and takes care of her aged and invalid mother.

Opinions of Great Generals on War.

Arbitration between nations signifies the same thing as the existence of the ordinary judicial courts. It means the substition of reason as a means of decision. That its posibilities are great has already been demonstrated; that they will grow with the development of a disposition to peace is unquestionable. An indication of this tendency may be found in the abhorrence of war by great commanders. The sentiment of Wellington, "Nothing except a battle lost can be half so melancholy as a battle won," was expressed more bluntly by General Sherman: "Do you know what war is? War is hell!" while General Grant, speaking with direct pertinence to the subject of arbitration, said:

"Though I have been trained as a soldier, and have participated in many battles, there never was a time when, in my opinion, some way could not have been found of preventing the drawing of the sword. I look forward to an epock when a court, recognized by all nations, will settle international differences, instead of keeping large standing armies as they do in Europe."
—"The possibilities of Permanent Arbitration," in the Century.

The less we have, the more it means in heaven when we give.

SIFTINGS.

Faithful to the last—the good shoemaker.

The secret of prolonging life is not to abridge it.

There is no tick in the silent watches of the night.

If a policeman does not preserve order he gets into a pickle.

How hard the man who paints tries to bring the conversation around to artists.

Speaking about ornithology, did you know that larks were bred from swallows?

A man sleeping where good preaching is going on must be a good sort of a person.

A Texas cowboy who was defendant in a breach of promise suit, said he was lass—sued.

A Dakota farmer proposes to cure socialism by having the socialists take land. But they won't. They take beer.

What this country needs most is a practical scientist who can invent an attachable steering apparatus for cyclones.

Don't worry, keep your head cool, your feet warm, look out for east winds, the rheumatism and dyspepsia and do your level best to die of old age.

A queer case is reported from Denver, Col. A man got drunk, stole his own trunk and hid it. He complained of the theft, the property was recovered, and he was made the prosecuting witness. The judge being a quandry how to treat so novel a case, decided that the thief was not accountable for his act.

SHORT AND SWEET.

The ghost of a show—Hamlet's father.

A great drawing card—the porous plaster.

On everybody's tongue—the postage stamp.

Central Park and postal cards are open to all.

The best way to preserve a piano—keep it locked.

Every dime museum proprietor favors freak commerce.

Some people are only happy if they can make others unhappy.

Uncle Sam "acts on the square," and lately on the Cube-ah!

Getting his work in—a country doctor acting as undertaker.

The actor who was caught in the act was removed from the scene.

Our new women generally cannot cook, but they can give dinners.

Many a tear can be dried easier with bank notes than with a handkerchief.

The Rock of Gibraltar.

Is not steadier than a system liberated from the shackles of chills and fever, bilious remittent or dumb ague by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a perfect antidote to malarial poison in air or water. It is also an unexampled remedy for bilious, rheumatic or kidney complaints, dyspepsia and nervousness. It improves appetite and sleep and hastens convalescence.

As It Seemed to Him.

Child—Papa, what is a king?

Papa—A king, my child, is a person whose authority is practically unlimited, whose word is law and whom everybody must obey.

Child—Papa, is mamma a king?

Just About Now, For Instance.

Tommy—Pshaw, isn't man the lord of creation?

Mr. Figg—Most of the time; but not when house cleaning is going on.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is taken internally. Price, 75c.

"In this here life we're living
There's many a word like fail,
When the eye is on the office
And the vote is on the sale."

I believe my prompt use of Piso's Cure prevented quick consumption.—Mrs. Lucy Wallace, Marquette, Kans., Dec. 12, 1895.

The astronomers say that it is 200,000,000,000 of miles from the earth to Alpha Centauri, the nearest "fixed" star.

PURE CALIFORNIA WINES. L. Apffel, Wholesaler, Los Angeles, Cal. 2 cases, asstd., freight paid, $7—$8—$9. Eastern shipments my specialty.

Miss Florence Kelly, factory inspector of Illinois, says that 200 children are employed in Chicago stockyards as butchers.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth,

Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.

Every ten thousandth person lives to be 100 years old.

Coe's Cough Balsam

Is the oldest and best. It will break up a Cold quicker than anything else. It is always reliable. Try it.

Every man will count for what he is worth.—Parkhurst.

"A Cup of Parks' Tea at night moves the bowels in the morning."

Rosa Bonheur was a dressmaker's apprentice when she was a girl of fifteen years.

Fashion declares that the bloomer is not "good form." Nevertheless some good form goes into the bloomer.

A jury in Utah consists of only eight men.

HALL'S
Vegetable Sicilian
HAIR RENEWER

Will restore gray hair to its youthful color and beauty—will thicken the growth of the hair—will prevent baldness, cure dandruff, and all scalp diseases. A fine dressing. The best hair restorer made.

R. P. Hall & Co., Props., Nashua, N. H.
Sold by all Druggists.

The Soured Bachelor Gets Even.

"I wonder," said the veally boarder, "if there is any truth in the theory that the advancement of women to an equal intellectual place with man will destroy her beauty?"

"Of course there is," said the soured bachelor, "and there are more pretty women than ever nowadays."

When Nature

Needs assistance it may be best to render it promptly, but one should remember to use even the most perfect remedies only when needed. The best and most simple and gentle remedy is the Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company.

"Hours are golden links—God's token,
Reaching heavenward one by one.
Clasp them ere the chain be broken,
Ere thy pilgrimage be done."

There are Dictionaries and Dictionaries, but the noblest Roman of them all seems to be Webster. It is still easily in the lead in the great race for popularity.

The world must have great minds, even as great spheres have suns.—Bailey.

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

The Salzwerk artesian well, in Westphalia, Prussia, is 352½ fathoms in depth, the increase in temperature being one degree Fahrenheit in every 54.

Sir Robert Ball says the sun is shrinking at the rate of nine inches daily.

Deserved His Fate.

"Step on the trap, please," said the sheriff to the condemned murderer.

"No, I'll be hanged if I do," he replied stoically.

The sheriff explained the matter to him and then both he and the subject were dropped.

"My friends," said a Kansas clergyman the other day, "if God should throw an X-ray on your souls, what strange thing would be revealed."

URY OF CURES

THE RECORD OF
Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

NAPOLEON consulted the stars. Know thyself. Send date of birth and 25 cents to HAZELRIGG, Astrologer, Room 26, 106 E. 23d St., N. Y.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water.

W.N.U. D.M.--1244 NO. 20

When answering advertisements kindly mention this paper

"No Foolin."
ST. JACOBS OIL DOES NOT "FOOL 'ROUND"; IT GOES STRAIGHT TO WORK ON PAIN AND DRIVES IT OUT AND "SHUTS IT OFF" FROM RETURNING. THAT'S BUSINESS.

Greatest Quantity. Highest Quality. Smallest Price.

BattleAx PLUG

The only brand of strictly high grade tobacco ever sold for a low price. Not the large size of the piece alone that has made "Battle Ax" the most popular brand on the market for 5 cents,
QUALITY; SIZE; PRICE.

Real Cocoa

The test of 115 years proves the purity of Walter Baker & Co.'s Cocoa and Chocolate.

WALTER BAKER & CO., Limited, Dorchester, Mass.

BLOOD POISON A SPECIALTY

Primary, Secondary or Tertiary Blood Poison permanently cured in 15 to 35 days. You can be treated at home for the same price under same guaranty. If you prefer to come here we will contract to pay railroad fare and hotel bills, and no charge, if we fail to cure. If you have taken mercury, Iodide potash, and Mucous Patches in IT IS QUICKLY still have aches and pains, mouth, Sore Throat, Pimples, Copper Colored Spots, Ulcers on any part of the body, Hair or Eyebrows falling out, it is this BLOOD POISON that we guarantee to cure. We solicit the most obstinate CURED BY THE cases and challenge the world for a case we cannot cure. This disease has always baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians. $500,000 capital behind our unconditional guaranty. Absolute proofs sent sealed on application.

Address COOK REMEDY CO., 307 Masonic Temple, CHICAGO, ILL. COOK REMEDY CO.

Wall Paper
and
All kinds of
Painting material
Cheap at
HARR'S.

J. H. QUEAL & CO.

Invite you to come and inspect their Dry, Bright, well seasoned stock of

LUMBER
LATH SHINGLES
SASH DOORS

BRICK
LIME
CEMFNT

Oak and Cedar Posts.

We have a complete stock to select from at the lowest price. Let us figure on your bill.

We will not be undersold.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.

SPRING GOODS!

Our Spring goods have arrived consisting of

—BLACK, WHITE and FIGURED—

LAWNS

Light Colored CALICOS, MUSLINS,

GAUZE UNDERWEAR ETC.

We also have a large line of HATS, CAPS and SHOES.
Butter and Eggs Wanted.

SHAFER & DOW.

GEO KLUCKHOHN,
The Restaurant Man!

Serves the Public with

A Square Meal, Fine Bread
Buns, Oysters, Cigars,
Tobaccos, etc.

WHEN IN TOWN CALL AND SEE HIM.

KLEMME, - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

ALEX. KIRKWOOD,

....PROPRIETOR OF....

KIRKWOOD :-: HOUSE,

FIRST CLASS ACCOMMADATION. - RATES $1.00 per Day.

Livery and Feed Stable in Connection

Rigs Furnished on Short Notice.

KLEMME. IOWA.

Locals.

N. Shaw went to Belmond Wednesday.

Cement, Lime, Brick and stucco at Lau Bros.

Harvey Sweigart was in town Sunday as usual.

Jim Forrest was calling on friends in town Saturday.

Heavy work harness from 24 to $28, all complete at Lau Bros.

Ed Dow has a fine well 65 foot deep, the last four feet was in solid rock.

Two good buggies at cost, to make room for our new stock, at Lau Bro's.

Terhufen & Son have as fine a lot of Iron and Wood Pumps as there are in town.

A new tool house for this section came Wednesday, all complete, loaded on a flat car.

John and Chas. Suckow were setting up a deering binder for Terhfeun & Son, Saturday.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

One swallow does not make Spring, but one swallow of One Minute Cough Cure brings relief. Harr.

The business of the creamery has so increased that another wagon has been put on. Chris. Hanson jr. is the driver.

The Tower Cultivator will be found to be exactly the implement practicable to work sod corn. Terhufen & son has them for sale.

Lau Bros. are giving away a life size crayon picture of yourself or any member of the family with every $10 worth of goods bought for cash. Call and see sample.

Special sale of Buggies for the next 10 days on account of being short of room. If you want a buggy this spring now is your chance. Gruetzmacher

Holmes the notorius crimnal was hanged at Pheladelphia, May 7th. He denied on the scaffold the killing of any of the Pitzel family, but confessed the killing of two women.

FESTIVAL.

There will be an ice cream and strawberry festival on the M. E. Church grounds at Goodell on Saturday eve., May 16th., from 5:00 p. m. until all are served. Ice cream, cake, strawberries, bread and butter 25c. Music by the band and a short program at 8:00 free.

The Tower Surface Cultivator has knives that are drawn with a shaving cut through the ground and handles easier, has lighter draft, disturbs corn roots less, raises more and better matured corn than any other cultivator. You can buy one of Terhufen & Son.

A. L. Wooster, a prominent citizen of Osseo, Mich., after suffering excruciatingly from piles for twenty years, was cured in a short time by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, an absolute cure for all skin diseases. More of this preparation is used than all others combined. Harr.

DUNKARDS'

Annual meeting at Ottawa, Kas., May 26-29. Tickets will be sold May 23, 24 and 25, from all points on the B., C. R. & N. Ry., at rate of ONE FARE Plus $2 for the Round Trip. Good to return 30 days from date of sale, if ticket is deposited with station agent at Ottawa before June 1. For further information call on B., C. R. & N. agents.

BREEDERS ATTENTION!

Well bred, good sized horses sell and are for general use.

Mac Michael 11924, is a large, fine, royal bred stallion, that has been tried and his foals are all you can ask. He is speedy, and sound, and weighs 1250 pounds. A 3-year-old filly by him went miles in 2:10 last year. I am standing him for $10.00 this year; next year $50.

R. J. W. BLOOM,
Garner, Ia.

How to Treat a Wife.

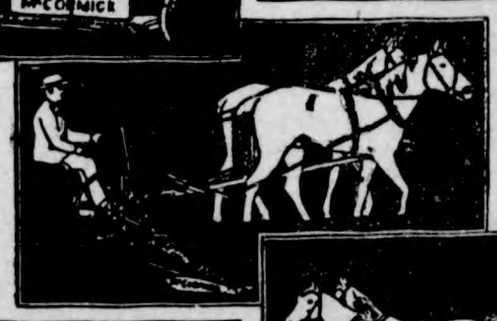
(From Pacific Health Journal.)

First, get a wife; second be patient. You may have great trials and perplexities in your business, do not therefore, carry to your home a cloudy or contracted brow. Your wife may have trials, which, though of less magnitude, may be hard for her to bear. A kind word, a tender look, will do wonders in chasing from her brow all clouds of gloom.—To this we would add always keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house. It is best and is sure to be needed sooner or later. Your wife will then know that you really care for her and wish to protect her health. For sale by J. L. HARR.

McCormick's Masterpieces

"THE THREE KINGS" OF THE HARVEST FIELD.

THE "OPEN ELEVATOR"
King of all Grain Harvesters.
THE No. 4 STEEL MOWER
King of all Grass Cutters.
THE '96 CORN BINDER
King of all Corn Harvesters.



Come In and See Them! They Are Matchless!

The great Money-Savers of the Farm.

AT THE WORLD'S FAIR
They Won the Only Honors.
IN EVERY TEST they prove their superiority.
IN EVERY LAND they lead the leaders.

WE have satisfied ourselves that McCormick Machines are the lightest draft, most durable and most reliable grain and grass cutters built by any manufacturer. We believe they are the cheapest machines a farmer can own—if experience has proven anything, it has proven this. We believe a careful examination of them will convince any man that they are planned with a mechanical nicety and put together with a degree of care far ahead of that shown in any other make of harvesting machinery. We want all interested parties to come and see them. Guaranteed to work where others fail.

GRUETZMACHER BROS. AGT'S.

We also handle the CELEBRATED
Elwood and Dekalb FIELD FENCING
The best on the market. Also, MITCHELL AND LEWIS WAGONS, RACINE BUGGIES, JOHN DEERE PLOWS, J. I. CASE PLOWS AND DEERF PLANTERS.

Hardware and Groceries.

GRASS AND GARDEN SEEDS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mouldings.

And everything used to build with.

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in the week.

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'GR.,
KLEMME, IOWA.

YOU HAVE IT!

Oats and Corn!

We Want It!

and will pay the Highest Market price to get it.

COAL!

We have it, You want it.

Hard, Soft, Illinois, and Smithing.

WALT. BLOOM, Klemme, Ia.

TIMES $1. PER YR. IN ADVANCE.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, MAY 22, 1896. NUMBER 39

Church Directory.

AMERICAN M. E. CHURCH.
Preaching Service, 10.30, a. m.
Sunday School, 11.30, " "
Epworth League, 7.30, p. m.
Every Sunday.
Prayer meeting, Thursday, 7.30 p.m.
Everyone most cordially invited.
CHARLES E. ANDERSON, Pastor.

GERMAN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School 9.30 a. m.
Preaching Service 10.30 " "
Evening Service — Preaching and Epworth League alternately—8.00 p.m,
Prayer meeting Wednesday 8.00 p.m.
Rev. G. HAEFNER, Pastor.

GERMANTOWN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School and Preaching alternately 9.30 and 10.30 a. m. and 2.00 and 3.00 p. m.
Epworth League 8.00 p. m. each Sunday. Rev. G. HAEFNER, Pastor.

REFORMED CHURCH.
Preaching Service ——
Rev. TREIKE, Pastor.

B. C. R. & N. TIME TABLE.

GOING SOUTH.

No. 82.	Pass. - -	2.20 p. m.
No. 84,	Stock - -	6.45 a. m.
No. 86.	Way freight. -	1.40 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 81.	Pass. - -	5.00 p. m.
No. 83.	Way freight -	11.35 a. m.
No. 85.	freight - -	4.00 p. m.

No. 84. Runs Sunday and not Monday.

H. O. ENGER,
Local Agt.

SEND YOUR ORDERS
FOR ABSTRACTS
of titles to
J. S. Knauss, Abstracter.
Owner of Complete set,
Lands and Town Lots.
Titles Perfected. Promptness and Accuracy
GUARANTEED
GARNER, IOWA.

A. L. SPOONER.
Physician and Surgeon.
Office and residence on Main Street first door west of Bank.
Klemme, Iowa.

H. E. PEITZKE
IS THE BLACKSMITH
THAT
Will do your work well.
He also does wood work.
HIS
Prices are right,
AND
Experience great.
KLEMME, IOWA.

KLEMME - DRAY - LINE.
H. & S. NISSEN,
Proprietors.
Draying and teaming of all kinds done on short notice.
GIVE US A CALL.

Local Mention.

A. H. Wesenberg returned Saturday from Popejoy.

Bicycles repared on short notice at Shafer and Dow's.

A fine assortment of baby carriages at E. P. Schaefers.

Wagon Boxes by the wholesale from 10.50 to $12.50 at Lau Bros.

Wes. Merten of Garner, was doing business in town, Tuesday.

Enger, Remer and John Baumgartner drove to Goodell Sunday.

H. A. Sweigart and John Stibal of Goodell, attended the band sociable Tuesday night.

Scott Jackson has been found guilty of the murder of Pearl Bryan, and sentenced to hang.

Binding Twine, superior sisal, pure manilla and standard, all new, at bottom prices. at Lau Bros.

H. M. Andreson is treating his house to a coat of paint, which adds greatly to its appearance.

The creamery is gaining in the amount of butter made, rapidly. Last week they made 3000lbs.

M. G. Ripley of Garner, did business in Klemme Saturday. He was a pleasant caller at this office while in town.

John Suckow was drawn as a juror at Garner. He went up Tuesday and got excused on account of his foot and the school.

Miss Mattie Hubbard was to have a birthday party Saturday night but on account of the bad weather it was indifinitely postponed.

Eczema is a frightful affliction, but like all other skin diseases it can be permanently cured by applicationr of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It never fails to cure Piles. Harr.

Enger and Kluckhohn made a trip to Clear Lake Tuesday evening on a railroad velocipede to try the fishing. We think they had the usual luck with the addition of blisters on their hands.

Phillip Schneider has sold his building to Mr. A. Snyder who will move it onto some lots in town for a dwelling. Phillip moved his photograph Apparatus to Garner Tuesday eveneng.

The Band sociable was a success both sociably and financially. The attendance was good and all enjoyed themselves. The band discoursed several selections very creditably. The receipts were $16.60.

C. W. Knapp returned from Illinois Wednesday evening. He say's they are having about the same kind of weather about Galena that we are having here: plenty of rain. Charles takes his position again in the bank and expects to remain here.

Henry Gruetzmacher drove to Garner Tuesday evening to meet his wife who, with Miss Mamie Kaste, of Redfield S. D., have been visiting relatives at LeMars. They returned with Mrs. Chas. Gruetzmacher from Redfield last Wednesday, and went to LeMars.

RePublican National Convention At St. Louis, June 16th.

ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP from all stations on the B., C. R. & N. Ry. Tickets on sale June 13, 14 and 15, good to return until and including June 21st. Call on B.. C. R. & N. agents for further information. 6 16

E. P. Schaefer has been at Cedar Rapids several days this week attending the annual Convention of the Iowa State Funeral Directors Association and a series of Lecturer on Embalming and Disinfecting by that Eminent and Practical Lectures and Demonstrator. W. P. Hohnschbuh, President of the National Funeral Directors Association.

For every quarter in a man's pocket there are a dozen uses; and to each one in such a way as to derive the greatest benefit is a question every one must solve for himself. We believe, however, that no better use could be made of one of these quarters than to exchange it for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, a medicine that every family shoul be provided with. For sale by J. L. HARR.

Additional Locals.

Genuine Hand Made Harness only $27, at Lau Bros.

H. W. Shoper made a flying trip to Garner, Tuesday.

Chas. Suckow was on duty at Shafer & Dows Saturday.

The finest Single Harness in town for only $4, at Lau Bros.

Miss Adna Barta went to Garner Wednesday, on business.

J. D. Fell, of Garner, while in town Wednesday made us a call.

Mrs. Nora Mulkins of Goodell was a guest at our home Friday night.

For sale one second hand Case stirring plow, cheap. H. E. Peitzke.

Ice cream every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon at Geo. Kluckhon's.

Call at Terhufen & Son and see the Johnson self feeder for threshing Machine, best on the market.

Wanted.

1000 dozen eggs and 500 lbs butter in exchange for Wall Paper and Paints. Shafer & Dow.

A Remer had a little experience with a railroad velocipede Saturday. He came back from Garner on the train.

Next Sunday is Memorial Sunday and a Memorial Sermon will be the order of the day at the Am. M. E. Church.

J. P. Larson is building a hog-house moving his front fence out to take in the rest of his front yard and making various other improving.

A. B. Shafer and Bert Hess come in with four horses on their wagon Saturday night. They got wet and mud all over, carrying the things from the wagon, which was stuck in the mud.

The Ice Cream and Strawberry Festival which we announced for last Saturday eve on the M. E. Church grounds at Goodell was postponed on account of the rain and will be held Sat. 23rd.

Mrs. R. DeYoung, Middleburg, Ia., writes, I have used One Minute Cough Cure for six years, both for myself and children, and I consider it the quickest acting and most satisfactory Cough Cure I ever used. Harr.

The cyclers of Belmond have organized a bicycle club, and rented a piece of ground for a track. They will have a street parade once each week. That is just what our cyclers should do. Who will start the move?

Miss Lue Bowen went to Garner Friday evening to attend a party given by Miss Fannie Richards. She reports a splendid time, with a large attendance and plenty of cake, fruit, ice cream, and Kisses as refreshments, all which she enjoyed very much, for she was not very hungry.

The Corwith Hustler reports a new real estate and loan ffrm, styled, A W. Schmalle & Co. The firm have purchased a tract adjoining the town of Corwith, and will lay it out into town lots. We all know Al Schmalle and wish him success in his new enterprise.

HOUSE FOR SALE.

A house for sale in Klemme containing seven nice rooms, with one and one-half acres of land. A good barn, trees, well, and cistern, House heated by a furnace. Also all household goods such as furniture, carpet, chairs, organ, etc; also horse. buggy, harness and robe. For further particulars and terms, write or call on C. W. Knapp. Klemme. Ia.

Hotel Orleans

At Spirit Lake, the great Iowa summer resort, will be opened for the fishing season May 15th, and for the regular summer season June 25th. The hotel and surroundings have been greatly improved and many new attractions have been added to this popular resort. A beautiful half-tone circular descriptive of Spirit Lake and Hotel Orleans will be sent to any address by the undersigned.

C. S. ABELL,
Mgr. Hotel Orleans,
Orleans P. O. Dickenson Co. Ia.
e 6 30

GO TO LAU BROS.
for bargains in

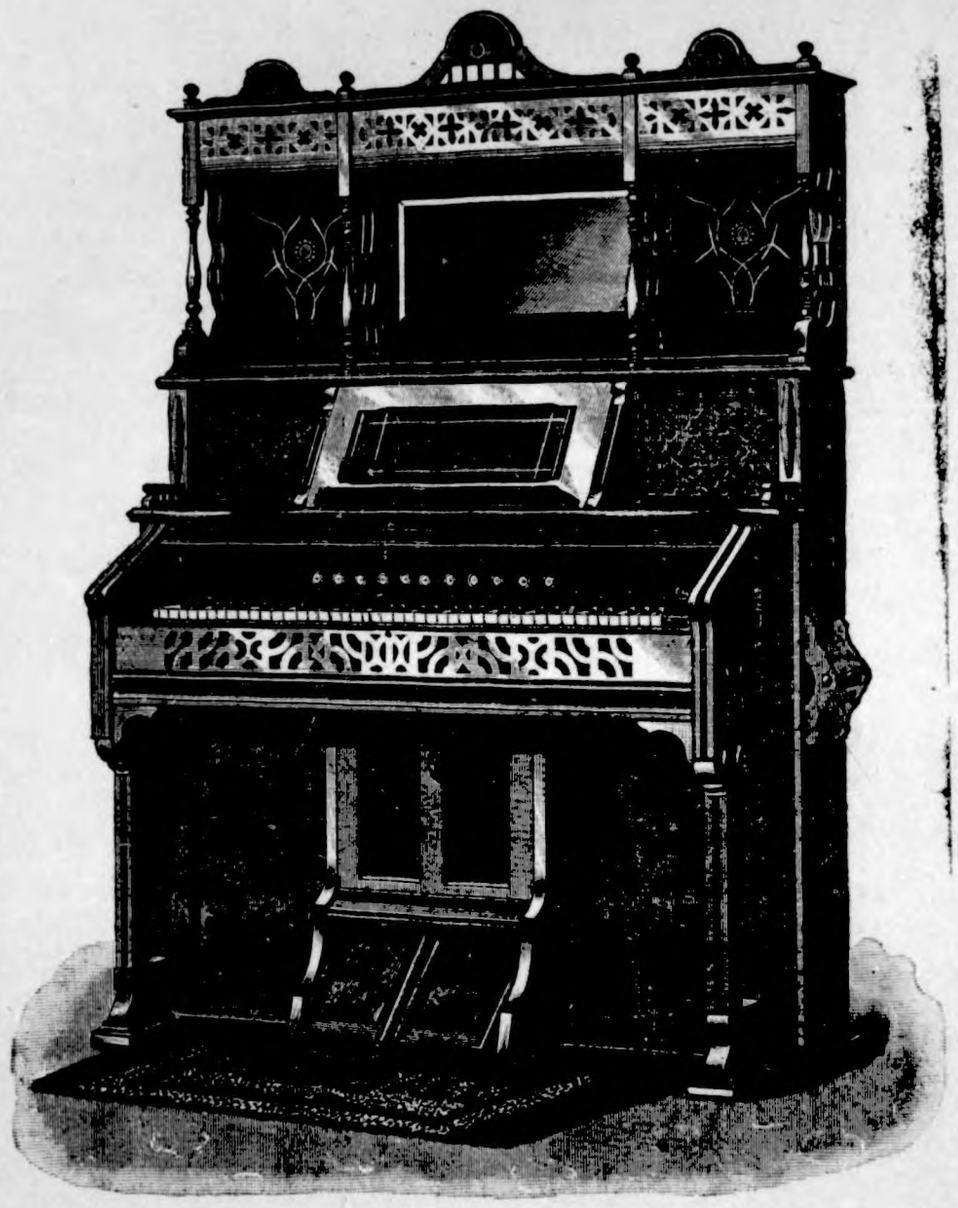
SHOES.
We have a new line of shoes and are selling them at bottom prices.

DRY GOODS.
Our line of dry goods is complete.
New spring goods arriving almost daily

SPRING UNDERWEAR.
We have an extra quality of gauze, that we are selling at 60 cents per suit. You cant beat it. Come and see.

MACKINTOSH'S.
We can fit you at from $4.00 up as you want.

PRODUCE,
always taken in exchange at the highest market price,



For Organs, Pianos, Sewing Machines and FURNITURE,
GO TO
E. P. SCHAEFER

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, - - - IOWA

Holmes' last request was for plenty of rope, and he got it.

War news from Africa ought to be accompanied by a pronouncing dictionary.

When the British gaze upon thousands of approaching Matabeles, the prospect is dark.

Buffalo Bill says he is going to leave the stage, meaning, no doubt, the old Deadwood stage.

The people of Mexico are very accommodating to try our embezzlers. We could no do as much for Mexico.

George Gould would better look after his little brother Howard or the young innocent will be getting married before he's 40.

A scientific exchange says that "the woman with blue eyes is always to be trusted." It is different with the man who has a red nose.

Count von Kotze, who recently killed Baron von Schraeder in a duel, sent a floral wreath to decorate the bier of his unfortunate antagonist.

Chinese naval or marine accidents are about the only things in modern times that are quite as disastrous as English colliery explosions.

The Turks seem to have killed everybody in Armenia, and are now beginning on Crete. Fifty persons were killed and wounded on the island last week in a two days' fight.

Helen Dauvray is married again, and the fact naturally suggests the thought that if actresses changed names whenever they change husbands it would be very hard to keep track of them.

Ephraim Brick, of South Bend, Ind., has been sent to the penitentiary for two years for the murder of Adam Wunderlich. It seems appropriate that a brick should be put inside a wall.

New York's legislature passed the Greater New York bill over the vetoes of the mayors of Brooklyn and the City of New York. This is something like having greatness thrust on a town.

A deputation of farmers and graziers from Norfolk and Suffolk, Thursday, waited upon the president of the British Board of Agriculture, to urge the government to abandon the Cattle diseases bill, which aims to regulate the importation of cattle from Canada. The deputation contended that there is no disease in Canadian cattle and no danger in their importation. The president's reply was unpromising. He said it was useless to send a commission to Canada.

For eight years the mileage of annual railway construction in the United States has been steadily decreasing. From nearly 13,000 miles of track laid in the wonderful year of 1887, the totals have gone down by thousands and hundreds, until 1895 touched the lowest round for twenty years by adding only 1,803 miles to our railway system. But this does not mean that the demand for railways is nearly supplied and that construction will continue to decrease. On the contrary, there is room and will be need for additions far greater than the entire present mileage of the country.

J. J. Coleman of Middletown, N. Y., is certainly a victim of misplaced confidence. A short time ago he fell in love with a very beautiful young lady and married her. Soon after the knot was tied the bride induced him to deed all of his property to her. Everything went lovely till the other day when he complained to his wife about a visitor she had, whereupon the young bride became so angry that she ordered Mr. Coleman out of the house bag and baggage. Poor Coleman had to go, and at last accounts was still out in the cold world, wishing he had his life to live over.

The postoffice department has called upon the secretary of agriculture for assistance. Under instructions from congress Mr. Morton has purchased an enormous quantity of seed for gratuitous distribution by senators and representatives. He was late in placing the contract, and as the season for gardening has arrived in many districts he is daily besieged by congressmen clamoring for their quotas. The dealers were slow in sending out the seeds, so the congressmen have ordered the entire lot forwarded to Washington so that they can give it their personal attention. As a result, the Washington postoffice is submerged in garden seeds. The condition of the service choked with tons of seed caused the postmaster-general to ask Secretary Morton for relief by some arrangement whereby the seeds may be distributed directly from the dealers.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

MEN FIGHT OVER A GIRL.

As a Result Nelson Wilkinson Is In a Sioux City Hospital.

SIOUX CITY, May 16.—Nelson Wilkinson, an engineer at the Sioux City Starch works, lies in the Samaritan hospital at the point of death as the result of wounds inflicted upon him by C. F. Norfolk, assistant manager of the factory. The quarrel arose over a girl who worked in the place, named Della Ryan. She was Wilkinson's sweetheart and he claimed that Norfolk had made disparaging remarks about her character. Norfolk on the other hand said the girl was in a conspiracy to get him in a trap and ruin him. The two men fought in the factory, Wilkinson using a plane and Norfolk a pocket knife. Wilkinson was stabbed in the face near the left eye, and the muscles and blood vessels of his left arm are almost entirely severed. His condition is very critical. Norfolk has not been arrested, as the authorities believe he stabbed Wilkinson in self-defense.

DIED AN AWFUL DEATH.

Mrs. Harlan Scott Sends Two Loads of Shot Into Her Body.

CENTERVILLE, May 17.—Mrs. Harlan Scott, the wife of a Christian minister at Paris, near Drakeville, sixteen miles east of Centerville, in Davis county, killed herself in a manner that is most horrible. She has been mentally deranged of late. She borrowed a double barrelled shotgun, and placing the butt of the gun upon the floor, she bent her weight upon the muzzle of the weapon, the pit of her stomach covering the end of the barrels, and pushed the triggers with a stick. The contents of both shells were discharged into her abdomen. Death soon resulted. She was the daughter of a prominent stock man of Appanoose county and the mother of six small children.

HANGED HIMSELF.

S. K. Winne, a Prominent Man of Humboldt, Commits Suicide.

HUMBOLDT, May 15.—S. K. Winne committed suicide at his home by hanging himself in an upper room in his residence. Mr. Winne was one of the oldest and most reputable residents of Humboldt county and probably the wealthiest man in Humboldt. He lost his wife a few months ago. She died very suddenly while Mr. Winne was absent on a trip for his health. This, together with his late poor health, is probably the cause of the deed. He leaves three grown sons, Salem, Edward and Lawrence.

A HORRIBLE DEATH.

Farmer Near Armstrong Has His Brains Torn Out By a Plow.

ARMSTRONG, May 15.—J. W. Fritz, aged 32 years, a farmer, met his death while plowing on his farm, about ten miles south of this place. He was subject to fainting fits, and it is supposed that during one of these spells his team became frightened, throwing him in front of the plow, the point of which caught him in the back of the head, tearing his head in a horrible manner and scattering his brains for several rods. He leaves a wife and two children.

FIRE AT PERRY.

Roller Mills Burned and Other Property Threatened.

PERRY, May 18.—The Perry Roller Mills burned to the ground after 1 o'clock a. m. The firemen had to make a hard struggle to save the extensive corn cribs and buildings in the vicinity. The mill is a total loss. It belonged to Kenworthy & Capen, and was valued at $8,000 with $3,000 insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

PAINTER'S FATAL FALL.

Peter Youngreen So Badly Injured That He Will Die.

BURLINGTON, May 16.—A painter named Peter Youngreen was fearfully injured by falling from a ladder on which he was standing while painting and landing astride a picket fence beneath. He was taken to St. Francis' hospital and there operated upon, but he cannot recover.

J. C. Yetzer is Dying.

ATLANTIC, May 15.—Ex-President J. C. Yetzer, of the defunct Cass County Bank, is dying, alleged to be due to the trouble incident to the trial growing out of his being charged with robbing the bank. He is under bonds pending an appeal to the supreme court to serve a five years' penitentiary sentence.

Cuppy Not Guilty.

ATLANTIC, May 17.—In the trial of W. Cuppy, for assault with intent to commit murder, upon E. C. Brown, a pension agent, in the Rock Island waiting room at Avoca, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Grief for Wine Rooms.

DUBUQUE, May 17.—Judge Husted has instructed the grand jury to indict the keepers of the wine rooms, whose presence in Dubuque was an issue in the recent election.

A MYSTERIOUS MURDER.

A 16-year-old Girl Was Shot Dead on the Highway.

CENTERVILLE, May 14.—The small town of Unionville, near here, was the scene of a most peculiar and startling tragedy. Mame Peterson, a girl of 16 years, was shot and killed by an unknown person, on the highway. The victim was said to be very pretty and wayward. She was at an ice cream social with George Shutts, a lad 16 years old. They started home together about 11 o'clock. When walking in the east part of town, without one moment's warning, some one stepped up behind them, according to Shutts' story, and fired three shots from a pistol. One bullet struck the girl in the back of the head, killing her instantly. Her companion was so frightened that he ran away without giving her any attention. He went up town but said nothing about the occurrence. The girl was missed and a search resulted in finding her body where it had fallen, her head lying in a pool of blood from the fatal wound. Ned Hemphill, 23 years old, and of unsavory reputation who had been keeping company with the girl, was arrested and is in jail. The officers believe he committed the crime in a spirit of insane jealousy, as he was known to be very fond of the murdered girl.

A. O. U. W. OFFICERS ELECTED

The Next Session Will Be Held at Keokuk

CEDAR RAPIDS, May 15.—At the meeting of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, officers were elected as follows: Grand master workman, R. L. Tilton, Ottumwa; grand foreman, John D. Blain, Cedar Rapids; grand overseer, C. H. Churchill, Fort Dodge; grand recorder, B. F. Rehkoph, Des Moines; grand receiver, William Wilson, Jr., Washington; grand watchman, B. F. Bigelow, Walnut; grand trustee, J. P. Moncise, Mt. Pleasant; representatives to the supreme lodge, H. S. Toole, Clinton; William Wilson, Jr., Washington; A. W. C. Weeks, Winterset. The next annual meeting will be held at Keokuk.

Horrible Crime Charged.

MASON CITY, May 16.—There is great indignation in Worth county over the action of John Young. He has figured conspicuously in the courts for several years as a bootlegger. He enticed the 12-year-old daughter of Herman Myers, a prominent citizen, into his barn and, it is charged, debauched her. He was arrested, and has been bound over to the grand jury. The Crafton people were at fever heat, and for a time it looked as if he would not escape the rope.

Damage Suits Begun.

SIOUX CITY, May 18.—The damage suits of some of the members of the Association of Grain Dealers of Northwest Iowa against the different railroads of the northwestern part of the state to recover alleged overcharges, have been filed for record in the office of the clerk of courts.

CASUALTIES.

John Webloom, a Coalville miner, died at Ft. Dodge while having an optical operation. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of accidental death from chloroform administered.

At Independence recently tramp giving the name of Frank McCoy was bound over to the grand jury for grand larceny and burglary. He entered a private residence at noon and stole a gold watch.

At Oskaloosa recently the house of Alderman Baumgart was partially burned at midnight. In the basement was a room fixed up and used as a bedroom by Mrs. Baumgart's father, Francis W. Koska. He was burned to death. He was a native of Germany and was 86 years old. The old gentleman was an inveterate smoker and it is supposed that he got up and lighted his pipe, setting the bed on fire, and suffocating before help arrived. His body was quite badly burned. The loss to property is about $500.

Des Moines dispatch: A meeting of the business committee of the Iowa Allison club was held at the Savery hotel. It was for the purpose of considering arrangements for going to St. Louis. The first installment on the rent of the building at the corner of Fourth and Walnut streets in St. Louis, which is to be used by the club, was ordered paid. The plan is to use five upper floors of the building for sleeping accommodations and the first floor for an assembly room and for headquarters of the club. It was reported the building will be lighted with electricity throughout, elevator service will be provided and wash basins with water hydrants placed in every room. It was decided to buy 1,000 cots to furnish sleeping accommodations for the marching clubs. It was also reported a contract had been entered into with the Y. W. C. A. of St. Louis by which members of the club would obtain meals at the building for 25 cents each. It was decided to send B. F. Miracle and Amos Brandt out into the state to complete the work of organizing country clubs.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

CUBA.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Tomas Estrada Palma, the Cuban delegate, has received a letter from General Gomez, commander-in-chief of the Cuban army. The letter was written at the general's headquarters of the Cuban army at Iquara, and dated April 22. In it Gomez says: "The Spaniards have sacrificed numberless heads of cattle, not even saving the young. To deprive us of horses, they kill all that come within their reach, young and old, good and bad. To complete the cruel proclamation ordering the concentration of the peasants, thus forcing them to abandon their homes and take refuge in the towns, whether provided for or not, their houses have been ordered burned and their cattle killed. And all this, with their customary hypocrisy, they describe as having been accomplished by us. I am fully confident of the success of our summer campaign and have no doubt we shall continue receiving your valuable support both materially and morally, through your efforts near the American government. It is useless to say anything about operations in general. Reading the Spanish press is enough to show which of the two armies leads the campaign and which is on the offensive."

NEW YORK, May 14.—The Herald's Havana special says: An inspired government newspaper announces that the verdict of death pronounced against all five of the Competitor's crew was promptly confirmed by the admiral and all preparations were being made to carry the sentence into effect when the orders came to remit the papers to Madrid. The transfer of the case to Spain, the Marquis of Palmerola, secretary-general of the government, says amounts to a virtual suspension of judgment for a month or six weeks.

HAVANA, May 17.—Captain General Weyler has issued a proclamation ordering the farmers and peasantry during the next twenty days to transport to the towns in their vicinity all of the corn and other grain stored upon their farms. This order applies to the provinces of Pinar del Rio, Havana and Matanzas. The military quartermasters are authorized by this order to purchase the grain sent to the towns by the farmers at the current price, and if the grain is not required by the government it will be stored for the account of the owners. After the period of twenty days has elapsed the proclamation declares any grain found upon farms in the provinces mentioned will be regarded as contraband of war, and will be seized and the owners thereof subjected to criminal proceedings.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 18.—The Viedomosti says Spain can count on England and France in the event of war with the United States, since by interfering with Cuba the United States enters the colonial sphere. The Viedomosti also says this is a good time for Spain to fight the United States. She must spend millions to conquer the insurgents, and it would be better to fight the United States than to fight the insurgents.

RESPECTABLE BANK ROBBERY.

Bold Robbers Get $11,000 From An Illinois Bank.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 15.—A daring bank robbery occurred at Buffalo, thirteen miles east of this city, the cashier being bound and gagged and $11,000 carried off by the robbers. At noon two masked men entered the bank just as Carl Kloppenburg, the cashier, was locking up the safe preparatory to going to his dinner. Kloppenburg was the only person in the bank at the time. The robbers seized him from behind, bound and gagged him, and then took all the money in the bank, amounting to $11,000. A citizen, who entered the bank some time later, saw Kloppenburg lying on the floor bound, and released him. Kloppenburg could give but a meagre description of the robbers. It is thought they are experts at the business. The country has been scoured by mounted men without success.

CRUEL PUNISHMENT.

Negro and White Man Given One Hundred Lashes.

SOUTH MCALESTER, I. T., May 16.—Austin Pursley, a negro, received 100 lashes and John Prola, a white citizen, thirty-nine on their bare backs. Pursley was charged with larceny and Prola with selling coal contrary to law. The lashes were laid on by the Choctaw sheriff, who applied hickory switches with such vigor that blood spurted in streams. In order to add to the prisoners' agony salt water was used to wash their wounds.

Cholera at Marseilles.

LONDON, May 17.—It is said that cholera has been discovered at Marseilles, France, that the disease has existed for some time and that several vessels have left for America which may have carried the pest there.

DEATH DEALING CYCLONE.

Probably a Hundred Persons Killed at and Near Sherman, Texas.

SHERMAN, Texas, May 16.—A cyclone which visited this city and vicinity caused the death of perhaps a hundred persons, maimed a hundred more and caused a property loss of $150,000. The storm struck Sherman without warning on the southwest corner of the city and cleared a path 100 yards wide along the west end of the town. Houses, trees, fences and everything went before the terrible force of the cyclone. The negro part of the town suffered the most severely. There are probably thirty negroes killed. Ten bodies have been picked up in Post Oak creek. The flood of rain which attended the storm was severe. The town is a mass of mud and flowing debris. An iron bridge on Houston street is completely wrecked and blown away, notwithstanding its hundreds of thousands of pounds of steel material. At Denton four persons were killed and five others so badly wounded that they cannot live. The property damage is great. At Howe ten farm houses and many barns were wrecked. Eight persons were killed outright and many injured. At Justin twelve houses were blown down, killing one and injuring several. Much damage was done to property. At Carpenter Bluff one residence was blown away and four persons received injuries from which they will die. A waterspout accompanied the cyclone at Sherman and many bodies are believed to have been carried away.

SHERMAN, Texas, May 18.—The storm which passed over this section swept the state for over a hundred miles, but its path was but 150 yards wide. The list of known dead is now placed at seventy-five, but when reports have been received from the entire district it is feared many fatalities will have to be added. The list of injured reaches 150 and a large number of these will prove fatal.

One Discharge Caused It All.

PITTSBURG, May 16.—President Burns, of the National Window Glass Workers' Association, states that the action taken at Muncie, Ind., by the thirty-one manufacturers in deciding to close their factories at once unless the strike at the Marrin-Hart works is declared off, will have no effect, and that the strike will not be declared off until the discharged man is reinstated.

Lochren Gets a Judgeship.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—President Cleveland has appointed William Lochren, of Minnesota, formerly commissioner of pensions, to be United States district judge for the district of Minnesota, while Dominic Murphy, of Pennsylvania, is made commissioner of pensions.

Might Have Escaped.

NEWPORT, Ky., May 18.—Seven prisoners escaped from the county jail where Jackson and Walling, alleged murderers of Pearl Bryan, are confined. They might have escaped also but they preferred to stay.

Jackson to Hang.

CINCINNATI, May 15.—The jury in the case of Scott Jackson, on trial for the murder of Pearl Bryan, returned a verdict of guilty, with the death penalty.

TERSE NEWS.

Wyoming republicans declared for McKinley and bimetallism.

North Carolina delegates to St. Louis are instructed for McKinley.

The gold reserve in the treasury is again nearing the $100,000,000 mark.

West Virginia republicans declared for McKinley and sound money; Washington republicans did likewise, and Colorado republicans declared for protection and free silver.

Ex-Police Captain E. B. Carpenter, of New York City, plead guilty to receiving a bribe of $1,000 from the Liquor Dealers' Association and was sentenced to a fine and imprisonment.

Near Cadiz, Ky., during a severe hail and wind storm J. J. Wallace, a prominent farmer, and his three sons sought shelter under a tree. The lightning struck the tree and killed all four instantly.

At Washington recently Elliott's bronze equestrian statue of Gen. Winfield Scott Hancock, pronounced by critics one of the finest of the sculptured likenesses of American generals which stand in the public grounds of Washington, was unveiled with appropriate ceremonies. President Cleveland presided over the exercises, making a brief address. The oration was delivered by Senator John M. Palmer, of Illinois.

An Omaha dispatch says: Reports from a cyclone in Douglas county show that Panama, a village several miles southwest of this city, suffered the most, being nearly entirely wiped off the earth. Not a store building remains. Livery barns, hardware, implement and general merchandise stores were smashed like egg shells, and hardly a vestige of them is to be seen. One man, whose name cannot now be learned, was caught under the timbers of a falling building and was fatally injured. No other fatalities have so far been reported.

THE FATAL GLOVE.

BY CLARA AUGUSTA

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER I.

ARCH Trevlyn had had a good day. Business had been brisk. The rain had fallen steadily since daybreak, and the street crossings in New York were ankle deep in mud. The little street sweeper's arms ached fearfully, but his pocket was full of pennies, interspersed with an occasional half dime.

The clouds were breaking in the west, and a gleam of sunshine gilded the tall tower of St. John's. Arch shouldered his broom, and whistled a merry tune as he took his way homeward. His bright dark eyes sparkled as he thought how the sight of his earnings would cheer his feeble mother. She could have tea now, with real milk and some sugar in it, and an orange, too. Only yesterday she was wishing she had an orange.

Arch's way led past a horticulturist's store, and his eyes wandered longingly over the display of flowers in the window. He must have just one wee white rose, because, only the Sabbath before, while he sat at his mother's feet, she had wept in telling him about the sweet roses that used to grow under the window of the little country cottage where her happy youth had been spent.

The white rose would be like bringing back to her ever so little a bit of the happy past. It could not cost much, and Arch felt wealthy as a prince. He stepped into the store and asked the price of a white rose. The clerk answered him roughly:

"Get out of the store, you young rascal. You want to steal something."

"I am not a thief, sir," said the boy, proudly, his sallow cheeks crimsoning hotly. "I want a rose for my mother. I guess I can pay for it!"

"It's half a dollar, if you want it," said the man sneeringly. "Show your money, or take yourself off this minute!"

Arch's countenance fell. He had not half a dollar in all. He turned sadly away, his head drooping, his lip quivering. Oh, how very hard it was to be poor, he thought, looking enviously at the costly carriage with a pair of splendid grays, standing before the door.

"Stop, little boy!" said a sweet voice from somewhere among the roses and heliotropes. "Is your mother sick?"

Arch removed his cap—some inborn spirit of courtesy prompting him to be reverent toward the glorious vision which burst upon him. For a moment he thought he saw an angel, and almost expected that she would unfold her silvery wings, and vanish in a golden cloud from his sight. But after the first glance he saw that she was a little girl about his own age—eight or nine years old, perhaps—with yellow curls, deep hazel eyes, a mouth like a rosebud, and a blue silk frock. She repeated the question:

"Is your mother sick, little boy?"

"No, she is not sick, for she always sits up, and sews. But she is not strong, and her cheeks never have any color in them, like yours."

"And does she love flowers?"

"Yes, she loves them dearly. She kisses them always, when she has any. And that's not often."

"Does she? That's nice. Just like I do!" said the little girl in a pleased voice. "Mr. Burns"—to the gruff clerk—"here is a dollar. Give me some real nice roses, and two or three sweet pinks. The lady shall have some flowers. Tell her I sent them."

"Who shall I say sent them?"

"Margie Harrison. Will she know me, think?"

"I guess not. But it's all the same. I shall tell her you are one of the angels, any way. She knows about them, for she's told me ever so much about them."

The little girl laughed, and gave him the flowers.

"Don't soil them with your grimy hands," she said a little saucily; "and when you get home—let's see, what's your name?"

"Archer Trevlyn."

"Why, what a nice name! Just like names in a story book. I know some elegant people by the name of Trevlyn. But they live in a big house and have flowers enough of their own. So they can't be your folks, can they?"

"No, they're not my folks," replied the boy, with a touch of bitterness in his voice.

"Well, Archer, when you get home, you wash your face, do! It's so dirty."

The boy flushed hotly. If one of his companions had said that to him, he would have knocked him down instantly. But he forgave everything this little girl said, because she was so beautiful and kind.

"I am a street sweeper, miss."

"Oh, that accounts for it, then. It's very muddy today, and you must be tired. Hark! there's Florine calling me. Good-by, Archer."

She vanished, and a moment later the boy say her disappear within the glittering carriage, which, loaded down with fragrant blossoms, was driven slowly away. He stood a little while looking after it, then, pulling his cap down over his eyes, and grasping the stems of her flowers tightly in his little purple hand, he started home.

Home! It could hardly be called so, and yet it was home to Archer. His mother was there—the dear mother who was all the world to him. It was a poor part of the city—an old, tumble down wooden house, swarming with tenants, teeming with misery, filth and crime.

Up a crazy flight of steps, and turning to the right, Arch saw that the door of his mother's room was half open, and the storm had beaten in on the floor. It was all damp and dismal, and such an indescribable air of desolation over everything! Arch's heart beat a little slower as he went in. His mother sat in an arm chair by the window, an uncovered box in her lap, and a miniature locket clasped in her hand.

"Oh, mother! mother dearest!" cried Arch, holding up the flowers, "only look what I have got! An angel gave them to me! A very angel, with hair like the sunshine, and a blue frock, all real silk! And I have got my pocket full of pennies, and you shall have an orange, mother, and ever so many nice little things beside. See, mother dear!"

He displayed a handful of coin, but she did not notice him. He looked at her through the gloom of the twilight, and a feeling of terrible awe stole over him. He crept to her side and touched her cheek with his finger. It was cold as ice. A mortal pallor overspread his face; the pennies and the flowers rolled unheeded to the floor.

"Dead! dead! My mother is dead!" he cried.

He did not display any of the passionate grief which is natural to childhood—there were no tears in his feverish eyes. He took her cold hands in his own, and stood there all night long, smoothing back the beautiful hair and talking to her as one would talk to a sick child.

It was thus that Mat Miller found him the next morning. Mat was a little older than himself—a street sweeper, also. She and Arch had always been good friends; they sympathized with each other when bad luck was on them, and they cheered lustily when fortune smiled.

"Hurrah, Arch!" cried Mat, as she burst into the room; "it rains again, and we shall get a harvest! Good gracious, Arch! is—your—mother—dead?"

"Hush!" said the boy, putting down the cold hand; "I have been trying to warm her all night, but it's no use. Only just feel how like ice my hands are. I wish I was as cold all over, and then they would let me stay with my mother."

"Oh, Arch!" cried the girl, sinking down beside him on the desolate hearth, "it's a hard world to live in. I wonder if, when folks be dead, they have to sweep crossings, and be kicked and be cuffed round by old grandmas when they don't get no pennies? If they don't then I wish I was dead, too, Arch!"

"I suppose it's wicked, Mat. She used to say so. She told me never to get tired of waiting for God's own time—her very words, Mat. Well, now her time has come, and I am all alone—all alone! Oh, mother—mother!" He threw himself down before the dead woman, and his form shook with emotion, but not a tear came to his eyes. Only that hard, stony look of hopeless despair. Mat crept up to him and took his head in her lap, smoothing softly the matted chestnut hair.

"Don't take on so, Arch, don't!" she cried, the tears running down over her sunburnt face. "I'll be a mother to ye, Arch! I will, indeed! I know I'm a little brat, but I love you, Arch, and some time, when we get bigger, I'll marry you, Arch, and we'll live in the country, where there's birds and flowers, and it's just like the park all round. Don't feel so, don't!"

Arch pressed the dirty little hands that fluttered about him—for, next to his mother, he loved Mat.

"I will go out now and call somebody," she said; "there's Mrs. Hill and Peggy Sullivan, if she ain't drunk. Either of them will come!" And a few minutes later the room was filled with the rude neighbors.

They did not think it necessary to call a coroner. She had been ailing for a long time. Heart complaint, the physician said—and she had probably died in one of those spasms to which she was subject. So they robed her for the grave, and when all was done, Arch stole in and laid the pinks and roses on her breast.

"Oh, mother! mother!" he said, bending over her in agony, "she sent them to you, and you shall have them! I thought they would make you so happy! Well, maybe they will now! Who can tell?"

The funeral was a very poor one. A kind city missionary prayed over the remains, and the hearse was followed to Potter's Field only by Mat and Arch—ragged and tattered, but sincere mourners.

CHAPTER II.

WHEN they came back Mat took Arch's hand and led him into the wretched den she called home.

"You shall stay here, Arch, with Grandma Rugg and me. She said you might if you'd be a good boy, and not plague the cat. Grandma's a rough one, but she ain't kicked me since I tore her cap off. I'm too big to be kicked now. Sit down, Arch; you know you can't stay at home now."

Yes, to be sure he could not stay there any longer. No one knew that any better than Arch. The landlord had warned him out that very morning. A half-quarter's rent was still due, and the meager furniture would hardly suffice to satisfy his claim. Hitherto, Mrs. Trevlyn had managed to pay her own expenses, but, now that she was gone, Arch knew that it was more than folly to think of renting a room. But he could not suppress a cry of pain when they came to take away the things, and when they laid their rude hands on the chair in which his mother died, poor Arch could endure no more, but fled out into the street and wandered about till hunger and weariness forced him back to the old haunt.

He accepted the hospitality of Grandma Rugg, and made his home with her and Mat. The influences which surrounded him were not calculated to develop good principles, and Arch grew rude and boisterous, like the other street boys. He heard the vilest language—oaths were the rule rather than the exception in Grigg Court, as the place was called—and gambling, and drunkenness, and licentiousness abounded. Still, it was singular how much evil Arch shunned.

But there was growing within him a principle of bitter hatred, which one day might embitter his whole existence. Perhaps he had cause for it; he thought he had, and cherished it with jealous care, lest it should be annihilated as the years went on.

From his mother's private papers he had learned much of her history that he had before been ignorant of. She had never spoken to him very freely of the past. She knew how proud and high his temper was, and acted with wisdom in burying the story of her wrongs in her own breast.

Her father, Hubert Trevlyn, had come of a proud family. There was no bluer blood in the land than that which ran in the veins of the Trevlyns. Not very far back they had an earl for their ancestor, and, better than that, the whole long lineage had never been tarnished by a breath of dishonor.

Hubert was the sole child of his father, and in him were centered many bright and precious hopes. His father was a kind parent, though a stern one, who would never brook a shade of disobedience in this boy upon whom his fondest hopes and aspirations were fixed.

When Hubert was about twenty-four he went into the country for his health, which was never very robust, and while there he met Helen Crayton. It was a case of love at first sight, but none the less pure and steadfast on that account. Helen was an orphan—a poor seamstress, but beautiful and intelligent beyond any woman he had ever met. They loved, and they would not be cheated out of their happiness by any worldly opposition. Hubert wrote to his father, informing him of his love for Helen, and asking his consent to their union. Such a letter as he received in return! It bade him give up the girl at once and return home. If he ever spoke of her again he was disowned forever! He might consider himself houseless and homeless.

Hubert had some of the proud Trevlyn blood in his composition, and this letter roused it thoroughly. A week afterward he was the husband of Helen Crayton. He took his young wife to the city, and, having something of a talent for painting, he opened a studio, hoping to receive sufficient patronage from his friends to support his family in comfort.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Floods of the Nile.

The floods of the Nile are so regular in their coming that for hundreds of years they have not varied ten days in the date of their arrival at a given point. The Nile mud, which renders Egypt a habitable country, is said to bear a striking resemblance to that which every season is brought down by Missouri.

IOWA PROHIBITIONISTS.

Meet at Des Moines and Select Delegates to Pittsburg.

DES MOINES, May 14.—The state prohibition convention met at Y. M. C. A. hall. J. A. Harvey was temporary chairman and Capt. K. W. Brown permanent chairman. The convention selected the following delegates at large to Pittsburg convention: B. F. Wright, Charles City; J. A. Harvey, Perry; Levi Marshall, Jefferson; J. M. Woodward, Woodbury; Mrs. L. A. Bennett, Marshall; Mrs. A. E. McMurray, Des Moines; A. C. Bondurant, Polk; G. M. Adams, Grinnell; H. D. Smith, Jones; Thos. G. Orwig, Des Moines. The committee on resolutions reported in favor of adoption of platform of 1895 and the convention adopted report unanimously. The various districts chose delegates as follows: First, John Lackey, Washington county; Isaac T. Gibson, Henry; Second, W. R. Benkert, Davenport; S. A. Gilley, Marengo; Third, J. B. Griffith, Iowa Falls; N. L. Shaw, Waverly; Fourth, H. G. Parker, A. L. Taylor, Mason City; Fifth, Dr. W. Roberts, C. P. Whittemore, Mt. Vernon; Sixth, J. C. Reed, Delta; T. B. Hughes, Grinnell; Seventh, D. S. Grossman, Minburn; C. H. Gordon, Des Moines; Eighth, D. F. Sillards, Ringgold; Miss Geneva Fleming, Page; Ninth, N. F. Hellyer, B. F. Nine, Guthrie Center; Tenth, M. W. Atwood, Estherville; H. M. Ensign, Boone; Eleventh, W. H. Niveling, Woodbury; T. C. Puckett, Leon. The selection of candidates for state officers resulted as follows: Secretary of state, Wm. G. Wright, of Story; auditor of state, J. W. Wonders; treasurer of state, E. J. Bye, of Cedar; judge supreme court, Samuel Holmes, of Fremont; reporter supreme court, Miss Belle Mix, Des Moines; railroad commissioner, Wm. S. Piele, of Lyon; attorney general, F. M. Ford, Woodbury.

SPAIN'S QUEEN SPEAKS.

Madrid dispatch: The cortes has reassembled. The speech from the throne announces a measure aiming to establish in the Antilles an administration of a purely local character, giving the country control of its own finances, while maintaining intact Spain's sovereign rights. The speech declares Spain has fulfilled beyond measure the promises she made to the Cubans after the first rebellion. In reading the speech, the queen regent referred to the measure voted by the chambers for reforms in Cuba and Porto Rico. Despite these measures, she said, the rebellion had broken out in Cuba because the rebels desired independence and not local autonomy. If the rebellion triumphed, Cuba would take a step backward in civilization, interest, industry and commerce. Cuba could not prosper with independence. The governor general of Cuba, the speech affirmed, opines that the application of the reforms would not now contribute to peace, but, on the contrary, would impede it. Nevertheless, the government had not abandoned the consideration of future legislation for the Antilles to establish it definitely when the time comes. It is said that the insurrection is declining, and would already have been stamped out if the insurgents had not received great and frequent support from abroad. This help, however, would not have sufficed to have prolonged the struggle without the chimerical hope spread among the insurgents concerning the protection of a great power. It was hoped the undeceiving of the insurgents would contribute to the restoration of peace. The relations with foreign powers, the speech adds, are excellent. In the United States, despite the efforts of public opinion in the contrary direction, the president and his government have not separated themselves from the line of conduct and the loyal friendship which have always existed between the two countries since the creation of the republic.

AGAINST SOVEREIGN.

Terrence V. Powderly Receives a Judgment for $4,225.73 at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—A verdict was rendered in the common pleas court against James R. Sovereign, general master workman, and the general executive board of the Knights of Labor, for $4,225.73, in favor of Terrence V. Powderly, ex-master workman, who claimed that amount for balance due him for services as master workman of the order. The suit has been pending since Sovereign succeeded Powderly as head of the order.

Bishops Retired.

CLEVELAND, May 16.—In the Methodist general conference the report of the committee on episcopacy, providing for the retirement of Bishops Bowman and Foster because of their advanced age and inability to stand the strain of their duties, was adopted.

Caravels Given Away.

CHICAGO, May 15.—The Spanish caravels which came over during the World's Fair have been given to Field museum, and will hereafter float in the lagoon directly in front of the museum.

ARMY HARDSHIPS.

NO ONE BUT A VETERAN CAN REALIZE THE SUFFERINGS FROM ARMY LIFE.

From the Farmers' Voice, Chicago, Ill.

Edson A. Wood, who now lives at 990 Washington boulevard, Chicago, Ill., was born on a farm in Wyoming county, N. Y., fifty years ago. As a young man he suffered two sun strokes in the fields. When the war broke out, he joined the 57th Illinois Volunteers, with which he served two years when sickness forced his discharge. The effects of the sun stroke and his army life undermined his health, and he soon found his brain, heart and kidneys were affected. For eight years he was with the West Chicago Street Car Company, but was forced to seek lighter work, as the exposure increased his bronchial and asthmatic troubles. He then engaged with the Pan Handle Railroad Company. For six years he served them in different capacities. His constitution gradually but surely breaking down, strange dizzy spells becoming more frequent, he finally sought relief in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He said:

"It was some time about a year ago when I was very poorly, that my head was giving me a great deal of trouble; dizzy spells, aches and queer feelings, and then I also had a strange feeling of uncertainty in the use of my lower limbs when walking.

"Physicians examined my condition and were of the opinion that I had all the first systems of locomotor ataxia, and I believe they were right; also last summer I had a very hard time with an attack of tonsilitis and neuralgia from which I did not recover for some time. It was then that I commenced to use these Pink Pills, and had only taken a few boxes when I discovered a remarkable change for the better in every way. The pills seemed to relieve me of aches and pains, the symptoms of locomotor ataxia have left me entirely, and they have made me strong and feel like myself.

"I am going to continue the use of the pills for the reason that having relieved me of the ailments I thought had come to stay thirty years ago I am practically rid of them and will lose no efforts when I have the remedy at hand to keep them rid. I am only too glad to tell all my friends what experience I have had with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and when they see the good physical condition I am in now, although nearly sixty years of age, they will come to the same conclusion as myself.

"The above is a correct statement of facts concerning myself.

(Signed.) EDSON A. WOOD."

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 22d day of January, 1896.

ROBERT ANSLEY, Notary Public.

Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

WITTY AND WISE.

The New Women.—They dress ... like men; they talk ... like men, they live ... like men; they don't ... like men.

Mitigating His Fate.—The Dealer in Pianos—What kind of piano do you want for your daughter? The Father (whose nerves are being worn away)—Give me one that has the most soft pedals.

First Man (just introduced)—I beg pardon, but I did not quite catch your name. Second Man—It's Hawkins, and I'm in the same fix. "Mine's Bawkins. By the way, what's the man's name who introduced us?" Second Man—I don't know. I was just introduced to him.

"Were you at the meeting last night?" asked Taddells of Wiffles. "I was. Wasn't Miss Senior's essay on 'In Life's Battles Aim High,' a wonderfully fine production?" "It was, indeed; but I was more deeply interested in Miss Trivet's essay on 'How to Make a Chicken Pie.' I heard that she received five proposals of marriage before she got out of the hall."

Summer Homes.

In the lake regions of Wisconsin, northern Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa and Dakota, there are hundreds of charming localities pre-eminently fitted for summer homes. Nearly all are located on or near lakes which have not been fished out. These resorts are easily reached by railway and range in variety from the "full dress for dinner" to the flannel-shirt costume for every meal. Among the list are names familiar to many of our readers as the perfection of northern summer resorts. Nearly all of the Wisconsin points of interest are within a short distance from Chicago or Milwaukee, and none of them are so far away from the "busy marts of civilization" that they cannot be reached in a few hours of travel, by frequent trains over the finest road in the northwest—the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway. A description of the principal resorts, with list of summer hotels and boarding houses, and rates for board, will be sent free on application to Geo. H. Heafford, General Passenger Agent, Chicago.

His Heaven.

"Mamma, can we order our mansions in the skies in advance?"

"Why, no, Willie. What put that idea into your head?"

"I thought if we could I would order one without a bath room."

A Successful Doctor.

We take pleasure in calling your attention to the advertisement of Dr. Marsh with regard to his cure for the opium and morphine habit to be found in another column of this paper. The doctor has been engaged for twenty-five years in this specialty, and is well and favorably known for the cures he has made of these habits. We take pleasure in commending him to any and all who need his services, having been personally acquainted with him for the past twenty-five years.

The "five nations of Furope" own 2,310 warships, mounting 88,209 guns, all ready for immediate service.

H. W. Schoper.

THE

LEADING - IMPLEMENT - DEALER.

Has on hand a complete stock of FARM

IMPLEMENTS.

Fisher Wagons, Staver Abbot, and Parry Buggies,

Rock Island and U, S. Planters,

Conklin Cnltivators,

Morrison and R. I. Sulky Plows.

Pumps Fanning Mills etc.

A fine road wagon

Only $30.

DAVIS SEWING MACHINE, THE BEST ON THE MARKET.

COME and see for yourself.

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME, Belmond, Iowa.

WE WILL SELL

AT PRIVATE SALE,

Our Large Stock Of

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Plows, Cultivators, Hay Rakes and Loaders, Seeders, Disc Harrows, Planters, Wind Mills and Pumps, Water Tanks, Buggies and Waggons. We handle the KEYSTONE FENCE, the best fence on earth. Also the

Milwaukee Binders and Mowers

At prices that defy competition.

LAU BROTHERS.

Locals.

Read Talmage' sermon this week.

Heavy work harness from 24 to $28, all complete at Lau Bros.

Bloom drove to Belmond Wednesday and Mrs. J. S. Prichard of Belmond accompanied him home Thursday.

L. Lewis made a business trip to Clear Lake the other day and while there went fishing. He reports the lake about one foot and a half higher, and good fiishing.

Goodell Items.

Sum Eldred was at Belmond, Saturday.

G. N. Wellemeyer was in Goodell Saturday.

Mr. Fuller of Corwith, was in town Friday.

Guy Fuller did business at Belmond Saturday.

Willis Robinson of Garner, visited his parents over Sunday.

Nora Elder of Concord, spent Sunday with her father Tom Elder.

Elmer Kinney has taken charge of Bruce Christie's store at Belmond.

Baumgartner, Enger, and Remer, called on friends in Goodell, Sunday.

Father Lenehan of Fort Dodge will be appointed Catholic bishop at Cheyenne.

Services were held in the Catholic church by Rev. Father Egan of Belmond.

The ice cream and strawberry social last Saturday night, to be, was postponed one week.

Mr. Ingraham who took charge of the station a short time ago, received notice last week that he would be removed.

John Mulkins received word from Chicago that Charley Bronson had fallen between the cars and crushed his leg quite badly. John Mulkins will take care of him until he is able to be removed.

In the Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of—DeWitt's Little Early Risers, for they always cleanse the liver, purify the blood, and invigorate the system. Harr.

Exchange Clips.

A liberal bonus is offered by the town of Thurman to anyone who will estabilish a good hotel at that place.

Mayor D. W. Howard of Independence has resigned his position and will take up the practice of medicine in Dubuque.

A delegation from the Mason City counsil has been visiting other cities in the state investigating sewer construction and cost.

Surveyors are at work on a projected line of railroad between Webster City and Hampton, to be known as the Crooked Creek Railway and Coal company.

Did you think how readily the blood is poisoned by constipation? Bad blood means bad health and premature old age. DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills, overcome obstinate constipation. Harr.

Young mothers dread the Summer months on account of the great mortality among children caused by bowels troubles. Perfect safety may be assured those who keep on hand DeWitt's Colic & Cholera cure, and administer it promptly. For cramps, bilious colic, dysentery and diarrhœa, it affords instant relief. Harr.

SPRING Style Hats!

MY Millinery Store is now ready for spring BUSINESS.

I have just received a new and complete line of

Flowers, Tips, Ribbons, Laces, Fancy Braids, Persian Silks etc.

And everything you could expect to find in a first class store.

MISS ADNA BARTA of St. Paul, a first class trimmer will be with me the entire season.

YOU are invited to come in. No trouble to Show Goods.

Dressmaking in connection.

Miss E. Renziehausen,

COME STRAIGHT

To Our Store

If you want to save money in what you must purchase along the line of

GENERAL Merchandise.

Onr stock is complete iu department; is fresh and new, and we are selling the goods with special regard to the Hard Times.

WESENBERG BROS.

H. SCHROEDER,

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY - MEAT - MARKET.

Carry a Complete line of Fresh, Salt and Smoked Meats.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

HIDES.

PICKLES, etc. Always on hand.

Klemme, Ia.

MARION A. FELL, NOTARY PUBLIC.

M. R. CHAMBERS, ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans at 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farmers' Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on us, we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co,

Garner, Iowa.

25 YEARS EXPERIENCE IN

BLACKSMITHING

Enables me to do your work in a workmanlike manner.

Plow Work a Specialty.

Also do wood repairing on Wagons and Buggies.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. KROUSE, KLEMME, IA.

STATE · SAVINGS · BANK
—OF—
KLEMME, IOWA

Does a regular Banking Business. Deals in Domestic and Foreign

EXCHANGE

Loans money on long or short time. Attends to collections and pay interest on time deposits

C. W. KNAPP, Cashier.

Honest Prices, Reliable Goods, Courteous Treatment,

Is our motto.

We handle Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Hats, Caps, Crockery, Hardware, Ammunition.

Buck's Celebrated Stoves.

TIN SHOP UP STAIRS.

5 pr. ct. off for cash.

SCHNEIDER CO. GARNER, IA.

Clothing at prices lower than ever. Clothing that is new, stylish and Clothing that is good fitting. That is what makes clothing sell.

The Hot Weather coats and vests are in, and are the correct thing. We show you a line of

NEW HATS.

—Straw Hats in endless variety.—

We are exclusive agents for the GORDON HAT just as good as a Stetson hat and costs one half the money.

5 per. ct. off for cash

W. C. SCHULER.

GARNER IA,

Bettin and Remer.

Contractors and Builders.

Plans and specifications furnished on application.

—All work guaranteed.

KLEMME, IOWA

THE KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, May 22, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum in Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1895.

GRISWOLD & CLINE, PUBLISHERS.

Garner.

M. A. Fell was at Belmond Saturday.

Mr. Cole was looking over Garner, Monday.

Mat Johnson of Britt was in town one day last week.

Lue Bowen of Klemme, was visiting in town Friday.

Willis Robinson has been at Goodell the past few days.

Gordon Bennett of Mason City spent Sunday with relatives at this place.

Miss Fannie Richards entertained about 20 young folks at her home Friday evening.

Mr G. N. Robinson of Goodell, passed through town wednesday, on his way to Hutchins.

Mr. Hall, of Galena, Ills., delivered two lectures in the Opera House last Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. The attendance was not large on account of bad weather.

Rams Horn.

A cultivated devil has the sharpest claw.

It is impossible to live any higher than we look.

There is hypocrisy in praying for what we are not willing to work for.

Christ may be as certainly rejected by indifference, as by crying "Crucify him!"

We are all the time making character, whether we are doing anything else or not.

It takes close acquaintance with many other people to introduce us to ourselves.

An awful thing about sin is, that it is possible to fall into the pit from heavan's doorstep.

If God should forgive sinners without repentance, there would be war in heaven all the time.

Many a man prays every day, who never thinks it worth while to strike at the devil with his vote.

One Minute is the standard time, and One Minute Cough Cure is the standard preparation for every form of cough or cold. It is the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results. Harr.

The Mississippi river towns are expecting very high water according to advices from the north.—Ex.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market; costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. HARR. Read our free booklet on Microbic Diseases.

DUNKARDS'

Annual meeting at Ottawa, Kas., May 26-29. Tickets will be sold May 23, 24 and 25, from all points on the B., C. R. & N. Ry., at rate of ONE FARE Plus $2 for the Round Trip. Good to return 30 days from date of sale, if ticket is deposited with station agent at Ottawa before June 1. For further information call on B., C. R. & N. agents.

BREEDERS ATTENTION!

Well bred, good sized horses sell and are for general use.

Mac Michael 11924, is a large, fine, royal bred stallion, that has been tried and his foals are all you can ask. He is speedy, and sound, and weighs 1250 pounds. A 3-year-old filly by him went miles in 2:10 last year. I am standing him for $10.00 this year; next year $50.

R. J. W. BLOOM,
Garner, Ia.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR.
[DISSOLVED FLOWERS OF SULPHUR.]

Natures greatest germicide, its action being rapid and effective. A few drops, or at most a few ounces, will permanently cure the most stubborn cases of Blood and Skin disorder. Cures Diphtheria in a few hours; Canker Sore Mouth in ten minutes; Catarrh, short course of treatment; Granulated Eyelids, four to six days; Sore Throat, one gargling; Rheumatism, short course of treatment; Erysipelas, two or three applications, and so on through the long list of Blood and Skin diseases—Eczema, Acne, Itch, Ringworm, Pimples, Salt Rheum Herpes, Hives, Tetter, Dandruff, Falling Hair, and all scalp diseases, Open Sores, Tumors, Ulcerated Conditions, Piles and Itching Piles. This is not a "cure-all" but a Guaranteed remedy for above diseases, which are caused by Parasite and impure condition of the blood. Full directions with each bottle.

Dr. H. F. Thompson, of Goodell, Iowa, says: "I applied Compound Liquid Sulphur in several cases of Diphtheria which were becoming formidable. One application entirely removed the membrane, and my patients were discharged on the following day. I consider Compound Liquid Sulphur superior to any other remedy for the successful treatment of diphtheria."

Mrs. S. G. Bunce, Belmond, Iowa, says: "I had suffered with Rheumatism in my right arm for three years and during that time tried almost every known remedy, but got no relief. Three applications of Compound Liquid Sulphur has entirely cured me

Compound Liquid Sulphur is for sale by J. L. HAR.

Denver Col., experienced the discomforts of a snowstorm May 15th. The weather was not cold, and in the city the snow melted as it fell, but on the plains it was several inches deep, and was a boon to the farmers, who have needed water for irrigation.—Ex.

GEO. S. GATES,

STONE · AND · BRICK · MASON

Plastering a Specialty. Do all kinds of work in my line. I also make a Specialty of bricking up Cisterns and boilers. All work guaranteed and Prices accordingly.

Give me a trial,

GEO. S. GATES,

Klemme, Iowa.

Wanted—An Idea Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer and list of two hundred inventions wanted.

JOHN BAUMGARTNER.

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY BARBER SHOP.

AN EASY SHAVE. - -

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

SHOP IN KIRKWOOD HOUSE, KLEMME, IOWA.

STOP!

If you want any Painting done and see

JOE MILLER,

a painter of 15 years experience.

All work guaranteed.

Leave orders at Shafer & Dows.

KLEMME IA.

Mr. D. P. Davis, a prominent liveryman and merchant of Goshen, Va., has this to say on the subject of rheumatism: "I take pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, as I know from personal experience that it will do all that it is claimed for it. A year ago this spring my brother was laid up in bed with inflamatory rheumatism and suffered intensely. The first application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm eased the pain and the use of one bottle completely cured him. For sale by J. L. HARR.

THE QUESTION is often asked, What Paint shall we use?
THE ANSWER: If you are looking for covering capacity, wearing qualities, general appearance, and your money's worth, you must buy

THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINT.
Covers Most, Looks Best, Wears Longest, Most Economical, Full Measure.

Our prices are for "best goods" first, last and all the time. We are in the business to stay and S. W. P. stays with us.

BRUSHES,
COLORS IN OIL,
HOUSE & COACH
VARNISHES,
WALL PAPER.

C. S. COLLINS, GARNER, IOWA.

Spring Goods are all in

The Bell Clothing STORE, at

GARNER, IOWA.

When in town call and see us, we can save you money.

For GOOD DEALS IN HARNESS.

Call on

F. GRUETZMACHER.

You will find a Number One Hand Made Harness Warranted.
Single harness	from 5 to	$20.
Collars from	- 75c to	$3.50
Sweat Pads	- 25c to	75c
Lap Dusters	- 35c to	$2.50.

I carry a complete line in Saddlery and Sandlery Hardware.

Shoes.

My stock of shoes is such that I can fit any one small or large in style, comfort and prices.

Now Is Your Chance.

A firm that has had experience in handling farm machinery knows which kinds give the best satisfaction.

Terhufen & Son

on second street, handle Deering Binders, Dubuque Norweigen Plows, Pekin Riding Plows, Mascot Corn Cultivators, Evans Planters, Moline wagons and

FANCY BUGGIES.

We meet any competition on the same class of goods.

Call on us and get OUR PRICES.

Terhufen & Son.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

"BAD COMPANY" THE GREATEST EVIL OF OUR TIMES.

Golden Text: "My Son, Walk Not Thou in the Way of Them; Refrain Thy Foot from Their Path," for Their Feet Run to Evil—Prov. 1:15, 16.

HARDLY any young man goes to a place of dissipation alone. Each one is accompanied. No man goes to ruin alone. He always takes some one else with him. "May it please the court," said a convicted criminal, when asked if he had anything to say before sentence of death was passed upon him—"may it please the court, bad company has been my ruin. I received the blessing of good parents, and, in return, promised to avoid all evil associations. Had I kept my promise, I should have been saved this shame, and been free from the load of guilt that hangs around me like a vulture, threatening to drag me to justice for crimes yet unrevealed. I, who once moved in the first circles of society and have been the guest of distinguished public men, am lost, and all through bad company."

This is but one of the thousand proofs that evil associations blast and destroy. It is the invariable rule. There is a well man in the wards of a hospital, where there are a hundred people sick with ship fever, and he will not be so apt to take the disease as a good man would be apt to be smitten with moral distemper, if shut up with iniquitous companions. In olden times prisoners were herded together in the same cell, but each one learned the vices of all the culprits, so that, instead of being reformed by incarceration, the day of liberation turned them out upon society beasts, not men.

We may, in our place of business, be compelled to talk to and mingle with bad men; but he who deliberately chooses to associate himself with vicious people, is engaged in carrying on a courtship with a Delilah, whose shears will clip off all the locks of his strength, and he will be tripped into perdition. Sin is catching, is infectious, is epidemic. I will let you look over the millions of people now inhabiting the earth, and I challenge you to show me a good man who, after one year, has made choice and consorted with the wicked. A thousand dollars reward for one such instance. I care not how strong your character may be. Go with the corrupt and you will become corrupt. Clan with burglars, and you will become a burglar. Go among the unclean, and you will become unclean. Many a young man has been destroyed by not appreciating this. He wakes up some morning in the great city, and knows no one except the persons into whose employ he has entered. As he goes into the store all the clerks mark him, measure him, and discuss him. The upright young men of the store wish him well, but perhaps wait for a formal introduction, and even then have some delicacy about inviting him into their associations. But the bad young men of the store at first opportunity approach and offer their services. They patronize him. They profess to know all about the town. They will take him anywhere he wishes to go—if he will pay the expenses. For if a good young man and a bad young man go to some place where they ought not, the good young man has invariably to pay the charges. At the moment the ticket is paid for, or the champagne settled for, the bad young man feels around in his pockets and says, "I have forgotten my pocket-book." In forty-eight hours after the young man has entered the store the bad fellows of the establishment slap him on the shoulder familiarly and, at his stupidity in taking certain allusions, say: "My young friend, you will have to be broken in;" and they immediately proceed to break him in. Young man, in the name of God, I warn you to beware how you let a bad man talk familiarly with you. If such an one slap you on the shoulder familiarly, turn around and give him a withering look, until the wretch crouches in your presence. There is no monstrosity of wickedness that can stand unabashed under the glance of purity and honor. God keeps the lightnings of heaven in his own scabbard, and no human arm can wield them; but God gives to every young man a lightning that he may use, and that is the lightning of an honest eye. Those who have been close observers of city life will not wonder why I give warning to young men, and say, "Beware of evil companions."

I warn you to shun the sceptic—the young man who puts his fingers in his vest and laughs at your old-fashioned religion, and turns over to some mystery of the Bible, and says, "Explain that, my pious friend, explain that." And who says, "Nobody shall scare me; I am not afraid of the future; I used to believe in such things, and so did my father and mother, but I have got over it." Yes, he has got over it; and if you sit in his company a little longer you will get over it too. Without presenting one argument against the Christian religion, such men will, by their jeers and scoffs and caricatures, destroy your respect for that religion, which was the strength of your father in his declining years, and the pillow of your old mother when she lay a-dying.

Alas! a time will come when this blustering young infidel will have to die, and then his diamond ring will flash no splendor in the eyes of Death, as he stands over the couch, waiting for his soul. Those beautiful locks will be uncombed upon the pillow; and the dying man will say, "I cannot die—I cannot die." Death standing ready beside the couch, says, "You must die; you have only half a minute to live; let me have it right away—your soul." "No," says the young infidel, "here are my gold rings, and these pictures; take them all." "No," says Death. "What do I care for pictures!—your soul." "Stand back," says the dying infidel. "I will not stand back," says Death, "for you have only ten seconds now to live; I want your soul." The dying man says, "Don't breathe that cold air into my face. You crowd me too hard. It is getting dark in the room. O God!" "Hush," says Death; "you said there was no God." "Pray for me," exclaims the expiring infidel. "Too late to pray," says Death; "but three more seconds to live, and I will count them off—one—two—three." He has gone! Where? Where? Carry him out and bury him beside his father and mother, who died while holding fast the Christian religion. They died singing; but the young infidel only said, "Don't breathe that cold air in my face. You crowd me too hard. It is getting dark in the room."

Again, I urge you to shun the companionship of idlers. There are men hanging around every store, and office, and shop, who have nothing to do, or act as if they had not. They are apt to come in when the firm are away and wish to engage you in conversation while you are engaged in your regular employment. Politely suggest to such persons that you have no time to give them during business hours. Nothing would please them so well as to have you renounce your occupation and associate with them. Much of the time they lounge around the doors of engine houses, or after the dining hour stand upon the steps of a fashionable hotel or an elegant restaurant, wishing to give you the idea that that is the place where they dine. But they do not dine there. They are sinking down lower and lower, day by day. Neither by day nor by night have anything to do with idlers. Before you admit a man into your acquaintance ask him politely, "What do you do for a living?" If he says, "Nothing, I am a gentleman," look out for him. He may have a very soft hand, and very faultless apparel, and have a high-sounding family name, but his touch is death. Before you know it, you will in his presence be ashamed of your work-dress. Business will become to you drudgery, and after awhile you will lose your place, and afterward your respectability, and last of all your soul. Idleness is next door to villainy. Thieves, gamblers, burglars, shop-lifters, and assassins are made from the class who have nothing to do. When the police go to hunt up and arrest a culprit, they seldom go to look in at the busy carriage factory, or behind the counter where diligent clerks are employed, but they go among the groups of idlers. The play is going on at the theater, when suddenly there is a scuffle in the top gallery. What is it? A policeman has come in, and, leaning over, has tapped on the shoulder of a young man, saying, "I want you, sir." He has not worked during the day, but somehow has raked together a shilling or two to get into the top gallery. He is an idler. The man on his right hand is an idler, and the man on his left hand is an idler.

During the past few years, there has been a great deal of dullness in business. Young men have complained that they have little to do. If they have nothing else to do they can read and improve their minds and hearts. These times are not always to continue. Business is waking up, and the superior knowledge that in this interregnum of work you may obtain will be worth fifty thousand dollars of capital. The large fortunes of the next twenty years are having their foundations laid now by the young men who are giving themselves to self-improvement. I went into a store in New York and saw five men, all Christians, sitting round, saying that they had nothing to do. It is an outrage for a Christian man to have nothing to do. Let him go out and visit the poor, or distribute tracts, or go and read the Bible to the sick, or take out his New Testament and be making his eternal fortune. Let him go into the back office and pray.

Shrink back from idleness in yourself and in others, if you would maintain a right position. Good old Ashbel Green, at more than eighty years of age, was found busy writing, and some young man said to him: "Why do you keep busy? It is time for you to rest." He answered: "I keep busy to keep out of mischief." No man is strong enough to be idle.

Are you fond of pictures. If so I will show you one of the works of an old master. Here it is: "I went by the field of the slothful, and by the vineyard of the man void of understanding; and lo! it was all grown over with thorns, and nettles had covered the face thereof, and the stone wal was broken down. Then I saw and considered well. I looked upon it and received instruction. Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep. So shall thy poverty come as one that travelleth and thy want as an armed man." I don't know of another sentence in the Bible more explosive than that. It first hisses softly, like the fuse of a cannon, and at last bursts like a fifty-four pounder. The old proverb was right. "The devil tempts most men, but idlers tempt the devil."

A young man came to a man of ninety years of age and said to him: "How have you made out to live so long and be so well?" The old man took the youngster to an orchard, and, pointing to some large trees full of apples, said: "I planted these trees when I was a boy, and do you wonder that now I am permitted to gather the fruit of them?" We gather in old age what we plant in our youth. Sow to the wind and we reap the whirlwind. Plant in early life the right kind of a Christian character, and you will eat luscious fruit in old age, and gather these harvest apples in eternity.

I urge you to avoid the perpetual pleasure-seeker. I believe in recreation and amusement. God would not have made us with the capacity to laugh if he had not intended us sometimes to indulge it. God hath hung in sky, and set in wave, and printed on grass many a roundelay; but he who chooses pleasure-seeking for his life-work does not understand for what God made him. Our amusements are intended to help us in some earnest mission. The thunder-cloud hath an edge exquisitely purpled, but with voice that jars the earth it declares, "I go to water the green fields." The wild-flowers under the fence are gay, but they say, "We stand here to make room for the wheat-field, and to refresh the husbandman in their nooning." The stream sparkles and foams and frolics and says, "I go to baptize the moss. I lave the spots on the trout. I slake the thirst of the bird. I turn the wheel of the mill. I rock in my crystal cradle muckshaw and water-lily." And so, while the world plays, it works. Look out for the man who always plays and never works.

You will do well to avoid those whose regular business it is to play ball, skate or go a-boating. All these sports are grand in their places. I never derived so much advantage from any ministerial association as from a ministerial club that went out to play ball every Saturday afternoon in the outskirts of Philadelphia. These recreations are grand to give us muscle and spirits for our regular toil. I believe in muscular Christianity.

* * * * * *

This sin works ruin first, by unhealthful stimulants. Excitement is pleasurable. Under every sky and in every age men have sought it. The Chinaman gets it by smoking his opium; the Persian by chewing hashish; the trapper in a buffalo-hunt; the sailor in a squall; the inebriate in the bottle, and the avaricious at the gaming table. We must at times have excitement. A thousand voices in our nature demand it. It is right. It is healthful. It is inspiring. It is a desire God-given. But anything that first gratifies this appetite and hurls it back in a terrific reaction is deplorable and wicked. Look out for the agitation, that, like a rough musician, in bringing out the tune, plays so hard he breaks down the instrument. God never made man strong enough to endure the wear and tear of gambling excitement. No wonder if, after having failed in the game, men have begun to sweep off imaginary gold from the side of the table. The man was sharp enough when he started at the game, but a maniac at the close. At every gaming table sit on one side Ecstasy, Enthusiasm, Romance—the frenzy of joy; on the other side, Fierceness, Rage and Tumult. The professional gambler schools himself into apparent quietness. The keepers of gaming rooms are generally fat, rollicking and obese; but thorough and professional gamblers, in nine cases out of ten, are pale, thin, wheezy, tremulous and exhausted.

Rather than enter the companionship of such, accept the invitation to a better feast. The promise of God are the fruits. The harps of heaven are the music. Clusters from the vineyards of God have been pressed into tankards. The sons and daughters of the Lord Almighty are the guests. While, standing at the banquet, to fill the cups and divide the clusters, and command the harps, and welcome the guests, is a daughter of God on whose brow are the blossoms of paradise, and in whose cheek is the flush of celestial summer. Her name is Religion.

"Her ways are ways of pleasantness,
And all her paths are peace."

Different.

Father—She is a beautiful singer, my son.

Son—Yes, she is, father, but she doesn't sing beautifully.—Wrinkles.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Senate passed bill authorizing state of South Dakota to select Fort Sully military reservation as land granted to the state under the act of admission. The bankruptcy bill passed. Use of national military parks for military maneuvers by state or federal forces was granted. River and harbor bill came up but it was finally laid aside without action.

HOUSE.

The session was almost entirely devoted to District of Columbia business. Bill passed to authorize the secretary of the treasury to detail revenue cutters to enforce regulations at regattas. A military conference report on the Indian appropriation bill was agreed to and the title of Mr. Maddox, of Georgia, to his seat was confirmed.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The senate took up river and harbor bill and agreed to a compromise regarding the deep water harbor on the Pacific coast. It was agreed a commission should decide between Santa Monica and San Pedro. House filled cheese bill was favorably reported.

HOUSE.

House entered on the contested election case of Pinaker vs. Downing, from the Sixteenth Illinois district. The vote will be taken to-morrow.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The river and harbor bill was passed to-day. As finally passed, the bill makes direct appropriations of $12,200,000, and authorizes continuing contracts of $64,000,000, an aggregate of about $76,000,000. A number of house bills were passed, including the bill requiring a year's residence in any territory as a requisite to divorce.

HOUSE.

The house spent the day in a heated contest over the Rinaker-Downing contested election case. It was finally recommitted.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The Dupont case, involving the right of Henry A. Dupont to a seat in the senate, was taken up and the entire day was devoted to its consideration.

HOUSE.

The day was devoted to the consideration of private pension bills. They were disposed of at the rate of one every five minutes, fifty-eight being favorably acted upon. House disagreed to senate amendments to river and harbor bill.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—By a vote of 31 to 30 the senate determined that Henry A. Dupont was not entitled to a seat in the senate from the state of Delaware. This closed a long and animated controversy, which had become one of the most notable contests of its kind in the history of the senate. The result was in doubt to the last moment, and this lent added interest to the final vote.

HOUSE.

The house occupied itself in passing the private pension bills which were favorably acted upon during the two special days given to their consideration. The Hoge-Otney election case, from the Eighth Virginia district, was decided in favor of Otney, dem., the sitting member.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Morgan spoke in favor of further and more decisive action toward the recognition of the Cubans as belligerents. Resolutions directing the committee on foreign relations to inquire into and report on the treaty relations between the United States and Spain, relating to the Americans now under condemnation at Havana, and requesting the president to furnish recent diplomatic correspondence with Spain on the subject, was adopted.

SENTENCES COMMUTED.

Transvaal Raiders Receive Executive Clemency.

BERLIN, May 15.—A private telegram has been received which asserts that the sentences of Col. Francis Rhodes, Lionel Phillips, J. H. Hammond and George Farrar, the four members of the Johannesburg reform committee, condemned to death, and whose sentences were afterward commuted, have been fixed at imprisonment for five years. The sentences of fifty-nine other members of the reform committee, which were fixed by the court at two years' imprisonment and a fine of £2,000 ($10,000), followed by three years' banishment, have been commuted to one year's imprisonment.

IS A CRACKERJACK SHIP.

The Oregon Establishes a New Speed Record for Battleships.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., May 16.—After months of patient toil, after weeks spent in preparation, after trial trips on San Francisco bay and speed tests in the Santa Barbara channel, the Oregon has repaid her builders by doing all they asked of her. She made an average speed of 16.78 knots, beating the world's record.

Sultan Lives in Fear.

BERLIN, May 16.—The Vossische Zeitung publishes a dispatch from Constantinople which says that owing to the sultan's fear that he will be assassinated, as was the shah of Persia, two hundred Armenians have been arrested in the city during the last few days. It is creditably stated that the prisoners have been cruelly tortured.

Presidential Figures.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—In his weekly statement on McKinley delegates, General Grosvenor claims that McKinley has 548 votes. Congressman Aldrich, a Reed supporter, says McKinley has, exclusive of contested cases, 361 votes, and that he must rely upon the contested cases to give him the nomination.

Boils

It is often difficult to convince people their blood is impure, until dreadful carbuncles, abscesses, boils, scrofula or salt rheum, are painful proof of the fact. It is wisdom now, or whenever there is any indication of blood, to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and prevent such eruptions and suffering.

Impure

"I had a dreadful carbuncle abscess, red, fiery, fierce and sore. The doctor attended me over seven weeks. When the abscess broke, the pains were terrible, and I thought I should not live through it. I heard and read so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I decided to take it, and my husband, who was suffering with boils, took it also. It soon purified our built me up and restored my health so that, although the doctor said I would not be able to work hard, I have since done the work for 20 people. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured my husband of the boils, and we regard it a wonderful medicine." MRS. ANNA PETERSON, Latimer, Kansas.

Blood

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1.

Hood's Pills cure liver ills, easy to take, easy to operate. 25 cents.

If Your Dealer will not sell you the S·H·& M· REGISTERED TRADE MARK. BIAS VELVETEEN SKIRT BINDINGS we will.

Write us for free samples showing labels and materials.

"Home Dressmaking," a new book by Miss Emma M. Hooper, of the Ladies' Home Journal, telling how to put on Bias Velveteen Skirt Bindings sent for 25c., postage paid.

S. H. & M. Co., P. O. Box 699, N. Y. City.

Nature's Beauty Spots

Are nowhere so prominent as in the East.

The Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway

will take you there without fatigue or annoyance. Visit Chautauqua, Niagara, the Adirondacks, Catskills, Lake George, Thousand Islands, the Hudson or Sea Shore resorts. An ideal vacation. Refreshing rest, with variety of choice enough to satisfy every one. Booklet, giving complete information as to routes, rates, etc., FREE!

K. WILBER, Western P. A. CHICAGO

CUT AND SLASH

SMOKING TOBACCO, 2 oz. for 5 Cents.

CUT AND SLASH

CHEROOTS—3 for 5 Cents.

Give a Good, Mellow, Healthy, Pleasant Smoke. Try Them.

LYON & CO. TOBACCO WORKS, Durham, N. C.

DES MOINES TENT & AWNING CO.

TENTS FOR RENT

MFRS OF ALL KINDS OF CANVAS GOODS

WRITE FOR CATALOGUE & PRICES.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS.

but sell direct to the consumer at wholesale prices. Ship anywhere for examination before sale. Everything warranted. 100 styles of Carriages, 90 styles of Harness, 41 styles Riding Saddles. Write for catalogue.

W. B. PRATT, Secy. ELKHART CARRIAGE & HARNESS MFG. CO., ELKHART, IND.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

Send us 22 cents in stamps and we will mail you a Handsome Sterling Silver Plated Souvenir Tea Spoon with picture of Ex-Gov. McKinley of Ohio engraved in bowl. Or for 27 cents we will send the same spoon with Gold Plated Bowl. Four assorted handle designs. We also have bowl engravings of all Presidents and noted Generals. Send for Catalogue. Agents wanted.

NIAGARA FALLS SOUVENIR CO.,
Niagara Falls, N. Y.

SCRAPS.

"Every game will be square" is the assuring, but somewhat astonishing announcement in the advertisement of a church fair in a Maine town.

Several public school teachers in Calhoun county, Michigan, have been asked by the board of examiners either to stop dancing and card playing or resign their places.

A novel means of defense has been tried at the town of Holguin, Cuba. As proof against a sudden onslaught that town has been surrounded by thousands of yards of barbed wire.

Resigned to It.

Carrott—Say, old man, you are looking a hundred per cent better than you were a year ago.

Barrett—Yes, I was worrying about my debts then.

"All paid up now, eh?"

"No. They have grown so that I know there is no use trying to pay. It is a great load off my mind."

The Significance of a Gray Overcoat

Upon the tongue, yellowness of the skin and eyeballs, nausea and uneasiness beneath the right ribs and shoulder blade, is that the victim of these discomforts is bilious. The "proper caper" under such circumstances is to take Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which also cures chills and fever, constipation, dyspepsia, rheumatic and kidney complaints and nervousness.

Ineffective.

"Mamma, teacher whipped a boy to-day for whispering in school."

"Well, that was right."

"But, mamma, he hollered ten times as loud as he whispered."

Choice Farming Lands in South Dakota

Along the line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway can now be had upon reasonable terms. The crop prospects were never better and a glorious harvest for this year is already assured. Thousands of acres of unoccupied lands in over twenty counties are now open for settlement. For further information address H. F. Hunter, Immigration Agent for South Dakota, 295 Dearborn street, Chicago, Ill.

Cases of twins occur once in every sixty-nine births.

A Summer Resort Book Free.

Write to C. S. Crane, general passenger and ticket agent Wabash Railroad, St. Louis, Mo., for a summer resort book, telling all about the beautiful lake region reached by the Wabash Railroad.

"The daisies peep from every field
And violets sweet their odor yield."

DUCKS DROWN AN EAGLE.

The Crow Ducks on the Potomac Know How to Get Away from the Enemy.

If a writer is to be believed the crow duck is a most extraordinary bird on the Potomac river, cutting up such capers as to make even a naturalist gasp.

"Four years ago," he writes, "while shooting ducks with Mr. Waller (President Cleveland's duck blind builder), I noticed a flock of three or four thousand crow ducks. After half an hour I noticed an eagle going toward the flock. When he arrived at the proper distance he made a dart, but the ducks, as if by magic, went under water like a flash and sent up a volume of water as if a big mine had been exploded. This was done time and time again, and finally the volume of water thrown up was so great that the eagle was nearly drowned. An old ducker once told me that he once witnessed the same scene and that the eagle was drowned. This is a sight seldom seen, which may occur but once in a ducking life of fifty years.

This crow duck is also known as the American coot, mud hen, blue peter and Fulica Americana by various hunters and alongshore people. Up north here these ducks may be seen in creeks and marshy, reed-grown rivers, but south, in Florida, they resort in enormous numbers to the lakes where bonnets or yellow lilies abound, associating there with lesser scaup ducks. They are shy birds, being much persecuted usually, but in localities where shooting is prohibited, near the Titusville, Fla., railroad pier for instance, they are as tame as sparrows, understanding that they are safe.

The nearest anybody ever came to the drowning eagle story was Frank M. Chapman in his "Birds of Eastern North America," when he says: "When alarmed they patter over the water, using their feet as much as their wings. The sound produced is a characteristic one." He does not say whether the water flies or not, but one could imagine that a crow duck just as it turned up to dive could give its scolloped webbed feet a kick up behind, like a vicious mule, and so saturating the eagle that it would be drowned. Eagles often catch living fish out of the water, and, of course, get more or less wet in doing so, but perhaps the Potomac river eagles are of a different species than those known to bird books.

THE NEED FOR DEPOSIT BANKS

An English Financier Gives His Opinion on the Question of Gold Exports.

From the Blackburn Standard: Sir William Cunliffe Brooks delivered an interesting address to the members of the Manchester Bankers' Institute at the inaugural meeting last week. He said he might refer to changes which were altering the old landmarks of commerce, sprung from the stupendous increase in the production of silver and gold, but in now alluding to those metals they might rest assured that he should not on this occasion say anything to provoke unnecessary discussion on well-known topics connected with their mutual use. (Laughter.) The financial school book of his boyhood taught him that the annual import of gold into this country was only three millions, brought, it was stated, chiefly from the Ural Mountains in Russia. Nowadays, and for some years past, we had seen the annual importation of gold into this country increase with marvelous rapidity. South Africa's production had quickly risen from almost none to eight millions annually, with every prospect of rapid increase, and within the last ten years the world's gold delivery into this country had more than doubled itself until, instead of the old three millions, it was approaching thirty millions annually. (Hear, hear.) All that money had to be invested somewhere, and thus they were brought to the consideration of deposits with banks. Seventy years ago these were of no great importance, but the creation about that time of the safest possible custodian of money—a joint stock bank, unlimited, with a proprietary of substantial shareholders—gave an easy opportunity for perfectly safe investment. This opportunity was readily appreciated, and was followed by rapid yearly increases. He remembered the astonishment of the banking world when it was found, about 1860, that the London banks alone possessed a deposit power of ten millions, but their deposit had since then shot up to the astounding sum calculated at more than 180 millions.

Not a Teetotaller!

Teetotal enthusiasm is not rampant in some parts of the country, though hard-drinking is rarer than it used to be.

An old gardener of ours used to have tea and coffee sent out to him in the hot weather.

"You find the tea refreshing this warm day, don't you, Smith?" asked my mother.

"Why, mum," said Smith, doubtfully, "one can drink anything this weather."—Answers.

Minnie—Chollie Ardup writes to me that his love is more than he can express. Mamie—Why doesn't he send it collect.—Indianapolis Journal.

Unwilling.

"Do you expect to go to heaven, Willie?" asked the teacher, who had just had occasion to correct the bad boy of the class.

"Do you?" he inquired by way of reply.

"Why, yes, I hope to," she answered.

"Well, he said, after a moment of thought, "then I guess you can count me out of it."

"Do not look for wrong or evil,
You will find it if you do;
As you measure to you neighbor,
He will measure back to you."

Piso's Cure for Consumption is the best of all cough cures.—George W. Lotz, Fabucher, La., August 26, 1895.

The Vanderbilts, Astors and Mackays have all had divorces in their families.

Hegeman's Camphor Ice with Glycerine. The original and only genuine. Cures Chapped Hands and Face, Cold Sores, &c. C. G. Clark Co., N. Haven, Ct.

W. W. Astor recently paid $7,500 to an English grower for the stock of a single variety of rose tree.

PURE CALIFORNIA WINES. L. Apffel, Wholesaler. Los Angeles, Cal., 2 cases, ass'd, freight paid, $7—$8—$9. Eastern shipments my specialty.

Teacher—Can you tell me anything about Good Friday, Willie? Willie—Why, he's a feller that waited on Robinson Cruso.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is a constitutional cure. Price, 75c.

The Duke of York's collection of postage stamps, which was recently purchased by one of the Rothchilds, was insured for $600,000.

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. R. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

Victor O. Tilgner, the great Austrian sculpture, is dead from a stroke of apoplexy.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth,

Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.

The pope will present the golden rose this year to the wife of Prince Ferdinand, of Bulgaria.

"A Cup of Parks' Tea at night moves the bowels in the morning."

Man is very apt to contemplate himself out of all proportion to his surroundings.

Cuba had a debt of $200,000,000 before the revolution broke out a year ago.

"Are these marvels about?
Are things what they seem?"

Nothing so suddenly and completely disables the muscles as

LUMBAGO, LAME BACK, OR STIFF NECK,

and nothing so promptly and surely cures them as ST. JACOBS OIL.

The Woman, The Man, And The Pill.

She was a good woman. He loved her. She was his wife. The pie was good; his wife made it; he ate it. But the pie disagreed with him, and he disagreed with his wife. Now he takes a pill after pie and is happy. So is his wife. The pill he takes is Ayer's.

Moral: Avoid dyspepsia by using

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

You are bound to succeed in making HIRES Rootbeer if you follow the simple directions. Easy to make, delightful to take.

Made only by The Charles E. Hires Co., Philadelphia. A 25c. package makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere.

WELL MACHINERY

Illustrated catalogue showing WELL AUGERS, ROCK DRILLS, HYDRAULIC AND JETTING MACHINERY, etc. SENT FREE. Have been tested and all warranted.

Sioux City Engine and Iron Works, Successors to Peech Mfg. Co.
Sioux City, Iowa.
THE ROWELL & CHASE MACHINERY CO., 1414 West Eleventh Street, Kansas City, Mo.

MANUFACTURER WANTS AGENTS

to sell the combination lock pin clevis direct to farmers (the only combination clevis and pin ever patented); self-locking; always secure; sells at sight; 150 per cent profit; no competition; exclusive territory.

Cormany Mfg. Co., 225 Dearborn St., Chicago.

PATENTS, TRADE MARKS

Examination and Advice as to Patentability of Invention. Send for "Inventors' Guide, or How to Get a Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Washington, D. C.

$5 Hand Bone, Shell, and Corn Mills for Poultrymen. Daisy Bone Cutter. Power Mills. Circular and testimonials Free.
WILSON BROS., Easton, Pa.

NAPOLEON consulted the stars. Know thyself. Send date of birth and 25 cents to HAZELRIGG, Astrologer, Room 20, 106 E. 23d St., N. Y.

LINDSEY · OMAHA · RUBBERS!

OPIUM Habit Cured. Est. in 1871. Thousands cured. Cheapest and best cure. FREE TRIAL. State case. DR. MARSH, Quincy, Mich.

OPIUM and WHISKY habits cured. Book sent FREE. Dr. B. M. WOOLLEY, ATLANTA, GA.

W.N.U. D.M.--1245. NO. 21

When answering advertisements kindly mention this paper.

ALABASTINE.

IT WON'T RUB OFF.

Wall Paper is Unsanitary. KALSOMINE IS TEMPORARY, ROTS, RUBS OFF AND SCALES.

ALABASTINE is a pure, permanent and artistic wall-coating, ready for the brush by mixing in cold water.

For Sale by Paint Dealers Everywhere.

THE DOCTOR—"One layer of paper is bad enough, you have three here. Baby may recover but cannot thrive."

FREE A Tint Card showing 12 desirable tints, also Alabastine Souvenir Rock sent free to any one mentioning this paper.
ALABASTINE CO., Grand Rapids, Mich.

There is no dividing line.

BattleAx PLUG

DON'T FORGET for 5 cents you get almost as much "Battle Ax" as you do of other brands for 10 cents.

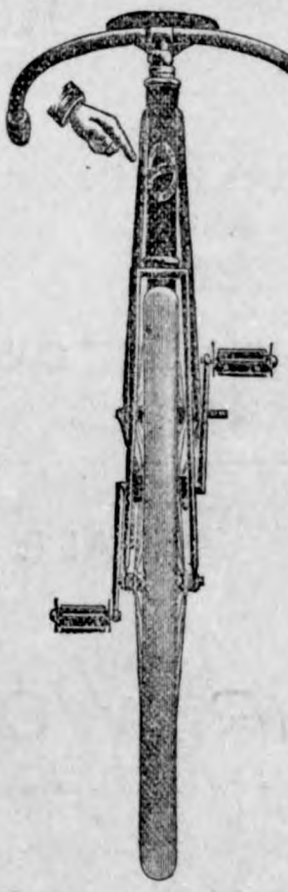
DON'T FORGET that "Battle Ax" is made of the best leaf grown, and the quality cannot be improved.

DON'T FORGET, no matter how much you are charged for a small piece of other brands, the chew is no better than "Battle Ax."

DON'T FORGET, "Economy is wealth," and you want all you can get for your money. Why pay 10 cents for other brands when you can get "Battle Ax" for 5 cents?

10 times out of 10

The New York Journal recently offered ten bicycles to the ten winners in a guessing contest, leaving the choice of machine to each.



ALL OF THEM CHOSE

Columbia
Bicycles

STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Nine immediately, and one after he had looked at others. And the Journal bought Ten Columbias. Paid $100 each for them.

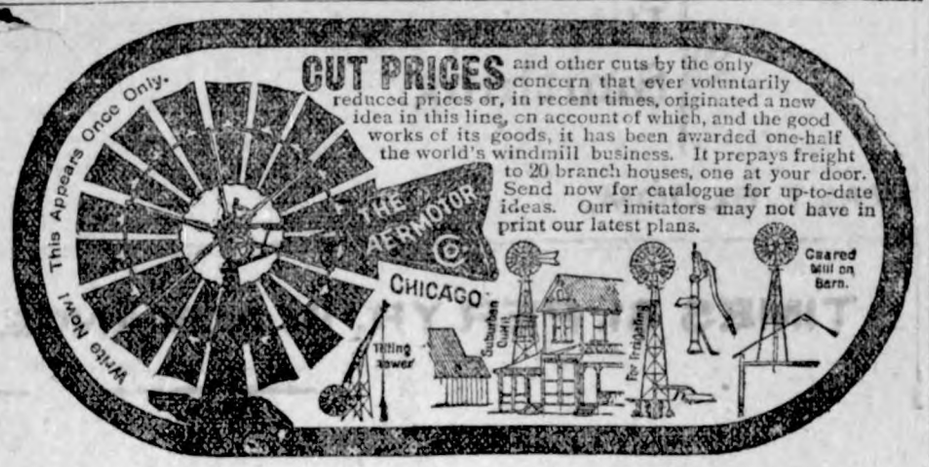
On even terms a Columbia will be chosen

TEN times out of TEN

POPE MANUFACTURING CO.

1896 Art Catalogue free from the Columbia Agent; by mail for two 2-cent stamps.

HARTFORD, CONN.



CUT PRICES and other cuts by the only concern that ever voluntarily reduced prices or, in recent times, originated a new idea in this line, on account of which, and the good works of its goods, it has been awarded one-half the world's windmill business. It prepays freight to 20 branch houses, one at your door. Send now for catalogue for up-to-date ideas. Our imitators may not have in print our latest plans.

NOW is the time for cleaning house

AND HARR'S is the place to buy your

Paints, Wall Paper and Alabastine.

The finest selection in Hancock County. and goods sold Cheap for CASH, or on time.

J. H. QUEAL & CO.

Invite you to come and inspect their Dry, Bright, well seasoned stock of

LUMBER LATH SHINGLES SASH DOORS — BRICK LIME CEMFNT

Oak and Cedar Posts.

We have a complete stock to select from at the lowest price. Let us figure on your bill.

We will not be undersold.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.

SPRING GOODS!

Our Spring goods have arrived consisting of

—BLACK, WHITE and FIGURED—

LAWNS

Light Colored CALICOS, MUSLINS,

GAUZE UNDERWEAR ETC.

We also have a large line of HATS, CAPS and SHOES.

Butter and Eggs Wanted.

SHAFER & DOW.

GEO KLUCKHOHN,

The Restaurant Man!

Serves the Public with

A Square Meal, Fine Bread Buns, Oysters, Cigars, Tobaccos, etc.

WHEN IN TOWN CALL AND SEE HIM.

KLEMME, - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

ALEX. KIRKWOOD,

....PROPRIETOR OF....

KIRKWOOD :-: HOUSE,

FIRST CLASS ACCOMMADATION. - RATES $1.00 per Day.

Livery and Feed Stable in Connection

Rigs Furnished on Short Notice.

KLEMME. -:- -:- -:- IOWA.

Locals.

Cement, Lime, Brick and stucco at Lau Bros.

Bloom shipped a car of hogs Wednesday morning.

Terhufen & Gruetzmacher shipped a car of hogs Tuesday morning.

Collins Cline and Mr. Munson of Goodell were in town Saturday.

Two good buggies at cost, to make room for our new stock, at Lau Bro's.

Terhufen & Son have as fine a lot of Iron and Wood Pumps as there are in town.

Weichselbaum has his well completed. He had to go 52 ft. but got plenty of good water.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

One swallow does not make Spring, but one swallow of One Minute Cough Cure brings relief. Harr.

Mrs. Marion Elder brought us some very fine tomatoe plants on Saturday, and accepted only thanks, for them.

Monday we received some fine cabbage plants from Mrs. Larson. Any one wanting plants can get them there at a reasonable price.

The Tower Cultivator will be found to be exactly the implement practicable to work sod corn. Terhufen & son has them for sale.

The Tower Surface Cultivator has knives that are drawn with a shaving cut through the ground and handles easier, has lighter draft, disturbs corn roots less, raises more and better matured corn than any other cultivator. You can buy one of Terhufen & Son.

A. L. Wooster, a prominent citizen of Osseo, Mich., after suffering excruciatingly from piles for twenty years, was cured in a short time by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, an absolute cure for all skin diseases. More of this preparation is used than all others combined. Harr.

Our neighboring towns seem to think that the machinery business is overdone here, but the record shows that all are doing a good profitable business. One firm, Gruetzmacher Bros., have sold 29 McCormic Harvesters, 45 Disc Harrows this spring, several plows and other machinery. Let our neighbors figure up and compare.

ATTENTION COMRADES!!

Attend the sixth reunion of North Iowa Veteran Association, Ladies Auxiliary and Midland Ass'n. S. of V. second Tuesday in June, at Clear Lake Ia. All ladies of Relief Corps and sons and daughters of veterans are especially invited. Remember, the dates are June 9th. and 10th. Report at the Pavilion Tuesday.

W. A. BURNAP, Pres.

BUY THE BEST

The "DOMESTIC"

Is absolutely the best Sewing Machine made. Leads in latest and best improvements.

SIMPLE

PRACTICAL

DURABLE

For over 30 years has been endorsed by the public as the most satisfactory of all sewing machines. We want your trade and can save you money. Write for free catalogue and prices.

THE DOMESTIC S. M. CO.

298 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

How to Treat a Wife.

(From Pacific Health Journal.)

First, get a wife; second be patient. You may have great trials and perplexities in your business, do not therefore, carry to your home a cloudy or contracted brow. Your wife may have trials, which, though of less magnitude, may be hard for her to bear. A kind word, a tender look, will do wonders in chasing from her brow all clouds of gloom.—To this we would add always keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house. It is best and is sure to be needed sooner or later. Your wife will then know that you really care for her and wish to protect her health. For sale by J. L. HARR.

McCormick's Masterpieces

"THE THREE KINGS" OF THE HARVEST FIELD.

THE "OPEN ELEVATOR"
King of all Grain Harvesters.
THE No. 4 STEEL MOWER
King of all Grass Cutters.
THE '96 CORN BINDER
King of all Corn Harvesters.

Come In and See Them! They Are Matchless!

The great Money-Savers of the Farm.

AT THE WORLD'S FAIR
They Won the Only Honors.
IN EVERY TEST they prove their superiority.
IN EVERY LAND they lead the leaders.

WE have satisfied ourselves that McCormick Machines are the lightest draft, most durable and most reliable grain and grass cutters built by any manufacturer. We believe they are the cheapest machines a farmer can own—if experience has proven anything, it has proven this. We believe a careful examination of them will convince any man that they are planned with a mechanical nicety and put together with a degree of care far ahead of that shown in any other make of harvesting machinery. We want all interested parties to come and see them. Guaranteed to work where others fail.

GRUETZMACHER BROS. AGT'S.

We also handle the CELEBRATED

Elwood and Dekalb FIELD FENCING

The best on the market. Also, MITCHELL AND LEWIS WAGONS, RACINE BUGGIES, JOHN DEERE PLOWS, J. I. CASE PLOWS AND DEERF PLANTERS.

Hardware and Groceries.

GRASS AND GARDEN SEEDS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mouldings.

And everything used to build with.

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in the week.

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'GR.,

KLEMME, IOWA.

YOU HAVE IT!

Oats and Corn!

We Want It!

and will pay the Highest Market price to get it.

COAL!

We have it, You want it.

Hard, Soft, Illinois, and Smithing.

WALT. BLOOM, Klemme, Ia.

TIMES $1. PER YR. IN ADVANCE.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, MAY 29, 1896. NUMBER 40

Church Directory.

AMERICAN M. E. CHURCH.
Preaching Service, 10.30, a. m.
Sunday School, 11.30, " "
Epworth League, 7.30, p. m.
Every Sunday.
Prayer meeting, Thursday, 7.30 p.m.
Everyone most cordially invited.
CHARLES E. ANDERSON, Pastor.

GERMAN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School 9.30 a. m.
Preaching Service 10.30 " "
Evening Service — Preaching and Epworth League alternately—8.00 p.m.
Prayer meeting Wednesday 8.00 p.m.
Rev. G. HAEFNER, Pastor.

GERMANTOWN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School and Preaching alternately 9.30 and 10.30 a. m. and 2.00 and 3.00 p. m.
Epworth League 8.00 p. m. each Sunday. Rev. G. HAEFNER, Pastor.

REFORMED CHURCH.
Preaching Service
Rev. TREIKE, Pastor.

B. C. R. & N. TIME TABLE.

GOING SOUTH.

No. 82. Pass.	- -	2.20 p. m.
No. 84, Stock	- -	6.45 a. m.
No. 86. Way freight.	-	1.40 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 81. Pass.	- -	5.00 p. m.
No. 83. Way freight	--	11.35 a. m.
No. 85. freight	- -	4.00 p. m.

No. 84. Runs Sunday and not Monday.

H. O. ENGER,
Local Agt.

SEND YOUR ORDERS
FOR ABSTRACTS
of titles to
J. S. Knauss, Abstracter.
Owner of Compiete set,
Lands and Town Lots.
Titles Perfected. Promptness and Accuracy
GUARANTEED
GARNER, IOWA.

A. L. SPOONER.
Physician and Surgeon.
Office and residence on Main Street first door west of Bank.
Klemme, Iowa.

H. E. PEITZKE
IS THE BLACKSMITH
THAT
Will do your work well.
He also does wood work.
HIS
Prices are right,
AND
Experience great.
KLEMME, IOWA.

KLEMME - DRAY - LINE.
H. & S. NISSEN,
Proprietors.
Draying and teaming of all kinds done on short notice.
GIVE US A CALL.

Local Mention.

Gold and Silver Belts 45c. Harr's.

Geo. Gates is at Garner this week on the jury.

Our two Elevators will be closed Decoration day.

Bicycles repared on short notice at Shafer and Dow's.

Mr. A. Kelly of Garner, was in town on business. Tuesday.

Heavy work harness from 24 to $28, all complete at Lau Bros.

We received a pleasant call from M. A. Fell of Garner Wednesday.

Kirckhart's and Ryan's circus at Garner Saturday, Decoration day.

Frank Schuldt has engaged with Terhufen & Son selling machinery.

Talbert Spooner has taken Geo. Schaefer's place on the cream route.

Prof. Houghton, principal of the Goodell schools, was in town Saturday.

Ice cream every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon at Geo. Kluckhon's.

C. W. Knapp made a trip to Thompson last week looking after farm interests.

The building in the Barz addition is moving along fast. Dow's house is nearly completed.

Binding Twine, superior sisal, pure manilla and standard, all new, at bottom prices. at Lau Bros.

Aug. Lau has his new house completed and has moved in. August has one of the finest residences in Klemme.

Wm. Shattuck President of the first national Bank of Garner, was doing business in town one day last week.

Mrs. Stergen and children and Miss Schoh, of Eitzen, Minn. are spending a few days visiting with the Schroeder family.

Henry Lau has been having his residence painted over again. It looks very much better,—paint always materially improves the looks of a place.

G. A. Lyon of Forest City, Gen Mgr. of the N. L. Co., was in town Monday looking over their yard here. He found it in good condition and doing a good business.

The road-tax list of District No. 3, Ell twp., is posted on the east side of Gruetzmacher Bros. store. Just look at it and prepare to work on the road.

Eczema is a frightful affliction, but like all other skin diseases it can be permanently cured by applicationr of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It never fails to cure Piles. Harr.

Remember that the 30th of May is a National holiday and the Governor of Iowa recommends that everybody refrain from work of any kind and join together in keeping the day sacred to the memory of our noble dead.

A number of the ladies went to the train Tuesday evening to give Mrs. Smith a farewell hand shake. as she took the train for her new home at Germania. Mrs. Smith has a large circle of friends in Klemme that are sorry to have her leave.

The party given at John Hartfelder's last Friday night by Mr. Walker the teacher, was a very enjoyable affair. About 30 of the young people gathered and with games of various kinds the evening was spent very pleasantly. The refreshments were ice cream and cake.

RePublican National Convention At St. Louis, June 16th.

ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP from all stations on the B., C. R. & N. Ry. Tickets on sale June 13, 14 and 15, good to return until and including June 21st. Call on B., C. R. & N. agents for further information. 6 16

For every quarter in a man's pocket there are a dozen uses; and to each one in such a way as to derive the greatest benefit is a question every one must solve for himself. We believe, however, that no better use could be made of one of these quarters than to exchange it for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, a medicine that every family shoul be provided with. For sale by J. L. HARR.

Additional Locals.

G. Hess drove to Garner Sunday.

Painting material for sale cheap at Harr's.

Anna Skow returned to Garner Saturday night.

Genuine Hand Made Harness only $27, at Lau Bros.

A fine assortment of baby carriages at E. P. Schaefers.

D. W. Ballard of Alexander, was in town one day last week.

The finest Single Harness in town for only $4, at Lau Bros.

Emma Terhufen finished her school in Germantown last Friday.

For sale one second hand Case stirring plow, cheap. H. E. Peitzke.

Call at Terhufen & Son and see the Johnson self feeder for threshing Machine, best on the market.

If you want to see a circus for nothing, drop in at the creamery and see Talbert Spooner wrestle those milk cans.

Kluckhohn has a fine well just completed 70 feet deep with about 50 ft. of water. He went two feet into the rock.

Bloom drove to Garner, Friday eve. with Mrs. Richards. She will visit some relatives there before returning to Belmond.

Bloom is paying for Oats 14c Hogs $2.70 Wheat 48c Corn 16c at present, and is getting a good many loads of oats everyday.

Wanted.

1000 dozen eggs and 500 lbs butter in exchange for Wall Paper and Paints. Shafer & Dow.

Mrs. R. DeYoung, Middleburg, Ia., writes, I have used One Minute Cough Cure for six years, both for myself and children, and I consider it the quickest acting and most satisfactory Cough Cure I ever used. Harr.

Hans Nissen is making a home to be proud of. He has finished and painted a large barn and is putting up a good comfortable residence where Hans and Mrs. Hans that will be some day, can enjoy life.

Kluckhohn has been having a new screen front put in his restaraunt and having the building painted. Geo. is running a good restaraunt and wants the outside to be as inviting as the inside.

F. B. Smith and family went to Germania, Tuesday on the 5 o'clock train. Mr. Smith could not get a house in Livermore to suit and not wanting to live over the depot with his children, he exchanged places with the agent at Germania, who will take the station at Livermore.

HOUSE FOR SALE.

A house for sale in Klemme containing seven nice rooms, with one and one-half acres of land. A good barn, trees, well, and cistern, House heated by a furnace. Also all household goods such as furniture, carpet, chairs, organ, etc; also horse, buggy, harness and robe. For further particulars and terms, write or call on C. W. Knapp. Klemme. Ia.

Hotel Orleans

At Spirit Lake, the great Iowa summer resort, will be opened for the fishing season May 15th, and for the regular summer season June 25th. The hotel and surroundings have been greatly improved and many new attractions have been added to this popular resort. A beautiful half-tone circular descriptive of Spirit Lake and Hotel Orleans will be sent to any address by the undersigned.

C. S. ABELL,
Mgr. Hotel Orleans,
Orleans P. O. Dickenson Co. Ia.
e 6 30

DUNKARDS'

Annual meeting at Ottawa, Kas., May 26-29. Tickets will be sold May 23, 24 and 25, from all points on the B., C. R. & N. Ry., at rate of ONE FARE Plus $2 for the Round Trip. Good to return 30 days from date of sale, if ticket is deposited with station agent at Ottawa before June 1. For further information call on B., C. R. & N. agents.

GO TO LAU BROS.
for bargains in

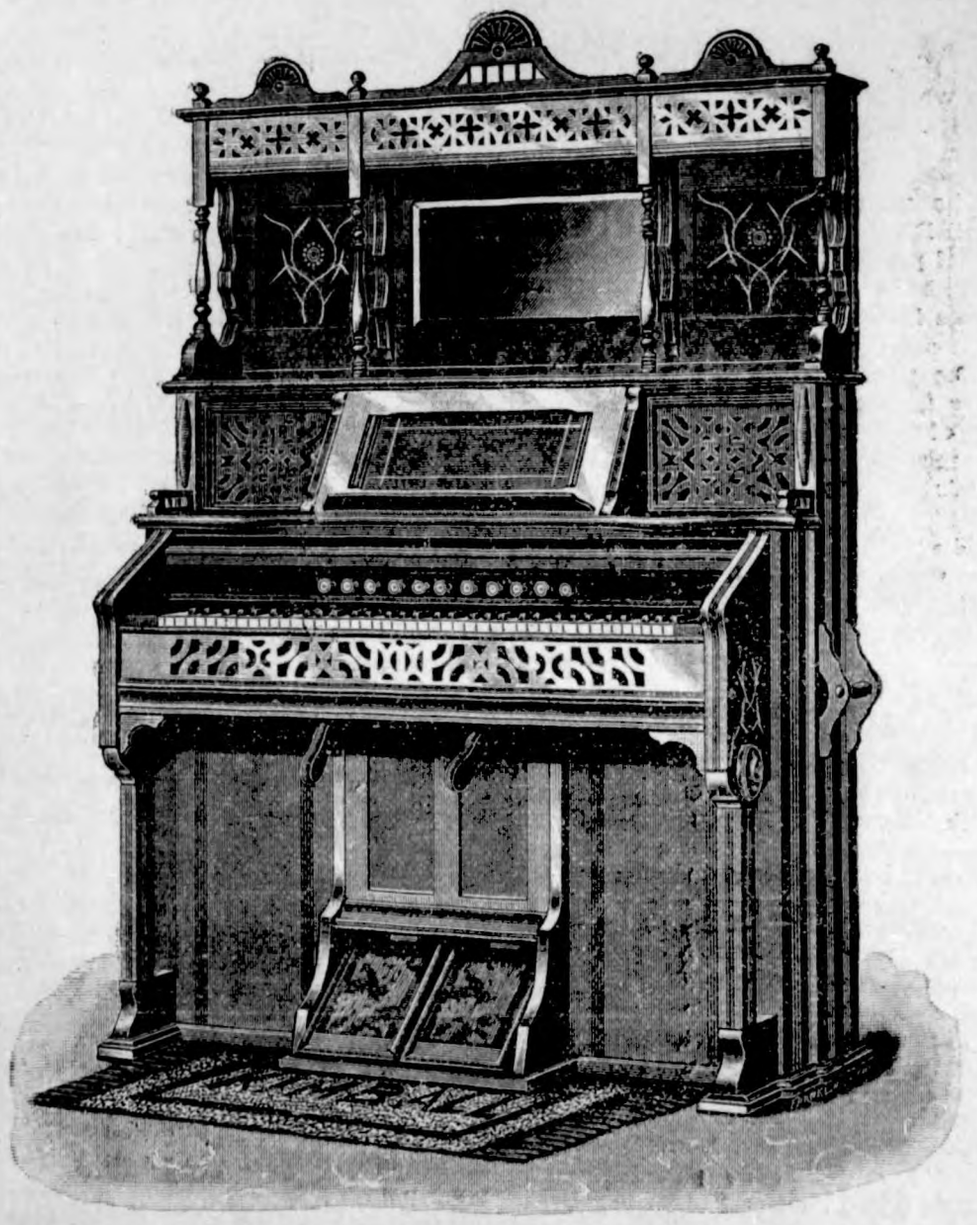
SHOES.
We have a new line of shoes and are selling them at bottom prices.

DRY GOODS.
Our line of dry goods is complete.
New spring goods arriving almost daily

SPRING UNDERWEAR.
We have an extra quality of gauze, that we are selling at 60 cents per suit. You cant beat it. Come and see.

MACKINTOSH'S.
We can fit you at from $4.00 up as you want.

PRODUCE,
always taken in exchange at the highest market price.



For Organs, Pianos, Sewing Machines and FURNITURE,
GO TO
E. P. SCHAEFER

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, - - - IOWA

Stealing a base is now considered a great diamond robbery.

Cripple Creek, having gone through fire, has entered on the stone age.

It is proposed to change the name of Wall street, but no disguise will serve that devil's lane.

No doubt a fair share of the Washington University gowns will show up later on the Supreme Bench.

Many a young man is yearning to be a millionaire merely that he might buy the costliest bicycle every year.

President Kruger has proved himself well qualified, mentally and by hirsute acquirement, to "beard the lion."

The most wonderful physical attribute of the "Divine Sarah" is her hand, and it seems to be a good hand to draw, too.

It might be well to investigate and determine whether the folding bicycle may not be as perilous as some forms of the folding bed.

Judge Waterman of Illinois, who believes that cities have a right to regulate car fares, may have been a strap passenger himself.

Mark Twain has made so much money that he scoffs at the idea of the Cuban war raising the expense of his 300 monthly cigars.

It would not be fair for the fellows down East to just now move to make the St. Louis convention unanimous. The people want a spat and some sport.

That bill for national control of excursion boats at yacht races ought to become a law. No pretext should be accorded to the Dunravens of the future.

Baron Hirsch and Col. North having died it begins to look as though the p—— of W—— would have to hock something the next time he got a loan.

Gen. Weyler will give the insurgents one more chance to surrender. This is progress, for it is seldom his forces stop running long enough to make even a surrender possible.

Tom Hall, the poet of the Louisville Post, sings that the flowers along the Ohio "seem to feast on the steamboats' roar." Clearly, Kentucky has the boldest bard of the day.

Mayor Carter Harrison used to ride into the Chicago alleys and scold people who threw old paper into them. Every alley in every city should be kept clean the year round.

The more certain it becomes that Cecil Rhodes was exemplifying the national predilection for grabbing a weak neighbor's lawn the more England seems inclined to uphold him.

The patriotic people of the country have faith in the courage and patriotism of General Lee, who will soon have the most important Consulate in Uncle Sam's gift. Spain must play fair.

The fact that the Boston athletes made the best scores at the Grecian games prompts a New York paper to remark that no one will now question Boston's right to be called the Athens of America.

There are twenty-nine bicycle dealers in Battle Creek, Mich., and 3,000 wheels are ridden. There is one for every sixth person in the population. A washerwoman has bought a wheel, on which she delivers her washing.

The farmers of New York have potatoes to burn. After being kiln-dried the potatoes throw out a great heat, and as they bring only $2 a ton, while coal is worth $5 a ton, the potato is temporarily displacing coal as fuel.

South Carolina has a mica output of 100,000 pounds a year, New Hampshire produces about 25,000 pounds, South Dakota 18,000 pounds and New Mexico 1,000 pounds. The mica of South Carolina is of the best quality and brings the highest price.

Last year was the 900th anniversary of the first appearance of the fork in western Europe, according to the National Zeitung. In 995 a son of the Venetian Doge Pietro Orseolo married the Byzantine Princess Argila, who at the wedding breakfast brought out a silver fork and gold spoon. She was copied by the great Venetian families, though the church opposed the fashion as an insult to Providence. It took 360 years for the fork to reach Florence; in 1379 it was found in France but it was not till 1608 that "the traveler Corgate brought it direct from Venice to England."

THE NEWS IN IOWA

EXTENSIVE CENSUS.

Statistics of Agriculture Have Been Carefully Compiled.

DES MOINES, May 21.—The statistics of agriculture of the new census have just been compiled, showing many things connected with Iowa agriculture that have never before been taken, which are of great value. The corn crop of 1894 was 128,000,000 bushels, valued at $55,235,000. The oat crop was 107,691,000 bushels, valued at $26,420,000. The spring and winter wheat crop was 697,898,000 bushels, valued at $4,559,000. The average farm in Iowa contains 153 acres. There are 22,577 farms of less than forty acres, 44,660 with between forty and eighty acres, 57,885 with between 160 and 540 acres and 1,326 with over 640 acres. Mortgages are placed on 83,552 farms of a net value of $138,585,720. There are 5,247,000 unimproved and 25,870,000 improved acres. The value of the farms is placed at $1,083,063,000. There were 7,869,000 bushels of potatoes, 1,383,302 horses, 2,689,000 acres of corn stalks cut, 3,197,000 cattle, 1,087,000 milch cows, 5,044,000 hogs, 492,800 sheep, 17,220,000 chickens, 825,800 turkeys, 62,710,000 eggs and 144,446 dogs either produced or in existence January 1, 1895.

IS IT THE WEAPON?

Appanoose County Officials Think They Have Hemphill's Gun.

CENTERVILLE, May 23.—In justice court the attorneys of Hemphill, charged with murdering Mamie Peterson, waived examination for their client. Ever since Hemphill was arrested the officers have been constantly in search of the revolver which it is alleged was used in the killing of Mamie Peterson. They have found a gun which they think did the work. It was located in the garden at Hemphill's house after a search of the entire premises, including the draining of the wells and investigation in every conceivable place. The pistol was a six-shot, 38-caliber. There were five loaded cartridges and one empty chamber in the gun. As there were three shots fired, two loaded cartridges had evidently been placed in after the shooting occurred. The officers think it is the pistol which was used to murder the girl, as everything indicates it to them.

EX-MAYOR OLINGER INDICTED.

Dubuque's Municipal Scandal Comes to a Head.

DUBUQUE, May 23.—The Dubuque county grand jury made their report to Judge Husted and were discharged. Their most important action was two indictments returned against ex-Mayor Olinger, one for embezzlement and the other for willful and corrupt misconduct while in office. The embezzlement indictment mentions several items in which the ex-mayor failed to return money to the treasury, received by him. The charge of misconduct is for issuing peddler's permits and receiving money for the same without lawful authority.

AWFUL CYCLONE IN IOWA.

Ankeny, Valeria and Bondurant Visited and Many Killed.

DES MOINES, May 25.—Meagre advices from Ankeny, Valeria and Bondurant are to the effect that a terrible cyclone visited those towns last night about 10 o'clock and that Ankeny was almost completely wiped out.

Five persons are reported to have been killed at Valeria.

Twenty-four deaths are reported at Bondurant.

Ankeny is blown away, with the probable loss of three lives.

Many are wounded at these places and the loss of life in the country is supposed to be very great.

The depot is carried away at Valeria. Three hundred feet of railroad track was lifted bodily from the grade.

The cyclone first struck the north side of Bondurant at 10 p. m., entirely destroying half the town.

Details are meagre, as the wires are down, and telegraph and telephone communication cut off.

About ten farm houses between Bondurant and Valeria were wrecked and many persons injured. The Berwick dispatcher says the railroad tracks and bridges are badly damaged.

Reports from Polk City and Slater are that the wreckage in those towns is very serious. Nothing known as to number of fatalities.

Nineteen coffins were shipped from here to the devastated district this morning.

One Dynamiter Gets Ten Years.

MUSCATINE, May 25.—In the district court, Judge Wolf sentenced Mart Woods, convicted of dynamiting in 1893, to ten years in the penitentiary.

Negro Murderer.

OSKALOOSA, May 23.—In a row at Muchakinock, George Lewis, a cook, killed Sam Porterfield, a bartender.

TRAGEDY AT CROTON.

Poison Possibly Meant for a Mother Kills a Child.

KEOKUK, May 22.—Circumstantial evidence indicates that a foul murder has been committed at Croton, near Keokuk, and that the life of an innocent child was sacrificed instead of that of the intended victim. Some years ago Mrs. Ann Chidester went to live with her father, A. W. Harlan. His grandsons. Eugene and Mark Harlan, objected to her presence. Recently her child was given some cough medicine and shortly afterwards it went into convulsions and died. Investigation showed strychnine in the stomach and bottle of medicine. It is learned that Eugene Harlan recently purchased strychnine "to kill wolves," and as the medicine was being taken by Mrs. Chidester, it is supposed it was intended for her. Eugene has disappeared.

CLINTON HAS THE CUP.

The Winning City of 1895 Wins Again in the High School Contests.

CEDAR RAPIDS, May 24.—The high school students of Des Moines, Iowa City, Clinton, Fort Dodge, Tipton, Sioux City, Marengo, Keokuk and Cedar Rapids held their contest at Cedar Rapids. The meet last year was held at Clinton and the greatest number of prizes was won by students of city, who now hold the state cup. They will represent the state at the national athletic meet.

Gilbert, of Iowa, Won.

CINCINNATI, May 22.—At the four days hazard trap shooting tournament fully 6,000 shots were fired. The highest daily per cents on 170 targets were those of Gilbert, of Iowa, 95 8-10; Heikes, 94 1-10, and Dickey, 93. Among others making 90 and 91 were Young, Fuller, Glover, Wheeler, Shorty Redwing, and Trimble.

Awful Dubuque Accident.

DUBUQUE, May 25.—Two children of Michael Fisher, of Windsor avenue, tipped over a kettle of boiling water on themselves. One is dead and the other is expected to die.

BREVITIES.

Frederick Weigle, one of the oldest and wealthiest residents of Dubuque, committed suicide by shooting. He was despondent on account of illness.

Cedar Rapids dispatch: Five prisoners in the county jail at Marion, awaiting the action of the grand jury, sawed their way out and made their escape. Two revolvers had been slipped in to the men, who were in the corridors, and by threatening the other prisoners with death they prevented them from giving the alarm.

Des Moines dispatch: Bert Graves was found guilty in the district court of assault with intent to commit murder, and there is great rejoicing in local police circles. Bert Graves has been considered for years one of the most clever criminals in the city of Des Moines. All attempts to fasten a crime upon him have been unavailing. He recently shot Pat Murphy during a quarrel.

In the superior court at Council Bluffs recently Judge McGee rendered a decision in the suit brought by Mrs. Susan A. Moore to recover $3,000 from the Union Fraternal Accident Association, awarding plaintiff the full amount sued for. The case is important for the reason that it fixes the liability of the stockholders for the claims against the defunct concern. The association was organized in Chariton by Lucas county men, but was subsequently moved to Council Bluffs, where it languished a short time and died. The last death assessment only realized $60 and when the Moore claim was filed the company had abandoned business and made no attempt to levy an assessment that would not bring in enough money to pay the postage. Judge McGee held that this was the fatal blunder, that the condition of the policy required the assessment if it only brought in 6 cents. He rendered a judgment against the officers and stockholders for the full amount. Other claims are dependent upon this suit, and if they are pressed the stockholders will be impoverished.

Ottumwa dispatch: Mike Evans and Fred Doud, aged respectively 18 and 22 years, became enraged at the taunts of Jimmie Spurback, aged 12, at Eldon, and procuring a chain caught him and told him they were going to hang him. The little fellow protested, but, notwithstanding, the burly young men tied the chain around his neck and the other end to a board on the stock yards fence and threw the victim over. The length of the chain was such that his feet lacked two or three feet of reaching the ground. The lad struggled wildly to free himself, and his uttered gurgling screams were fearful to hear. They brought no one, and the wretches who strung him up stood by and heartlessly mocked at his heart-rending and unintelligible appeals for mercy. Finally, the little voice died away, the babyish face blackened and his tongue protruded from his mouth. The youths fled and told the first man they met that they had seen little Jimmie Spurback hanging dead. The victim was hastily taken down and carried to the home of his parents, a short distance away, apparently dead. A physician finally resuscitated the little fellow, who has since recovered.

THE SILVER MEN WIN

CAPTURE THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION AT DUBUQUE.

Ex-Governor Boies Heads the Delegation to Chicago and is a Presidential Possibility.

DUBUQUE, May 21.—The democratic state convention was called to order yesterday at 10:15 a. m. by Chairman Ranck, who introduced S. S. Wright, of Tipton, as temporary chairman. Mr. Wright made an address in which he opposed the mulct law, the republican policy on the tariff, and the free coinage of silver. At the conclusion of his address the committees were announced and the convention adjourned.

In the afternoon permanent organization was formed with E. B. Carr, editor of the Manchester Democrat, as chairman. He made a ringing speech in favor of free silver.

The convention then proceeded to the selection of delegates-at-large to the national convention. Horace Boies was nominated by acclamation. S. B. Evans was chosen over W. I. Babb by a vote of 649½ to 280½. Will A. Wells was elected by acclamation. L. T. Genung was chosen for the fourth delegate by this vote: Genung, 675; Myers, 170½; Daly, 46; Mackay, 43½.

Ex-Governor Boies was then called for and made a short speech, thanking the convention for the honor it had conferred upon him.

For alternates at large the following were elected by acclamation: A. Van Wagenen, Sioux City; D. P. Stubbs, Fairfield; A. C. Daly, Marshalltown; C. H. Mackay, Sigourney.

The committee on resolutions made majority and minority reports, the minority report being opposed to the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1, and being signed by Judge French, of the Second district, and W. W. Baldwin, of the first. Judge French and Henry Vollmer made speeches in favor of the minority report and Judge Van Wagenan and J. J. Shea advocated the majority report. The latter was adopted by a vote of 684½ to 228½.

The congressional districts selected delegates to Chicago as follows: First, W. H. Stackhouse, Des Moines county; W. R. Wherry, Van Buren. Second, Max Meyer, Johnson; T. M. Gobble, Clinton. Third, J. S. Murphy, Dubuque; D. C. Wilkins, Wright. Fourth, T. M. Donovan, Chickasaw; F. D. Bayless, Clayton. Fifth, Theodore Wadford, Marshall; J. M. Terry, Linn. Sixth, W. A. McIntire, Wapello; Henry Taylor, Davis. Seventh, M. H. King, Polk; J. S. Cunningham, Marion. Eighth, S. A. Brewster, Union; Chas. Thomas, Taylor. Ninth, W. H. Ware, Pottawattamie; F. D. Allen, Audubon. Tenth, R. F. Jordan, Boone; C. C. Colclo, Carroll. Eleventh, T. P. Murphy, Woodbury; Charles Soyster, O'Brien.

Alternates were selected as follows: First district, Ed Lyman, Louisa; H M. Eicher, Washington. Second, B. T. Murphy, Iowa; W. L. Clark, Scott. Third, C. M. Green, Butler; A. M. Fortner, Bremer. Fourth, J. P. Blaise, Cerro Gordo; J. K. Kieron, Fayette. Fifth; A. J. Allen, Benton; R. P. Fitzgerald, Tama. Sixth, George E. Taylor, Mahaska; J. H. Tucker, Poweshiek. Seventh, E. T. Likes, Polk; G. F. Linnaker, Madison. Eighth, W. T. Davis, Fremont; Jas. Steele, Page. Ninth, S. D. Morrissey, Shelby; G. E. Ferguson, Harrison. Tenth, J. M. Mulvaney, Palo Alto; S. B. Bullock, Crawford. Eleventh, James Dalton, Cherokee; George M. Smith, Plymouth.

The choice of the district caucuses for delegates was approved, and the convention then adjourned.

At a meeting of the delegates S. B. Evans was elected chairman and Charles Walsh secretary, after which they adjourned to meet at Boies' headquarters in Chicago about July 1.

CORBETT ALMOST KILLED.

A Crank Went After the Pugilist With a Gun.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 24.—Jim Corbett narrowly escaped losing his life at the hands of a crank at Hot Springs. As he was walking along Central avenue a man suddenly sprang from a doorway, and, facing the pugilist, demanded to know if his name was Corbett. "If you are Jim Corbett," the crank yelled, "I'm going to lick you right here." Corbett hesitated a moment, and the crank, with a quick movement, drew a revolver from his pocket and pointed it at Corbett's breast. Corbett, realizing the situation, struck the weapon out of the man's hand, and, seizing the crank, held him until an officer arrived.

Prominent Man Charged.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 21.—Edward M. Hoy, of excellent reputation and family, has been arrested on a charge of being implicated in the bank robbery at Buffalo, Ill. Hoy is manager of the store where Joseph Kloppenberg, who confesses to the robbery, was clerking. Kloppenberg stated this morning that Hoy had put up the job to rob the bank and secured the largest part of the stolen money. Hoy refuses to talk.

Pardon Pretorian Prisoners.

LONDON, May 22.—A dispatch has been received from Gov. Hercules Robinson relative to the sentences imposed upon the reformers at Pretoria, which says that one portion of the prisoners will be released immediately and another portion in three months. A third portion will have their cases considered and passed upon after five months, and a fourth portion after one year.

DEMOCRATIC STATE PLATFORM.

"The democracy of Iowa in state convention assembled hereby reaffirms its allegiance to the time-honored democratic doctrine of bimetallism, to the use of both gold and silver as primary money and the coinage of both at a ratio of 16 to 1, without charge or limit. It is the judgment of this convention that this doctrine of the national democratic party, if fairly and honestly observed, requires the constant effort of every local democrat to accomplish the repeal of all laws heretofore enacted through the instrumentality of the republican party, which do in letter and spirit alike discriminate against silver and in favor of gold, and the substitution therefor of affirmative legislation which shall restore silver to equal rights with gold in the mints and coinage of the country.

"We hereby affirm as a deliberate conviction of this convention that the act of 1873, insofar as it demonetized silver and established gold as the single unit of value, is a flagrant violation of one of the most important provisions of the constitution of the United States, a violation which every political party ought to condemn and every good citizen should assist in expunging from the statutes of the the republic. We therefore favor the immediate repeal of all laws by which silver was demonetized and demands its unqualified restoration to the right of free and unlimited coinage in the mints of the nation as money of full legal tender and final redemption at the ratio of 16 to 1.

"We recognize the fact that upon this question the country has reached a crisis that can no longer be evaded or postponed. We know that the result of this conflict must be a return to the money of the constitution; or the substitution therefor for all time to come of a standard of values, which born of British aristocratic greed, doubles the purchasing power of money and reduces by one-half the price of all the great staples of industry. In behalf of the toiling millions of this republic we welcome the conflict and pledge the democratic party of Iowa to stand by the constitution, to defend the right, to beat back with all its strength every wrongful aggression of the money power of the old and new world alike, and to aid to the utmost limits of our ability in restoring to ourselves and our posterity the sacred heritage of the financial system bequeathed to the American people by the fathers of the republic, and which was equally fair and just to all citizens, and in this effort we cordially invite the co-operation of all good citizens without reference to political affiliations in the past.

"We hereby enter our most earnest protest against any scheme for the retirement of our non-interest bearing national paper currency, and the substitution therefor of $500,000,000 of interest bearing bonds, to become an additional burden upon the producing classes, that national banks may be supplied with interest bearing capital on which to transact their individual business. And also protest against the further issuance and sale of government bonds to acquire gold with which to redeem such currency, and demand of the government that it shall hereafter redeem the same with the coin of either metal it may be in possession of, in strict accord with both the spirit and the letter of the law.

"We denounce as a transparent fallacy the claim that labor can be benefitted by the maintenance of a single gold standard as the basis of our financial system. The experience of all ages and of every country alike clearly demonstrates that a contracted currency invariably compels a contraction of business; the lessening of industrial enterprises, the enforced idleness of great numbers of the working classes; and nothing of which the human mind can conceive is more clearly self-evident than the naked truth that the wages of labor must always be adjusted to and correspond with the prices of labor's products in the markets.

"Earnestly desiring to promote the best interests of the laboring people, we favor the appointment of a cabinet official to be known as the secretary of labor, whose duty it shall be in the case of all tariff protected industries, to investigate, ascertain and report to congress what share, if any, of the enhanced price for which protected products are sold in the markets of this country is paid by the employers in these industries to their employes, and to be clothed with further power in all cases where public interests are involved or public peace in endangered, to inquire into the merits of the controversies between employers and employes and recommend the adjustment thereof upon such terms as to him or arbitrators appointed by him shall seem just, and in case of the failure of either party to abide by the recommendation made, to report the facts to congress or a state legislature, as the case may require, with recommendation for additional legislation, if such in his judgment be necessary. And in the discharge of his several duties to be clothed with further power to compel the giving of testimony under oath by parties interested or otherwise, and the production of all books and papers which in his judgment are necessary to a full and impartial determination of the matters committed to his care.

"The delegates at large and district delegates appointed by this convention to represent the state in the national democratic convention to be held in Chicago, beginning the 7th day of July, 1896, are hereby instructed to vote as a unit as the majority present shall direct on all questions coming before said national convention for settlement by vote of its delegates, and especially upon all questions relating to the adoption of a platform for the party and the nomination of candidates for president and vice president, and the delegates present in said convention, if less than the whole number be present and to which the state is entitled, are hereby authorized to cast the full vote of the state in accord with these instructions.

"Reposing full faith and confidence in the democracy, patriotism and ability of Horace Boies, formerly governor of the state of Iowa, we hereby declare it to be the bounden duty of every patriot in Iowa, without regard to former party affiliations, to use all honorable means to secure his nomination at the democratic national convention to be held at Chicago, July 7, 1896, for the high and responsible office of president of these United States, to the end that the principles of Jeffersonian democracy be preserved and promoted and liberty and prosperity be restored to the great body of the American people. And that any delegates to the national convention this day elected are explicitly authorized to place his name in nomination at the Chicago convention."

THE FATAL GLOVE.

BY CLARA AUGUSTA

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER II.—(CONTINUED).

But he had not rightfully calculated the extent of his father's hatred. He made himself the evil genius of his disobedient son; and, in consequence, nothing Hubert touched prospered. Mr. Trevlyn destroyed the confidence of his friends in him; he circulated scandalous reports of his wife; he made the public to look with suspicious eyes upon the unfortunate pair, and took the honestly earned bread out of their very mouths. From bad to worse it went on, until, broken in health and spirits, Hubert made an appeal to his father. It was a cold, wet night, and he begged for a little food for his wife and child. They were literally starving! Begged of his own father, and was refused with curses. Not only refused, but kicked like a dog from the door of his childhood's home! There was a fearful storm that night, and Hubert did not come back. All night his young wife sat waiting for him, hushing the feeble cries of the weary infant upon her breast. With the dawn, she muffled herself and child in a shawl and went forth to seek him. Half way from her wretched home to the palatial mansion of Mr. Trevlyn she found her husband, stone dead, and shrouded in the snow—the tender, pitiful snow, that covered him and his wretchedness from sight.

After that, people who knew Mr. Trevlyn said that he grew more fretful and disagreeable. His hair was bleached white as the snow, his hands shook, and his erect frame was bowed and bent like that of a very aged man. His wife, Hubert's mother, pined away to a mere shadow, and before the lapse of a year she was a hopeless idiot.

Helen Trevlyn took up the burden of her life, refusing to despair because of her child. It was a very hard struggle for her, and she lived on, until, as we have seen, when Archer was nine years of age, she died.

When all this was known to Archer Trevlyn he was almost beside himself with passion. If he had possessed the power, he would have wiped the whole Trevlyn race out of existence. He shut himself up in his desolate garret with the tell-tale letters and papers which had belonged to his mother and there, all alone, he took a fearful oath of vengeance. The wrongs of his parents should yet be visited upon the head of the man who had been so cruelly unpitying. He did not know what form his revenge might take, but, so sure as he lived, it should fall some time!

CHAPTER III.

FIVE years passed. Archer was fourteen years of age. He had left the street sweeping business some time before, at the command of Grandma Rugg, and entered a third-class restaurant as an under waiter. It was not the best school in the world for good morals. The people who frequented the Garden Rooms, as they were called, were mostly of a low class, and all the interests and associations surrounding Arch were bad. But perhaps he was not one to be influenced very largely by his surroundings. So the Garden Rooms, if they did not make him better, did not make him worse.

In all these years he had kept the memory of Margie Harrison fresh and green, though he had not seen her since the day his mother died. The remembrance of her beauty and purity kept him oftentimes from sin; and when he felt tempted to give utterance to oaths, her soft eyes seemed to come between him and temptation.

One day he was going across the street to make change for a customer, when a stylish carriage came dashing along. The horses shied at some object, and the pole of the carriage struck Arch and knocked him down. The driver drew in the horses with an imprecation.

Arch picked himself up, and stood recovering his cattered senses, leaning against a lamppost.

"Served ye right!" said the coachman roughly. "You'd no business to be running befront of folkses' carriages."

"Stop!" said a clear voice inside the coach. "What has occurred, Peter?"

"Only a ragged boy knocked down; but he's up again all right. Shall I drive on? You will be late to the concert."

"I shall survive it, if I am," said the voice. "Get down and open the door. I must see if the child is hurt."

"It's no child, miss; it is a boy older than yourself," said the man, surlily obeying the command.

Margie Harrison descended to the pavement. From the sweet voice, Arch had almost expected to see her. A flush of grateful admiration lit up his face. She beamed upon him like a star from the depths of the clouds.

"Are you hurt?" she asked kindly. "It was very careless of Peter to let the carriage strike you. Allow us to take you home."

"Thank you," he said. "I am close to where I work, and I am not hurt. It is only a trifling bruise."

Something familiar about him seemed to strike her; she looked at him with a strangely puzzled face, but he gave her no light.

"Is there nothing we can do for you?" she asked at length.

A great presumption almost took his breath away. He gave it voice on the moment, afraid if he waited he should lose the courage.

"If you will give me the cluster of bluebells in your belt—"

She looked surprised, hesitated a moment, then laid them in his hand. He bowed, and was lost in the crowd.

That night when he got home he found Mat worse. She had been failing for a long time. She was a large girl now, with great, preternaturally bright eyes, and a spot of crimson on each hollow cheek.

It was more than three months since she had been able to do anything, and Grandma Rugg was very harsh and severe with her in consequence. There were black and blue places on her shoulders now where she had been beaten, but Arch did not know it. Mat never spoke to him about her sufferings, because it distressed him so, and made him very angry with the old woman.

He went in and sat down on the straw beside Mat, and before he knew it he was telling her about Margie Harrison. He always brought all his joys and sorrows to Mat now, just as he used to carry them to his mother.

The girl listened intently, the spots on her face growing deeper and wider. She looked at the bluebells wistfully, but would not touch them. Arch offered her a spray. She shook her head sadly.

"No," she said, "they are not for me. Keep them, Arch. Some time, I think, you will be rich and happy, and have all the flowers and beautiful things you wish."

"If I ever am, Mat, you shall be my queen, and dress in gold and silver," answered the boy warmly, "and never do any more heavy work to make your hands hard."

"You are very good, Arch," she said. "I thank you, but I shall not be there, you know. I think I am going away—going where I shall see my mother, and your mother, too, Arch, and where all the world will be full of flowers! Then I shall think of you, Arch, and wish I could send you some."

"Mat, dear Mat! don't talk so strangely!" said the boy, clasping her hot hands in his. "You must not think of going away! What should I do without you?"

She smiled, and touched her lips to his hand, which had stolen under her head, and lay so near her cheek.

"You would forget me, Arch. I mean after a time, and I should want you to. But I love you better than anything else in all the world. And it is better that I should die. A great deal better! Last night I dreamed it was. Your mother came and told me so. Do you know how jealous I have been of that Margie Harrison? I have watched you closely. I have seen you kiss a dead rose that I knew she gave you. And I longed to see her so much, that I have waited around the splendid house where she lives, and seen her time and again come out to ride, with her beautiful dresses, and the white feather in her hat, and the wild roses on her cheeks. And my heart ached with such a hot, bitter pain. But it's all over now, Arch. I am not jealous now. I love her and you—both of you together. If I do go away, I want you to think kindly of me, and——and—good-night, Arch—dear Arch. I am so tired."

He gathered her head to his bosom, and kissed her lips.

Poor little Mat! In the morning, when Arch came down, she had indeed gone away—drifted out with the tide and with the silent night.

After Mat's death the home at Grandma Rugg's became insupportable to Arch. He could not remain there. The old woman was crosser than ever, and though he gave her every penny of his earnings, she was not satisfied.

So Arch took lodgings in another part of the city, quite as poor a place, but there no one had the right to grumble at him. Still, because she was some relation to Mat, he gave Grandma Rugg full half of his money, but he never remained inside her doors longer than necessity demanded.

In his new lodgings he became acquainted with a middle-aged man who represented himself as a retired army officer. His name was John Sharp—a sleek, keen-eyed, smooth-tongued individual, who never boasted or blustered, but who gave people the idea that at some time he had been a person of consequence. This man attached himself particularly to Arch Trevlyn. With insidious cunning he wormed himself into the boy's confidence, and gained, to a certain degree, his friendship. Arch did not trust him entirely, though. There was something about him from which he shrank—the touch of his white, jeweled hand, made his flesh creep, like the touch of a serpent.

But Mr. Sharp had an object to gain, and set himself resolutely to work to carry his point. He made himself necessary to Arch. He bought him books, and taught him in the evenings, when neither were engaged otherwise. He had been well educated, and in Arch he had an apt scholar. Every spare moment of the boy's life was absorbed in his books.

By and by Sharp learned the whole history of th wrongs inflicted on Arch's parents by old Mr. Trevlyn. He snapped at the story as a dog snaps at a bone. But he was cautious and patient, and it was a long time before he showed himself to Arch in his true character. And then, when he did, the revelation had been made so much by degrees, that the boy was hardly shocked to find that his friend was a housebreaker and a highway robber.

Long before he had formed a plan to rob the house of Mr. Trevlyn. It was a field that promised well. Mr. Trevlyn, with the idiosyncrasy of age, had invested most of his fortune in diamonds, and these he kept in a chamber in his house. His chief delight consisted in gloating over these precious stones. Night after night he would sit handling his diamonds, chuckling over his wealth, and threatening imaginary plunderers with destruction.

So, his servants said, and Sharp repeated the story to Arch with sundry variations and alterations suited to the case. He had a persuasive tongue, and it is little wonder that the boy, hating his grandfather as he did, and resolved as he was upon revenging his father's wrongs, should fall into the snare. He wanted Mr. Trevlyn to suffer—he did not care how. If the loss of his diamonds would be to him a severer blow than any other, then let it fall.

Sharp used many specious arguments to induce Arch to become his accomplice in robbing the Trevlyn mansion, but the only one which had any weight was that he could thus revenge his father's wrongs.

"Only assist me, and secure your revenge," said the wily schemer, "and I will share the spoils with you. There will be enough to enrich us both for life."

Arch drew himself up proudly, a fiery red on his cheek, a dangerous gleam in his dark eye.

"I am no thief, sir! I'd scorn to take a cent from that old man to use for my benefit! I would not touch his diamonds if they lay here at my feet. But if I can make him suffer anything like as my poor father suffered through him, then I am ready to turn robber—yes, pickpocket, if you will!" he added savagely.

Sharp appointed the night. His plans were craftily laid. Mr. Trevlyn he had ascertained would be absent on Thursday night; he had taken a little journey into the country for his health, and only the servants and his ward would sleep in the house.

Thursday night was dark and rainy. At midnight Sharp and Arch stood before the house they were to plunder. No thought of shame nor sin entered Archer Trevlyn's heart; he did not seem to think he was about to disgrace himself for life; he thought only of Mr. Trevlyn's dismay when he should return and find the bulk of his riches swept away from him at one blow.

"He took all my father had," he said, under his breath; "he would have sullied the fair fame of my mother, and if I could take from him everything but life, I would do it."

Sharp, with a dexterous skill, removed the fastenings of a shutter, and then the window yielded readily to his touch. He stepped inside; Arch followed. All was quiet, save the heavy ticking of the old clock on the hall stairs. Up the thickly carpeted stairway, along the corridor they passed, and Sharp stopped before a closed door

"We must pass through one room before reaching that where the safe is which contains the treasure," he said, in a whisper. "It is possible that there may be some one sleeping in that room. If so, leave them to me, that is all."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Russian Doctors.

One of those painstaking persons called statisticians has been turning his attention to the position of Russia in regard to its supply of doctors. The country has produced a number of eminent chemists, but medical men are somewhat scarce. In all Russia there are only 15,740 qualified practitioners, of whom 553 are women.

The more unconsecrated wealth a Christian has. the worse he is off.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

HOUSE.

A number of bills of minor importance passed, among them one providing for the general distribution of condemned cannon by the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy. In a speech Henderson predicted that congress would adjourn between June 7 and June 10.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The senate to day passed the District of Columbia appropriation bill, carrying approximately $73,000,000. The senate sustained the committee in providing specific appropriations for numerous private charitable institutions, some of them of a sectarian character.

HOUSE.

The house entered upon a two days' debate of the immigration bills reported from the immigration committee. The title of Owens, of Kentucky to his seat was confirmed.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The fortification bill was taken p. An amendment by Gorman providing for the issue of 3 per cent treasury certificates of indebtedness to the amount of $100,000,000, redeemable at the pleasure of the government after three years, was defeated. The bill was finally passed. A bill passed amending the pension laws so that those who served in the confederate service and thereafter entered the union service prior to September, 1864, serving for ninety days, shall not be debarred from pension by reason of previous confederate service.

HOUSE.

After two days' debate the house, by the overwhelming vote of 195 to 26, passed the Bartholdt-McCall immigration bill, as modified by the Corliss amendment. The Stone consular inspection bill, which was offered as a substitute, was defeated by a vote of 75 to 131.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—An effort on the part of Butler to secure consideration of his bill prohibiting the further issue of interest bearing bonds caused a large amount of filibustering, led by Hill, and the day was spent in futile efforts to do business.

HOUSE.

Kirkpatrick, of Kansas, called up the bill to pension Francis Hoover, which had been vetoed by the president, and it was passed over the veto, 196 to 47. Bill to authorize the president to appoint a non-partisan commission to collect information and to consider and recommend legislation to meet the problems presented by labor, agriculture and capital, was considered at length.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Butler's motion to take up his anti-bond resolution was adopted, 34 to 20. A bill was passed to "quit title" the land of persons who purchased land in good faith without notice. Hill spoke in opposition to the Butler bill. George asked why the senators did not formulate a proper means for the relief of the treasury. Sherman said if congress adjourned without giving the treasury relief it would be an outrage and a shame. He appealed to the senate to pass the house tariff bill. Hawley said the resolution proposed anarchy and infamy. Mills, Gray and Lodge spoke in opposition to the bill and Mills, Butler, Allen, Stewart and Clark for it.

HOUSE.

After a heated antagonism by Hepburn of Iowa and Dockery of Missouri, the conference report on the river and harbor bill was agreed to. Conference report on sundry civil bill was defeated. The night session was devoted to the consideration of pension bills.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The day was consumed by the "filled cheese" bill and the second installment of the speech by Allen on the Butler bill to prohibit the issue of bonds without the authority of congress. Forty private pension bills were passed in as many minutes.

HOUSE.

The time of the house was wholly devoted to conference reports. Report on the river and harbor bill was agreed to. Report on executive, legislative and judicial bill was also adopted. The sundry civil and Indian appropriation bills were sent back to conference. Howard, pop., of Alabama, presented a resolution for the impeachment of President Cleveland for the alleged illegal use of the proceeds from the bond sale and corruption in politics and refusal to enforce the anti-trust law. The house refused to consider it.

Prominents Indicted.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., May 23.—The grand jury returned indictments against the heads of Illinois College, the Catholic and parochial schools for not having flags on their school buildings. Among those indicted are Bishop Ryan, of the Alton diocese, and Vicar General Hickey, of Springfield, many other prominent people being included.

Altgeld and Silver.

OTTAWA, Ill., May 23.—John P. Altgeld for governor and free silver were the instructions given to the delegates selected at the LaSalle county convention to attend the state convention. Attorney General Moloney presided as chairman. LaSalle is Comptroller Eckels' home county.

Killed a Morphine Eater.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—A. E. Shepherd, a jeweler, murdered his cousin, Mrs. L. E. Aweny, then cut his own throat. The women was addicted to morphine. A note left by the murderer indicated that he considered it his duty to kill her. Shepherd was a devout spiritualist.

Presbyterian General Assembly.

SARATOGA, N. Y., May 23.—The 108th general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America is in session here.

AN INVITATION.

It Gives Us Pleasure to Publish the following Announcement.

All women suffering from any form of illness peculiar to their sex are requested to communicate promptly with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only.

A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America. This confidence has induced more than 100,000 women to write Mrs. Pinkham for advice during the last few months.

Think what a volume of experience she has to draw from! No physician living ever treated so many cases of female ills, and from this vast experience surely it is more than possible she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case.

She is glad to have you write or call upon her. You will find her a woman full of sympathy, with a great desire to assist those who are sick. If her medicine is not what you need, she will frankly tell you so, and there are nine chances out of ten that she will tell you exactly what to do for relief. She asks nothing in return except your good will, and her advice has relieved thousands.

Surely, any ailing woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

Never in the history of medicine has the demand for one particular remedy for female diseases equalled that attained by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and never in the history of Mrs. Pinkham's wonderful Compound has the demand for it been so great as it is to-day.

USEFUL ITEMS.

A few drops of tincture of benzoin in a bowl of water is an admirable tonic for the face. The benzoin whitens the skin and prevents it from wrinkling.

Soups and gravies must never at any time be left in the stewpans or saucepans; when finished cooking they must be poured into earthen pans or basins.

It takes more than twice as much sugar to sweeten preserves and sauces if put in when they begin to cook than it does if the sugar is added after the cooking is done.

Do not put a coat or dress away with dust in the folds or plaits. Shake the garment well and brush with a soft whisk broom, for dust is never so easily removed as at first.

In case of a long illness the back is liable to become chafed; to prevent the skin breaking beat the white of an egg to a strong froth and add two teaspoonfuls of brandy; apply with a feather.

For canker sore mouth one tablespoonful of salt, one of alum, half a teaspoonful of borax and as much blue vitriol, two tablespoonfuls of honey and a pint of strong cider vinegar. Simmer over a slow fire in an earthen vessel, then put into bottles. Use this frequently with a swab.

To Keep the Hair in Curl.—Two ounces of borax, 1 dram of gum arabic, 1 quart hot but not boiling water. Stir together. As soon as all are dissolved add 3 tablespoonfuls of strong spirits of camphor. On retiring wet the hair with this liquid and roll in twists of paper. Do not disturb till morning, then untwist.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

London's common council has applications from 1,892 cricket clubs for the use of the 227 grounds at its disposal.

They are talking of putting on a new play of low life in London, where all the parts shall be taken by real criminals.

On June 21 the seventy-fifth anniversary of Pope Leo's first communion will be celebrated in all the churches of Rome.

Experiments have shown that soft wood under pressure becomes considerably harder than hard wood under pressure.

Coolgardie, after three years' drouth, has had a five-inch fall of rain, which has filled all the reservoirs and provided the district with water enough for a year.

A bore hole for rock salt at Stemberg, in Prussia, is 675 fathoms. The upper part of the hole is thirteen inches in diameter and the lower part one foot. This boring was completed in 2,349 days of eight hours' duration.

Cupid Checkmated.

"So you didn't get up a match between Pilkerton and that pretty girl?

"No; they lived in adjoining flats you know, and had seen each other at the windows early in the morning."

H. W. Schoper.

THE

LEADING - IMPLEMENT - DEALER.

Has on hand a complete stock of FARM

IMPLEMENTS.

Fisher Wagons, Staver Abbot, and Parry Buggies,

Rock Island and U. S. Planters,

Conklin Cultivators,

Morrison and R. I. Sulky Plows.

Pumps Fanning Mills etc..

A fine road wagon

Only $30.

DAVIS SEWING MACHINE, THE BEST ON THE MARKET.

COME and see for yourself.

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME. Belmond. Iowa.

WE WILL SELL

AT PRIVATE SALE.

Our Large Stock Of

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Plows, Cultivators, Hay Rakes and Loaders, Seeders, Disc Harrows, Planters, Wind Mills and Pumps, Water Tanks, Buggies and Waggons. We handle the KEYSTONE FENCE, the best fence on earth. Also the

Milwaukee Binders and Mowers

At prices that defy competition.

LAU BROTHERS.

In the Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of—DeWitt's Little Early Risers, for they always cleanse the liver, purify the blood, and invigorate the system. Harr.

Goodell Items.

Jim. Elder Sundayed at home.

Geo. Butts was at Garner last week.

Allie white purchased a new alto horn last week.

Elmer Kinney, of Belmond, Sundayed at home.

F. B. McCorkle returned from his Chicago trip, Saturday.

Prof. Houghton was at Garner a few days last week.

Farman & Son are talking of lighting their store with electric lights.

The Misses Griggs and their cousin from Ackley, were at Clear Lake fishing, Friday.

Mr.. Wilson and Miss Jessie Millett of Hamilton Center, are visiting Mrs. John Mulkins this week.

The attendance at the M. E.. sociable was small on account of bad weather. Receipts $10.

G L. Wellmeyer, Ray Armstrong, Guy Byers, and Henry Africa, of Belmond, spent Sunday in Goodell.

Lou Wesenberg, Carrie Trumble, Core Smith and Luella Wesenberg, drove to Rodman, Iowa Friday, returning Sunday..

Last Friday evening eleven of our bycyclist took a spin over in old Amsterdam. Our town is getting right to the front for bycycles.

Young mothers dread the Summer months on account of the great mortality among children caused by bowels troubles. Perfect safety may be assured those who keep on hand DeWitt's Colic & Cholera cure, and administer it promptly. For cramps, bilious colic, dysentery and diarrhœa, it affords instant relief. Harr.

BUY THE BEST

The "DOMESTIC"

Is absolutely the best Sewing Machine made. Leads in latest and best improvements.

SIMPLE

PRACTICAL

DURABLE

For over 30 years has been endorsed by the public as the most satisfactory of all sewing machines. We want your trade and can save you money. Write for free catalogue and prices..

THE DOMESTIC S. M. CO.,

298 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Did you think how readily the blood is poisoned by constipation? Bad blood means bad health and premature old age. DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills, overcome obstinate constipation.. Harr.

The Northwestern depot at Goldfield was struck by lightning last week and burned to the ground. Ex..

SPRING

Style MY Hats!

Millinery Store is now ready for spring BUSINESS.

I have just received a new and complete line of

Flowers, Tips, Ribbons, Laces, Fancy Braids, Persian Silks etc.

And everything you could expect to find in a first class store..

MISS ADNA BARTA of St. Paul, a first class trimmer will be with me the entire season.

YOU are invited to come in.. No trouble to Show Goods..

Dressmaking in connection.

Miss E. Renziehausen.

COME STRAIGHT

To Our Store

If you want to save money in what you must purchase along the line of

GENERAL Merchandise.

Onr stock is complete in department; is fresh and new, and we are selling the goods with special regard to the Hard Times..

WESENBERG BROS.

H. SCHROEDER,

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY - MEAT - MARKET.

Carry a Complete line of Fresh, Salt and Smoked Meats.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

HIDES.

PICKLES, etc. Always on hand.

Klemme, Ia.

MARION A. FELL, NOTARY PUBLIC.

M. R. CHAMBERS, ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans at 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farmers Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.. Do not fail to call on us.. we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co,

Garner, Iowa.

25 YEARS EXPERIENCE IN

BLACKSMITHING

Enables me to do your work in a workmanlike manner.

Plow Work a Specialty.

Also do wood repairing on Wagons and Buggies..

Satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. KROUSE, KLEMME, IA.

STATE · SAVINGS · BANK

—OF—

KLEMME, IOWA

Does a regular Banking Business. Deals in Domestic and Foreign

EXCHANGE

Loans money on long or short time. Attends to collections and pay interest on time deposits

C. W. KNAPP, Cashier.

Honest Prices,
Reliable Goods,
Courteous Treatment,

Is our motto.

We handle Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Hats, Caps, Crockery, Hardware, Ammunition.

Buck's Celebrated Stoves.

TIN SHOP UP STAIRS.

5 pr. ct. off for cash.

SCHNEIDER CO. GARNER, IA.

Clothing at prices lower than ever. Clothing that is new, stylish and Clothing that is good fitting. That is what makes clothing sell.

The Hot Weather coats and vests are in, and are the correct thing. We show you a line of

NEW HATS.

—Straw Hats in endless variety.—

We are exclusive agents for the GORDON HAT just as good as a Stetson hat and costs one half the money.

5 per. ct. off for cash

W. C. SCHULER,

GARNER IA.

Bettin and Remer.

Contractors and Builders.

Plans and specifications furnished on application.

—All work guaranteed.

KLEMME, IOWA

THE KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, May 29, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum in Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1895.

GRISWOLD & CLINE, PUBLISHERS.

Storms.

A terrific storm struck the town of Durango May 25th sweeping everything in its path and caused the creek to raise about 20ft. A family living in the depot at Durango was swept away all but two being rescued. A brakeman was also drowned while trying to save a child. Half a mile of the great Western side track was swept away and large barns totally destroyed. The Maquoketa river is over its banks in all directions. The Illinois Central road is washed out in several places, telegraph wires are down, and no end of damage done. Many lives were lost in the storm.

One of the worst cyclones ever known in Iowa passed over Jasper and Polk counties the 25th. killing 38 people and injuring a great many others. The damage to buildings and crops is estimated at $100.000.

Signal: Garner is about to lose some of her most prominent citizens, Mr. and Mrs. Brower, long-time residents of this town, having sold their residence and farm in this vicinity are about to remove to their home in Indiana, there to remain for the summer caring for Mr. Browers's mother who has lately been left a widow and is now in feeble health. It is their intention to come back to Iowa some time in the future, making either Dubuque or Mason City their home.

Decoration day services will be held at the cemetery in the forenoon. Members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. will meet at the G. A. R. hall at 9 o'clock sharp, and march to the cemetery. Every one is requested to take part. At the cemetery Rev. Douglas will deliver an address and the G. A. R. memorial service will be held. Parties willing to donate flowers are requested to bring them to the hall on the 29th. so that they may be properly arranged.

SIGNAL.

One Minute is the standard time, and One Minute Cough Cure is the standard preparation for every form of cough or cold. It is the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results. Harr.

Bring in your job work, we guarantee satisfaction.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market; costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. HARR. Read our free booklet on Microbic Diseases.

L. L. Spencer hauled his steamboat to Crystal Lake and launched it last Friday. It is said that the boat glides along nicely to the satisfaction of all. A refreshment stand will be erected at the lake in a short time.

THOMPSON COURIER.

BREEDERS ATTENTION!

Well bred, good sized horses sell and are for general use.

Mac Michael 11924, is a large, fine, royal bred stallion, that has been tried and his foals are all you can ask. He is speedy, and sound, and weighs 1250 pounds. A 3-year-old filly by him went miles in 2:10 last year. I am standing him for $10.00 this year. next year $50.

R. J. W. BLOOM,
Garner, Ia,

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR OIL

[FOR OUR FRIEND, THE HORSE.]

Speedily cures Barb-Wire Cuts, Bruises and Lacerated surfaces, Collar and Saddle Galls, Fungus Collar Tumors, Scratches, Thrush, etc.

Geo. Alexander, Olaf, Iowa, says: "One of my horses was totally disabled by reason of barb-wire cut, muscles being lacerated and torn from knee to shoulder and bone splintered. Tried their remedies for months but without avail. The second application of Compound Liquid Sulphur Oil stopped all irritation and one bottle has nearly cured the sore." For sale by J. L. HARR.

Evangelist Williams has gone to Cherokee, where in conjuncture with "Billy" Sunday he will conduct revival meetings.

The army worm has made its appearance on several farms in the vicinity of Shellsburg and are to be numbered only as the sands of the sea when found. They travel rapidly, consuming an entire field in a single day, leaving it a waste. Should they continue to increase all crops will be destroyed.—C. R. R.

The most terific rain storm at Nora Springs for years occured May 25th washing out all bridges in all directions.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.

OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.

OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

GEO. S. GATES,

STONE · AND · BRICK · MASON

Plastering a Specialty. Do all kinds of work in my line. I also make a Specialty of bricking up Cisterns and boilers. All work guaranteed and Prices accordingly.

Give me a trial,

GEO. S. GATES,

Klemme, Iowa.

Wanted—An Idea Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer and list of two hundred inventions wanted.

JOHN BAUMGARTNER.

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY BARBER SHOP.

AN EASY SHAVE.

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

SHOP IN KIRKWOOD HOUSE, KLEMME, IOWA.

STOP!

If you want any Painting done and see

JOE MILLER,

a painter of 15 years experience.

All work guaranteed.

Leave orders at Shafer & Dows.

KLEMME IA.

Mr. D. P. Davis, a prominent liveryman and merchant of Goshen, Va., has this to say on the subject of rheumatism: "I take pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, as I know from personal experience that it will do all that it is claimed for it. A year ago this spring my brother was laid up in bed with inflamatory rheumatism and suffered intensely. The first application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm eased the pain and the use of one bottle completely cured him. For sale by J. L. HARR.

THE QUESTION is often asked, What Paint shall we use?

THE ANSWER: If you are looking for covering capacity, wearing qualities, general appearance, and your money's worth, you must buy

THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINT.

Covers Most, Looks Best, Wears Longest, Most Economical, Full Measure.

Our prices are for "best goods" first, last and all the time. We are in the business to stay and S. W. P. stays with us.

BRUSHES,
COLORS IN OIL,
HOUSE & COACH
VARNISHES,
WALL PAPER.

C. S. COLLINS, GARNER, IOWA.

Spring Goods are all in

The Bell Clothing STORE, at

GARNER, IOWA.

When in town call and see us, we can save you money.

For GOOD DEALS IN

HARNESS,

Call on

F. GRUETZMACHER.

You will find a Number One Hand Made Harness Warranted.
Single harness from	5 to $20.
Collars from	75c to $3.50
Sweat Pads	25c to 75c
Lap Dusters	35c to $2.50.

I carry a complete line in Saddlery and Sandlery Hardware.

Shoes.

My stock of shoes is such that I can fit any one small or large in style, comfort and prices.

Now Is Your Chance.

A firm that has had experience in handling farm machinery knows which kinds give the best satisfaction.

Terhufen & Son

on second street, handle Deering Binders, Dubuque Norweigen Plows, Pekin Riding Plows, Mascot Corn Cultivators, Evans Planters, Moline wagons and

FANCY BUGGIES.

We meet any competition on the same class of goods.

Call on us and get OUR PRICES.

Terhufen & Son.

AFTER MANY YEARS.

By H. Luqueer.

OW, Miss Jinney, you is alus a wantin' a story about dem tryin' times in Ole Caroliney, an' I's jes don' tole ye all I knowed ober ober agin."

And our own colored cook, 'Tilda Jackson, knocked the ashes out of her pipe on the hearth of the kitchen range, which to us children was a preliminary sign that old 'Tilda held in reserve one of her reminiscences of her life on the Old Carter plantation, near the city of Charleston, and of the civil war.

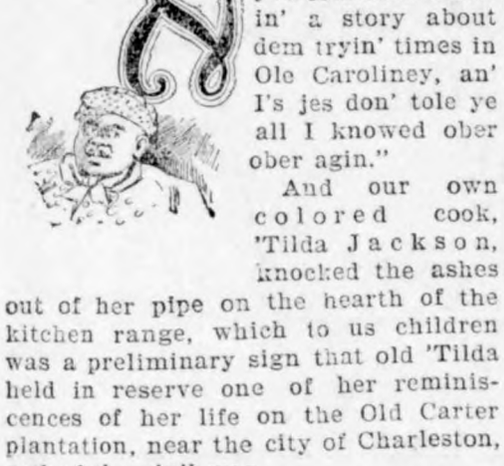
We children, my sister and I, used to love to steal down to her especial domain in the gloaming, and tease for a story of that enchanted land of flowers, and especially of those battles fought near the Carter place, and of which the old negress was an eye witness.

Refilling her pipe, and settling herself in her easy chair, she continued:

"I jes' done recolmember one moah ob dem yarns, but it's erbout how my ole missus kep Decoration Day all by her lone self, an' how she done put poses on one grave fur fifteen long years afore she found out who de poah young fella was."

Here old 'Tilda stopped and lighted her pipe, puffed away with a retrospective glance at us two girls, as we crept closer to this oracle in ebony, and, having stimulated our curiosity, she continued:

"Wal, jes' a couple o' days after dat



"SO SCART I LET DE SOPE BILE OVER."

ere big fight at Charleston my ole man, Lige Jackson, he was down back o' de field a cuttin' bresh, an' all at once I seen him drop the axe, an' start fur de house on a run. An' I was dat scart I let de soap boil over, case I was makin' soap out in de yard, an' was bound dat a snake had bit him, or he had got a lick wid de axe—fur Lige was de laziest niggah in de whole kentry, an' I knowed something had happened when I seen him git such a move on to him. An', shore enough, when he came up, all out of breff, I knowed it was time to git scart, an' says he: ''Tildy, tell de missus dar's a sojier lyin' down dar back ob de fence, by de run, an' I recon he is powful bad hurt, 'case he's a grownin' an' done seem to sense notin.'

"Wal, my missus wan't berry ole in dem days, but she was jus' done fading lake a putty posey, along ob dat dreadful wah, expecting to heah dat de cunnel was killed, an' all de oder trouble erbout de niggas gittin' free, wid de place half woked an' fust one army takin' rations and den de oder till it 'pears like day wasent much lef'. Wall, I jis pulled de stick from under dat soap kittle an' run round to de front porch, whar missus was sittin', an' tole her what Lige seen. She got right up an' made Lige an' ole Minkey, de coachman, go and brung dat pooh fellah to de house. She an' me a fxin' up a bed fur him while dey is gone.

"Byenby dey toats him in an' lays him in it. He was outen his hade lake, an' missus send right off fur a doctor, and he foun' he was shot in de side, de ball goin' roun' by de spine, an' he say dat air pooh boy dun got he death blow, and de doctor recon' he was eider shot while on picket duty or had dropped behind when he dun got hurt, while de army marched on an' lef' him. Anyway, dar he was, an' he doant know nobody ner nothing, an' de doctor say he was parlised, so he couldent even move his pooh tounge.

"Wall, missus an' me nussed him till we both pretty nigh dun drop in our tracks fur a week. Den at las' he dun went home to glory, as de sun was settin' lake in a sea of fiah.

But jis afore he breaved his las' he kinda com'd to his senses, an' kep' a lookin' at missus—an' he try'd so mighty hard to speak an' was dat distressed case he couldn't, de big tears roll outen his handsome black eyes an' roll down his cheeks dat was as white as de sheet, an' de sweat lay so cole an' thick on his hands dat his pretty dark curls looked like dey were don got dipped in de rain water barrl.

"De Missus take his han' an' say:

" 'Nebber mine, de lovin' Jesus knows jes what ye want to say,' an' would help him ter make her en'stan,' anyway she would dun find out who his folks war an' write 'em all about how he fit an' died duin' his duty, or what he thought war his duty.

"Den he kept looking at his pooh ragged clothes, dat was a hangin' whar he could see 'em, till missus takes de hint from his appealin' eyes, and goes and hunts through de pockets. She dun found nothin but a little bible, an' when she bring it to him his eyes jes shine, lake de stars in de night, an' missus opened it an' a leetle tintype of a putty young thing a holdin' a little baby er about a year old drapped out, an' then he looked so glad. Missus axed him ef dat war his wife an' baby, an' he nodded yas, an' den missus say: 'I kin find dem by 'vertisin in de newspapers, an' I tink I dun know what ye want me to tell dem,' an' den she see dat he was satisfied, an' his poor eyes was loosin' deir light. She dun took his han' in hers, an' sang lake an' angel dat pretty hymn about:

" 'All my trus' on de is staid.'

"Dar was two or three verses, but I disremember 'em. Anyway while she was singing de gates ob glory opened and tuk dat poor boy in.

"Ef he war fightin' on de wrong side he dident dun know it. He just did his duty as he had learned it from older hades. So de missus had him laid to res' up in de grove back of de house, an' ebery Decoration Day she dun put poses on dat lone grabe, rain or shine, sick or well."

"Did she ever advertise?" asked Jennie, wiping the tears out of her eyes.

Deed she did! an' fur years she war tryin' to fine dem folks ob hisen, till it went on fur nigh on ter fifteen years. De wah was dun, de niggars all free, Massah Carter loss an arm a fightin' agin it, an' his only chile, young Massa John, war growed up to be a man, an' like his ma, as putty as a picter, and' dat smart dat he run de plantation his own self. He hired de niggahs to work dat war good fur anything, an' let de triflin' ones go.

Wal, der used to be lots of company allus a comin' up from Charleston, an' one day in May dar war Massa John's cousin, Miss Liddy Carter, dun come out to de plantation ter make a visit, an' she brung erlong a young school frien', Nellie Munson, an' she was as putty as a picter, with eyes as black as de night when de moon don't shine, an' de coler ob her cheeks war like de roses in de gardin.

Wal, such time as dem young critters had. Day was boatin' an' fishin', an' hossback ridin' ebery day ob der lives. Wal, one sweet, putty morning my ole missus say, dis is Decoration Day; ef you young ladies want to go wid me to put flowers on my grabe, I would like yer company. Miss Liddy she jes' dun streach herself outen de hammock on de veranda, an' she say: "'Scuse me, aunty, I'm awful tired of dat grabe; eber since I was a baby I recolmember it."

HOW WONDERFUL ARE THY WAYS, OH LORD.

But Miss Nellie she dun jump up an' say:

"Please let me go, I've dun hear how good you war to dat poah sojier an' I know some day you will git your reward." So she an' missus walked off in de bright sunshine, de bees war a hummin' and de birds a singin', and de carried a great baskit of poses—de hunney suckle an' roses, an' jasamine, an' Miss Nellie de prettiest flower of all in her white frock and sky blue sash.

Miss Liddy she lay dar swingin' in de hammak, and Massa John, after a little, gits up and starts for de grove, too. Den Miss Liddy laffs and sais kinder scornful lake: "Is it Miss Nell or de grabe that takes you out dar dis hot mornin'?"

He jes laugh back at her an' say:

"Ob corse it's de grabe, dat's my 'ligeous duty, ye know, 'specially when dar's a lovely young lady in de bargain."

De ole missus allus like ' habe us all come up dar, too, so I wa' dar jes' as Mr. John got dar, an', as usual, my missus opened dat sojier's Bible an' was jus' goin ter read when Miss Nellie saw de leetle tintype, and she gabe a leetle cry lake, an' takin' it from de missus han' she said:

"Oh, Mrs. Carter, my ma has got jes such a picture, an' it hers an' mine when I was a baby." Den she laid her haid down into missus' lap an' began ter cry, an' she sobed out dat her pa was in de wah, an' disappeared, an' day dun tried ebery way to fine out someting erbout him. Missus axe her what was her pas and mas name, an' she tole her dere names war "George an' Lucy." An' missus opened de Bible, an' dar was writ on de leaf "From Lucy to George." Den she took de poah young lady in her arms, an' said: "How wonderful are dy ways, Oh, Lord!" An', my chile, dare under all dem flowers sleeps your father, an' in this peaceful spot. He has not been like a stranger, or neglected, so now in de Providence ob de good Lord, de dearest wish ob his heart is fulfilled. I trus' you will be comforted.

Massa John walked erway wipin' his eyes, an' ole missus read a comfortin' varse or two outen dat little Bible, an' we uns sang a hymn, and de decoration was ober fur dat day, an' missus said to all ob us:

"Let dis yar teach yer a lesson ob faith. Do your duty, no matter how long de way is, or how dark de cloubds."

Wal, chil'en, it is time ye were in yer beds. Its jes erbout true, dis yarn. Ebery word is as true as de gospil. Yas, Miss Jinnie, dat are grabe is decorated ebery year when dis day comes aroun', though de ole massa and missus is lyin' down beside dat young sojier boy, an' it's Miss Nellie's grabe now, for she dun gon' an marr'd Massa John, an' he jus' lubs de ground she walks on. De ole missus lubed her, too, and you ought to a seen what care Miss Nellie dun took ob de ole missus in her las' sickness, fur months afore she dun went to her reward, and she say ober and ober agin:

"No kind act is overlooked by de Master; an', honey, I'm gittin' my pay now for honorin' de dead by a few flowers on a lonely grabe upon de day de nation set apart to 'memorate dose dat fell."

TWO HOLIDAYS.

Two Little Relation Maintained Between May 30 and July 4.

There is far too little relation maintained between Independence Day and Memorial Day. One is the natural sequence of the other, and the celebration of both should be observed with due solemnity as well as with comely and becoming rejoicing. A sacred service to begin the day, a service of thanksgiving, of grand and appropriate music, then with the congregation pouring out into the highways and byways of the earth, the spirit of peace and good-will might be merged into a feeling of joyousness and a giving way to all forms of hilarious sport and innocent amusement. We have in one of these days honored our forefathers through whose wise and determined efforts the country was established, and in the other we have remembered those who rescued us from danger and saved us for a great and glorious future. These days are the red-letter days in the American calendar—impressive because they are reminders of great struggles, because they made our present condition of existence possible; happy because we know by them, and what they typify, that the spirit of patriotism, self-sacrifice and the great and all-comprehensive spirit of divinity that was originally planted in the hearts of men has neither been dimmed nor extinguished. It has only slumbered and smoldered; the living fire is there, and needs but the breath of treason or the slightest blow from an assaulting hand to bring it full-grown to its feet, a stalwart young giant able to cope with any adversary that threatens the life and the union of the states.

TO-DAY.

Is not this day enough for all our powers,
If its exactions were but fairly met—
If not one unpaid debt
Were left to haunt the peace of future hours,
And sting us with regret?

Unbounded blessing lieth in Today.
If we but seek we find it hidden there;
It is the golden stair,
Leading, it may be, by an unknown way
To all we hope or dare.

From sun to sun let us this lesson learn:
Upon Today our fairest chances wait,
And, whether soon or late,
Our destiny upon its hinge may turn—
Today, sweet friends, is Fate.

Annie L. Muzzey.

Dark ages from the sixth to the fourteenth century.

Choice Farming Lands in South Dakota

Along the line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway can now be had upon reasonable terms. The crop prospects were never better and a glorious harvest for this year is already assured. Thousands of acres of unoccupied lands in over twenty counties are now open for settlement. For further information address H. F. Hunter, Immigration Agent for South Dakota, 295 Dearborn street, Chicago, Ill.

During the most peaceful years the world has 3,700,000 soldiers. The pay, equipment, food and clothing of these men cost nearly $2,500,000 a day.

A Summer Resort Book Free.

Write to C. S. Crane, general passenger and ticket agent Wabash Railroad, St. Louis, Mo., for a summer resort book, telling all about the beautiful lake region reached by the Wabash Railroad.

"Trust men and they will trust you," said Emerson. "Trust men and they will bust you," says the average business man.

Two bottles of Piso's Cure for Consumption cured me of a bad lung trouble.—Mrs. J. Nichols, Princeton, Ind., Mar. 26, 1895.

When a woman wants a wheel she can always find a doctor to recommend it.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is taken internally. Price, 75c.

A lie must be thatched with another, or it will soon rain through.

That

Extreme tired feeling afflicts nearly everybody at this season. The hustlers cease to push, the tireless grow weary, the energetic become enervated. You know just what we mean. Some men and women endeavor temporarily to overcome that

Tired

Feeling by great force of will. But this is unsafe, as it pulls powerfully upon the nervous system, which will not long stand such strain. Too many people "work on their nerves," and the result is seen in unfortunate wrecks marked "nervous prostration," in every direction. That tired

Feel-

ing is a positive proof of thin, weak, impure blood; for, if the blood is rich, red, vitalized and vigorous, it imparts life and energy to every nerve, organ and tissue of the body. The necessity of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for that tired feeling is, therefore, apparent to every one, and the good it will do you is equally beyond question. Remember that

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are easy to take, easy to operate. 25 cents.

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER

Will restore gray hair to its youthful color and beauty—will thicken the growth of the hair—will prevent baldness, cure dandruff, and all scalp diseases. A fine dressing. The best hair restorer made.

R. P. Hall & Co., Props., Nashua, N. H.
Sold by all Druggists.

You can reach practically all the great resorts of America, by the through car lines of "America's Greatest Railroad" The New York Central.

A quarter spent in HIRES Rootbeer does you dollars' worth of good.

Made only by The Charles E. Hires Co., Philadelphia. A 25c. package makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D.C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

WANTED--A LOCAL AGENT

IMPERIAL ACCIDENT ASSOCIATION, Des Moines, Iowa.
Special Polices for All Occupations. Cheapest Policies Sold. Write us. Liberal terms to agents

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS. 25 CTS.

In Breezy Chicago.

The large gentleman with the large diamond looked admiringly at the brunette lady in cream colored silk.

"Fine looking woman waltzing with Brown, ain't she?" he said to the man nearest him. "Wonder if she's married."

"I believe she is just at present," was the answer, and the lake breeze moaned fitfully.

Summer Homes.

In the lake regions of Wisconsin, northern Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa and Dakota, there are hundreds of charming localities pre-eminently fitted for summer homes. Nearly all are located on or near lakes which have not been fished out. These resorts are easily reached by railway and range in variety from the "full dress for dinner" to the flannel-shirt costume for every meal. Among the list are names familiar to many of our readers as the perfection of northern summer resorts. Nearly all of the Wisconsin points of interest are within a short distance from Chicago or Milwaukee, and none of them are so far away from the "busy marts of civilization" that they cannot be reached in a few hours of travel, by frequent trains, over the finest road in the northwest—the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway. A description of the principal resorts, with list of summer hotels and boarding houses, and rates for board, will be sent free on application to Geo. H. Heafford, General Passenger Agent, Chicago.

Paris has 2,511,455 inhabitants by the census just taken, an increase of 875,20 in five years.

When Nature

Needs assistance it may be best to render it promptly, but one should remember to use even the most perfect remedies only when needed. The best and most simple and gentle remedy is the Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company.

It is said that out of the 28,000 Hebrews in the city of Amsterdam, 10,000 are occupied in the trade of diamond dealing.

All About Western Farm Lands

The "Corn Relt" is the name of an illustrated monthly newspaper published by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. R. It aims to give information in an interesting way about the farm lands of the west. Send 25 cents in postage stamps to the Corn Belt, 209 Adams St., Chicago, and the paper will be sent to your address for one year.

Laying aside all quips and jests,
There's one thing sure and that's,
There are no birds in last year's nests,
They're all on this year's hats.

Joys are our wings, sorrows are our spurs.—Richter.

PURE CALIFORNIA WINES. L. Apffel, Wholesaler. Los Angeles, Cal., 2 cases, ass'd, freight paid, $7—$8—$9. Eastern shipments my specialty.

Good players on the harp are said to be the scarcest of all musical performers.

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

The bank statistics of Ireland for 1895 are the most satisfactory ever recorded.

Dr. Brinton, one of the greatest American ethnologists, says that man first appeared on the earth 70,000 years ago.

CULINARY HINTS.

Fried mushrooms.—Select large, fresh mushrooms; remove skin and stems; roll in cracker meal, season with salt; fry in boiling hot butter, and serve hot.

Potato balls.—Mash cold boiled potatoes; season with salt and pepper; make into little balls. Dip first into beaten eggs, then in grated bread crumbs, and fry in boiling fat.

Cabbage salad.—Shred one-half head of a small cabbage; cover with strong salted water; let stand one-half hour and drain; put in a salad bowl and pour over plain dressing; garnish with hard-boiled eggs sliced in rings.

Cream Scalloped Fish.—Take cold boiled or baked fish. Boil one pint of milk with half an onion, cut in two; while boiling stir in perfectly smooth one and one-fourth tablespoonfuls of flour; when boiled take out onion and stir in one-half cup butter. Butter a deep earthen dish. Put in first a layer of bread crumbs and a very little cheese if liked. Bake from half to three-quarters of an hour.

The New England Conservatory of Music, Franklyn Square, Boston, Mass., is undoubtably the best equipped School of Music in the world. Its pupils are always in demand as teachers on account of their superior musical knowledge and their practical readiness in applying it. In addition, the Conservatory offers the best instruction in Oratory and Modern Languages. The charge is extremely small when its advantages as compared with those offered by similar schools are considered. Prospectus sent free upon application.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER.

Sometimes 'tis better to have loved and lost than ever to have loved and won.

A broken resolution can be mended with the glue of common sense, but it may not be worth while.

Modern social usage decrees that wedding presents may be sent at any time within two months before the day of the ceremony.

A gentleman should always be introduced to a lady, not a lady to the gentleman. If you are making only a brief call you can keep your gloves on and your hat in your hand without impropriety.

Good taste would indicate that a newly married couple on their wedding tour should dress as much like other people as possible and be careful to wear nothing which would serve as an advertisement of their new relation to each other.

A lady who was a great stickler for etiquette, and perhaps an atom eccentric, not being able to pay her usual visit to church one Sunday morning, sent her maid to leave her card in the seat.

Guarded.

Jess—Jack tried to pump me last night on your age.

Bess—You didn't tell him?

Jess—Of course not; I said you didn't look it.

"Judgment!!"

BattleAx PLUG

The umpire now decides that "BATTLE AX" is not only decidedly bigger in size than any other 5 cent piece of tobacco, but the quality is the finest he ever saw, and the flavor delicious. You will never know just how good it is until you try it.

A NOVEL SCHEME.

For Raising and Perpetuating Rare Varieties of Wild Animals.

A novel scheme for raising and perpetuating rare varieties of wild animals is the latest zoological idea of the Ringling Brothers, whose show will play quite a number of Iowa towns during the present season. A special agent of the company is now negotiating for a tract of land at Long Beach, near San Pedro, in southern California, for the purpose, while special efforts will be made by the Ringling Bros.' foreign agents to secure the healthiest specimens of wild animals for breeding purposes.

Four or five square miles of heavily wooded land are being secured and the entire tract will be inclosed by a strong wall composed of stone, brick and iron.

The idea of the Ringling Brothers is to turn the animals into this inclosure and to let them follow their natural inclinations and habits as much as possible, as the animals to be propogated are mostly of the carniverous kind, such animals as they prey upon will be supplied for food.

A considerable portion of this extensive establishment will be separated from the rest by secure partitions for raising the delicate giraffe, camels, zebras, guaggnes and other herbivorous families of the animal kingdom. In order that fresh water may be always on hand, pipes will be laid under ground, ending in fountains in the inclosure, and fed from spring water pumped in from the outside.

It is proposed to lay a concrete walk just outside and extending around the entire wall, and a watchman on a bicycle will make a tour of inspection of the entire inclosure twice each day. The idea, if successful, will probably result in preserving certain animals, such as the giraffe, from becoming entirely extinct.

Elephants will also be raised within the inclosure. On account of their great strength it was at first thought that an enclosure would be impracticable, but a scheme has been devised which, it is believed, will prevent them from breaking down the walls. Forty feet within the outer wall will be erected a second fence, composed and built of logs driven into the ground by a pile driver. These timbers will be about three feet apart and will be cross-braced by a row of timbers extending from the cross-braces to the ground. This will make a very strong shield against which the assaults of a very large and vicious elephant will have no effect.

One of the most interesting features of the jungle will be the monkey farm. For this purpose several acres will be used. A wooden frame will be erected extending above the height of the trees and completely surrounding the farm. The framework will be covered with a network of wire, so that the monkeys will be at liberty to climb about the trees and feed on the fruits and nuts, but will be unable to escape.

A. P A. RAISES THE BAN.

Witnesses Who Testified Against McKinley Declared Unreliable.

Washington, May 18.—Saturday's session of the American Protective association supreme council was the most interesting of the convention, because the action of the executive committee of the advisory board in blacklisting Mr. McKinley as a presidential candidate was reviewed.

The report of the advisory board upon the action of the committee was made to the council late in the session. It was technically an indorsement of the executive committee. It asserted, in substance, that the executive committee was warranted, in view of the evidence presented to it, in placing a ban upon Mr. McKinley. But in addition it states that a further examination of this testimony by the full board has convinced the members the witnesses were unreliable and that their statements were incorrect. Therefore, the board concludes, Mr. McKinley should be placed upon the same footing, so far as members of the A. P. A. are concerned, with the other candidates for presidential nominations

DEBS FOR PRESIDENT.

Trade and Labor Assembly at Chicago Indorses Him.

Chicago, May 19.—The principal and most important business of the labor congress at the regular meeting held yesterday afternoon was to nominate a candidate for president of the United States. After prolonged discussion the following resolution was adopted: "Resolved, That we submit to organized and unorganized labor of the United States Eugene V. Debs as being the best fitted to be chosen as the leader of the industrial classes in the coming conflict of the forces of pure democracy against the aggressions of aristocracy."

Sylvester Keliher, grand secretary of the American Union, argued for united action on the part if the laboring men of the country who were facing a crisis of gravest nature, and substantially indorsed the candidacy of his chief for the high office.

Fire in a Chicago Suburb.

Chicago, May 19.—Blue Island, a suburb of this city, had a nine-hours' visitation of fire yesterday morning which outside help alone prevented from sweeping away the town. Thirty-six houses were destroyed, and an area equal to two blocks were razed in the center of the village, and the losses by conservative estimate amount to $105,700. One man was injured.

Variations.

"Papa, what is a historical epoch?"

"It is a period of time that used to cover ages, but now it runs along anywhere from a week to ten days.

Protecting Her Wardrobe.

Mrs. Smith—I notice you always have either such tall servants or such short ones?

Mrs. Jones (who is medium sized)—I don't want any whom there is any chance of my clothes fitting.

The Commissary Department

Of the human system is the stomach. In consequence of its activity, the body is supplied with the elements of bone, brain, nervous and muscular tissue. When indigestion impedes its functions, the best agent for imparting a healthful impetus to its operations is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, also a curative for malaria, bilious and kidney complaints, nervousness and constipation.

The population of the world averages 109 women to every 100 men.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth,

Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.

Remember one thing—no man can fail to fulfil his destiny but through his own fault.

"A Cup of Parks' Tea at night moves the bowels in the morning."

In this country there are over eighty national trades-unions.

Coe's Cough Balsam

Is the oldest and best. It will break up a Cold quicker than anything else. It is always reliable. Try it.

The Empress Eugenie celebrated her 70th birthday on the 6th of May.

Hosts of people go to work in the wrong way to cure a Sprain, Soreness, OR Stiffness, When ST. JACOBS OIL would cure in the right way, right off.

Poor Pilgarlic,

there is no need for you to contemplate a wig when you can enjoy the pleasure of sitting again under your own "thatch." You can begin to get your hair back as soon as you begin to use

Ayer's Hair Vigor.

CUT AND SLASH!

SMOKING TOBACCO, 2 oz. for 5 Cents.

CUT AND SLASH

CHEROOTS—3 for 5 Cents.

Give a Good, Mellow, Healthy, Pleasant Smoke. Try Them.

LYON & CO. TOBACCO WORKS, Durham, N. C.

Binder Twine Largest sellers in the world. Samples & prices free; write MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., 111 to 118 Michigan Av., Chicago.

LINDSEY · OMAHA · RUBBERS!

W·N.U. D.M.--1246. NO. 22

When answering advertisements kindly mention this paper

The Woman's Bicycle

In strength, lightness, grace, and elegance of finish and equipment Model 41 Columbia is unapproached by any other make.

Columbia

saddles are recommended by riders and physicians as proper in shape and adjustment, and every detail of equipment contributes to beauty and the comfort and pleasure of the rider.

$100 TO ALL ALIKE.

The Columbia Catalogue, handsomest art work of the year, is free from the Columbia agent, or is mailed by us for two 2-cent stamps.

POPE MFG. CO., Hartford, Conn.

Branch Stores and Agencies in almost every city and town. If Columbias are not properly represented in your vicinity, let us know.

All Columbia Bicycles are fitted with HARTFORD SINGLE-TUBE TIRES UNLESS DUNLOP TIRES ARE ASKED FOR. WE KNOW NO TIRES SO GOOD AS HARTFORDS.

"Contains More Flesh Forming Matter Than Beef."

That is what an eminent physician says of good cocoa. The Cocoa made by Walter Baker & Co., Ltd., Dorchester, Mass., is the best.

See that Imitations are not palmed off on you.

BLOOD POISON A SPECIALTY

Primary, Secondary or Tertiary Blood Poison permanently cured in 15 to 35 days. You can be treated at home for the same price under same guaranty. If you prefer to come here we will contract to pay railroad fare and hotel bills, and no charge, if we fail to cure. If you have taken mercury, Iodide potash, and still have aches and pains, Mucous Patches in mouth, Sore Throat, Pimples, Copper Colored Spots, Ulcers on any part of the body, Hair or Eyebrows falling out, it is this BLOOD POISON that we guarantee to cure. We solicit the most obstinate cases and challenge the world for a case we cannot cure. This disease has always baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians. $500,000 capital behind our unconditional guaranty. Absolute proof sent sealed on application.

IT IS QUICKLY CURED BY THE

Address COOK REMEDY CO., 307 Masonic Temple, CHICAGO, ILL. COOK REMEDY CO.

NOW is the time for cleaning house

AND HARR'S is the place to buy your

Paints, Wall Paper and Alabastine.

The finest selection in Hancock County. and goods sold Cheap for CASH, or on time.

J. H. QUEAL & CO.

Invite you to come and inspect their Dry, Bright, well seasoned stock of

LUMBER LATH SHINGLES SASH DOORS — BRICK LIME CEMFNT

Oak and Cedar Posts.

We have a complete stock to select from at the lowest price. Let us figure on your bill.

We will not be undersold.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.

SPRING GOODS!

Our Spring goods have arrived consisting of

—BLACK, WHITE and FIGURED—

LAWNS

Light Colored CALICOS, MUSLINS,

GAUZE UNDERWEAR ETC.

We also have a large line of HATS, CAPS and SHOES.

Butter and Eggs Wanted.

SHAFER & DOW.

GEO KLUCKHOHN,

The Restaurant Man!

Serves the Public with

A Square Meal, Fine Bread Buns, Oysters, Cigars, Tobaccos, etc.

WHEN IN TOWN CALL AND SEE HIM.

KLEMME, - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

ALEX. KIRKWOOD,

....PROPRIETOR OF....

KIRKWOOD :-: HOUSE,

FIRST CLASS ACCOMMADATION. - RATES $1.00 per Day.

Livery and Feed Stable in Connection

Rigs Furnished on Short Notice.

KLEMME. -:- -:- :-: IOWA.

Locals.

Cement, Lime, Brick and stucco at Lau Bros.

Mattie Hubbard was a Garner visitor Saturday night.

Wagon Boxes by the wholesale from 10.50 to $12.50 at Lau Bros.

Lude Fuller and family of Goodell Sundayed with M. S. Gilman.

Two good buggies at cost, to make room for our new stock, at Lau Bro's.

Harr has repainted the roof of his store and painted his new picket fence.

Terhufen & Son have as fine a lot of Iron and Wood Pumps as there are in town.

Hans Nissen has bought another team for the dray business. He is using three teams now.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

One swallow does not make Spring, but one swallow of One Minute Cough Cure brings relief. Harr.

Mr. E. Luick of Belmond, took in a car of hogs, Tuesday, that he has been buying about Klemme.

A. L. Wooster, a prominent citizen of Osseo, Mich., after suffering excruciatingly from piles for twenty years, was cured in a short time by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, an absolute cure for all skin diseases. More of this preparation is used than all others combined. Harr.

ATTENTION COMRADES!!

Attend the sixth reunion of North Iowa Veteran Association, Ladies Auxiliary and Midland Ass'n. S. of V. second Tuesday in June, at Clear Lake Ia. All ladies of Relief Corps and sons and daughters of veterans are especially invited. Remember, the dates are June 9th. and 10th. Report at the Pavilion Tuesday.

W. A. BURNAP, Pres.

How to Treat a Wife.

(From Pacific Health Journal.)

First, get a wife; second be patient. You may have great trials and perplexities in your business, do not therefore, carry to your home a cloudy or contracted brow. Your wife may have trials, which, though of less magnitude, may be hard for her to bear. A kind word, a tender look, will do wonders in chasing from her brow all clouds of gloom.—To this we would add always keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house. It is best and is sure to be needed sooner or later. Your wife will then know that you really care for her and wish to protect her health. For sale by J. L. HARR.

Consult this list for Reduced Rates to important conventions in all parts of the country. These rates are open to all.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION, ST. LOUIS, MO. JUNE 16TH.
ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP.

NATL SESSION JUNIOR ORDER UNITED AMERICAN MECHANICS, DENVER COL., JUNE 16-20.
ONE FARE PLUS $2 00 FOR THE ROUND TRIP.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION, CHICAGO JULY 7TH.
ONE FARE FOR THE ROUMD TRIP.

JULY 4TH.
USUAL REDUCTION OF FARE BETWEEN ALL POINTS.

Y. P. S. C. E. ANNUAL CONVENTION, WASHINGTON, D. C., JULY 7-13.
OND FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP.

NATIONAL EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION, BUFFALO, N. Y. JULY 3-10.
ONE FARE PLUS $2 00 FOR THE ROUND TRIP.

BABTIST YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION, MILWAUKEE. JULY 16-19.
ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP.

AMERICAN CIVIL ENGINEERS MEETING, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., JULY.
ONE FIRST-CLASS UNLIMITED 30 DAY RATE FOR THF ROUND TRIP.

CONVENTION OF FIRE ENGINEERS, SALT LAKE UTAH, AUG. 10-14.
ONE FASE PLUS $2 FOR THE ROUND TRIP.

CONVENTION OF YOUNG PEOPLE'S CHRISTIAN UNION, OMAHA, NEB., AUG. 16-24.
ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP.

NATIONAL CONVENTION REPUBLICAN LEACUE, MILWAUKEE, WIS., AUG. 25-27.
ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP.

G. A. R. NATIONAL ENCAMPMENT ST. PAUL., MINN., SEPT. 1-4.
ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP WITHIN A RADIUS OF 250 MILES. FROM ALL OTHER POINTS ONE CENT PER MILE IN EACH DIRECTION.

FIREMAN'S STATE TOURNAMENT MARSHALLTOWN, IOWA, JUNE 9-12.
Fare and one-third for the round trip from all points in Iowa.

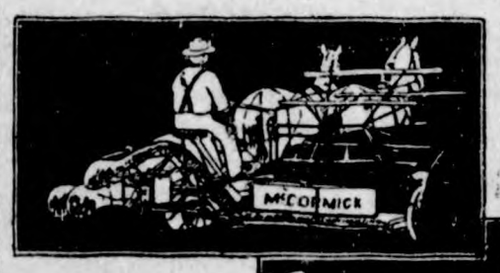
HOMESEEKER'S EXCURSIONS, JUNE, 9 AND 23.
Excursion Tickets at rate of One Fare plus $2 for the round trip, to points in eleven Southern states and territories also to a number of Western and Northern states. Tickets are good to return any Tuesday or Friday within the final limit which is 21 days from date of sale.

Call on B., C. R. & N. agents for further information, or address

J. MORTOL. G. P. & T. A.,
Cedar Rapids, Ia.

McCormick's Masterpieces

"THE THREE KINGS" OF THE HARVEST FIELD.



THE "OPEN ELEVATOR"
King of all Grain Harvesters.
THE No. 4 STEEL MOWER
King of all Grass Cutters.
THE '96 CORN BINDER
King of all Corn Harvesters.

Come In and See Them! They Are Matchless!

The great Money-Savers of the Farm.

AT THE WORLD'S FAIR
They Won the Only Honors.
IN EVERY TEST they prove their superiority.
IN EVERY LAND they lead the leaders.

WE have satisfied ourselves that McCormick Machines are the lightest draft, most durable and most reliable grain and grass cutters built by any manufacturer. We believe they are the cheapest machines a farmer can own—if experience has proven anything, it has proven this. We believe a careful examination of them will convince any man that they are planned with a mechanical nicety and put together with a degree of care far ahead of that shown in any other make of harvesting machinery. We want all interested parties to come and see them. Guaranteed to work where others fail.

GRUETZMACHER BROS. AGT'S.

We also handle the CELEBRATED

Elwood and Dekalb FIELD FENCING

The best on the market. Also, MITCHELL AND LEWIS WAGONS, RACINE BUGGIES, JOHN DEERE PLOWS, J. I. CASE PLOWS AND DEERF PLANTERS.

Hardware and Groceries.

GRASS AND GARDEN SEEDS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mouldings.

And everything used to build with.

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in the week.

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'GR.,
KLEMME, IOWA.

YOU HAVE IT!

Oats and Corn!

We Want It!

and will pay the Highest Market price to get it.

COAL!

We have it, You want it.

Hard, Soft, Illinois, and Smithing.

WALT. BLOOM, Klemme, Ia.

TIMES $1. PER YR. IN ADVANCE.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, JUNE 5, 1896. NUMBER 41

Church Directory.

AMERICAN M. E. CHURCH.
Preaching Service, 10.30, a. m.
Sunday School, 11.30, " "
Epworth League, 7.30, p. m.
Every Sunday.
Prayer meeting, Thursday, 7.30 p.m.
Everyone most cordially invited.
CHARLES E. ANDERSON, Pastor.

GERMAN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School 9.30 a. m.
Preaching Service 10.30 " "
Evening Service — Preaching and Epworth League alternately—8.00 p.m,
Prayer meeting Wednesday 8.00 p.m.
Rev. G. HAEFNER, Pastor.

GERMANTOWN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School and Preaching alternately 9.30 and 10.30 a. m. and 2.00 and 3.00 p. m.
Epworth League 8.00 p. m. each Sunday. Rev. G. HAEFNER, Pastor.

REFORMED CHURCH.
Preaching Service
Rev. TREIKE, Pastor.

B. C. R. & N. TIME TABLE.

GOING SOUTH.

No. 82.	Pass. - -	2.30 p. m.
No. 84,	Stock - -	6.45 a. m.
No. 86.	Way freight. -	1.40 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 81.	Pass. - -	5.00 p. m.
No. 83.	Way freight -	11.35 a. m.
No. 85.	freight - -	4.00 p. m.

No. 84. Runs Sunday and not Monday.

H. O. ENGER,
Local Agt.

SEND YOUR ORDERS FOR ABSTRACTS of titles to

J. S. Knauss, Abstracter.

Owner of Complete set, Lands and Town Lots.

Titles Perfected. Promptness and Accuracy GUARANTEED

GARNER, IOWA.

A. L. SPOONER.

Physician and Surgeon.

Office and residence on Main Street first door west of Bank.

Klemme, Iowa.

H. E. PEITZKE
IS THE BLACKSMITH
THAT
Will do your work well.
He also does wood work.
HIS
Prices are right,
AND
Experience great.
KLEMME, IOWA.

KLEMME - DRAY - LINE.

H. & S. NISSEN,
Proprietors.
Draying and teaming of all kinds done on short notice.

GIVE US A CALL.

Local Mention.

Gold and Silver Belts 45c. Harr's.

Wm. Smith went to Buffalo Center Monday.

Bicycles repared on short notice at Shafer and Dow's.

E. P. Dow made a trip to Belmond on his wheel, Monday.

Heavy work harness from 24 to $28, all complete at Lau Bros.

Miss Clara Schaefer is the happy possessor of a new bicycle.

Mrs. Mayer and Mrs. Wright drove up from Goodell, Wednesday.

Latest in photos, lowest in prices, at Phillip Schneiders, Garner.

Mr. and Mrs. Bloom were at Belmond Decoration Day, returning Sunday.

Klemme was well represented at the Mermorial Services at Garner Decoration day.

One Little Giant, self-feed, iron drill, second hand, for sale cheap. H. E. Peitzke.

There will be a sociable at Marion Elder's east of town, Friday evening. Everybody invited.

Binding Twine, superior sisal, pure manilla and standard, all new, at bottom prices. at Lau Bros.

The restaurant after being paintied presents as fine, if not a little finer appearance then any other building in town.

Remember that E. P. Schefer is agent to the Mason City Laundry the basket leaves every Tuesday evening and returns Friday.

Mrs. Ed. Schuler, of Garner, was down one day last week assisting her brother, C. W. Knapp in packing some things at his house.

Eczema is a frightful affliction, but like all other skin diseases it can be permanently cured by applicationr of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It never fails to cure Piles. Harr.

H. M. Andrsen drove his family to Garner Wednesday, Mrs. Andresen and children took the train there for Sanborn to visit her parents from there she will go to Paullina visiting.

A child, one of the twins, of M. Palmby, went into the field with the hired man, Monday, and some way unknown to Mr. Palmby got a very severe cut on his right leg below the knee. It is supposed it was done on the plow. Dr. Spooner dressed it and he rode home very comfortably.

A sidewalk is being put in with crossings on the east side of second st. north from Frank Gruetzmacher's also crossings on second st. at the harness shop and across main st. to the drug store. These crossings are needed very much in town, and a walk to the school house is very much needed also.

Mr. John Bartholomew, daughter Eva, grand-daughter Frankie, and niece Miss Lucy Russell drove up from Thor Humboldt Co., Iowa, Monday, stopped over night with the editor's family and continued on their way to Clear Lake and Lawler Tuesday p. m. to visit relatives at those places.

M. I. Long drove in with a load of hay Monday morning and in driving on to Bloom's scale to weigh, one tug came unhooked; he stepped in behind the horses to hook it and the horse kicked him in the face, smashing his nose. He was taken to the doctor's office by Bloom where he was properly cared for, If the kick had been a few inches higher on the forehead it probably would have been fatal.

Mothers will find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy especially valuable for croup and whooping cough. It will give prompt relief and is safe and pleasant. We have sold it for several years and it has never failed to give the most perfect satisfaction. G. W. Richards, Duquesne, Pa. Sold by J. L. HARR,

RePublican National Convention At St. Louis, June 16th.

ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP from all stations on the B., C. R. & N. Ry. Tickets on sale June 13, 14 and 15, good to return until and including June 21st. Call on B., C. R. & N. agents for further information. 6 16

Additional Locals.

Painting material for sale cheap at Harr's.

If you want a bicycle see E. P. Schaefer.

Genuine Hand Made Harness only $27, at Lau Bros.

A fine assortment of baby carriages at E. P. Schaefers.

The finest Single Harness in town for only $4, at Lau Bros.

Noah Shaw and pardner attended church at Goodell Sunday.

Mr. Hutchinson and J. W. Ramsey of Garner, were in town Monday.

Take yonr children to Phillip Schneider's, Garner, for good pictures.

A program is being prepaired by the M. E. Sunday School for Children's Day which is June 14th.

Mr. and Mrs. John Suckow Sr. started Thursday for Unionville Ia. to visit their son Ed Suckow.

W. Bloom drove to Garner Wednesday evening, with Miss Prichard who came up from Belmond, Tuesday.

Call at Terhufen & Son and see the Johnson self feeder for threshing Machine, best on the market.

Mr. Lou. Lewis went to Clear Lake Wednesday to join his family. They expect to camp there for about a week.

Mrs. Gilman who has been quite sick is much improved. Mrs. L. Fuller of Goodell, has been staying with her during her sickness.

The Epworth Leage of Germantown will have a picnic on the 4th of July. It is not decided just where it will be held.

Wanted.

1000 dozen eggs and 500 lbs butter in exchange for Wall Paper and Paints. Shafer & Dow.

Mrs. R. DeYoung, Middleburg, Ia., writes, I have used One Minute Cough Cure for six years, both for myself and children, and I consider it the quickest acting and most satisfactory Cough Cure I ever used. Harr.

As fine cheese as ever tasted is made by Mr. Kyle, at his factory in Twin Lake twp. 6 miles southwest of Klemme. The sample brought in by Mr. Kyle is just as fine in every respect as Twin Chedder's Young Am. or any other brand that we ever tasted. This fine cheese is on sale at George Kluckhohns. Call in and give it a trial.

At an election held some time ago by the Germantown Literary Society the following officers were elected. Pres. G. I. Schaper, Vice. president F. Voelker, Sec. Miss Lizzie Martin, corresponding sec. J. J. Stille, Treasurer A. C. Schuldt, Marshall, O. G. Gast, The society now stands adjourned until the first Thursday in Nov. 1896.

If it required an annual outlay of $100.00 to insure a family against any serious consequences from an attack of bowel complaint during the year there are many who would feel it their duty to pay it; that they could not afford to risk their lives, and those of their family for such an amount. Any one can get this insurauce for 25 cents, that being the price of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. In almost every neighborhood some one has died from an attack of bowel complaint before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. One or two doses of this remedy will cure any ordinary case. It never fails. Can you afford to take the risk for so small an amount? For sale by J. L. HARR.

Hotel Orleans

At Spirit Lake, the great Iowa summer resort, will be opened for the fishing season May 15th, and for the regular summer season June 25th. The hotel and surroundings have been greatly improved and many new attractions have been added to this popular resort. A beautiful half-tone circular descriptive of Spirit Lake and Hotel Orleans will be sent to any address by the undersigned.

C. S. ABELL,
Mgr. Hotel Orleans,
Orleans P. O. Dickenson Co. Ia.
e 6 30

GO TO LAU BROS.

for bargains in

SHOES.

We have a new line of shoes and are selling them at bottom prices.

DRY GOODS.

Our line of dry goods is complete. New spring goods arriving almost daily

SPRING UNDERWEAR.

We have an extra quality of gauze, that we are selling at 60 cents per suit. You cant beat it. Come and see.

MACKINTOSH'S.

We can fit you at from $4.00 up as you want.

PRODUCE,

always taken in exchange at the highest market price,

GO To
E. P. SCHAEFER'S
FOR

The latest things in Dress goods and Trimmings, Laces, Embroideries, Ribbons, Belts, Ties. Ladies' Shirt Waists. Boy's Suits, Blouse Waists, Hosiery.

Underware, Men's and Boy's Hats, Jackets, Pants, Overalls and shirts. Parasols and Fans, Carpets, Lace Curtains, Chenille Curtains Table Covers. Window Shades.

Call and see my stock of Goods.

Organs, Pianos, Sewing Machines and FURNITURE,

GO TO

E. P. SCHAEFER

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, - - - IOWA

Cyclones have been coming so thick that we have lost their number.

It may soon be wings against wheels. Then we'll fly instead of scorch.

The farmers are now gunning for chinch bugs; and some of them for gold bugs.

Boston's fifty divorces in six hours would indicate a vast domestic hubbub at the Hub.

The girl Queen of Holland rises at 7 in the morning. Are we to suppose that in winter she also builds the fires?

The watermelon, it is said, grows wild all over Africa. The African, it is well known, grows wild over the watermelon.

We must commend Lieutenant Peary as the most successful pole-chaser because he says he is never going to hunt the pole again.

The new kind of Millerite calls the Brooklyn bridge to judgment. He says it will die of corrosion and rust in about five hundred years. This lets out the moth.

It is well that Yamagata and Li Hung Chang do not meet in this country. Probably there would be no war; but the Chinaman, though good at running, is not a champion.

"You can't leap across a puddle in two jumps," says the Elmira Gazette. Here is one of those cases in which nature didn't do the square thing by us. We have long so regarded it.

Following the plan to check bicycles at the church comes the scheme of Rev. Dr. Crane of Chicago to offer a free lunch of lemonade and gingersnaps as an inducement to people to come out and listen to the sermon. It is thought the lemonade scheme will not work, because there's nothing in it.

A mad dog passed through Mt. Vernon, Ind., biting many cattle. State Veterinary Bolster and several doctors of the state live stock commission made an investigation and found several genuine cases of hydrophobia. A. Breiner was compelled to kill and burn thirteen fine Jersey cows and several calves.

The barbarous custom still exists among the Brahmins in India, of marrying young girls to old men that wander about the country in order that no family shall suffer the disgrace of having unmarried daughters. While he lives the girls can marry no one else, and when he dies they are his widows.

An authority says that they think in Spain that the Cuban rebellion must be crushed if every drop of Spanish blood is spilled in the effort. But men who talk that way do not join the Spanish army. They are doubtless brave enough, but the convicts and the poor and the very young men who compose the army are the ones selected to lose the necessary gore. They talk to be noticed, but they fight by substitute. The last drop and the last ditch are old buncombe.

Mayor Schott is struggling to determine whether or not a firecracker is a musical instrument. This problem arises from the giving of an open air concert in the park. The musicians concluded their evening's performance with the national hymn, "America," and in order to give the selection according to the score, detailed two of their number to shoot off firecrackers. Their is a city ordinance authorizing band concerts to be given in the park, and also one forbidding the exploding of firecrackers. The firecrackers exploded, and a bold policeman arrested the musicians. They have pleaded not guilty, and will have a jury trial.

The imports of rice into the United States for the eight months ending March 1 were 48,043 short tons, as against 64,087 tons during the same time the previous year. Included in this were 22,255 tons of clean rice, against 38,792 tons during the same time the year before. There were 24,000 tons of rice flour, rice meal and broken rice imported, as against 23,141 tons the year before. The notable feature of these imports is the falling off in the imports of cleaned rice from 38,792 tons in 1894-95 to 22,255 tons during the same period in 1895-96. The low prices at which home-grown rice has been selling seem to have had the effect of diminishing the imports of competing rice to the extent of some 16,000 tons. Our annual consumtion of rice, domestic and foreign, is estimated at about 100,000 to 110,000 tons. These reduced imports would seem to indicate a comparatively bare rice market this summer and better prices than last year when the new crop shall begin to come in.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

DAMAGE REACHES $100,000.

Total Damage of the Polk and Jasper County Cyclone.

DES MOINES, May 29.—The total damage of the recent cyclone which passed across Polk county and into Jasper county, as near as can be figured from complete reports, is $60,000. This does not include the crops and many other matters of minor importance now, which will eventually bring the money loss up to $100,000. There were eighty-two homes damaged by the storm, some of them completely swept away, while others suffered from loss in the barn and other outbuildings. The latest news shows that the storm began four miles in Dallas county, so that its path was forty miles long, extending from four and one-half miles northwest of Granger, in Dallas county, to the little town of Ira, in Jasper county. A corrected list of the killed is as follows: Near Bondurant, Mrs. Robert Bailie, Joseph Bailie, Lizzie Bailie, John Bailie; near Elkhart, James Maxwell; at Santiago, Peter Bollenbaugh, Mrs. Bollenbaugh, Theopulus Milburn; at Valeria, Chas. Phelan, Mrs. Chas. Phelan, Chas. Phelan, Jr.; Susie Phelan, Daniel Phelan, Michael Phelan, Nellie Phelan; near Mingo, Lucretia Whitney, Martha Dickey, Mrs. Shell, baby of D. Akins. The list of injured numbers about thirty.

TRAGEDY AT PERRY.

An Officer Shoots a Laboring Man by Mistake.

PERRY, June 1.—John Lessell was shot shortly after 11 p. m. in an alley in the rear of his home, by Night-watchman Ross. He was shot three times. The first ball entered the left cheek, shattering the bone, passed downward, breaking the jaw bone and and cutting a small artery. It was removed from just under the skin on his shoulder, being flat as a dime. The second shot took effect just above the right knee, and the ball passed up into the muscles of the right leg and could not be located. The third shot entered in the rear and just below the left shoulder, the ball passing downward, and could not be found. Lessel was on his way to work at the roundhouse and Ross thought him a burglar. Ross has been removed from the force.

I. N. G. SENSATION.

Suit to Compel Gen. Wright to Issue a Commission to Prime.

DES MOINES, May 29.—Suit has been commenced in the district court by John R. Prime, ex-adjutant general, backed by the officers of the Third regiment, I. N. G., against Gov. Drake and Adjutant General H. H. Wright, to force them to issue a commission to Prime as brigadier general commanding the first brigade, Second and Third regiments. Prime was elected March 25 by eleven votes, but General Wright has refused to canvass the votes. To force action, the suit is commenced, not so much by General Prime as by the Third regiment officers. Wright claims the Third regiment officers at Des Moines and Red Oak enlisted men for campaign purposes, and Col. Guest, it is reported, has urged him to court martial them.

YETZER MUST SUFFER.

Cass County Bank Wrecker Must See the Penitentiary.

DES MOINES, May 30.—J. C. Yetzer, president of the Cass County bank, at Atlantic, which become financially involved, must see the dead walls of the penitentiary, the supreme court having overruled the application for a re-hearing in his case. The bank received funds after it was insolvent, and Yetzer solicited deposits knowing the institution to be in an unstable condition and unable to pay its depositors the amount due them. Yetzer will spend five years in one of the state institutions.

To Recover Public Money.

CEDAR RAPIDS, May 30.—The city of Cedar Rapids has commenced suit in the district court against ex-City Treasurer Stoddard and his bondsmen, J. J. Snouffer, John W. Henderson, George W. Bever and George Williams, to recover $11,582, the amount of the shortage of Mr. Stoddard at the time of his retirement from office, after having served the city in that capacity for about fifteen years.

Dubuque County Damage $100,000.

DUBUQUE, May 31.—The destructive effects of the recent storm are illustrated by the report of the supervisors, who have made a tour of the county. They report that it will cost $100,000 to restore the roads and bridges washed away.

Fire at Cherokee.

CHEROKEE, May 31.—The Cherokee bottling works, conducted by C. E. Stendike & Son, burned to the ground. Loss, $2,000. No insurance. The careless throwing of a lighted match in some straw in the cellar was the cause.

THE MULCT LAW.

Suits Under Recent Supreme Court Decision Begun.

CEDAR RAPIDS, May 31.—Constables Oxley and Martin, armed with a search warrant issued from the court of Justice Clogston, seized $600 worth of liquors stored in the building of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Company, and also arrested W. Zalesky, the manager, on a charge of keeping and selling liquor contrary to law. The complainant is Mrs. H. Ritchie, who has already figured in several suits against this company. This action was taken because of the recent decision of the supreme court to the effect that wholesalers must observe the provisions of the mulct law the same as retail dealers. It is understood that similar action will be commenced against all wholesalers in the city.

ARE THEY TO HANG?

Hammil and Weems Can Now Be Saved Only by the Chief Executive.

DES MOINES, May 30.—In the supreme court the cases of John Hammil and George Weems were decided on the application for rehearing. It was ruled by the court that the rehearing will not be granted, and it now remains for the governor to fix the day for their execution or to commute their sentences to life imprisonment. The governor will probably do the latter, as he is of the opinion that the murder was not premeditated and should be punishable only by the degree of the intention to kill that the accused had in the act in contemplation.

HANGED WITH A STRAP.

August Vermeish, Living Near Hartwick, Commits Suicide.

HARTWICK, May 30.—August Vermeish, a well-to-do farmer living two miles east of Hartwick, committed suicide while plowing in the field. His daughter went out about 5 o'clock and found him hanging by a strap over a knot on a post. He had fastened a strap around his neck and tied the other end to the lower part of his body and hanged himself. When he went out to work he was in good spirits and no explanation can be given for the deed.

SCHOOL TEACHER CREMATED.

Awful Accident at Belmond, Resulting in Death.

CLARION, June 1.—During a school performance at the opera house at Belmond, a large lamp suspended from the ceiling fell from its holdings, striking on Miss Celia Finch's head, scattering oil over her clothing, which ignited, burning her so badly that she died a few hours later. She was a prominent school teacher in the city schools, and was taking a star part in the performance when she met with the accident.

DIED FROM POISON.

Two People Fatally and Many Seriously Affected at Fort Madison.

FORT MADISON, May 28.—Dairy Commissioner Boardman is in the city making investigations concerning the poisoning of a large number of people supposedly from partaking of cheese which was unwholesome. Two persons have died and between eight and twelve of the twenty who were affected by the poison are in a critical condition.

Army Worm in Des Moines County.

BURLINGTON, May 28.—Large fields of corn in this vicinity are being completely eaten up by army worms, which made their appearance in countless numbers during the rain period just ended. One farmer reports that in twenty-four hours eighty acres of fine young corn on his land was swept as clean as if it had been burned over with fire. Farmers are becoming greatly alarmed, as it means ruin for many unless a remedy can be found.

Suicide of a Blind Man.

MARSHALLTOWN, May 31.—A suffering life was ended when Thomas C. McMillen, aged about 38, committed suicide by hanging himself with a clothes line from a grape arbor, south of his home. McMillan was a blind man, with a wife and little daughter. The little boy who had led him in his travels about town had recently left him.

A Crime at Dubuque.

DUBUQUE, May 31.—The bones of a few days' old infant have been unearthed at the base ball grounds by the custodian. They were resting on a large china platter, all being wrapped up in paper.

The Fireman Succumbed.

BURLINGTON, May 31.—Benj. Mayer, the fireman who was so badly injured in the saw mill explosion at Augusta, has died. He was frightfully burned and scalded, and his entire body was a mass of raw flesh.

BREVITIES.

A 14-year-old boy named Menchek hanged himself at Ely.

Geo. Lewis, who killed Sam Porterfield at Muchakinock, has been held to the grand jury without bonds.

Bert Graves was sentenced at Des Moines to six years in the penitentiary by Judge Holmes, for attempting murder.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

CUBA.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The protest made by Secretary Olney against General Weyler's prohibition of tobacco exports from Havana has been successful. He has been officially notified that contracts for Cuban leaf tobacco entered into before the publication of the order prohibiting its exportation will be respected and that citizens of the United States proving themselves to be bona fide owners of such tobacco prior to the promulgation of the order will be permitted to export the same as heretofore.

CZAR IS CROWNED.

Nicholas II Formally Proclaimed Ruler of Russia.

Moscow, May 27.—With ceremonies more magnificent than the human imagination can conjure, and amid a scene of splendor to which a thousand pens could do but scant justice, Nicholas II, who succeeded to the throne on November 1, 1894, was yesterday crowned as ruler of one hundred millions of people. The coronation took place in the cathedral of the Assumption, in the presence of representatives of every civilized people on the face of the globe, of the princes and nobles of the land and of representatives of its leading municipalities. The ceremony occupied nearly seven hours. It included the sprinkling of the czar and czarina with holy water, the kissing of the crucifix, the repeating after the metropolitan of the profession of faith, the clothing of the czar with the imperial mantle of gold and ermine, and finally the placing by the czar of the crown upon his own head. Then followed the crowning of the czarina by her husband, who also invested her with the purple mantle of the Order of St. Andrew.

Moscow, May 28.—The proclamation issued by the czar on the occasion of his coronation prescribes various remissions, of which the following are the principal: All arrears of taxes in European Russia and Poland are remitted and the land tax is reduced by half for ten years. The sentences of exiles in Siberia are materially reduced, political offenders receiving further remissions, with the restoration of their civil rights in certain cases. The ex-ministers of the interior and justice are empowered to submit to the czar deserving cases of those punished after a regular trial. Those persons who shared in the Polish rebellion who are not guilty of murder, cruelty, arson or robbery, are exempted from the police supervision decreed in 1883, and are granted full freedom of residence if they return to their own country and take the oath of allegiance.

CHURCH INSURANCE.

Methodists Resolved to Go Into the Business.

CLEVELAND, May 28.—The general conference of the M. E. church has adopted a resolution providing for an immense church insurance company to compete with the great companies of the world. General Rusling said the proposition was one of the most visionary matters that had yet been presented to the conference. "We might just as well embark in the dry goods or the drug business," he said. "The whole scheme, if adopted, will wind up with a scandal which will shake the very foundations of the great Methodist church." Other delegates expressed similar opinions, but the resolution, organizing an insurance company, was adopted amid great enthusiasm.

FEAR DEATH SENTENCES.

Cree Indians Would Rather Not Be Deported to Canada.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., May 28.—Two troops of cavalry have been ordered from Fort Custer to round up the Cree Indians so they may be deported to Canada in accordance with recent federal legislation. The Crees say they will not go unless Canada proclaims an amnesty for their participation in the Riel rebellion. They fear death sentences if returned to Canada.

Thirty Go Down at Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—The schooner Albion brings news of the probable loss of the schooner Lincoln in Alaskan waters. The Lincoln had on board about thirty persons, all of whom have undoubtedly lost their lives. Most of the passengers were gold seekers.

Kate Field Dead.

CHICAGO, June 1.—H. H. Kohlsaat, proprietor of the Times-Herald, received a cable message dated Yokohama and signed by Lorren A. Thurston, ex-minister to the United States from the Sandwich Islands, which said: "Kate Field died at Honolulu, May 19, of pneumonia." Miss Field was acting as special correspondent of the Times-Herald.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Mark M. (Brick) Pomeroy, is dead. The end was very peaceful.

BODIES IN BIG HEAPS.

Frightful Slaughter at the Czar's Coronation Festivities.

Moscow, June 1.—A terrible accident, resulting in the loss of a large number of lives, occurred here. The popular fete of the coronation ceremonies was held on the Hodynsky plain, opposite the Petroffsky palace, and it is estimated that fully 500,000 persons attended. For days past the city has been full of peasants from many parts of the country, all awaiting the free feast. Many of the peasants had walked long distances in order to be present, while others more fortunate had arrived in the city in vehicles of every description. Great booths had been constructed on the plain, and from them were distributed free food, free beer, and also mugs as souvenirs of the occasion. This free feast has always been the popular feature of the coronations. The crush was fearful and those in front were gradually crowded against the barriers in front of the booths, which finally gave way. Hundreds of men, women and children were thrown down, and to stumble or fall meant death or serious injury, but no power could check the crowd, many of whom were in a condition of panic. The authorities were helpless, and for a time the scene baffled description. Many people were killed by being crushed against the barriers before they gave way, and a great number met their deaths by being trampled upon. Finally with the aid of troops the panic was stayed, and then the work of succor began. The dead were found in heaps. An official statement places the dead at 1,138 and the injured at 470.

FATAL FALL FOR FIFTY.

A Street Car Plunges Through a Bridge at Victoria, B. C.

VICTORIA, B. C., May 27.—A terrible accident occurred here. A sham fight and review was to take place at Macauley's Point, near Esquimault, and crowds were making their way there by every route. All street cars were packed. Two cars left Government street with 100 people. The first got over Point Ellico bridge, which crosses Victoria arm. safely, but when the other was about half way over the middle span of the bridge, about 150 feet in length, gave way and the car plunged into the water, some 100 feet below. The car was completely submerged and all on board were drowned with the exception of some of those who were standing on the platform and who, escaping injury from the falling timbers, managed to save themselves by using the floating ruins of the bridge and thus got ashore. Numbers of the bodies have already been gotten up and the work of identification is proceeding. It is believed that when the list is completed it will reach fifty.

VICTORIA, B. C., May 30.—The work of rescue at the scene of the bridge disaster was completed when the last of the bodies was recovered by divers. The death roll includes fifty-five names, and it is feared that two or three strangers may yet be missing. Evidence is accumulating showing grave negligence on the part of the civic authorities, they having been warned the day before the accident that the bridge could not hold.

LEVERING NOMINATED.

Prohibitionists Named the Baltimore Man for President.

PITTSBURG, May 29.—The prohibitionists nominated Joshua Levering, of Baltimore, for president by acclamation. Hale Johnson, of Illinois, was nominated for vice-president on the first ballot. Helen M. Gougar, of Indiana, and Mrs. L. A. Poole, of New York, struggled in vain for woman suffrage, but the narrow gauge people controlled the convention and took everything. The new platform excluded everything but prohibition, even woman suffrage, and was the narrowest kind of a narrow gauge declaration. St. John's silver platform was defeated, 387 to 427.

DISASTROUS CYCLONES.

DETROIT, May 27.—The total number of deaths resulting from the cyclone in this state, so far as learned, reaches thirty-eight. Several of the injured cannot recover. The cyclone struck the region in which Macombe, Oakland, St. Claire and Lapeer counties are located, and worked disaster in the city of Mount Clemens and other towns in that section. The village of Oakwood was entirely wiped off the earth, all the buildings were destroyed, leaving death and destruction in the trail of the storm.

TERSE NEWS.

The next meeting of the Presbyterian general assembly will be held at Winona, Ind.

The ferry boat Katherine was capsized in a storm at Cairo, Ill., and eleven persons were drowned. The boat was near the Illinois shore about a mile below Cairo when the storm struck. She turned completely over and remained in that position for some time, while her cabin, chimneys and bodies were carried away, nothing remaining but her hull and engines.

THE FATAL GLOVE.

BY CLARA AUGUSTA

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER III.—(CONTINUED.)

He opened the door with one of a bunch of keys which he carried, and noiselessly entered. The gas was turned down low, but a mellow radiance filled the place. A bed stood in one corner, and Sharp advanced toward it. The noise he had made, slight though it was, aroused the occupant, and, as she started up in affright, Arch met the soft, pleading eyes of Margia Harrison son. She spoke to him, not to Sharp.

"Do not let him kill me!"

Sharp laid a rough hand on her shoulder, and put a knife at her throat.

Simultaneously, Arch sprang upon him like a tiger.

"Release that girl," he hissed. "Dare to touch her with the tips of your fingers, and by Heaven I will murder you."

Sharp sprang back with an oath, and at the same moment a pistol shot rang through the house, and Sharp, bathed in blood, fell to the floor. Old Mr. Trevlyn, travel stained and wet, strode into the room.

"I've killed him," he said, in a cracked voice of intense satisfaction. "He didn't catch old Trevlyn napping. I knew well enough they'd be after my diamonds, and I gave up the journey. Margie, child, are the jewels safe?"

She had fallen back on the pillows, pale as death, her white night dress spattered with the blood of the dead robber.

Arch lifted a tiny glove from the carpet, thrust it into his bosom, and, before old Trevlyn could raise a hand to stop him, he had got clear of the premises.

Such a relief as he felt when the cool, fresh air struck his face. He had been saved from overt criminality. God had not permitted him to thus debase himself. Now that his excitement was gone, he saw the heinousness of the sin he had been about to commit in all its deformity.

Let old Trevlyn go! Let him gloat over his diamonds while yet he had the opportunity. He would not despoil him of his treasures, but he could not give up his scheme of vengeance. It should be brought about some other way.

A large reward was offered by Mr. Trevlyn for the apprehension of Sharp's accomplice, but, as no description of his person could be given by any one except Margie, who could not or would not be explicit on that point, he was not secured.

Trevlyn recognized and appreciated her noble generosity in suffering him to go free, for in the one look she had given him on that disgraceful occasion he had felt that she recognized him. But she pitied him enough to let him go free.

Well, he would show her that her confidence was not misplaced. He would deserve her forbearance. He was resolved upon a new life.

He left the saloon, and after many rebuffs succeeded in getting employment as errand boy in a large importing house. The salary was a mere pittance, but it kept him in clothes and coarse food, until one day, about a year after his apprenticeship there, he chanced to save the life of Mr. Belgrade, the senior partner. A gas pipe in the private office of the firm exploded, and the place took fire, and Mr. Belgrade, smothered and helpless, would have perished in the flames, had not Arch, with a bravery few would have expected in a bashful, retiring boy, plunged through the smoke and flame, and bore him to a place of safety.

Mr. Belgrade was a man with a conscience, and, grateful for his life, he rewarded his preserver by a clerkship of importance. The duties of this office he discharged faithfully for three years, when the death of the head clerk left a vacancy, and when Arch was nineteen he received the situation.

Through these three years he had been a close student. Far into the night he pored over his books, and, too proud to go to school, he hired a teacher and was taught privately. At twenty he was quite as well educated as nine-tenths of the young men now turned out by our fashionable colleges.

Rumors of Margie Harrison's triumphs reached him constantly, for Margie was a belle and a beauty now. Her parents were dead, and she had been left to the guardianship of Mr. Trevlyn, at whose house she made her home, and where she reigned a very queen. Old Trevlyn's heart at last found something beside his diamonds to worship, and Margie had it all her own way.

She came into the store of Belgrade & Co. one day, and asked to look at some laces. Trevlyn was the only clerk disengaged, and with a very changeable face he came forward to attend to her. He felt that she would recognize him at once—that she would remember where she had seen him the last time—a house breaker! She held his reputation in her keeping.

His hand trembled as he took down the laces—she glanced at his face. A start of surprise—a conscious, painful blush swept over her face. He dropped the box, and the rich laces fell over his feet.

"Pardon me," he said, hurriedly, and, stooping to pick them up, the little glove he had stolen on that night, and which he always wore in his bosom, fell out, and dropped among the laces.

She picked it up with a little cry.

"The very glove that I lost four years ago! And you are—" She stopped suddenly.

He paled to the lips, but, lifting his head proudly, said:

"Go on. Finish the sentence. I can bear it."

"No, I will not go on. Let the memory die. I knew you then, but you were so young, and had to bear so much among temptations. And the other was a villain. No, I am silent. You are safe."

He stooped and, lifting the border of her shawl, kissed it reverently.

"If I live," he said solemnly, "you will be glad you have been so merciful. Some time I shall hear you say so."

She did not purchase any laces. She went out forgetful of her errand, and Arch was so awkward for the remainder of the day, and committed so many blunders, that his fellow clerks laughed at him unrebuked, and Mr. Belgrade seriously wondered if Trevlyn had not been taking too much champagne.

CHAPTER IV.

MARGIE HARRISON and her guardian sat at breakfast. Mr. Trevlyn showed his years very plainly. He was nearly seventy-five—he looked eighty.

Margie looked very lovely this morning and it was of this the old man was thinking as he glanced at her across the table. She had more than fulfilled the promise of her childhood. The golden hair was chestnut now, and pushed behind her ears in heavy, rippling masses of light and shadow. Her eyes had taken a deeper tone—they were like wells whose depth you could not guess at. Her features were delicately irregular, the forehead low, broad and white; her chin was dimpled as an infant's, and her mouth still ripe and red as a damask rosebud. She wore a pink muslin wrapper, tied with white ribbons, and in her hair drooped a cluster of apple-blossoms.

"Margie, dear," said Mr. Trevlyn, pausing in his work of buttering a muffin. "I want you to look your prettiest tonight. I am going to bring home a friend of mine—one who was also your father's friend—Mr. Linmere. He arrived from Europe today."

Margie's cheek lost a trifle of its peachy bloom. She toyed with her spoon, but did not reply to his remark.

"Did you understand me, child? Mr. Linmere has returned."

"Yes, sir."

"And is coming here tonight. Remember to take extra pains with yourself, Margy, for he has seen all the European beauties, and I do not want my little American flower to be cast in the shade. Will you remember it?"

"Certainly, if you wish it, Mr. Trevlyn."

"Margie!"

"Sir!"

"You are aware that Mr. Linmere is your affianced husband, are you not?"

"I have been told so."

"And yet in the face of that fact—well, of all things, girls do beat me! Thank heaven, I have none of my own," he added testily.

"Girls are better let alone, sir. It is very hard to feel one's self bound to fulfil a contract of this kind."

"Hard! Well, now, I should think it easy. Mr. Linmere is all that any reasonable woman could wish. Not too old, nor yet too young; about forty-five, which is just the age for a man to marry; good looking, intelligent and wealthy—what more could you ask?"

"You forget that I do not love him—that he does not love me."

"Love! tush! Don't let me hear anything about that. I loathe the name. Margie, love ruined my only son! For love he disobeyed me and I disowned him. I have not spoken his name for years! Your father approved of Mr. Linmere, and while you were yet a child you were betrothed. And when your father died, what did you promise him on his deathbed?"

Margie grew white as the ribbons at her throat.

"I promised him that I would try and fulfil his requirements."

"That you would try! Yes. And that was equal to giving an unqualified assent. You know the conditions of the will, I believe?"

"I do. If I marry without your consent under the age of twenty-one, I forfeit my patrimony. And I am nineteen now. And I shall not marry without your consent."

"Margie, you must marry Mr. Linmere. Do not hope to do differently. It is your duty. He has lived single all these years waiting for you. He will be kind to you, and you will be happy. Prepare to receive him with becoming respect."

Mr. Trevlyn considered his duty performed and went out for his customary walk.

At dinner Mr. Linmere arrived. Margie met him with cold composure. He scanned her fair face and almost faultless form with the eye of a connoisseur and congratulated himself on the fortune which was to give him such a bride without the perplexity of a wooing. She was beautiful and attractive, and he had feared she might be ugly, which would have been a dampener on his satisfaction. True, her wealth would have counterbalanced any degree of personal deformity; but Mr. Paul Linmere admired beauty, and liked to have pretty things around him.

To tell the truth, he was sadly in need of money. It was fortunate that his old friend, Mr. Harrison, Margie's dead father, had taken it into his head to plight his daughter's troth to him while she was yet a child. Mr. Harrison had been an eccentric man, and from the fact that in many points of religious belief he and Mr. Paul Linmere agreed (for both were miserable skeptics), he valued him above all other men, and thought his daughter's happiness would be secured by the union he had planned.

Linmere had been abroad several years, and he had led a very reckless, dissipated life. Luxurious by nature, lacking in moral rectitude, and having wealth at his command, he indulged himself unrestrained, and when at last he left the gay French capital and returned to America, his whole fortune, with the exception of a few thousands, was dissipated. So he needed a rich wife sorely, and was not disposed to defer his happiness.

He met Margie with empressement, and bowed his tall head to kiss the white hand she extended to him. She drew it away coldly—something about the man made her shrink from him.

"I am so happy to meet you again, Margie, and after ten years of separation! I have thought so much and so often of you."

"Thank you, Mr. Linmere."

"Will you not call me Paul?" he asked, in a subdued voice, letting his dangerous eyes, full of light and softness, rest on her.

An expression of haughty surprise swept her face. She drew back a pace.

"I am not accustomed to address gentlemen—mere acquaintances—by their Christian names, sir."

"But in this case, Margie? Surely the relations existing between us will admit of such a familiarity," he said, seating himself, while she remained standing coldly by.

"There are no relations existing between us at present, Mr. Linmere," she answered haughtily; "and if, in obedience to the wishes of the dead, we should ever become connected in name, I beg leave to assure you in the beginning that you will always be Mr. Linmere to me,"

A flush of anger mounted to his cheek; he set his teeth, but outwardly he was calm and subdued. Anger, just at present, was impolitic.

"I hope to win your love, Margie; I trust I shall," he answered, sadly enough to have aroused almost any woman's pity; but some subtle instinct told Margie he was false to the core.

But all through the evening he was affable and complaisant and forbearing. She made no attempt to conceal her dislike for him. Concealments were not familiar to Margie's nature. She was frank and open as the day.

Mr. Linmere's fascinations were many and varied. He had a great deal of adaptation, and made himself agreeable to every one. He had traveled extensively, was a close observer, and had a retentive memory. Mr. Trevlyn was charmed with him. So was Alexandrine Lee, a friend of Margie's, a rival belle, who accidentally (?) dropped in to spend the evening.

Mr. Linmere played and sang with exquisite taste and skill—he was a complete master of the art, and, in spite of herself, Margie listened to him with a delight that was almost fascination, but which subsided the moment the melody ceased.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Ignorance of Immigrants.

Of the 229,370 alien steerage passengers who arrived at the port of New York last year, 42,942 above 14 years of age could not read and write. About 149,500 of the steerage arrivals were over 14 years of age, and only 29,287 of these brought with them $30 and over. No less than 182,000 of the whole number of steerage immigrants had some point in the north Atlantic states for a destination, while only 2,451 were bound for the south central states.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The general deficiency bill, carrying $10,500,000, passed today.

HOUSE.

The day was spent in consideration of the bill to repeal the free alcohol clause of the tariff bill.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The senate today defeated a motion to table the amendment to the filled cheese bill, adding 75 cents to the tax on beer, by a vote of 25 to 30. The final conference report on the legislative, executive and judicial bill was agreed to.

HOUSE.

The house by a vote of 165 to 69 passed the bill for the repeal of section 61 of the present tariff law providing for a rebate on alcohol used in the arts or medical compounds. An amendment was attached to the bill providing for a joint commission to consist of three members of each house to examine and report on all questions relating to free alcohol at the next session.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The senate rejected the amendment to the filled cheese bill for an additional tax of 75 cents a barrel on beer.

HOUSE.

Senate amendment to deficiency bill relative to French spoliation claims was agreed to.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The day was spent in debate of the bond resolution.

HOUSE.

The Johnson-Stokes contested election case occupied the day.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Senate passed the bill repealing the section of the tariff law relative to rebate on alcohol used in the arts. A bill also passed amending the law concerning the distilling of brandy from fruits, authorizing the exemption of distillers of brandy made from fruits from the provisions relating to the manufacture of spirits, except as to the tax thereon. Adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE.

Almost the entire day was spent in debating the Johnson-Stokes contested election case. Johnson was defeated. A message was received from the president vetoing the river and harbor bill. The president declares the time inoportune for the immediate expenditure of $14,000,000 for river and harbor improvements and the making of contracts amounting to $62,000,000.

MORE ABOUT THE CYCLONE.

A Few Facts That Should be Known and Remembered.

First, that not a place in Iowa but what is liable to be visited by one of these terrible cyclones any time from April to October.

Second, that it is the part of wisdom to keep your property insured.

Third, that there is an institution in the state that furnishes insurance at actual cost, called the Iowa Mutual Tornado, Cyclone and Wind Storm Insurance Association, which has over 30,000 members, with over $38,000,000 in risks and increasing almost $100,000 a day. The cost of carrying insurance in this association is so cheap that no one should think of carrying their own risk. It has only assessed its members $4 per $1,000 insured in twelve years, besides the cost of becoming a member. This is a benevolent institution run on business principles so that no one contributes more than his just proportion, besides he has the satisfaction of knowing that while he has contributed to help others he has paid his own insurance and will receive aid should he meet with a loss. The association paid $70,000 in losses in the past four years just as promptly as any company doing business in Iowa. The secretary, J. B. Herriman, 62 Clapp block, received over 100 applications Monday. It will pay you to investigate. Other people are having the benefit of cheap and reliable insurance.

IOWA PATENT OFFICE REPORT.

DES MOINES, May 26.—During the year 1895, the commissioner of patents says, there has been exceptional activity in making improvements in baling cotton, straw packers and stackers, excavators, extracting aluminum, pneumatic drills, car fenders and couplers, games and toys. A copyright has been granted to Will Porter, of Des Moines, for his "Annals of Polk County, Iowa, and the City of Des Moines." Patents have been allowed as follows but not yet issued: To Harvey N. Timms, of Des Moines, for a movable stand for bicycles, adapted to be readily attached to a bicycle in such a manner as to support it stationary, or while moving it about. Mr. Timms has a factory at Seymour, Ind., where he is turning out his improved bicycles and various attachments. To Wm. H. Foote, of Casey, Iowa, for a wheel cultivator in which teeth bearing bars are adjustably connected so that the teeth can be made to move in parallel lines close together or the space between them enlarged as required to suit different kinds of soil and different conditions of soil. To J. Hook, Jr., of Manilla, Iowa, for a two-horse evener for vehicles that allows the doubletree to slide back and forth on the pole, prevents concussion and on a down grade keeps the traces taut. To Smisor Brothers, of Webster City, Iowa, for a type writer in which each letter or character printed is visible to the operator instantly after the impression is made and in which upper and lower case letters can be successively used by striking the same key. Valuable information about obtaining, valuing and selling patents sent free to any address. Printed copies of the drawings and specifications of any United States patent sent upon receipt of 25 cents. Our practice is not confined to Iowa. Inventors in other states can have our services upon the same terms as the Hawkeyes.

THOMAS G. AND J. RALPH ORWIG,
Solicitors of Patents.

A MUSCATINE WOMAN,

After Great Annoyance From Sciatic Rheumatism, at Last Finds Relief and To-day Is Enjoying Full Use of Her Once Afflicted Limbs.

From the Journal, Muscatine, Iowa.

On the second floor of one of our neatest business buildings, located at No. 125 West Front street, is the home of Constable and Mrs. M. C. Briggs, and it was visited to-day for the purpose of speaking to Mrs. Briggs on a question of considerable weight to her. The reporter, upon calling, found Mrs. Briggs a little indisposed (not however with her former complaint), but nevertheless in a very congenial mood. Upon inquiry as to the benefit she derived from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, she said:

"About eighteen months since I was taken down with sciatic rheumatism in my lower limbs, especially my right leg, and so fierce was the attack that I could not walk at all. After trying various remedies, all without avail, a neighbor of mine, Mrs. John Yoder, who, I think, is now living in Eldon, mentioned Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and said she had used them for similar trouble and found them very benencial. I purchased a box of pills at F. Nesper & Co.'s drug store, and before I had taken all of the first box I began to feel much improved and the pain began to ease. I continued to take them, and when I had nearly finished the second box I was able to walk about as ably as ever, and have not had an attack since. I heartily endorse Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and I feel confident that anyone afflicted as I was could be easily restored to their usual health by their use."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomoter ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing Dr. Williams' Med Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

The Difference.

Mrs. Stiff—Willie, didn't I tell you not to play with those ragamuffins from the back street?

Willie—Yes mamma, and I wasn't playing with them.

Mrs. Stiff—Why, Willie! I saw you.

Willie—No, ma'am; they were playing with me.

Dear Girls.

Miss Smashum—I don't care for men; in fact, I've already said "No" to seven of them.

Miss Comely—Indeed! What were they selling?

Analogies.

"Oh, doctor, I have sent fer you, certainly; still I must confess I have not the slightest faith in modern medical science."

"Oh, that doesn't matter in the least. You see, a mule has no faith in the veterinary surgeon, and yet he cures him all the same.

The Code of Prices.

Doctor—You have Bright's disease. The diagnosis will cost you $10.

Patient—That is too much money.

Doctor—Very well, then, you also have a severe cold.

All About Western Farm Lands

The "Corn Belt" is the name of an illustrated monthly newspaper published by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. R. It aims to give information in an interesting way about the farm lands of the west. Send 25 cents in postage stamps to the Corn Belt, 209 Adams St., Chicago, and the paper will be sent to your address for one year.

The art of prophecy is to foretell the future in such a manner that it will come right either way.

A Summer Resort Book Free.

Write to C. S. Crane, general passenger and ticket agent Wabash Railroad, St. Louis, Mo., for a summer resort book, telling all about the beautiful lake region reached by the Wabash Railroad.

Advice is like physic; we will never take it unless we are obliged to do so.

Piso's Cure for Consumption has been a God-send to me.—Wm. B. McClelland, Chester, Florida, Sept. 17, 1895.

An ordinary tortoise lives from 100 to 150 years. Instances are on record of some of them attaining the age of 200 years.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is a constitutional cure. Price, 75c.

In its course of 120 miles the Jordan plunges over twenty-seven rapids, and from its source to its mouth has a descent of 3,000 feet.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth,

Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children Teething.

The most effective Krupp gun has a range of seventeen miles and can fire two shots a minute.

PURE CALIFORNIA WINES. L. Apffel, Wholesaler, Los Angeles, Cal., 2 cases, ass'd, freight paid, $7—$8—$9. Eastern shipments my specialty.

In Wyoming the women have the right to vote for all officers, even for presidential electors.

FITS—All Fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. No Fits after the first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Phila., Pa.

One hundred persons have been fatally shot, during the past twelve years, on the main street of Jackson, Ky.

Hegeman's Camphor Ice with Glycerine. The original and only genuine. Cures Chapped Hands and Face, Cold Sores, &c. C. G. Clark Co., N. Haven, Ct.

A frigate bird can remain an entire week on the wing without stopping to rest.

"A Cup of Parks' Tea at night moves the bowels in the morning."

Amateur Rider—I should like to take a ride—but please give me a horse that doesn't know me yet.

The Czar of Russia has two hobbies—the collection of postage stamps and birds' eggs.

H. W. Schoper.

THE

LEADING - IMPLEMENT - DEALER.

Has on hand a complete stock of FARM

IMPLEMENTS.

Fisher Wagons, Staver Abbot, and Parry Buggies,

Rock Island and U, S. Planters,

Conklin Cnltivators,

Morrison and R. I. Sulky Plows.

Pumps Fanning Mills etc.

A fine road wagon

Only $30.

DAVIS SEWING MACHINE, THE BEST ON THE MARKET.

COME and see for yourself.

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME, Belmond, Iowa.

WE WILL SELL

AT PRIVATE SALE.

Our Large Stock Of

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Plows, Cultivators, Hay Rakes and Loaders, Seeders, Disc Harrows, Planters, Wind Mills and Pumps, Water Tanks, Buggies and Waggons. We handle the KEYSTONE FENCE, the best fence on earth. Also the

Milwaukee Binders and Mowers

At prices that defy competition.

LAU BROTHERS.

Locals.

Geo. Kluckhohn was at Garner Tuesday.

Mr. Rhodes of Garner was looking over our town, Wednesday.

Fred Katter of Garner, looked over Klemme one day last week.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

About 25 of our people took in the "Si Perkins" entertainment at Garner last week. They all report a good troop and a fine time.

Schwichtenberg a brother-in-law of Mr. Krouse is here looking after a location. He will buy some land if he finds a piece to suit,

Jno. Zook has put down a well at his place. Klemme is going to have plent yof water, six or seven new wells have been made this spring.

Henry Beier and Chas. Hucklemeir each bought a new wheel of Bert Hess Schafer & Dow's lively clerk, while the proprietors were at Garner Saturday.

Children's Day exercises will be held in the Germantown M. E. church next Sunday. Let everybody that can, come out, a good program has been arranged.

Mr. Gillett living 4 to 5 miles east of town died Saturday and was taken to Clear Lake for burial. Blood poison was the cause from a cut in the knee some time early this spring.

There will be a meeting of delegates appointed from the Sunday schools in German and Ell townships, held in the Eng. M. E. church in Klemme, at 2 p. m. Saturday June 6th for the purpose of arranging for a township S. S. convention.

The regular meeting for settlement of the Klemme Creamery was held last Saturday. The number of pounds of butter made from May 4 to 18th. was 5620 and 9c per lb. was the amount paid for cream. This week the business will run larger.

Baby Larson toddled out into the garden Thursday and picked up a good sized snake and was having a nice time with him when Mr. Larson saw the state of affairs and ran to the rescue. Baby hung to Mr. Snake for dear life but finally Mr. Larson shook the snake out of bady's hand. Fortunately baby was not injured and the snake now belongs to the harmless class of reptiles.

Some of the bicycle riders are doing all in their power to secure the abolition of the bloomers. They go out in public with the bloomers on.—Ex.

In the Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of—DeWitt's Little Early Risers, for they always cleanse the liver, purify the blood, and invigorate the system. Harr.

BUY THE BEST

The "DOMESTIC"

Is absolutely the best Sewing Machine made. Leads in latest and best improvements.

SIMPLE

PRACTICAL

DURABLE

For over 30 years has been endorsed by the public as the most satisfactory of all sewing machines. We want your trade and can save you money. Write for free catalogue and prices.

THE DOMESTIC S. M. CO.

298 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Did you think how readily the blood is poisoned by constipation? Bad blood means bad health and premature old age. DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills, overcome obstinate constipation. Harr.

SPRING

Style MY Hats!

Millinery Store is now ready for spring BUSINESS.

I have just received a new and complete line of

Flowers, Tips, Ribbons, Laces, Fancy Braids, Persian Silks etc.

And everything you could expect to find in a first class store.

MISS ADNA BARTA of St. Paul, a first class trimmer will be with me the entire season.

YOU are invited to come in. No trouble to Show Goods.

Dressmaking in connection.

Miss E. Renziehausen,

COME STRAIGHT

To Our Store

If you want to save money in what you must purchase along the line of

GENERAL Merchandise.

Our stock is complete in department; is fresh and new, and we are selling the goods with special regard to the Hard Times.

WESENBERG BROS.

H. SCHROEDER,

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY - MEAT - MARKET.

Carry a Complete line of Fresh, Salt and Smoked Meats.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

HIDES.

PICKLES, etc. Always on hand.

Klemme, Ia.

MARION A. FELL, NOTARY PUBLIC.

M. R. CHAMBERS, ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans at 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farmers' Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on us, we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co,

Garner, Iowa.

25 YEARS EXPERIENCE IN

BLACKSMITHING

Enables me to do your work in a workmanlike manner.

Plow Work a Specialty.

Also do wood repairing on Wagons and Buggies.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. KROUSE, KLEMME, IA.

STATE · SAVINGS · BANK
—OF—
KLFMME, IOWA

Does a regular Banking Business. Deals in Domestic and Foreign

EXCHANGE

Loans money on long or short time. Attends to collections and pay interest on time deposits

C. W. KNAPP, Cashier.

Bettin and Remer.

Contractors and Builders.

Plans and specifications furnished on application.

—All work guaranteed.

KLEMME, IOWA

GEO. S. GATES,

STONE · AND · BRICK · MASON

Plastering a Specialty. Do all kinds of work in my line. I also make a Specialty of bricking up Cisterns and boilers. All work guaranteed and Prices accordingly.

Give me a trial,

GEO. S. GATES,

Klemme, Iowa.

Wanted—An Idea Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer and list of two hundred inventions wanted.

JOHN BAUMGARTNER.

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY BARBER SHOP.

AN EASY SHAVE. - -

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

SHOP IN KIRKWOOD HOUSE, KLEMME, IOWA.

STOP!

If you want any Painting done and see

JOE MILLER,

a painter of 15 years experience.

All work guaranteed.

Leave orders at Shafer & Dows.

KLEMME IA.

W. F. JURGENS & CO.

Plain and Fancy painters.

SIGN writing a specialty.

Call on or write us at

KLEMME, IOWA.

Honest Prices, Reliable Goods, Courteous Treatment,

Is our motto.

We handle Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Hats, Caps, Crockery, Hardware, Ammunition.

Buck's Celebrated Stoves.

TIN SHOP UP STAIRS.

5 pr. ct. off for cash.

SCHNEIDER CO. GARNER, IA.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, June 5, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum in Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1895.

GRISWOLD & CLINE, PUBLISHERS.

Garner.

S. Sturgeon spent Decoration day at Clarion.

Miss Bertha Bush returned home, Monday.

Miss Matie Barnes is now clerking in the post office.

J, E. Wichman returned from Waterloo, Monday, with his wife and baby.

C. E. Stevens and wife visited at Cedar Fall over Sunday.

Mrs. A. Asplin is able to be out again after her severe illness,

A number of our people were at Belmond Sunday attending the funeral of Miss Cecelia Finch.

Four cars of cattle were shipped from here Thursday morning. John Burnside and John Stork, 2 cars each. Stork went in with them.

Our town was flooded with people from all parts of the county on Decoration day. The exercises at the cemetery were carried out as advertised and the address by Rev. Douglas was very highly appreciated by all present. The circus was well patronized.

Goodell Items.

Tom Cashman was ie Garner, Monday.

Jno. Cline was a Garner caller Monday.

A. D. White went to Belmond Saturday.

Miss Cashman left for Forest City Monday.

Ray Armstrong of Belmond, Sundayed in Goodell.

Miss Barta of Klemme spent Sunday in Goodell.

Some of the young people are fishing at Silver Lake, Minn.

Mac Lamson of Garner, was in our town, Monday.

Belmond was represented saturday night, by several young men.

Some of our old soldiers attended the memorial exercises at Belmond, Saturday.

One Minute is the standard time, and One Minute Cough Cure is the standard preparation for every form of cough or cold. It is the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results. Harr.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market; costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. HARR. Read our free booklet on Microbic Diseases.

The devil never thinks it worth while to answer back when a stingy man talks in church. —R. H.

Mr. James Perdue, an old soldier residing at Monroe, Mich., was very severely afflicted with rheumatism but received prompt relief from pain by using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. He says: "At times my back would ache so badly that I could hardly raise up. If I had not gotten relief I would not be here to write these few lines. Chamberlain's Pain Balm has done me a great deal of good and I feel very thankful for it." For sale by J. L. HARR.

Mansions are being prepared in heaven only for those who are candidates for their ownership. —R. H.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR OIL

[FOR OUR FRIEND, THE HORSE.]

Speedily cures Barb-Wire Cuts, Bruises and Lacerated surfaces, Collar and Saddle Galls, Fungus Collar Tumors, Scratches, Thrush, etc.

Geo. Alexander, Olaf, Iowa, says: "One of my horses was totally disabled by reason of barb-wire cut, muscles being lacerated and torn from knee to shoulder and bone splintered. Tried their remedies for months but without avail. The second application of Compound Liquid Sulphur Oil stopped all irritation and one bottle has nearly cured the sore." For sale by J. L. HARR.

Many troubles are like dogs. run from them and they will follow you. Turn against them, and they will fly.—R. H.

Other springs the young man's yearning, straight his thought of love reveals, but these days, his ardent fancy lightly turns to thoughts of wheels.

If we knew what our enemies have suffered, our enmity would often die a sudden death.—R. H.

During the whole time christ was on earth, only two people gave enough to attract his attention, and they were both women.—R. H.

Young mothers dread the Summer months on account of the great mortality among children caused by bowels troubles. Perfect safety may be assured those who keep on hand DeWitt's Colic & Cholera cure, and administer it promptly. For cramps, bilious colic, dysentery and diarrhœa, it affords instant relief. Harr.

Being in your job work, we guarantee satisfaction.

Clothing at prices lower than ever. Clothing that is new, stylish and Clothing that is good fitting. That is what makes clothing sell.

The Hot Weather coats and vests are in, and are the correct thing. We show you a line of

NEW HATS.

—Straw Hats in endless variety.—

We are exclusive agents for the GORDON HAT just as good as a Stetson hat and costs one half the money.

5 per. ct. off for cash.

W. C. SCHULER,

GARNER IA,

THE QUESTION is often asked, What Paint shall we use?
THE ANSWER: If you are looking for covering capacity, wearing qualities, general appearance, and your money's worth, you must buy

THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINT.

Covers Most, Looks Best, Wears Longest, Most Economical, Full Measure.

Our prices are for "best goods" first, last and all the time. We are in the business to stay and S. W. P. stays with us.

BRUSHES,
COLORS IN OIL,
HOUSE & COACH
VARNISHES,
WALL PAPER.

C. S. COLLINS. GARNER, IOWA.

Spring Goods are all in

The Bell Clothing STORE, at

GARNER, IOWA.

When in town call and see us, we can save you money.

For GOOD DEALS IN HARNESS.

Call on

F. GRUETZMACHER.

You will find a Number One Hand Made Harness Warranted.
Single harness	from 5 to $20.
Collars from	75c to $3.50
Sweat Pads	25c to 75c
Lap Dusters	35c to $2.50.

I carry a complete line in Saddlery and Sandlery Hardware.

Shoes.

My stock of shoes is such that I can fit any one small or large in style, comfort and prices.

Now Is Your Chance.

A firm that has had experience in handling farm machinery knows which kinds give the best satisfaction.

Terhufen & Son

on second street, handle Deering Binders, Dubuque Norweigen Plows, Pekin Riding Plows, Mascot Corn Cultivators, Evans Planters, Moline wagons and

FANCY BUGGIES.

We meet any competition on the same class of goods.

Call on us and get OUR PRICES.

Terhufen & Son.

VICTIMS NUMBER 527.

Latest News from St. Louis and Adjoining Towns.

PROPERTY LOSS OF $35,000,000

Work of Recovery of the Dead Bodies Going On;

SCORES OF FAMILIES HOMELESS.

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS SEVERELY DAMAGED.

Many Towns in the Path of the Storm Are the Scenes of Death and Desolation—New Baden, Ill., Severely Stricken—School Children Killed and Injured—Columbia, Pa., Visited by a Destructive Storm — List of the Known Killed and Injured.

St. Louis, Mo., May 30.—The death list of the cyclone in this city is easily 200. The property loss is conservatively estimated at $30,000,000. In the adjoining towns and their respective localities, of East St. Louis, Centralia, Breckenridge, Vandalia, Mount Vernon and Mexico, Mo., there are 327 persons dead. The property damage of these six towns is fully $5,000,000. Thus the cyclone left as ghastly souvenirs of its visit to this locality an aggregate of 527 persons dead, $35,000,000 worth of property in ruins, and fully 700 persons with bodies torn and mangled but still clinging to life.

The city, that portion of it that felt the greatest force of the storm, presents a scene of complete ruin. Structures that were built to stand a century are merely great, shapeless piles of collapsed masonry. In addition to the wind came the two rival destroyers, fire and water. The former sprung up in a dozen places and from the buildings that had been converted into kindling by the wind, and a feature of horror was added by the fact that many persons burned to death as their homes were consumed. Then came the rain in overwhelming sheets of water that made life for those exposed in the streets to the deluge little better than death in the ruins.

In the vast hospital here were 450 patients. After the cyclone had partly demolished the hospital structure, some were killed and scores of other patients who had taken their pain-racked bodies there for relief were found to have received additional pains that they, last of all, were able to bear. Convention Hall and the Four Courts were in the path of the cloud as it passed from the city hospital toward the river. Convention Hall lost a part of the roof at the eastern end, and the east end was punctured in several places by flying missiles and sustained some derangement of the interior. A section of the brick wall of the jail went down and the prisoners were panic-stricken, but none escaped.

The loss along the river is enormous, and the death list of this great disaster may be swelled as the fate of vessels now in doubt is settled.

Great as is this city's misfortune, it has been quickly realized that she has a sister sufferer in East St. Louis, and already solicitous inquiries are made here concerning the situation across the river. The loss in East St. Louis is fully 250 dead and 300 injured, and the property damage also is heavy. Fire alone in East St. Louis did $500,000 damage. In the various other towns where there have been loss of life and destruction of property, the disasters which ordinarily would startle are merely ghastly incidents of the great horror that has devastated this city and East St. Louis.

It was along the river front that the greatest fury of the storm was spent, and evidence of the fierceness of elemental onslaught are found on every hand. For miles up and down the levee the banks of the Mississippi are strewn with the wreckage of what were magnificent floating palaces, ponderous coal barges, and fleets of small craft, to say nothing of the great warehouses, elevators, machine shops, countless store buildings and dwellings, and the gigantic Eads bridge.

Of all the craft that lined the river for miles, but one remains to tell the story of the disaster. It hung steadily to its moorings throughout. When the tornado struck the river the light of day vanished in a moment and those at work on the levee could barely discern the forms of the steamers as one after another pitched and tossed and finally with a crash was blown out into the dark waters and disappeared. The scene was one of wild uncertainty and chaos. No one knew whither to flee for safety from the fury of the storm.

The steamer J. J. Odell of the Illinois River Packet Line was blown from its wharf at the foot of Morgan street, crashed into the second pier of the Eads bridge, and sank. Her boilers blew up before she disappeared. She had a crew of twelve and three women passengers besides her captain, George Townsend. Three of her crew, Jack Morrissey, Pat Milan, and a man named Moore, reached land safely. Three others of the crew clung to the pier and made their way up to the bridge proper.

There is no way of estimating the number of lives lost on the river craft that happened to be near when the cyclone came. Hundreds of barges were moored all along the river bank. In some instances as many as ten and twelve persons were on board when the anchorage gave way under the terrible strain. Men were blown into the water, the barges in the river turned, and the destruction of life will be large. Several boats were jerked from their moorings and carried far down the river.

When darkness temporarily interrupted the search for storm victims 315 people were known to be dead on both sides of the river, and although the complete dead list will never be known it is believed that it will approximate 400 in the two cities. The number of the injured is even larger, and many of the maimed cannot survive. The property loss will reach well into the millions, but insurance people, firemen, and police, refuse even to hazard a guess at accurate figures. The uncertainty regarding the loss of life and property is mainly due to the wide extent of the havoc wrought by the storm.

The miles of wrecked buildings as yet unexplored, and the numerous collapsed factories, toward the investigation of which little progress has been made, may hide almost any number of bodies, as the police have been unable to secure anything like an accurate list of the missing.

Colonel Wetmore, manager of the Liggett & Meyer tobacco plant, which was wrecked, estimates the entire property damage at $25,000,000, which will be, he says, almost a total loss, owing to the lack of cyclone insurance. Other estimates range from $15,000,000 to $30,000,000, but the majority of these are close to that made by Colonel Wetmore.

Martial law has not been declared at East St. Louis, and it will not be unless conditions change. Governor Altgeld has so decided. However, two companies of the Illinois National Guard have been ordered under arms and directed to proceed to that city at once. The soldiers will act under the direction of the mayor of the city and do police duty. Early yesterday morning it became apparent that the local police could not protect the lives and property of the citizens of East St. Louis. Hordes of thieves and thugs from all over the country began to swarm into the city, attracted by the opportunities offered for plunder and robbery.

Following is a list of dead and injured so far as known: Sophie Demartina, Robert Wilson, Katie Claypool, Charles Nee,, William Winkler Bush, Max Weiss, Josephine Martin, Wallace Bradshaw, —— Jones, Frank Fisher, Julius Galt, Booker Epstein, ——Bornstein, Fred Zimmers, unknown child, about 5 years old, J. Lemeke, unknown man, Robert Wilson, twenty-nine employes Liggett & Myers' cigarette factory, twenty-five employes St. Louis wooden gutter factory, Malachi McDonald, unknown baby 2 years old, John Pandy, child at 1944 Papin street, two at 27th and St. Vincent, woman at 30th and Soulard streets, unknown man at Dolman street and Park avenue, janitor in ruins St. Paul's church, two children at 1728 South 9th street, William Ottewad, John Burgess, Wallace T. C. Butler, unknown man, found at midnight at foot of Choteau avenue, butcher living at 2654 Hickory street, at Kennerk's sausage factory, Robert Miller, unknown, picked up at 3d and Rutger streets, Josephine Martini, fifteen unknown men, one unknown woman, one unknown girl, John Rafferty, Harry Hess, two unknown boys.

The following are among the injured: Miss May Walter, gashed on head and arms, not serious; Miss Josie Walter, bruised on shoulders and head; John Bulkins; Frank Benson; Holkamp; unknown man; James Conway; infant of Mrs. Hamilton, will die; Daniel Heitner, serious; Mrs. Daniel Heitner, severe injuries; Mrs. Castle, serious; Gustave Leitner; Chris Smith; William Swanett, engineer Terminal railroad, badly hurt; Fireman McGentiss, hurt about head and shoulders; Henry Althaus, employe St. Louis wire mill, crushed, will die; Tootsey, internal injuries; O'Brien, both arms broken; Theo. Riss, aged 8, skull fractured, otherwise injured; T. A. Benson, skull fractured; George Boetz, head hurt and badly bruised; George Peiper, internally injured; Katie Bennett, both arms broken, one ear torn off; Edwin Hyke, badly cut by falling glass; three unknown dead at gas house on Convent street, near Main; six unknown men found in front Union depot railroad power house, badly lacerated; Bookkeeper for Joe Ogde, La Salle and Jefferson avenue; engineer for Hart & Back; Joe Davis; Mike Dowd, internally injured; Kate Filsinger, suffers from a broken leg; a driver of Penny & Gentle's wagon, named Fechtenmeyer, was thrown from his wagon at Choteau avenue and Jefferson street and had his skull fractured; Tom Moss, the secretary of the fire departemnt, was picked up unconscious at 10th street and Clark avenue after the storm and was sent to the Cilty hospital; Tom Carroll and Joseph Ireland sought shelter in a doorway at Bridge & Beach's, on Poplar street, and were injured by flying wreckage. Carroll's leg was broken and Ireland was struck on the head, receiving a serious wound; M. F. Crawley, with three others, was standing in the hallway of St. Paul's church, 9th street and Lafayettc avenue, when the building collapsed. They were bruised by falling brick, but escaped without serious injury; Abbie Burke, St. Louis; C. C. Kalb; Julius Skaffer, injured internally, not expected to live, in a serious condition; Harry Smith, Nokomis, Ill., badly injured about body and head, serious; Charles Street, Newport, Ark., head and arms cut, in a serious condition; Louise Miller, Burneville, Jefferson county, Mo., badly hurt; Peter Hall, seriously injured; Maud H. Tinker, Danville, Wis., serious cuts on head and body, believed to be fatal; J. W. Tinker; M. L. Tinker; J. L. Tinker, all of Waterloo, Ill., more or less injured, those of M. L. Tinker are serious; Patrick McMahon, serious bruises on body and head; Ben Brennan; badly hurt; John Balkins, badly hurt, unconscious; Frank Benson, head badly cut; J. L. Holkump, contusion about face and head, serious; unknown man, badly injured, reported dying; James Conway, badly injured about body and shoulders.

Liggett & Myers' tobacco works, ten killed and twenty injured.

AT EAST ST. LOUIS.

Fatalities Here Reach Three Hundred—Scores Buried in the Ruins.

East St. Louis, Ill., May 30.—East St. Louis is in ruin. The cyclone which swept down upon the city Wednesday night obliterated block after block of business houses and dwellings and left behind in its red trail of death scores of human beings buried beneath the walls of flattened buildings or crushed to death in the streets by the flying debris. The improvised morgues and hospitals are fairly choked with dead, some crushed and battered out of all human shape, and through them flows a steady stream of hysterical women and grim-faced men, looking for their missing ones.

It is almost impossible to make an accurate estimate of those killed. At the various morgues, and at St. Mary's hospital, there are fifty-six. Six are in the Big Four freight-house ruins. How many more there are scattered about the city in private houses it is impossible to tell, but a conservative estimate would place the toal number at at least 200. The scene is simply appalling. From the river bank to the National stock yards, a distance of over a mile, scarcely a building is left standing.

The greatest slaughter was done on the island, so called. Here were located the Vandalia freight-house and general office, the river boats' warehouses, and humble abodes of working men. Nothing is left standing. The places where formerly houses and freight depots stood were literally swept by the fury of the storm. In the Vandalia general office alone there were from twenty to twenty-five killed, the bodies of some of whom are still buried beneath the broken rafters and bricks.

The monetary loss cannot be estimated, but it will run up into the millions.

The dead bodies recovered: J. E. Keene, Vandalia railway; Dr. C. E. Neall, dentist; Mrs. Richey; Joe Frank; Joe Mitchell; Miles Mitchell; Charles Carroll, barber; John Kent; Mrs. Scott Hayward; Frank Rose; Ed Kavanaugh; Jacob Kurtz, Vincennes, Ind.; Mrs. Clendenning; Mrs. Bruce; Mrs. Emma Sullivan; Robert Bland; John Reamer; Charles Maitz; William Suber; Henry Winterman; —— Anderson; —— Palmsley; Miss Conley; Mrs. Slide; flagman of Air line, name unknown; John Hayes; Mrs. William Hayes; Mrs. Pat Bean; unknown boy.

The missing: Eddie Bland, supposed to be under wreck of Vandalia depot; City Clerk Jerry Kain, Frank Bland, Frank McCormick, Albert Volkman, Earl Keene, Mike Kildva, W. E. Kiefer, Alvin Mate, Will Mufray, Dan Kelly, George Romer, W. Frelink, W. Hanfork, Mr. Martell an three servant girls at Martell house, George Woods, clerk in Vandalia office; two children of Mrs. Horace Trump of Litchfield, Ill., J. A. Porter, Broughton, Ill.; unknown traveling man, supposed to be connected with the Cincinnati Cigar company; John Valentine, City Collector David S. Sage and wife, Philip Strickler, Jr., and mother; Judge Faulk of Vandalia, Ill.; Mrs. M. Martell, all of the boarders at the Martell house, except Judge Hope of Alton, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. John Hays, Will Hays, all boarders, estimated at sixteen, at Tremont house; William Mitchell, Irene Clendenen, twenty unidentified bodies at Bridge tower, six unidentified bodies at Electric railway station, two of whom are supposed to be William Sullivan and wife; Mrs. John Reed, Patrick Dean and family of six, John Bucharz, Edward O'Brien and John Breen, two boarders at Stacy's boarding house,; Ida Gladdue, Mrs. Roof, Albert Volkman, Joseph Mitchell, John Sullivan, William Rickey, unknown man on Collinsville avenue, son of Mrs. Ira Kent, Henry Wintermann, Winstanley Park, Jacob Korth, William [illegible]ken; John Farrell, both legs broken; John Roof, John Sullivan M. Mitchell, Mrs. Kent, Wendelin Huschler, Edward McCormac, Mrs. Warner and two children of Litchfield, Ill., Mrs. Ellen Hennessy, Mrs. Lizzie Haertzel, Marie Mitchell, Louis Johnson, John Stock, Charles Kenny, Joe Duffy, William Murray, Miss Mamie Evans, Fred Weide, Mrs. Horace Krump, H. H. Williams, J. C. Huli, two unknown men at 1428 Menard avenue, unknown woman and child, between Lafayette and Emmitt streets, in alley child was clasped in woman's arms; Fred Bennell, 1830 South 13th street, unknown boy, apparently 17 years old, 1830 South 13th street.

Following is a list of the injured: Pedro O'Connor, aged 11, run over by coal train driven by wind, leg crushed.

Following laborers working on the four-story iron frame at Liggett & Myers' cigarette factory were injured: Patrick Tracey, 45, right hand torn off; James Lahey, 38, hurt internally; John Toomey, 50, internally injured; Joseph Boyd, 35, leg broken, spine hurt; Mike Lloyd, 45, internally injured; Patrick Reueg, 48, internally injured; James Lenahan, 35, internally injured; Michael Mulroon, internally injured; James Leinthus, 28, eyes put out and scalp wounds; Thomas Griffith, 23, hip injured; David Lewis, 35, head and body cut; Caroline Rolland, internally; Albert Platz, leg and ankle broken; Albert Schulte, leg and arm broken

At city hospital: Harry Ottesson, badly cut and bruised; Laurence Childress, badly cut and bruised; Mary Finan, badly cut and bruised; sixty paupers at hospital more or less injured.

Among the injured are: John Bewiger, houseman at St. Clair hotel; H. C. Hall, engineer, Baltimore & Ohio; Mrs. Ellen Hennessy, 212 St. Louis avenue; chest crushed; will die; W. H. Williams, assistant superintendent of St. Louis & East St. Louis electric railway; right arm broken, head cut and internally injured; will probably die; Patrick Kennedy, internal injuries; D. Bender, clerk Big Four; internal injuries; J. H. Buchanan, Howell, Ind.; internal injuries; K. H. McMann, head cut; T. P. Elam, blacksmith on the Vandalia road; internal injuries; W. C. Van Meeder, Baltimore & Ohio road; timber through thigh; will probably die; William Hopo, Big Four; legs badly fractured; Mayor H. F. Bader, badly injured about the head by flying timbers; Mrs Horace Trump, internal injuries; Bert Farrell, both legs cut off at thigh; Dan Kelly, crushed by falling building; Joe Duffy, same; William Price, same; Baby Brower, 500 West Broadway; leg broken; John Block, internal injuries; Joseph Reed, internal injuries; Ambrose Hormon, both legs and left arm broken; James Ramsey, same; four members of Armour family; Frank Roff, Venice, Ill.; internal injuries. W. M. Hops, thigh fractured; Ed Cull, thigh broken; Peter Harris, shoulder broken; Mrs L. Hientel, 516 Missouri avenue; thigh broken: William Cogan, engineer, terribly injured; H. K. Vail, arm broken; Maggie Herbert, arm broken; Florence Reilly, telegraph operator, bruised; Josie Gallen, slightly injured; C. E. O'Brist, electrician, arm cut; Roy D. Moore, railway clerk, right arm broken; Mathew Quirk, slightly injured; Nancy Fierce, a girl, wrist dislocated, bruised; Albert Fierce, boy, injured in breast and shoulders; Frank Barr, cut in head, shoulders and leg hurt; Robert Bland, badly hurt; Edward Bland, bruised; John Malloy, left shoulder and side injured; Thomas Dougherty, head and hip injured; Jos. Crean, slightly injured; Al Tucker, shoulder and head hurt; Charles Kinney, hip dislocated; Mr. Givens, railway clerk, slightly injured; John McMahon, rib fractured, shoulder blade broken and back hurt; Patrick Trainer, gash in back of head, delirious; Deamie Bendy, feet hurt; Joseph Burke, leg broken; Peter Harris, left arm broken.

The missing: City Clerk Jerry Kane; Eddy Bland, supposed to be under ruins Vandalia depot; Frank Bland, same; Frank McCormick, same; Albert Volkman, same; Carl Keene, same; George Wods, same; Mike Riddea, same; W. E. Keefers, same; Lavin Mote, same; Will Murrey, same; Dan Kelley, same; George Romer, same; W. E. Freelink, same; Link Handford, same.

ELGIN IS HORRIFIED.

Col. McClincy's Murder Startles His Former Fellow-Citizens.

Elgin, Ill., May 29.—News of the murder of Colonel Richard P. McGlincy and family at their home near San Jose, Cal., horrified the people of Elgin, among whom Colonel McGlincy lived a score of years. He came from West Virginia after the war, in which he fought under Stonewall Jackson. For years he was local editor of the Elgin Gazette, afterward the Advocate; was one of the organizers, and for ten years, up to 1887, secretary of the Elgin board of trade, prominent in all dairy meetings, and secretary of the Illinois State Dairymen's Association and the Northwestern Dairymen's Association, a leader in Odd Fellow ranks, and for years deputy grand master of the state.

Farmers of Ohio are of the opinion that the wheat crop this year will be a decided failure on account of a recent frost. Some farmers complain of a little worm which is causing great destruction.

MEANING OF FLOWERS.

Mint is symbolic of virtue.

The bell flower is symbolic of gratitude.

A horse chestnut is indicative of luxury.

The American cowslip indicates devotion.

The honeysuckle symbolizes a bond of love.

The peach blossom indicates submission.

X-Rays

Of test and trial prove Hood's Sarsaparilla to be unequalled for purifying the blood because

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1.

Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ills. 25 cents.

If you accept a substitute, you must not fuss because its not as good as genuine HIRES Rootbeer.

Made only by The Charles E. Hires Co., Philadelphia. A 25c. package makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere.

Findings—

"The best, of course," you tell your dressmaker, and trust to her using the

S. H. & M. REGISTERED TRADE MARK

BIAS VELVETEEN SKIRT BINDING

Why don't you tell her to use it or, better still, buy it yourself?

If your dealer will not supply you we will.

Samples showing labels and materials mailed free. "Home Dressmaking," a new book by Miss Emma M. Hooper, of the Ladies' Home Journal, telling how to put on Bias Velveteen Skirt Bindings sent for 25c., postage paid.

S. H. & M. Co., P. O. Box 699, N. Y. City.

Before deciding on your Summer Outing, consult the "Four-Track Series," the New York Central's beautiful book of travel.

Illustrated Catalogue sent free, postpaid, on receipt of a two-cent stamp, by George H. Daniels, General Passenger Agent, Grand Central Station, New York.

CUT AND SLASH

SMOKING TOBACCO, 2 oz. for 5 Cents.

CUT AND SLASH

CHEROOTS—3 for 5 Cents.

Give a Good, Mellow, Healthy, Pleasant Smoke. Try Them.

LYON & CO. TOBACCO WORKS, Durham, N. C.

Send us 22 cents in stamps and we will mail you a Handsome Sterling Silver Plated Souvenir Tea Spoon with picture of Ex-Gov. McKinley of Ohio engraved in bowl. Or for 27 cents we will send the same spoon with Gold Plated Bowl. Four assorted handle designs. We also have bowl engravings of all Presidents and noted Generals Send for Catalogue. Agents wanted.

NIAGARA FALLS SOUVENIR CO., Niagara Falls, N. Y.

WELL MACHINERY

Illustrated catalogue showing WELL AUGERS, ROCK DRILLS, HYDRAULIC AND JETTING MACHINERY, etc. SENT FREE. Have been tested and all warranted.

Sioux City Engine and Iron Works, Successors to Peech Mfg. Co. Sioux City, Iowa.

THE ROWELL & CHASE MACHINERY CO., 1414 West Eleventh Street, Kansas City, Mo

PATENTS, TRADE MARKS

Examination and Advice as to Patentability of Invention. Send for "Inventors' Guide, or How to Get a Patent. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Washington, D. C.

$5 Hand Bone, Shell, and Corn Mills for Poultrymen. Daisy Bone Cutter. Power Mills. Circular and testimonials Free. WILSON BROS., Easton, Pa.

LINDSEY · OMAHA · RUBBERS!

OPIUM and WHISKY habits cured. Book sent FREE. Dr. B. M. WOOLLEY, ATLANTA, GA.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

A Paying Political Pull.

Wool—It pays to have a political pull, I tell you; I was appointed a dog catcher to-day.

Van Pelt—What possible good can that be to you?

Wool—I'm tired of wearing Neighbob's dog home every time I call on his daughter.

When the Summer Breeze

Blows through the trees, most of us who can set off for a country jaunt. Fewer cross the Atlantic. Whether it is business or pleasure calls one from home, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the best accompaniment of a voyage or an outing. Yachtsmen, sea captains, commercial travelers and emigrants concur in this opinion. The Bitters is unrivaled for bilious, malarial dyspeptic or liver disorder.

On Notes.

"Why so glum?" asked his friend, "Aren't you doing a roaring trade?"

"Yes, I am," admitted the basso, "but it is all on notes."

Wabash Summer Excursions.

June 1st our summer excursion tickets will go on sale to points east. Good to return until October 1st. For information apply at 220 Fourth street, Des Moines, Ia. Horace Seely, Commercial Agent.

When a man arrives at the top of a hill very few people take the trouble to inquire how he got there.

In France, when a railroad train is more than ten minutes late, the company is fined

Each salmon produces about 20,000,000 eggs.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

It is said that the Greenland whale sometimes attains the age of 400 years.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

German coal from Westphalia is now being shipped at a profit from the Rhine towns to London.

Since the new excise law went into effect the number of hotels in New York city has been tripled.

Most of the medieval kings wore and used signet rings because they were unable to write their names.

The Munich opera-house has a new rotating stage by which any scene can be changed in twelve seconds.

All of the corned beef and pickled pork for European armies and navies goes by way of Canada and crosses the border at Vanceboro, Me.

The coal fields of the United States have an area of nearly 200,000 square miles, or ten times that of all other coal-producing countries in the world.

New York state has a new law, just passed making it a misdemeanor for any man to wear the badge or regalia of any society of which he is not a member.

A Cambric shirt worn by Louis XVI. on the day before his death realized $570 and the napkin used at mass on the morning of his execution $390, at a recent London sale.

A "chameleon flower" has been introduced into Europe from the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. The blossoms of this newly discovered plant are white in the morning, changing to red at noon and again to blue in the evening.

Last year thirty-seven towns in Connecticut were engaged in improving their roads, and now eighty towns are reported to have joined in the movement. The improvement made is thorough and scientific. The cost is borne equally by the state, the county and the municipality.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

The branches of the Mississippi River have an aggregate length of fifteen thousand miles.

Most physicians think that the sun radiates heat as it does light or as a stove emits warmth.

The horn of the rhinoceros is not joined to the bone of the head, but grows on the skin like a wart or corn.

Microscopists say that the strongest microscopes do not, probably, reveal the lowest stages of animal life.

Man is scientifically defined as forty-five pounds of carbon and nitrogen diffused through five buckets of water.

It is now claimed that foods stored in

An eminent scientist suggests that the twinkling of the fixed stars may actually be caused by the flaming of the tremendous conflagrations possibly taking place on these far-away distant suns.

Sir William Thomson has recently been making experiments to discover what the effect of a cannonade of quick firing guns would be on board the vessel firing and the ship subject to the fire. He finds that after fifteen minutes firing the survivors of the crews of both vessels would be reduced to a state of mental if not physical incapacity, owing to the concussion of the projectiles on the sides of the vessel and the noise of the guns.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:

"I cannot begin to tell you what your remedies have done for me. I suffered for years with falling and neuralgia of the womb, kidney trouble and leucorrhœa in its worst form. There were times that I could not stand, was sick all over and in despair. I had not known a real well day for 15 years. I knew I must do something at once. I had tried physicians without receiving any lasting benefit. I began the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Now, I have used 9 bottles; my weight has increased 25 lbs. I tell every one to whom and what I owe my recovery, and there are 15 of my friends taking the Compound after seeing what it has done for me. Oh, if I had known of it sooner, and saved all these years of misery. I can recommend it to every woman."—KATE YODER, 408 W. 9th St., Cincinnati, O.

Should advice be required, write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., who has the utter confidence of all intelligent American women. She will promptly tell what to do, free of charge. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is easily obtained at any druggist's, will restore any ailing woman to her normal condition quickly and permanently.

DECISIVE BATTLES OF HISTORY.

Marathon, B. C. 490. The Athenians, under Miltiades, defeated the Persians, under Datis. Free government preserved.

Syracuse, B. C. 414.—The Athenians defeated by the Syracusans and their allies, the Spartans, under Gylippus.

Arbela, B. C. 331. The Persians defeated by the Macedonians and Greeks under Alexander the Great. End of the Persian empire.

Metaurus, B. C. 207. The Carthaginians, under Hasdrubul, were defeated by the Romans under Caius and Marcus Livius.

Philippi, B. C. 42. Brutus and Cassius defeated by Octavius and Antony. The fate of the republic decided.

Actium, B. C. 31. The combined fleets of Antony and Cleopatra defeated by Octavius, and imperialism established in the person of Octavius.

Winfeld-Lippe, A. D. 9. Teutonic independence established by the defeat of the Roman legions under Varus at the hands of the Germans under Arminius (Hermann).

Tours, A. D. 732. The Saracens defeated by Charles Martel and Christendom rescued from Islam.

Hastings, A. D. 1066. Harold, commanding the English army, defeated by William the Conqueror, and a new regime established in England by the Normans.

Siege of Orleans, A. D. 1429. The English defeated by the French under Joan of Arc.

Defeat of the Spanish Armada, A. D. 1588. England saved from Spanish invasion.

Lutzen, A. D. 1632. Decided the religious liberties of Germany. Gustavus Adolphus killed.

Blenheim, A. D. 1704. The French and Bavarians, under Marshall Tallard, defeated by the English and their allies, under Marlborough.

Pultowa, A. D. 1709. Charles XII., of Sweden, defeated by the Russians under Peter the Great.

Saratoga, A. D. 1777. Critical battle of the American War of Independence. The English defeated by the Americans, under Gen. Gates.

Valmy, A. D. 1792.—An invading army of Prussians, Austrians and Hessians, under the Duke of Brunswick, defeated by the French under Kellermann. The first success of the republic against foreigners.

Trafalgar. On the 21st of October, A. D. 1805, the great naval battle of Trafalgar was fought. The English defeated the French and destroyed Napoleon's hopes to successfully invade England.

Waterloo, A. D. 1815. The French, under Napoleon, defeated by the allied armies of Russia, Austria, Prussia and England, under Wellington.

Siege of Sebastopol, A. D. 1854-5. The Russians succumbed to the beleaguering armies of England, France and Turkey, and the result was delay in the expansion of the Russian empire.

Gettysburg, July, A. D. 1863. The deciding battle of the war for the Union. The Confederates under Gen. Lee defeated by the Union forces under Meade.

Sedan, A. D. 1870. The decisive battle of the Franco-German war.

BITS OF KNOWLEDGE.

Negroes own 120,000 farms.

In Shanghai there is an organ made from bamboo.

For thirty years Dr. Barnardo's Homes have now been engaged in their philanthropic labors, and their rescues average up close upon 1,000 children for every year of their existence.

GEMS OF THOUGHT.

Religion requires the extirpation of all those passions and vices which render men unsociable and troublesome to one another.—Tillotson.

Severity carried to the highest pitch breaks the mind; and then in the place of a disorderly young fellow you have a low-spirited, moped creature.—Locke.

If I were to trust to my observation and give a verdict on it, I must depose that, in my experience, I have found that those who were most indulgent to themselves were (in the mass) less kind to others than those who have lived a life nearer to self denial. I go further. In my experience I have observed that a luxurious softness of manners hardens the heart, at least as much as an over-done abstinence.—Burke.

Rutabagas for Fodder.

It is gratifying to see so many American farmers putting their waste places or spare pieces of land into rutabagas and turnips for early fall or long winter feeding. They are getting the European idea of root crops. There the turnips and rutabagas are sown broadcast as are almost all grains, and if not desired as roots, the foliage then is used for green food. Just imagine the results of a twenty-acre oatpatch treated in this way! Think of the tremendous amount of green fodder, magnificent fodder too, coming into full play during hot August and September. Why, a field of rutabagas and turnips, there, for cattle food is worth almost as much as the oats gathered therefrom! Another good plan is to sow rutabaga seed, especially the variety known as Salzer's LaCrosse, Wis., Mammoth Russian variety, or his Milk Globe turnip sort, at the rate of one-half pound per acre, into the cornfield, just before the last cultivation. This will give you two good crops—one of corn, the other of roots from the same land! One advantage of the rutabaga is that it can be sown at any time of the summer for green food, while a sowing the latter part of July is the best in northern states for big, sweet, juicy roots for winter storage and use.

Peruvian cotton is in twelve different hues, from white to a deep red. The seed from each shade produces cotton of the same color.

"Pretty Pill" says Pretty Poll

She's just "poil parroting." There's no prettiness in pills, except on the theory of "pretty is that pretty does." In that case she's right.

Ayer's Pills

do cure biliousness, constipation, and all liver troubles.

Nature's Beauty Spots

Are nowhere so prominent as in the East.

The Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway

will take you there without fatigue or annoyance. Visit Chautauqua, Niagara, the Adirondacks, Catskills, Lake George, Thousand Islands, the Hudson or Sea Shore resorts. An ideal vacation. Refreshing rest, with variety of choice enough to satisfy every one.

Booklet, giving complete information as to routes, rates, etc., FREE!

K. WILBER, Western P. A. CHICAGO

Binder Twine Largest sellers in the world. Samples & prices free; write MONTGOMERY WARD & CO., 111 to 118 Michigan Av., Chicago.

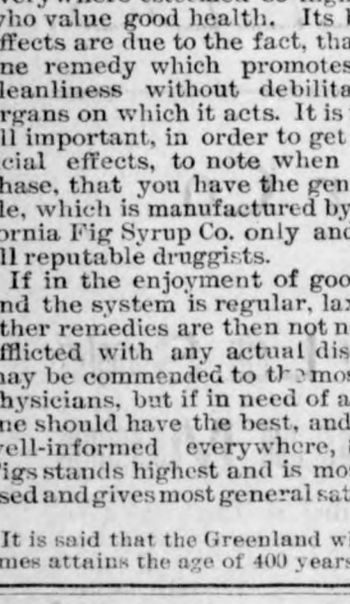
OPIUM Habit Cured. Est. in 1871. Thousands cured. Cheapest and best cure. FREE TRIAL. State case. DR. MARSH, Quincy, Mich.

W·N.U. D.M.--1247. NO. 23

When answering advertisements kindly mention this paper.

Columbia Bicycles

Facts Popularity does not come without cause. Nothing but the standard quality that is invariably maintained in Columbia Bicycles could secure such indorsement as comes unsought to Columbias.



EVERYBODY'S CHOICE When The New York Journal offered the choice of the ten leading makes of bicycles recently to the ten winners of a guessing contest, every one of the ten selected Columbias. And The Journal bought ten Columbias at $100 each.

TIFFANY'S CHOICE When Tiffany & Co., the famous jewelers, desired to make an experiment with elaborate decoration of bicycles, they of course first selected a Columbia—and paid $100 for it. They have decorated other bicycles since, but Columbia was first choice.

CHOSEN by the GOVERNMENT When the United States Government recently asked for proposals for furnishing five bicycles, it received bids from other makers of from $50 to $85 and our bid of $100 each for Columbias, their invariable price. And the experts selected Columbias, as in their opinion Columbias were worth every dollar of the price asked.

If you are able to pay $100 for a Bicycle, will you be content with any but a Columbia?

POPE MFG. CO., Makers, Hartford, Conn.

Branch Stores and Agencies in almost every city and town. If Columbias are not properly represented in your vicinity let us know.

"A Bicycle Built for Two."

BattleAx PLUG

Five cents' worth of "BATTLE AX" will serve two chewers just about as long as 5 cents' worth of other brands will serve one man. This is because a 5 cent piece of "BATTLE AX" is almost as large as the 10 cent piece of other high grade brands.

A POSITIVE CURE GUARANTEED for the worst cases of Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation, Liver and Kidney Diseases, Nervousness, Headache etc. Mr. Edward Wood of Primghar Iowa, who formally lived near La Porte and who is widely and very favorably known in northern Iowa writes on March 9th '96. "I have taken Dr. Kay's Renovator and it has cured me of dyspepsia of about ten years standing. I was so bad off that everything I ate soured on my stomach. I can now eat most anything. I am seventy one years old and I shall recommend it to others for the good it has done me." It renovates and invigorates the whole system and purifies and enriches the blood giving new life and vigor to the whole body. It is the VERY BEST NERVE TONIC known. Very pleasant and easy to take. It is made from pure concentrated extracts, in tablet form and has 2 to 4 times the doses that liquid remedies have. Sold by druggists or sent by mail on receipt of price 25c. and $1. SEND STAMP FOR FREE SAMPLE AND OUR BOOKELT it treats nearly all diseases and has many valuable receipts. Many value it worth $5. if they could not get another. Address our Western Office. Dr. B. J. Kay Medical Co., Omaha, Neb.

Dr. Kay's Renovator

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS.

NOW is the time for cleaning house

AND HARR'S is the place to buy your

Paints, Wall Paper and Alabastine.

The finest selection in Hancock County, and goods sold Cheap for CASH, or on time.

J. H. QUEAL & CO.

Invite you to come and inspect their Dry, Bright, well seasoned stock of

LUMBER LATH SHINGLES SASH DOORS — BRICK LIME CEMFNT

Oak and Cedar Posts.

We have a complete stock to select from at the lowest price. Let us figure on your bill.

We will not be undersold.

H. M. ANDRESEN M'GR.

SPRING GOODS!

Our Spring goods have arrived consisting of

—BLACK, WHITE and FIGURED—

LAWNS

Light Colored CALICOS, MUSLINS,

GAUZE UNDERWEAR ETC.

We also have a large line of HATS, CAPS and SHOES.

Butter and Eggs Wanted.

SHAFER & DOW.

GEO KLUCKHOHN,

The Restaurant Man!

Serves the Public with

A Square Meal, Fine Bread Buns, Oysters, Cigars, Tobaccos, etc.

WHEN IN TOWN CALL AND SEE HIM.

KLEMME, - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - IOWA.

ALEX. KIRKWOOD,

....PROPRIETOR OF....

KIRKWOOD :-: HOUSE.

FIRST CLASS ACCOMMADATION. - RATES $1.00 per Day.

Livery and Feed Stable in Connection

Rigs Furnished on Short Notice.

KLEMME. IOWA.

Locals.

Cement, Lime, Brick and stucco at Lau Bros.

Sum Elred of Goodell was in town one day last week.

Wagon Boxes by the wholesale from 10.50 to $12.50 at Lau Bros.

Two good buggies at cost, to make room for our new stock, at Lau Bro's.

When in Garner call at Phillip Schneider's Art Galery for fine pictures.

Terhufen & Son have as fine a lot of Iron and Wood Pumps as there are in town.

Phil. Ell and wife of Garner, were in town Tuesday, guests of George Kluckhohn.

One swallow does not make Spring, but one swallow of One Minute Cough Cure brings relief. Harr.

A couple of pipers were on our streets Monday, collecting nickles and pennies and piping in return.

Thos. Cashman of Goodell, in returning from Garner Monday, made the TIMES office a pleasant call.

Joe Miller went to Thompson Friday, to do a job of painting for C. W. Knapp. House, barn, and grainery.

John Burnside's children are having the measles and are having a very severe time, having had the third relapse.

The name "Domestic" is a stamp of quality, a guarantee of excellence. The Domestic always will be the best sewing machine. Science, skill and ingenuity have made it so. Science, skill and ingenuity will keep it so. Domestic bycycles are equally as good.

A. L. Wooster, a prominent citizen of Osseo, Mich., after suffering excruciatingly from piles for twenty years, was cured in a short time by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, an absolute cure for all skin diseases. More of this preparation is used than all others combined. Harr.

ATTENTION COMRADES!!

Attend the sixth reunion of North Iowa Veteran Association, Ladies Auxiliary and Midland Ass'n. S. of V. second Tuesday in June, at Clear Lake Ia. All ladies of Relief Corps and sons and daughters of veterans are especially invited. Remember, the dates are June 9th. and 10th. Report at the Pavilion Tuesday.

W. A. BURNAP, Pres.

Consult this list for Reduced Rates to important conventions in all parts of the country. These rates are open to all.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION, ST. LOUIS, MO. JUNE 16TH.
ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP.

NATL SESSION JUNIOR ORDER UNITED AMERICAN MECHANICS, DENVER COL., JUNE 16-20.
ONE FARE PLUS $2 00 FOR THE ROUND TRIP.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION, CHICAGO JULY 7TH.
ONE FARE FOR THE ROUMD TRIP.

JULY 4TH.
USUAL REDUCTION OF FARE BETWEEN ALL POINTS.

Y. P. S. C. E. ANNUAL CONVENTION, WASHINGTON, D. C., JULY 7-13.
OND FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP.

NATIONAL EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION, BUFFALO, N. Y. JULY 3-10.
ONE FARE PLUS $2 00 FOR THE ROUND TRIP.

BABTIST YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION, MILWAUKEE. JULY 16-19.
ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP.

AMERICAN CIVIL ENGINEERS MEETING, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., JULY.
ONE FIRST-CLASS UNLIMITED 30 DAY RATE FOR THF ROUND TRIP.

CONVENTION OF FIRE ENGINEERS, SALT LAKE UTAH, AUG. 10-14.
ONE FASE PLUS $2 FOR THE ROUND TRIP.

CONVENTION OF YOUNG PEOPLE'S CHRISTIAN UNION, OMAHA, NEB., AUG. 16-24.
ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP.

NATIONAL CONVENTION REPUBLICAN LEACUE, MILWAUKEE, WIS., AUG. 25-27.
ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP.

G. A. R. NATIONAL ENCAMPMENT ST. PAUL., MINN., SEPT. 1-4.
ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP WITHIN A RADIUS OF 250 MILES. FROM ALL OTHER POINTS ONE CENT PER MILE IN EACH DIRECTION.

FIREMAN'S STATE TOURNAMENT MARSHALLTOWN, IOWA, JUNE 9-12.
One fare for the round trip from all points in Iowa.

HOMESEEKER'S EXCURSIONS, JUNE, 9 AND 23.
Excursion Tickets at rate of One Fare plus $2 for the round trip, to points in eleven Southern states and territories also to a number of Western and Northern states. Tickets are good to return any Tuesday or Friday within the final limit which is 21 days from date of sale.

ANNUAL CONVENTION IOWA STATE SABBATH SCHOOL ASSOCIATION, DES MOINES, IOWA JUNE 9-11.
Fare and One-Third for the Round Trip from all points in Iowa.

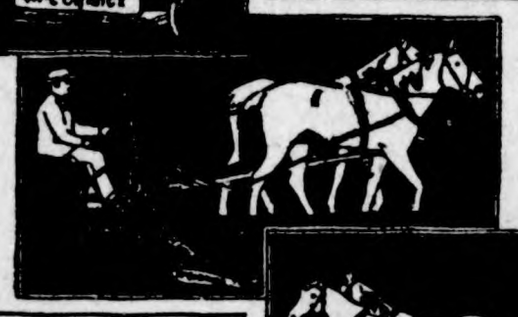
Call on B., C. R. & N. agents for further information, or address

J. MORTOL. G. P. & T. A.,
Cedar Rapids, Ia.

McCormick's Masterpieces

"THE THREE KINGS" OF THE HARVEST FIELD.

THE "OPEN ELEVATOR" King of all Grain Harvesters.
THE No. 4 STEEL MOWER King of all Grass Cutters.
THE '96 CORN BINDER King of all Corn Harvesters.



Come In and See Them! They Are Matchless!

The great Money-Savers of the Farm.

AT THE WORLD'S FAIR
They Won the Only Honors.
IN EVERY TEST they prove their superiority.
IN EVERY LAND they lead the leaders.

WE have satisfied ourselves that McCormick Machines are the lightest draft, most durable and most reliable grain and grass cutters built by any manufacturer. We believe they are the cheapest machines a farmer can own—if experience has proven anything, it has proven this. We believe a careful examination of them will convince any man that they are planned with a mechanical nicety and put together with a degree of care far ahead of that shown in any other make of harvesting machinery. We want all interested parties to come and see them. Guaranteed to work where others fail.

GRUETZMACHER BROS. AGT'S.

We also handle the CELEBRATED

Elwood and Dekalb FIELD FENCING

The best on the market. Also, MITCHELL AND LEWIS WAGONS, RACINE BUGGIES, JOHN DEERE PLOWS, J. I. CASE PLOWS AND DEERF PLANTERS.

Hardware and Groceries.

GRASS AND GARDEN SEEDS.

Northern Lumber Co.,

DEALERS IN

Lumber, Lath, Shingles, Windows and Mouldings.

And everything used to build with.

BEST OAK AND CEDAR POSTS ALWAYS ON HAND.

Square Dealing every day in the week.

M. L. WEICHSELBAUM, M'GR.,
KLEMME, IOWA.

YOU HAVE IT!

Oats and Corn!

We Want It!

and will pay the Highest Market price to get it.

COAL!

We have it, You want it.

Hard, Soft, Illinois, and Smithing.

WALT. BLOOM, Klemme, Ia.

TIMES $1. PER YR. IN ADVANCE.

The Klemme Times.

VOLUME 1. KLEMME, IOWA, JUNE 12, 1896. NUMBER 42

Church Directory.

AMERICAN M. E. CHURCH.
Preaching Service, 10.30, a. m.
Sunday School, 11.30, " "
Epworth League, 7.30, p. m.
Every Sunday.
Prayer meeting, Thursday, 7.30 p.m.
Everyone most cordially invited.
CHARLES E. ANDERSON, Pastor.

GERMAN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School 9.30 a. m.
Preaching Service 10.30 " "
Evening Service—Preaching and Epworth League alternately—8.00 p.m,
Prayer meeting Wednesday 8.00 p.m.
Rev. G. HAEFNER, Pastor.

GERMANTOWN M. E. CHURCH.
Sunday School and Preaching alternately 9.30 and 10.30 a. m. and 2.00 and 3.00 p. m.
Epworth League 8.00 p. m. each Sunday. Rev. G. HAEFNER, Pastor.

REFORMED CHURCH.
Preaching Service
Rev. TREIKE, Pastor.

B. C. R. & N. TIME TABLE.

GOING SOUTH.

No. 82. Pass.	- -	2.20 p. m.
No. 84, Stock	- -	6.45 a. m.
No. 86. Way freight.	-	1.40 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 81. Pass.	- -	5.00 p. m.
No. 83. Way freight	-	11.35 a. m.
No. 85. freight	- -	4.00 p. m.

No. 84. Runs Sunday and not Monday.

H. O. ENGER,
Local Agt.

SEND YOUR ORDERS
FOR ABSTRACTS
of titles to
J. S. Knauss, Abstracter.
Owner of Complete set,
Lands and Town Lots.
Titles Perfected. Promptness and Accuracy
GUARANTEED
GARNER, IOWA.

A. L. SPOONER.
Physician and Surgeon.
Office and residence on Main Street first door west of Bank.
Klemme, Iowa.

H. E. PEITZKE
IS THE BLACKSMITH
THAT
Will do your work well.
He also does wood work.
HIS
Prices are right,
AND
Experience great.
KLEMME, IOWA.

KLEMME - DRAY - LINE.
H. & S. NISSEN,
Proprietors.
Draying and teaming of all kinds done on short notice.
GIVE US A CALL.

Local Mention.

E. P. Dow moved into his new house Thursday.

The R. R. co. are repainting the depot inside.

Heaman Grow of Garner, was in town saturday.

Bicycles repared on short notice at Shafer and Dow's.

Why in the world don't you read W. F. Jurgen's new ad.

Heavy work harness from 24 to $28, all complete at Lau Bros.

A. B. shafer and wife left Tuesday a. m. for the encampment at clear Lake.

Guy Lovell and Ben Schneider drove down Sunday p. m. to see some old friends.

One Little Giant, self-feed, iron drill, second hand, for sale cheap. H. E. Peitzke.

Rev. Kaste and daughter Martha arrived Friday, from Redfield s. D. for a visit with relatives.

Binding Twine, superior sisal, pure manilla and standard, all new, at bottom prices. at Lau Bros.

Remember that E. E. Schefer is agent to the Mason City Laundry the basket leaves every Tuesday evening and returns Friday.

All who subscribed to the Eng. M. E. church at the dedication, please call at Harr's drug store and settle same. By order of committee.

Steve Day, H. N. Church, Mr. Strause, Andrew Anderson and chas. Lewis, went to clear Lake Saturday, for a few days fishing.

Henry Gruetzmacher and wife left Saturday evening, for Charles City, to be present at the commencement exercises of the charles city college, and also visit friends.

Eczema is a frightful affliction, but like all other skin diseases it can be permanently cured by applicationr of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It never fails to cure Piles. Harr.

A new crossing has been laid across first street on main st. and a walk laid in front of the Peitzke lots, which is a great convenience to this office. It is expected the walk will continue to the Lumber office of the N. L. co.

It is reported that a couple of our young men while playing a little joke other night, in making a rapid retreat between the buildings, fell into a tub of rainwater. It is generally understood that a coldwater bath of that kind isn't the most desirable.

At 2.00 p.m. June 23 '96, the trustees of the M. E. Church at Meservey will receive sealed bids for the erection of a church building all complete. Plans and specifications can be seen by calling on D. Leppard, station agent at Meservey after June 15. For further information address Rev. C. E. Anderson Klemme, Iowa.

Mothers will find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy especially valuable for croup and whooping cough. It will give prompt relief and is safe and pleasant. We have sold it for several years and it has never failed to give the most perfect satisfaction. G. W. Richards, Duquesne, Pa. Sold by J. L. HARR.

At the meeting of delegates of the Sunday school in Ell and German Township, last Saturday, it was decided to hold a Township convention in Klemme on Sunday July 12th from 9:30 until 12 m. and from 2 until 4 p. m. All the schools in the two twps. are invited to take part. The program committee consisting of one delegate from each school, will meet in the Eng. M. E. church at 2 p. m. June 16th to arrange the program. This is a step in the right direction, let everybody interest themselves a little in this matter and we will have a pleasant and profitable meeting at the convention.

August Lau has the finest location in town, high, dry and a southeast front. His house is now finished out side and in, barn painted and with the fancy fence around the lots, everything is complete, and a beautiful home.

Additional Locals.

Painting material for sale cheap at Harr's.

If you want a bicycle see E. P. Schaefer.

Genuine Hand Made Harness only $27, at Lau Bros.

A fine assortment of baby carriages at E. P. Schaefers.

Sam Jones will speak at clear Lake Sunday June, 28th.

The finest Single Harness in town for only $4, at Lau Bros.

clare Dow of Garner, will stay with his brother E. P. this summer.

Take yonr children to Phillip Schneider's, Garner, for good pictures.

Remember the races at Garner are the 12th and 13th to-day and Saturday.

Schnautz, Maben, and Steffins of Garner, were here on business saturday.

Geo. Gates. after three weeks courting at Garner, has returned and taken up the trowel again.

Call at Terhufen & Son and see the Johnson self feeder for threshing Machine, best on the market.

Miss Wolter of Belmond, who has been visiting at Hayfield, stopped off on her return to visit her uncle Wm. Gast.

Wanted.

1000 dozen eggs and 500 lbs butter in exchange for Wall Paper and Paints. Shafer & Dow.

A brother of John Zook arrived Monday. He has been attending school at Mt. Morris Ills. He will probably stay all summer.

The photograph building recently sold by Phillip Schneider, is being fitted up for a barber shop, and will be occupied by John Baumgartner when finished.

C. H. Crabtree of Dows, when returning after looking over his farm interests near Crystal Lake, stopped off and made his friends the Wesenberg Bros. a pleasant call one day last week.

Mrs. R. DeYoung, Middleburg, Ia., writes, I have used One Minute Cough Cure for six years, both for myself and children, and I consider it the quickest acting and most satisfactory Cough Cure I ever used. Harr.

A brother-in-law of Chris Hanson, and family are visiting at his place. The brother-in-law, son, and daughter and Chris left Saturday evening for Albert Lea, to attend a religous gathering at that place,

Three seniors of the Nora Springs Seminary, were drowned while swimming in the Shell Rock river Saturday morning. They were to have graduated that evening.

If it required an annual outlay of $100.00 to insure a family against any serious consequences from an attack of bowel complaint during the year there are many who would feel it their duty to pay it: that they could not afford to risk their lives, and those of their family for such an amount. Any one can get this insurauce for 25 cents, that being the price of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. In almost every neighborhood some one has died from an attack of bowel complaint before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. One or two doses of this remedy will cure any ordinary case. It never fails. Can you afford to take the risk for so small an amount? For sale by J. L. HARR.

Hotel Orleans

At Spirit Lake, the great Iowa summer resort, will be opened for the fishing season May 15th, and for the regular summer season June 25th. The hotel and surroundings have been greatly improved and many new attractions have been added to this popular resort. A beautiful half-tone circular descriptive of Spirit Lake and Hotel Orleans will be sent to any address by the undersigned.

C. S. ABELL,
Mgr. Hotel Orleans,
Orleans P. O. Dickenson Co. Ia.
e6 30

GO TO LAU BROS.
for bargains in

SHOES.
We have a new line of shoes and are selling them at bottom prices.

DRY GOODS.
Our line of dry goods is complete.
New spring goods arriving almost daily

SPRING UNDERWEAR.
We have an extra quality of gauze, that we are selling at 60 cents per suit. You cant beat it. Come and see.

MACKINTOSH'S.
We can fit you at from $4.00 up as you want.

PRODUCE,
always taken in exchange at the highest market price,

GO To
E. P. SCHAEFER'S
FOR

The latest things in Dress goods and Trimmings, Laces, Embroideries, Ribbons, Belts, Ties, Ladies' Shirt Waists. Boy's Suits, Blouse Waists, Hosiery.

Underware, Men's and Boy's Hats, Jackets, Pants, Overalls and shirts. Parasols and Fans, Carpets, Lace Curtains, Chenille Curtains Table Covers. Window Shades.

Call and see my stock of Goods.

Organs, Pianos, Sewing Machines and FURNITURE,
GO TO
E. P. SCHAEFER

THE KLEMME TIMES.

KLEMME, - - - IOWA

Cyclones are the rage.

It is easy to see what the nail trust is driving at.

Greater New York will have a debt of $170,000,000.

Mrs. Henry Ingram of Battle Creek, Mich., has fasted 90 days.

A number of theatrical companies are walking because the ghost will not walk.

The telegram reporting the discovery of gold and silver in a Boston suburb is sufficiently bimetallic if true.

The injury of a New York dramatic agent by the explosion of his diamond is a serious matter. Perhaps the paste fermented.

A Chicago ex-alderman claims that twenty-five detectives are on his trail. There is nothing like imagining you are popular even after being ousted from office.

Virginia baseball players have introduced a new regulation for umpires. When a decision does not suit the player he gets a shot gun, kills the umpire, and the game goes on.

John Abnet had more faith in his pockets than he had in the banks when he went to the circus at Decatur, Ind., last week. He had $4,000 stolen, and now he has more confidence in banks.

Col. Joseph Leffel, one of the smallest men in the United States, is grooming himself for mayor at Springfield, Ohio. He is 63 years old, 46 inches high and weighs but sixty pounds. He is a successful raiser of fine chickens. His hankering for the office is not very heavy.

In the year 1754 the quarter loaf was sold for four pence; three years after it was 10 pence, and in March, 1800, the enormous price of 17 pence was asked. Then new bread was forbidden—under the penalty of 5 shillings per loaf—if the baker sold it until it was 24 hours old.

Politics is warming up in Kansas. In Leavenworth Saturday Stone Stewart and John Harbunkle argued a question with knives. Harbunkle made three stabs in the debate to Stewart's one, but the one went to the heart of the subject, and Harbunkle died at once. Stewart was fatally injured.

The black and white stripes for the convicts of the Illinois penitentiary will be discarded about July 1, and new garbs of three ranks furnished. Green is adopted for good behavior, cadet gray for intermediate, and blood red for unruly. All prisoners will be given the second gray at first, which they must wear for six months before they take the first or third grades.

United States Judge Grosscup of Chicago, holds that a man may ask for what is due him without violating the federal statute. The law, he says, is aimed at creditors who make threats and try to humiliate the debtor in trying to collect his dues. About the only persons who appeal to the law he says are debtors who are desirous of swindling or getting revenge upon those they owe, and the chief sufferers are the poor and the ignorant.

The famous suit of armor which Charles VII. presented to Joan of Arc has been found in the galleries of the Chateau of Aisne, where it was placed years ago by a collector, the Marquis de Courval. It exactly fits a girl 5 feet 4 inches in height, and bears the arms which Charles VII. bestowed upon Joan after the seige of Orleans. It is thought this is the suit the Maid of Orleans wore on the occasion of her triumphal entry into Rheims.

An Atchison, Kan., man has two daughters. One rides a bicycle, and the other doesn't. He has found that the rider eats twice as much as the one who doesn't ride, and goes to bed without grumbling at night. His wife is a statistician, and she says that the bicycle girl hasn't wiped a dish since she got her wheel, and that she is too tired at night to turn the sewing machine wheels, and the work falls on the daughter who doesn't ride.

Soon will the last of the heroes of the war "join the innumerable caravan that moves to that mysterious realm where each shall take his chamber in the silent halls of death." In a few years the grave of the last old soldier will be decorated with those who marched at the head of the column. It requires no stretch of the imagination to call up the scene when "taps" shall be sounded for the last time over the new-made grave of the warriors of the rebellion.

THE NEWS IN IOWA

HIT BY A WATER-SPOUT.

Heavy Rain At Atlantic Causes Great Property Loss.

ATLANTIC, June7.—Rain amounting to almost a water-spout struck Atlantic. It was accompanied by hail, many of the stones being ten and twelve inches in circumference. The hail came down almost straight, doing the worst damage to sky-lights. In the Odd Fellows' hall the damage was $200. In Scott's greenhouse not a glass was left whole; damage, $1,800. The plants were almost a total ruin. In Egbert's photograph gallery the damage to the glass and by water amounts to $100. There is hardly a store or residence, except those closely surrounded by trees, but what has window glass broken out. In the country corn is beaten into the ground and garden truck ruined. Strawberries are almost a total loss. Bull Creek, running through the heart of the city, was not able to carry the water from the up country, and was so high as to carry several occupied dwelling houses for blocks down stream until they lodged against obstructions. Many were lifted from their foundations and turned over. The aggregate damage in Atlantic will probably reach $6,000. The Atlantic Canning company was about to start canning peas. They fear their crop is almost all lost by water and hail. Two hundred acres were ready to pick. The loss cannot be estimated.

THREE OF THEM MAY DIE.

Fishing Party at Lost Island Lake Seriously Poisoned.

ROLFE, June 5.—What was expected to be a merry fishing party started from near Pocahontas recently. Their destination was Lost Island Lake, near Ruthven. They started out with a four-horse team. Three of that same party are lying at death's door enduring all the horrors and agonies attended upon the death bed. The names of the fishing party are as follows: Eli and Bob Winegarden, Zach Berry, Sam Williams, Effie Hurley, Nettie McCollough, Nina Hill, Nan Winegarden. Of these Effie Hurley, Nettie McCollough and Zach Berry are now lying at death's door with no hope of their recovery. The exact cause of their illness cannot be determined. The physician, however, says that the symptoms are unmistakably those of strychnine poisoning. The members of the same fishing party report numbers of fish dead on the shores of Lost Island Lake. The idea is prevalent that some person maliciously inclined has poisoned the fish of that resort and the sufferings of the people are the results of their efforts.

DOCTOR W. C. PIPINO KILLED.

Was Thrown From His Riding Horse With Fatal Result.

DES MOINES, June 5.—Dr. W. C. Pipino was fatally injured while horseback riding on West Ninth street. Near Gov. Gue's residence he was thrown from his horse, which kicked him, fracturing the skull in a horrible manner and fatally injuring him. In falling from the animal he appeared to have struck the curbing and to have then been viciously kicked by the horse. The horse was frightened at a large piece of paper which was lying in the road. The doctor's head struck the curb, but he clung to the lines for just an instant and in that time he received the terrible fractures which cost him his life. He lived but a few hours.

STRYCHNINE IN COFFEE.

Enough to Kill Six Set Before an Aged Man.

OSKALOOSA, June 5.—A cup of coffee was sent to the Penn College laboratory for examination. Experts found sufficient strychnine in it to kill at least six people. It is said the coffee had been set before an aged man at dinner with criminal intent. The professors are all bound to secrecy and no names can be learned. The case will be ventilated in court later.

Old Man Killed by a Train.

IOWA CITY, June 7.—Valentine Kondora was instantly killed in Scott township by a B., C. R. & N. train. Kondora's son was driving a team in close proximity to the track, when the old man noticed the approach of the train. He started across the track to assist his son in controlling the horses, when the engine struck him, crushing a hole in his head and hurling him forty feet away. He was 74 years old and was a resident of Johnson county for thirty-five years.

Colonel Clark's Victory.

ALGONA, June 5.—The jury in the Clark-Ellsworth case, after thirty-six hours' deliberation, brought in a verdict for Colonel Clark of $3,800. This is the second trial, the first verdict being $2,500. The suit was for attorneys' fees in setting aside a decree of divorce.

AN EMERGENCY CLUB.

Formed by Prominent Citizens of Des Moines.

DES MOINES, June 6.—At a meeting at the Commercial Exchange rooms, presided over by Mayor MacVicar, an organization of "The Emergency Club of Des Moines" was effected, a constitution formulated and adopted, officers elected and standing committees appointed. The officers chosen were: President, Mayor MacVicar; first vice-president, Hoyt Sherman; second vice-president, Mrs. John Wyman; secretary, O. L. F. Browne; treasurer, Conrad Youngerman. The election of officers was followed by the appointment of an executive committee which will have practical charge and full management of the business and affairs of the organization. The object, as set forth by the constitution of the club, is the establishment of a permanent club to provide immediate relief and to unite in concerted action in the event of tornadoes, cyclones, fire, floods, railroad accidents or other serious emergencies, or when a general destruction of property has taken place.

BURGLARY AT TAMA.

It Is Thought the Guilty Parties Are Under Arrest.

TAMA, June 5.—A daring burglary was committed here late at night. The thieves made a good haul, securing no less than $1,500 worth of goods and the amount may reach $2,000 when a complete invoice is taken. The tool house of the section men on the Northwestern road was broken into and the section men's coats, with some tools, were taken. The thieves then proceeded to the rear entrance of Thomas Brice's general store and with the aid of the tools succeeded in gaining an entrance. They took numerous pieces of costly silk, mostly goods in bolt. It is estimated the thieves got no less than 1,500 yards of fine goods that sell at high prices. Certain parties have been placed under arrest and it is believed they are the guilty parties. The affair has caused considerable excitement in this city

IOWA RIVER VICTIMS.

Three Perish at Nora Springs, Three at Marengo, One at Winterset.

MASON CITY, June 8.—M. J. Atkinson, of Clear Lake, Iowa; Vernon Galt, of Albert Lea, Minn., and Roy C. Slosson, of Northwood, were drowned in the Cedar river at Nora Springs. They were in bathing. They were members of the senior class of the Nora Springs academy and were to graduate in two weeks.

MARENGO, June 8.—Two youngest sons of R. W. Wilson, Robbie and Collie, 14 and 12 years of age, and Carl Fry, 10-year-old son of Wm. Fry, Jr., were drowned in the Iowa river, while in swimming.

WINTERSET, June 8.—Arthur Turner, a young man, was drowned in North Branch. He was trying to get some horses across the river and became entangled in some way.

Woman Fatally Hurt.

CRESTON, June 6.—An accident occurred near Spaulding which may result fatally to Mrs. Swan Danielson. Her son-in-law had conveyed a party to the cemetery and was returning home when the horses ran away, throwing Mrs. Danielson to the ground. She sustained internal injuries which are considered serious. A little child was also badly bruised about the head.

Sent a Bullet Into His Brain.

DES MOINES, June 6.—Lincoln Lageschulte, a young man born and reared in Des Moines, committed suicide by firing a ball from a 32-caliber pistol into his right temple, and eight or ten hours after the commission of the deed of self-destruction, the body, cold and rigid, was found lying on the bed in his apartments, by his little son Harry, aged 10. Lageschulte had been leading a life of dissipation and his wife had left him.

Young Wife Commits Suicide.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, June 7.—Mrs. Chas. Gregory, the young wife of a prominent citizen, died from the effects of poison taken with suicidal intent. She took a teaspoonful of arsenic. She was married last September. Ill health is the cause attributed.

BREVITIES.

A bulletin has recently been issued by the state census bureau showing the amount of manufacturing in Iowa, number of employes, wages paid, value of raw product and finished goods, etc. The recapitulation shows:

Value of establishment	$25,608,793
Amount expended in material in 1894	38,612,355
Value of raw material produced and used	489,577
Value of manufactured product	63,798,025
Average No. of hands employed, 18 years old and over, males	23,208
Females	2,973
Under 18 years of age, males	2,752
Females	669
Amount paid in wages in

ALL OVER THE WORLD

CUBA.

HAVANA, June 4.—It has been decided to send 250,000 men immediately in pursuit of Antonio Maceo and to complete his isolation in the province of Pinar del Rio. The bands of insurgents in Pinar del Rio and Havana province are reported to be very short of resources. It is alleged that Zayas, on account of his last defeat, is completely demoralized. It is also reported that Collazo, with 3,000 men and artillery from Santiago de Cuba, has arrived in the district of Sancti Spiritus to join Gomez, but it is felt that this course will not suffice to break the trocha and to rescue Antonio Maceo. The report that 100,000 reenforcements are to be dispatched here and that a loan of 300,000,000 pesos has been concluded by Spain produces the best impresfion. The people see in the loan a proof of the sympathy of all Europe toward Spain in the Cuba affair. Opinion here approves the course of the government.

HAVANA, June 4.—General Fitzhugh Lee, the United States consul general, has arrived and was cordially received.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The Cuban junta has received official information that the filibustering expedition carried by the steamer Three Friends has been landed successfully. It was composed of sixty-eight men, besides the following large cargo: Eight hundred and seventy-five Remington rifles, 50 Manser rifles, 24 cases of Colt revolvers, seven cases of Smith & Wesson revolvers, two Hotchkiss rapid fire guns, 240 cannon balls, 240 shells, 400,000 cartridges of 43-caliber, 50,000 Manser cartridges, 1,000 machetes, 2,000 pounds of dynamite, 4,000 fuses, 1,000,000 caps for cartridges, 2 electric batteries, 1,000 feet of wire, sets of reloading tools and a telephone Besides this supply of munitions, the expedition carried also large quantities of provisions, medicines and bandages and a wire-tapping apparatus, which will be operated by Narciso Lopez, a telegrapher, who is a member of the expedition.

NEW YORK, June 8.—A special from Havana says: Diarco De Marina publishes what purports to be a statement given to the press of Madrid by the ministry confirming the report that Secretary Olney urged Spain to send reinforcements to Cuba and end the war, with the intimation that if Spain should abandon the island the United States would undertake its pacification so that foreign adventurers might not attempt to establish an independent government.

AUSTIN CORBIN MEETS DEATH.

Former Iowa Millionaire Killed in a Runaway.

NEWPORT, N. H., June 5.—Mr. Austin Corbin, the multi-millionaire o New York, died from injuries received by the running away of the horses attached to his carriage. The accident occurred while Mr. Corbin was driving from his estate and game preserves, two miles from Newport, accompanied by his grandson, Edgell H. Corbin, and the latter's tutor. The driver was John Stokes. When coming out of the entrance gate, the horses shied and in their fright dashed across the road, colliding with a high stone wall. The carriage was overturned sufficiently to eject with great force all its occupants, with the result that one of Mr. Corbin's legs was broken in two places and the other wrenched, while his head was terribly bruised. The driver was injured internally and died later. Edgell Corbin had one leg broken besides other injuries, while the tutor escaped with a severe shaking up. From 1851 to 1865 Mr. Corbin was located at Davenport, where he was engaged in the banking business.

DARING ROBBERS.

Rob a Store While It Is Crowded With Customers.

CHICAGO, June 8.—The gang of desperadoes that has terrorized Chicago for the last two months has committed another daring robbery. About 9 o'clock p. m., while the store was filled with customers, three men, each with two drawn revolvers, entered the general merchandise store of S. Klein, Halstead and Fourteenth streets, and robbed the cashier of $500. One of the robbers stood at the main entrance of the store, and prevented the panic-stricken customers from running out to give an alarm. The other two walked briskly down an aisle to the cashier's desk and leveling their four big revolvers at the woman cashier, compelled her to submit while they shoved the money into a bag. They then disappeared.

Bradley Still in the Race.

FRANKFORT, Ky., June 6.—The story set afloat to the effect that Governor Bradley had withdrawn from the presidential race is pronounced by the governor and his political managers to be wholly unauthorized and unwarranted by the newspaper interview upon which it was pretended to be based.

RUSSIAN OFFICIALS CAUSED IT.

Terrible Moscow Calamity the Work of a Stubborn Official.

Moscow, June 6.—Eye witnesses of the recent terrible and fatal crush on the Khodijnskoje plain, in which over two thousand persons were killed, agree that M. Vlassovsky, prefect of police, is chiefly to blame for the disaster. He huffily refused military offers of troops to control the crowd, declaring that he knew his own business, and that there was no need of any fear of an accident. Popular feeling against Vlassovsky is intense, and his name has become a curse among the populace, who, armed with stones, would have lynched him the same day upon his arriving at the plain if he had not had his route lined with troops and himself strongly escorted. It appears that during the crush a number of Cossacks, finding themselves surrounded, freely used their whips upon the crowd in order to force their way out. Three were torn from their saddles and killed. Two gen d' armes were also killed, and this led to the flight of the others. A number of Moujiks were drowned in the vats of beer provided for the feast, in which they plunged in order to secure the liquor.

Not Yet Released.

PRETORIA, June 6.—The executive council, after a long discussion, has postponed the final decision regarding the release of the four reform leaders, Col. Francis Rhodes, John Hayes Hammond, Lionel Phillips and George Farrar, until June 11.

TERSE NEWS.

The spring races at Omaha commence June 9 and end June 13. Some of the best horses in the country will be there.

In Berlin recently at a sitting of the budget committee of the reichstag, during the debate on the proposition to amend the law regulating the peace effective of the army, the minister of war, General Bronsart Von Schellendorf, declared there was no need for the rattling of sabers for peace appeared to be assured for a long time to come.

Athens dispatch: The Greek nation, the government and the crown prince all favor the annexation of the island of Crete by Greece. Such a favorable chance as the present one is not likely to occur again. The king, however, would do anything rather than to offend Russia, but nevertheless he cannot long resist the will of the nation. His abdication is hinted at. There are indications that the recent inaction of the government will be abandoned.

A Washington dispatch says Secretary Morton, who has just traveled about 10,000 miles through the west, including California, has, like most people, given up all hope of a "sound money" majority in the Chicago convention. He concedes the silver wing of the party a majority of 100 or more, and expects them to nominate a ticket and frame a platform which will be directly contrary to the policy of the present administration. He hopes the republicans at St. Louis will declare for a single gold standard, although he fears that convention will also be more or less influenced by the silver agitation and offer a sop to the opposition.

In New York recently Bernard J Wefers, the wonderful Georgetown collegian, ran 220 yards in 0:21 1-5 on Manhattan field, two-fifths of a second faster than any sprinter ever ran before. The feat was accomplished in the final heat of the furlong race for the championship of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America. The best previous time was 0:21 3-5, held jointly by Wefers and Harry Jewett, of Detroit, Mich. The latter's record was made in Montreal, Canada, September 24, 1892, in a race for the Canadian amateur championship. Wefers' was made in the international games in New York, September 21, 1895. To emphasize the performance, Wefers again ran 100 yards in 0:09 4-5, equaling the world's record.

New York dispatch: The cyclone which struck St. Louis; after ravaging East St. Louis, took a course due east through Illinois and southern Indiana, and spent itself in the Allegheny mountains. The tail end of the storm reached the Atlantic seaboard on Friday night and made itself felt later throughout New York and New Jersey. Evidently the cyclone separated itself in Ohio, for it reached New York in two sections—one by way of West Virginia, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and the others via the great lakes. The damage in the vicinity of New York is scarcely worth mentioning. Reports from Illinois, Indiana and Pennsylvania published in the New York papers place the loss of life east of the Mississippi river above 150. The number of dead in Illinois outside of East St. Louis reaches 141 and the injured 228; the dead in Indiana 2 and the injured 5; and the dead in Pennsylvania 7 and the injured 4.

THE FATAL GLOVE.

BY CLARA AUGUSTA

INTERNATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION.

CHAPTER IV.—(CONTINUED).

He judged her by the majority of women he had met, and finding her indifferent, he sought to arouse her jealousy by flirting with Miss Lee, who was by no means adverse to his attentions. But Margie hailed the transfer with relief which was so evident that Mr. Linmere, piqued and irritated, took up his hat to leave, in the midst of one of Miss Lee's most brilliant descriptions of what she had seen in Italy, from whence she had but just returned. He went over to the sofa where Margie was sitting.

"I hope to please you better next time," he said, lifting her hand. "Good-night, Margie, dear." And before she was aware, he touched his lips to her forehead. She tore the hand away from him, and a flush of anger sprang to her cheek. He surveyed her with admiration. He liked a little spirit in a woman, especially as he intended to be able to subdue it when it pleased him. Her anger made her a thousand times more beautiful. He stood looking at her a moment, then turned and withdrew.

Margie struck her forehead with her hand, as if she would wipe out the touch he had left there.

Alexandrine came and put her arm around Margie's waist.

"I almost envy you, Margie," she said, in that singularly purring voice of hers. "Ah, Linmere is magnificent! Such eyes, and hair, and such a voice! Well, Margie, you are a fortunate girl."

And Miss Lee sighed, and shook out the heavy folds of her violet silk, with the air of one who has been injured, but is determined to show a proper spirit of resignation.

CHAPTER V.

MR. PAUL LINMERE hurried along through an unfrequented street to his suite of rooms at the St. Nicholas. He was very angry with everybody; he felt like an ill-treated individual. (He had expected Margie to fall at once. A man of his attraction to be snubbed as he had been, by a mere chit of a girl, too!

"I will find means to tame her, when once she is mine," he muttered. "By heaven! but it will be rare sport to break that fiery spirit! It will make me young again."

Something white and shadowy bound his path. A spectral hand was laid on his arm, chilling like ice, even through his clothing. The ghastly face of a woman—a face framed in jet black hair and lit up by great black eyes bright as stars, glanced through the mirk of the night.

The man gazed into the weird face, and shook like a leaf in the blast. His arm sank nerveless to his side, palsied by that frozen touch, his voice was so unnatural that he started at the sound.

"My God! Arabel Vere! Do the dead come back?"

The great unnaturally brilliant eyes seemed to burn into his brain. The cold hand tightened on his arm. A breath like wind freighted with snow crossed his face.

"Speak, for heaven's sake," he cried. "Am I dreaming?"

"Remember the banks of the Seine!" said a singularly sweet voice, which sounded to Mr. Paul Linmere as if it came from leagues and leagues away. "When you sit by the side of the living love, remember the dead! Think of the dark rolling river, and of what its waters covered."

He started from the strange presence, and caught at a post for support. His self-possession was gone; he trembled like the most abject coward. Only for a moment—and then, when he looked again, the apparition had vanished.

"Good God!" he cried, putting his hand to his forehead. "Do the dead indeed come back? I saw them take her from the river—Oh, heaven! I saw her when she sank beneath the terrible waters! Is there a hereafter, and does a man sell his soul to damnation who commits what the world calls murder?"

He stopped under a lamp and drew out his pocketbook, taking therefrom a soiled scrap of paper.

"Yes, I have it here. 'Found drowned, the body of a woman. Her linen was marked with the name of Arabel Vere. Another unfortunate—' No, I will not read the rest. I have read it too often, now, for my peace of mind. Yes, she is dead. There is no doubt. I have been dreaming tonight. Old Trevlyn's wine was too strong for me. Arabel Vere, indeed! Pshaw! Paul Linmere, you are an idiot!"

Not daring to cast a look behind him he hurried home, and up to his spacious parlor on the second floor.

Linmere turned up the gas into a flare, and, throwing off his coat, flung himself into an armchair and wiped the perspiration from his forehead. He looked about the room with half frightened, searching eyes. He dreaded solitude, and he feared company, yet felt the necessity of speaking to some one. His eye lighted on the greyhound dozing on the hearth rug.

"Leo, Leo," he called, "come here, sir."

The dog opened his eyes, but gave no responsive wag of the tail. You saw at once that though Leo was Mr. Paul Linmere's property, and lived with him, he did not have any attachment for him.

"Come here, sir!" said Linmere, authoritatively.

Still the animal did not stir. Linmere was nervous enough to be excited to anger by the veriest trifle, and the dog's disobedience aroused his rage.

"Curse the brute!" he cried; and putting his foot against him, he sent him spinning across the room. Leo did not growl, or cry out, but his eyes gleamed like coals, and he showed his white teeth with savage but impotent hatred. It was easy to see that if he had been a bull dog instead of a greyhound he would have torn Mr. Paul Linmere limb from limb.

Linmere went back to his chair, and sat down with a sullen face, but he could not rest there. He rose, and going into an inner room, brought out an ebony box, which he opened, and from which he took a miniature in a golden case. He hesitated a moment before touching the spring, and when he did so the unclosing revealed the face of a young girl—a fair young girl in her early youth—not more than eighteen summers could have scattered their roses over her, when that beautiful impression was taken. A ripe southern face, with masses of jet black hair, and dark brilliant eyes. There was a dewy crimson on her lips, and her cheeks were red as damask roses. A bright, happy face, upon which no blight had fallen.

"She was beautiful—beautiful as an houri!" said Mr. Paul Linmere, speaking slowly, half unconsciously, it seemed, his thoughts aloud. "And when I first knew her she was sweet and innocent."

He sprang up and rang the bell violently. Directly his valet, Pietro, a sleepy looking and swarthy Italian, appeared.

"Bring me a glass of brandy, Pietro; and look you, sir, you may sleep tonight on the lounge in my room. I am not feeling quite well, and may have need of you before morning."

The man looked surprised, but made no comment. He brought the stimulant, his master drank it off, and then threw himself, dressed as he was, on the bed.

CHAPTER VI.

UPPER tendom was ringing with the approaching nuptials of Miss Harrison and Mr. Linmere. The bride was so beautiful and wealthy, and so insensible to her good fortune in securing the most eligible man in her set. Half the ladies in the city were in love with Mr. Linmere. He was so distingue, carried himself so loftily, and yet was so gallantly condescending and so inimitably fascinating. He knew Europe like a book, sang like a professor, and knew just how to hand a lady her fan, adjust her shawl, and take her from her carriage. Accomplishments which make men popular, always.

Early in July Mr. Trevlyn and Margie, accompanied by a gay party, went down to Cape May. Mr. Trevlyn had long ago forsworn everything of the kind; but since Margie Harrison had come to reside with him he had given up his hermit habits, and been quite like other nice gouty old gentlemen.

The party went down on Thursday—Mr. Paul Linmere following on Saturday. Margie had hoped he would not come; in his absence she could have enjoyed the sojourn, but his presence destroyed for her all the charms of sea and sky. She grew frightened, sometimes, when she thought how intensely she hated him. And in October she was to become his wife.

Some way, Margie felt strangely at ease on the subject. She knew that arrangements were all made, that her wedding trousseau was being gotten up by a fashionable modiste, that Delmonico had received orders for the feast, and that the oranges were budded, which, when burst into flowers, were to adorn her forehead on her bridal day. She despised Linmere with her whole soul, she dreaded him inexpressibly, yet she scarcely gave her approaching marriage with him a single thought. She wondered that she did not; when she thought of it at all, she was shocked to find herself so impassive.

Her party had been a week at Cape May, when Archer Trevlyn came down, with the wife of his employer, Mr. Belgrade. The lady was in delicate health and had been advised to try sea air and surf bathing. Mr. Belgrade's business would not allow of his absence at just that time, and he had shown his confidence in his head clerk by selecting him as his wife's escort.

Introduced into society by so well established an aristocrat as Mrs. Belgrade, Arch might at once have taken a prominent place among the fashionables; but his singularly handsome face and high bred manners made him an acquisition to any company. But he never forgot that he had been a street sweeper, and he would not submit to be patronized by the very people who had once, perhaps, grudged him the pennies they had thrown to him as they would have thrown bread to a starving dog. So he avoided society, and attended only on Mrs. Belgrade. But from Alexandrine Lee he could not escape. She fastened upon him at once. She had a habit of singling out gentlemen, and giving them the distinction of her attentions, and no one thought of noticing it now. Arch was ill at ease beneath the infliction, but he was a thorough gentleman and could not repulse her rudely.

A few days after the arrival of Mrs. Belgrade, Arch took her down to the beach to bathe. The beach was alive with the gorgeous grotesque figures of the bathers. The air was bracing, the surf splendid.

Mr. Trevlyn's carriage drove down soon after Mrs. Belgrade had finished her morning's "dip;" and Margie and Mr. Linmere, accompanied by Alexandrine Lee, alighted. They were in bathing costume, and Miss Lee, espying Arch, fastened upon him without ceremony.

"Oh, Mr. Trevlyn," she said animatedly, "I am glad to have come across you. I was just telling Mr. Linmere that two ladies were hardly safe with only one gentleman, in such a surf as there is this morning. I shall have to depend on you to take care of me. Shall I?"

Of course, Arch could not refuse, and apologized to Mrs. Belgrade, who good naturedly urged him forward, he taking charge of Miss Lee.

Linmere offered Margie his hand to lead her in, but she declined. He kept close beside her, and when they stood waist deep in the water, and a huge breaker was approaching, he put his arm around her shoulders. With an impatient gesture she tore herself away. He made an effort to retain her, and in the struggle Margie lost her footing, and the receding wave bore her out to sea.

Linmere grew pale as death. He knew if Margie was drowned, he was a ruined man. His pictures and statuary would have to go under the hammer—his creditors were only kept from striking by his prospect of getting a rich wife to pay his debts. He cast an imploring eye on the swimmers around him, but he was too great a coward to risk his life among the swirling breakers.

Only one man struck bravely out to the rescue. Arch Trevlyn threw off the clinging hand of Miss Lee, and with a strong arm pressed his way through the white-capped billows. He came near to Margie, and saw the chestnut gleam of her hair on the bright treacherous water, and in an instant it was swept under a long line of snowy foam. She rose again at a little distance, and her eyes met his pleadingly. Her lips syllabled the words, "save me!"

He heard them, above all the deafening roar of the waters. They nerved him on to fresh exertions. Another stroke, and he caught her arm, drew her to him, held her closely to his breast, and touched her wet hair with his lips. Then he controlled himself, and spoke coolly:

"Take my hand, Miss Harrison, and I think I can tow you safely to the shore. Do not be afraid."

"I am not afraid," she said, quietly.

How his heart leaped at the sound of her voice! How happy he was that she was not afraid—that she trusted her life to him! Of how little value he would have reckoned his own existence, if he had purchased hers by its loss!

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Whisky for All.

"For the life of me, colonel, I don't see why you persist in maintaining that whisky is of any value in the cure of snake bites. Why, all the modern scientists—"

"Young man," answered Colonel Bluegrass, turning purple, "it stands to reason, sah, that good whisky, being beneficial in every other complaint must be of benefit in snake bites. When there is a universal law in nature, sah, it does not vary for a mere snake, sah."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Nothing grows so fast as trouble that is nursed.

FARM AND GARDEN.

MATTERS OF INTEREST TO AGRICULTURISTS.

Some Up-to-Date Hints About Cultivation of the Soil and Yields Thereof—Horticulture, Viticulture and Floriculture.

G. HARRISON, in Journal of Agriculture, says: The veil that has so long enshrouded in mystery the growing of ginseng by artificial means has at last been torn asunder, and its dazzling possibilities laid bare. Like many other supposed mysteries, when learned and fully understood it is not at all difficult. In this connection I wish to quote the botanist in his letter of transmittal of report to the United States Department of Agriculture. He says: "The report brings out the facts that the wholesale price of American ginseng has steadily increased from 52 cents per pound in 1858 to somewhat more than $3 per pound in 1893, and that the value of the export for the past decade has amounted to between $600,000 and $1,000,000 per year. The report also points out the fact that the natural supply is now rapidly decreasing and that its extermination, if present conditions continue, is inevitable. At the same time, there can be no question but that the cultivation of ginseng is entirely practicable. Enough has been achieved in various parts of America to fully demonstrate the truth of the botanist's statement in regard to the practicability of its culture. The following statement is from a Chicago farm paper: Ginseng is scarce this year in the Big Sandy Valley, Ky., from where much of the ginseng produced in this country comes. For some reason the mountaineers have neglected the industry during the last year or so. Ginseng is now worth $3.50 per pound, but the price is likely to increase considerably very soon." I have studied the habits and growth of this plant from boyhood, and am now growing it successfully in the garden. It can be grown in the garden, orchard or forest. It can be grown in the garden with very little attention and no expense after plantation is started, and where the plant grows wild, this expense can be saved. Every person owning a few rods of land should engage in this pleasant and highly lucrative industry. A few beds in a farmer's garden will more than pay the farm expenses each year.

Gypsum for Alkali Soils.

Robert H. Forbes, chemist of the Arizona experiment station makes the following statement in bulletin 18 of that station respecting the use of gypsum on alkali land:

1.—The cost of gypsum depends largely upon freight rates. It may be gotten as low as two cents a pound. Arizona contains undeveloped supplies of gypsum.

2.—It is said that a surface dressing of gypsum will enable tender plants to make a start in alkaline soils. When the crop is large enough to shade the ground, evaporation and rise of alkali is retarded and the crop may be safely matured.

3.—In the case of fruit trees as with annual plants injury most usually results from the corrosive action of the alkali just at the surface of the ground. The soil, however, and its bottom waters, may be so salty as to injure the trees through its roots.

4.—Gypsum improves the tilth of alkaline soils by acting upon and changing the sodium carbonate to which the lumpy character of these soils is largely due.

5.—The water of Salt river contains small amounts of gypsum in solution. The use of this water for irrigation ought therefore to result in a gradual disappearance of black alkali wherever it is applied.

6.—Wood ashes contain considerable amount of potassium carbonate, a substance having properties similar to those of sodium carbonate. The use of ashes on land already afflicted with alkali is therefore not advisable.

Prune Growing in Oregon.

The prune industry has grown to be one of the most important interests in the state. Already it has assumed greater proportions than all other orchard industries. As the favorite fruit crop of Oregon, it has much in its favor; the trees are sure to bear, there are no climatic conditions to overcome, the finished product is not perishable, and its insect pests and fungous diseases are less numerous than other fruits. The trees suffer, it is true, from several pests, but they are slight afflictions in comparison to the codlin moth and apple scab of the apple and pear, and, until we have curculio and black knot, which render plum growing in the east almost impossible, we can say that prunes are free from diseases. Moreover, there is a growing demand for the product, dried and green, which promises well for the industry. There are about 26,000 acres devoted to prune growing in Oregon. Prunes are grown throughout the western part of the state and along the Columbia and its tributaries in northern and eastern Oregon, but the major part of the industry is comprised in the Willamette and Umpqua river valleys. In the Willamette Valley, there are about 15,000 acres of prune orchards. As yet most of these orchards are on the black alluvial soil near the river, and have not to any appreciable extent encroached upon the red hill soil farther away, though that this soil will produce prunes is certain. The second largest prune district is the Umpqua River Valley. Here there are about 6,500 acres of prune orchards. The valley of the Umpqua seems to be the most favored region for prunes, trees and fruit reaching their highest perfection there. The Petite or French prune especially seems to thrive; the Italian can be as well, and perhaps better, grown in the Willamette Valley. The Petite prune, and the Italian more or less, are grown very successfully in the Rogue River Valley also, where there are approximately 1,500 acres. Attempts are being made to grow prunes in Hood River Valley and along the Columbia in eastern Oregon, but experienced orchardists say that these sections cannot well compete with the more favored prune localities, and that their splendid fruit resources can be used to better advantage in growing other fruits. In these districts there are about 2,500 acres.—U. P. Hedrick.

Profit in Tree Planting.

In an address upon "Farming," published in bulletin 17 of the Arizona experiment station, Tucson, Ariz., Governor Hughes is reported as having said, most pertinently for Arizona: "There is profit in tree-planting. Nearly every farm has little nooks which cannot be utilized for farming. The ash, cottonwood, perhaps the eucalyptus, and other fuel-growing trees ought to be cultivated on the borders of canals, and the main laterals might be planted with one or more rows of trees; they would grow here without irrigation, and would serve as a windbreak, and thus aid in preventing the moisture of the field from being absorbed by hot winds sweeping over them. They would have a tendency to check evaporation from canals and laterals by shutting out the rays of the sun, and at the same time it would provide homes for thousands of the feathered tribe who would pay for their lodging many times in the destruction of insects, as well as by providing free concerts for the farmer's family."

Reseeding Clover Meadows.

The Ohio Experiment Station is now planning some experiments in attempting to get a stand of clover on fields sown last spring, but which failed to make a perfect stand, owing to the drouth. The bare spots in these fields will first be gone over with a sharp spike harrow, or with a disk harrow; crimson clover and common clover will then be sown side by side, and lightly covered in with smoothing harrow. A light seeding of oats as a nurse crop may be added on part of the land, for comparison, but we expect the best results from seeding the clover alone. Last season's experience demonstrated that the nurse crop may prove a robber instead of a nurse, by taking all the water from the soil and leaving none for the clover.

Botany at Champaign.

The University of Illinois has recently been making extended improvements in its botanical department. Among these are substantial additions to the herbarium, which has, for the first time, been placed in a room by itself, and the erection of a building for the cultivation of plants needed in the laboratory. Arrangements have been made for the cultivation of aquatic plants, and for carrying on various kinds of experiments, both by students in their regular practice, and by investigators endeavoring to make contributions to knowledge in a most interesting but not sufficiently explored field of science.

Preparation of Spraying Mixtures.

Too much care cannot be taken in preparing any mixture to be used on trees and fruits. If not properly prepared, injury may follow. Bordeaux mixture, if properly prepared, will not injure the apple; but if there is not a sufficient amount of lime, injury may follow, causing the surface of the apple to be russeted and rough. Also damage to foliage may result. Other fruits are susceptible to injury from the mixture, if carelessly prepared. This mixture is one of the most effective fungicides in use.

Soil for Strawberries.—The ideal soil is where a clover sod has been manured and a crop of potatoes raised the previous year. Corn stubble under same conditions is good if the strawberry rows are run between the old corn rows. If they are run on the top, the old corn hills are apt to be caught by the cultivator and the plats loosened. Clover sod is very good, but liable to be infested with grub worms; besides, if there are any clover seeds left in the ground they are likely to grow and prove troublesome. Whatever ground is used, it must be well manured and made ready to set in good mechanical condition. If manure is used, it should be well rotted and cultivated in the ground after plowing.—Ex.

H. W. Schoper.

THE

LEADING - IMPLEMENT - DEALER.

Has on hand a complete stock of FARM

IMPLEMENTS.

Fisher Wagons, Staver Abbot, and Parry Buggies,

Rock Island and U. S. Planters,

Conklin Cultivators,

Morrison and R. I. Sulky Plows,

Pumps Fanning Mills etc.

A fine road wagon

Only $30.

DAVIS SEWING MACHINE, THE BEST ON THE MARKET.

COME and see for yourself.

NOW!

IS YOUR

CHANCE

To Secure CHEAP LOTS in One

Of the Best Towns in

NORTHERN IOWA.

Correspondence Solicited.

ADDRESS,

H. J. KLEMME, Belmond, Iowa.

WE WILL SELL

AT PRIVATE SALE,

Our Large Stock Of

FARM IMPLEMENTS.

Plows, Cultivators, Hay Rakes and Loaders, Seeders, Disc Harrows, Planters, Wind Mills and Pumps, Water Tanks, Buggies and Waggons. We handle the KEYSTONE FENCE, the best fence on earth. Also the

Milwaukee Binders and Mowers

A prices that defy competition.

LAU BROTHERS.

Locals.

Gold and Silver Belts 45c. Harr's.

Born: To MR. and MRS. Herman Benken, Monday a girl.

Mr. Kyle left on the evening train last Friday, for Minneapolis.

Mrs. Kelly's house has been repainted; the Suckow Bros. did the work and it looks fine.

A. B. shafer has built a cyclone cellar at the north end of the store size 10 by 12. 25c general admittance, cash strictly in advance.

HENRY WILLEY lost his child Monday morning. It was burried in the German Reform cemetery, Wednesday, Rev HAEFNER officiating.

H. E. Peitzke and family started Wednesday to drive through to Riceville Mitchell co. for a few days visit with friends and reletives.

Programme.

The Third Annual Sunday School Convention of Hancock County, will be held at Ellington Center School House, Ellington Township, June 18th and 9th, 1896.

MR. J. N. SPROLE, County Pres.
MRS. IDA I. DUFF County Sec.

THURSDAY, JUNE 18.

2:30 P. M. Devotional Exercises by County Officers.
3:00 " Address of Welcome by Ellington Schools,
3:15 " Response by Garner Schools.
3:30 " Appointing of Committees.
3:45 " Report of Co. Sec'y and Treas.
8:00 " Devotional Exercises led by Britt Schools.
8:15 " Report of committees and Election of Officers.
8:36 " Report of Co. Sec'y on "House to House Visitation," followed by Discussion on Same, led by Corwith Delegation.

FRIDAY, JUNE 19.

9:30 A. M. Devotional Exercises, led by Bingham and Orthel Schools.
9:45 " Report of Schools by Delegates.
10:30 " Question Box; and Discussion led by State Officer, 11:30 " Close.

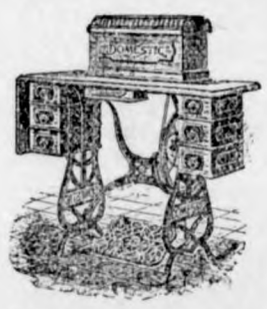
AFTERNOON.

2:00 P. M. Song Service conducted by Ellington center School.
2:15 " Address by Rev. Whitfield, Topic. "How to Reach Those Who are not in Attendance Upon the Sunday School."
Song by Ellington School.
2:40 " Address by Rev W. R. Stewart. Topic, "Duty of Professing christians to the Sunday Schools."
Song.
3:05 " Address, State Officer. Topic, " Relation of county Work to State Work."
Adjournment.
Everybody Shake Hands.

In the Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of—DeWitt's Little Early Risers, for they always cleanse the liver, purify the blood, and invigorate the system. Harr.

BUY THE BEST



The "DOMESTIC"

Is absolutely the best Sewing Machine made. Leads in latest and best improvements.

SIMPLE
PRACTICAL
DURABLE

For over 30 years has been endorsed by the public as the most satisfactory of all sewing machines. We want your trade and can save you money. Write for free catalogue and prices.

THE DOMESTIC S. M. CO.

298 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Did you think how readily the blood is poisoned by constipation? Bad blood means bad health and premature old age. DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills, overcome obstinate constipation. Harr.

SPRING

Style

MY Millinery Store is now ready for spring BUSINESS.

Hats!

I have just received a new and complete line of

Flowers, Tips, Ribbons, Laces, Fancy Braids, Persian Silks etc.

And everything you could expect to find in a first class store.

MISS ADNA BARTA of St. Paul, a first class trimmer will be with me the entire season.

YOU are invited to come in. No trouble to Show Goods.

Dressmaking in connection.

Miss E. Renziehausen,

COME STRAIGHT

To Our Store

If you want to save money in what you must purchase along the line of

GENERAL Merchandise.

Our stock is complete in department; is fresh and new, and we are selling the goods with special regard to the Hard Times.

WESENBERG BROS.

H. SCHROEDER,

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY - MEAT - MARKET.

Carry a Complete line of Fresh, Salt and Smoked Meats.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE PAID FOR

HIDES.

PICKLES, etc. Always on hand.

Klemme, Ia.

MARION A. FELL, NOTARY PUBLIC. M. R. CHAMBERS, ATTORNEY.

Marion A. Fell & Co.

Sell Wild Land and Improved Farms and make Farm Loans at 6 per cent interest. We are agents for the old reliable Farmers' Insurance Co., of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Do not fail to call on us, we will save you money.

Marion A. Fell & Co,

Garner, Iowa.

25 YEARS EXPERIENCE IN

BLACKSMITHING

Enables me to do your work in a workmanlike manner.

Plow Work a Specialty.

Also do wood repairing on Wagons and Buggies.

Satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. KROUSE, KLEMME, IA.

STATE - SAVINGS - BANK

—OF—

KLFMME, IOWA

Does a regular Banking Business. Deals in Domestic and Foreign

EXCHANGE

Loans money on long or short time. Attends to collections and pay interest on time deposits

C. W. KNAPP, Cashier.

Bettin and Remer.

Contractors and Builders.

Plans and specifications furnished on application.

—All work guaranteed.

KLEMME, IOWA

GEO. S. GATES,

STONE AND BRICK MASON

Plastering a Specialty. Do all kinds of work in my line. I also make a Specialty of bricking up Cisterns and boilers. All work guaranteed and Prices accordingly.

Give me a trial,

GEO. S. GATES,

Klemme, Iowa.

Wanted—An Idea Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer and list of two hundred inventions wanted.

JOHN BAUMGARTNER.

PROPRIETOR OF

CITY BARBER SHOP.

AN EASY SHAVE. - -

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

SHOP IN KIRKWOOD HOUSE, KLEMME, IOWA.

STOP!

If you want any Painting done and see

JOE MILLER,

a painter of 15 years experience.

All work guaranteed.

Leave orders at Shafer & Dows.

KLEMME IA.

W. F. JURGENS & CO.

Plain and Fancy painters.

SIGN writing a specialty.

Call on or write us at

KLEMME, IOWA.

Honest Prices,
Reliable Goods,
Courteous Treatment,

Is our motto.

We handle Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Hats, Caps, Crockery, Hardware, Ammunition.

Buck's Celebrated Stoves.

TIN SHOP UP STAIRS.

5 pr. ct. off for cash.

SCHNEIDER CO. GARNER, IA.

THE KLEMME TIMES.

FRIDAY, June 12, 1896.

$1.00 Per Annum in Advance.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

Entered at the Post Office at Klemme, Iowa, as second class matter Oct. 31, 1893.

GRISWOLD & CLINE, PUBLISHERS.

Garner.

John Higginbotham of Thompson was on over Sunday visitor here.

The first and second nines played a game of ball Tuesday. 15 to 12 in favor of first nine.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schneider and J. W. Ramsey are attending the State S. S. Convention at DesMoines this week.

Miss Helen Babcock went to Lake Mills Thursday to attend the graduating exercises and visit Miss Mabel Johnson who is one of the graduates.

Two marriages this week H. E. Baumgartner and Miss Ella Wicham of Clermont Iowa; H. E. Watts and Carrie Emma Meyers of Mason City.

Goodell Items.

Jim Elder Sundayed at home.

The Goodell band will play the 4th.

Jno. Mulkins went to Wesley, Monday.

Tom Cashman has built a buggy shed.

Dr. Goodenow returned from his fishing excursion Monday.

The telephone from Garner to Goodell is nearly completed.

The R. R. Co. have put in a 1500 ft. passing track at this station.

Miss Nettie Lamson of Belmond was here visiting friends on Saturday.

A new lamp in the drug store of their own Manufacture is quite a novelty.

Dr. Goodenow is now a pharmacist having recently passed the required eximination.

The Children's Day exercises in the U. B. church Sunday night were very well attended.

Orders have been taken for 36 electric lights here. Guy Fuller's engine will run the dynamo.

Mrs. Mendell of Dows, and Mrs. E. M. Sheffield of Belmond were visiting Mrs. Sheffield's brother, Geo. Butts of this place Friday.

One Minute is the standard time, and One Minute Cough Cure is the standard preparation for every form of cough or cold It is the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results. Harr.

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR CHOLERA CURE

is saving thousands of dollars for Iowa farmers. Thoroughly tested in the worst cholera infected districts of eleven states and proven beyond doubt to be the greatest discovery of the age, and is the only guaranteed remedy ever placed on the market for prevention and cure of hog cholera. With the enormous corn crop and present prices, no farmer can afford to be without Compound Liquid Sulphur Cure. Not only the best but cheapest remedy on the market; costing less than one-quarter of a cent per day for each hog. For sale by J. L. HARR Read our free booklet on Microbic Diseases.

Davenport will send a chorus of fifty singers to the saengerfest at Dubuque next month. That city is also after the next gathering of German songsters and athletes.

Mr. James Perdue, an old soldier residing at Monroe, Mich., was very severely afflicted with rheumatism but received prompt relief from pain by using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. He says: "At times my back would ache so badly that I could hardly raise up. If I had not gotten relief I would not be here to write these few lines. Chamberlain's Pain Balm has done me a great deal of good and I feel very thankful for it." For sale by J. L. HARR.

RePublican National Convention At St. Louis, June 16th.

ONE FARE FOR THE ROUND TRIP from all stations on the B., C. R. & N. Ry. Tickets on sale June 13, 14 and 15, good to return until and including June 21st. Call on B., C. R. & N. agents for further information. 6 16

COMPOUND LIQUID SULPHUR BATH.

A perfect Sulphur Spring in the retirement of your own home. A toilet article cherished by the ladies. Renders the skin White and Soft. An absolute disinfectant. Purifies the blood by absorbtion and removes all unhealthy secretions and odors from the body. Invaluable in Rheumatism Gout and all blood and skin disorders. Each bottle contains 16 sulphur baths

S. C. Cook, Jacksonville, Ill., says: "In our little family circle Compound Liquid Sulphur—Bath is considered a panacea for all ills and one of the greatest luxuries. For sale by J. L. HARR.

Within the past ten days the number of locusts has increased rapidly in the southwestern part of the state. Many people are of the opinion they will destroy the crops and especially the fruit. —Ex.

Young mothers dread the Summer months on account of the great mortality among children caused by bowels troubles. Perfect safety may be assured those who keep on hand DeWitt's Colic & Cholera cure, and administer it promptly. For cramps, bilious colic, dysentery and diarrhœa, it affords instant relief. Harr.

L. A. Anderson had new potatoes large enough for table use the 29th of May, from seed planted about the middle of March. —Armstrong Journal.

Bring in your job work, we guarantee satisfaction.

When in Goodell call on Wm Cashman as he pays the highest price for all kinds of live stock.

Clothing at prices lower than ever. Clothing that is new, stylish and Clothing that is good fitting. That is what makes clothing sell.

The Hot Weather coats and vests are in, and are the correct thing. We show you a line of

NEW HATS.

—Straw Hats in endless variety.—

We are exclusive agents for the GORDON HAT just as good as a Stetson hat and costs one half the money.

5 per. ct. off for cash

W. C. SCHULER,

GARNER IA,

THE QUESTION is often asked, What Paint shall we use?

THE ANSWER: If you are looking for covering capacity, wearing qualities, general appearance, and your money's worth, you must buy

THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINT.

Covers Most, Looks Best, Wears Longest, Most Economical, Full Measure.

Our prices are for "best goods" first, last and all the time. We are in the business to stay and S. W. P. stays with us.

BRUSHES,
COLORS IN OIL,
HOUSE & COACH
VARNISHES,
WALL PAPER.

C. S. COLLINS, GARNER, IOWA.

Spring Goods are all in

The Bell Clothing STORE, at

GARNER, IOWA.

When in town call and see us, we can save you money.

For GOOD DEALS IN

HARNESS,

Call on

F. GRUETZMACHER.

You will find a Number One Hand Made Harness Warranted.
Single harness from	5 to	$20.
Collars from	-	75c to $3.50
Sweat Pads	-	25c to 75c
Lap Dusters	-	35c to $2.50.

I carry a complete line in Saddlery and Sandlery Hardware.

Shoes.

My stock of shoes is such that I can fit any one small or large in style, comfort and prices.

Now Is Your Chance.

A firm that has had experience in handling farm machinery knows which kinds give the best satisfaction.

Terhufen & Son

on second street, handle Deering Binders, Dubuque Norweigen Plows, Pekin Riding Plows, Moscot Corn Cultivators, Evans Planters, Moline wagons and

FANCY BUGGIES.

We meet any competition on the same class of goods.

Call on us and get OUR PRICES.

Terhufen & Son.

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

"CONSOLATION IN TROUBLE" LAST SUNDAY'S SUBJECT.

From the Subjoined Text: "And the Lord Brought an East Wind Upon the Land all That Day and all That Night"—Ex 10:30.

THE reference here is not to a cyclone but to the long-continued blowing of the wind from an unhealthful quarter. The north wind is bracing, the south wind is relaxing, but the east wind is irritating and full of threat. Eighteen times does the Bible speak against the East wind. Moses describes the thin ears blasted by the east wind. The Psalmist describes the breaking of the ships of Tarshish by the east wind. The locusts that plagued Egypt were borne in on the east wind. The gourd that sheltered Jonah was shattered by the east wind; and in all the six thousand summers, autumns, winters, springs, of the world's existence, the worst wind that ever blew is the east wind. Now, if God would only give us a climate of perpetual nor'-wester, how genial and kind and placid and industrious Christians we would all be! But it takes almighty grace to be what we ought to be under the east wind. Under the chilling and wet wing of the east wind the most of the earth's villainies, frauds, outrages, suicides, and murders have been hatched out. I think if you should keep a meteorological history of the days of the year, and put right beside it the criminal record of the country, you would find that those were the best days for public morals which were under the north or west wind, and that those were the worst days for public morals which were under the east wind. The points of the compass have more to do with the world's morals and the church's piety than you have yet suspected. Rev. Dr. Archibald Alexander, eminent for learning and for consecration, when asked by one of his students at Princeton whether he always had full assurance of faith, replied, "Yes, except when the wind blows from the east." Dr. Francia, Dictator of Paraguay, when the wind was from the east, made oppressive enactments for the people; but when the weather changed, repented him of the cruelties, repealed the enactments, and was in good humor with all the world.

Before I overtake the main thought of my subject, I want to tell Christian people they ought to be observant of climatical changes. Be on your guard when the wind blows from the east. There are certain styles of temptations that you cannot endure under certain styles of weather. When the wind blows from the east, if you are of a nervous temperament, go not among exasperating people, try not to settle bad debts, do not try to settle old disputes, do not talk with a bigot on religion, do not go among those people who delight in saying irritating things, do not try to collect funds for a charitable institution, do not try to answer an insulting letter. If these things must be done, do them when the wind is from the north, or the south, or the west, but not when the wind is from the east.

You say that men and women ought not to be so sensitive and nervous. I admit it, but I am not talking about what the world ought to be; I am talking about what the world is. While there are persons whose disposition does not seem to be affected by changes in the atmosphere, nine out of every ten are mightily played upon by such influences. O Christian man! under such circumstances do not write hard things against yourself, do not get worried about your fluctuating experience. You are to remember that the barometer in your soul is only answering the barometer of the weather. Instead of sitting down and being discouraged and saying: "I am not a Christian because I don't feel exhilarant," get up and look out of the window and see the weather vane pointing in the wrong quarter, and then say, "Get thee behind me, Satan, thou prince of the power of the air; get out of my house! get out of my heart, thou demon of darkness horsed on the east wind. Away!" However good and great you may be in the Christian life, your soul will never be independent of physical condition. I feel I am uttering a most practical, useful truth here, one that may give relief to a great many Christians who are worried and despondent at times.

Dr. Rush, a monarch in medicine, after curing hundreds of cases of mental depression, himself fell sick and lost his religious hope, and he would not believe his pastor when the pastor told him that his spiritual depression was only a consequence of physical depression. Andrew Fuller, Thomas Scott, William Cowper, Thomas Boston, David Brainerd, Philip Melancthon were mighty men of God, but all of them illustrations of the fact that a man's soul is not independent of his physical health. An eminent physician gave as his opinion that no man ever died a greatly triumphant death whose disease was below the diaphragm. Stackhouse, the learned Christian commentator, says he does not think Saul was insane when David played the harp before him, but it was a hypochondria coming from inflammation of the liver. Oh, how many good people have been mistaken in regard to their religious hope, not taking these things into consideration! The Dean of Carlisle, one of the best men that ever lived, and one of the most useful, sat down and wrote: "Though I have endeavored to discharge my duty as well as I could, yet sadness and melancholy of heart stick close by and increase upon me. I tell nobody, but I am very much sunk indeed, and I wish I could have the relief of weeping as I used to. My days are exceedingly dark and distressing. In a word, Almighty God seems to hide his face, and I intrust the secret hardly to any earthly being. I know not what will become of me. There is doubtless a good deal of bodily affliction mingled with this, but it is not all so. I bless God, however, that I never lose sight of the cross, and though I should die without seeing any personal interest in the Redeemer's merits, I hope that I shall be found at his feet. I will thank you for a word at your leisure. My door is bolted at the time I am writing this, for I am full of tears."

What was the matter with the Dean of Carlisle? Had he got to be a worse man? No. The physician said that the state of his pulse would not warrant his living a minute. Oh, if the east wind affects the spleen, and affects the lungs, and affects the liver, it will affect your immortal soul. Appealing to God for help, brace yourself against these withering blasts and destroying influences, lest that which the Psalmist said broke the ships of Tarshish, shipwreck you.

But notice in my text that the Lord controls the east wind: "The Lord brought the east wind." He brings it for especial purpose; it must sometimes blow from that quarter; the east wind is just as important as the north wind, or the south wind, or the west wind, but not so pleasant. Trial must come. The text does not say you will escape the cutting blast. Whoever did escape it? I was in the pulpit of John Wesley, in London, a pulpit where he stood one day and said: "I have been charged with all the crimes in the catalogue except one—that of drunkenness," and a woman arose in the audience and said: "John, you were drunk last night." So John Wesley passed under the flail. I saw in a foreign journal a report of one of George Whitefield's sermons—a sermon preached a hundred and twenty or thirty years ago. It seemed that the reporter stood to take the sermon, and his chief idea was to caricature it; and these are some of the reportorial interlinings of the sermon of George Whitefield. After calling him by a nickname indicative of a physical defect in the eye, it goes on to say: "Here the preacher clasps his chin on the pulpit cushion. Here he elevates his voice. Here he lowers his voice. Holds his arms extended. Bawls aloud. Stands trembling. Makes a frightful face. Turns up the whites of his eyes. Clasps his hands behind him. Clasps his arms around him, and hugs himself. Roars aloud. Hollas. Jumps. Cries. Changes from crying. Hollas and jumps again." Well, my brother, if that good man went through all that process, in your occupation, in your profession, in your store, in your shop, at the bar, in the sick room, in the editorial chair, somewhere, you will have to go through a similar process; you cannot escape it.

* * *

When the French army went down into Egypt under Napoleon, an engineer, in digging for a fortress, came across a tablet which has been called the Rosetta stone. There were inscriptions in three or four languages on that Rosetta stone. Scholars studying out the alphabet of hieroglyphics from that stone were enabled to read ancient inscriptions on monuments and on tombstones. Well, many of the handwritings of God in our life are indecipherable hieroglyphics; we cannot understand them until we take up the Rosetta stone of divine inspiration, and the explanation all comes out, and the mysteries all vanish, and what was before beyond our understanding now is plain in its meaning, as we read, "All things work together for good to those who love God." So we decipher the hieroglyphics. Oh, my friends! have you ever calculated what trouble did for David? It made him the sacred minstrel for all ages. What did trouble do for Joseph? Made him the keeper of the corncribs of Egypt. What did it do for Paul? Made him the great apostle to the Gentiles. What did it do for Samuel Rutherford? Made his invalidism more illustrious than robust health. What did it do for Richard Baxter? Gave him capacity to write of "Saint's Everlasting Rest." What did it do for John Bunyan? Showed him the shining gates of the city. What has it done for you? Since the loss of that child your spirit has been purer. Since the loss of that property, you have found out that earthly investments are insecure. Since you lost your health, you feel as never before a rapt anticipation of eternal release. Trouble has humbled you, has enlarged you, has multiplied your resources, has equipped you, has loosened your grasp from this world and tightened your grip on the next. Oh! bless God for the east wind. It has driven you into the harbor of God's sympathy.

Nothing like trouble to show us that this world is an insufficient portion. Hogarth was about done with life, and he wanted to paint the end of all things. He put on canvas a shattered bottle; a cracked bell; an unstrung harp; a sign-board of a tavern called "The World's End" falling down; a shipwreck; the horses of Phoebus lying dead in the clouds; the moon in her last quarter, the world on fire. "One thing more," said Hogarth, "and my picture is done." Then he added the broken palette of a painter. Then he died. But trouble, with hand mightier and more skilful than Hogarth's, pictures the falling, failing, mouldering, dying world. And we want something permanent to lay hold of, and we grasp with both hands after God, and say, "The Lord is my light, the Lord is my love, the Lord is my fortress, the Lord is my sacrifice, the Lord, the Lord is my God."

Bless God for your trials. Oh, my Christian friend! keep your spirits up by the power of Christ's Gospel. Do not surrender. Do you not know that when you give up, others will give up? You have courage, and others will have courage. The Romans went into the battle, and by some accident there was an inclination of the standard. The standard upright meant forward march; the inclination of the standard meant surrender. Through the negligence of the man who carried the standard, and the inclination of it, the army surrendered. Oh! let us keep the standard up, whether it be blown down by the east wind, or the north wind, or the south wind. No inclination to surrender. Forward into the conflict.

There is near Bombay a tree that they call the "sorrowing tree," the peculiarity of which is it never puts forth any bloom in the daytime, but in the night puts out all its bloom and all its redolence. And I have to tell you that though Christian character puts forth its sweetest blossoms in the darkness of sickness, the darkness of financial distress, the darkness of bereavement, the darkness of death, "weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." Across the harsh discords of this world rolls the music of the skies—music that breaks from the lips, music that breaks from the harp and rustles from the palms, music like falling water over rocks, music like wandering winds among leaves, music like carrolling birds among forests, music like ocean billows storming the Atlantic beach: "They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more, neither shall the sun light on them nor any heat; for the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall lead them to living fountains of water, and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes." I see a great Christian fleet approaching that harbor. Some of the ships come in with sails rent and bulwarks knocked away, but still afloat. Nearer and nearer eternal anchorage. Haul away, my lads! haul away! Some of the ships had mighty tonnage, and others were shallops easily lifted of the wind and wave. Some were men-of-war and armed of the thunders of Christian battle, and others were unpretending tugs taking others through the "Narrows," and some were coasters that never ventured out into the deep seas of Christian experience; but they are all coming nearer the wharf—brigantine, galleon, line-of-battle ship, long-boat, pinnace, war-frigate—and as they come into the harbor I find that they are driven by the long, loud, terrific blast of the east wind. It is through much tribulation that you are to enter into the kingdom of God.

You have blessed God for the north wind, and blessed him for the south wind, and blessed him for the west wind; can you not in the light of this subject bless him for the east wind?

Nearer, my God, to thee,
Nearer to thee.
E'en though it be a cross
That raiseth me;
Still all my song shall be,
Nearer, my God, to thee,
Nearer to thee.

A Good Bargain.

At a temperance meeting, where several related their experiences, a humorous Irishman who spoke, was acknowledged to be the chief speaker. He had on a pair of fine new boots. Said he:

"A week after I signed the pledge I met an old friend, and he says: 'Them's a fine pair of boots you have on.' 'They are,' says I, and by the same token 'twas the saloon keeper who gave them to me.'

"'That was generous of him,' says he.

"'It was,' says I, 'but I made a bargain with him. He was to keep his drink and I was to keep my money. My money bought me those fine boots. I got the best of the bargain, and I'm going to stick to it.'"

Knee protectors for the small boy may be made from an old pair of rubbers and serviceable sponge holders for the bath room are also made from these discarded articles.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Cullom spoke at length in opposition to the bond prohibition resolution. Brown, of Utah, spoke in favor of it, and offered a resolution that any bonds issued by the secretary of the treasury hereafter will be without authority of law.

HOUSE.

Mr. Phillips, chairman of the committee on labor, called up his bill to create an industrial commission of twelve members, three representative each of labor, agriculture, manufacture and business, salaries at $5,000 each, each group to have a legal adviser at $5.000, the duties of the commission to be to investigate questions pertaining to immigration, and the other subjects mentioned and to recommend legislation to congress. The bill passed.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—At 7 o'clock tonight the long struggle in the senate to prohibit the issue of bonds came to an end, and the bill was passed by a vote of 32 to 25. The bill as passed covers only three lines, as follows: "Be it enacted that the issuance of interest-bearing bonds of the United States for any purpose whatever, without further authority by congress, is hereby prohibited."

HOUSE.

The river and harbor bill passed the house over the president's veto today by a vote of 220 to 60. Naval appropriation bill was reported from conference, with agreement on all items but the number of battleships. Further confrence was ordered.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The senate passed the river and harbor bill over the president's veto by a vote of 56 to 5. The measure is now a law. A motion to recede from the senate's position relative to battleships ordered in the naval bill caused a long debate, but no action was reached.

HOUSE.

The Murray-Elliott contested election case, for the First South Carolina district, was debated for four hours. The vote will be taken to-morrow.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—By a vote of 17 to 33 the senate insisted on its amendment to the naval bill, reducing the number of battleships from four to two. In the Indian appropriation the senate refused to recede from its position on the appropriation for sectarian schools, by a vote of 17 to 34. A joint resolution was passed authorizing scientific inquiry into the condition of the fur seals in the north Pacific to be made by the government officials detailed by the president. The senate by a vote of 32 to 17 defeated the amendment offered by Stewart to the filled cheese bill, placing a duty of 10 cents a pound on wool. The filled cheese bill was passed as it came from the house by a vote of 37 to 13, thus completing the legislation of this subject.

HOUSE.

By a vote of 153 to 33 the house decided against the claim of William Elliott from the First South Carolina district and gave the seat to George W. Murray. Murray is a colored man and in the Fifty-first congress was seated in place of Elliott. Final conference on the general deficiency bill was agreed to.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Cuba, immigration and election of senators by direct vote of the people were considered in turn to-day, but no action was reached on either subject. A resolution for final adjournment next Monday was referred to the committee on appropriations.

HOUSE.

